INTRODUCTION

DATE

THOUGH the exact year of the production of this play cannot be absolutely determined, critics are now almost universally agreed in placing it among the last of Shakespeare's compositions. Among the evidence which has been produced as bearing on the question may be cited Gonzalo's forecast of his policy as king of the island in Act II. scene i. which is taken almost directly from Montaigne, whose work was translated by Florio and published in 1603. Shakespeare is known to have had a copy of this book, and thus 1603 is obtained as the earliest date at which the play could have been written. Secondly, Ben Jonson has been supposed to allude to the Tempest in his celebrated passage in the Induction to Bartholomew Fair, 'If there be never a Servant-Monster in the Fair, who can help it (he says) nor a nest of Anticks? He is loth to make nature afraid in his plays, like those that beget Tales, Tempests and such-like Drolleries, to mix his head with other men's heels.' Bartholomew Fair was produced in 1614, which is thus the latest date at which the Tempest could have been written. Thirdly, a book entitled A Discovery of the Bermudas, otherwise called the Ile of Divels; by Sir Thomas Gates, Sir George Sommers, and Captayne Newport, with divers others, 1610, written by Silvester Jourdain, has been thought to have some bearing on the question. The writer gives an account of a terrible storm by which they were cast on an enchanted island, where they found to their surprise 'the ayre so temperate and the country so aboundantly fruitfull of all fit necessities for the sustentation and preservation of man's life' that they spent nine months in very fair comfort.

The Tempest.

There are certain parallels which may be detected in his narrative with phrases in the Tempest. Though it had little influence on the scheme of the play, it is certainly probable that Shakespeare had read this work, and it is quite possible that he may have been impelled to write a play on the subject of a storm and an enchanted island at the time when this account was received with so much favour. Accepting this, 1610-11 would be the date to which this play must be set down, and this entirely agrees with the internal evidence.

In the whole play, omitting the songs and masque, there are only two rhyming lines: double endings abound, while light and weak endings are comparatively numerous. The diction is often almost overburdened with ideas, the narrative element is freely used, and the tinge of gloom which accompanies the play till the conclusion when it is dissolved in forgiveness and marriage are all suggestive of Shakespeare's final period. It is difficult to support the idea that Shakespeare was bidding farewell to the stage in the character of Prospero: it was hardly in his nature to put himself forward so prominently and assertively: while it is more than probable that the Winter's Tale succeeded the Tempest. The construction of the former play is more rugged than that of the Tempest, and an ingenious argument has been given by Mr. Collier that Shakespeare departed from Greene's Pandosto (in which Florizel and Perdita's prototypes are shipwrecked) as this would savour too much of the Tempest which had only recently appeared. The years 1610-11 may then be taken as the probable date of composition of this play.

THE TEXT

The Tempest was first printed in the Folio of 1623, where it occupies the first place among the comedies. It is exceedingly well printed and the emendator has had little scope for his ingenuity. In the few passages that present any difficulty, however, the suggestions made are bewildering in their quantity and complexity. The epilogue is generally admitted to be by some other hand than the author's: and doubts have been thrown on the masque with which Prospero entertains Ferdinand and Miranda. This is probably genuine nevertheless: there is nothing in the matter that is antagonistic to the theory of Shakespeare's authorship: and it was quite customary to insert a masque within a play in the early years of James I's reign. Beaumont and Fletcher offer several examples of this: for instance in the Maid's Tragedy, which was probably written two years before the Tempest, there is a masque in the first act which far more seriously hinders the action than in Shakespeare's play.

With the exception of the Comedy of Errors, the Tempest is the shortest of Shakespeare's plays: hence it has been conjectured that the text is incomplete, and represents a version abridged for acting purposes. This theory again has little to commend its acceptance. The abruptness of the action, of which much has been made, seems entirely in accord with the conception of the play.

SOURCE

No source has been discovered for the Tempest. Reference has already been made to Jourdain's pamphlet: there is nothing in it beyond a few unimportant details that can be said to have furnished any hint to the author. A German dramatist, Ayrer, who died in 1605, composed a play which has been translated under the title of the Fair Sidea, in which certain similarities have been traced and very much exaggerated. This production is crude and painfully wearisome; and though it contains a banished duke who becomes a magician and eventually marries his daughter to the son of the king whom he holds in his power, the story is almost as different in its conception as it is in its treatment. The curious reader must be referred to Furness' Variorum Edition, where a carefully condensed version will be found.

The dramatic value of the Tempest is not very great: there are four themes, (1) the Prospero-Antonio; (2) the Ferdinand-Miranda; (3) the Sebastian-Alonso; (4) the Trinculo-Stephano and Caliban. In all of these Prospero with his obedient spirit is supreme: and none of the action is developed but concludes almost as soon as it is expounded. Neither is the characterisation very subtle: the charm of the Tempest lies almost wholly in the inexhaustible treasures of poetry with which it is garnished.

The Tempest.

Prospero is an interesting and pleasing study of an old man, who has seen trouble and ingratitude, and remains serious and sad but in no way bitter, or unrelenting. Miranda is a charming picture of sweet and holy innocence, and ranks only second to Perdita. The cheery, good-natured and lovable Gonzalo stands forth among the crowd of rather conventional courtiers who are shipwrecked with Alonso. Caliban is certainly a marvellous creation. As Hazlitt has said, 'It is the essence of grossness, but there is not a particle of vulgarity in it. Shakespeare has described the brutal mind of Caliban, in contact with the pure and original forms of Nature: the character grows out of the soil where it is rooted, uncontrolled, uncouth and wild, uncramped by any of the meannesses of custom. It is "of the earth, earthy."' It is possible, indeed, that Shakespeare may have obtained the germ of this creation from Job Hartop in Hakluyt's Voyages, III. 493. 'When we came in the height of Bermuda, we discovered a monster in the sea, who shewed himselfe three times unto us from the middle upwards, in which part he was proportioned like a man, of the complection of a Malato or tawny Indian.'

