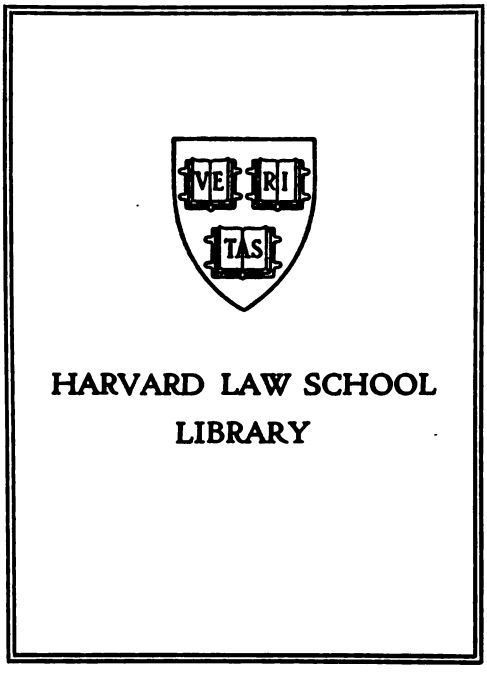
3 2044 053 473 187

www.libtool.com.cn

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn



Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

Digitized by Google

THE NEBRASKA SYNOPTICAL DIGEST

A DIGEST OF THE

DECISIONS OF THE SUPREME COURT OF NEBRASKA

COMPILED FROM VOLUMES 1 TO 80 NEBRASKA REPORTS AND VOLUMES 1 TO 5 NEBRASKA REPORTS (UNOFFICIAL) INCLUSIVE —WITH—

COMPLETE TABLES OF CASES CITED AND OVERRULED

VOLUME I

J. H. BROADY, Jr., Editor
D. A. HAGGARD, Assistant Editor

OWNED AND PUBLISHED BY THE STATE JOURNAL COMPANY
LINCOLN, NEBRASKA
1910

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

Entered according to Act of Congress, in the office of the Librarian of Congress, A D. 1910, by the State Journal Company, Lincoln, Nebraska.

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

PREFACE.

This digest, covering all cases reported in volumes 1 to 80 of the Nebraska Reports and volumes 1 to 5 Nebraska Reports (Unofficial) inclusive, is designed to supply an urgent demand of persons having need to trace the decisions of the Supreme Court of Nebraska.

Through the courtesy of the publishers of The American Digest the American scheme of classification is used and followed as closely as is practical in a local work of this kind. The style and form adopted, and especially the plan of running the complete analysis at the head of each topic, is modeled more particularly from the Ohio Cyclopedic Digest. Strictly speaking, under the American Digest scheme of classification no matter is duplicated. We have departed from this rule to the extent that we have duplicated, in a measure, matter of close application. Realizing that in attempting such duplication the editor is apt to encounter difficulties, since it is impossible to draw a consistent line of demarcation, we have refrained from a liberal use thereof, depending on the user's knowledge of the classification and the cross-references to make this a ready and useful reference to the decisions digested.

It is urged that the user of this digest always keep in mind the fact that under this classification scheme all matter of specific application is treated in the specific topics; and he should familiarize himself with the different topic heads, and with the analysis and cross-references thereunder, as they necessarily explain the scope of each topic. The general topics, such as Evidence, Pleading, Parties, etc., include only matter of a general nature.

Each digest paragraph is numbered consecutively in each topic and followed by a reference to the year in which the decision was rendered by the court. Citation to the official reports and to the various reports of selected cases follow the matter. The official reports are cited "Neb.," the unofficial reports "Unof." Citations to the Northwestern Reports, the American series, and the Lawyers' Reports Annotated follow the Nebraska citation in parentheses.

Overruled points are indicated in the paragraph in brackets following the citations, reference being made to the overruling case. A complete table of overruled cases, alphabetically arranged, is included in volume 3 of this digest immediately preceding the table of digested cases, showing the point overruled with the overruling cases following. This table includes modified points and those changed by statutes.

Digitized by Google

The table of cases, at the end of volume 3 of this digest, gives the titles of the cases and citation to the Nebraska Reports, followed by a reference to the digest topic where digested and the number of the paragraph as it appears in that topic. The title of each case is also run adversely, e. g., Doe v. Roe, — Neb. —, A. & E., 47; Ev. 150; Trial 196, showing that the case of Doe v. Roe reported in — volume of the Nebraska Reports on page — is digested in the topics of Appeal and Error, paragraph 47; Evidence, 150, etc. The same case appears Roe, Doe v., the proper title being Doe v. Roe.

www.libtool.com.cn

In the topic of Mortgages, under division Foreclosure, subdivision Sale, is found a cross-reference to Judicial Sales. This is necessary in order to keep all such matter together and avoid a duplication of the whole in both topics, since the court has not held a definite line of distinction between mortgage sale and judicial sale. In many instances the court speaks of mortgage sales as judicial sales and again as mortgage sales, and since the procedure is the same in both cases it is all treated in the topic of Judicial Sales.

Volumes 76 to 80 of the Nebraska Reports were worked from proof pages before publication, and citations to the cases therein have reference neither to the Lawyers' Reports Annotated nor to the American series of reports; and minor corrections also may have been made in these cases by the Supreme Court reporter before they were finally published.

This opportunity is taken by the editors to express their appreciation of the courtesies and interest shown during the progress of their work by the clerk and the reporter of the Supreme Court of this State.

J. H. BROADY, JR.

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

TABLE OF TOPICS IN THIS VOLUME.

(Main heads are in Roman and cross-reference heads in Italics.)

	PAGE
Abandonment	1
ABATEMENT AND REVIVAL	1
Abduction	6
Abettor	6
ABORTION	6
Absconding	7
Absence	7
ABSTRACTS OF TITLE	7
Abuse of Process	8
Abutting Owners	8
Acceptance	8
ACCESSION	8
Accessories	8
Accident	8
Accomplices	8
ACCORD AND SATISFACTION	9
ACCOUNT	12
ACCOUNT, ACTION ON	13
ACCOUNT STATED	17
Accretion	19
ACKNOWLEDGMENT	19
Acquiescence	24
ACTION	24
Act of God	30
Adequate Remedy at Law	30
ADJOINING LANDOWNERS	30
Adjournment	31
Adjutant General	31
Administrator	31
Admissions	31
ADOPTION	31
ADULTERY	33
Advancements	34
ADVERSE POSSESSION	34
Advice of Counsel	50
AFFIDAVITS	51
Age	53
Agency	53
Agistment	53
AGRICULTURE	53
Aider and Abettor	54
Alias Writs	54
Alibi	54
Alienation	54
ALIENS	54
Alimony	55
Allowance	55
Allonge	55
ALTERATION OF INSTRUMENTS	55
Amendment	60
ANIMALS	61
Annexation	70
Answer	70
Antenuptial Agreements	70
Anti-Trust Laws	70
APPEAL AND ERROR	71
APPEARANCE	263
Appellate Court	271
Appointment	271
Apportionment	271
Appraisal	271
Appropriation	271
Appurtenances	271
ARBITRATION AND AWARD	271
Architects	276
Argument of Counsel	276
Arraignment	276
ARREST	276
Arrest of Judgment	277
ARSON	277
ASSAULT AND BATTERY	277
Assessment	284
Assets	284
ASSIGNMENT	284
Assignment of Errors	288
ASSIGNMENTS FOR BENEFIT OF CREDITORS	289
ASSISTANCE, WRIT OF	302
ASSOCIATIONS	303
ASYLUMS	304
ATTACHMENT	305
Attendance	345
Attestation	345
ATTORNEY AND CLIENT	346
ATTORNEY GENERAL	362
AUCTIONS AND AUCTIONEERS	363
Auditor	363
Authentication	363
Autrefois Convict	363
Avulsion	363
Award	363

Digitized by Google

TABLE OF TOPICS.

	PAGE
Baggage	363
BAIL	36[illegible]
BAILMENT	36[illegible]
Ballots	37[illegible]
Bank Examiners	37[illegible]
BANKRUPTCY	37[illegible]
BANKS AND BANKING	378
Bar	409
Baseball	410
BASTARDS	410
Battery	420
Beer	420
BENEFICIAL ASSOCIATIONS	421
Beneficial Societies	424
Beneficiaries	424
Benefits	424
Best and Secondary Evidence	424
Betting	424
Bias	424
Bible	424
Bids	424
BIGAMY	424
Billiards	425
Bill in Equity	425
Bill of Exceptions	425
Bill of Exchange	425
Bill of Lading	425
Bill of Particulars	425
Bill of Sale	425
Bill Quia Timet	425
Bills	425
BILLS AND NOTES	425
Blacklist	488
Blackmail	488
Bloodhounds	488
Boarding-Houses	488
Board of Equalization	488
Board of Health	488
Board of Supervisors	488
Board of Transportation	488
Bona Fide Purchasers	488
Bonds	488
Books of Accounts	489
Books of Science	489
Boulevards	489
BOUNDARIES	490
BOUNTIES	495
BOWLING ALLEYS	495
BREACH OF MARRIAGE PROMISE	495
BREACH OF THE PEACE	497
Breaking	497
BRIBERY	497
BRIDGES	498
Briefs	504
BROKERS	505
Bucket Shops	514
BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATIONS	515
Building Regulations	520
Buildings	520
Burden of Proof	520
BURGLARY	520
Calendars	525
CANCELATION OF INSTRUMENTS	525
Canvass	529
Capital Stock	529
Caption	529
Carlisle Tables	529
CARRIERS	530
Cattle	569
Cattle Guards	569
Caveat Emptor	569
CEMETERIES	570
CENSUS	571
Certainty	571
Certificate	571
Cestui Que Trust	571
Challenge	571
Chambers	572
CHAMPERTY AND MAINTENANCE	572
Chancery	572
Character	572
CHARITIES	572
Charters	573
CHATTEL MORTGAGES	573
Chattels	604
Cheat	604
Checks	604
Choses in Action	604
Churches	604
CIGARETTES	604
Circumstantial Evidence	604
Cities	604
CITIZENS	604
Civil Law	605
CIVIL RIGHTS	605
Claims	606
Classification	606
CLERK OF COURTS	606
Cloud on Title	611
Clubs	611
Code	611
Codicil	611
Cohabitation	611
Collateral Attack	611
Collections	612
COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES	612
Collusion	614
Combinations	614
Comity	614
COMMERCE	614
Commissioner	615
Commitment	615
Common Carriers	615
COMMON LAW	615
Compensation	616

www.libtool.com.cn

Digitized by Google

TABLE OF TOPICS.

	PAGE
Complaint	616
COMPOSITION WITH CREDITORS	617
Compounding Felony	617
COMPROMISE AND SETTLEMENT	617
Concealment	622
Condemnation	622
Conditional Sales	622
Conditions	622
Condonation	622
Confession	622
Confirmation	622
Conflict of Laws	622
CONFUSION OF GOODS	623
Connecting Carriers	623
Consideration	623
Consolidation	624
CONSPIRACY	624
Constables	625
CONSTITUTIONAL LAW	626
Constructive Notice	639
Constructive Trusts	639
Consuls	639
CONTEMPT	639
Contest	647
Contingency	647
CONTINUANCE	647
CONTRACTS	654
Contradiction	703
CONTRIBUTION	703
Contributory Negligence	704
Conventions	704
CONVERSION	704
Conveyances	704
CONVICTS	705
COPYRIGHTS	706
CORONER	707
CORPORATIONS	708
Corpus Delicti	754
COSTS	754
Co-Tenancy	769
Council	769
Counsel	769
Counter-Claim	769
COUNTIES	769
COUNTY ATTORNEYS	832
Counts	834
County Board	834
County Clerks	834
County Courts	834
County Seat	834
Courses and Distances	834
COURT COMMISSIONERS	835
COURTS	835
COVENANTS	853
Coverlures	860
Creditors	861
CREDITORS' SUIT	861
Criminal Conversation	871
CRIMINAL LAW	871
Criminal Libel	970
CROPS	970
Cross-Complaint	971
Cross-Examination	971
Crossings	971
Cruelty	971
Culverts	971
CURTESY	971
Custodia Legis	972
Custody	972
CUSTOMS AND USAGES	972
DAMAGES	974
Dams	991
Days of Grace	991
DEAD BODIES	991
Deaf and Dumb Persons	991
DEATH	991
Debtor and Creditor	997
Deceit	997
Declaration	997
Declarations	997
Decree	997
DEDICATION	998
DEEDS	1002
De Facto Corporations	1022
De Facto Officers	1022
Default	1022
Defenses	1022
Delivery	1022
Demand	1022
Demonstrative Evidence	1023
Demurrage	1023
Demurrer	1023
Denial	1023
Departure	1023
DEPOSITARIES	1023
DEPOSITIONS	1025
Deposits	1032
DEPOSITS INTO COURT	1032
Deputy	1032
DESCENT AND DISTRIBUTION	1032
Description	1037
Desertion	1037
Detectives	1037
Devises	1037
Dictum	1037
Dipsomaniacs	1037
Disabilities	1037
Disbarment	1037
Discharge	1037
Disclaimer	1037
DISCOVERY	1038
Discretion of Court	1038
Discrimination	1039
DISMISSAL AND NON-SUIT	1039
DISORDERLY HOUSES	1046

Digitized by Google

TABLE OF TOPICS.

	PAGE
Disqualification	1046
Dissolution	1046
Distress	1046
District Attorney	1046
District Courts	1046
DISTURBANCE OF PUBLIC ASSEMBLAGE	1047
Ditches	1047
Dividends	1047
DIVORCE AND ALIMONY	1047
Dockets	1065
Documents	1065
Dogs	1065
DOMICILE	1065
Donations	1066
DOWER	1067
Drafts	1071
DRAINS	1071
DRUGGISTS	1077
DRUNKARDS	1078
Due Process of Law	1078
Duress	1078
Dwelling-House	1078
Dying Declarations	1078
Earnings	1078
EASEMENTS	1079
EJECTMENT	1081
ELECTION OF REMEDIES	1096
ELECTIONS	1099
ELECTRICITY	1120
Elevators	1121
Emancipation	1121
EMBEZZLEMENT	1121
EMINENT DOMAIN	1128
Employees	1155
Enactment	1155
Equal Protection of Laws	1155
Equalization	1155
Equitable Estoppel	1155
Equitable Redemption	1155
EQUITY	1155
Erosion	1164
Error	1164
ESCAPE	1165
ESCHEAT	1165
ESCROW	1165
ESTATES	1166
Estimates	1168
ESTOPPEL	1168
Eviction	1181
EVIDENCE	1182
Excavations	1236
Exceptions	1236

www.libtool.com.cn

Digitized by Google

www.lawbookcompany.com

NEBRASKA SYNOPTICAL DIGEST.

VOLUME I.

ABANDONMENT.

Of appeal, see Appeal and Error, §§ 1464, 1465.

Of contract, see Contracts, §§ 259-301.

Of lien of chattel mortgage, see Chattel Mortgages, §§ 148-153.

Of land as evidence of dedication to public, see Dedication, §§ 43-50.

Of spouse as ground for divorce, see Divorce, §§ 19-21.

Presumption as to abandonment of family, see Divorce, § 70.

Of easement, see Easements, §§ 20, 21.

Of proceeding to condemn private property, see Eminent Domain, §§ 209, 210.

Of application for administrator, see Executors and Administrators, § 27.

Of lien or levy of execution, see Execution, §§ 93, 94.

Of property by garnishee, see Garnishment, § 101.

Of public roads, see Highways, §§ 129-140.

Of homesteads, see Homesteads, §§ 160-198.

Of wife by husband, see Husband and Wife, §§ 244*a*-252.

Of street, see Municipal Corporations, §§ 649-659.

Of public office, see Officers, § 54.

Of right of way by railroad company, see Railroads, §§ 53, 54.

Of claim to trust funds in hands of third person, by garnishment, see Trusts, § 182.

Of sewers or drains by cities, see Municipal Corporations, § 697.

Of township organization, see Towns, §§ 9, 10.

Of water rights, see Water and Watercourses, §§ 41, 42

ABATEMENT AND REVIVAL.

ANALYSIS.

Another action pending.
——— Ground of abatement in general, §§ 1-4.
——— Applicability to mandamus, § 5.
——— Identity of causes, §§ 6-10.
——— Action of different jurisdiction, § 11.
——— Sufficiency of proof, § 12.
——— Necessity, mode, and waiver of objection, §§ 13, 14.
Misnomer of plaintiff, § 15.
Disability of party pending suit, § 16.
Transfer of title, right or interest.
——— In general, §§ 17, 18.
——— Dissolution of partnership or corporation, §§ 19-21.
——— Termination of term of office, § 22.
——— Removal or discharge of administrator, § 23.

Digitized by Google

Death of party, in general, § 24.
——— Plaintiff, §§ 25-28.
——— Defendant, §§ 29-32.
Death of father to whom liquor furnished, § 33.
Revival of actions.
——— Right of revival in general, §§ 34-36.
——— Persons who may revive, §§ 37-39.
——— Necessity of revival, §§ 40-42.
——— Time for revival, §§ 43-45.
——— Mode and proceedings for, §§ 46-51.
——— Order of revival as res adjudicata, §§ 52-54.
——— Proceedings after revival, §§ 55, 56.
——— Waiver of service of conditional order, §§ 57, 58.
Revival in supreme court, §§ 59, 60.
Revival in justice court, § 61.

www.libtool.com.cn

CROSS REFERENCES.

Settlement by parents as bar to bastardy proceedings, see Bastards, § 23.

Marriage of parents of illegitimate children as bar to proceeding in bastardy, see Bastards, §§ 20-22.

Death of child as abating bastardy proceedings, see Bastardy, § 24.

Plea in abatement in criminal prosecution, see Criminal Law, §§ 158-168.

Removal of administrator as abatement of action, see Executors and Administrators, §§ 262, 263.

Abatement by repeal of statute, see Statutes, §§ 285-290.

Return of property as bar to action for conversion, see Trover and Conversion, § 35.

Pleading matters in abatement, see Pleading, III, B.

Survivor as representative of deceased person to disqualify witness, see Witnesses, § 74.

Another action pending.

Pendency of another information against defendant, see Criminal Law, § 163.

Stipulation to rest pending determination of another suit as waiver of abatement, see Stipulations, § 12.

——— Ground of abatement in general.

1. (1892.) The pendency of a former suit between the same parties may be shown in abatement when a judgment in such suit would be a bar to a judgment in the second action. It is immaterial that one is legal and the other equitable in nature. State, ex rel. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., v. North Lincoln St. R. Co., 34 Neb. 634 (52 N. W. 368).

2. (1894.) The mere pendency in the courts of another jurisdiction of an action between the same parties, and concerning the same subject-matter, cannot be successfully pleaded in bar or abatement. Kilpatrick v. Kansas City & B. R. Co., 38 Neb. 620 (57 N. W. 664; 41 Am. St. Rep. 741).

3. (1895.) A plea that another action is pending in the same court between the same parties, involving the same subject-matter and seeking the same relief, when proved, is a good defense to a second action, though one is an action at law and the other a suit in equity. Monroe v. Reid, 46 Neb. 316 (64 N. W. 983).

4. (1899.) Pendency of a former suit between the same parties on the same cause of action in the same court is ground for abatement. Spencer v. Johnston, 58 Neb. 44 (78 N. W. 482).

——— Applicability to mandamus.

5. (1892.) The plea of the pendency of another suit in bar is applicable to proceedings in mandamus. State, ex rel. C., B. & Q. R. Co. v. North Lincoln St. R. Co., 34 Neb. 634 (52 N. W. 368).

——— Identity of causes.

6. (1871.) A verdict of a jury in one case, in order to operate an abatement of another, must have been recovered for the identical cause of action and between the same parties. McReady v. Rogers, 1 Neb. 124 (93 Am. Dec. 333).

7. (1909.) When the pendency of a prior suit is pleaded in abatement, the case must be the same, or it will not be sustained. There must be the same parties or such as represent the same interest; the same rights must be asserted and the same relief prayed for. This relief must be founded on the same facts, and the essential basis of the relief must be the same in both actions. As a general rule, where a judgment in a prior suit would be a bar to a judgment in the second suit brought in the same or another court of concurrent jurisdiction, the plea of other suit pending will be held good. Richardson v. Opelt, 60 Neb. 180 (82 N. W. 377).

Digitized by Google

8. (1895). To constitute a good defense, that another action is pending in the same court, it is necessary for the party seeking the abatement of the present action, by reason of the pendency of that already commenced, to plead and prove the connection of the former action to the same subject-matter, the relations of the parties therein to be the same as that in the case in which the plea is interposed, and that the relief sought is practically identical with that sought in the second action. Monroe v. Reid, 46 Neb. 316 (64 N. W. 983).

9. (1901.) To constitute a defense of another action pending, defendant must plead and prove that the two causes of action are identical. Metcalf v. Bockoven, 62 Neb. 877 (87 N. W. 1055).

10. (1901.) To abate a suit because of the pendency of another action, it must appear that the subject-matter is so far identical that a recovery in one action would bar a recovery in the other. Metcalf v. Bockoven, 1 Unof. 822 (96 N. W. 406).

——Action of different jurisdiction.

11. (1901.) Where, pending an action to recover a debt secured by mortgage, plaintiff sues in equity in a federal court to enforce his lien, as authorized by section 848 of the code, the pendency of the equity action did not work the abatement of the suit at law. Garneau v Kendall, 61 Neb. 396 (85 N. W. 291).

——Sufficiency of proof.

12. (1897) A plea of another suit pending is not sustained by proof of an order dismissing, without prejudice, a former suit on the same cause of action, and of the filing by plaintiff of a motion for a new trial upon which no action has been taken. Council Bluffs Savings Bank v. Griswold, 50 Neb. 753 (70 N. W. 376).

——Necessity, mode, and waiver of objection.

13. (1892.) The objection that another suit is pending must be raised by proper pleadings, or it will be waived. Gregory v. Kenyon, 34 Neb. 640 (52 N. W. 685.)

14. (1894.) An objection on the ground that there is another action pending for the same cause must be made before a trial on the merits or it will be waived. Smith v. Spaulding, 40 Neb. 339 (58 N. W. 952).

Misnomer of plaintiff.

15. (1884.) An objection to the name in which plaintiff brings suit must be raised by a plea in abatement. Smelt v. Knapp, 16 Neb. 53 (20 N. W. 20).

Disability of party pending suit.

16. (1904.) Section 45 of the code expressly enacts that an action shall not abate by reason of the disability of a party happening during its pendency. In such cases a duty devolves upon the court to take such steps as shall become necessary to protect and preserve the rights of the incapacitated party. Simmons v. Kelsey, 72 Neb. 534 (101 N. W. 1).

Transfer of title, right or interest.

Effect of repeal of statute, see Statutes, §§ 285-290.

——In general.

17. (1882.) In case of a transfer of interest during the pendency of a suit, the action may be continued in the name of the original party, or the court may allow the person to whom the transfer is made to be substituted. This substitution may be made as often as there is a transfer of interest. Temple v. Smith, 13 Neb. 513 (14 N. W. 527).

17*a*. (1908.) The insolvency of, and the appointment of a receiver for, the original plaintiff, who has assigned the cause of action prior to the appointment of a receiver and since the action was begun, does not prevent the prosecution of the action in the name of the original plaintiff. McCague Savings Bank v. Croft, 80 Neb. 702 (115 N. W. 315).

17*b*. (1908.) Where the transfer of the subject of an action is made by the plaintiff during its pendency, the action may be prosecuted for the benefit of the assignee in the name of the original plaintiff, such party remaining in esse. McCague Savings Bank v. Croft, 80 Neb. 702 (115 N. W. 315).

18. (1900.) Under the provisions of section 45 of the code a party may continue as plaintiff and prosecute to final judgment after having transferred his interest pending the litigation. Schabery v. McDonald, 60 Neb. 493 (83 N. W. 737).

——Dissolution of partnership or corporation.

19, 20. (1902.) A cause of action in favor of a copartnership against a sheriff and his bondsmen to recover the penalty provided by section 34, chapter 28, Compiled Statutes, does not abate by the dissolution of the copartnership, but survives to the individual members of such copartnership. O'Shea v. Kavanaugh, 65 Neb. 639 (91 N. W. 578).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

21. (1900.) Under section 63, chapter 16, Compiled Statutes, a suit does not abate by the dissolution of a corporation plaintiff or defendant organized under the laws of this state. Schmitt & Bro. Co. v. Mahoney, 60 Neb. 20 (82 N. W. 99).

——— Termination of term of office.

22. (1889.) An answer, in an action against a county clerk to compel a report as to certain fees collected, setting up a termination of his term of office, does not state a defense. State, ex rel. Franklin County, v. Cole, 25 Neb. 342 (41 N. W. 245).

——— Removal or discharge of administrator.

23. (1901.) An action does not abate by the removal or discharge of an administrator as party plaintiff during its pendency. Edney v. Baum, 2 Unof. 173 (96 N. W. 167).

Death of party, in general.

Death of parties after submission on appeal, see Appeal and Error, §§ 599-601.

Death of partner as abating action against firm, see Partnership, §§ 171,172.

24. (1882.) If on the death of a party, a cause survived to or against some other of the parties the action does not abate as to the survivors. Fox v. Abbott, 12 Neb. 328 (11 N. W. 303).

——— Plaintiff.

25. (1902.) By virtue of section 455, code of civil procedure, an action under section 11, chapter 91*a*, Compiled Statutes, would not completely abate on the death of the plaintiff, but could be revived and maintained by his personal representative. Cleland v. Anderson, 66 Neb. 252 (92 N. W. 306).

26. (1900.) A pending action for personal injuries does not abate by the death of the plaintiff. Webster v. City of Hastings, 59 Neb. 563 (81 N. W. 510).

27. (1877.) Where upon the death of a plaintiff there is an order of revivor in the name of the administrator duly entered, the failure of the clerk to change the title of the case accordingly is not fatal to the judgment subsequently rendered. This is a mistake that may be remedied on motion, even after judgment. Brandt v. Albers, 6 Neb. 504.

28. (1906.) When the sole plaintiff in an action dies, the effect is to suspend further proceedings until the action has been revived in the name of the legal representatives of the deceased. Street v. Smith, 75 Neb. 434 (106 N. W. 472).

——— Defendant.

29. (1878.) An action pending against a deceased person at the time of his death, may, if the cause of action survive, be prosecuted to final judgment; and the executor, administrator, or heir may be admitted to defend the same. Gillette v. Morrison, 7 Neb. 263.

30. (1878.) Where it is sought to revive an action after the death of defendant the only question at issue are, First, the death of defendant, and Second, the substitution of the administrator and heirs of the estate. If the cause of action survives, the court cannot inquire into the merits. Gillette v. Morrison, 7 Neb. 263.

31. (1901.) Held, In the present case, that the petitioner is entitled to have the action revived in his name as the lawful representative of the deceased plaintiff. Hayden v. Huff, 62 Neb. 375 (87 N. W. 184).

32. (1902.) An administration of the estate in accordance with law must be procured if it is desired to carry on litigation after defendant dies intestate. Buck v. Hogeboom, 63 Neb. 672 (88 N. W. 857).

Death of father to whom liquor furnished.

33. (1879.) The death of a husband and father does not cause an action for loss of the means of support, against a saloonkeeper, to abate. Roose v. Perkins, 9 Neb. 304 (2 N. W. 715; 31 Am. St. Rep. 409).

Revival of actions.

Survival of action for causing death, see Death, §§ 13-16.

Revivor of action to quiet title, see, Quieting Title, §§ 59.

——— Right of revival in general.

34. (1878.) The right to revive an action is not dependent on the discretion of the court or judge making the order, but, under the conditions and within the time limited by statute, is a matter of right. Gillette v. Morrison, 7 Neb. 263.

35. (1901.) The right to revivor under the provisions of section 45 of the code rests in the exercise of a sound discretion by the trial court, governed by equitable principles, which requires reasonable diligence and good faith on the part of those invoking its action; the right to revival to be granted or refused according to the circumstances and nature of the case. Hayden v. Huff, 62 Neb. 375 (87 N. W. 184).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

36. (1902.) There is no authority under title 13 of the code of civil procedure for the substitution of the legal representative, or successor, of a deceased suitor at the instance of a litigant having no interest in the controversy adverse to that of the party who died. Jameson v. Bartlett, 63 Neb. 638 (88 N. W. 860).

——Persons who may revive.

37. (1902.) When one of several plaintiffs in error dies the right to have an erroneous judgment against all of them reversed attaches to the survivors. Jameson v. Bartlett, 63 Neb. 638 (88 N. W. 860).

38. (1892.) Where, pending an action to set aside a deed to real estate, and to quiet title, the plaintiff dies intestate, the action may be revived and continued in the names of the heirs at law of such deceased person. Rakes v. Brown, 34 Neb. 304 (51 N. W. 848).

39. (1907.) A cause of action by a husband for a loss of services and expenditures for medical attendance, etc., occasioned by a negligent and wrongful injury to his wife, is one which survives and is assignable. Forbes v. City of Omaha, 79 Neb. 6 (112 N. W. 326).

——Necessity of revival.

40. (1898.) Where a party dies after a judgment has been rendered against him, his administrator may prosecute error without procuring an order reviving the action in his name. Webster v. City of Hastings, 56 Neb. 245 (76 N. W. 565).

41. (1902.) Where one of several plaintiffs or defendants dies, in an action pending in this court on error, the right of action, if it survives to or against the remaining parties, may be enforced without bringing the representative or successor of the deceased party into the case. Jameson v. Bartlett, 63 Neb. 638 (88 N. W. 860).

42. (1904.) If the plaintiff in an action die after judgment, but before satisfaction thereof, no valid execution can be had upon the property of the judgment defendant until the judgment has been revived in the manner provided for in section 472 of the code. Vogt v. Daily, 70 Neb. 812 (98 N. W. 31).

——Time for revival.

43. (1901.) The limitation of the statute as to time, contained in the provisions for summary proceedings to revive an action on a conditional order, does not apply to proceedings for revivor under the provisions of section 45 of the code. Hayden v. Huff, 62 Neb. 375 (87 N. W. 184).

44. (1901.) If an action is not revived within one year from the time an order of revivor might have been first made, and this fact is made to appear by affidavit, it is made the duty of the court in which the action is pending to strike it from the docket. Hayden v. Huff, 62 Neb. 375 (87 N. W. 184).

45. (1901.) Under the provisions of the code entitled "Revivor of Actions," sections 456-470, an action may be revived in the name of the representatives or successor in interest of a deceased party to the action, on a conditional order, without the consent of the adverse party, at any time within one year from the time when the order might have been first entered. Hayden v. Huff, 62 Neb. 375 (87 N. W. 184).

——Mode and proceedings for.

46. (1892.) The mode provided by title 13 of civil code, for reviving actions by conditional order of revivor, is not exclusive. Section 45 of the code confers authority upon the court to allow the action to be prosecuted by or against the representatives or successors in interest of a deceased party. For this purpose supplemental pleadings may be filed and summons served as in the commencement of an action. Rakes v. Brown, 34 Neb. 304 (51 N. W. 848).

47. (1898.) Service of a conditional order of revivor must be made in the same manner as a summons, and it seems that service upon the attorney of record is insufficient unless a summons may be so served. Missouri P. R. Co. v. Fox, 56 Neb. 746 (77 N. W. 57).

48. (1901.) By section 45 of the code, where the cause of action survives, the court may allow the action to continue by or against the representatives or successor in interest by the filing of supplemental pleadings and the service of summons, as in the commencement of an action. Hayden v. Huff, 62 Neb. 375 (87 N. W. 184).

49. (1901.) The summary mode pointed out in code of civil procedure, sections 456-460, for the revivor of an action is not exclusive. Hayden v. Huff, 62 Neb. 375 (87 N. W. 184).

50. (1902.) The serving of the conditional order of revivor, confers jurisdiction upon the substituted party. Link v. Reeves, 63 Neb. 424 (88 N. W. 670).

Digitized by Google

51. (1906.) Where the beneficiary is made a coplaintiff with the trustee in a foreclosure action, and dies while the suit is pending, irregularity or error in reviving the suit in the name of his administrator is without prejudice to further proceedings in the case, as he was not a necessary party plaintiff. Abrams v. Taintor, 76 Neb. 109 (107 N. W. 225).

——— Order of revival as res adjudicata.

52. (1877.) The statute provides the mode and regulates the practice in cases of revivor of actions, and the judgment or final order of revivor under the mode prescribed, unless reversed or vacated on error, is conclusive, and cannot be reviewed on the subsequent trial of the cause. Hendrix v. Rieman, 6 Neb. 516.

53. (1877.) When an action has been revived, a plea ne unques administrator subsequently pleaded, is bad, and may be treated as surplusage. Hendrix v. Rieman, 6 Neb. 516.

54. (1898.) Where revivor of an action is sought by conditional order, the hearing in pursuance thereof is the proper occasion to try the right of the successor, and by the absolute order the matter becomes res judicata, and cannot be retried with the case on its merits. Missouri P. R. Co. v. Fox, 56 Neb. 746 (77 N. W. 57).

——— Proceedings after revival.

55. (1898.) When a cause has been revived by conditional order duly made absolute, it is not essential that amended or supplemental pleadings be filed alleging the capacity of the new party, as such averments would not be traversable and the fact already appears of record. For the same reason it is proper to refuse the adverse party leave by supplemental pleadings to tender an issue based on the matter of revivor. Missouri P. R. Co. v. Fox, 56 Neb. 746 (77 N. W. 57).

56. (1902.) Where a cause is properly revived in this court in the name of the administrator of a deceased defendant in error, no summons in error is required to be served upon that administrator. Link v. Reeves, 63 Neb. 424 (88 N. W. 670).

——— Waiver of service of conditional order.

57. (1898.) A failure to serve a conditional order of revivor goes only to the jurisdiction of the person, and is waived by a voluntary general appearance. Missouri P. R. Co. v. Fox, 56 Neb. 746 (77 N. W. 57).

