Pressing Need of More Shelf Room.

The library now contains over 140,000 volumes, and has reached and passed the limit of its capacity for shelf room. It is now so badly crowded that the books in many cases are placed in double rows on the shelves, and resort is had to other temporary methods of relief, which are a serious detriment to the classification and rapid service of the library. This matter should receive immediate attention, as delay only tends to render the service of the library more difficult and unsatisfactory, and it is earnestly committed to the serious attention of the Legislature.

C. B. TILLINGHAST,
Librarian.

Pressing Need of More Shelf Room.

I repeat, with added emphasis, the statement of last year: —

www.libtool.com.cn

The library now contains over 140,000 volumes, and has reached and passed the limit of its capacity for shelf room. It is now so badly crowded that the books in many cases are placed in double rows on the shelves, and resort is had to other temporary methods of relief, which are a serious detriment to the classification and rapid service of the library. This matter should receive immediate attention, as delay only tends to render the service of the library more difficult and unsatisfactory, and it is earnestly committed to the serious attention of the Legislature.

Librarian.