Ariel, too, commands our highest admiration. His airiness, charm, fancy, and tenderness mingled with his love of mischief and occasional rebelliousness make him sympathetic and delightful in the highest degree. He forms an instructive contrast with the earlier Puck of the Midsummer Night's Dream.

The purely humorous characters Trinculo and Stephano provide no little diversion, but there is nothing in their characters that calls for particular notice.

NOTICE

In the Text, black type (Clarendon or Sans-serif) is used for all emendations and insertions.

‘F’ means the First Folio of 1623. F2, the Second Folio of 1632 (whose emendations are not treated as Shakspeare’s).

¶ in the Text, means that the speaker turns and speaks to a fresh person.

Words having now a different stress to the Elizabethan, are generally accented, for the reader’s convenience, as ‘exile,’ &c. When -ed final is pronounced as a separate syllable, the e is printed ē.

 The minifters for th' purpose hurried thence,
 Me, and thy crying felfe.

Mir. Alack, for pittie ! 132
 I, not remembering how I cride out then,
 Will cry it ore againe : it is a hint
 That wrings mine eyes to't.

Pro. Heare a little further ;
 And then I'le bring thee to the prefent bufinesse 136
 Which now's vpon's ; without the which, this Story
 Were moft impertinent.

 My Tale prouokes that question. Deare, they durft not! 140
 (So deare the loue my people bore me!) nor fet
 A marke fo bloody on the bufineffe; but,
 With colours fairer, painted their foule ends.
 In few, they hurried vs a-boord a Barke, 144

 A rotten carkaffe of a Butt,<sup>1</sup> not rigg'd,
 Nor tackle, fayle, nor maff; (the very rats
 Infinctiueely haue quit it :) There they hoyft vs 148
 To cry to th' Sea, that roard to vs; to figh
 To th' windes, whofe pittie, fighting backe againe,
 Did vs but louing wrong.

Mir. Alack! what trouble
 Was I then to you!

Pro. O! a Cherubin 152
 Thou was't, that did preferue me! Thou didst smile,
 (Infused with a fortitude from heauen,)
 When I haue deck'd the sea with drops full salt,
 Vnder my burthen groan'd; which rais'd in me 156
 An vndergoing stomacke, to beare vp
 Against what should ensue.

Mir. How came we a-shore?

Pro. By prouidence diuine, 160
 Some food we had, and some fresh water, that
 A noble Neapolitan, Gonzalo,
 Out of his Charity, (who being then appointed Master of this designe,) did giue vs, with Rich garments, linnens, stuffs, and necessaries, 164
 Which since haue steeded much; so, of his gentlenesse,
 Knowing I lou'd my bookes, he furnisht me
 From mine owne Library, with volumes, that I prize aboue my Dukedome.

Mir. Would I might 168

 For rayfing this Sea-ftorme?

 By accident most strange, bountifull Fortune
 (Now my deere Lady) hath, mine enemies,
 Brought to this shore: And, by my prefciencie, 180
 I finde my Zenith doth depend vpon

Who was so firme, so constant, that this coyle

But was not this, nye shore ?

Pro. But are they (Ariell) safe ?

Ar. Not a haire perisht !
On their sustaining garments, not a blemish,
But fresher then before : and (as thou badst me)
In troops I haue disperst them 'bout the Isle : 220
The Kings sonne, haue I landed by himselfe,
Whom I left cooling of the Ayre with sighes,
In an odde Angle of the Isle, and sitting,
His armes in this sad knot. [Folds his Armes.

Pro. Of the Kings ship, 224

Must by vs both be spent most preciously.

Ar. Is there more toyle? Since thou dost giue me pains,
Let me remember thee what thou hast promis'd,
Which is not yet perform'd me.

Without, or grudge, or grumblings. Thou did promise

Pro. Do'st thou forget

Ar. No!

Pro. Thou do'st! & thinkst it much to tread y<sup>e</sup> Ooze 252

To doe me businesse in the veines o'th' earth

Was growne into a hoope? hast thou forgot her?

Ar. No, Sir! [Tell me! 260

Pro. Thou hast! Where was she born? Speak!

Pro. Oh! was she so? I must

Which thou forgetst. This damn'd Witch Sycorax,

And here was left by th' Saylors. Thou, my ſlaue,
(As thou reportſt thy ſelfe,) was then her ſeruant ;
And, for thou waſt a Spirit too delicate 272
To act her earthy and abhord commands,
Refuſing her grand hefts, ſhe did confine thee

And left thee there ; where thou didſt vent thy groanes 280
As faſt as Mill-wheeles ſtrike. Then was this Iſland,

Ar. Yes ! Caliban her ſonne. 284

Pro. Dull thing, I ſay ſo ! (he, that Caliban Whom now I keepe in ſeruice.) Thou beſt know'ft
What torment I did finde thee in : thy groanes
Did make wolues howle, and penetrate the breafte 288
Of euer-angry Beares : it was a torment
To lay vpon the damn'd, which Sycorax
Could not againe vndoe. It was mine Art,
(When I arriu'd, and heard thee,) that made gape 292
The Pyne, and let thee out.

Ar. I thanke thee, Maſter !

Pro. If thou more murmur'ſt, I will rend an Oake,
And peg thee in his knotty entrailes, till
Thou haſt howl'd away twelue winters !