58. (1900.) Issuance of summons or conditional order of revivor held waived where defendant filed objection to the substitution. Schaberg v. McDonald, 60 Neb. 493 (83 N. W. 737).

Revival in supreme court.

59. (1900.) The provisions of the code relative to abatement and revivor of actions are applicable to causes brought to the supreme court. Schmitt & Bro. Co. v. Mahoney, 60 Neb. 20 (82 N. W. 99).

60. (1905.) When a county judge dies pending a proceeding against him in the nature of an information in quo warranto for the alleged usurpation of functions and powers in excess of the jurisdiction conferred upon him by law, his successor in office cannot, upon motion of the relator, be substituted as respondent in his stead after the cause has proceeded to judgment in the district court, and while it is pending in the supreme court on petition in error. State v. Gower, 73 Neb. 304 (102 N. W. 674).

Revival in justice court.

61. (1885.) The provisions of the code for the revival of actions and judgments apply to actions before justices of the peace. Miller v. Curry, 17 Neb. 321 (22 N. W. 559).

ABDUCTION.

See Kidnapping.

ABETTOR.

Liability for assault, see Assault and Battery, §§ 6, 7.

Liability for crime, see Criminal Law, §§ 42-47.

To conversion, see Trover and Conversion, §§ 17, 18.

A ORTION.

Statutory provisions.

1. (1907.) The words, "at any stage of utero-gestation" as used in section 6 of the criminal code, defined, and held to mean "at any stage of pregnancy." Edwards v. State, 79 Neb. 251 (112 N. W. 611).

Accessories.

2. (1895.) One who induces a physician to procure an abortion on a woman and makes all preliminary arrangements is an accessory to the crime and liable therefore, even though he took no actual part in it.

Digitized by Google

Dixon v. State, 46 Neb. 298 (64 N. W. 961).

Evidence.

Effect of testimony of witness differing from that given on preliminary hearing, see Witnesses, §§ 396-399.

3. (1895.) Where defendant in a prosecution for abortion testifies in chief that his acquaintance with the woman was not intimate, it may be shown by him, on cross-examination, that he had been criminally intimate with her. Dixon v. State, 46 Neb. 298 (64 N. W. 961).

4. (1907.) In a prosecution for homicide for procuring an abortion, a dying declaration of the deceased, in which she describes the defendant as having performed the operation, together with evidence of a confession made by defendant upon his arrest, and also the finding of instruments in his valise when he was arrested, sustains a conviction. Edwards v. State, 79 Neb. 251 (112 N. W. 611).

5. (1907.) In a prosecution for homicide in procuring an abortion under section 6 of the criminal code, dying declarations of the deceased may be admitted in evidence, under the same conditions and limitations as in prosecutions for murder or manslaughter. Edwards v. State, 79 Neb. 251 (112 N. W. 611).

ABSCONDING.

Grounds for attachment, see Attachment, §§ 26-30.

ABSENCE.

Ground for attachment, see Attachment, §§ 26-30.

Of counsel and ground for continuance, see Continuance, §§ 8, 9.

Affidavit for continuance for absence of witness, see Continuance §§ 34-49.

Continuance for absence of evidence, see Continuance, § 50.

ABSTRACTS OF TITLE.

Abstracter's bond.

1. (1896.) The bond required by section 65, chapter 73, Compiled Statutes, is designed as security for those who may be damaged through the negligence or inefficiency of abstracters. Thomas v. Carson, 46 Neb. 765 (65 N. W. 899).

2. (1898.) The statute relating to bonded abstracters, Compiled Statutes 1897, chapter 73, sections 65-69, was intended to extend the liability of abstracters beyond the limits fixed by the common law. Gate City Abstract Co. v. Post, 55 Neb. 742 (76 N. W. 471).

Liability of abstracter.

3. (1898.) An abstracter of title is liable to a person for whom he or it has prepared and furnished an abstract of title to property for the damages suffered by such person in consequence of an omission to notice in the abstract an incumbrance against, or matter which affects, the title. Security Abstract Title Co. v. Longacre, 56 Neb. 469 (76 N. W. 1073).

4. (1898.) One who purchases real estate on the faith of a certificate of title furnished to his vendor by a bonded abstracter may maintain an action for damages grounded on the failure of the abstracter to make a proper search and true certificate. Gate City Abstract Co. v. Post, 55 Neb. 742 (76 N. W. 471).

5. (1898.) It is no defense in an action by an administrator against an abstracter to recover damages accrued by reason of a defect in an abstract prepared by him, on the faith of which the plaintiff testator purchased land against which there was a decree of sale to, that the administrator allowed a sale of the property for a sum less than the amount of the lien foreclosed. Security Abstract Title Co. v. Longacre, 56 Neb. 469 (76 N. W. 1073).

6. (1896.) T., the plaintiff, purchased a real estate mortgage relying upon the certificate accompanying an abstract of title, in which it was recited that C., the abstracter, had carefully examined the records of the office of the county clerk, the clerk of the district court, and county treasurer; and that there were of record in said offices no liens upon the property described except as in said abstract mentioned. Held, That C. is not liable on his bond on account of the omission from said abstract of a prior mortgage upon the property conveyed, then of record in the office of the register of deeds. Thomas v. Carson, 46 Neb. 765 (65 N. W 899).

7. (1896.) In an action on an abstracter's bond for damages for knowingly omitting a prior mortgage, the fact that the omission of the prior mortgage was the result of a conspiracy between C., the abstracter, E., the mortgagor, and P., to whom the subsequent mortgage was given, held, not material, since the certificate relied upon by the plaintiff imparted notice of C.'s engagement and the extent of the liability assumed by him. Thomas v. Carson, 46 Neb. 765 (65 N. W. 899).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

Right of purchaser to rely on abstract.

8. (1895.) An intending purchaser or mortgagee of real estate relies and acts upon the recitals of an abstract made of the title to such real estate at his peril, and is charged with notice of the actual condition of the records. Rice v. Winters, 45 Neb. 517 (63 N. W. 830).

9. (1901.) Whether in matters pertaining to the title of real estate a person may rely on an abstract of title duly made and certified without making an examination of the public records in order to free himself from the charge of culpable neglect, when relief is asked in a court of equity on the ground of mistake, quaere. Peters v. Huff, 63 Neb. 99 (88 N. W. 179).

ABUSE OF PROCESS.

See Process, §§ 248-253.

ABUTTING OWNERS.

Liability for public improvements, see Municipal Corporations, VII, D.

Compensation for taking property for public use, see Eminent Domain, §§ 75-78; 117-126.

Consent of, to construct street railroad, see Street Railroads, §§ 1, 1a.

Duty to repair sidewalks, see Municipal Corporations, §§ 660-665.

Rights in street, see Municipal Corporations, IX, A.

Rights in public roads, see Highway, I, D.

ACCEPTANCE.

Of draft or order, see Bills and Notes, §§ 17-29.

Necessity for acceptance of offer, see Contracts, §§ 19-24.

Of chattel mortgage, see Chattel Mortgages, §§ 42, 43.

Of benefits as estoppel, see Estoppel, §§ 105-115.

Of security as waiver of mechanics' lien, see Mechanics' Lien, §§ 218-227.

Of service of process, see Process, §§ 83, 84.

Of chattels by buyer, see Sales, §§ 154-160.

Of offer of compromise, see Compromise and Settlement, §§ 3-4.

Of tender, see Tender, §§ 22-24.

Of offer to sell real property, see Vendor and Purchaser, §§ 3-14.

ACCESSION.

CROSS REFERENCE.

Intermingling of goods, see Confusion of Goods.

1. (1890.) The doctrine of accession of property applies where one has wilfully, as a trespasser, taken the property of another, and altered it in substance or form by his own labor. Where, however, the appropriation was through a mistake of fact, and labor has been expended upon it which converts it into something very different from the original article and greatly increases its value, and the value of the original article is insignificant in comparison with the new product, the title to the property in its converted form will pass to the person who has thus expended his labor, the original owner to recover the value of the original article. Baker v. Meisch, 29 Neb. 227 (45 N. W. 685).

ACCESSORIES.

To larceny, see Larceny, § 26.

To embezzlement, see Embezzlement, § 10.

Liability for crime, see Criminal Law, §§ 48, 49.

To murder, see Homicide, §§ 25-28.

Proof and variance, see Indictment and Information, §§ 130, 131.

Conviction of when charged as principal, see Indictment and Information, §§ 140-142.

ACCIDENT.

Accident insurance, see Insurance.

Cause of death, see Death.

Ground for new trial, see New Trial, II, C.

ACCOMPLICES.

See Criminal Law.

Digitized by Google

ACCORD AND SATISFACTION.

www.LawBook.com

ANALYSIS.

Execution of accord and satisfaction, § 1.
——— Acceptance of conditional offer, §§ 2, 3.
Consideration, §§ 4-9.
Part payment of liquidated claim, §§ 10-22.
Mistake in adjustment of demand, § 23.
Satisfaction by one joint wrongdoer, § 24.
Effect of pleading settlement as a defense, § 25.
Pleading, §§ 26-28.
Evidence, §§ 29-35.
Instructions, § 36.
Review, §§ 37, 38.

CROSS REFERENCES.

See, also, Compromise and Settlement; Payment; Release.

Payment of particular kinds of obligations, see specific topics.

Execution of accord and satisfaction.

1. (1902.) Where parties enter into an agreement whereby the one agrees to pay, and the other to accept, a certain sum in full satisfaction and discharge of a disputed claim urged by the latter against the former, such agreement constitutes a valid contract between the parties. Masillon Engine & Thresher Co. v. Prouty, 65 Neb. 496 (91 N. W. 384).

——— Acceptance of conditional offer.

2. (1896.) A being indebted to B in an uncertain amount sent to the C bank the amount which A conceded to be due, with instructions to pay the sum to B but only in full settlement, and on his signing a receipt to that effect. B, protesting that more was due, accepted the money and signed the receipt, but caused the bank to send back, accompanying the receipt, a letter declaring that he only received the money on account and not in settlement. Held, that by receiving the money he had accepted the condition on which it was tendered, and that his protest availed nothing. The terms of the receipt and the refusal of the bank to pay the money except upon his signing it were notice to him that the bank had no authority to pay it except on the condition that it should be received in full settlement. Treat v. Price, 47 Neb. 875 (66 N. W. 834).

3. (1896.) Where a certain sum of money is tendered by a debtor to a creditor on the condition that he accept it in full satisfaction of his demand, the sum due being in dispute, the debtor must either refuse the tender or accept it as made, subject to the condition. If he accepts it, he accepts the condition also, notwithstanding any protest he may make to the contrary. Treat v. Price, 47 Neb. 875 (66 N. W. 834).

Consideration.

4. (1896.) If a consideration is necessary to sustain a settlement made by the payment and receipt in full satisfaction of the sum which the debtor admits to be due, it is found in the fact that the creditor by accepting such sum thereby avoids the delay, expense, and labor of an accounting, and avoids threatened litigation. Treat v. Price, 47 Neb. 875 (66 N. W. 834).

5. (1896.) The fact that the sum paid in settlement of an unliquidated demand is only the amount that the debtor concedes to be due does not invalidate the settlement. Treat v. Price, 47 Neb. 875 (66 N. W. 834).

6. (1902.) If an agreement for satisfaction and discharge of a disputed claim contemplates the surrender of evidence of indebtedness, on the part of the creditor, on payment of the amount agreed upon, in an action on such contract, the creditor is entitled to recover on a showing of readiness and willingness to perform his part of such contract. Massillon Engine & Thresher Co. v. Prouty, 65 Neb. 496 (91 N. W. 384).

7. (1904.) That it is uncertain which of two parties, both of whom deny liability, is liable for a debt of a fixed and certain amount, is a sufficient consideration to support a settlement between one of such parties and the creditor, whereby the creditor accepts a part of the amount due in discharge of the debt. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Brown, 70 Neb. 696 (97 N. W. 1038).

Digitized by Google

8. (1904.) An accord, even between the plaintiff and a third party, as to the subject-matter of an action, and a satisfaction moving from such third party to the plaintiff, are available in bar of the action, if the defendant has authorized or ratified the settlement. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Brown, 70 Neb. 696 (97 N. W. 1038).

9. (1905.) An accord to be good must be in full satisfaction and must be executed. A promise to execute or to perform at a future time would not support the plea of accord and satisfaction. Bankers Union of the World v. Favalora, 73 Neb. 427 (102 N. W. 1013).

Part payment of liquidated claim.

10. (1888.) W., in 1883, entered the service of B. & B., operators of a mill, as a miller and mill hand, and remained in their service until 1886. During said time B. & B. moved their mill to another place, in consequence of which the same was not operated during a period of from one to two months, and during which time W. assisted the other workmen in making such removal; and also, by direction of one of the partners, worked for a time at getting out posts. During the whole term of his service, W., every Saturday night, with the knowledge of B. & B., entered his time on their account books kept in the mill, including the time when he was engaged in removing the mill and getting out posts. About the time he quit their service, W., toegther with one of the partners, examined the books and agreed upon a sum or balance due to W. In an action by W. against B & B. for said balance, held, that he could recover against the firm for the whole amount, although, as between the partners, but one of them (J. G. B.) should pay for the time W. was engaged in getting out posts. Brewer v. Wright, 25 Neb. 305 (41 N. W. 159).

11. (1894.) A compromise of honest differences, whereby a less sum that that claimed has been paid and accepted in full of plaintiff's claim, bars the right of plaintiff to insist upon a recovery of the amount originally claimed by him. Slade v. Swedeburg Elevator Co., 39 Neb. 600 (58 N. W. 191).

12. (1896.) The word "liquidated," when used in respect to the rule that an accord and satisfaction discharges an unliquidated demand, means that the amount due has been ascertained and agreed upon by the parties or is fixed by operation of law. Treat v. Price, 47 Neb. 875 (66 N. W. 834).

13. (1896.) The rule that where a certain sum is due from one to another, the payment of a lesser sum is not a discharge as to the remainder, though the parties agree that the payment is made in discharge of the entire debt, does not apply to an unliquidated claim, or to a bona fide dispute as to the amount due. Treat v. Price, 47 Neb. 875 (66 N. W. 834).

14. (1896.) The fact that the sum paid in settlement of an unliquidated demand, is only the amount that the debtor concedes to be due, does not invalidate the settlement. Treat v. Price, 47 Neb. 875 (66 N. W. 834).

15. (1896.) A creditor who accepts money tendered by the debtor unconditionally does not by that act estop himself from maintaining an action to recover any further sum that may be due. Beckman v. Birchard, 48 Neb. 805 (67 N. W. 784).

16. (1896.) The rule that where a certain sum is due from one to another, the payment of a lesser sum is not a discharge as to the remainder, though the parties agree that the payment is made in discharge of the entire debt, does not apply to an unliquidated claim, or to a bona fide dispute as to the amount due. Treat v. Price, 47 Neb. 875 (66 N. W. 834).

17. (1897.) A payment of a part only of a liquidated past-due debt, in full settlement, is not good as an accord and satisfaction. McIntosh v. Johnson, 51 Neb. 33 (70 N. W. 522).

18. (1897.) To an action on a policy of insurance the defendant pleaded that after the loss it had made a settlement with the insured, whereby it agreed to pay a certain sum in sixty days, and that, relying on such settlement, it had accepted orders of the insured in favor of third persons for a portion of the amount, and had admitted indebtedness in garnishment proceedings which resulted in a judgment against it for another portion, the aggregate amount assumed being less than the amount of the settlement. It was not alleged that these obligations had been paid. Held, That this neither operated as an accord and satisfaction, nor did it estop the plaintiff from rescinding the agreement on the ground of fraud. Omaha Fire Ins. Co. v. Thompson, 50 Neb. 580 (70 N. W. 30).

19. (1901.) The payment of a lesser sum than is due on a liquidated and undisputed demand does not constitute an accord and satisfaction. Sheibley v. Dixon County, 61 Neb. 409 (85 N. W. 399).

Digitized by Google

20. (1902.) The acceptance by the creditor of a debtor's check for less than the whole amount of a past due liquidated account will not operate as an accord and satisfaction, unless such check is accompanied by the condition that such acceptance shall be a full satisfaction and payment of the whole debt. Fremont Foundry & Machine Co. v. Norton 3 Unof. 804 (92 N. W. 1058).

21. (1902.) Acceptance of a check for a less amount than the contract price of a steam boiler, without condition save a statement accompanying in the nature of a counterclaim, will not bar the creditor's right to recover the balance. Fremont Foundry & Machine Co. v. Norton, 3 Unof. 804 (92 N. W. 1058).

21*a*. (1908.) Where a debtor remits by mail a sum less than the amount due, but which he in good faith believes to be all that is due or claimed by the creditor, the fact that he marks the check upon the margin "in full to date," or in the account which he renders describes it as "Check to balance in full," does not constitute it a payment made in settlement of a disputed claim, and the acceptance of such check by the creditor is not an accord and satisfaction. Canadian Fish Co. v McShane, 80 Neb. 551 (114 N. W. 594).

22. (1902.) When there is a bona fide dispute between parties as to the amount due upon an account, and the debtor tenders a less amount than the claim in full settlement, which the creditor accepts, with knowledge that it was tendered as a full settlement, the dispute will be a sufficient consideration to uphold the settlement, and will bar a recovery upon the remainder of the claim. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Buckstaff, 65 Neb. 334 (91 N. W. 426).

Mistake in adjustment of demand.

23. (1901.) Where through mistake a county clerk is allowed to retain fees in excess of his salary, the adjustment of the account between him and the county is not a bar to an action by it to recover the excess. Sheibley v. Dixon County, 61 Neb. 409 (85 N. W. 399).

Satisfaction by one joint wrong-doer.

24. (1889.) The rule is, that where the damages are uncertain accord and satisfaction before judgment by one of several joint wrong-doers is satisfaction as to all; but the discharge of a party not shown to be a joint wrong-doer will not operate as a discharge of the other defendants. Wardell v. McConnell, 25 Neb. 558 (41 N. W. 548).

Effect of pleading settlement as a defense.

25. (1904.) A plea interposing the defense of accord and satisfaction made between plaintiff and a third person, is of itself a ratification of the settlement. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Brown, 70 Neb. 696 (97 N. W. 1038).

Pleading.

26. (1901.) In an action upon a promissory note, the execution of which is admitted, where as a defense an accord and satisfaction is attempted to be pleaded, the plea is bad when the performance necessary to constitute the satisfaction is not alleged, and it appears upon the face of the plea that performance, and not the agreement to perform, was to be received in satisfaction. Perdew v. Tillma, 62 Neb. 865 (88 N. W. 123).

27. (1899.) Where the defense to an action is accord and satisfaction, the plea, to be good, must aver an acceptance by the creditor, in satisfaction of his debt, of the property which the debtor alleges he delivered to him in full payment of the claim sued for. Van Housen v. Broehl, 58 Neb. 348 (78 N. W. 624).

28 (1896.) To a petition upon a cause of action not controverted, where there is attempt to be pleaded an accord and satisfaction, the plea is bad when the performance necessary to constitute the satisfaction is not alleged. Goble v. American Nat. Bank of Kansas City, 46 Neb. 891 (65 N. W. 1063).

Evidence.

29. (1890.) Taken and construed in connection with the several allegations and admissions set out and contained in the pleadings, the following paper writing set out in defendant's answer, to wit: "Received from C. T. Treat $6,532.27, in full settlement of the within contract and in full of all demands, I hereby release him and also the Fremont, Elkhorn and Missouri Valley R. R. Co., and the Chicago and North-Western Ry. Co., from all claims, actions, to me against any or either of them by reason of any connection I may have had with them heretofore," held, to be a receipt and not a contract, and hence subject to explanation and contradiction. Price v. Treat, 29

Digitized by Google

Neb. 536 (45 N. W. 790). [Overruled. Treat v. Price, 47 Neb. 875.]

30. (1899.) Evidence held to conclusively establish the defense of accord and satisfaction of a claim on a policy of life insurance. Vernon v. Union Life Ins. Co., 58 Neb. 494 (78 N. W. 929).

31. (1900.) In an action for alleged conversion of money neither payment nor accord and satisfaction can be shown under a general denial. Barker v. Wheeler, 60 Neb. 470 (83 N. W. 678; 83 Am. St. Rep. 541). [Rehearing. 62 Neb. 150.]

32. (1901.) An agreement of accord and satisfaction, which has been performed, between a county board representing the county and those having claims against the county, may be proven by parol evidence in the absence of any written record or minutes of the county board of such agreement. Green v. Lancaster County, 61 Neb. 473 (85 N. W. 439).

33. (1903.) The burden of proof is upon the party admitting a settlement to establish the facts relied on in avoidance thereof. Linton v. Cathers, 70 Neb. 598 (97 N. W. 799).

34. (1905.) Evidence showing the leasing of farm lands and providing for the application of one-half of the owner's share of the grain raised on the payment of a note held by the tenant sustains a verdict of accord and satisfaction of the note. Walsh v. Lunney, 75 Neb. 337 (106 N. W. 447).

35. (1905.) Evidence in an action for services rendered as an attorney held to sustain a finding that a payment in money and notes "of all old matters up to date "was not intended to include the services sued for. Cathers v. Linton, 75 Neb. 420 (106 N. W. 468).

Instructions.

36. (1901.) Instructions bearing on a defense of accord and satisfaction, in an action against a county for commission for selling county bonds, held to be proper. Green v. Lancaster County, 61 Neb. 473 (85 N. W. 439).

Review.

37. (1894.) Where there is sufficient evidence to justify a finding that there has been an executed compromise of all differences between the parties to the action, the judgment of the trial court will not be reversed. Slade v. Swedeburg, 39 Neb. 600 (58 N. W. 191).

38. (1885.) In an action on an account to which the defense of settlement is pleaded, and the jury finds that a settlement has been had, a verdict for defendant will not be disturbed. Johnson v. Ellis, 17 Neb. 608 (24 N. W. 214).

ACCOUNT.

CROSS REFERENCES.

See, also, Account, Action on; Account Stated; Payment; Release; Tender.

As subject to attachment, see Attachment, § 65.

Interest on account, see Interest.

Accounting by charitable institution, see Charities, § 8.

For surplus on sale of chattels on foreclosure, see Chattel Mortgages, §§ 313-315.

By executors and administrators, see Executors and Administrators, §§ 310-348.

Accounting by partners, see Partnership, §§ 283-332.

Accounting to principal by agent, see Principal and Agent, §§ 53-63.

Accounting by joint tenant, see Tenancy in Common, §§ 27, 28.

By trustee, see Trusts, §§ 144-149.

Limitation of action on account, see Limitation of Actions, §§ 40-42.

Right to.

1. (1901.) Where one, in obedience to an order of a court of competent jurisdiction, has turned over to a receiver appointed by it assets in his hands belonging to an insolvent, he cannot be compelled in a suit in another court, between different parties, to account therefor. Carter v. Dime Savings Bank, 61 Neb. 587 (86 N. W. 29).

1*a*. (1899.) A mortgagor of buildings on leased land is entitled to an accounting by mortgagee for rents and profits applied to the obligations secured. Edling v. Bradford, 30 Neb. 593 (46 N. W. 836).

1*b*. (1908.) Where, in a suit to enforce a contract by a plaintiff who has obtained the same by means of sharp, unconscionable and fraudulent practices, the defendants claim as affirmative relief an accounting for rents received by the plaintiff, the maxim "he who seeks equity must do equity" may be applied, and there may be deducted from the amount otherwise due the defendant for such rents the amount of money expended by the plaintiff in their behalf and the reasonable value of his services performed for their benefit. Blondel v. Bolander, 80 Neb. 531 (114 N. W. 574).

Digitized by Google

www.nbtool.com.cn

Jurisdiction.

2. (1876.) Under the code, discovery has ceased to be one of the objects sought in a court of equity. Jurisdiction, therefore, in cases of mutual accounts between the parties, cannot be maintained on that ground, and is restricted to cases which have their origin in intimate or confidential relations of the parties, and does not extend to ordinary cases of mutual accounts between creditor and debtor. Lamaster v. Scofield, 5 Neb. 148.

3. (1892.) A justice of the peace has no jurisdiction over an action for an accounting between persons of a fiduciary relation. Carlson v. Beckman, 35 Neb. 392 (53 N. W. 203).

Review.

4. (1895.) A judgment in an action for an accounting reversed and sent to a referee to make certain reports, which report is affirmed and decree entered. Warren v. Raben, 46 Neb. 115 (64 N. W. 355).

5. (1899.) In an action for an accounting, when the amount of recovery awarded by the verdict is too small, it may call for a reversal of the judgment. Yager v. Exchange Nat. Bank, 57 Neb. 310 (77 N. W. 768).

6. (1903.) Where, in an action for an accounting, questions of fact only are presented and the trial court's findings are supported by the evidence, the decree will not be disturbed. Haslach v. Wolf, 4 Unof. 306 (93 N. W. 996).

ACCOUNT, ACTION ON.

ANALYSIS.

Requisites of account, § 1.
Application of payments, § 2.
Interest, §§ 3, 4.
Limitation of action, § 5.
Pleading, §§ 6-13.
——— Exhibits, §§ 14-16.
——— Answer, § 17.
——— Amendments, § 18.
Issues on assigned account, §§ 19-21.
Parties, § 22.
Presumptions, § 23.
Burden of proof, § 24.
Admissibility of evidence, §§ 25-27.
Weight and sufficiency of evidence, §§ 28-34.
Instructions, §§ 35-38.
Verdict, §§ 39, 40.
Judgment, §§ 41, 42.
Review, §§ 43-45.

CROSS-REFERENCES.

See, also, Account; Account Stated.

Limitation of action on, see Limitation of Actions, §§ 40-42.

Account as subject to attachment, see Attachment, § 65.

Admissibility in evidence of books of account, see Evidence, §§ 312-318.

Requisites of account.

Examination of books of county treasurer, see Counties, §§ 267, 268.

1. (1899.) An item in an open account which includes not only a disbursement of the debtor's money in the hands of the creditor, but also a disbursement of the creditor's private funds for the debtor's use and benefit, is a legitimate and valid charge. Sibley v. Rice, 58 Neb. 785 (79 N. W. 711).

Application of payments.

2. (1888.) In an action on an account, part of which was barred by the statute of limitations, it was the duty of the court to apply all the payments made before the bar of the statute, to the liquidation of that part of the debt which was barred; and if any part of the plaintiff's claim was not barred, to render judgment thereon for the amount due. Ashby v. Washburn, 23 Neb. 571 (37 N. W. 267).

Digitized by Google

Interest.

3. (1892.) Unsettled accounts do not draw interest until the expiration of six months from the date of the last item therein. Staker v. Begole, 34 Neb. 107 (51 N. W. 468); (1897) Garneau v. Omaha Printing Co., 52 Neb. 383 (72 N. W. 360).

4. (1902.) Money due on an unsettled book account for goods sold and delivered, will only bear interest at the rate of seven per cent., beginning six months after the date of the last item. But where, in a suit on such account, evidence is introduced showing that at the time the goods were ordered it was agreed between the parties that the account should draw interest at ten per cent. after a certain date, and a jury allowed such interest, the verdict will not be set aside for that reason only. Lindell v. Deere, Wells & Co., 66 Neb. 87 (92 N. W. 164).

Limitation of action.

5. (1901.) An action on account is barred in four years. Mizer v. Emigh, 63 Neb. 245 (88 N. W. 478).

Pleading.

6. (1881.) A petition which states that certain goods were sold and delivered by the plaintiffs to the defendants, sets forth a copy of the account, alleges that there are no credits thereon and no part thereof has been paid, and that there is due from the defendants to the plaintiffs a definite sum, is not subject to demurrer as not stating a cause of action. Stubendorf v. Sonnenschein, 11 Neb. 235 (9 N. W. 91).

7. (1883.) The action was on an account, a copy of which was attached to and made a part of the petition. The account was between the plaintiff in error and F. L. Stetson & Co. and showed a balance in favor of the latter. There being no assignment of the account by F. L. Stetson & Co. to David R. Stetson, the defendant in error, nor any allegation showing ownership in him, held, that the petition would not support the judgment in his favor. Thompson v. Stetson, 15 Neb. 112 (17 N. W. 368).

8. (1883.) The provision of section 129 of the code, which provides in effect that a plaintiff may set out in his petition a copy of the account or instrument sued on, with all credits, and allege that there is due thereon from the defendant to the plaintiff a specified sum, is permissive merely, and the facts may be averred in any proper form. Collingwood v. Merchants Bank, 15 Neb. 118 (17 N. W. 359); (1899) Fletcher v. Co-operative Publishing Co., 58 Neb. 511 (78 N. W. 1070).

9. (1891.) A petition alleging that there is due from defendant to plaintiff, for laborer's wages for work and labor done and performed by the plaintiff for the defendant at her request, in the years 1886, 1887, and 1888, the sum of $466.55, no part of which has been paid, states a sufficient cause of action, although subject to a motion to make more definite and certain. Small v. Poffenbarger, 32 Neb. 234 (49 N. W. 337).

10. (1891.) Prayer in the petition should be for a definite sum and not "for the amount of said bill, with costs." Flannagan v. Heath, 31 Neb. 776 (48 N. W. 904).

11. (1896.) In an action founded upon an account it is sufficient for the plaintiff to give a copy of the account with all credits and indorsements thereon and to state that there is due to him on said account from the defendant a specified sum which he claims with interest. McArthur v. Clarke Drug Co., 48 Neb. 899 (67 N. W. 861).

12. (1896.) Where the facts stated in an account and in the petition in a suit thereon, under section 129 of the code, show a liability of defendant to plaintiff, a demurrer on the ground that the petition does not state a cause of action cannot be sustained. McArthur v. Clarke Drug Co., 48 Neb. 899 (67 N. W. 861).

13. (1899.) Where, in a suit on account, a copy of such account is attached to the petition; and where terms are used in the petition which clearly show the significance of the figures; and where the account, as shown by the copy, is admitted in the answer, an objection that the petition is defective will not avail. Minzer v. Willman Mercantile Co., 59 Neb. 410 (81 N. W. 307).

——— Exhibits.

14. (1896.) A pleading in which the only cause of action is for "money due, as per account hereto attached, and marked Exhibit B," but which is accompanied by no exhibit or allegation showing the nature of the alleged indebtedness, fails to state a cause of action. Home Fire Ins. Co. v. Arthur, 48 Neb. 461 (67 N. W. 440).

15. (1896.) The failure to attach an exhibit, to which reference is made in a pleading, is not of itself ground for a de-murrer, provided the matters alleged in such pleadings amount to a cause of action or defense. Home Fire Ins. Co. v. Arthur, 48 Neb. 461 (67 N. W. 440, 441).

Digitized by Google

16. (1896.) In a suit on an account for goods sold and delivered, where the petition is framed under said section 129 and there is attached to such petition a copy of the account sued on, such account must be considered as a part of the petition when construing the allegations thereof. McArthur v. Clarke Drug Co., 48 Neb. 899 (67 N. W. 861).

www.libtool.com.cn

——— Answer.

17. (1899.) In a suit on an account for services an answer containing a general denial and averring that the charges are unreasonable and unjust does not present inconsistent defenses. Cate v. Hutchinson, 58 Neb. 232 (78 N. W. 500).

——— Amendments.

18. (1898.) Where a bill of particulars filed before a justice of the peace and a petition filed on appeal to the district court declare on an account in favor of plaintiff as the original creditor, the petition cannot be amended during the trial in the district court, to show that plaintiff claims by assignment. Western Cornice & Mfg. Works v. Meyer, 55 Neb. 440 (76 N. W. 23).

Issues on assigned account.

19. (1892.) Where there is an absolute assignment of an account so that the assignor parts with his entire interest therein, as between the parties the amount of consideration therefor is not a material inquiry. Barnett v. Ellis, 34 Neb. 539 (52 N. W. 368).

20. (1892.) If there was a defense to the account when assigned, and the assignee is a mere donee, the same defense may be interposed as if the action was by the assignor. If the assignor claims as a bona fide purchaser and the rights of creditors are affected, the amount and kind of consideration become material. Barnett v. Ellis, 34 Neb. 539 (52 N. W. 368).

21. (1892. No defense having been shown against the account, error of the court in restricting the cross-examination of certain witnesses as to the consideration for the assignment held not prejudicial. Barnett v. Ellis, 34 Neb. 539 (52 N. W. 368).

Parties.

22. (1896.) In suing upon an account plaintiff should give his Christian name rather than his initial letters. Small v. Sandall, 48 Neb. 318 (67 N. W. 156).

Presumptions.

23. (1898.) Where the relation of debtor and creditor exists, an account rendered and not objected to within a reasonable time, is to be regarded as prima facie correct. Missouri P. R. Co. v. Palmer, 55 Neb. 559 (76 N. W. 169).

Burden of proof.

24. (1891.) When an action is brought upon an account for goods sold and delivered, the burden of proof is upon the defendant to prove payment. Lamb v. Thompson, 31 Neb. 448 (48 N. W. 58).

Admissibility of evidence.

25. (1895.) In an action to recover for lumber sold and delivered it was not error to suppress from depositions of plaintiff and an alleged assignor of the order from defendant as the evidence shows the lumber was billed by mistake the plaintiff may recover regardless of the assignment. Bushnell v. Chamberlain, 44 Neb. 751 (62 N. W. 1114).

26. (1898.) Rejection of a lease between landlord and tenant in an action on an account for labor performed on the premises by a third person prior to the time when the tenancy was to commence, not prejudicial error. Herzke v. Blake, 54 Neb. 465 (74 N. W. 959).

27. (1899.) In a suit for services rendered it is error to exclude testimony of a witness who has shown himself qualified and competent to testify to the character and value of the services. Cate v. Hutchinson, 58 Neb. 232 (78 N. W. 500).

Weight and sufficiency of evidence.

28. (1892.) Evidence in an action on an account held to sustain the finding and judgment rendered. Fransen v. Eller, 34 Neb. 664 (52 N. W. 284); (1887) Goodman v. Pence, 21 Neb. 459 (32 N. W. 219); (1889) Watte v. Wickersham, 27 Neb. 457 (43 N. W. 259); (1891) Conklin v. Graham, 32 Neb. 546 (49 N. W. 460); (1891) Houston v. Pepperl, 32 Neb. 828 (49 N. W. 803); (1895) Gray v. Godfrey, 43 Neb. 672 (62 N. W. 41); (1895) Bushnell v. Chamberlain 44 Neb. 751 (62 N. W. 1114); (1899) Hubbard v. Seitz, 58 Neb. 351 (78 N. W. 620).

29. (1884.) About the 1st of December, 1881, one D. sent a money order for $3 to S. & Co. of St. Louis. A receipt for $300 was returned. D. alleged that on the same day on which the money order was sent he forwarded to S. & Co. a draft for $300 which he had received in the spring of 1880. Held, That the evidence failed to show that the draft in question was sent. Shapleigh & Co. v. Dutcher, 15 Neb. 563 (20 N. W. 32).

Digitized by Google

30. (1888.) Evidence in an action on an account for services held to sustain a verdict for plaintiff. Brewer v. Wright, 25 Neb. 305 (41 N. W. 159).

31. (1893.) In an action on account for flour sold and delivered, a number of defenses were set up which the proof failed to sustain, the evidence sustains a verdict for the plaintiff. Reed v. Davis Milling Co., 37 Neb. 391 (55 N. W. 1068).

32. (1893.) In an action upon an account for goods sold and delivered a question arose as to whom the credit was extended. The defendant insisted that the credit was extended to a firm; and the plaintiff that it was extended to a member of the firm individually. The evidence discussed in the opinion held sufficient to sustain a verdict in favor of the plaintiff. Deranlieu v. Jandt, 37 Neb. 532 (56 N. W. 299).

33. (1895.) In an action for a bill of lumber, evidence that defendant ordered the same through a third dealer who has gone out of business, and had previously made plaintiff, dealers in lumber, his agent and plaintiff filled the order shipping the material to defendant who credited such third dealer with the amount due against a note made by the suposed seller, supports a verdict for plaintiff. Bushnell v. Chamberlain, 44 Neb. 751 (62 N. W. 1114).

34. (1903.) In an action on account for livery hire and drayage a verdict for plaintiff for $127 is sustained by the evidence. Matousheb v. Dutcher, 67 Neb. 627 (93 N. W. 1049).

Instructions.

35. (1888.) In an action on an account for wages, instructions as to an alleged settlement and, as a basis of a counterclaim, certain damage to machinery, held, proper. Brewer v. Wright, 25 Neb. 305 (41 N. W. 159).

36. (1894.) Instructions as to payment by note, in an action on an account, held to properly present the issues in the case. Howell Lumber Co. v. Campbell, 38 Neb. 567 (57 N. W. 383).

37. (1896. In an action to recover an account for personal services, instructions examined, and held to propertly state the issues; and evidence examined and held to sustain the verdict. O'Brien v. Parsons, 49 Neb. 729 (68 N. W. 1020).

38. (1899.) Where, in an action on an account, payment is pleaded, it is proper to instruct the jury that they may consider evidence in regard to prior related transactions between the parties to aid them in determining whether the plea is sustained. Ottens v. Fred Krug Brewing Co., 58 Neb. 331 (78 N. W. 622).

Verdict.

39. (1893.) The evidence being in writing and practically undisputed as to the amount due the plaintiff, a verdict for a sum greatly less cannot be sustained. Porter v. Sherman County Banking Co., 36 Neb. 271; 40 Neb. 274 (54 N. W. 424; 58 N. W. 721).

40. (1897.) In an action for labor performed in the improvement of a highway upon request of one claiming to represent a principal having no legal existence, damages assessed in plaintiff's favor to the amount of $427.92 not excessive. Learn v. Upstill, 52 Neb. 271 (72 N. W. 213).

Judgment.

41. (1888.) In an action on an account the items of the account had nearly all been furnished more than four years prior to the commencement of the suit; the plaintiff's testimony was to the effect that the debt had been contracted under a special contract providing for the payments to be made for a part of the material within thirty days after it was furnished, the remainder when defendant's dwelling-house was completed; the demand for that which had been furnished on the thirty days' credit was barred by the statute of limitations at the time of the commencement of the action. Held, That, if this testimony was correct, the district court erred in rendering judgment for the whole claim. Ashby v. Washburn, 23 Neb. 571 (37 N. W. 267).

42. (1893.) Where the answer admits there is due the plaintiff a certain sum, much smaller than claimed in the petition, and all the averments of new matter in the answer are unequivocally denied by the reply, judgment must be for at least the amount admitted to be due. The allowance of costs being discretionary, none are taxed as incident to the above judgment, because of the confused condition of said issues as presented in the district court. McConnell

Digitized by Google

v. First Nat. Bank of Lincoln, 38 Neb. 252 (56 N. W. 1013).

Review.

43. (1885.) In an action on an account, where a jury is waived and a trial had to the court, if the judgment is not supported by the evidence it will be set aside. Hunt v. Mewis, 17 Neb. 422 (23 N. W. 10).

44. (1885.) In an action on an account to which the defense of settlement is set up, and the jury believes a disputed account has been settled and renders a verdict accordingly, such verdict will not be disturbed. Johnson v. Ellis, 17 Neb. 608 (24 N. W. 214).

45. (1888.) Where, in an action on an account and set-off, the testimony is nearly equally balanced, the verdict will not be set aside as being against the weight of evidence. Camp & Compton v. Sadler, 22 Neb. 732 (36 N. W. 144).

ACCOUNT STATED.

ANALYSIS.

Nature and definition, §§ 1-4.
Express promise to pay, §§ 5, 6.
Fraud, mistake, and correction, §§ 7-9.
Conclusiveness, § 10.
Failure to object, §§ 11, 12.
Usury as a defense, § 13.
Interest on account, § 14.
Pleading, §§ 15, 16.
Evidence, §§ 17-21.
Instructions, §22.

CROSS REFERENCES.

See, also, Account; Account, Action On.

Nature and definition.

1. (1900.) An account stated is merely an agreement between persons who have had previous transactions, fixing the amount due as the result of an accounting. Jorgensen v. Kingsley, 60 Neb. 44 (82 N. W. 104).

2. (1896.) An account stated is an agreement between persons who have had previous dealings determining the amount due by reason of such transactions. Hendrix v. Kirkpatrick, 48 Neb. 670 (67 N. W. 759).

3. (1904.) In stating an account, as in making any other agreement, the minds of the parties must meet, and the transaction must be understood by the parties as a final adjustment of the respective demands between them, and the amount then due. Haish v. Dillon, 71 Neb. 290 (98 N. W. 818).

4. (1886.) An account stated is an agreement between persons who have had previous transactions, fixing the amount due in respect to such transactions. As distinguished from a mere admission or acknowledgment it is a new cause of action. It is not a contract upon a new consideration and does not create an estoppel, but establishes prima facie the accuracy of the items charged without further proof. McKinister v. Hitchcock, 19 Neb. 100 (26 N. W. 705).

Express promise to pay.

5. (1880.) An account stated is an agreement between the parties to an account that all the items thereof are correct. In an action to recover the balance due upon such account, it is not necessary for the plaintiff to prove an express promise by the defendant to pay the same. Claire v. Claire, 10 Neb. 54 (4 N. W. 411).

6. (1896.) The rendering of an account between parties and agreeing upon the amount due as appearing therefrom will support an action for the balance thereby shown without an express promise to pay. Hendrix v. Kirkpatrick, 48 Neb. 670 (67 N. W. 759).

Fraud, mistake, and correction.

7. (1883.) A settled account is prima facie correct, and it will not be disturbed except for fraud or mistake in the settlement. But if fraud or mistake is shown the settlement will to that extent be considered as having been made upon mistake or imposition, and the omissions and mistakes will be corrected. Kennedy v. Goodman, 14 Neb. 585 (16 N. W. 834).

8. (1886.) Proof that a banker concealed the real condition of a depositor's account and failed to credit him with certain deposits and charged him with items with which he was not chargeable, will vitiate an account stated; and the question of fraud is for the jury. McKinister v. Hitchcock, 19 Neb. 100 (26 N. W. 705).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

9. (1902.) Where a settlement is entered into between two parties in reliance on the accuracy and correctness of books of account kept by one of the parties, and it is subsequently discovered that the books have been erroneously kept, and that the party keeping them has not accounted for all the money which he has received, such a settlement will be set aside and a new accounting had although there may have been no intentional fraud practiced by the bookkeeper, and the failure to account may have been due to mistakes alone. Leidigh v. Keever, 2 Unof. 343 (96 N. W. 106).

Conclusiveness.

10. (1894.) An account stated does not bar a recovery for items not within the contemplation of the parties when the settlement was made. Clarke v. Kelsey, 41 Neb. 766 (60 N. W. 138).

Failure to object.

11. (1896.) The failure to object to an account rendered is admissible in evidence as tending to prove an acknowledgment of its correctness, its weight or sufficiency for such purpose being a question of fact for the consideration of the jury. Hendrix v. Kirkpatrick, 48 Neb. 670 (67 N. W. 759).

12. (1898.) Where the relation of debtor and creditor exists an account rendered and not objected to within a reasonable time will be regarded as prima facie correct. Missouri P. R. Co. v. Palmer, 55 Neb. 559 (76 N. W. 169).

Usury as defense.

13. (1900.) In an action on an account stated, the defense of usury is avoidable without alleging that the balance due was agreed to in consequence of fraud or mistake. Jorgensen v. Krinksley, 60 Neb. 44 (82 N. W. 104).

Interest on account.

14. (1887.) Where an action is prosecuted upon an account stated by a defendant, and in which he charges himself with interest on money in his hands at the rate of ten per cent. per annum, this will imply a promise to pay interest at that rate, if the proof shows the statement to have the effect of an account stated. Savage v. Aiken, 21 Neb. 605 (33 N. W. 241).

Pleading.

15. (1880.) When the petition states a cause of action on an account stated between the plaintiff and defendant, and further that for the balance due upon the stated account the defendant executed and delivered to the plaintiff a promissory note, but a single cause of action is set out. Claire v. Claire, 10 Neb. 54 (4 N. W. 411).

16. (1889.) In an action on an account stated, defendant after a general denial set up for a counter-claim that the amount claimed was for intoxicating liquors, sold by plaintiffs, who were wholesale dealers, without license. Held, That such answer amounted to a plea of confession and avoidance, and rendered proof of their account by plaintiff unnecessary. Gillen v. Riley, 27 Neb. 158 (42 N. W. 1054).

Evidence.

17. (1885.) The prima facie presumption is in favor of an account which has been stated by the parties, and as a general rule it will not be disturbed unless there was fraud or mistake in the settlement which is established by clear proof. Keller v. Keller, 18 Neb. 366 (25 N. W. 364).

18. (1885.) Where there has been a settlement of accounts between parties, and a promissory note given by one of them for the amount found due, the burden of proof is on the maker of the note to show that the settlement did not include debts owing to him from the adverse party. Keller v. Keller, 18 Neb. 366 (25 N. W. 364).

19. (1894.) Where plaintiff sued on an account stated, and defendant denied that an account had been stated, but admitted that there was due to plaintiff a less amount than claimed, the finding of the jury sustaining the defendant's averments will not be disturbed when, as in this case, they are sustained by competent evidence, no error of law having occurred on the trial. Sterling Lumber Co. v. Stinson, 41 Neb. 368 (59 N. W. 888).

20. (1903.) When suit is brought on an account stated, plaintiff can only recover by showing both the account and an unqualified assent of defendant to its correctness. Cahill, Swift Mfg. Co. v. Morrisey Plumbing Co., 3 Unof. 865 (93 N. W. 204).

21. (1896.) Verdict for defendant, in error, who sued to recover upon an account stated, held, from an examination of the evidence, to be warranted thereby. Hen- driz v. Kirkpatrick, 48 Neb. 670 (67 N. W. 759).

Digitized by Google

Instructions.

22. (1893.) An instruction, "When a settlement is made, and a promissory note is given as a result of the settlement, the giving of the note is prima facie evidence that all matters in difference between the parties at the time of the settlement were settled in the settlement; and this presumption must prevail until a preponderance of the evidence shows that there were matters in the difference at the time between the parties that were not included in such settlement," held, applicable to the testimony and not erroneous. Wagner v. Ladd, 38 Neb. 161 (56 N. W. 891).

www.hzbook.com.cn

ACCRETION.

See Water and Watercourses, §§ 61-69.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

ANALYSIS.

Nature and functions, §§ 1-3.
Statutory provisions, §§ 4, 5.
Necessity of acknowledgment, §§ 6-12.
Nature of officer's act, § 13.
Authority to take, §§ 14, 15.
——— Disqualification of officer to take, §§ 16-21.
Requisites and sufficiency, in general, §§ 22-25.
——— Necessity to show when officer's commission expires, §§ 26, 27.
——— Voluntary act, §§ 28-30.
——— Identity of grantor, § 31.
Conclusiveness, §§ 32, 33.
Defects and irregularities, §§ 34, 35.
Acknowledgment of officer not using seal, § 36.
Foreign acknowledgment, §§ 37-41.
Parol evidence to show acknowledgment, § 42.
Changing description of property after acknowledgment, § 43.
Impeachment of acknowledgment, §§ 44, 45.
——— Weight and sufficiency of evidence, §§ 46-53.
Admissibility in evidence, §§ 54-57.

CROSS REFERENCES.

Of assignment for benefit of creditors, see Assignment for Benefit of Creditors, §§ 33-35.

Acknowledgment of illegitimate child, see Bastards, §§ 3-6.

Of chattel mortgage, see Chattel Mortgages, §§ 40, 41.

Of dedication of land to public, see Dedication, § 2.

Acknowledgment of debt as tolling running of statute of limitations, see Limitations of Actions, §§ 120-138.

Of conveyance of homestead, see Homesteads, §§ 114-116.

Necessity of seal to acknowledgment, see Notaries, §§ 7-9.

Nature and functions.

1. (1896.) The functions of an acknowledgment to a deed are twofold: (1) To authorize the deed to be given in evidence without further proof of its execution; (2) to entitle it to be recorded; and unless the real estate conveyed or incumbered the homestead of the grantors, an acknowledgment is not essential to the validity of the conveyance. Horbach v. Tyrrell, 48 Neb. 514 (67 N. W. 485; 37 L. R. A. 434).

2. (1878.) The functions of an acknowledgment are to authorize the deed to be given in evidence without further proof of its execution, and to entitle it to be recorded. The acknowledgment is no part of the deed itself. Burbank v. Ellis, 7 Neb. 156.

3. (1899.) The office of an acknowledgment is to furnish authentic evidence that the instrument acknowledged has been duly executed and is entitled to be recorded. Fisk v. Osgood, 58 Neb. 486 (78 N. W. 924).

Statutory provisions.

4. (1896.) Sections 5 and 41 of chapter 43, Revised Statutes of 1866, entitled "Real Estate," relating to acknowledgment of deeds, were enacted at the same time, as parts of the same statute, and being in some of their provisions so repugnant that both could not be executed, inasmuch as they conflicted, the last section—41—prevailed and the other was repealed. Omaha Real Estate & Trust Co. v. Kragscow, 47 Neb. 592 (66 N. W. 658).

Digitized by Google

5. (1896.) Section 5 of an act entitled "Of real estate and the alienation thereof by deed," and relating to acknowledgment of deeds, passed January 26, 1856 (Session Laws, p. 80, ch. 31), as amended February 13, 1864 (Session Laws, p. 58, ch. 12), was in direct and irreconcilable conflict with the provisions of section 44 of chapter 31 of the same statute, passed at the same time, and, consequently, operated its repeal by implication. Omaha Real Estate & Trust Co. v. Kragscow, 47 Neb. 592 (66 N. W. 658).

Necessity of acknowledgment.

6. (1876.) An instrument, purporting to be the deed of a feme covert, without her acknowledgment, is void as to her. It is no deed. Roode v. State, 5 Neb. 174 (25 Am. Rep. 475).

7. (1881.) A deed of real estate executed, witnessed, and delivered, is effectual to pass title, though not acknowledged or recorded. Harrison v. McWhirter, 12 Neb. 152 (10 N. W. 545).

7*a*. (1893.) A deed in other respects sufficient and regular is effective, as between the grantor and grantee therein, to pass complete title even though executed in a foreign state it is there acknowledged before only a purported justice of the peace as to whose genuine signature, official character and power, there is no accompanying certificate of a proper officer having a seal. Connell v. Galligher, 36 Neb. 749 (55 N. W. 229).

8. (1894.) The grantee in a deed of real estate acquires title thereto or execution and delivery to him of such deed, though the deed is neither acknowledged or recorded and be afterwards lost; and a sheriff's deed, made in pursuance of an execution sale against such grantee passes legal title to the purchaser. Connell v. Galligher, 39 Neb. 793 (58 N. W. 438); 46 Neb. 372 (64 N. W. 965).

9. (1896.) A conveyance of real estate, such real estate being the homestead of the grantors, is, unless acknowledged, absolutely void. Horbach v. Tyrrell, 48 Neb. 514 (67 N. W. 485; 37 L. R. A. 434); Havemeyer v. Dahn, 48 Neb. 536 (67 N. W. 489; 58 Am. St. Rep. 706; 33 L. R. A. 332).

10. (1897.) As between the parties an acknowledgment is not essential to the validity of a conveyance, unless the property be a homestead, or for the purpose of barring dower. Linton v. Cooper, 53 Neb. 400 (73 N. W. 731).

11. (1897.) A conveyance by a married woman of her separate property, not her homestead, is valid between the parties although not acknowledged. Linton v. Cooper, 53 Neb. 400 (73 N. W. 731).

12. (1904.) The acknowledgment by both husband and wife of an instrument whereby it is sought to convey or incumber a homestead, is an essential step in the due execution of such instrument. Solt v. Anderson, 71 Neb. 826 (99 N. W. 678).

Nature of officer's act.

13. (1896.) In this state the act of an officer in taking the acknowledgment of the grantor to a conveyance of real estate is a ministerial one. Horbach v. Tyrrell, 48 Neb. 514 (67 N. W. 485; 37 L. R. A. 434).

Authority to take.

14. (1872.) County clerks are authorized to take the acknowledgment of deeds conveying real estate. Franklin v. Kelley, 2 Neb. 79.

15. (1899.) A United States commissioner has no authority to take acknowledgments of real estate conveyances executed in Nebraska. Interstate Saving & Loan Ass'n v. Strine, 58 Neb. 133 (78 N. W. 377).

——— Disqualification of officer to take.

16. (1896.) What relationship or what interest possessed by an officer disqualifies him from taking an acknowledgment must be determined from the facts and circumstances of the case in which the question is presented, rather than by any general rule. Horbach v. Tyrrell, 48 Neb. 514 (67 N. W. 485; 37 L. R. A. 434).

17. (1896.) A notary public is not disqualified from taking an acknowledgment of a mortgage made to a corporation, merely because it is shown that he was at the time secretary and treasurer of the mortgagee, it not appearing that he was a stockholder in such corporation or otherwise beneficially interested in having the mortgage made. Horbach v. Tyrrell, 48 Neb. 514 (67 N. W. 485; 37 L. R. A. 434).

18. (1896.) An attorney, who is a notary public, is not disqualified from taking an acknowledgment of a mortgage made to his client, merely because he holds for collection the claim secured by such mortgage, it not appearing that the attorney had any beneficial interest in having the mortgage made, nor that the amount of his compensation in any manner depended upon such mortgage being made. Havemeyer v. Dahn, 48 Neb. 536 (67 N. W. 489; 58 Am. St. Rep. 706; 33 L. R. A. 332).

Digitized by Google

19. (1902.) A national bank, which held a note for collection, belonging to another bank, of which it was a large stockholder, took a renewal thereof and included in such renewal note an amount of its own unsecured debt against the maker and at the same time obtained a mortgage upon the homestead of the debtor, signed by himself and wife, and acknowledged before a notary who was an officer and stockholder of the national bank, to secure the payment of the said renewal note. Held, That the national bank and its stockholders had a direct pecuniary and beneficial interest in the transaction and hence the acknowledgment was void. Wilson v. Griess, 64 Neb. 792 (90 N. W. 866).

20. (1904.) A clerk in a private bank, who is the son-in-law of the owner of the bank, and who although designated as cashier has no pecuniary interest in the bank except salary, is not disqualified by interest, from taking an acknowledgment as notary to a mortgage given to the bank. Banking House of A. Castetter v. Stewart, 70 Neb. 815 (98 N. W. 34).

21. (1902.) On the grounds of public policy an officer is disqualified from taking the acknowledgment of a mortgage given to secure an indebtedness, evidenced by a note, of which he is the real owner. Hedbloom v. Pierson, 2 Unof. 799 (90 N. W. 218).

Requisites and sufficiency in general.

22. (1878.) A certificate of acknowledgment is sufficient if it shows that the requirements of the statute have been complied with in substance. Burbank v. Ellis, 7 Neb. 156.

23. (1882.) A certificate of acknowledgment, in which it was shown that the grantors appeared and acknowledged the instrument to be "their voluntary act," omitting the words "and deed," held, to be a substantial compliance with the statute. Spitznagle v. Vanhessch, 13 Neb. 338 (14 N. W. 417).

24. (1892.) A certificate of acknowledgment to a deed which states that "personally came Catherine Tozier, to me known to be the identical person whose name is affixed to the above instrument as grantor, and acknowledged the same to be her voluntary act and deed," which certificate is signed by an officer authorized to take acknowledgments, and attested with his official seal, is valid. Gregory v. Kenyon, 34 Neb. 640 (52 N. W. 685).

25. (1882.) The exact words of the statute are not indispensable to a good certificate of acknowledgment. It is sufficient if a full meaning intended to be conveyed is clearly expressed. Spitznagle v. Vanhessch, 13 Neb. 338 (14 N. W. 417).

——— Necessity to show when officer's commission expires.

26. (1907.) A certificate of a notary public not authenticated by a statement either engraved upon his seal or written under his official signature of the date of the expiration of his commission or term of office is void. Sheridan County v. McKinney, 79 Neb. 220 (112 N. W. 329). [Overruled, 79 Neb. 223.]

27. (1907.) Failure of a notary to write under his official signature the date when his commission expires does not render his certificate void. Sheridan County v. McKinney, 79 Neb. 223.

——— Voluntary act.

28. (1881.) Under a statute requiring a chattel mortgage to be acknowledged, on acknowledgment "This mortgage was acknowledged before me by P. this eighteenth day of September, 1875," is insufficient since it does not recite that the instrument was executed voluntarily. Becker v. Anderson, 11 Neb. 493 (9 N. W. 640).

29. (1882.) A certificate of acknowledgment to a deed, which showed simply that the grantors appeared before the officer taking it "and acknowledged that they executed the same," is invalid. The certificate must show that the execution of the deed is "voluntary" on the part of the grantor. Spitznagle v. Vanhessch, 13 Neb. 338 (14 N. W. 417).

30. (1891.) A certificate of acknowledgment to a real estate mortgage which does not show that the mortgagor voluntarily executed the instrument is invalid. Keeling v. Hoyt, 31 Neb. 453 (48 N. W. 66).

Digitized by Google

——— Identity of grantor.

31. (1878.) A certificate which shows that "On the 29th day of September, 1862, personally appeared before me, David Dorrington, mayor of Falls City," etc. held, a sufficient statement of the identity of the grantor. Burbank v. Ellis, 7 Neb. 156.

Conclusiveness.

32. (1883.) The certificate of acknowledgment of a notary public, with his official seal attached, is sufficient proof of the due execution in another state of a deed of real estate lying in this state. Galley v. Galley, 14 Neb. 174 (15 N. W. 318).

33. (1899.) When the party executing a deed or mortgage knows that he is before an officer having authority to take acknowledgments, and intends to do whatever is necessary to make the instrument effective, the acknowledging officer's official certificate will be, in the absence of fraud, conclusive in favor of those who in good faith rely on it. Council Bluffs Savings Bank v. Smith, 59 Neb. 90 (80 N. W. 270; 80 Am. St. Rep. 669).

Defects and irregularities.

34. (1901.) A mere irregularity in taking an acknowledgment does not invalidate it. Morris v. Linton, 61 Neb. 537 (85 N. W. 565).

34*a*. (1896.) Where a deed to a homestead from a husband and wife to a third person, the grantee to reconvey to the wife, was actually acknowledged by a notary in Nuckolls county, but by mistake he certified that he was a notary of Webster county where the deed was recorded, the rights of a judgment creditor of the husband are not thereby affected, and the deed having been actually signed, acknowledged and delivered, conveys the legal title. Roberts v. Robinson, 49 Neb. 717 (68 N. W. 1035; 59 Am. St. Rep. 567).

35. (1883.) The objection to a deed, that the acknowledgment was taken before a county clerk, is cured by the second section of the act approved Feburary 24, 1883. Davis v. Huston, 15 Neb. 28 (16 N. W. 820).

Acknowledgment of officer not using seal.

36. (1880.) An acknowledgment by an officer not using an official seal must have attached a certificate of the clerk of a court of record, or other certifying officer, showing that the acknowledging officer was at the time such an officer; that he was acquainted with his handwriting, and believed the signature to be genuine; and that the acknowledgment and execution are according to law. Irwin v. Welch, 10 Neb. 479 (6 N. W. 753).

Foreign acknowledgment.

37. (1876.) A deed of conveyance of land must be executed and acknowledged as directed by the statutes of the state in which the land is situated; if the deed is executed in another state and the statute provides that it shall be executed and acknowledged according to the laws of such state, it must be so executed. Roode v. State, 5 Neb. 174 (25 Am. Rep. 475).

38. (1876.) Where a deed is executed and acknowledged in another state before a commissioner of deeds of this state, a notary public, or other officer using an official seal, the law presumes a compliance with the law of the place of execution, and no further authentication is necessary. But in all other cases there must be attached thereto a certificate of the clerk of a court of record or other certifying officer, under his official seal. Hoadley v. Stephens, 4 Neb. 431. [Overruled to commissioner. 47 Neb. 592-612.]

39. (1881.) When a deed is made in another state the certificate of acknowledgment of a notary public thereto, duly attested by his official seal, entitles such deed to be recorded without further authentication. Green v. Gross, 12 Neb. 117 (10 N. W. 459).

40. (1895.) The first paragraph of the syllabus in Hoadley v. Stephens, 4 Neb., 431, is overruled to the extent in which it relates to the acknowledgment of deeds in another state than this, before a commissioner of deeds for this state. Omaha Real Estate & Trust Co. v. Kragscow, 47 Neb. 592 (66 N. W. 658).

41. (1901.) Under section 6, chapter 73, Compiled Statutes, providing for the execution of deeds in a foreign country, the word "consul" means any person invested by the national government with the functions of consul-general, vice-consul-general, consul or vice-consul. Morris v. Linton, 61 Neb. 537 (85 N. W. 565).

Parol evidence to show acknowledgment.

42. (1904.) That an acknowledgement, by a husband and wife, of an instrument conveying a homestead, or placing an incumbrance thereon, should appear from the instrument itself in the form of a certificate of the officer before whom the acknowledgment was taken, and, in the absence of such certificate, it is not competent to show by parol that the instrument was in fact acknowledged. Solt v. Anderson, 71 Neb. 826 (99 N. W. 678).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

Changing description of property after acknowledgment.

43. (1885.) An officer taking the acknowledgment of a deed or mortgage cannot after the execution of the instrument change the description of the premises mortgaged or conveyed without the assent of the mortgagor or grantor, even to make the description conform to the contract as he understood it. Pereau v. Frederick, 17 Neb. 117 (22 N. W. 235).

Impeachment of acknowledgment.

44. (1885.) A certificate of acknowledgment of a deed or mortgage is prima facie correct, and cannot be impeached except for fraud, collusion, or imposition. Pereau v. Frederick, 17 Neb. 117 (22 N. W. 235).

45. (1901.) The certificate of an officer having authority to take the acknowledgment of a deed cannot be impeached except for fraud, collusion or imposition. Boldt v. Becker, 1 Unof. 75 (95 N. W. 509).

——Weight and sufficiency of evidence.

46. (1892.) A certificate of acknowledgment of a deed or mortgage, in proper form, can be impeached only by clear, convincing, and satisfactory proof that the certificate is false and fraudulent. Phillips v. Bishop, 35 Neb. 487 (53 N. W. 375); Barker v. Avery, 36 Neb. 599 (54 N. W. 989); (1901) Davis v. Kelly, 62 Neb. 642 (87 N. W. 347); (1904) McGuire v. Wilson, 5 Unof. 540 (99 N. W. 244).

47. (1892.) In an action to foreclose a mortgage on a homestead, the acknowledgment to the wife being in dispute, the evidence introduced is sufficient to sustain a finding in favor of the validity of the acknowledgment. Phillips v. Bishop, 35 Neb. 487 (53 N. W. 375).

48, 49. (1901.) The certificate of an officer having authority to take acknowledgments, cannot be impeached by showing merely that such officer's duty was irregularly performed. Council Bluffs Savings Bank v. Smith, 59 Neb. 90 (80 N. W. 270; 80 Am. St. Rep. 669); Morris v. Linton, 61 Neb. 537 (85 N. W. 565).

50. (1903.) Pleading and proof that acknowledgment of a mortgage upon a family homestead taken by an officer and stockholder in a loan company which was agent for the loaner, held not to invalidate the acknowledgment. Gilbert v. Garber, 69 Neb. 419 (95 N. W. 1030).

51. (1904.) The evidence to impeach successfully the certificate of acknowledgment of a notary public must be clear, convincing and satisfactory that the certificate is false and fraudulent. Banking House of A. Castetter v. Stewart, 70 Neb. 815 (98 N. W. 34).

52. (1904.) Evidence examined, and held insufficient to impeach the certificate of acknowledgment of the mortgage in controversy. McGuire v. Wilson, 5 Unof. 540 (99 N. W. 244).

53. (1907.) A certificate of acknowledgment of a deed or mortgage, in proper form, can be impeached only by clear, convincing, and satisfactory proof that the certificate is false and fraudulent; and whilst the making of a false certificate is a fraud upon the party against whom it is perpetrated, yet the mere evidence of a party purporting to have made the acknowledgment usually cannot overcome the officer's certificate, nor will such evidence, slightly corroborated, overcome it. Sheridan County v. McKinney, 79 Neb. 223.

Admissibility in evidence.

54. (1896.) Deed executed in another state before an officer having no seal, to be admissible in evidence, must be certified in the manner provided by statute. O'Brien v. Gaslin, 20 Neb. 347 (30 N. W. 274).

54*a*. (1876.) A deed executed and acknowledged by a justice of the peace, in Virginia, offered in evidence to prove that the grantors had parted with the legal title to certain real estate therein mentioned, is properly excluded, there being no evidence that it was executed and acknowledged according to the laws of Virginia. Hoadley v. Stephens, 4 Neb. 431.

55. (1889.) The date of an acknowledgment of a deed, when dated earlier than the deed itself, will prevail over that of the deed, and such acknowledgment is admissible in evidence over the objection of the discrepancy in the dates. Buck v. Gage, 27 Neb. 306 (43 N. W. 110).

56. (1894.) The record of a deed is not admissible in evidence unless the certificate of acknowledgment is substantially in accordance with the statute. Maxwell v. Higgins, 38 Neb. 671 (57 N. W. 388).

Digitized by Google

57. (1897.) A valid acknowledgment permits a conveyance to be received in evidence without further proof, but one not acknowledged may be received in evidence if its execution and delivery be otherwise proved. Linton v. Cooper, 53 Neb. 400 (73 N. W. 731).

ACQUIESCENCE.

Of use of land as evidence of dedication, see Dedication, §§ 41, 42.

Estoppel by acquiescence, see Estoppel, §§ 95-123.

Of agent's act, see Principal and Agent, §§ 265-267.

Of deed, see Deeds, § 134.

ACTION.

ANALYSIS.

I. GROUNDS AND CONDITIONS PRECEDENT.
Right of action, §§ 1-4.
——— Causes accruing in foreign state, § 5.
Motive for bringing suit, §§ 6, 7.
Abstract questions of law, §§ 8, 9.
Defenses, § 10.
Persons entitled to sue, §§ 11-17.
Persons liable, § 18.

II. NATURE AND FORM.
Nature and form of remedy in general, §§ 19-25.
For the recovery of money only, § 26.
Civil or criminal, § 27.
Legal or equitable, §§ 28-37.
——— Equitable relief in actions at law, §§ 38, 39.
Waiver of objection as to form, §§ 40, 41.

III. JOINDER.
Single and entire causes of action, §§ 42, 43.
Joinder of causes of action, §§ 44-49.
——— Contract and tort, § 50.
——— Legal and equitable, §§ 51-54.
——— Parties and interest involved, §§ 55-57.
——— Manner of raising objections, §§ 58-60.
——— Election or separation, §§ 61, 62.
——— Waiver of objection, §§ 63-65.
Compelling joinder of causes, § 66.
Splitting cause of action, §§ 67, 68.

IV. COMMENCEMENT.
What constitutes commencement, §§ 69-73.
Accrual of cause of action, §§ 74, 75.

CROSS REFERENCES.

Actions in particular cases, or by or against particular classes of persons, see specific topics.

Abatement of, see Abatement and Revival.

Dismissal of, see Dismissal and Non-Suit.

Revival of, see Abatement and Revival, §§ 34-57.

Assignment of right of action, see Assignments.

Who may maintain proceedings for bastardy, see Bastards, §§ 25-28.

For possession of property by mortgagee, see Chattel Mortgages, §§ 201-204.

For alimony, see Divorce, §§ 134-210.

Election of remedies, see Election of Remedies.

Liability for tort for prosecuting legal right, see Torts, § 4.