Ar. Pardon, Maſter ! 296

I will be correſpondent to command,

 This Island's mine (by Sycorax, my mother)
 Which thou tak'st from me! When thou cam'st first, 332
 Thou stroaktst me, & made much of me; wouldst giue me
 Water with berries in't; and teach me how
 To name the bigger Light, and how the lesse,
 (That burne by day, and night :) and then I lou'd thee, 336
 And shew'd thee all the qualities o'th' Isle,
 The fresh Springs, Brine-pits; barren place and fertill:
 Curs'd be I, that did so! All the Charmes
 Of Sycorax (Toades, Beetles, Batts,) light on you! 340
 For I am all the Subiects that you haue,
 Which first was mine owne King: and here you sty me
 In this hard Rocke, whiles you doe keepe from me
 The rest o'th' Island!

Pro. Thou most lying slaue, 344
 Whom stripes may moue, not kindnes! I haue vs'd thee
 (Filth as thou art,) with humane care; and lodg'd thee
 In mine owne Cell, till thou didst seeke to violate
 The honor of my childe. 348

Cal. Oh ho, oh ho! would't had bene done!
 Thou didst preuent me; I had peopel'd else
 This Isle with Calibans.

Prosp. Abhorred Slaue,
 Which any print of goodnesse wilt not take, 352
 Being capable of all ill! I pittied thee,
 Took pains to make thee speak, taught thee each houre,
 One thing or other. When thou didst not (Sauage)
 Know thine owne meaning, but wouldst gabble, like 356
 A thing most brutish, I endow'd thy purposes
 With words that made them knowne. But thy vild race
 (Tho thou didst learn) had that in't, which good natures

It founds no more: and, fure, it waytes vpon
Some God 'oth'Iland! Sitting on a banke,
(Weeping againe the King my Fathers wracke,) 389
This Musicke crept by me vpon the waters,

 Was in the wracke : and, but hee's something stain'd
 With greefe, (that's beauties canker,) thou might'st call him

 And strays about to finde 'em.
- Mir.* I might call him

And that he do's, I weepe! My selfe am Naples,
Who, with mine eyes, (never since at ebbe,) beheld 433

- Gon.* Well, I haue done: But yet, . . .
- Seb.* He will be talking!
- Ant.* Which, of he, or Adrian, (for a good wager,) first begins to crow? 28
- Seb.* The old Cocke!
- Ant.* The Cockrell!
- Seb.* Done! The wager?
- Ant.* A Laughter. 32
- Seb.* A match!
- Adr.* Though this Island seeme to be defert . . . .
- Seb.* [laughing] Ha, ha, ha!
- Ant.* So: you've paid. 36
- Adr.* Vninhabitable, and almost inaccessible . . . .
- Seb.* Yet . . .
- Adr.* Yet . . .
- Ant.* He could not miffe't! 40
- Adr.* It muft needs be of fubtle, tender, and delicate temperance.
- Ant.* Temperance was a delicate wench.
- Seb.* I, and a fubtle, as he most learnedly deliuer'd. 44
- Adr.* The ayre breathes vpon vs here most sweetly.
- Seb.* As if it had Lungs, and rotten ones.
- Ant.* Or, as 'twere perfum'd by a Fen.
- Gon.* Heere is euery thing aduantageous to life. 48
- Ant.* True! faue meanes to liue!
- Seb.* Of that there's none, or little.
- Gon.* How lufh and lufly the graffe looks! How greene!

The Tempest.

- Ant.* The ground indeed is tawny. 52
Seb. With an eye of greene in't.
Ant. He miſſes not much.
Seb. No! he doth but miſtake the truth totally! 55
Gon. But the rariety of it is, (which is indeed almoſt beyond credit) . . . .
Seb. As many voucht rarieties are. 58
Gon. That our Garments being (as they were) drencht in the Sea, hold notwithstanding their freſhneſſe and gloſſes, being rather new dy'de, then ſtain'd with falte water. 61
Ant. If but one of his pockets could ſpeake, would it not ſay he lyes?
Seb. I! or very falſely pocket vp his report. 64
Gon. Me thinks our garments are now as freſh as when we put them on firſt in Affricke, at the marriage of the kings faire daughter Claribel to the king of Tunis. 67
Seb. 'Twas a ſweet marriage, and we proſper well in our returne.
Adri. Tunis was neuer grac'd before with ſuch a Paragon to their Queene! 71
Gon. Not ſince widdow Dido's time.
Ant. 'Widdow'! A pox o'that! how came that 'Widdow' in? 'Widdow Dido'! 74
Seb. What if he had ſaid 'Widdower Æneas' too? Good Lord! how you take it!
Adri. 'Widdow Dido,' ſaid you? You make me ſtudy of that: She was of Carthage, not of Tunis. 78
Gon. This Tunis, Sir, was Carthage.
Adri. 'Carthage'?
Gon. I aſſure you, 'Carthage.'
Ant. His word is more then the miraculous Harpe! 82
Seb. He hath rais'd the wall, and houſes too.
Ant. What impoſſible matter wil he make eaſy next?
Seb. I thinke hee will carry this Iſland home in his pocket, and give it his ſonne for an Apple. 86
Ant. And ſowing the kernels of it in the Sea, bring forth more Iſlands.
Gon. I.
Ant. Why, in good time. 90
Gon. [to ALON.] Sir, we were talking, that our garments

feeme now as fresh as when we were at Tunis at the marriage of your daughter, who is now Queene.

Ant. And the rarest that ere came there. 94

Seb. Bate (I beseech you,) 'widdow Dido.'

Ant. O 'Widdow Dido!' I, 'Widdow Dido!'!