Compelling action, see Mandamus.

Digitized by Google

I. GROUNDS AND CONDITIONS PRECEDENT.

Right of action.

1. (1898.) The denial to a litigant of a right expressly conferred upon him by statute, which right he has not waived and which he has demanded in due time and in a proper manner, is reversible error. First Nat. Bank of Chadron v. Engelbrecht, 57 Neb. 270 (77 N. W. 685). [Rehearing, 58 Neb. 639.]

www.libtool.com.cn

2. (1901.) The existence of a lawful claim implies, ordinarily, the right to enforce such claim by action. Ayres v. Thurston County 63 Neb. 96 (88 N. W. 178).

3. (1903.) A plaintiff must recover on the strength of his own case, not on the weakness of the defendant's case; it is his right, not the defendant's wrong-doing, that is the basis of recovery. Home Fire Ins. Co. v. Barber, 67 Neb. 644 (93 N. W. 1024; 108 Am. St. Rep. 716; 60 L. R. A. 927).

3*a*. (1903.) The guarantee in the bill of rights, that every person shall have a remedy, by due course of law, for every injury done him in his lands, goods, person or reputation, is not a guarantee of a remedy for every species of injury in respect of such matters, but only for such as result from an invasion or infringement of a legal right, or the failure to discharge a legal duty or obligation. Goddard v. City of Lincoln, 69 Neb. 594 (96 N. W. 273).

4. (1907.) All facts which, taken together, are necessary to fix the responsibility for an injury complained of constitute a cause of action. Johnson v. American Smelting & Refining Co., 80 Neb. 256 (116 N. W. 517).

——Cause accruing in foreign state.

5. (1884.) A cause of action which accrued in Iowa under a statute of that state may be enforced in the court of this state. Delahaye v. Heitkemper, 16 Neb. 475 (20 N. W. 385).

Motive for bringing suit.

6. (1896.) Where one has a valid cause of action against another, his motive in instituting it is immaterial, and the fact that it is inspired by malice is no defense. Jacobson v. Van Boening, 48 Neb. 80 (66 N. W. 993; 58 Am. St. Rep. 684; 32 L. R. A. 229).

7. (1900.) The motive which induces a party to defend a suit brought against him will not be inquired into, but rather his legal rights in the premises. State v. German Savings Bank, 61 Neb. 87 (84 N. W. 599).

Abstract questions of law.

8, 9. (1902.) Abstract questions of law cannot be made the subject of litigation. There must be real parties, and a res in dispute that will become res judicata when the litigation is determined. State, ex rel. Wright, v. Savage, 64 Neb. 702 (91 N. W. 557); (1903) State, ex rel. Kennedy, v. Broatch, 68 Neb. 687 (94 N. W. 1016; 110 Am. St. Rep. 477).

Defenses.

10. (1896.) The mere dismissal of an action and a publication by plaintiff that he did wrong in bringing the suit cannot be shown in bar of a subsequent suit upon the same cause of action. Oliver v. Lansing, 48 Neb. 338 (67 N. W. 195).

Persons entitled to sue.

11. (1888.) The real party in interest under section 29 of the code is the person entitled to the avails of the suit. Hoagland v. Van Etten, 22 Neb. 681 (35 N. W. 869).

12. (1888.) A mere assignee having no interest in the result of suit, but who obtains an assignment upon a promise to pay the assignor the amount he may derive from the action, is not the real party in interest, and cannot maintain the action. Hoagland v. Van Etten, 22 Neb. 681 (35 N. W. 869).

13. (1892.) When an action is brought in the proper name of one of the plaintiffs followed by the words "& Co.," a demurrer on the ground of a defect of parties plaintiff no doubt will lie, but not for want of legal capacity to sue. Brookmire & Co. v. Rosa, 34 Neb. 227 (51 N. W. 840).

14. (1892.) An action brought in the name of James H. Brookmire & Co. is not subject to demurrer for want of legal capacity of the plaintiff to sue. One of them at least, on the face of the record has such capacity, and as the demurrer applies to all the members of the supposed firm it should be overruled. Brookmire & Co. v. Rosa, 34 Neb. 227 (51 N. W. 840).

15. (1902.) While a third party may maintain an action or a defense under an agreement between others made for his benefit, it must appear that there was an intent by the promisee or person with whom the agreement was made to secure some benefit to such third party, and, also, that there existed some privity between the promisee and the party to be benefited. Frerking v. Thomas, 64 Neb. 193 (89 N. W. 1095).

Digitized by Google

16. (1904.) The courts will not entertain a controversy concerning the title or right of possession of real or personal property, except at the instance of some person or persons having or claiming a right thereto derived from, or recognized by, the laws of this state or of the United States. Bonacum v. Murphy, 71 Neb. 487 (104 N. W. 180).

17. (1904.) Whether a liability arising from a breach of a duty prescribed by statute or ordinance accrues for the benefit of an individual specially injured thereby, or whether such liability is exclusively of a public character, depends upon the nature of the duty enjoined and the benefits to be derived from its performance. Frontier Steam Laundry Co. v. Connolly, 72 Neb. 767 (101 N. W. 995; 68 L. R. A. 425).

Persons liable.

18. (1883.) As a general rule, no one can be subjected to a suit and judgment at law unless he, or one whose legal representative he is, has done some unlawful act, either of commission or omission, or failed in the discharge of some duty. Jones v. Duras, 14 Neb. 40 (14 N. W. 537).

II NATURE AND FORM.

Nature of habeas corpus proceedings, see Habeas Corpus, §§ 1-8.

Nature of action for conversion, see Trover and Conversion, § 20.

Nature and form of remedy in general.

19. (1881.) Under the code there is but one form of action, and that consists of a statement of the facts constituting the cause of action. Rhea v. Reynolds, 12 Neb. 128 (10 N. W. 549).

20. (1881.) The very object of the code is to abolish the technical rules that prevailed previous to its existence, by which the rights of parties were frequently sacrificed. Rhea v. Reynolds, 12 Neb. 128 (10 N. W. 549).

21. (1882.) Where a statute, which confers the means of acquiring a right, prescribes an adequate special mode of determining, by a judicial investigation, the fact upon which the right depends, that mode is exclusive. Tierney v. Cornell, 3 Neb. 267.

22. (1891.) When a statute gives a right that did not before exist, and it prescribes a remedy for its enforcement, that remedy is exclusive. Blain v. Wilson, 32 Neb. 302 (49 N. W. 224).

23. (1894.) It is not material by what name, or whether by any, an action under the code is designated. The pleader should state the facts, and if they constitute a cause of action, the law affords the remedy without reference to the form of the action. Skinner v. Skinner, 38 Neb. 756 (57 N. W. 534).

24. (1896.) Under our system of pleading the nature of an action is determined not alone by the prayer for relief, but also from the character of the facts alleged. Stephens v. Harding, 48 Neb. 659 (67 N. W. 746).

25. (1896.) The term "action" is applicable to almost any proceedings in court, by which one pursues that remedy which the law affords him. Gibson v. Sidney, 50 Neb. 12 (69 N. W. 314).

For the recovery of money only.

26. (1879.) An action for the recovery of money only is one where it is sought to reduce a debt to judgment upon which an execution may issue and be levied upon any property of the defendant not exempt. Jones v. Null, 9 Neb. 57 (1 N. W. 867).

Civil or criminal.

27. (1882). The test of determining whether a cause is civil or criminal in nature is to inquire whether the proceedings is by indictment or action; if by indictment it is criminal; if by action, civil. Mitchell v. State, 12 Neb. 538 (11 N. W. 848).

Legal or equitable.

28. (1876.) Although the distinction between acts at law and suits in equity has by statute been abolished, a purely legal claim must be determined by the rules of a law court, while claims of an equitable nature must be determined according to the rules of equity. Wilcox v. Saunders, 4 Neb. 569.

29. (1881.) All distinctions between actions at law and suits in equity are abolished except such as inhere in the nature of the case. Rhea v. Reynolds, 12 Neb. 128 (10 N. W. 549).

30. (1893.) It is not the object of the code to abolish existing remedies in cases where no provision is made therein for the prosecution of actions. Cases involving substantial rights, which are clearly outside the provision of the code, may be prosecuted in accordance with the practice previously recognized in courts of common law and equity. Smithson v. Smithson, 37 Neb. 535 (56 N. W. 300; 40 Am. St. Rep. 504).

www.libtool.com.cn
Digitized by Google

31. (1897.) One pleading facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action may have proper relief, whether the cause is denominated an action at law or a suit in equity. Alter v. Bank of Stockham, 53 Neb. 223 (73 N. W. 667).

32. (1898.) The distinction between law and equity is not abolished in this state. Section 2 of the code of civil procedure, however, provides that there shall be but one form of action, called a "civil action," in which rules of law or doctrines of equity may, under proper pleading and proper states of facts, either or both be enforced. Hopkins v. Washington County, 56 Neb. 596 (77 N. W. 53).

33. (1899.) The nature of an action, whether legal or equitable, is determinable from its main object as disclosed by the averments of the pleading and the relief sought. Lett v. Hammond, 59 Neb. 339 (80 N. W. 1042).

34. (1899.) An action for breach of an agreement to purchase land at judicial sale, manage and sell the same, and account to the judgment debtor for the surplus over certain liens, is a law action in which plaintiff is entitled to a jury, although it involves an accountng. Lett v. Hammond, 59 Neb. 339 (80 N. W. 1042).

35. (1902.) When the jurisdiction of the district court is invoked, either by an action at law, or a suit in equity, its judgment or decree can not be successfully assailed for want of jurisdiction, on the ground that an issue triable to a jury was tried to the court. Bannard v. Duncan, 65 Neb. 179 (90 N. W. 947).

36. (1903.) Applications for equitable relief on the probate side of the county court in matters within the exclusive jurisdiction of that court, are to be deemed suits in equity, and are governed by the general rules of pleading applicable to such suits in the district court. Genau v. Abbott, 68 Neb. 117 (93 N. W. 942).

37. (1904.) A single creditor cannot maintain an action at law against a part of the stockholders of an insolvent corporation for a violation of the provisions of section 136, chapter 16 of the Compiled Statutes. Such action should be brought in equity, by the receiver if there be one, or by a creditor on his own behalf, and for all the other creditors similarly situated, against all of the stockholders of the corporation. Emanuel v. Barnard, 71 Neb. 756 (99 N. W. 666).

Equitable relief in action at law.

38. (1894.) Where an action is begun in the district court by a petition seeking legal relief, there being an answer praying for equitable relief, and a trial by jury being waived, an objection to a judgment granting equitable relief upon the ground that the action was at law is not well founded. The district courts are courts of general legal and equitable jurisdiction, no forms of action are recognized, and the court has power to administer either legal or equitable relief according as the pleadings warrant and the proof requires. Kirkwood v. First Nat. Bank of Hastings, 40 Neb. 484 (58 N. W. 1016; 42 Am. St. Rep. 683; 24 L. R. A. 444).

39. (1904.) In an action at law, a prayer for equitable relief is of no avail, unless the petition states facts which will authorize the court to grant such relief. Emanuel v. Barnard, 71 Neb. 756 (99 N. W. 666).

Waiver of objection as to form.

40. (1887.) Where parties have made up the issues in a case without objection to the particular form of the action, they will be held to have waived any errors in that regard. Downie v. Ladd, 22 Neb. 531 (35 N. W. 388).

41. (1902.) A party defendant in an action to quiet title, cannot be heard to complain that the action was brought on the equiy side of he docket, when by his answer he has invoked the action of the court in his own behalf. McBride v. Whitaker, 65 Neb. 137 (90 N. W. 966).

III. JOINDER.

Of action for false imprisonment and malicious prosecution, see False Imprisonment, § 15.

Causes in malicious prosecution, see Malicious Prosecution, §§ 43, 44.

Of parties or causes in mandamus, see Mandamus, § 45.

Of claim for overcharge with action for damage for delay in shipment, see Carriers, § 84*a*.

Of contempt with action for malpractice against attorney, see Contempt, § 49.

Misjoinder of actions against trustee, see Trusts, §§ 187, 188.

Demurrer for misjoinder of causes of action, see Pleading, § 224.

Single and entire causes of action.

42. (1904.) A petition in an action on a bond by a gas company to indemnify a city from loss by reason of excavations in streets, to recover the amount of a judgment recovered against the city by personal injuries sustained by driving into such an excavation, setting out the bond and making the sureties parties defendant, states but a single cause of action and not demurrable for improper joinder of causes of action. Omaha Gas Co. v. City of South Omaha, 71 Neb. 115 (98 N. W. 437).

Digitized by Google

43. (1904.) A single transaction, causing a single item of damage, constitutes a single cause of action. Otoe County v. Dorman, 71 Neb. 408 (98 N. W. 1064).

Joinder of causes of action.

44. (1887.) A cause of action against a county treasurer for his act in seizing and selling plaintiff's house and improvements for taxes may be joined with one based on the act of his deputy in seizing and selling grain of plaintiff for taxes. Freeman v. Webb, 21 Neb. 160 (31 N. W. 656).

45. (1892.) An action of ejectment, under our practice, may be joined with one to recover rents and profits. Fletcher v. Brown, 35 Neb. 660 (53 N. W. 577).

46. (1895.) Causes of action for malicious prosecution, for damage to plaintiff by arresting occupants of her place of business, and for slander may be properly joined. Dinges v. Riggs, 43 Neb. 710 (62 N. W. 74).

47. (1901.) Proceedings to set aside a former decree relating to the same matter and a suit to foreclose the mortgage involved, may be prosecuted in one action. Cushing v. Schoenemann, 1 Unof. 482 (96 N. W. 346).

48. (1904.) An action to determine property rights not growing out of the marriage relation can not be joined with an action for divorce, and where such causes of action are joined in a petition a demurrer thereto for misjoinder of causes of action should be sustained. Reed v. Reed, 70 Neb. 775 (98 N. W. 76).

49. (1904.) Where a petition for a divorce contains a second cause of action for the settlement and adjudication of property rights, not growing out of the marriage relation, a demurrer thereto for misjoiner of causes of action should be sustained. Reed v. Reed, 70 Neb. 779 (98 N. W. 73).

——— Contract and tort.

50. (1901.) The joinder of a cause of action in a contract with a cause of action in tort is a misjoinder of causes of action. Commercial Union Assurance Co. v. Shoemaker, 63 Neb. 173 (88 N. W. 156).

——— Legal and equitable.

51. (1877.) Legal and equitable causes of action may be properly joined whenever they fall within section 87 of the civil code. Turner v. Althaus, 6 Neb. 54.

52. (1877.) Legal and equitable causes of action may be properly joined whenever they fall within section 87 of the code of civil procedure. This section of the statute is not in conflict with section 9, article VI of the constitution, by which district courts are given "both chancery and common law jurisdiction." Turner v. Althaus, 6 Neb. 54.

53. (1880.) Under certain statutory restrictions legal and equitable causes of action may be joined in the same suit, but they must be existing, not merely prospective, causes of action. Weinland v. Cochran, 9 Neb. 480 (4 N. W. 67).

54. (1888.) Where a cause of action in equity is set forth in a petition—as to remove a cloud from the title of real estate—and in the second count facts to show the plaintiff's right to an action of ejectment are pleaded, both being for the same tract of land, a demurrer on the ground of misjoinder will not lie. Keens v. Gaslin, 24 Neb. 310 (38 N. W. 797).

——— Parties and interests involved.

55. (1899.) Two causes of action on two separate contracts cannot be united in one petition unless each cause of action affects all parties made defendants. Barry v. Wachosky, 57 Neb. 534 (77 N. W. 1080).

56. (1902.) The mere fact that two distinct and several contracts with two different persons are for the performance of the same service, will not authorize causes of action against such persons upon their several contracts to be joined in one action. Stewart v. Rosengren, 66 Neb. 445 (92 N. W. 586).

57. (1906.) In an action by several plaintiffs against a bank for an accounting on certificates of deposit, where it is evident from the petition that assignments of fractional parts of the separate demands have been made by each plaintiff to his coplaintiffs, and that the interest of each in the total sum is equal to the amount of the certificate originally held by him, and that the purpose of such assignments was to enable them to join in a single action, a demurrer for misjoinder of causes of action was properly sustained. Strawn v. First Nat. Bank of Humboldt, 77 Neb. 414 (109 N. W. 384).

Digitized by Google

——Manner of raising objections.

58. (1898.) A demurrer does not reach the commingling of two causes of action in a single count, where they are of such character that they may be joined. Ponca Mill Co. v. Mikesell, 55 Neb. 98 (75 N. W. 46).

59. (1902.) An answer setting up facts which go to show a misjoinder of causes of action, but are also material to the merits, no specific objection being made to the misjoinder, will not be taken to raise such defeat. Leavitt v. Mercer Co., 64 Neb. 31 (89 N. W. 426).

60. (1904.) After a demurrer for a misjoinder of causes of action has been sustained, and the plaintiff files a new petition, and again inserts therein allegations relating to the second cause of action, a motion to strike such allegations should be sustained, and the objectionable matter thus eliminated from the pleading. Reed v. Reed, 70 Neb. 779 (98 N. W. 73).

——Election or separation.

61. (1890.) When there is a misjoinder of causes of action, the plaintiff should be required either to elect upon which cause of action he will proceed, or file a separate petition for each cause of action. When such petitions are filed, an action should be docketed for each petition. Alexander v. Thacher, 30 Neb. 614 (46 N. W. 825).

61*a*. (1895.) Error cannot be predicated on the refusal of a district court to compel the plaintiff to elect on which one of two causes of action set out in his petition he will proceed to trial when the two causes of action are identical. The remedy of a defendant in such a case is to move the court to strike out one of the causes of action as surplusage. Pollock v. Whipple, 45 Neb. 844 (64 N. W. 210).

62. (1908.) In case of misjoinder of two causes of action in the same petition, the plaintiff may dismiss one of such causes of action and proceed to trial upon the other. McCague Savings Bank v. Croft, 80 Neb. 702 (115 N. W. 315).

——Waiver of objection.

63. (1877.) If there be a misjoinder of distinct causes of action, if the defendant do not object, it is not within the province of the court to do so. Turner v. Althaus, 6 Neb. 54.

64. (1893.) Where there is a misjoinder of causes of action which plainly appears on the face of the petition, the adverse party should demur for that cause. If he fails to do so he will waive the defect. Porter v. Sherman County Banking Co., 36 Neb. 271 (54 N. W. 424).

65. (1902.) An objection of misjoinder of causes of action and of parties defendant, must be taken before going to trial or the objection will be deemed waived. Curran v. Hageman, 3 Unof. 779 (92 N. W. 1003).

Compelling joinder of causes.

66. (1879.) There is no rule that requires a party to join in one suit several and distinct causes of action, although he may, under certain circumstances, be required to consolidate them. Beck v. Devereaux, 9 Neb. 109 (2 N. W. 365).

Splitting causes of action.

67. (1879.) The rule is well settled that an indivisible demand cannot, at the will of the plaintiff, be separated, and collected by several actions. Beck v. Devereaux, 9 Neb. 190 (2 N. W. 365).

68. (1900.) A plaintiff cannot divide his demand and prosecute by different actions. But this rule does not require him to consolidate independent actions in a single suit. Richardson v. Opelt, 60 Neb. 180 (82 N. W. 377).

IV. COMMENCEMENT.

See, also, Limitation of Actions, §§ 101-107.

When action of attachment is commenced, see Attachment, §§ 243-245.

What constitutes commencement.

69. (1891.) An action is begun by the filing of a petition and issuing summons. Bauer v. Deane, 33 Neb. 487 (50 N. W. 431); Coffman v. Brandhoeffer, 33 Neb. 279 (50 N. W. 6).

70. (1891.) An action is commenced so as to authorize issue of attachment, when the petition is filed in proper court and summons issued with bona fide intent to serve it. Coffman v. Brandhoeffer, 33 Neb. 279 (50 N. W. 6).

71. (1893.) An action is begun in this state by filing a petition in the district court upon which summons is issued which is served on the defendant. Burlingim v. Cooper, 36 Neb. 73 (53 N. W. 1025).

72. (1903.) An action is not deemed commenced, within the meaning of the statute of limitations, at the date of the issuance of a summons, unless such summons is served on the defendant. Reliance Trust Co. v. Atherton, 67 Neb. 305 (96 N. W. 218).

Digitized by Google

73. (1907.) A cause is not pending until pleaded. Hulen v. Chilcoat, 79 Neb. 595 (113 N. W. 122).

www.libtool.com.cn

Accrual of cause of action.

74. (1879.) It is only in the exceptional cases of fraud on the part of the debtor, mentioned in section 237 of the code of civil procedure, that an action can be properly commenced on a claim before it is due. Green v. Raymond, 9 Neb. 295 (2 N. W. 881).

75. (1902.) When an action is brought on the same day that the cause of action arose, it is proper to show by competent evidence that the cause of action was complete before the action was begun. Bank of Miller v. Richmon, 64 Neb. 111 (89 N. W. 627).

ACT OF GOD.

As relieving common carrier from liability for injury to live stock, see Carriers, §§ 139-144.

As defense for delay in transportation of goods, see Carriers, §§ 82, 83.

ADEQUATE REMEDY AT LAW.

As bar to relief by injunction, see Injunction, §§ 5-19.

Effect on relief in equity, see Equity, §§ 39-46.

As relief against judgment, see Judgments, X, A.

ADJOINING LANDOWNERS.

CROSS REFERENCES.

See also, Boundaries; Fences; Party Walls.

Boundary rights, see Boundaries.

Establishment and effect of boundary line, see Boundaries, §§ 15-23.

Damage to, as element of compensation for taking property for public purposes, see Eminent Domain, §§ 75-78.

Damages recoverable for constructing public improvement, see Eminent Domain, §§ 86-126.

Notice to, of street improvement, see Municipal Corporations, §§ 353-357.

Rights and liabilities as to sidewalks, see Municipal Corporations, §§ 660-665.

Right and liability as to obstructions in streets, see Municipal Corporations, §§ 725-729, 731, 739, 740.

Liability for fall of building, see Negligence, §§ 26, 27.

Measure of damage to, for construction of railroad, see Railroads, §§ 131-146.

Damages from overflow from construction of railroad, see Railroads, §§ 73-84.

Duty of railroad to build fence, see Railroads, §§ 186-199.

Enjoining leaving gate on railroad fence open, see Railroads, § 101.

Liability of railroad for injury to animals, see Railroads, VIII, G.

Right to irrigation, see Water and Watercourses, VIII, B.

Rights and duties as to waters and streams, see Water and Watercourses, §§ 1-74, 146-152.

1. (1895.) A proprietor must so use his own property as not to unnecessarily and negligently injure his neighbor. Lincoln & B. H. R. Co. v. Sutherland, 44 Neb. 526 (62 N. W. 859).

2. (1896.) The owner of real property in exercising his own tastes and inclinations as to the character of a building he will erect thereon, has no right to build and maintain a structure which, by reason of defects or inherent weakness either in material or construction, is liable to fall and do injury to an adjoining owner or the public. Kitchen v. Carter, 47 Neb. 776 (66 N. W. 855).

3. (1896.) If a building falls because of defects in material and workmanship reasonably within the knowledge of the owner thereof, and thereby inflicts injury upon adjoining owners or their property or any person lawfully in its vicinity, the owner is liable for the damages ensuing therefrom. Kitchen v. Carter, 47 Neb. 776 (66 N. W. 855).

4. (1896.) Adjoining lot owners may, by grant, impose mutual conditions upon the land owned by each, the mutuality of the covenants being a sufficient consideration for the respective grants; and such mutual covenants should be construed as the grant of reciprocal easements which may be enforced in equity when the remedy at law is insufficient. Barr v. Lamaster, 48 Neb. 114 (66 N. W. 1110; 32 L. R. A. 451).

5. (1905.) One who consents to the uncovering of a portion of the roof upon a building belonging to him, to allow one of its walls which is a party wall to be built higher, cannot recover from his co-owner for damages from leakage, unless he proves that the injury resulted from the negligence of the defendant. Riiff v. Garvey, 74 N. W. 522 (104 N. W. 1143).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

ADJOURNMENT.

See Continuances.

Of term of court, see Courts, §§ 39-45.

In justice court, see Justices of Peace, §§ 129-137.

ADJUTANT GENERAL.

See States, § 112.

ADMINISTRATOR.

See Executors and Administrators.

ADMISSIONS.

Admissibility in evidence in civil actions, see Evidence, §§ 213-259.

In pleading, see Pleading, §§ 140-152, 205-211, 259-266.

Admissibility in criminal prosecutions, see Criminal Law, §§ 295-299.

By demurrer, see Pleading, §§ 259-266.

ADOPTION.

ANALYSIS.

Statutory provisions, § 1.
Right to adopt child, §§ 2, 3.
Effect of decree of adoption, §§ 4, 5.
Modifying or vacating decree, § 6.
Inheritance by adopted child, §§ 7-9.
Enforcement of contract of adoption, §§ 10-14.

CROSS REFERENCES.

Of common law, see Common Law, §§ 1-4.

Adoption of illegitimate child, see Bastards, §§ 9, 10.

Children, in general, see Parent and Child.

Of constitution and amendments, see Constitutional Law, §§ 1-20.

Oral agreement to bequeath to adopted child, see Wills, §§ 24, 34-37.

Statutory provisions.

1. (1902.) The statute prescribing the procedure in the adoption of children should be liberally construed, to the end that the proceedings had thereunder, and the decree of adoption made pursuant thereto, may be held valid; substantial compliance with the requirements of the statute being sufficient to sustain the validity of the decree of the probate court. Ferguson v. Herr, 64 Neb. 659 (94 N. W. 542).

Right to adopt child.

2. (1907.) Our statute of adoption (code, sec. 797) is based primarily on the consent of the parents, if living and accessible, and an adoption without such consent must come clearly within the exceptions contained in the statute. Tiffany v. Wright, 79 Neb. 10 (112 N. W. 311).

3. (1907.) To warrant an adoption under the sixth subdivision of section 79 of the code against the objection of a living parent of the child, it must be made clearly to appear that such parent had abandoned the child for a period of at least six months, and that the party consenting to such adoption has had the lawful custody during such period to the exclusion of all other control. Tiffany v. Wright, 79 Neb. 10 (112 N. W. 311).

Effect of decree of adoption.

4. (1902.) In rendering the decree provided for in chapter 2, title 25, Revised Statutes, 1866, governing adoption of children, the probate judge acts judicially, and such decree has all the force and effect of a judgment, being subject to collateral attack only for want of jurisdiction. Ferguson v. Herr, 64 Neb. 659 (94 N. W. 542).

5. (1902.) The decree rendered by the probate court under the provisions of chapter 2, title 25, Revised Statutes, 1866, fixes the status of the child and its adoptive parents; and when such decree, by failure to prosecute error therefrom, is allowed to become final, it will, if in substantial conformity with the provisions and requirements of the statute, be conclusive upon all persons interested in the proceedings. Ferguson v. Herr, 64 Neb. 659 (94 N. W. 542).

Modifying or vacating decree.

6. (1902.) Under the provisions of section 580, chapter 1, title 16, Revised Stat-

Digitized by Google

tutes, 1866, a decree of adoption rendered by the probate court under chapter 2, title 25, Revised Statutes, 1866, could be reversed, vacated or modified by the district court at the instance of anyone having an appealable interest therein. Ferguson v. Herr, 64 Neb. 659 (94 N. W. 542).

www.lihtool.com.cn

Inheritance by adopted child.

7. (1902.) The decree of a probate court rendered under chapter 2, title 25, Revised Statutes, 1866, conferring upon a child full rights of inheritance from his adoptive parents, will not, in a collateral proceedings, many years after its rendition, and after the death of the adoptive parents, be held void for want of jurisdiction on the ground that the statement of the adoptive parents filed in the adoption proceedings fails in specific language to bestow upon the adopted child equal rights, privileges and immunities of children born in lawful wedlock, where a fair and reasonable interpretation of such statement is consistent with the intention so to bestow such rights, and it is manifest that the probate judge so understood and construed the statement of the adoptive parents, and the parents acquiesced in the decree throughout their lives. Ferguson v. Herr, 64 Neb. 659 (94 N. W. 542).

8. (1902.) A child adopted under General Statutes 1873, chapter 57, title 25, section 797, would not inherit from the adopting parents in the absence of an affirmative statement to that effect in the statement made and filed by them with the county judge, or the use of language which clearly indicated the intention of the foster parents that the child should inherit. Ferguson v. Herr, 64 Neb. 649 (90 N. W. 625). [Modified on rehearing, 64 Neb. 659.]

9. (1898.) Under articles of adoption providing that if the infant should remain with her foster parents until her majority she should receive $500, and bestowing on her "equal rights and privileges of children born in lawful wedlock," held that on the death of the foster parents intestate, before the child reached her majority, she was entitled to inherit as if their own, the first provision not being exclusive. Martin v. Long, 53 Neb. 694 (74 N. W. 43).

Enforcement of contract of adoption.

10. (1894.) An oral agreement of persons adopting a child that any property they might own at their death should be given to the child, it not being stated whether by deed or will, possesses the elements of certainty sufficient to be specifically enforced, where the proof is clear and satisfactory. Kofka v. Rosicky, 41 Neb. 328 (59 N. W. 788; 43 Am. St. Rep. 685; 25 L. R. A. 207).

11. (1894.) An adopted child who has performed her part of the contract may enforce by specific performance her rights under an oral agreement of her adopted parents to will her their property. Kofka v. Rosicky, 41 Neb. 328 (59 N. W. 788; 43 Am. St. Rep. 685; 25 L. R. A. 207).

12. (1906.) Specific performance of a contract of adoption will be decreed. Pemberton v. Heirs of Pemberton, 76 Neb. 669 (107 N. W. 996).

13. (1906.) A written contract of adoption which contains a condition binding the foster parents to make the child "an equal heir to his part of our estate the same as one of our children" may upon a proper showing be specifically enforced against the estate of the deceased foster parent, who has died intestate. Pemberton v. Heirs of Pemberton, 76 Neb. 669 (107 N. W. 996).

14. (1906.) A contract in writing for the adoption of a child, although ineffective as a legal, statutory adoption, may upon a proper showing be enforced in equity. Pemberton v. Heirs of Pemberton, 76 Neb. 669 (107 N. W. 996).

Digitized by Google

ADULTERY.

www.libtool.com.cn

ANALYSIS.

Nature and elements of offense, §§ 1-3.
Statutory provisions, § 4.
Indictment, §§ 5-7.
Evidence, §§ 8-10.
——— Presumptions, §§ 11-13.
New trial, §§ 14, 15.

CROSS REFERENCES.

See, also, Fornication; Seduction.

Sufficiency of proof of, see Divorce, §§ 82, 83.

Criminal conversation, see Husband and Wife, X.

Between parent and child, see Incest.

Validity of marriage, see Marriage.

Competency of spouse to testify against the other, see Witnesses, § 155.

Nature and elements of offense.

1. (1899.) By section 208 of the criminal code, it is unlawful for persons not joined together in wedlock to live in a state of adultery, either secretly or openly, whether they profess to live in the marital state or not. Sweenie v. State, 59 Neb. 269 (80 N. W. 815).

2. (1900.) Under section 208 of the criminal code a single act of sexual intercourse by a married man with an unmarried woman constitutes the crime of adultery. State v. Byrum, 60 Neb. 384 (83 N. W. 207).

3. (1893.) A single act of adultery at a time outside of the period of adulterous cohabitation thus proved is a separate offense, for which the defendant may be punished, although committed within the period of adulterous cohabitation laid in the information. Bailey v. State, 36 Neb. 808 (55 N. W. 241).

Statutory provisions.

4. (1900.) The act of 1875 (Session Laws, p. 2) amendatory of certain sections of the criminal code including section 208, relating to adultery, is invalid, since it contained no provision for the repeal of the sections amended. State v. Byrum, 60 Neb. 384 (83 N. W. 207).

Indictment.

5. (1885.) An indictment under section 208 of the criminal code, against a husband for deserting his wife and living and cohabiting with another woman in a state of adultery must allege the offense substantially as in the statute. Lord v. State, 17 Neb. 526 (23 N. W. 507).

6. (1877.) The statutory offense of wantonly cohabiting with a woman in a state of adultery, is one continued offense, and may be properly charged as having committed between certain points of time alleged will be sufficient to establish the commission of the offense. State v. Way, 5 Neb. 283.

7. (1877.) If part of the time charged in a prosecution for adultery is prior to the passage of the act constituting and defining the offense, such prior time may be treated as surplusage, as time is not of the essence of the offense, and the indictment may be held good as charging the offense from the time of the passage of the law, until the last point of time alleged in the indictment. State v. Way, 5 Neb. 283.

Evidence.

8. (1877.) Upon a charge of adultery in an indictment, evidence of improper familiarities between the parties, both anterior and subsequent to the time the offense is charged, may be received as corroborating proof, after evidence has been offered tending to prove the offense charged. State v. Way, 5 Neb. 283.

9. (1897.) Adultery may, like any other fact, be established by circumstantial evidence. Smith v. Meyers, 52 Neb. 70 (71 N. W. 1006).

10. (1893.) Where a defendant is charged with adulterous cohabitation while living with his wife, proof of such adulterous cohabitation during any portion of the period laid in the information is sufficient to sustain the charge. Bailey v. State, 36 Neb. 808 (55 N. W. 241).

——— Presumptions.

11. (1899.) No presumption of law, either conclusive or rebuttable, arises from the fact that an unmarried man and a married woman had sexual intercourse on one occasion while dwelling together in the acknowledged relation of master and servant. Sweenie v. State, 59 Neb. 269 (80 N. W. 815).

Digitized by Google

12. (1899.) A jury might be authorized in a proper case, to presume the existence of an adulterous relationship from sporadic acts of sexual commerce. Sweenie v. State, 59 Neb. 269 (80 N. W. 815).

13. (1899.) An instruction to the effect that if the jury find that the defendant and a married woman, not his wife, had sexual intercourse during any portion of the time alleged in the information, then the rule of law is that it is presumed that the defendant and said woman had sexual intercourse habitually as long thereafter as she was an inmate of defendant's dwelling house, held error. Sweenie v. State, 59 Neb. 269 (80 N. W. 815).

New trial.

14. (1893.) Newly discovered evidence, consisting of affidavits to the effect of declarations of the complaining witness contradicting her testimony as to mariage, is sufficient to entitle defendant to a new trial. Bailey v. State, 36 Neb. 808 (55 N. W. 241).

15. (1905.) Where the woman, with whom a defendant is accused of having committed adultery, is called as a witness in the prosecution therefor and refuses to testify as to the relations between herself and the accused, comments, by the prosecutor, on such refusal to testify, and charging it as an admission of guilt, is such misconduct as amounts to prejudicial error. Powers v. State, 75 Neb. 226 (106 N. W. 332).

ADVANCEMENTS.

Deduction of, from heirs' share of estate, see Descent and Distribution, §§ 34-40.

Sufficiency of evidence of, to son, see Descent and Distribution, §§ 36-40.

Security for future advances as sustaining conveyance as against creditor, see Fraudulent Conveyances, § 67.

By tenant, see Landlord and Tenant, VII.

See Parent and Child, § 37.

By agent for prinicpal, see Principal and Agent, § 78.

Right of subrogation for making advances, see Subrogation.

As set-off against action for waste, see Waste, § 13.

Presumption of trust on payment for another, see Trusts, §§ 53-68.

ADVERSE POSSESSION.

ANALYSIS.

I. NATURE AND REQUISITES.
(A) Acquisition of right by prescription.
Statutory provisions, § 1.
Persons who may claim by prescription, §§ 2-4.
Property subject to prescription.
——— Property of non-resident married women, § 5.
——— Public property in general, §§ 6-8.
——— Streets and roads, §§ 9-16.
——— Railroad, right of way, § 17.
Intent to acquire title, §§ 18, 19.
Necessity of claim or color of title, §§ 20-24.
(B) Actual possession.
Sufficiency and necessity.
——— In general, §§ 25-28.
——— Improvement and cultivation of land, §§ 29-32.
——— Possession by agent, §§ 33-35.
(C) Visible, notorious, distinct and exclusive possession.
Necessity of, in general, §§ 36-41.
Notice to owner, §§ 42-44.
(D) Duration and continuity of possession.
Time necessary to acquire title, §§ 45-52.
When statute may begin to run against public land, §§ 53-55.
Tacking possession, §§ 56-62.
——— Particular cases, §§ 63-70.

Digitized by Google

Interruption of possession, §§ 71-78.
Recognition of prior title, §§ 79-85.
——— Purchasing outstanding title, §§ 86-92.
Effect of afterwards paying rent to apparent owner, § 93.
Suspension of statutes, §§ 94, 95.
(E) Hostile character of possession.
Nature and necessity, §§ 96-100.
Permissive possession, §§ 101-108.
——— By vendor and purchaser, §§ 109-114.
——— Mortgagor and mortgagee, §§ 115, 116.
Entry and possession by mistake, §§ 117-120.
Validity and sufficiency of claim or title, §§ 121-124.
——— Tax title, §§ 125-130.

II. OPERATION AND EFFECT.
(A) Extent of possession.
Possession without claim or color of title, §§ 131-134.
Possession under color of title, §§ 135, 136.
(B) Title and right acquired.
Nature and extent of title acquired.
——— In general, §§ 137-144.
——— As basis for affirmative relief, §§ 145-148.
——— As against tax titles, §§ 149-153.
Right to transfer, §§ 154, 155.

III. PLEADING, EVIDENCE, AND TRIAL.
Pleading, §§ 156, 157.
——— Amendment, §§ 158, 159.
Evidence.
——— Presumptions and burden of proof, §§ 160-164.
——— Admissibility of evidence, §§ 165-168.
——— Weight and sufficiency in general, §§ 169-178.
——— Weight and sufficiency to prove continuity of possession, §§ 179-182.
——— Weight and sufficiency to prove character of possession, §§ 183-190.
——— Weight and sufficiency to prove recognition of owner's title, §§ 191-194.
Questions for jury, §§ 195, 196.
Instructions, §§ 197-203.

CROSS REFERENCES.

Presumption of dedication of highway by use, see Dedication, §§ 43-50.

Acquisition of easement in general, see Easements, §§ 3-13.

Title acquired by adverse possession as sufficient on which to base action of ejectment, see Ejectment, §§ 22-25.

Adverse possession as defense in action for ejectment, see Ejectment, §§ 44-46.

Establishment of public ways by, see Highways, §§ 8-14.

By tenant against landlord, see Landlord and Tenant, § 36-39.

Liability for rent of claimant, see Money Received, § 5.

By mortgagee against mortgagor, see Mortgages, §§ 211, 212.

Title by adverse possession as sufficient to sustain specific performance of contract to purchase, see Specific Performance, § 48.

Acquiring right in streams and waterways, see Water and Watercourses, §§ 136-161.

I. NATURE AND REQUISITES.

A. Acquisition of Right by Prescription.

Statutory provisions.

1. (1903.) The statute of limitations respecting actions for the recovery of real property, as construed by this court, is not open to the objection that it operates to deprive the owner of his property without due process of law. Linton v. Heye, 69 Neb. 450 (95 N. W. 1040; 111 Am. St. Rep. 556).

Persons who may claim by prescription.

2. (1894.) A corporation chartered by an act of congress and incompetent to acquire title to land in this state may still maintain a possession adverse to all persons except the state. Myers v. McGavock, 39 Neb. 843 (58 N. W. 522); Hanlon v. Union P. R. Co., 40 Neb. 52 (58 N. W. 590).

Digitized by Google

www.tibtool.com.cn

3. (1901.) Where a public road has been established by proceedings under the statute and opened and traveled by the public for more than ten years, the public thereby acquires an easement therein, and the court will not examine the original proceedings for the laying out of the road and determine whether or not they were valid. Lydick v. State, 61 Neb. 309 (85 N. W. 70).

4. (1903.) The husband, while living with his wife, can not gain title to her land by adverse possession. Hovorka v. Havlik, 68 Neb. 14 (93 N. W. 990; 110 Am. St. Rep. 387).

Property subject to prescription.

——— Property of non-resident married woman.

5. (1903.) The statute of limitations respecting actions for the recovery of real property runs against married women during coverture, whether residents or nonresidents of this state. Linton v. Heye, 69 Neb. 450 (95 N. W. 1040; 111 Am. St. Rep. 556).

——— Public property in general.

6. (1881.) A title by adverse possession cannot be acquired against the state. Blazier v. Johnson, 11 Neb. 404 (9 N. W. 543).

7. (1904.) No title by adverse possession can be acquired against the state or general government, nor is land the subject of adverse possession while the title is in the state. Topping v. Cohn, 71 Neb. 559 (99 N. W. 372).

8. (1905.) Prior to the passage of chapter 79, laws of 1899, title by adverse possession could be established in lands owned by a muncipal corporation the same as in those owned by a private individual. City of Wahoo v. Nethaway, 73 Neb. 54 (102 N. W. 86).

——— Streets and roads.

9. (1891.) The doctrine of adverse possession applies to municipal corporations, and one who occupies a street with shade trees for the necessary period acquires an absolute title thereto. Meyer v. City of Lincoln, 33 Neb. 566 (50 N. W. 763; 29 Am. St. Rep. 500; 18 L. R. A. 146*n*).

10, 11. (1891.) When a person has been in the actual, visible, exclusive, and uninterrupted possession of a portion of a street in a city, under a claim of right, for ten years, the title thereto vests absolutely in such occupant. Meyer v. City of Lincoln, 33 Neb. 566 (50 N. W. 763; 29 Am. St. Rep. 500; 18 L. R. A. 146*n*); (1894) Lewis v. Baker, 39 Neb. 636 (58 N. W. 126).

12. (1898.) By adverse possession one may acquire title to a street. Webster v. City of Lincoln, 56 Neb. 502 (76 N. W. 1076).

13. (1904.) As between a city that claims title to land by reason of dedication as a public street, and an individual who shows adverse possession himself and grantor for more than ten years prior to the commencement of the action, the latter is entitled to a decree. City of South Omaha v. Meehan, 71 Neb. 230 (98 N. W. 691).

14. (1887.) Rule concerning adverse possession is applicable to public roads in favor of the public so far as it relates to mere easement. Graham v. Flynn, 21 Neb. 229 (31 N. W. 742).

15, 16. (1900.) Title to part of country road cannot be acquired by adverse possession. Krueger v. Jenkins, 59 Neb. 641 (81 N. W. 844); Lydick v. State, 61 Neb. 309 (85 N. W. 70).

——— Railroad, right of way.

17. (1903.) The general public has the same interest in the preservation and maintenance of railroads as it has in the maintenance of other highways, and the title to a part of a railroad's right of way, while such road is being operated as a common carrier, cannot be divested by adverse possession. McLucas v. St. Joseph & G. I. R. Co., 67 Neb. 603 (93 N. W. 928).

Intent to acquire title.

18. (1897.) In order to creat a title by adverse possession it is not necessary that the occupant make a declaration of his intentions. City of Florence v. White, 50 Neb. 516 (70 N. W. 50).

19. (1901.) In order to establish title by adverse possession, it is not sufficient to show continued occupancy for ten years, but it must also appear that such occupancy was with intent to claim title against the true owner. Beer v. Plant, 1 Unof. 372 (96 N. W. 348).

Necessity of claim or color of title.

20. (1885.) Color of title is not necessary to such right except where it is sought to extend the same beyond the limits actually held possessio pedes. Haywood v. Thomas, 17 Neb. 237 (22 N. W. 460); Gatling v. Lane, 17 Neb. 80 (22 N. W. 453).

Digitized by Google

21. (1890.) Where defendant went onto lots without color of title, and without knowing, or in fact pretending to know, who owned them, but with the intention of acquiring the title by adverse possession, and built a house on them, in which he lived, and knew, or was advised, that ten years' adverse possession would give him the title, he acquired title at the end of ten years of such occupation. Fitzgerald v. Brewster, 31 Neb. 51 (47 N. W. 475).

22. (1896.) It is not essential that the claim of right or title to the land by the adverse occupant should be a valid legal claim in order that the statute may run in his favor. The facts of the continuous possession, its adverse character, and the claim of the occupant to be the owner of the premises are the essential things to vest a title to real estate by occupancy thereof. Lantry v. Wolff, 49 Neb. 374 (68 N. W. 494).

23. (1899.) To acquire real property by adverse possession it is not essential that entry should have been made under claim of ownership, if the occupancy was with intent to a claim against the true owner. Cervenna v. Thurston, 59 Neb. 343 (80 N. W. 1048).

24. (1900.) Color of title is not essential to adverse possession. Murray v. Romine, 60 Neb. 94 (82 N. W. 318).

B. Actual Possession.

Sufficiency and necessity.

——In general.

25. (1886.) The holder of title of unoccupied land is presumed to be in possession; land proved to be partly cultivated will not be presumed to be unoccupied. Real v. Hollister, 20 Neb. 112 (29 N. W. 189).

26. (1892.) To entitle a party to claim by adverse possession, he must have made an actual entry upon the lands and occupied the same as owner. This occupancy, however, may be continued by his agents and servants. Omaha & F. L. & T. Co. v. Parker, 33 Neb. 775 (51 N. W. 139; 29 Am. St. Rep. 506).

27. (1897.) The holder of the legal title to land, of which there is no actual occupancy, is presumed to be in possession. Troxell v. Johnson, 52 Neb. 46 (71 N. W. 968).

28. (1902.) The holder of the legal title to vacant lands is deemed to be in possession thereof. Horbach v. Boyd, 64 Neb. 129 (89 N. W. 644).

——Improvement and cultivation of land.

29. (1875.) Enclosing land with fences and maintaining the same, and cultivation of the land and the payment of taxes thereon with intent to acquire title, is sufficient to constitute adverse possession. Horbach v. Miller, 4 Neb. 31.

30. (1889.) Acts of notoriety, such as building a fence around the land, entering upon it and making improvements thereon, and the payment of taxes on the land, are sufficient to constitute adverse possession. Tourtelotte v. Pearce, 27 Neb. 57 (42 N. W. 915).

31. (1893.) Where land is especially adapted to the purposes of grazing and hay growing, and one claiming ownership thereto has every year for a period of more than ten years cut the grass, and harvested and disposed of the hay from such portions of the land as its character permitted, so using the land in connection with, and in the same manner as he used other tracts owned or claimed by him and adjacent thereto, there being at different periods fences or plowed strips not entirely enclosing the whole, but of such a character as to indicate a connection between the tracts, and where the person so using the land paid all the taxes thereon, and at intervals warned off trespassers and distrained cattle thereon found grazing, such acts constituted actual, continuous, notorious, and adverse possession for the statutory period. Lantry v. Parker, 37 Neb. 353 (55 N. W. 962).

32. (1890.) Where one claiming title to land, broke it up in 1874, and raised a number of crops of wheat upon it, and set out a large number of trees thereon, and cultivated it, either by himself or a tenant, until the present time, he acquired title by adverse possession. Crawford v. Galloway, 29 Neb. 261 (45 N. W. 268).

——Possession by agent.

33. (1893.) The possession of one's agents is, for the purpose of the statute of limitations, the possession of the principal. Lantry v. Parker, 37 Neb. 353 (55 N. W. 962); (1892) Omaha & F. L. & T. Co. v. Parker, 33 Neb. 775 (51 N. W. 139; 29 Am. St. Rep. 506).

Digitized by Google

34. (1893.) One may plead adverse possession and is entitled to the benefit of the statute relating thereto, although he was a non-resident and absent from the state during a portion or all of the period covered by his possession. Lantry v. Parker, 37 Neb. 353 (55 N. W. 962).

35. (1899.) One who purchased a soldier's "additional homestead right" and, under proper powers of attorney, located the same and entered into possession of the land, has color of title to the entire tract described in the receiver's receipt. Draper v. Taylor, 58 Neb. 787 (79 N. W. 709).

C. Visible, Notorious, Distinct and Exclusive Possession.

Necessity of, in general.

Instructions as to elements, see Post, §§ 197-203.

36. (1888.) The statute of limitations will not run in favor of an occupant of real estate, unless the occupancy and possession are adverse to the true owner and with the intent and purpose of the occupant to assert his ownership of the property. His possession must be as owner and adverse to every other person. Colvin v. Republican Valley Land Ass'n, 23 Neb. 75 (36 N. W. 361; 8 Am. St. Rep. 114).

37. (1892.) The possession must be actual, notorious, continuous, and exclusive. and may be by fencing and pasturing the land, cultivation, etc., and the payment of taxes. Omaha & F. L. & T. Co. v. Parker, 33 Neb. 775 (51 N. W. 139; 29 Am. St. Rep. 506).

38. (1902.) One who claims title to land by adverse possession must show that his occupancy has for a period of ten years been open, notorious, exclusive and adverse, and under claim of title as against the true owner and the world. Beer v. Dalton, 3 Unof. 694 (92 N. W. 593).

39. (1893.) To constitute an adverse possession of land, such as, if it continued for ten years, would establish title in the occupant, it is necessary that he should actually hold the land as his own during that period, in opposition to the constructive possession of the legal proprietor. Smith v. Hitchcock, 38 Neb. 104 (56 N. W. 791).

40. (1893.) A plaintiff in ejectment, claiming title to the lands sued for by reason of ten years' adverse possession thereof, to prevail, must prove a continuous possession of said property under a claim of ownership in himself, and that such possession was actual, visible, notorious, exclusive, and adverse to the owner of the legal title. Smith v. Hitchcock, 38 Neb. 104 (56 N. W. 791).

41. (1894.) In order to create title by adverse possession, the possession, in addition to other elements, must be exclusive for the period of limitations. Hanlon v. Union P. R. Co., 40 Neb. 52 (58 N. W. 590).

Notice to owner.

42. (1903.) An instruction that requires defendant's possession, in order to be adverse, to be such as "will bring to the knowledge of the real owner the fact that the one in possession is claiming ownership" held properly refused. Williams v. Shepherdsn, 4 Unof. 608 (95 N. W. 827).

43. (1905.) Occupancy, by an individual, of parts of the right of way of a railroad company obtained by condemnation proceedings, with elevators, granaries, coal sheds and similar structures, used in carrying on his business, and by the company, as a common carrier, for convenience in handling his shipments, will not be treated as adverse or under claim of title, unless actual notice of such claim is brought home to the company, or his conduct is such as will as a matter of law constitute such notice. Roberts v. Sioux City & P. R. Co., 73 Neb. 8 (102 N. W. 60; 2 L. R. A. [n. s.] 272).

44. (1905.) The use of a part of a right of way of a railroad, by erecting fences and buildings thereon, is not of itself notice of an adverse claim of title thereto. Roberts v. Sioux City & P. R. Co., 73 Neb. 8 (102 N. W. 60; 2 L. R. A. [n. s.] 272).

D. Duration and Continuity of Possession.

Sufficiency of evidence to prove continuity of possesson, see post, §§ 179-182.

Time necessary to acquire title.

45. (1885.) Adverse possession of real estate for ten years carries the title to the premises. Haywood v. Thomas, 17 Neb. 237 (22 N. W. 460).

46. (1885.) A party in the actual, open, nortorious, exclusive, adverse possession of real estate for ten years thereby acquires the absolute right to the exclusive possession of the same. Gatling v. Lane, 17 Neb. 80 (22 N. W. 453).

47. (1887.) A party in order to acquire title to land by the statute of limitations must not only have a possession adverse to the true owner, but must occupy the same as the owner during the entire statutory period. Hull v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 21 Neb. 371 (32 N. W. 162).

Digitized by Google

48. (1894.) An easement in real estate may be acquired by open, notorious, peaceable, uninterrupted, adverse possession for the statutory period of ten years. Omaha & R. V. R. Co. v. Rickards, 38 Neb. 847 (57 N. W. 739).

49, 50. (1896.) To establish title to real property in this state by virtue of the operation of the statute of limitations there must have been maintained by the party asserting it an actual, continuous, notorious, and adverse possession of the premises, under claim of ownership, during the full period required by the statute. Twohig v. Leamer, 48 Neb. 247 (67 N. W. 152); (1898) Lewon v. Heath, 53 Neb. 707 (74 N. W. 274); (1898) Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Schalkopf, 54 Neb. 448 (74 N. W. 826).

51, 52. (1902.) An occupant who claims by adverse possession must show that he occupied adversely during the entire period of ten years. Knight v. Denman, 64 Neb. 814 (90 N. W. 863).

When statute may begin to run against public land.

53. (1888.) Where a party entering land has complied with the law in all respects to entitle him to a patent therefor, he is the owner of such land, and until the patent issues the title is held by the United States merely as trustee for his use, and the statute of limitations will run against the party entering the land, or his grantee, in favor of one holding adversely, from the date of such entry. Carroll v. Patrick, 23 Neb. 834 (37 N. W. 671).

54. (1896.) The statute of limitations will begin to run against the title of a party purchasing lands from the United States from the date of his compliance with all the requisites to entitle him to a patent therefor in favor of one who holds adverse possession of the real estate. Dolen v. Black, 48 Neb. 688 (67 N. W. 760).

55. (1902.) As between individuals, possession of land acquired from the federal government may become adverse from the moment the entryman is entitled to his patent. Baty v. Elrod, 66 Neb. 735 (92 N. W. 1032).

Tacking possession.

Instructions on tacking possession, see post, § 201.

56. (1886.) Possessions may be tacked if one comes in under the other and the possessory estates are connected and continuous. Stettnische v. Lamb, 18 Neb. 619 (26 N. W. 374).

57. (1896.) If the adverse possession of the occupant is a continuation of the possession of a prior adverse possessor claiming title, and such occupant claims title from such prior possessor, then the possession of the occupant may be tacked to that of such prior possessor. Lantry v. Wolff, 49 Neb. 374 (68 N. W. 494).

58. (1900.) Possession of one occupant may be tacked to that of another, if one acquired possession from the other, and the possessory estates are connected and continuous. Murray v. Romine, 60 Neb. 94 (82 N. W. 318).

59. (1901.) If the successive occupants of land in fact receive possession from one another, and successively take and remain in possession against all the world by virtue of such transfers as may have been made among them, it is immaterial to the question of continuity of possession whether any valid titles were in fact created by the transfer. Oldig v. Fisk, 1 Unof. 124 (95 N. W. 492).

60. (1903.) A privity must be shown between adverse claimants before the possession of one can be tacked to the possession of the other for the purpose of completing title by prescription. Zweibel v. Myers, 69 Neb. 294 (95 N. W. 597).

61. (1904.) Privity must be shown between adverse claimants of real estate before the possession of one can be tacked to the possession of the other for the purpose of completing title by prescription; but this privity may exist by grant, devise, purchase or descent, and the adverse possession of an ancestor may be taken advantage of by his heirs, if their possession has been continuous with his, exclusive, and under the same claim of right as made by him. In such case, the ouster and disseisin made by the ancestor is continued by the heirs and relates back to his original entry. Montague v. Marunda, 71 Neb. 805 (99 N. W. 653).

62. (1907.) Privity must be shown between adverse claimants of real estate before the possession of one can be tacked to the possession of the other for the purpose of completing title by prescription. Holdrege v. Livingston, 79 Neb. 238 (112 N. W. 341).

Digitized by Google

——Particular cases.

63. (1894.) A purchaser at judicial sale, to enforce a lien, cannot tack the lienor's prior possession to his own in order to establish title adverse to another claimant. Carson v. Dundas, 39 Neb. 503 (58 N. W. 141).

64. (1900.) Possession cannot be tacked to make out title by adverse possession where the adverse occupant did not come in under another, and the deed under which the last occupant claims title does not include the land in dispute or show any privity between him and his grantor in regard thereto. Pohlman v. Evangelical Lutheran Trinity Church, 60 Neb. 364 (83 N. W. 201).

65. (1901.) The possession of a vendee who enters upon land under an executory contract of sale from one having color of title may be taken as that of his vendor, for the purpose of tacking thereto the possession of persons subsequently taking possession under and claiming through such vendor. Oldig v. Fisk, 1 Unof. 124 (95 N. W. 492).

66. (1905.) Where the owner of two contiguous lots of land conveys one of such lots to A, and subsequently conveys the other to B, in a contest between A and B concerning the boundary line between the lots, A cannot, for the purpose of establishing title by adverse possession against B, tack his own possession to that of the common grantor. Sluyter v. Schwab, 73 Neb. 370 (102 N. W. 757).

67. (1905.) The widow's right to possession is by virtue of the marital relation, and will not be construed to be independent and hostile to that of her husband's heirs, unless by some means she brings to their attention the fact that she claims to own the property in her own right and adversely to any right derived through her husband. Larson v. Anderson, 74 Neb. 361 (104 N. W. 925).

68. (1905.) Where during his lifetime a husband took possession of certain real estate, claiming title thereto, and lived upon the same with his wife and family as his home, and before the ten-year period of limitation expired the husband died, leaving his widow who continued to reside upon the same as her home, the possession of the widow may be tacked to that of the husband so as to raise the bar of the statute of limitation. Larson v. Anderson, 74 Neb. 361 (104 N. W. 925).

69. (1905.) Where after the death of a person who was holding adverse possession of real property, his widow continued to occupy it, her possession is a continuation of the adverse possession of the husband, and will not be presumed to be adverse to the claims of their children and heirs. Larson v. Anderson, 74 Neb. 361 (104 N. W. 925).

70. (1886.) Where the purchaser of a lot upon receiving a deed therefor erects a building thereon, and enters into possession, and afterwards sells and conveys the premises, a number of transfers of the property being thereafter made, and the building at times being vacant, but no interruption by and adverse claim to the title of the occupant, the possession was continuous, and after the expiration of ten years the occupant possessed the fee. Stettnische v. Lamb, 18 Neb. 619 (26 N. W. 374).

Interruption of possession.

71. (1886.) The continuity of an adverse possession is not broken by the fact of the property being sold and rented, and at times unoccupied, there being no interruption in the claim of title. Stettnische v. Lamb, 18 Neb. 619 (26 N. W. 374).

72. (1888.) In a dispute as to the boundary lines between two tracts, the leasing by defendant of plaintiff's tract, outside that enclosed by defendant, would not prevent the running of the statute as to the strip in dispute, it being enclosed as part of defendant's tract and occupied by him as owner. Tex. v. Pflug, 24 Neb. 666 (39 N. W. 839; 8 Am. St. Rep. 231).

73 (1888.) Where occupants of land, claiming title, bring an action to quiet title against an adverse claimant, and when the cause is submitted on the pleadings, judgment of dismissal with prejudice is rendered, such judgment against plaintiffs interrupted the continuity of adverse possession. Carroll v. Patrick, 23 Neb. 834 (37 N. W. 671).

74. (1889.) Where defendant, whose inclosed land adjoined land of plaintiff, leased the latter's tract under a verbal lease with the understanding that it was all uninclosed, such leasing does not prevent the running of the statutes against a strip of land belonging to plaintiff and afterwards found to be included in defendant's inclosed tract. Levy v. Yerga, 25 Neb. 764 (41 N. W. 773; 13 Am. St. Rep. 525).

75. (1892.) A stranger who neither has nor claims an interest in the land, or the possession thereof, cannot, by a mere trespass or surreptitious entry, interrupt the running of the statute in favor of the actual occupant. Ballard v. Hansen, 33 Neb. 861 (51 N. W. 295).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

76. (1894.) Where one has been in possession of land, claiming ownership, and permits the land to be sold for taxes, and the grantee in the tax deed, although it was void on its face, enters into possession and remains in possession for a period of more than a year, such possession interrupts that of the prior occupant. Maxwell v. Higgins, 38 Neb. 671 (57 N. W. 388).

77. (1902.) An agreement between adjacent landowners to have the existing boundary line resurveyed, is not such an admission of its incorrectness as will interrupt a claim of adverse possession by either. Baty v. Elrod, 66 Neb. 735 (92 N. W. 1032).

78. (1904.) One holding adverse possession of land which he has inclosed, does not abandon such possession by his failure to have it occupied by a tenant or otherwise for a reasonable space of time, no other person making claim to the property of taking possession during such nonoccupation, and there being no evidence of any intent on his part to abandon his possession and claim to the land. Richards v. Haskins, 72 Neb. 195 (100 N. W. 151).

Recognition of prior title.

Sufficiency of evidence as to recognition of owner's title, see post, §§ 191-194.

79. (1882.) A railroad company occupying land as a part of its right of way recognizes the ownership of the person against whom it claims by prescription, where within ten years preceding condemnation proceedings were commenced and condemnation money was deposited, and the running of the statutes is thereby stopped even thought the proceeding were void for want of jurisdiction. Hull v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 21 Neb. 371 (32 N. W. 162).

80. (1888.) When a railroad company commences condemnation proceedings for a right of way and deposits the condemnation money with the county clerk, this amounts to a recognition of the ownership of the defendant. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Hull, 24 Neb. 740 (40 N. W. 280).

81. (1892.) A railroad company's possession is not adverse when both prior and subsequent to its entering it attempted to condemn the land. Nebraska R. Co. v. Culver, 35 Neb. 143 (52 N. W. 886).

82. (1892.) A railroad company does not hold property adversely when, during the period it commences condemnation proceedings against the owner, thereby recognizing his title. Nebraska R. Co. v. Culver, 35 Neb. 143 (52 Neb. 886).

83. (1897.) One who claims under a tax deed or by adverse possession does not, by causing to be recorded the patent from the United States to another, acknowledge title paramount in that other. Oldig v. Fisk, 53 Neb. 156 (73 N. W. 661).

84. (1902.) An agreement to survey land and relocate the line is a recognition of title sufficient to prevent the running of the statute. Baty v. Elrod, 66 Neb. 744 (97 N. W. 343).

85. (1903.) One claiming title to lands by adverse possession may, before the statute has finally run in his favor, purchase a tax deed to the premises without acknowledging the superior title of the record owner. But if he purchases a tax certificate and accepts payment of the same from the record owner through the county treasurer, such act is a recognition of the superior title. Zweibel v. Myers, 69 Neb. 294 (95 N. W. 597).

——— Purchasing outstanding title.

86. (1882.) A title which one has so far recognized as to purchase for his own protection, and under which he holds possession of the land, can in no sense be properly said to be adverse to him. Vance v. Burlington & M. R. R. Co., 12 Neb. 285 (11 N. W. 334).

87. (1889.) One who is in the adverse possession of land does not impair his right to rely on the statute of limitations, by purchasing the land at tax sale and receiving and recording a tax deed, nor is the running of the statute suspended thereby. Griffith v. Smith, 27 Neb. 47 (42 N. W. 749).

88. (1890.) Where the purchaser of a tax certificate to land goes into the actual possession, fencing and improving the premises, holding notorious and exclusive possession for more than ten years an offer to purchase a quitclaim deed from one holding under an executor of the original owner is not such a recognition of a superior title as to defeat a title by adverse possession. Peterson v. Townsend, 30 Neb. 373 (46 N. W. 526).

Digitized by Google

89. (1891.) A person who is in the adverse possession of land does not break the continuity of possession by purchasing the land at tax sale and receiving a tax deed therefor. In such case, where there is no actual break in the possession, the adverse occupant may rely upon his adverse occupation and also his claim or tax lien. In other words, he may combine all the rights possessed by him in defense of his posession. Omaha & F. L. & T. Co. v. Hansen, 32 Neb. 449 (49 N. W. 456).

www.hbtool.com.cn

90. (1897.) The purchase or attempted purchase of an outstanding title by one in adverse possession, and before the expiration of the statutory period, is not alone sufficient to break the continuity of possession or divest it of its adverse character, although the occupant may believe that he is thereby acquiring the true title. Oldig v. Fisk, 53 Neb. 156 (73 N. W. 661).

91. (1898.) The purchase, or attempted purchase, of an outstanding title by one in adverse possession is not alone sufficient to break the continuity of the possession or divest it of its adverse character. Especially is this so when the attempt to purchase is not made until after the expiration of the statutory period. Webb v. Thiele, 56 Neb. 752 (77 N. W. 56).

92. (1906.) The party in possession of land as owner has a right to protect that possession by the purchase of any outstanding claim or lien against the property. There is not thereby any break in possession, nor does the adverse occupant rely upon his purchase title in preference to the one which he previously possessed. He joins the two together and possesses whatever title both may give him. Wiese v. Union P. R. Co., 77 Neb. 40 (108 N. W. 175). [Appealed to United States supreme court.]

Effect of afterwards paying rent to apparent owner.

93. (1906.) One who has acquired absolute title to land by adverse possession for the statutory period does not impair his title by thereafter paying rent to the owner of the paper title. Martin v. Martin, 76 Neb. 335 (107 N. W. 580).

Suspension of statutes.

94. (1891.) Where plaintiffs * * * claim title through their father, deceased, and it appears that the statute of limitations began to run against him during his lifetime, his death and their minority do not arrest it, and if it has run the full statutory period, the possession of the defendant being actual and adverse from the beginning, plaintiffs are barred of their right to recover. Ballou v. Sherwood, 32 Neb. 666 (49 N. W. 790; 50 N. W. 1131).

95. (1903.) The statute of limitations as to adverse possession, does not run against persons while under disability, such as minors; and an action brought to recover an interest in real estate within ten years after they arrive at the age of majority, is commenced in time. Albers v. Kozeluh, 68 Neb. 529 (97 N. W. 646).

E. Hostile Character of Possession.

Sufficiency of evidence as to character of possession, see post, §§ 183-190.

Nature and necessity.

96. (1883.) Where possession is such as admits the existence of a higher title, to which it is subservient, it is not adverse to that title. Roggencamp v. Converse, 15 Neb. 105 (17 N. W. 361).

97. (1892.) "Hostile," when applied to the possession of an occupant of real estate holding adversely, is not to be construed as showing ill-will, or that he is an enemy of the person holding the legal title, but means an occupant who holds, and is in possession, as owner, and therefore against all other claimants of the land. Ballard v. Hansen, 33 Neb. 861 (51 N. W. 295); (1900) Hoffine v. Ewings, 60 Neb. 729 (84 N. W. 93).

98. (1894.) Where a claimant of land acts under a power of attorney from an adverse claimant, and as such attorney leases the land in the name of the adverse claimant, he and his grantees are by such acts estopped from asserting that the possession of the tenant inured to him and not to the adverse claimant. Maxwell v. Higgins, 38 Neb. 671 (57 N. W. 388).

99. (1900.) Possession for a period long enough to ripen into a title must be inconsistent with constructive possession of the legal proprietor. Hoffine v. Ewings, 60 Neb. 729 (84 N. W. 93).

100. (1906.) "Hostile," in defining adverse possession, means an occupant who holds and is in possession, claiming to hold against all others, not erroneous. Taylor v. Hover, 77 Neb. 97 (108 N. W. 149).

Permissive possession.

101. (1893.) Where the owner of the legal title to real estate occupies the same concurrently with one who entered by his permission without color of title, such possession of the owner negatives any presumption that the other occupied adversely to him. Smith v. Hitchcock, 38 Neb. 104 (56 N. W. 791).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

102. (1893.) Where possession of real estate is the result of an entry upon the premises by permission of the legal owner, such possession will not become adverse until some act is committed by the occupant rendering it so, and notice thereof is brought home to the owner of the legal title. Smith v. Hitchcock, 38 Neb. 104 (56 N. W. 791).

103. (1894.) A license to a railroad company to occupy certain land with its track will not be implied from the fact of occupancy for a long time, without objection on the part of the claimant of the title, the claimant relying on adverse possession during that period to establish his title. Hanlon v. Union P. R. Co., 40 Neb. 52 (58 N. W. 590).

104. (1895.) Occupancy of land by permission of the true owner, under an agreement to pay the taxes thereon, is not such possession as will establish a title by adverse possession. Johnson v. Butt, 46 Neb. 220 (64 N. W. 691).