Gon. Is not, Sir, my doublet as fresh as the first day I wore it? I meane in a fort. 98

(Ant. That 'fort' was well fish'd for!)

Gon. When I wore it at your daughters marriage.

Alon. You cram these words into mine eares, against
The stomacke of my sense. Would I had neuer 102

Married my daughter there! For, comming thence,

My sonne is lost, and (in my rate) she too,

Who is so farre from Italy remoued,

I ne're againe shall see her! O thou mine heire 106

Of Naples and of Millaine, what frange fish

Hath made his meale on thee?

Fran. Sir! he may liue :

I saw him beate the furies vnder him,

And ride vpon their backs; he trod the water, 110

Whose enmity he flung aside, and brested

The furge most swolne that met him: his bold head,

'Boue the contentious waues he kept, and oared

Himselfe with his good armes, in lusty stroke, 114

To th'shore; that ore his waue-worne bafis bowed,

As stooping to releue him: I not doubt

He came aliuie to Land.

Alon. No, no! hee's gone!

Seb. Sir! you may thank your selfe for this great losse, 118

That would not blesse our Europe with your daughter,

But rather loose her to an Affrican,

Where she (at least) is banish'd from your eye,

Who hath cause to wet the greefe on't.

Alon. Pre-thee, peace! 122

Seb. You were kneel'd to, & impórtunn'd otherwise,

By all of vs; and the faire foule her selfe

Waigh'd, betweene loathnesse, and obedience, at 125

Which end o'th'beame sh'ould bow. We haue lost your son,

The Tempest.

- I feare, for euer! Millaine and Naples haue
 Mo widdowes in them of this businesse making,
 Then we bring men to comfort them: 129
 The fault's your owne!
- Alon.* So is the deer'ft oth'loffo!
Gon. My Lord Sebastian,
 The truth you speake, doth lacke some gentlenessse,
 And time to speake it in: you rub the fore, 133
 When you should bring the plaister.
- Seb.* Very well!
Ant. And most Chirurgeonly!
Gon. It is foule weather in vs all, good Sir, 137
 When you are cloudy.
- Seb.* 'Fowle weather':
Ant. Very 'foule'!
Gon. Had I plantation of this Isle, my Lord . . . .
 (Ant. Hee'd fow't vvith Neettle-feed.
Seb. Or dockes, or Mallowes.) 140
Gon. And were the King on't, what vvould I do?
 (Seb. Scape being drunke, for want of Wine!)
Gon. I'th'Commonwealth I vvould (by contraries)
 Execute all things: For no kinde of Trafficke 144
 Would I admit; No name of Magistrate:
 Letters should not be knowne: Riches, pouerty,
 And vse of seruice, none: Contract, Succesfion,
 Borne,<sup>1</sup> bound of Land, Tilt, Vineyard none: 148
 No vse of Mettall, Corne, or Wine, or Oyle:
 No occupation, all men idle, all:
 And Women too, but innocent and pure:
 No Soueraignty . . . .
 (Seb. Yet he vvould be King on't! 152
Ant. The latter end of his Common-wealth forgets the beginning.)
Gon. All things in common, Nature should produce
 Without sweate or endeouour: Treafon, felony, 156
 Sword, Pike, Knife, Gun, or neede of any Engine,
 Would I not haue: but Nature should bring forth
 Of it<sup>2</sup> owne kinde, all foyzon, all abundance,

To feed my innocent people. 160

(Seb. No marrying 'mong his subiects ?

Ant. None (man!) all idle ; Whores and knaues !)

Gon. I vvould vvith such perfection gouerne, Sir, T'Excell the Golden Age.

Seb. 'Saue his Maiefty ! 164

Ant. Long liue Gonzalo !

Gon. And, (do you marke me, Sir ?)

Alon. Pre-thee no more ! thou dost talke nothing to me !

Gon. I do vvell beleeeue your Highnesse ; and did it to minister occasion to these Gentlemen, who are of such fenfible and nimble Lungs, that they alwayes vse to laugh at nothing. 170

Ant. 'Twas you, vve laugh'd at.

Gon. Who, in this kind of merry fooling, am 'nothing' to you : so you may continue, and 'laugh at nothing' still.

Ant. What a blow vvas there giuen ! 174

Seb. And it had not false flat-long !

Gon. You are Gentlemen of braue mettall ; you would lift the Moone out of her spheare, if she would continue in it fue weekes vvithout changing. 178

Enter ARIELL (inuisible) playing solemn Muficke.

Seb. We vvould so ; and then go a Bat-fowling.

Ant. Nay, good my Lord, be not angry !

Gon. No, I warrant you ! I vvill not aduenture my discretion so weakly. Will you laugh me asleepe, for I am very heauy ? 183

Ant. Go sleepe, and heare vs !

[All sleepe, but ALON., SEB., & ANT.

Alon. What ! all so foone asleepe ? I wish mine eyes
Would (with themselues) shut vp my thoughts ! I finde
They are inclin'd to do so.

Seb. Please you, Sir, 187
Do not omit the heauy offer of it !
It sildome visits sorrow ; when it doth,
It is a Comforter.

Ant. We two, my Lord,
Will guard your person, while you take your rest, 191
And watch your safety.

I. i. 160-191.]

The Tempest.