105. (1896.) A tenant by simply holding over after the expiration of his lease does not hold adversely. Schields v. Horbach, 49 Neb. 262 (68 N. W. 524).

106. (1905.) In the absence of notice or conduct of a claim of title, the erection and maintenance of elevators and coal sheds on a right of way of a railroad without express agreement therefor will be regarded as being with the permission, consent or license of the company, and subject to its right to resume possession of the ground whenever necessity requires its use for railroad purposes. Roberts v. Sioux City & P. R. Co., 73 Neb. 8 (102 N. W. 60; 2 L. R. A. [n. s.] 272).

107. (1905.) The use for agricultural purposes, such as grazing and cultivation by adjoining landowners of otherwise unused and unfenced parts of the right of way of a railroad company, is not inconsistent with or adverse to the enjoyment of the easement. Roberts v. Sioux City & P. R. Co., 73 Neb. 8 (102 N. W. 60; 2 L. R. A. [n. s.] 272).

108. (1907.) One who enters into the occupancy of real estate under contract cannot afterwards obtain title thereto by adverse possession, without showing that his occupancy had assumed an adverse character and continued as such during the statutory period. Lanham v. Bowlby, 79 Neb. 39 (112 N. W. 324).

——By vendor and purchaser.

109. (1902.) Where a grantor remains in possession after a valid conveyance, his possession is presumed to be permissive and subordinate to the grantee, and it is questioned whether he can claim that his continued possession is adverse without showing actual notice to the grantee. Horbach v. Boyd, 64 Neb. 129 (89 N. W. 644).

110. (1902.) The possession of land under an executory contract of purchase is not adverse to the vendor until the purchase price is paid, or until the vendee is entitled to a deed of conveyance from his vendor under the terms of the contract. Beer v. Dalton, 3 Unof. 694 (92 N. W. 593).

111. (1902.) If the grantor in a deed with covenant ot warranty subsequently makes an entry upon the possession of the grantee, there is no presumption that the new possession so acquired is permissive or subordinate to the grantee; and a new title may be established by open and notorious adverse possession, as in other cases. Horbach v. Boyd, 64 Neb. 129 (89 N. W. 644).

112. (1902.) A grantor in a deed with covenant of warranty may acquire a new title, adverse to that of his grantee, by a subsequent entry and adverse possession, and is not estopped from asserting the same by his deed and covenant. Horbach v. Boyd, 64 Neb. 129 (89 N. W. 644).

113. (1905.) A grantee of real estate occupied by a third person acquires no greater rights against the occupier than his grantor had. If the right to bring an action of forcible entry and detention is barred as against the grantor, so likewise is it as against the grantee. Weatherford v. Union P. R. Co., 74 Neb. 229 (104 N. W. 183).

114. (1906.) When one tenant in common conveys the whole estate in fee with covenants of seizin and warranty, and his grantee enters and holds exclusive possession, the entry and holding must be deemed adverse to the title and possession of the cotenant. Wiese v. Union P. R. Co., 77 Neb. 40 (108 N. W. 175). [Appealed to United States supreme court.]

——Mortgagor and mortgagee.

115. (1902.) A mortgee, under a deed absolute in form with a parol defeasance, who goes into possession under an agreement that rents and profits shall go for his care and for taxes, can not acquire title by adverse possession. Decker v. Decker, 64 Neb. 239 (89 N. W. 795).

Digitized by Google

www.lstool.com.cn

116. (1906.) A mortgagor's possession of the mortgaged premises after foreclosure and sale will not become adverse until notice to the purchaser that he is holding in hostility to his title. Abrams v. Taintor, 76 Neb. 109 (107 N. W. 225).

Entry and possession by mistake.

117. (1888.) If one by mistake inclose the land of another and claim it as his own to certain fixed monuments or boundaries, his actual and uninterrupted possession for the statutory period will work a disseizin and his title will be perfect. Tex. v. Pflug, 24 Neb. 666 (39 N. W. 839; 8 Am. St. Rep. 231).

118. (1889.) If one by mistake inclose the land of another, and claim it as his own, to certain fixed monuments or boundaries, his actual and uninterrupted possession as owner for the statutory period will work a disseizin, and his title will be perfect. Levy v. Yerga, 25 Neb. 764 (41 N. W. 773; 13 Am. St. Rep. 525); Obernalte v. Edgar, 28 Neb. 70 (44 N. W. 82).

119. (1902.) In this state, possession may be adverse though the claimant occupies under a mistaken belief that the land is actually part of another tract, and that the true boundary is different than it really is. Baty v. Elrod, 66 Neb. 735 (92 N. W. 1032).

120. (1903.) When one by mistake enters upon and takes possession of the land of another, claiming it as his own to a definite and certain boundary, and continues in the open, notorious and exclusive possession thereof under such claim, for ten years or more, he acquires title thereto by adverse possession although the land was not inclosed. Brownfield v. Bleekman, 4 Unof. 443 (94 N. W. 714).

Validity and sufficiency of claim or title.

121. (1885.) Where possession of real estate is taken under color and claim of title it is not essential to the claim of adverse possession that such title shall be valid. It is sufficient if the instrument purports to convey the title to the party in possession. Gatling v. Lane, 17 Neb. 77 (22 N. W. 227).

122. (1888. Under section 411 of the code of civil procedure, the usual duplicate receipt of the receiver of any land office, or if that be lost or destroyed or beyond the reach of the party, the certificate of such receiver that the books of his office show the sale of a tract of land to a certain individual, is proof of title equivalent to a patent against all but the holder of an actual patent, and is sufficient color of title under which a party may hold adverse possession. Carroll v. Patrick, 23 Neb. 834 (37 N. W. 671).

123. (1896.) Where a mortgagee of a mortgage purporting to incumber the fee, bought the premises at foreclosure and a sheriff's deed was executed, and he took immediate possession, such possession was adverse to plaintiffs who were remaindermen after a life estate, and who were not made parties to the original suit; and such even though the proceedings were void as to the life tenants. Hall v. Hooper, 47 Neb. 111 (66 N. W. 33).

124. (1903.) Where one tenant in common openly denies the title of his cotenants and is in possession of and claims the entire property himself by deed, such holding is adverse. Craven v. Craven, 68 Neb. 459 (94 N. W. 604).

——— Tax titles.

125. (1883.) A tax certificate is not sufficient to constitute color of title to real estate. McKeighan v. Hopkins, 14 Neb. 361 (15 N. W. 711).

125*a*. (1884.) The statute of limitations does not begin to run in favor of the holder of a tax deed by merely recording the same. To avail himself of the benefits of the statute his possession must be actual and adverse and continued for the statutory period. Baldwin v. Merriam, 16 Neb. 199 (20 N. W. 250).

126. (1885.) A tax deed which purports to convey the title of real estate to the grantee constitutes color of title, although it may be void by reason of the failure to recite therein the place where the tax sale took place. Gatling v. Lane, 17 Neb. 80 (22 N. W. 453).

126*a*. (1885.) A tax deed must be valid on its face to entitle the party claiming under it to the benefit of the special limitation of the revenue law. Housel v. Boggs, 17 Neb. 94 (22 N. W. 226).

126*b*. (1887.) A tax deed must be valid on its face to entitle the party claiming under it to the benefit of the special limitation of the revenue law. Bendexen v. Fenton, 21 Neb. 184 (31 N. W. 685).

Digitized by Google

127. (1888.) The possession of a purchaser under a void foreclosure of a trust deed, is adverse to the maker of the deed. McKesson v. Hawley, 22 Neb. 692 (35 N. W. 883).

www.hbtool.com.cn

128. (1893.) A tax deed purporting on its face to convey title to land, although void for failure to comply with the statute, affords color of title under the general statute of limitations. Lantry v. Parker, 37 Neb. 353 (55 N. W. 962.)

129. (1896.) A void tax deed affords color of title in an action of ejectment in which adverse possession of real estate for the statutory period of ten years is relied upon as a defense. Twohig v. Leamer, 48 Neb. 247 (67 N. W. 152).

130. (1901.) A tax deed, or a deed based thereon, is sufficient to give color of title. Beall v. McMenemy, 63 Neb. 70 (88 N. W. 134; 93 Am. St. Rep. 427).

II. OPERATION AND EFFECT.

A. Extent of Possession.

Possession without claim or color of title.

131. (1894.) Although color of title is not indispensable to adverse possession, yet where a railroad company enters upon and takes possession of the real estate of another for a right of way without color of title, such possession is limited to the land actually occupied; and in such case the corporation will acquire a right of way of the width, and no more, which it has so used and occupied for the full period of limitations. Omaha & Republican V. R. Co. v. Rickards, 38 Neb. 847 (57 N. W. 739).

132. (1885.) Color of title is not essential to adverse possession, but where a party does not enter under color of title his possession is limited to the premises actually occupied by him. Gatling v. Lane, 17 Neb. 80 (22 N. W. 453); Haywood v. Thomas, 17 Neb. 237 (22 N. W. 460).

133. (1904.) Where one goes upon land under no color of title, but as a mere intruder, he can acquire title by adverse possession only to so much of the land as he actually occupies and uses for the period prescribed by statute. City of South Omaha v. Meehan, 71 Neb. 230 (98 N. W. 691).

134. (1904.) Where one goes upon land under no color of title, but as a mere intruder, he can acquire title by adverse possession to only so much of the land as he actually occupies and uses for the necessary period of ten years. City of South Omaha v. Ford, 5 Unof. 310 (98 N. W. 665).

Possession under color of title.

135. (1890.) Where a party has been in possession of land for less than ten years under a void tax deed, but he and those under whom he claimed had cultivated a portion thereof for more than ten years, the bar of the statute applied alone to the cultivated land. Lejeune v. Harmon, 29 Neb. 268 (45 N. W. 630).

136. (1894.) Where a party enters upon and occupies land under color of title, such possession is regarded as co-extensive with the entire tract described in the instrument under which such possession is claimed. Omaha & Republican V. R. Co. v. Rickards, 38 Neb. 847 (57 N. W. 739).

B. Title and Right Acquired.

Nature and extent of title acquired.

——— In general.

137. (1875.) The title to land becomes absolute and complete in an adverse occupant when he has maintained an actual, open, notorious, continued, adverse and exclusive possession, claiming title as his own against all persons for the full statutory period. Horbach v. Miller, 4 Neb. 31; (1885) Gatling v. Lane, 17 Neb. 77 (22 N. W. 227); (1885) Gatling v. Lane, 17 Neb. 80 (22 N. W. 453); (1885) Haywood v. Thomas, 17 Neb. 237 (22 N. W. 460); (1887) Parker v. Starr, 21 Neb. 680 (33 N. W. 424); (1891) Omaha & F. L. & T. Co. v. Barrett, 31 Neb. 803 (48 N. W. 967); (1896) Lantry v. Wolff, 49 Neb. 374 (68 N. W. 494); (1897) Fink v. Dawson, 52 Neb. 647 (72 N. W. 1037); (1897) City of Florence v. White, 50 Neb. 516 (70 N. W. 50); (1890) Peterson v. Townsend, 30 Neb. 373 (46 N. W. 526).

138. (1886.) Adverse possession of real estate, if continued without interruption for the length of time prescribed by the statute for the enforcement of the right of entry, is evidence of a fee. Stettnische v. Lamb, 18 Neb. 619 (26 N. W. 374).

139. (1898.) Evidence showing defendant through his grantor has used a strip of land adjoining his premises for the storage of stoves and iron for more than ten years last past vests absolute title in him. McAllister v. Beymer, 54 Neb. 247 (74 N. W. 586).

140. (1899.) One who has been in the actual, continuous, open, notorious, exclusive, adverse possession of real estate under claim of ownership for ten years, thereby acquires a perfect title to the property, which is not divested by the fact that another person thereafter occupied the premises under claim of right for a period of less than ten years. Cervenna v. Thurston, 59 Neb. 343 (80 N. W. 1048).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

141. (1891.) Under our statute of limitations, if a party establish in himself or in connection with those under whom he claims an actual, notorious, continuous, and exclusive possession of land as owner for a period of ten years, he thereby acquires a title to the land, and this irrespective of any question of motive or mistake. Omaha & F. L. & T. Co. v. Hansen, 32 Neb. 449 (49 N. W. 456).

142. (1894.) Where a corporation, chartered by an act of congress, and incompetent by reason of our constitution to acquire title to real estate in this state, has been in open, notorious, exclusive, and adverse possession of real estate under a claim of title for ten years, such corporation has a valid title to such real estate, as against all persons, except the state of Nebraska. Meyers v. McGavock, 39 Neb. 843 (58 N. W. 522; 42 Am. St. Rep. 627).

143. (1903.) It has for many years been the established doctrine of this court that the statute of limitations, with reference to real property, is neither a a statute of presumptions nor one of repose, but that the continued, exclusive, open, notorious and adverse possession of lands for the period of limitations operates, of itself, as a grant of all adverse titles and interests to the occupant. Postal v. Martin, 4 Unof. 534 (95 N. W. 8).

144. (1906.) It is not error to charge the jury that the title to land becomes complete in the adverse occupant when he and his grantors have maintained an actual, continued, notorious and adverse possession thereof, claiming title to the same against all persons, for ten years. Stryker v. Meagher, 76 Neb. 616 (107 N. W. 792).

——— As basis for affirmative relief.

145. (1889.) A party who has been in actual, open, notorious, exclusive, adverse possession of real estate for ten years thereby acquires an absolute title to such real estate, and may maintain an action to have certain deeds which are clouds upon the title set aside and declared void, and quiet his possession in the premises. Tourtelotte v. Pearce, 27 Neb. 57 (42 N. W. 915).

146. (1891.) A party who has been in the open, notorious, exclusive, adverse possession of a portion of a town-site for a period of time sufficient to bar an action against him to recover possession thereof, thereby acquires an absolute title to said land, and may protect his possession by injunction against unlawful acts of the city authorities in attempting to open streets through his land. Schock v. Falls City, 31 Neb. 599 (48 N. W. 468).

147. (1891.) Open, notorious, exclusive, adverse possession of real estate by one claiming to be the owner thereof will give a perfect title thereto, as well for the purpose of enforcing the specific performance of a contract for the sale thereof as for all other purposes of ownership. Ballou v. Sherwood, 32 Neb. 666 (49 N. W. 790, 50 N. W. 1131).

148. (1893.) The operation of the statute of limitations is to vest an absolute title to real property in one who has held open, notorious possession thereof for the statutory period, and may be made a basis of an affirmative claim for relief as well as interposed as a defense. Lantry v. Parker, 37 Neb. 353 (55 N. W. 962).

——— As against tax titles.

149. (1889.) Under the revenue law of 1869 one who has been in the open, exclusive, notorious, adverse possession of real estate for a period of ten years, thereby acquires an absolute title, free from liens of any taxes existing thereon prior to the commencement of said period. D'Gette v. Sheldon, 27 Neb. 829 (44 N. W. 30).

150. (1890.) Where a person has been in the open, exclusive, notorious, adverse possession of real estate as owner for ten years, he thereby acquires an absolute title to the lands free from the lien created by a tax deed on the property, issued prior to the commencement of such adverse possession. Alexander v. Wilcox, 30 Neb. 793 (47 N. W. 81; 9 L. R. A. 735).

151. (1890.) Where a person has been in the actual, open, exclusive, adverse possession of lands as owner for ten years he thereby acquires an absolute title in fee, free from the lien created by a tax deed on the property issued more than ten years prior to the commencement of the action to foreclose such tax deed. Alexander v. Meadville, 33 Neb. 219 (49 N. W. 1123).

152. (1892.) An action to foreclose a tax deed, void on its face, was brought more than fifteen years after the date of such deed. The defendant and his grantors had been in the actual, open, notorious, continuous, adverse, and exclusive possession of lands as owner for more than ten years prior to the bringing of the suit. Held, That the action is barred. Alexander v. Pitz, 34 Neb. 361 (51 N. W. 851).

Digitized by Google

153. (1892.) Where a defendant in an action to foreclose a tax deed has been in the actual, open, exclusive, adverse possession of the land as owner for ten years, he thereby acquires an absolute title to the land, free from the tax deed on the property, issued more than ten years prior to the commencement of the action. Black v. Leonard, 33 Neb. 745 (51 N. W. 126).

Right to transfer.

154. (1900.) The right of one person holding possession adversely may be transferred to another verbally. Murray v. Romine, 60 Neb. 94 (82 N. W. 318).

155. (1904.) The right of one person holding lands may be transferred to another verbally. City of South Omaha v Meehan, 71 Neb. 230 (98 N. W. 691).

III. PLEADING, EVIDENCE AND TRIAL.

Pleading.

156. (1882.) An answer alleging that defendant has been in "actual, open and notorious" possession of property, but which contains no allegation that such possession was adverse and exclusive, is not a sufficient allegation of title by adverse possession. Pettit v. Black, 13 Neb. 142 (12 N. W. 841).

157. (1894.) It is not an essential to the validity of a petition to allege that plaintiff claims under color of title, if the claim of absolute owner is otherwise set out. Lewis v. Baker, 39 Neb. 636 (58 N. W. 126).

——Amendment.

158. (1906.) In an action for the possession of an alleged abandoned highway, plaintiff should be permitted to amend his petition to allege a possession of ten years in place of such allegation of six years. Perry v. Staple, 77 Neb. 656 (110 N. W. 652).

159. (1907.) The failure to allege in the petition that the plaintiff had been in the exclusive adverse possession of the premises for ten years, and of the court to find that fact in the decree, is not material after judgment, where the proof admitted without objection shows the possession to have been of that character. Agnew v. City of Pawnee City, 79 Neb. 603 (113 N. W. 236).

Evidence.

——Presumptions and burden of proof.

160. (1888.) When there is nothing to show that the continued possession of an adverse claimant and his grantors was broken or abandoned, prima facie continued possession is established. Hardy v. Riddle, 24 Neb. 670 (39 N. W. 840).

161. (1887.) In an action of ejectment, where the defendant relies upon the statute of limitations, the burden is on him to show that his possession has been continuous, adverse, hostile and exclusive during the ten years last preceding the commencement of the action. Weeping Water v. Reed, 21 Neb. 261 (31 N. W. 797).

162. (1900.) Where a person claims title to real estate by reason of adverse possession, it is necessary to prove that such person for a period of ten years next before the commencement of the action was in actual, continued and notorious possession of the land claimed, claiming the same against all persons. Hoffine v. Ewings, 60 Neb. 729 (84 N. W. 93).

163. (1902.) Burden of proof to show that owing to the title of plaintiff's grantor from the United States not having been perfected for some years after he took possession of the land, defendant's possession under claim of ownership would not date from the time his possession became adverse to plaintiff's, is on plaintiff. Baty v. Elrod, 66 Neb. 744 (97 N. W. 343).

164. (1903.) A grant of lands may be presumed from acts of exclusive use and continuous occupation for ten years or more, when such use and occupation is accompanied by a claim of ownership. Flanagan v. Mathiesen, 70 Neb. 223 (97 N. W. 287).

——Admissibility of evidence.

165. (1882.) Although a will is not admissible as evidence of title, unless probated, in case of open, exclusive, adverse possession for more than ten years, it may be sufficient as a claim of right under the statute. Pettit v. Black, 13 Neb. 142 (12 N. W. 841).

166. (1883.) In an action to remove a cloud from title to land, where the title relied on by the plaintiff is that given by the statute of limitations for adverse possession during the statutory time, a deed in fee of the land from the plaintiff to the defendant, given more than ten years before the bring-

www.libtool.com.cn
Digitized by Google

ing of the action, is competent evidence, in connection with a parol lease taken by the plaintiff from the defendant, to show that the possession was not adverse. Roggencamp v. Converse, 15 Neb. 105 (17 N. W. 361).

167. (1900.) In ejectment, proof of adverse possession is admissible under a general denial. Murray v. Romine, 60 Neb. 94 (82 N. W. 318); Link v. Campbell, 72 Neb. 310 (104 N. W. 939).

168. (1902.) Evidence of admissions by an occupant, tending to show that his possession was not adverse, which were not made until after sufficient time had elapsed to vest the title in him by adverse possession, is properly excluded. Baty v. Elrod, 66 Neb. 735 (92 N. W. 1032).

——— Weight and sufficiency in general.

169. (1891.) Upon the testimony preserved in the record, held, that the defendant had acquired title by adverse possession. Malcom v. Hanson, 32 Neb. 50 (48 N. W. 883).

170. (1892). In an action for possession of certain lots, upon the evidence presented in the record, the title of the plaintiff by adverse possession was clearly established. Ballard v. Hansen, 33 Neb. 861 (51 N. W. 295).

171. (1893.) The evidence in case stated in opinion held not sufficient to show title in defendant by adverse posession. Sprague v. Fuller, 36 Neb. 220 (54 N. W. 423).

172. (1894.) Evidence that shows a person had fenced in a portion of a city street and has held possession by such for more than ten years last past sustains a finding of title to such premises in such person. Lewis v. Baker, 39 Neb. 636 (58 N. W. 126).

173. (1896.) Evidence examined, and held to sustain finding against the defendant upon the issue of adverse possession of property in dispute. Link v. Connell, 48 Neb. 574 (67 N. W. 475).

174. (1898.) No definite or fixed rule can be framed in relation to what shall constitute indicia of adverse possession; such evidences must necessarily vary and be in accord with the conditions existent in the portion of the political division or subdivision in which the property to which it is claimed applicable is situated in regard to age of settlement, the extent and prevailing manner of cultivation, or use of lands, also the purposes for which the lands are or may be by nature adapted. Lewon v. Heath, 53 Neb. 707 (74 N. W. 274).

175. (1903.) Evidence examined, and held to support the findings and judgment of the district court, that plaintiff had not acquired title by adverse possession. Maxwell v. Odell, 4 Unof. 645 (95 N. W. 840).

176. (1903.) Evidence examined, and held insufficient to sustain a claim of title by adverse possession. Zweible v. Myers, 69 Neb. 294 (95 N. W. 597).

177. (1906.) Where such occupant entered originally without color of title or claim of right, and the acts relied on to show entry and occupation were consistent with a mere intention to trespass from time to time until interfered with by the true owner, his testimony that he intended to take possession and hold and occupy as owner, uncorroborated by acts necessarily indicating such intention, is not sufficient to require a finding in his favor. Bush v. Griffin, 76 Neb. 214 (107 N. W. 247).

178. (1906.) Evidence in an action to restrain defendant from consuming all of a stream of water, that flowed through the lands of both, held not to sustain the defense of adverse possession. Burson v. Percy, 77 Neb. 654 (110 N. W. 544).

——— Weight and sufficiency to prove continuity of possession.

179. (1896.) Evidence in ejectment showing defendant and his grantors have held open possession of more than twenty years sustains a finding for defendant. Lantry v. Wolff, 49 Neb. 374 (68 N. W. 494).

180. (1904.) Evidence that one claiming land by adverse possession held by himself and grantors, who had held actual possession and control for more than the statutory period, sustains a finding for him. Montague v. Marunda, 71 Neb. 805 (99 N. W. 653).

181. (1908. Evidence examined, and on the ground of adverse possession for the statutory period, against a municipal corporation where the city claimed title to the land by dedication as a public street, but offered no proof of this allegation, and the plaintiff showed adverse possession in himself and grantor for more than ten years prior to the commencement of his action, plaintiff was entitled to a decree. City of South Omaha v. Ford, 5 Unof. 310 (98 N. W. 665).

Digitized by Google

181a. (1908.) Evidence examined, and held not to sustain the appellant's defense of title of adverse possession. Jenkins Land & Live Stock Co. v. Atwood, 80 Neb. 806 (115 N. W. 305).

www.libtool.com.cn

182. (1906.) While the fact that one claiming title by adverse possession failed to pay taxes on the land during his occupancy would not of itself necessarily defeat his claim, it is entitled to weight as tending to show that he did not intend to claim title as against the rightful owner. Bush v. Griffin, 76 Neb. 214 (107 N. W. 247).

——Weight and sufficiency to prove character of possession.

183. (1889.) Evidence held to sustain finding that alleged adverse possession of defendant holding under void execution sale, was not open, notorious, adverse and exclusive. Gue v. Jones, 25 Neb. 634 (41 N. W. 555); Noyce v. Jones, 25 Neb. 643 (41 N. W. 555); Noyce v. Jones, 25 Neb. 643 (41 N. W. 558).

184. (1896.) It is the actual, continuous, open, notorious, exclusive, adverse possession that ripens into an absolute title. Payment of taxes by the occupant for a series of years is a strong circumstance, in connection with others, tending to show the adverse holding and the abandonment of the property by the holder of the title. Omaha & F. L. & T. Co. v. Barrett, 31 Neb. 803 (48 N. W. 967).

185. (1894.) Evidence that a roadmaster in charge of the construction of a side track over certain land, when a person claiming to be the owner of the land objected to the construction of the track, promised such person that he would be paid for the land occupied, is insufficient to prove that the company entered under a license from the claimant and in recognition of his title. Hanlon v. Union P. R. Co., 40 Neb. 52 (58 N. W. 590).

186. (1896.) The evidence in this case examined, and held to show such acts in respect to a piece of land not suitable to general farming purposes, but fit for grazing, and a portion of which was what is termed "hay land," as constituted actual, continued, notorious, and adverse possession for the time required by statute. Twohig v. Leamer, 48 Neb. 247 (67 N. W. 152).

187. (1898.) On an issue of adverse possession, where the proof tends to show a continuous exclusive possession for the statutory period by acts indicating dominion over the land, the fact that there was proof of declarations of the occupant indicating that he did not at first claim ownership does not conclusively rebut the inference of a claim of right derivable from his acts. The issue is for the jury. Webb v. Theile, 56 Neb. 752 (77 N. W. 56).

188. (1902.) Where a claimant occupant entered upon land originally without color of title or claim of right, and the acts relied on to show entry and occupation were consistent with an intention to trespass from time to time until interfered with by the true owner, his testimony that he intended to hold and occupy as owner, uncorroborated by acts necessarily indicating such intention, is not sufficient to require a finding in his favor. Knight v. Denman, 64 Neb. 814 (90 N. W. 863); Ritter v. Myers, 3 Unof. 684 (92 N. W. 638).

189. (1902.) Evidence in an action of ejectment held to show that defendant and her grantors originally took possession of the land in dispute as owners, and have ever since so claimed and held it. Baty v. Elrod, 66 Neb. 744 (97 N. W. 343).

189a. (1907.) Evidence of ten years' use by the public of a road through cultivated land without substantial variance, with the knowledge and acquiescence of the owner for a period of ten years, raises the presumption of an implied dedication and acceptance of such road as a public highway. Brandt v. Olson, 79 Neb. 612 (113 N. W. 151).

190. (1907.) The payment of taxes by the occupant for more than ten years, in connection with the actual use and cultivation of the premises, is a strong circumstance tending to show the adverse holding of such occupant, and insufficient to support a finding by the jury that the party was in possession under a claim of ownership. Dredla v. Patz, 78 Neb. 506 (111 N. W. 136).

——Weight and sufficiency to prove recognition of owner's title.

191. (1902.) Evidence offered by plaintiff did not tend to show that an agreement claimed by plaintiff to survey the land and relocate the fence, was made before the lapse of ten years from the time when the ancestor of plaintiff's grantors was entitled to a patent, and was therefore insufficient to authorize a verdict for plaintiff. Baty v. Elrod, 66 Neb. 744 (97 N. W. 343).

192. (1902.) Evidence tendered by plaintiff as to an agreement to survey the land and relocate the line, if taken as true by the jury, held to be sufficient to prevent the further running of the statute of limitations, if such agreement had been shown to have been made before action was barred. Baty v. Elrod, 66 Neb. 744 (97 N. W. 343).

Digitized by Google

193. (1906.) One who buys land at execution and recognizes the owner's right to redeem, with evidence showing that he did not claim title as against the owner, a finding for plaintiff is sustained. Bush v. Griffin, 76 Neb. 214 (107 N. W. 247).

194. (1906.) Evidence showing that letters from a claimant to land by adverse possession that were written by his wife, he himself being unable to write, and some of the letters were written unknown to him, in which the plaintiff's title is recognized, is insufficient to disprove adverse possession. Martin v. Martin, 76 Neb. 335 (107 N. W. 580).

Question for jury.

195. (1902.) If there is no evidence as to when an entryman became entitled to his patent to government land, it is proper to refuse an instruction which leaves it to the jury to determine when possession of the land became adverse. Baty v. Elrod, 66 Neb. 735 (92 N. W. 1032).

196. (1903.) Former conclusion adhered to (64 Neb. 814) as to error in the instructions by which the issue of defendant's adverse possession was submitted to the jury. Knight v. Denman, 68 Neb. 383 (94 N. W. 622).

Instructions.

197. (1892.) Instructions bearing on the question of adverse possession examined and approved. Ballard v. Hansen, 33 Neb. 861 (51 N. W. 295).

198. (1900.) The use of the word "hostile" in an instruction, as describing the character of the possession of real estate under which title is claimed by adverse possession, while not to be commended, held not prejudicial error. Hoffine v. Ewings, 60 Neb. 729 (84 N. W. 93).

199. (1902.) An instruction which states that, if the owner of lands does not bring an action against one who wrongfully withholds possession within ten years after his cause of action accrues, he loses his right to bring or maintain such action, without adding that defendant's possession must be continuous, open, notorious, exclusive and adverse during the full period of ten years, is misleading and erroneous. Knight v. Denman, 64 Neb. 814 (90 N. W. 863).

200. (1903.) It is not necessary, in telling the jury that a holding under a mistake as to the true boundary may be adverse, to set forth all the necessary elements of adverse possession. Williams v. Shepherdson, 4 Unof. 608 (95 N. W. 827).

201. (1903.) It is not necessary to restate all the elements of adverse possession in telling the jury that the period of such possession of defendant may be tacked to that of his grantors to make up the statutory time. Williams v. Shepherdson, 4 Unof. 608 (95 N. W. 827).

202. (1904.) In an ejectment case, title by adverse possession may be proved under a general denial, and, when such title is one of the defenses relied upon by the defendant, he is entitled to have the jury instructed with reference to the same, if any competent evidence has been introduced to support that issue, even though the evidence may be contradicted or may be considered insufficient by the jury. Link v. Campbell, 72 Neb. 310 (104 N. W. 939).

203. (1906.) An instruction defining adverse possession held not prejudicial to the defendant. Taylor v. Hover, 77 Neb. 97 (108 N. W. 149).

ADVICE OF COUNSEL.

As defense for malicious prosecution, see Malicious Prosecution, §§ 21-27.

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

AFFIDAVITS.

ANALYSIS.

Nature and definition, §§ 1, 2.
Persons who may make, § 3.
Knowledge or information of affiant, §§ 4-6.
Authority to take, §§ 7-11.
Construction of ambiguous language, §§ 12, 13.
Entitling, §§ 14, 15.
Oath, §§ 16.
Venue, § 17.
Jurat or certificate of officer taking, §§ 18-24.
Sufficiency of, §§ 25, 26.
Waiver of defects, § 27.
Use in evidence, §§ 28-35.

CROSS REFERENCES.

Affidavits in particular cases, see specific topics.

Affidavits as part of record in appellate court, see Appeal and Error, §§ 827-835.

Filing of, for change of venue as appearance, see Appearance, § 28.

In attachment, see Attachment, §§ 86-143.

Sufficiency of averment in attachment, see Attachment, §§ 92-122.

Effect of affidavit sworn to before attorney in interest, see Attachment, §§ 86-88.

In contempt proceedings, see Contempt, §§ 53-57.

Affidavit of prejudice of judge as contempt, see Contempt, §§ 4-8.

Affidavit for continuance, see Continuance, §§ 30-54.

For publication of service in divorce, see Divorce, §§ 54-57.

Sufficiency of information in garnishment, see Garnishment, §§ 40-45.

Insufficiency of affidavit for arrest as grounds for discharge, see Habeas Corpus, §§ 18, 19.

On application for vacation of judgment, see Judgment, §§ 309, 310.

For new trial, see New Trial, §§ 159-176.

For service of process by publication, see Process, §§ 106-137.

In replevin, see Replevin, §§ 111-142.

Who may make, for change of venue, see Venue, § 31.

Nature and definition.

1. (1895.) An affidavit is simply a declaration on oath, in writing sworn to by a party before some person who has authority to administer oaths. Bantley v. Finney, 43 Neb. 794 (62 N. W. 213).

2. (1895.) The essentials of the affidavit required by section 78 of the code of civil procedure, in order that a valid service by publication may be based thereon, are that the affidavit must be in writing, filed in the case where made, and sworn to. Bantley v. Finney, 43 Neb. 794 (62 N. W. 113).

Persons who may make.

3. (1893.) An affidavit for attachment is not void, although purporting in its opening clause to be that of a corporation plaintiff, where it sufficiently appears from the whole affidavit that it is that of the agent of the corporation, and that such agent in fact made oath thereto and signed it. Moline, Milburn & Stoddard Co. v. Curtis, 38 Neb. 520 (57 N. W. 161).

Knowledge or information of affiant.

4. (1901.) When the facts required in an affidavit are of such a character that positive knowledge on the part of affiant is impossible, they may be sworn to on information and belief. Leigh v. Green, 62 Neb. 344 (86 N. W. 1093; 89 Am. St. Rep. 751).

5. (1902.) Where a showing by affidavit is required as to facts which are necessarily matters of information and belief, an affidavit on information and belief is sufficient. Leigh v. Green, 64 Neb. 533 (90 N. W. 255).

6. (1902.) So long as a witness is willing to testify to a fact positively, and does so testify, his affidavit, in which such fact is positively stated, does not become an affidavit on information and belief by the addition of the statement that he verily believes all the facts set forth to be true. Leigh v. Green, 64 Neb. 533 (90 N. W. 255).

Digitized by Google

Authority to take.

7. (1884.) Under code of civil procedure, section 371, providing that an affidavit may be made before any person authorized to take depositions, an affidavit taken before an attorney in the case may, on motion, be stricken from the files. Collins v. Stewart, 16 Neb. 52 (20 N. W. 11).

8. (1898.) The amendment of 1887 to section 118 of the code, so as to allow a client to verify a pleading before his attorney, notwithstanding its general language, cannot be held to apply to affidavits, other than those verifying pleadings, without giving the amending act a construction which would render it violative of section 11, article III, constitution. Horkey v. Kendall, 53 Neb. 522 (73 N. W. 953; 68 Am. St. Rep. 623).

9. (1898.) A notary public who is the attorney of one of the parties to an action is not permitted to take the affidavit of his client for the purpose of procuring an attachment. Horkey v. Kendall, 53 Neb. 522 (73 N. W. 953; 68 Am. St. Rep. 623).

10. (1898.) While a notary public may take the affidavit of his client for the purpose of procuring an attachment, the taking of an affidavit as indicated is a mere irregularity, and the affidavit is not a nullity, and its defects may therefore be cured by amendment. Dobry v. Western Mfg. Co., 57 Neb. 228 (77 N. W. 656).

11. (1898.) Validity of affidavit executed before an officer not permitted to take it. Brownell v. Fuller, 54 Neb. 586 (74 N. W. 1105).

Construction of ambiguous language.

12. (1897.) Ambiguous language in an affidavit drawn by counsel for a party will be most strongly construed against the latter. Nebraska Moline Plow Co. v. Fuehring, 52 Neb. 541 (72 N. W. 1003).

13. (1897.) Where a statement of an affidavit may be read so as to give it a meaning which will make the affidavit defective, but may also be read so as to give it a signification which will support the affidavit, the latter will be adopted, especially where it is a less strained and technical reading than the former. Hudelson v. First Nat. Bank of Tobias, 51 Neb. 557 (71 N. W. 304).

Entitling.

14. (1883.) Failure to give a title to the body of an affidavit is a mere technical defect, and not fatal. Burnham v. Doolittle, 14 Neb. 214 (15 N. W. 606.)

15. (1893.) A mistake in the title of an affidavit is immaterial after judgment. Majors v. Edwards, 36 Neb. 56 (53 N. W. 1041).

Oath.

16. (1895.) Whether or not an attorney swore to an affidavit at the time he made and filed it, is a question of fact to be proved, as any other fact, by any competent evidence. Bantley v. Finney, 43 Neb. 794 (62 N. W. 213).

Venue.

Effect of want of venue, see Attachment, § 130.

17. (1903). An affidavit for service of summons by publication, void for lack of a venue, cannot be cured or made valid by resorting to extrinsic evidence, when the validity of the decree rendered thereon is assailed. Albers v. Kozeluh, 68 Neb. 529 (97 N. W. 646).

Jurat or certificate of officer taking.

18. (1878.) An affidavit should show on its face that it was taken within the officer's jurisdiction. Blair v. West Point Mfg. Co., 7 Neb. 147.

19. (1894. Affidavit for mechanics' lien whose jurat shows the venue to have been a county different from that for which the notary was appointed is insufficient to perfect the lien and renders it incompetent in evidence. Byrd v. Cochran, 39 Neb. 109 (58 N. W. 127).

20. (1895.) The certificate of a notary public to an affidavit is presumptive evidence of the facts stated in such certificate, including the statement that affiant signed the affidavit. Smith v. Johnson, 43 Neb. 754 (62 N. W. 217).

21. (1895.) The jurat of an officer attached to an affidavit is no part of the affidavit. Bantley v. Finney, 43 Neb. 794 (62 N. W. 213).

22. (1895.) An affidavit for a publication of summons actually sworn to does not lose its vitality because the officer who administered the oath failed to attach his jurat. Bantley v. Finney, 43 Neb. 794 (62 N. W. 213).

23. (1895.) Where an officer fails to attach his jurat to an affidavit for service by publication, parol evidence in a proper case may be admitted to prove that affiant did in fact swear to the affidavit. Bantley v. Finney, 43 Neb. 794 (62 N. W. 213).

Digitized by Google

24. (1906.) An affidavit, under our statute, must have attached the certificate of the officer before whom taken that the oath was administered by such officer. Sebesta v. Supreme Court of Honor, 77 Neb. 249 (109 N. W. 166).

www.libtool.com.cn

Sufficiency of.

25. (1882.) An affidavit must state facts, not mere conclusions of law; the affidavit must state the time and place of performance. Howard v. Lamaster, 13 Neb. 221 (13 N. W. 211).

26. (1900.) A general motion to strike certain affidavits from the files, on the ground that they contain certain objectionable statements, is rightly overruled if such affidavits contain material evidence regarding the subject under consideration. Zimmer v. Fremont Nat. Bank, 59 Neb. 661 (81 N. W. 849).

Waiver of defects.

27. (1897.) Objection to defects in form or substance of an affidavit are waived if the adverse party answer to the merits and go to trial without making objections. Hudelson v. First Nat. Bank of Tobias, 51 Neb. 557 (71 N. W. 304).

Use in evidence.

28. (1880.) Where affidavits filed in another case are erroneously admitted in evidence the party introducing them are bound by the material facts which are established. Campbell v Crone, 10 Neb. 571 (7 N. W. 334).

29. (1893.) Ex parte affidavit referred to in the opinion held inadmissible under the rules of evidence, and that it was properly excluded from the jury. Barton v. McKay, 36 Neb. 632 (54 N. W. 968).

30. (1895.) Affidavits by a party purporting to contain statements of jurors made during deliberations by the jury, are admissible in aid of impeaching the verdict, when affidavits of the jurors would not be received. Peterson v. Skjelver, 43 Neb. 663 (62 N. W. 43).

31. (1895.) If the officer making the jurat or certificate had authority to administer oaths, the affidavit may be read in evidence as the oath of the party who the officer certifies made the oath. Bantley v. Finney, 43 Neb. 794 (62 N. W. 213).

32. (1901.) Affidavits cannot be considered unless made part of bill of exceptions and covered by its certificate. Newtson v. Walker, 1 Unof. 118 (95 N. W. 470).

33. (1902.) An affidavit taken before a notary of a sister state or foreign government, is properly received in support of a motion in the courts of this state. Browne v. Palmer, 66 Neb. 287 (92 N. W. 315).

34. (1906.) Under the provisions of section 370 of the code, affidavits are admissible in evidence to impeach the return of an officer to the service of a summons in proceedings for revivor. Johnson v. Carpenter, 77 Neb. 49 (108 N. W. 161).

35. (1907.) Section 371 of the code, providing that an affidavit may be made before any person authorized to take depositions, cannot inferentially be construed as requiring that objections to affidavits as evidence shall be made in the manner provided by statute for the filing of objections to depositions. Malcom Savings Bank v. Cronin, 80 Neb. 231 (116 N. W. 150).

AGE.

See, also, Infants; Marriage; Seduction.

Competency of witness to testify as to, see Witnesses, §§ 48-52.

As affecting right to serve as juror, see Jury, § 62.

AGENCY.

See Principal and Agent.

AGISTMENT.

See Animals.

AGRICULTURE.

CROSS REFERENCE.

Irrigation of agricultural lands, see Water and Watercourses, VIII, B.

Definition.

1. (1892.) Agricultural societies are not corporations within the ordinary meaning of the term, but rather agencies adopted by the state for the purpose of promoting the interests of agriculture and manufacturing. State, ex rel. Agricultural Society, v. Robinson, 35 Neb. 401 (53 N. W. 213; 17 L. R. A. 383).

Statutory provisions.

2. (1892.) The provision of section 12, chapter 2, Compiled Statutes, for paying agricultural societies a sum equal to three cents for each inhabitant from the county general fund, does not conflict with the provisions of section 15, article III of the constitution. State, ex rel. Agricultural Society, v. Robinson, 35 Neb. 401 (53 N. W. 213; 17 L. R. A. 383).

Digitized by Google

Payments in aid of.

3. (1892.) Mandamus lies to compel board of county supervisors to include in its estimate of expenses the amount payable to an agricultural society under section 12, chapter 2, Compiled Statutes. State, ex rel. Agricultural Society, v. Robinson, 35 Neb. 401 (53 N. W. 213; 17 L. R. A. 383).

www.libtool.com.cn

AIDER AND ABETTOR.

For assault, see Assault and Battery, §§ 7, 8.

Liability for crime, see Criminal Law, §§ 42-47.

Of embezzlement, see Embezzlement, § 10.

To conversion, see Trover and Conversion, §§ 17, 18.

Accessories to crime of murder, see Homicide, §§ 25-28.

ALIAS WRITS.

See Process, §§ 57-61.

In error proceedings, see Appeal and Error, VI, D.

ALIBI.

In larceny, see Larceny, § 126.

As defense in criminal prosecution, see Criminal Law, § 27.

In bastardy, see Bastards, § 91.

ALIENATION.

Of affection, see Husband and Wife, IX.

Of Indian lands, see Indians, §§ 5-10.

ALIENS.

ANALYSIS.

Right to inherit, §§ 1-3.
Naturalization.
——— Competency of courts, § 4.
——— Time naturalization dates from, §§ 5, 6.
——— Effect of declaration of intention, § 7.
——— Evidence, §§ 8, 9.

CROSS REFERENCES.

See, also, Citizens.

Right of resident of Kansas to enforce water right as against resident of this state on upper stream, see Water and Watercourses, § 40.

Exemption rights, see Exemptions, §§ 23-25a.

Right to inherit.

1. (1901.) A "resident alien," mentioned in section 25 of the bill of rights, is one who resides in the state of Nebraska. Glynn v. Glynn, 62 Neb. 872 (87 N. W. 1052).

2. (1901.) Chapter 58 of the Session Laws of 1889, providing that non-resident aliens shall not inherit land in this state, is but the re-enactment of the common law; and the proviso of the act, that its provisions should not apply to any real estate lying within the corporate limits of cities and towns, is by implication a legislative determination that the common law doctrine of inheritance should not be applied to lands within the corporate limits of cities and towns. Glynn v. Glynn, 62 Neb. 872 (87 N. W. 1052).

3. (1903.) Sections 70-73, chapter 73, Compiled Statutes (chapter 58, Session Laws, 1889) regarding the right of an alien to inherit land in this state, as construed in Glynn v. Glynn, supra, are not unconstitutional as being broader than the title of the act, nor as special legislation. Dougherty v. Kubat, 67 Neb. 269 (93 N. W. 317).

Naturalization.

——— Competency of courts.

4. (1878.) A court without any clerk, distinct from the judge of such court, is not a court "having a clerk" within the meaning of section 2165 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, providing for the naturalization of aliens, and such court is not competent to naturalize aliens. State, ex rel. Fossler, v. Webster, 7 Neb. 469.

——— Time naturalization dates from.

5. (1891.) Where an alien is naturalized under the naturalization laws, his citizenship dates from the time the order of the court is made admitting him to citizenship, and does not relate back to the time he made his declaration of intention. State, ex rel. Thayer, v. Boyd, 31 Neb. 682 (48 N. W. 739).

Digitized by Google

6. (1891.) The alien inhabitants of the territory of Nebraska at the time of its admission as a state, did not become citizens of the United States by virtue of the acts of congress admitting the state into the Union. State, ex rel. Thayer, v. Boyd, 31 Neb. 682 (48 N. W. 739).

——— Effect of declaration of intent.

7. (1897.) Though a declaration of intention to become a citizen may constitute a resident alien an elector, this status does not extend to his son because the declaration was made before the son attained his majority. Haywood v. Marshall, 53 Neb. 220 (73 N. W. 449).

——— Evidence.

8. (1891.) The fact that an alien has for many years voted at elections held in this state, and filled important public offices, does not establish the fact that he is a citizen of the United States. State, ex. rel. Thayer, v. Boyd 31 Neb. 682 (48 N. W. 739).

9. (1891.) The order of a court admitting an alien to citizenship is a judicial act, in the nature of a judgment. Such proceedings are required to be made a matter of record. The record must be pleaded and proved the same as any other judicial record. Naturalization cannot be established by parol. State, ex rel. Thayer, v. Boyd, 31 Neb. 682 (48 N. W. 739).

ALIMONY.

See Divorce, §§ 124-210.

ALLOWANCE.

Of appeal or writ of error, see Appeal and Error, III.

Of claims against county, see Counties, §§ 604-625.

Of claims against estate, see Executors and Administrators, §§ 97-174.

Of claims against cities, see Municipal Corporations, XII.

To surviving wife and children, see Executors and Administrators, III.

ALLONGE.

On promissory note, see Bills and Notes, §§ 8, 9.

ALTERATION OF INSTRUMENTS.

ANALYSIS.

Definition, § 1.
Materiality of alteration.
——— Parties, §§ 2-4.
——— Endorsements, §§ 5, 6.
——— Payments, § 7.
——— Consideration, §§ 8-10.
——— Kind of payment, § 11.
——— Removal of conditions and memorandum, §§ 12-15.
——— Place, time, and date, §§ 16-18.
——— Filling blank, § 19.
——— Addition of surety, §§ 20, 21.
Ratification, §§ 22-25.
Effect on rights of parties.
——— As to guarantor, § 26.
——— Promissory notes, §§ 27-31.
——— Note and mortgage, §§ 32-36.
Recovery on original notwithstanding alteration, §§ 37, 38.
——— Alteration by stranger, §§ 39-42.
Assignment of altered note, § 43.
Enjoining collection or transfer, § 44.
Evidence.
——— Presumption, § 45.
——— Burden of proof, §§ 46, 47.
——— Admissibility, §§ 48-56.
——— Sufficiency, §§ 57, 57a.
Question for the court, §§ 58-62.
Question for the jury, §§ 63-67.

Digitized by Google

CROSS REFERENCES.

See, also, Cancelation of Instruments.

Alteration of bond of public officer, see Officers, §§ 169-171.

Release of surety by alteration of instrument, see Principal and Surety, §§ 73-81.

Definition.

1. (1877.) An alteration is an act done upon an instrument by which its meaning or language is changed. Oliver v. Hawley, 5 Neb. 439.

Materiality of alteration.

——— Parties.

2. (1892.) An unauthorized alteration of a non-negotiable promissory note by the payee, after the execution thereof, by the insertion of the word "bearer" after the name of the payee, is a material alteration, which will nullify the instrument. Walton Plow Co. v. Campbell, 35 Neb. 173 (52 N. W. 883; 16 L. R. A. 468).

3. (1895.) The fraudulent erasure of the name of the original payee of a promissory note, after its execution, by a party to the instrument and the substitution of another, without the consent of the maker, is a material alteration. Erickson v. First Nat. Bank of Oakland. 44 Neb. 622 (62 N. W. 1078; 48 Am. St. Rep. 753; 28 L. R. A. 577).

4. (1895.) The fraudulent erasure of the name of the original payee of a note invalidates the paper as to the maker, who has not assented to, or ratified, the change, even in the hands of a bona fide holder for value. Erickson v. First Nat. Bank of Oakland, 44 Neb. 622 (62 N. W. 1078; 48 Am. St. Rep. 753; 28 L. R. A. 577).

——— Endorsements.

5. (1903.) Writing the words "for value received, we hereby guarantee the payment of the within note, and waive presentment for payment, demand and notice of protest," over an indorsement in blank on the back of a promissory note is a material alteration of the liability of the indorser, and if done without his knowledge or consent releases him from his obligation as such. Harnett v Holdrege, 5 Unof. 114 (97 N. W. 443).

6. (1903.) Writing the words "This note to be exchanged for consolidated mortgage bonds of Nebraska and Northwestern Irrigation Company when issued at 90," across the face of a promissory note after it has been indorsed in blank, without the knowledge or consent of the indorsers, is a material change of the note, and releases such indorsers from any liability thereon. Harnett v. Holdrege, 5 Unof. 114 (97 N. W. 443).

——— Payments.

7. (1902.) Indorsements of payment entered by mistake or inadvertence on a note do not become a part of the instrument and their erasure does not avoid the note. Lau v. Blomberg. 3 Unof. 124 (91 N. W. 206).

——— Consideration.

8. (1879.) Where the payee in a note changed it from $217.36 to $208.12, and transferred it before maturity to an innocent purchaser, such alteration vitiates the note and there can be no recovery thereon. State Savings Bank v. Schaffer, 9 Neb. 1 (1 N. W. 980; 31 Am. Rep. 394).

9. (1882.) Where by the terms of a promissory note it was not to draw interest, if the payee, without the consent of the maker, adds the figure "7" to the note to indicate the rate of interest, it is a material alteration, and voids the note. Davis v. Henry, 13 Neb. 497 (14 N. W. 523).

10. (1894.) The insertion of the figures "10" in a promissory note, thereby making the instrument draw interest at ten per cent, when no rate of interest was originally specified, is a material alteration. Hurlbut v. Hall, 39 Neb. 889 (58 N. W. 538).

——— Kind of payment.

11. (1902.) The unauthorized insertion of the word "gold" before the word "dollars" in an instrument, after its execution and delivery, is a material alteration. Foxworthy v. Colby, 64 Neb. 216 (89 N. W. 800; 62 L. R. A. 393).

——— Removal of conditions and memorandum.

12. (1876.) The fraudulent removal of a memorandum, written under a negotiable instrument and qualifying it, vitiates the instrument, even in the hands of a bona fide purchaser. Palmer v. Largent, 5 Neb. 223 (25 Am. Rep. 479).

13. (1876.) The removal of the words "this note is given upon condition," there being nothing to show what the condition was, does not vitiate the instrument in the hands of a bona fide purchaser. Palmer v. Largent. 5 Neb. 223 (25 Am. Rep. 479).

14. (1882.) A contract upon the same paper with a negotiable promissory note, which contract modifies and qualifies it, if detached, the note will be invalid even in the hands of an innocent purchaser. Davis v. Henry, 13 Neb. 497 (14 N. W. 523).

Digitized by Google

15. (1901.) In a contract for the conditional sale of books, the deferred payments being evidenced by the promissory notes of the vendee, it was claimed a material alteration had been made by the interlineation of the words "interest at six per cent. on notes remaining over a year." Held, Such words to be only descriptive of the notes referred to and in the nature of a memorandum reference, and that such words did not constitute a material alteration of the contract of sale, the notes referred to being the instruments which determined the rate of interest they bore. Edward Thompson Co. v. Baldwin, 62 Neb. 530 (87 N. W. 307).

www.libtool.com.cn

—— Place, time and date.

16. (1877.) After an instrument is completed and delivered, no alteration can be made therein except by consent; an alteration of the date, whether it hasten or delay the time of payment, is a material alteration, and if made without the consent of the party sought to be charged extinguishes his liability. Brown v. Straw, 6 Neb. 536 (29 Am. Rep. 369).

17. (1880.) Where a note is altered so as to make it payable at a particular place, when in fact it was payable generally, an indorser is thereby released. Townsend v. Star Wagon Co., 10 Neb. 615 (7 N. W. 274; 35 Am. Rep. 493).

18. (1903.) Merely indorsing by the notary on the back of a contract by husband and wife for the sale of the wife's real estate, of an extension of time for making the first payment, which extension was not authorized by the wife, does not destroy the contract as really made, nor warrant the wife in repudiating it. Johnson v. Weber, 70 Neb. 467 (97 N. W. 585).

—— Filing blank.

19. (1904.) The alteration of a negotiable promissory note after delivery, by filling in blanks left therein, where there is nothing on the face of the note to indicate such alteration, will not invalidate the note in the hands of a bona fide endorsee, for value, before maturity, and without notice of such change. Humphrey Hardware Co. v. Herrick, 72 Neb. 878 (101 N. W. 1016).

—— Addition of surety.

20. (1891.) The addition of the name of a surety to a promissory note, after its delivery to the payee, without the knowledge or consent of the maker, is not such an alteration of the instrument as will discharge the maker. Barnes v. Van Keuren & Floyd, 31 Neb. 165 (47 N. W. 848).

21. (1896.) The addition of the name of a surety to a note after delivery to payee without the knowledge of the maker, is not such an alteration as will release the latter. Royse v. State Nat. Bank of St. Joseph, 50 Neb. 16 (69 N. W. 301).

Ratification.

22. (1895.) The maker's ratification of a note after a material alteration must be pleaded when relied upon by the holder of the note. Erickson v. First Nat. Bank of Oakland, 4 Neb. 622 (62 N. W. 1078; 48 Am. St. Rep. 753; 28 L. R. A. 577).

23. (1898.) When the holder of a note had notice that it had been altered by changing the amount, and with such notice sued upon it in its altered condition, and endeavored to recover thereon, held, that he thereby ratified the act of alteration, and that the court did not err in refusing to permit him, after trial, to amend by counting on the note as originally made. Perkins Windmill & Ax Co. v. Tillman, 55 Neb. 652 (75 N. W. 1098).

24. (1902.) It seems that ratification of an altered instrument does not require a new consideration, but it must be made intentionally with respect to the very alteration relied on as a defense. State v. Paxton, 65 Neb. 110 (90 N. W. 983).

25. (1902.) A material alteration already made, may be ratified and adopted subsequently; and in such case the instrument as altered will be binding. State v. Paxton, 65 Neb. 110 (90 N. W. 983).

Effect on rights of parties.

—— As to guarantor.

26. (1902.) In an action for money paid by plaintiff as a guarantor of a note, where defendant claims that the note had been altered, and that he was only surety thereon, an instruction that a material alteration of the note, if shown, would be available to the defendant only in case the jury found that he was surety, and that the plaintiff, when making the alteration, knew that fact, held erroneous, but binding upon the jury. Ball v. Beaumont, 66 Neb. 56 (92 N. W. 170).

—— Promissory notes.

27. (1877.) An alteration of a promissory note in any material part renders it invalid as against a party not consenting thereto, even in the hands of an innocent purchaser. Brown v. Straw, 6 Neb. 536 (29 Am. Rep. 369).

Digitized by Google

28. (1880.) Every alteration of a note by the maker, in respect to the place of payment, or any alteration of the contract of the indorser in a part which may, in any event, become material, without his approbation, discharges his liability. Townsend v. Star Wagon Co., 10 Neb. 615 (7 N. W. 274; 35 Am. Rep. 493).

29. (1890.) Where two persons jointly purchase a feed store and the fixtures therein, and notes are given in part payment, part of the printed form being crossed out before the notes were signed, leaving the word "maturity" as indicating when interest would begin to run, and the holder calls the attention of one of the makers to that fact and he erases the word "maturity," the other maker is not thereby released as the relation of partnership existed and the act bound the firm. Mace v. Heath, 30 Neb. 620 (46 N. W. 918).

30. (1892.) Where a promissory note has been altered by the payee in a material matter and with a fraudulent purpose, no recovery can be had upon the instrument, or upon the original consideration for which it was given. Walton Plow Co. v. Campbell, 35 Neb. 173 (52 N. W. 883; 16 L. R. A. 468).

31. (1894.) Where a promissory note has been altered in a material part after its delivery to the payee, without the knowledge or consent of the maker, it is invalid, even in the hands of an innocent purchaser. Hurlbut v. Hall, 39 Neb. 889 (58 N. W. 538).

——— Note and mortgage.

32. (1885.) Where the description of mortgaged premises was altered without the assent of the mortgagor, after the execution of the mortgage, the mortgage is void even in the hands of a bona fide holder. Pereau v. Frederick, 17 Neb. 117 (22 N. W. 235).

33. (1892.) The fraudulent alteration of a promissory note secured by a mortgage cancels the debt which it evidenced and discharges the mortgage. Walton Plow Co. v. Campbell, 35 Neb. 173 (52 N. W. 883; 16 L. R. A. 468*n*).

34. (1897.) The material alteration of a mortgage by which it is avoided does not avoid a note or evidence of the debt for the payment of which it is the security. Kime v. Jessee, 52 Neb. 606 (72 N. W. 1050).

35. (1897.) A material alteration of a mortgage without the consent of the mortgagor renders it void. Kime v. Jesse, 52 Neb. 606 (72 N. W. 1050).

36. (1897.) Where a mortgagee discovers a mistake in the description of a mortgage after recording and filing, and takes it to the attorney who drew it up and who claimed to be the agent for both parties and corrects it, such alteration is such as will render it void as against the mortgagor. Kime v. Jesse, 52 Neb. 606 (72 N. W. 1050).

Recovery on original notwithstanding alteration.

37. (1879.) Where an alteration is made under an honest mistake of right, and not fraudulently and with a view to obtain an improper advantage, a recovery may be had upon the original consideration of the note. And it is the duty of the court, upon payment of costs, to permit the plaintiff to amend his petition setting up the original consideration. State Savings Bank v. Shaffer, 9 Neb. 1 (1 N. W. 980; 31 Am. Rep. 394).

38. (1901). Where a series of notes were given in payment of books sold conditionally, and proof was tendered showing that a part of the notes had been materially altered, held that such alteration did not vitiate the contract of conditional sale or the unpaid notes regarding which no alteration was claimed. Edward Thompson Co. v. Baldwin, 62 Neb. 530 (87 N. W. 307).

——— Alteration by stranger.

39. (1895.) Where a written instrument is altered by one not claiming under it, the party claiming under it may still enforce it so long as its original character is susceptible of proof. Bingham v. Shadle, 45 Neb. 82 (63 N. W. 143).

40. (1895.) An alteration of a written instrument after its execution by one party thereto, without the knowledge or consent of the other, which neither varies its meaning nor changes its legal effect, is an immaterial alteration, and will not invalidate the instrument. Fisherdick v. Hutton, 44 Neb. 122 (62 N. W. 488).

41. (1898.) A change made in a written instrument by a stranger is an act of spoliation merely and recovery may still be had, but the instrument must be pleaded according to its original terms and not according to its terms as altered. Perkins Windmill & Ax Co. v. Tillman, 55 Neb. 652 (75 N. W. 1098).

42. (1904.) The alteration of a written contract by a stranger, without the privity or consent of the parties interested, will not avoid the contract, where the contents of the same, as it originally stood, can be ascertained. Colby v. Foxworthy, 72 Neb. 378 (100 N. W. 798).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

Assignment of altered note.

43. (1879.) The assignment by the payee of an altered note transfers to the assignee all the rights of the assignor to the original consideration. State Savings Bank v. Shaffer, 9 Neb. 1 (1 N. W. 980; 31 Am. Rep. 394).

Enjoining collection or transfer.

44. (1895.) The collection or transfer of a note materially altered without the consent of the maker should not be enjoined by a court of equity. Erickson v. First Nat. Bank of Oakland, 44 Neb. 622 (62 N. W. 1078; 48 Am. St. Rep. 753; 28 L. R. A. 577).

Evidence.

—— Presumptions.

45. (1896.) Where a written instrument shows upon its face a material and obvious alteration, the presumption of law is that such alteration was made before the instrument was finally executed and delivered. Dorsey v. Conrad, 49 Neb. 443 (68 N. W. 645).

—— Burden of proof.

46. (1897.) Where material alteration is the defense to a note not disclosing on its face any evidence of having been changed, the burden is on defendant to establish the alteration by a preponderance of the evidence. McClintock v. State Bank of Table Rock, 52 Neb. 130 (71 N. W. 978).

47. (1901.) When in an action on a note and mortgage it is sought to defend on the ground of an alleged alteration, and there is nothing on the face of the instruments, taken together, to indicate that the change complained of was made after execution and delivery, but the contrary inference may more readily be drawn therefrom, it is incumbent on the defendant to establish, both by pleading and proof, that the alleged alteration was made without his consent. Hodge v. Scott, 1 Unof. 619 (95 N. W. 837).

47*a*. (1907.) The burden is upon the party alleging the material alteration of an instrument to prove that it was altered by the holder thereof after the execution and delivery of the same. Colby v. Foxworthy, 80 Neb. 239 (114 N. W. 174).

—— Admissibility.

48. (1876.) Evidence of removal of immaterial words from a promissory note should be excluded from the jury as immaterial. Palmer v. Largent, 5 Neb. 223 (25 Am. St. Rep. 479).

49. (1890.) Where the holder of a chattel mortgage in the form of a bill of sale, with a defeasance clause, through ignorance and good faith, without intent to defraud, tore the same into two parts, thus separating the granting from the defeasance clause, and upon the trial presented the two parts as an entire instrument, it was receivable in evidence. Russell v. Longmoor, 29 Neb. 209 (45 N. W. 624).

50. (1890.) In an action on a note that shows on its face an endorsement thereon that was first written with a lead pencil and dated "Oct. 1, 1887," which writing was partially erased and rewritten in ink and dated "Oct. 15, '87," and afterwards the figure 7 was changed to 6, the note was wrongfully admitted in evidence. Johnson v. Bank of Plum Creek, 28 Neb. 792 (45 N. W. 616). [Overruled. Dorsey v. Conrad, 49 Neb. 443.]

51. (1892). Evidence that a note has been materially altered after execution is admissible on foreclosure of mortgage securing it under a general denial. Walton Plow Co. v. Campbell, 35 Neb. 173 (52 N. W. 883; 16 L. R. A. 468*n*).

52. (1894.) Where a note was introduced in evidence which disclosed upon its face that it had been altered from a note to bear interest at "10" per cent per annum from "maturity" to one to draw "7" per cent per annum from date, the number "10" and word "maturity" in the original having been crossed out by a line or lines drawn over each with pen and ink, and the number "7" and word "date" interlined or written above the number and word crossed out, held, that it was error to render judgment or grant decree upon such note, as testimony of the amount due, without some evidence explaining such alteration. Courcamp v. Weber, 39 Neb. 533 (58 N. W. 187). [Overruled. Dorsey v. Conrad, 49 Neb. 443.]

53. (1896.) Where a promissory note is offered in evidence, and it is apparent from an inspection that there has been a material alteration thereof it may generally be admitted. Goodin v. Plugge, 47 Neb. 284 (66 N. W. 407).

54. (1896.) An instrument showing on its face an alteration may go in evidence in the first instance, leaving the parties to such explanation of the alteration as they may choose to offer. Dorsey v. Conrad, 49 Neb. 443 (68 N. W. 645).

Digitized by Google

55. (1903.) An attachment undertaking in the body of which defendants' names appear as obligors although at the bottom appears the name of a banking company of which they were respectively president and cashier, with a penmark erasure through it and the appearance that "by" had originally been written before each of their names, and "Pres." after one and "cashier" after the other, is admissible in evidence in the first instance, leaving the parties to such explanations as they choose to offer. Waller v. Deranleau, 4 Unof. 497 (94 N. W. 1038).

56. (1904.) A fraudulent alteration of the note sued upon may be shown under the general issue, and, when the whole evidence fairly raises the question, testimony tending to show that no such indebtedness as the one sued upon ever existed is competent upon the issue of alteration. Gandy v. Estate of Bissell, 72 Neb. 356 (100 N. W. 803).

——— Sufficiency.

57. (1895.) In an action by the indorsee of a note secured by a chattel mortgage to recover the chattels the evidence was held sufficient to sustain the defense that the note was materially altered without the knowledge or consent of the defendant. Davis v. Snyder, 45 Neb. 415 (63 N. W. 789).

57*a*. (1907.) Evidence examined, and held insufficient to prove that the instruments in controversy had been altered after their execution by defendant. Colby v. Foxworthy, 80 Neb. 239 (114 N. W. 174).

Question for the court.

58. (1876.) It is error to submit the question of materiality of an alteration to the jury. Palmer v. Largent, 5 Neb. 223 (25 Am. Rep. 479).

59. (1877.) It is the duty of the court to determine as a question of law whether an alteration is material; and it is error to submit such question to the jury. Oliver v. Hawley, 5 Neb. 439.

60. (1895.) Whether an alteration is material or immaterial, is a question of law for the court. Fisherdick v. Hutton, 44 Neb. 122 (62 N. W. 488).

61. (1895.) It is error to submit the question of alteration to the jury, where the alteration is immaterial. Fisherdick v. Hutton, 44 Neb. 122 (62 N. W. 488).

62. (1896.) Whether an alteration or erasure appearing in a written instrument is a material one, is a question of law for the court; but when, by whom, and with what motive, such alteration was made, is a question of fact for the jury or trial court, to be determined like any other question of fact. Dorsey v. Conrad, 49 Neb. 443 (68 N. W. 645).

Question for the jury.

63. (1885.) Where a material alteration is apparent on the face of a written instrument offered in evidence, the question whether the alteration was made before or after execution and delivery is for the jury. Bank of Cass County v. Morrison, 17 Neb. 341 (22 N. W. 782; 52 Am. Rep, 417).

64. (1894.) When an altered note has been received in evidence either with or without testimony explanatory of such change, it then becomes the province of the court or jury, if tried by jury, to decide from the evidence, as a question of fact, whether such alteration was made before or after the execution of the note, and it is error for the trial court to exclude testimony offered which is competent upon such question. Courcamp v. Weber, 39 Neb. 533 (58 N. W. 187). [Overruled. Dorsey v. Conrad, 49 Neb. 433.]

65. (1896.) Whether an alteration apparent upon the face of a note was made at, or subsequent to, the time of its execution is a question of fact for the jury. Stough v. Ogden, 49 Neb. 291 (68 N. W. 516).

66. (1896.) Whether a note was altered prior or subsequent to its execution and delivery, is a question, finally, for the determination of the trial court or the jury, as is any controverted fact in the case, from a consideration of all the competent evidence adduced by the parties explanatory or tending to settle the disputed point. Goodin v. Plugge, 47 Neb. 284 (66 N. W. 407).

67. (1901.) There being no evidence supporting the allegations of a fraudulent alteration of a contract after its execution and delivery, it is error to submit that question to the jury. Holdrege v. Watson, 1 Unof. 687 (96 N. W. 67).

AMENDMENT.

Of appeal bond, see Appeal and Error, §§ 610-615.

Of petition in error, see Appeal and Error, §§ 593-595.

Affidavit in attachment, see Attachment, §§ 123-129.

As ground for continuance, see Continuance, § 5.