- Alon.* Thanke you! Wondrous heavy! 192
[ALONZO sleeps. Exit ARIEL.]
- Seb.* What a strange drowlines possesses them!
- Ant.* It is the quality o'th' Clymate.
- Seb.* Why
Doth it not then our eye-lids sinke? I finde not My selfe dispos'd to sleepe.
- Ant.* Nor I; my spirits are nimble. 196
They fell together all, as by consent;
They dropt, as by a Thunder-stroke. What might,
Worthy Sebastian? . . . O! what might? . . . No more! . . .
And yet, me thinks I see it in thy face, 200
What thou should'st be. Th'occasion speaks thee; and
My strong imagination sees a Crowne
Dropping vpon thy head.
- Seb.* What! art thou waking?
- Ant.* Do you not heare me speake?
- Seb.* I do! and surely 204
It is a sleepey Language; and thou speak'st
Out of thy sleepe. What is it, thou didst say?
This is a strange repose, to be asleepe
With eyes wide open! standing, speaking, mouing! 208
And yet so fast asleepe!
- Ant.* Noble Sebastian,
Thou let'st thy fortune sleepe! (die rather!) wink'st
Whiles thou art waking!
- Seb.* Thou do'st snore distinctly:
There's meaning in thy snores. 212
- Ant.* I am more serious then my custome: you
Must be so too, if heed me: which to do,
Trebbles thee o're.
- Seb.* Well! I am standing water.
- Ant.* Ile teach you how to flow.
- Seb.* Do so! To ebbe, 216
Hereditary Sloth instructs me.
- Ant.* O!
If you but knew, how you the purpose cherish,
Whiles thus you mocke it! how, in stripping it,
You more inuest it! Ebbing men, indeed, 220
(Most often) do so neere the bottome run

The Tempest.

By their owne feare, or sloth.

Seb. 'Pre-thee fay on !
The fetting of thine eye and cheeke, proclaime
A matter from thee; and a birth, indeed, 224
Which throwes<sup>1</sup> thee much to yeeld.

Ant. Thus, Sir !
Although this Lord of weake remembrance, (this,
Who shall be of as little memory
When he is earth'd,) hath here almost perfwaded 228
(For hee's a Spirit of perfwasion, onely Professes to perfwade) the King, his sonne's aliue :
'Tis as imposible that hee's vndrown'd,
As he that sleepes heere, fwims.

Seb. I haue no hope 232
That hee's vndrown'd.

Ant. O ! out of that 'no hope,'
What great 'hope' haue you ! 'No hope' that way, Is,
Another way, so high a 'hope,' that euen
Ambition cannot pierce a winke beyond, 236
But doubt discouery there. Will you grant with me
That Ferdinand is drown'd ?

Seb. He's gone !

Ant. Then tell me,
Who's the next heire of Naples ?

Seb. Claribell.
Ant. She that is Queene of Tunis : she that dwels 240
Ten leagues beyond mans life : she that from Naples
Can haue no note, vnlesse the Sun were poft,
(The Man i'th Moone's too slow,) till new-borne chinnes
Be rough, and Razor-able : She that . . . from whom 244
We all were sea-fwallow'd, though some cast againe,
(And by that destiny,) to performe an act
Whereof, what's past is Prologue; what to come,
In yours, and my, discharge.

Seb. What stuffe is this ! How fay you ?
'Tis true my brothers daughter's Queene of Tunis ; 249
So is she heyre of Naples ; 'twixt which Regions
There is some space.

 Like Buls, or rather Lyons : did't not wake you ?
 It strooke mine eare most terribly.
- Alo.* I heard nothing. 308
- Ant.* O ! 'twas a din to fright a Monsters eare !
 To make an earthquake ! sure, it was the roare

- Alo.* Heard you this, Gonzalo ?

Enter CALIBAN, with a burthen of Wood. (A noyfe of Thunder heard.)

Cal. All the infections that the Sunne suckes vp 1
From Bogs, Fens, Flats, on Prosper fall! and make him,
By ync-meale, a diseafe! His Spirits heare me,
And yet I needes must curse. But they'll nor pinch, 4
Fright me with Vrchyn-shewes, pitch me i'th mire,
Nor leade me (like a fire-brand) in the darke
Out of my way, vnlesse he bid 'em. But
For euery trifle, are they set vpon me; 8
Sometime like Apes, that moe and chatter at me,
And after bite me; then like Hedg-hogs, which

Their pricks at my foot-fall: sometime am I 12

fuls. [Sees CALIBAN.] What haue we here? a man, or a [24 fish? dead or aliue? A fish! hee smels like a fish! a very ancient and fish-like smell: a kinde of, not of the newest Poore-Iohn! A strange fish! Were I in England now, (as once I was,) and had but this fish painted; not a holiday- [28 foole there but would giue a peece of siluer! There, would this Monster, make a man! Any strange beast there, makes a man! When they will not giue a doit to relieue a lame Begger, they will lay out ten to see a dead Indian! Leg'd like a [32 man! and his Finnes like Armes! Warme, o'my troth! I doe now let loose my opinion; hold it no longer; This is no fish, but an Islander, that hath lately suffered by a Thunder-

the storme be past. [Creeps under CALIBANS gaberdine. 40

She lou'd not the fauour of Tar nor of Pitch;

Yet a Tailor might scratch her where ere she did itch.

Then, to Sea, Boyes! and let her goe hang! 53

This is a scuruy tune too: But here's my comfort. [Drinks.

Cal. Doe not torment me! oh!

The Tempest.

Ste. What's the matter? Haue we diuels here? Doe you put trickes vpon's, with Saluages, and Men of Inde? [57
Ha! I haue not scap'd drowning, to be afeard now of your foure legges; for it hath bin said, 'As proper a man as euer went on foure legs, cannot make him giue ground;' and it shall be said so againe, while Stephano breathes at' nostrils. 61

Cal. The Spirit torments me! oh!

Ste. This is some Monster of the Isle, with foure legs, who hath got (as I take it) an Ague. Where the diuell should he learne our language? I will giue him some reliefe, if [65 it be but for that: if I can recouer him, and keepe him tame, and get to Naples with him, he's a Present for any Emperour that euer trod on Neates-leather!

Cal. Doe not torment me, 'prethee! I'll bring my wood home faster. 70

Ste. He's in his fit now; and doe's not talke after the wisest. Hee shall taste of my Bottle: if hee haue neuer drunke wine afore, it will goe neere to remoue his Fit. If I can recouer him, and keepe him tame, I will not take too much for him; hee shall pay for him that hath him, and that soundly! 76

Cal. Thou do'st me yet but little hurt; thou wilt anon; I know it by thy trembling. Now Prosper workes vpon thee!

Ste. Come on your wayes! open your mouth! here is that which will giue language to you, Cat! Open your mouth! [Giues him wine.] This will shake your shaking, I can tell you, and that soundly! you cannot tell who's your friend. Open your chaps againe! [Giues him more wine. 83

Tri. I should know that voyce: It should be . . . But hee is dround! and these are diuels: O defend me! 85

Ste. Foure legges and two voyces! a most delicate Monster! his forward voyce, now, is to speake well of his friend; his backward voyce, is to vtter foule speeches, and to detract. If all the wine in my bottle will recouer him, I will helpe his Ague. Come! [Giues Cal. drink; then drinks himselfe.] Amen! I will poure some in thy other mouth. 91

Tri. Stephano!

Ste. Doth thy other mouth call me? Mercy, mercy! This is a diuell, and no Monster! I will leaue him! I haue no long Spooner! 95

The Tempest.

Tri. Stephano! if thou bee'st Stephano, touch me, and speake to me! for I am Trinculo; (be not afeard,) thy good friend Trinculo! 98

Ste. If thou bee'st Trinculo, come foorth! I'll pull thee by the leffer legges: if any be Trinculo's legges, these are they. [Pulls him out.] Thou art very Trinculo indeede! how cam'st thou to be the siege of this Moone-calfe? Can he vent Trinculo's? 103

Tri. I tooke him to be kil'd with a thunder-strok. But art thou not dround, Stephano? I hope, now, thou art not dround! Is the Storme ouer-blowne? I hid mee vnder the dead Moone-Calfes Gaberdine, for feare of the Storme. And art thou liuing, Stephano? O Stephano, two Neapolitanes escap'd! [Whirls STEPH. round.] 109

Ste. 'Prethee doe not turne me about; my stomacke is not constant!

Cal. [aside.] These be fine things, and if they be not sprights! That's a braue God, and beares Celestiall liquor! I will kneele to him. 114

Ste. [to TRINC.] How did'st thou scape? How cam'st thou hither? Swear, by this Bottle how thou cam'st hither! I escap'd vpon a But of Sacke, which the Saylor heaued o're-board, by this Bottle! which I made of the barke of a Tree, with mine owne hands, since I was cast a'shore. 119

(Cal. I'll sweare, vpon that Bottle, to be thy true subiect; for the liquor is not earthly!)

St. [to TRINC.] Heere! sweare, then, how thou escap'dst.

Tri. Sworn ashore (man,) like a Ducke! I can swim like a Ducke, i'll be sworne! 124

Ste. Here, kisse the Booke! [glues TRIN. drink.] Though thou canst swim like a Ducke, thou art made like a Goofe!

Tri. O Stephano! ha'st any more of this? 127

Ste. The whole But (man!) My Cellar is in a rocke by th'fea-side, where my Wine is hid. ¶ How now, Moone-Calfe! how do's thine Ague?

Cal. Ha'st thou not dropt from heauen? 131

Sometimes a thousand twangling Instrumnts 133
Will hum about mine eares; and fometime voices,
That, if I then had wak'd after long sleepe,

 And Subiefts none abroad: pray you, looke in!
 My Dukedome, fince you haue giuen me againe,
 I will requite you with as good a thing;
 At leaft bring forth a wonder, to content ye 170
 As much, as me my Dukedome.
 [Here PROSPERO difcouers FERDINAND and MIRANDA,
playing at Cheffe.
Mir. Sweet Lord! you play me falfe.
Fer. No, my deareft loue!
 I would not for the world! 173
Mir. Yes, for a fcore of Kingdomes, you fhould wrangle,
 And I would call it faire play.
Alo. If this proue
 A vifion of the Ifland, one deere Sonne
 Shall I twice loofe.
Seb. A moft high miracle! 177
Fer. Though the Seas threaten, they are mercifull,
 I haue curs'd them without caufe. [Kneels to ALON.
Alo. Now all the bleffings
 Of a glad father, compaffe thee about!
 Arife! and fay how thou cam'ft heere.
Mir. O wonder! 181
 How many goodly creatures are there heere!
 How beauteous mankinde is! O braue new world,
 That has fuch people in't!
Pro. 'Tis new to thee. 184
Alo. What is this Maid, with whom thou was't at play?
 Your eld'ft acquaintance cannot be three houres:
 Is fhe the goddeffe that hath feuer'd vs,
 And brought vs thus together?
Fer. Sir, fhe is mortall; 188

The Tempest.

But, by immortall providence, she's mine.
I chose her when I could not aske my Father
For his aduise; nor thought I had one. She
Is daughter to this famous Duke of Millaine, 192
Of whom so often I haue heard renowne,
But neuer saw before; of whom I haue
Receiu'd a second life; and second Father
This Lady makes him to me.

Alo. I am hers! 196
But O, how odly will it found, that I
Must aske my childe forgiueneffe!

Pro. There, Sir, stop!
Let vs not burthen our remembrances, with
A heauineffe that's gon!

Gon. I haue inly wept, 200
Or should haue spoke ere this.—Looke downe, you gods,
And on this couple drop a blessed crowne!
For it is you, that haue chalk'd forth the way
Which brought vs hither.

Alo. I say 'Amen,' Gonzallo! 204

Gon. Was Millaine thrust from Millaine, that his Issue
Should become Kings of Naples? O, reioyce
Beyond a common ioy! and set it downe
With gold on lasting Pillers: In one voyage, 208
Did Claribell, her husband finde at Tunis;
And Ferdinand, her brother, found a wife,
Where he himselfe was lost; Prospero, his Dukedome
In a poore Isle; and all of vs, our selues, 212
When no man was his owne.

Alo. [to FER. & MIR.] Giue me your hands!
Let griefe and sorrow still embrace his heart,
That doth not with you ioy!

Gon. Be it so! Amen!

Re-enter ARIELL, with the Master and Boatfwaine amazedly following.

O, looke, Sir! looke, Sir! here is more of vs! 216
I prophesi'd, 'if a Gallowes were on Land,
This fellow could not drowne.' [To Boats.] Now, Blasphemy,
That swear't Grace ore-board, not an oath on shore?

The Tempest.

Hast thou no mouth by land? What is the newes?	220
Bot. The best newes is, that we haue safely found Our King, and company. The next: our Ship (Which but three glasse since, we gaue out split) Is tyte, and yare, and brauely rig'd, as when
We first put out to Sea.	224
(Ar. [aside to PROS.] Sir, all this seruice Haue I done since I went!
Pro. [aside to ARL.] My tricksey Spirit!
Alo. These are not naturall euent; they strengthen From frange to franger. Say, how came you hither?	228
Bot. If I did thinke, Sir, I were well awake, I'd frine to tell you: We were dead of sleepe, And (how we know not) all clapt vnder hatches; Where, but euen now, with frange and feuerall noyses
(Of roring, shreeking, howling, gingling chaines, And mo diuersitie of sounds, all horrible, We were awak'd; straight way, at liberty; Where we, in all her trim, freshly beheld	232
Our royall, good, and gallant Ship: our Master Capring to eye her: on a trice, to please you, Euen in a dreame, were we diuided from them, And were brought moaping hither.	236
(Ar. [aside to PROS.] Was't well done?
Pro. [aside to ARL.] Brauely, (my Diligence!) thou shalt be free!)	240
Alo. This is as strange a Maze, as ere men trod; And there is in this businesse, more then Nature Was euer conduct of: some Oracle
Must rectifie our knowledge.	244
Pro. Sir, my Leige! Doe not infest your minde, with beating on The strangenesse of this businesse; at pickt leisure, (Which shall be shortly,) sngle, I'll resolue you
(Which to you shall seeme probable) of euery These happend accidents; till when, be cheerefull, And thinke of each thing well! ( [Aside to ARL.] Come hither, Spirit!	248

The Tempest.

Set Caliban, and his companions free!
 Vntye the Spell!) [Exit ARIEL.] ¶ How fares my gracious Sir?
 There are yet missing of your Companie
 Some few odde Lads, that you remember not. 255

*Re-enter ARIEL, driving in CALIBAN, STEPHANO, and

Ste. Every man thift for all the rest, and let no man take care for himselfe; for all is but fortune! ¶ Coragio, Bully-Monster, Corasio! <sup>1</sup>

Tri. If these be true spies which I weare in my head, here's a goodly fight! 260

Cal. O Setebos, these be braue Spirits indeede!
 How fine my Master is! I am afraid
 He will chastise me.

Seb. Ha, ha!
 What things are these, my Lord Anthonio? 264
 Will money buy em?

Ant. Very like! one of them
 Is a plaine Fish, and no doubt marketable.

Pro. Marke but the badges of these men, my Lords!
 Then say if they be true. This mishapen knaue: 268
 (His Mother was a Witch, and one so strong
 That could controle the Moone, make flowes and ebs,
 And deale in her command, without her power.)
 These three haue robd me; and this demy-diuell 272
 (For he's a bastard one) had plotted with them
 To take my life. Two of these Fellowes, you
 Muft know, and owne; this Thing of darkeness, I Acknowledge mine.

Cal. I shall be pincht to death! 276

Alo. Is not this Stephano, my drunken Butler?

Seb. He is drunke now. Where had he wine?

Alo. And Trinculo is reeling ripe: where should they Finde this grand Liquor that hath gilded 'em? 280
 ¶ How cam'st thou in this pickle?

Tri. I haue bin in such a 'pickle' since I saw you last, that (I feare me) will neuer out of my bones! I shall not feare fly-blowing. 284

<sup>1</sup> Corasio is kept to show the stage pronunciation, Corashio.
 V. i. 252-284.]

The Tempest.

Seb. Why! how now, Stephano?

Ste. O touch me not! I am not Stephano, but a Cramp!

Pro. You'd be King o'the Isle, Sirha?

Ste. I should haue bin a fore one, then. 288

Alo. This is a frange thing as ere I look'd on.

[Points to CALIBAN.]

Pro. He is as disproportion'd in his Manners
As in his shape. [To CAL.] Goe, Sirha, to my Cell!

Take with you your Companions! As you looke 292

To haue my pardon, trim it handsomely!

Cal. I, that I will! and Ile be wise hereafter,
And seeke for grace. What a thrice double Affe 295

Was I, to take this drunkard for a god, [Points to STEPH.]

And worship this dull foole!

Pro. Goe to! away! 297

Alo. Hence! and bestow your luggage where you found it.

Seb. Or stole it, rather. [Exeunt CAL., STEPH. & TRINC.]

Pro. Sir! I inuite your Highnesse, and your traine
To my poore Cell, where you shall take your rest 301

For this one night; which (part of it) Ile waste

With such discourse, as (I not doubt) shall make it

Goe quicke away: (The story of my life,
And the particular accidents, gon by 305

Since I came to this Isle:) And in the morne

I'll bring you to your ship, and so to Naples,

Where I haue hope to see the nuptiall
Of these our deere-belou'd, solemnized, 309

And thence retire me to my Millaine, where

Every third thought shall be my graue.

Alo. I long

To heare the story of your life; which must

Take the eare strangely.

Pro. I'll deliuer all, 313

And promise you calme Seas, auspicious gales,

And faile so expeditious, that shall catch [chicke!

Your Royall fletee farre off. ([Aside to ARI.] My Ariel!

That is thy charge: Then to the Elements

Be free, and fare thou well!) ¶ Please you draw neere! 318

[Exeunt omnes. Manet PROSPERO.]

EPILOGUE,

Spoken by PROSPERO.

Now my Charmes are all ore-throwne ;
And what strength I haue, 's mine owne, 320
Which is most faint : Now, 'tis true,
I must be heere confinde by you, 322
Or sent to Naples. Let me not (Since I haue my Dukedome got, 324
And pardon'd the deceiuer) dwell
In this bare Island, by your Spell ; 326
But release me from my bands,
With the helpe of your good hands ! 328
Gentle breath of yours, my Sailes
Must fill, or else my proiect failes, 330
Which was to please. Now I want
Spirits to enforce, Art to inchant ; 332
And my ending is despaire,
Vnlesse I be relieu'd by praier, 334
Which pierces so, that it assaults
Mercy it selfe, and frees all faults. 336
As you from crimes would pardon'd be,
Let your Indulgence set me free ! [Exit. 338

[The Names of the Actors follow. See it, enlarg'd, on p. 294, abuv.]

FINIS.

- p. 3, I. i. 63. firrs = furze. Cp. Cotgrave's 'Genest espineux. Furrés, Whinnes, Gorse, Thorne-broome.
- p. 5, I. ii. 41. "Out (= fully) three yeeres old." In a small Qo, 1601, called The Worlde, or An historical description of the most famous kingdomes, etc. Translated into English and enlarged by some one who in his dedication of the volume signs himself I. R., I have found an apt instance of this use of the word out. In his description of Venice, p. 95, the author says—"in their Arsnall they maintaine out 200. gallies," etc.—P. A. Daniel.

- p. 6, I. ii. 81. trash, cut off.
- p. 6, I. ii. 100. into = unto.
- p. 9, I. ii. 181. I finde my Zenith, etc.

These lines recall the famous ones of Brutus in Julius Cæsar—

"There is a tide in the affairs of men,
Which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune:
Omitted, all the voyage of their life,
Is bound in shallows and in miseries."—IV. iii. 216-19.

- p. 21, II. i. 82. the miraculous Harpe; Amphion's.
- p. 23, II. i. 144-9. mainly from Florio's Montaigne. He is describing nations cald 'barbarous,' but in fact obeying Nature: "The lawes of nature doe yet command them . . . me seemeth that what in those nations we see by experience, doth not only exceed all the pictures wherewith licentious Poesie hath proudly embellished the golden age . . . but also the conception and desire of Philosophy. It is a nation . . . that hath no kinde of traffike, no knowledge of Letters, no intelligence of numbers, no name of magistrate, nor of politike superioritie; no use of service, of riches or of povertie, no contracts, no successions, no partitions, no occupation but idle; no respect of kinred, but common, no apparell but naturall, no manuring of lands, no use of wine, corne, or mettles. The very words that import lying, falshood, treason . . . were never heard of amongst them." Booke I, chap. 30, p. 102, ed. 1632.
- p. 33, II. ii. 166. Scamels: The only use of scamel now known is for the name of the bartailed godwit, Limosa Lapponica, in Norfolk: and that does not seem to give the meaning required here.
- p. 34, III. i. 15. it—refers to labours. The use of 'it' instead of 'them' occurs in the following side-note to the Spanish word 'Socorros': "Succors or lendings which they give soldiers when there is no paie, and when the paie comes they take it off."—In Minsheu's Spanish Dialogues and Grammar, 1599, p. 59.
- p. 37, III. ii. 4, 5. Iland (A.Sax. igland): Isle (Fr. isle).

Notes.

- p. 40, III. ii. 118. cout: the same as skout without the intensive s.
- p. 43, III. iii. 48. five for one: this was the danger-rate of the time. A traveller, before starting on a risky voyage, paid £100 to a money-lender, on condition that if he returned he should have £500. See Fynes Morison's Itinerary, &c. If the passage is to be emended, read at for of.
- p. 46, IV. i. 15-22. Does Shakspeare speak his own experience here?
- p. 53, IV. i. 237-8. As we don't know the date when the sailors' practise of shaving men, and playing other rough tricks, on crossing the Equator, began, the allusion here must be to the loss of men's hair from the great heat, and fevers caught, under the Line: see Edwards' MSS. note in Variorum, 1821. Mr. P. A. Daniel writes: Hear what Dr. Peter Kolben says of his experience—"For my own Part, blessed be God, I pass'd the Line in perfect Health, without any Ailment whatever; only I lost my Hair entirely, and became quite bald;" etc., p. 13, The Present State of the Cape of Good Hope, etc. Written originally in High German by Peter Kolben, A.M. Done into English by Mr. [Guido] Medley, 1731. Kolben made the voyage in 1705.
- p. 58, V. i. 145. as late, lately-happened, recent.
- p. 63, V. i. 309. Folio 'belou'd' may be kept, etc. 'solémnized' pronounst as in L. L. Lost, II. i. 42.