Of court records, see Courts, §§ 116-117.

Of constitution, see Constitutional Law, §§ 4-20.

Digitized by Google

Of bill of exceptions in supreme court, see Exceptions, Bill of, §§ 229-243.

Submission of bill of exceptions for amendments, see Exceptions, Bill of, §§ 94-100.

Proposed amendments of bill of exceptions, see Exceptions, Bill of, §§ 101-107.

Of stay bond, see Execution, §§ 109, 110.

Of appeal bond in location of highway, see Highways, § 125.

Of indictment and information, see Indictment and Information, §§ 115-120.

Of judgment, see Judgments, §§ 203-218.

Of pleadings, see Pleading, §§ 274-382.

Of process, see Process, §§ 214-228.

Of affidavit in replevin, see Replevin, §§ 134-142.

Of pleading in replevin, see Replevin, §§ 223-230.

Of statutes, see Statutes, §§ 11-16, 203-252.

Of verdict, see Trial, §§ 262-268.

ANIMALS.

ANALYSIS.

Marks and brands, §§ 1-5.
Breeding, liens and liability, §§ 6, 7.
Agistment, keeping and care.
——— Duties in general, §§ 8-10.
——— Liability of bailee to third person, § 11.
——— Liability for loss of or injuries to animals, §§ 12-14.
——— Actions for loss, §§ 15-17.
——— Liens, §§ 18-33.
Hire and use, §§ 34-37.
Running at large.
——— What constitutes, §§ 38, 39.
——— Duty and liability of owner, §§ 40, 41.
——— Frightening horses, §§ 42, 43.
——— Killing animals at large, §§ 44, 45b.
Personal injuries, §§ 46-52.
Injuries to other animals, §§ 53-56.
Estrays and trespassing animals.
——— Statutory provisions, and effects as to remedy, §§ 57-60.
——— Liability for trespassers in general, §§ 61-73.
——— Nature of remedy of taker-up, § 74.
——— Lien of taker-up, §§ 75-78.
——— Notice to owner, §§ 79-84.
——— Duty and liability of taker-up, §§ 85, 86.
——— Right to castrate, § 87.
——— Arbitration of claim for damage, §§ 88-93.
——— Replevin of animal by owner, §§ 94-98.
——— Actions for damages, nature of, § 99.
——— Actions, jurisdiction, §§ 100-102.
——— Actions, petition, § 103.
——— Actions, damages, § 104.
——— Actions, evidence, §§ 105, 106.
Exhibition of as nuisance, § 107.
Pounds, § 108.
Sale of diseased animals, §§ 109-111.

CROSS REFERENCES.

Game, see Game.

Transportation of, see Carriers, III.

Shipment of, and care and liability of carrier, see Carriers, §§ 126-177.

Description of, in mortgages, see Chattel Mortgages, §§ 62-77.

Exemptions of, see Exemptions, §§ 34-36.

Restraining standing of stallion in public places, see Injunction, § 57.

Injuries to, by railroads, see Railroads, VIII, G.

Warranties in sale of, see Sales, VI.

Collision of street cars with, see Street Railroads, § 37.

Digitized by Google

Marks and brands.

1. (1903.) Money received by the secretary of state for recording brands and marks, under the provisions of the act of 1899, was not received by virtue of his office, but under color of his office. State v. Porter, 69 Neb. 203 (95 N. W. 769).

2. (1903.) The legislature intended that the secretary of state should retain for his services, as a member of the brand and mark committee, twenty per cent. of all the fees received for recording brands and marks. State v. Porter, 69 Neb. 203 (95 N. W. 769).

3. (1903.) The state has no legal title to any part of the fees received by the secretary of state for recording brands and marks under the provisions of the act of 1899; but that officer having, in collecting such fees, assumed to act in an official capacity, the law does not permit him, when called to account by the state, to deny that he so acted. State v. Porter, 69 Neb. 203 (95 N. W. 769).

4. (1903.) Chapter 50, laws of 1899, entitled "An act creating a state registry of brands and marks, a state brand and mark committee, providing for brands and marks upon live stock, and repealing chapter fifty-one (51) of the Compiled Statutes of 1897," is in conflict with the constitution and wholly void. State v. Porter, 69 Neb. 203 (95 N. W. 769).

5. (1903.) It was not the intention of the legislature by Laws 1899, section 2 of chapter 50, to create a new office to be filled by the secretary of state; but the provision in said section, authorizing the governor to appoint three persons to act as members of a brand and mark commitee, was an abortive attempt to add to the number of executive state offices created by the constitution. State v. Porter, 69 Neb. 203 (95 N. W. 769).

Breeding; liens and liability.

6. (1899.) The law that the owners of jacks, stallions and bulls shall have a lien for the get of such animals (laws 1887, ch. 3, amending Comp. St., ch. 4, art. I, sec. 40) is unconstitutional and void. Weis v. Ashley, 59 Neb. 494 (81 N. W. 318; 80 Am. St. Rep. 704).

7. (1902.) The petition charged in effect, that through the negligence of the defendant, a stallion belonging to him, and to which defendant had undertaken to breed plaintiff's mare, in pursuance of an agreement between the parties, killed the mare. Held, That a motion to require the plaintiff to state the manner in which the mare was killed should have been sustained. Tooles v. Meyers, 65 Neb. 704 (91 N. W. 505).

Agistment, keeping and care.

——— Duties in general.

8. (1905.) An agreement by an agister to take good care of a herd of cattle entrusted to his charge is equivalent to a contract to take such care of them as an ordinarily skillful and prudent man would take of his own animals under like circumstances. Darr v. Donovan, 73 Neb. 424 (102 N. W. 1012).

9. (1905.) Under a contract whereby one party thereto agrees to herd and care for certain cattle for an equal share of the increase during a period of three years he is required to use reasonable and ordinary care to care for, feed and protect the cattle specified therein, and to make him liable for negligence. Mattern v. McCarthy, 73 Neb. 228 (102 N. W. 468).

10. (1905.) When a contract requires an agister to care for cattle "in all respects as he would for similar property of his own," the legal presumption is that he would give his own cattle such care as an ordinarily prudent man would under like circumstances, and this is the measure of the diligence required of him under the contract. Mattern v. McCarthy, 73 Neb. 228 (102 N. W. 468).

——— Liability of bailee to third person.

11. (1893.) Under the herd law (Comp. St., ch. 2, art. 3) a person having the custody of cattle for the purpose of depasturing the same, although without compensation from the general owner, is liable for damage done by them upon the cultivated lands of another. Laflin v. Svoboda, 37 Neb. 368 (55 N. W. 1049).

——— Liability for loss of or injuries to animals.

12. (1905.) Where one agrees to herd and care for cattle during a period of three years and agrees to pay the other a "just remuneration" for all cattle lost from neglect on his part, such term means the remuneration which the plaintiff would be justly entitled to under the law for the loss of his cattle by the defendant's negligence, and this is the value of the cattle lost. Mattern v. McCarthy, 73 Neb. 228 (102 N. W. 468).

13. (1890.) Where there is no express contract as to the kind of feed and degree of care to be given by one who takes cattle to keep through the winter, he is bound to provide reasonable and ordinary feed for such stock and to use reasonable and ordinary care to protect them from injury; but where a number of such cattle die while in charge of the bailee and the bailee states that fact to the owner, thereby accounting for the cattle, the burden of proof of negligence is upon the owner. Calland v. Nichols, 30 Neb. 532 (46 N. W. 631).

Digitized by Google

14. (1895.) In an action to recover for the pasturage of cattle, where defendant claims damages caused by improper care of the cattle, failure to provide sufficient water supply, instructions given held to properly state the law. Shafer v. Briggs, 46 Neb. 445 (64 N. W. 1079).

—— Actions for loss.

15. (1890.) Where one contracts to winter 125 head of cattle, and 49 head die and the others become very thin and weak, and there is other evidence of neglect, a finding of want of proper care is sustained. Calland v. Nichols, 30 Neb. 532 (46 N. W. 631).

16. (1893.) In a suit for balance due on account of pasturing cattle, the defendant pleaded (a) settlement; (b) counter-claim for damages sustained by loss of and injury to cattle on account of plaintiff's negligence. The instructions of the court to the jury on the subject of the defenses of setlement and counter-claim approved and set out at length in the opinion. Loomer v. Thomas, 38 Neb. 277 (56 N. W. 973).

17. (1905.) When the contract of an agister is for the care and feeding of a particular herd of cattle, evidence descriptive of the herd is admissible without special reference to the subject in the pleading. Darr v. Donovan, 73 Neb. 424 (102 N. W. 1012).

—— Liens.

Priority of lien of mortgage over agister's lien, see Chattel Mortgages, §§ 126-128.

18. (1887.) The act of the council and house of representatives of the late territory of Nebraska, entitled "An act to provide for liens upon live stock for their keeping," approved February 18, 1867, examined, and held not to give a lien upon live stock for their keeping superior to the lien of a previously executed, delivered, and recorded mortgage thereon. State Bank of Nebraska v. Lowe, 22 Neb. 68 (33 N. W. 482).

19. (1891.) When a person furnishes feed and takes care of live stock under a contract with the owner thereof, such person has a lien upon such stock for their keeping, and the owner cannot lawfully obtain possession of the same by legal process until he has paid or tendered the amount due for their feed and care. Gates v. Parrott, 31 Neb. 581 (48 N. W. 387); (1892) Kroll v. Ernest, 34 Neb. 482 (51 N. W. 1032); (1897) Weber Bros. v. Whetstone, 53 Neb. 371 (73 N. W. 695).

20. (1891.) A lien for the keeping of cattle does not attach by virtue of a contract with an agent of mortgagee of cattle, where the mortgage is invalid. Gates v. Parrott, 31 Neb. 581 (48 N. W. 387).

21. (1892.) The voluntary surrender of the possession of the stock by the agister releases the lien. Kroll v. Ernst, 34 Neb. 482 (51 N. W. 1032).

22. (1892.) While the lien of an agister may be waived, held, that a finding that defendant did not surrender the stock was sustained by the evidence. Kroll v. Ernst, 34 Neb. 482 (51 N. W. 1032).

23. (1797.) The taking by the owner of live stock from the possession of his agister without the latter's consent does not divest his lien. Weber Bros. v. Whetstone, 53 Neb. 371 (73 N. W. 695).

24 (1897.) If a lien exists against live stock for its feed and care a purchaser of such stock is charged with notice of such lien. That he purchased such stock for value without actual notice of such lien affords him not protection against the same. Weber Bros. v. Whetstone, 53 Neb. 371 (73 N. W. 695).

25. (1897.) One feeding and caring for live stock pursuant to a contract with the owner has a lien on the stock to secure the claim for feed and care Weber v. Whetstone, 53 Neb. 371 (73 N. W. 695).

26. (1901.) One who receives a flock of sheep for care or pasturage under an agreement whereby he is to receive a share of the wool and of the increase as his compensation, is within the provisions of section 28, article 1, chapter 4, Compiled Statutes, creating an agister's lien for the "contract price." Schrandt v. Young, 62 Neb. 254 (86 N. W. 1085).

27. (1902.) Whether a bailor of cattle has acquiesced in an agister proceeding to foreclose his lien by other than statutory methods is a question for the jury. Dale v. Council Bluffs Savings Bank, 65 Neb. 692, 694 (94 N. W. 983).

28. (1902.) The statute creating the agister's lien, is remedial in its nature, and should be liberally construed for the purpose of effectuating its object. Becker v. Brown, 65 Neb. 264 (91 N. W. 178).

Digitized by Google

29. (1902.) Evidence examined, and held to uphold the agister's liens contended for by the defendants in error in his action. Becker v. Brown, 65 Neb. 264 (91 N. W. 178).

30. (1902.) An agister's lien will not, as between the parties, or as to third persons having notice, be lost by change of possession not inconsistent with it, and not under such circumstances as to indicate an intent to waive, relinquish or abandon it. Becker v. Brown, 65 Neb. 264 (91 N. W. 178).

31. (1902.) Under the statute of this state, an agister's lien is inferior to that of a prior valid chattel mortgage, properly of record, but is superior to a mortgage executed after it has attached and while the property is in the possession of the agister. Becker v. Brown, 65 Neb. 264 (91 N. W. 178).

32. (1902.) An agister may, under circumstances having no tendency to injure any third person, adopt, with the consent or acquiescence of his bailor, other means than statutory foreclosure for the satisfaction of his lien. In such a case a junior lienholder has no ground for complaint if the means adopted do not injure or imperil his interests. Dale v. Council Bluffs Savings Bank, 65 Neb. 692, 694 (94 N. W. 983).

33. (1902.) Although, in ordinary cases, an agister's remedy is exclusively that which is provided by statute, there is no reason why this method may not be departed from, with the preference and consent of the parties interested; and in the case at bar it is held that the question whether such consent was given was one of fact, which should have been left to the determination of the jury. Dale v. Council Bluffs Savings Bank, 65 Neb. 692 (91 N. W. 526).

Hire and use.

34. (1888.) In an action to recover from a bailee of a team of horses, hired from plaintiff, for injuries to the team by reason of driving the same into a barb wire fence, there being no evidence connecting plaintiff with the existence of the fence, an instruction tending to excuse or justify defendant because of the existence of the fence in the road, properly refused. Floaten v. Ferrell, 24 Neb. 347 (38 N. W. 732).

35. (1888). Upon the trial of an action to recover for injuries to a team hired by defendant, it is within the discretion of the court to give or withhold from the jury questions or special findings of fact. Floaten v. Ferrell, 24 Neb. 347 (38 N. W. 732).

36. (1896.) The hirer of a team is liable to the owner for want of ordinary care in the use of the team. Prunell v. Minor, 49 Neb. 555 (68 N. W. 942).

37. (1896.) Evidence showing that defendant hired a team of horses of plaintiff to work on a farm, that the team was in good condition when taken, but for want of care became greatly run down and very poor, sustains a finding awarded by the jury. Prunell v. Minor, 49 Neb. 555 (68 N. W. 942).

Running at large.

——— What constitutes.

38. (1892.) When a dog leaves the owner's premises or goes upon the public road, no one having control of him being near, he is running at large within the meaning of the statute. Nehr v. State, 35 Neb. 638 (53 N. W. 573; 17 L. R. A. 771).

38*a*. (1907.) A dog is not running at large within the meaning of section 20, art. 1, Comp. St. 1905, when he is within calling distance and sight of the owner's family and under their control. Brown v. Graham, 80 Neb. 281 (114 N. W. 153).

39. (1895.) A bull which has escaped from the premises of his owner, and broken into the pasture of another person who consents that he may remain there over night, during which time he killed the horse of a third person, was running at large in the night-time within the meaning of section 14, article 3, chapter 2, Compiled Statutes, 1893; Duggan v. Housen, 43 Neb. 277 (61 N. W. 622).

——— Duty and liability of owner.

40. (1892.) It is the duty of the owner to place upon the neck of his dog "a good and sufficient collar with a metallic plate thereon, on which shall be plainly inscribed the name of the owner." If a dog is found running at large without such collar, no action can be maintained for killing the dog. Nehr v. State, 35 Neb. 638 (53 N. W. 589; 17 L. R. A. 771).

41. (1902.) An action will not lie in this state for damages done by cattle, mules, swine or sheep ranging at large upon uncultivated land. But the driving of such animals upon wild land is an actionable wrong. Meyers v. Menter, 63 Neb. 427 (88 N. W. 662).

www.libtool.com.cn
Digitized by Google

—— Frightening horses.

42. (1904.) One whose sole fault is the permitting of young hogs of 60 to 100 pounds weight to go at large upon his own premises, so that they wander across the highway to a neighbor's cornfield, and in running back frighten a passer's horse, is not liable for injuries to the passer's equipage and person produced by such fright. Heist v. Jacoby, 71 Neb. 395 (98 N. W. 1058).

43. (1904.) Act of February 25, laws 1875, page 190, entitled "An act to restrain sheep and swine from running at large in the state of Nebraska," held to have no relation to the protection of users of highways against unconfined hogs. Heist v. Jacoby, 71 Neb. 395 (98 N. W. 1058).

—— Killing animals at large.

44. (1892.) A dog that persistently assails people passing along a public road in a threatening manner is a nuisance, and may be killed by any person so assailed Nehr v. State, 35 Neb. 638 (53 N. W. 589; 17 L. R. A. 771).

45. (1892.) In this state a dog has a money value which the owner may recover from one who wrongfully and unlawfully kills his dog. Nehr v. State, 35 Neb. 638 (53 N. W. 589; 17 L. R. A. 771).

45a. (1907.) Where a jury is instructed that the burden of proof was upon the plaintiff to show that defendant wrongfully killed the plaintiff's dog, the word "wrongful" is presumed to be used in its legal, and not its ethical, sense. Brown v. Graham, 80 Neb. 281 (114 N. W. 153).

45b. (1907.) Evidence examined, and found to support the instruction of the court that no person has a right to kill a dog for past and finished misconduct of the dog so killed. Brown v. Graham, 80 Neb. 281 (114 N. W. 153).

Personal injuries.

Liability of employer for injuries to employe by vicious horse, see Master and Servant, §§ 91, 92.

46. (1883.) It is negligence and want of ordinary care for a person to keep a vicious bull or other dangerous animal insecurely fastened, upon his own premises at a place where other persons are known to go, whether they have a right to go there or not. Glidden v. Moore, 14 Neb. 84 (15 N. W. 326; 45 Am. Rep. 98).

47. (1883.) Where the owner of a bull, that is known to be vicious, caused it to be lariated upon a tract of uninclosed land near a neighborhood road, not a highway, and the bull attacks and kills an old man who is passing along the road, the owner of the bull is liable for the death, in an action by an administrator. Glidden v. Moore, 14 Neb. 84 (15 N. W. 326; 45 Am. Rep. 98).

48. (1890.) Evidence in an action to recover for injuries sustained by reason of a bite by a wolf harbored by defendants, held to sustain a verdict for plaintiff. Manger v. Shipman, 30 Neb. 352 (46 N. W. 527).

49. (1891.) Where an action is brought for mischief done to the person or personal property of another by animals mansuetæ naturæ, such as horses, oxen, cows, sheep, swine, and the like, the owner must be shown to have had notice of their viciousness before he can be charged, because such animals are not by nature fierce or dangerous, and such notice must be alleged in the declaration. Durrell v. Johnson, 31 Neb. 796 (48 N. W. 890).

50. (1893.) Where a master, a corporation, furnished a horse for the use of its servant in the line of his employment, wherein said horse injured the servant, the jury were properly instructed that even if they should find the horse was vicious and dangerous, still that the plaintiff could not recover unless the jury further found from the testimony that the master, through its managers or officers, knew, or by the exercise of proper care and diligence might have known of the vicious and dangerous character of the horse. Hammond Company v. Johnson, 38 Neb. 244 (56 N. W. 967).

51. (1896.) In a suit against the owner of a runaway team which collided with plaintiff's carriage, a finding that defendant was not guilty of negligence was sustained by the evidence. Miller v. Strivens, 48 Neb. 458 (67 N. W. 458).

52. (1903.) An employer's act of unbridling, in connection with the driver, a mare theretofore always gentle and tractable, and putting on her a halter, and then leaving her ordinary driver to lead her to a feed-box to eat, and doing this in front of a tent on the state fair grounds without unhitching her from a wagon, to which she was attached, there being nothing in the surroundings apparently calculated to frighten the mare, was not negligent nor creating any liability of the employer, although immediately after she became unmanageable, and ran over the driver and fatally injured him. Fifer v. Burch, 68 Neb. 217 (94 N. W. 107).

www.libtool.com.cn
Digitized by Google

Injuries to other animals.

53. (1886.) Where the owner of horses is negligent through his servant, a herder, and the horses escape and run upon another's land where they are injured by being run by dogs, the owner of the dogs is not liable for the damage; the owner of the horses being negligent in permitting them to escape from his control. Cook v. Pickrel, 20 Neb. 433 (30 N. W. 421).

www.lihpool.com.cn

54. (1895.) Where a bull has escaped from his owner and broken into the pasture of another person who consents that he remain there over night, the negligence of the owner of the pasture in so permitting the bull to remain there is no defense, for the owner of the animal, to an action by a third person for the value of a horse killed while rightfully in the pasture. Duggan v. Hansen, 43 Neb. 277 (61 N. W. 622).

55. (1903.) In an action based on the provisions of section 18, article 1 of chapter 4 of the Compiled Statutes, against a county to recover damages alleged to have been sustained by reason of the loss of sheep killed by dogs, the plaintiff must allege that the county board, by resolution spread at large upon the records of its proceedings, imposed the proper tax, and provided the manner and conditions of payment to persons making claims against the fund created thereby. McCullough v. Colfax County, 4 Unof. 543 (95 N. W. 29).

55*a*. (1904.) Incompetent questions as to effect of dogs worrying hogs not prejudicial error where evidence tends to show death from a broken shoulder and bruises to internal organs. Kemp v. Briard, 5 Unof. 499 (98 N. W. 1048).

56. (1907.) Section 4 of the act of 1877 (Comp. St., ch. 4, art. I, sec. 20) was intended to give protection to sheep and those domestic animals which are ordinarily the prey of dogs; and not to give the owner of one of the participants in a dog fight the right to kill the other dog. Brown v. Graham, 80 Neb. 281 (114 N. W. 153).

Estrays and trespassing animals.

Liability of railroads for injuries to trespassers, see Railroads, §§ 331-374.

Priority of mortgage over lien for damages for trespass, see Chattel Mortgages, §§ 129, 130.

——— Statutory provisions, and effect as to remedy.

57. (1898.) The remedy afforded by the herd law (Comp. St., ch. 2, art. 3) to one injured by trespassing animals is not an exclusive one. Lorance v. Hillyer, 57 Neb. 266 (77 N. W. 755).

58. (1898.) The herd law (Comp. St., 1897, ch. 2, art. 3) was not enacted to do away with the common-law liability of the owners of stock for damages and trespasses committed by them. Lorance v. Hillyer, 57 Neb. 266 (77 N. W. 755); (1903) Randall v. Gross, 67 Neb. 255 (93 N. W. 223).

59. (1898.) If the common-law rule has been modified by the herd law at all, the extent of the modification is to limit the liability of the owner of trespassing animals to damages committed by them upon cultivated lands. Lorance v. Hillyer, 57 Neb. 266 (77 N. W. 755).

60. (1898.) The object of the herd law (Comp. St., ch. 2, art. 3) was to give one injured by animals trespassing upon his cultivated lands the right to take possession of such animals, invest him with a lien thereon, and the right to hold such animals until his damages were adjusted. Lorance v. Hillyer, 57 Neb. 266 (77 N. W. 755).

——— Liability for trespassers in general.

61. (1880.) The common law fixing a liability for trespass of animal upon lands of another is not applicable to wild and uncultivated lands of this state. Delaney v. Errickson, 10 Neb. 492 (6 N. W. 600; 35 Am. St. Rep. 487).

62. (1880.) An action in the nature of trespass for damages committed by the sheep and cattle of defendant, by pasturing on the uninclosed uncultivated prairie land, of which the plaintiff was lessee of the owner, cannot be maintained. Delaney v. Erickson, 10 Neb. 492 (6 N. W. 600; 35 Am. Rep. 487. [Limited, 12 Neb. 271; 37 Neb. 368.]

63. (1881.) While the owner of domestic animals may lawfully permit them to wander upon and depasture the uninclosed, uncultivated lands of others, he has not right to drive them there without the owner's permission, and if he do so he is answerable for whatever damages they may do while there. Delaney v. Errickson, 11 Neb. 533 (10 N. W. 451).

64. (1885.) Where A purchased of B an enclosed pasture, paying therefor an extra price, the consideration for such extra price being that A might turn his stock into such pasture and thereby avoid the expense and trouble of having to herd his stock, which was fully understood by B, and where the stock were turned into the field, and continued to run there until the pasturage was eaten up, B residing upon the premises and in a position where he could know of any damage being done by the stock, and where he had cribbed his corn on the premises and within the inclosure in which the stock were permitted to run, but A had no knowledge of the existence of the crib of corn, and where A's stock, without his knowledge, ate and destroyed the corn, held, that A would not be liable for such damages and that there was no question of negligence on his part to submit to a trial jury. Holmes v. Irwin, 18 Neb. 313 (25 N. W. 334).

Digitized by Google

65. (1886.) There is no statutory provision for adding damages claimed after the service of notice on the owner of stock taken up under the herd law. Allen v. Van Ostrand, 19 Neb. 578 (27 N. W. 642).

66. (1893.) Where there is no actual enclosure and it is sought to bring lands within the provisions of sections 8, chapter 2, article 3, of the Compiled Statutes, there must be a strip plowed around such land at least one rod in width; and two furrows plowed a rod from each other is not a compliance with the statute. Brown v. Sylvester, 37 Neb. 870 (56 N. W. 709).

67. (1893.) Where cattle trespass upon the unenclosed land of another party and destroy the hay stacked thereon, the owner may recover the value of the property destroyed but will have no lien on the stock which destroyed the same. Brown v. Sylvester 37 Neb. 870 (56 N. W. 709).

68. (1893.) Quære, Whether cattle which have strayed between the 20th of October and the 1st day of April are not subject to the provisions of the estray law. Brown v. Sylvester, 37 Neb. 870 (56 N. W. 709).

69. (1895.) The herd law (Comp. St., ch. 2, art. 3) is applicable to cultivated lands within the limits of cities of the metropolitan class, notwithstanding the charter of such cities granting power to the mayor and council by ordinance to provide for impounding animals running at large. Lingonner v. Ambler, 44 Neb. 316 (62 N. W. 486).

70. (1898.) A city lot on which are planted fruit trees is cultivated land, within the meaning of section 8 of the herd law. Lorance v. Hillyer, 57 Neb. 266 (77 N. W. 755).

71. (1898.) At common law every one was liable for injuries committed by his cattle while trespassing upon the lands of others. Lorance v. Hillyer, 57 Neb. 266 (77 N. W. 755).

72. (1903.) The owner of a ranch is not in possession of an estray running with the cattle of his lessee upon the ranch, when such cattle are in the immediate charge of the lessee's servant. Palmer v. State, 70 Neb. 136 (97 N. W. 235).

73. (1906.) Several owners of animals who have constituted of them a common or joint herd are jointly liable for trespasses committed by such herd. Wilson v. White, 77 Neb. 351 (108 N. W. 367).

——— Nature of remedy of taker-up.

74. (1822.) The remedy for trespass by live stock upon cultivated lands, by impounding, notice to the owner, arbitration, etc., as provided by the act of March 8, 1871, is a cumulative and not an exclusive remedy. Keith v. Tilford, 12 Neb. 271 (11 N. W. 315).

——— Lien of taker-up.

75. (1882.) A person taking up stock for trespass upon cultivated lands under the provisions of the herd law of 1871, acquires no lien upon such stock unless he comply substantially with the provisions of the act by serving notice and selecting an arbitrator. Bucher v. Wagoner, 13 Neb. 424 (14 N. W. 160); (1885) Deirks v. Wielage 18 Neb. 176 (24 N. W. 728); (1892) Hanscom v. Burmood, 35 Neb. 504 (53 N. W. 371); (1896) Sloan v. Bain, 47 Neb. 914 (66 N. W. 1013).

76. (1887). The act of the council and house of representatives of the late territory of Nebraska, entitled "An act to provide for liens upon live stock for their keeping," approved February 18, 1867, does not give a lien upon live stock for their keep superior to the lien of a previously executed, delivered, and recorded mortgage thereon. State Bank of Nebraska v. Lowe, 22 Neb. 68 (33 N. W. 482).

77. (1893.) The owner of land upon which growing crops are destroyed by trespassing cattle that are in the custody of a depasturer is not confined to the lien provided by statute, but may maintain an action for damages. Laflin v. Svoboda, 37 Neb. 368 (55 N. W. 1049).

78. (1885.) Where the taker-up of trespassing stock, upon the application of the owner to do so, refuses to appoint an arbitrator for the purpose of ascertaining the damage done, after an arbitrator has been selected upon the part of the owner, but demands the payment of a specific sum of money, he thereby loses his right to the possession of the stock, and the owner may maintain replevin therefor. Deirks v. Wielage, 18 Neb. 176 (24 N. W. 728).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

——— Notice to owner.

79. (1877.) It is the duty of a party taking up stock, under the provisions of an act for a general herd law to protect cultivated lands from trespass of stock, to give notice to the owner of such stock within a reasonable time after taking up the same. As to what is a reasonable time must be determined by the circumstances of each case. Haggard v. Wallen, 6 Neb. 271.

80. (1881.) An agreement to arbitrate a claim for damages done by a hog to a corn crop, is a waiver of notice of such claim. Shroaf v. Allen, 12 Neb. 109 (10 N. W. 551).

81. (1881.) Where it is shown that the owner of a hog, that is held by another for damages done by it to a crop of corn, had actual notice of the claim for damages, and, also, that the parties had agreed to arbitrate the same, the taker-up is not required to give notice that he has the hog and holds it for the damage done to him. Shroaf v. Allen, 12 Neb. 109 (10 N. W. 551).

82. (1886.) Where stock is taken up under the herd law and notice served on the owner, he has forty-eight hours after receiving the notice to pay the damages and costs and take the stock away. Allen v. Van Ostrand, 19 Neb. 578 (27 N. W. 642).

83. (1892.) The party taking up stock must give notice to the owner thereof within a reasonable time after the same is taken up. Hanscom v. Burmood, 35 Neb. 504 (53 N. W. 371).

84. (1896.) The question of the reasonableness of the notice required to be given the owner of stock taken up, if known, is generally one of fact depending upon the circumstances of the particular case. Sloan v. Bain, 47 Neb. 914 (66 N. W. 1013).

——— Duty and liability of taker-up.

85. (1895.) A person who takes up trespassing animals and holds possession under the herd law is liable for damages resulting from negligence in caring for them. Richardson v. Halstead, 44 Neb. 606 (62 N. W. 1077).

86. (1895.) A person who takes up trespassing animals and holds possession under the herd law must feed, water, and care for them; but he is only required to exercise such care as would be exercised by a person of ordinary prudence under the circumstances. Richardson v. Halstead, 44 Neb. (62 N. W. 1077).

——— Right to castrate.

87. (1882.) The title of an act regulating the herding and driving of stock is not sufficient to include a provision authorizing recovery of damages for castration of animals. Ives v. Norris, 13 Neb. 252 (13 N. W. 276).

——— Arbitration of claim for damages.

88. (1877.) The object of the provision for arbitration is to afford a speedy and inexpensive mode of ascertaining the damage sustained by trespass of stock upon cultivated lands. Courts construe proceedings of this kind with great liberality in all matters except as to the jurisdiction. Haggard v. Wallen, 6 Neb. 271.

89. (1894.) The provisions of sections 991-995 of the code of civil procedure are not applicable to awards made under article 3, chapter 2, Compiled Statutes, 1893. Holub v. Mitchell, 42 Neb. 389 (60 N. W. 596).

90. (1895.) The authority of arbitrators appointed under the herd law is merely to appraise the damages and costs sustained by the land-owner, and, therefore, any right of action which may accrue to the owner of the stock by reason of the former's negligence in keeping the same is not barred by the fact that the statutory arbitration was had and damages assessed and paid. Richardson v. Halstead, 44 Neb. 606 (62 N. W. 1077).

91. (1903.) A mortgagee of cattle cannot, in a proceeding under the herd law, be bound by an award made without giving him a hearing or an opportunity to be heard. Notice to the owner of cattle in such a proceeding is not notice to the mortgagee. Goff v. Byers Bros. & Co., 70 Neb. 1 (96 N. W. 1037).

92. (1903.) The remedy by distress under article 3, chapter 2, Compiled Statutes, is given to enforce, in a summary manner, a claim for damages against the owner of cattle who is charged with the duty of keeping them off the cultivated lands of others. A mortgagee, without possession, is not an owner within the meaning of the statute. Goff v. Byers Bros. & Co., 70 Neb. 1 (96 N. W. 1037).

93. (1903.) Under the provisions of the herd law, "the object of the provision for arbitrating is to afford a speedy and inexpensive mode of ascertaining the damages sustained by trespass of stock upon cultivated lands. Courts construe proceedings of this kind with great liberality in all matters except as to the jurisdiction." Randall v. Gross, 67 Neb. 255 (93 N. W. 223).

Digitized by Google

—— Replevin of animals by owner.

94. (1881.) A tender of the amount claimed for animals taken up under the herd law must be made before an action of replevin to recover possession of the animal may be brought. Shroaf v. Allen, 12 Neb. 109 (10 N. W. 551).

95. (1881.) In an action of replevin of a hog that was taken up by defendant as trespassing in his corn field, the defendant may introduce evidence to show that the parties had agreed to arbitrate, and that on the appointed day defendant's arbitrator came but plaintiff's did not. Shroaf v. Allen, 12 Neb. 109 (10 N. W. 551).

96. (1886.) When one takes up stock under the herd law and serves the required notice and the damages claimed, but twenty-four hours later demands additional damages, which is refused, he does not wrongfully detain the stock when, before replevin is brought, he notifies the owner to take the stock at the damages first claimed. Allen v. Van Ostrand, 19 Neb. 578 (27 N. W. 642).

97. (1903.) The owner of trespassing animals which have been taken up under the provisions of Compiled Statutes, chapter 2, article 3, section 3, in determining the amount of the tender, acts at his peril. For, if the damages are shown to exceed the amount tendered he will fail in his action. McAllister v. Wrede, 5 Unof. 82 (97 N. W. 318).

98. (1903.) Where the taker-up of trespassing stock under the provisions of section 3, article 3, chapter 2, of the Compiled Statutes, commonly called the "Herd Law," by his notice makes an illegal demand on the owner as a condition for its delivery, the owner may refuse to comply with such illegal demand, tender payment of the amount of damages done by such stock, and maintain replevin to recover its possession. McAllister v. Wrede, 5 Unof. 82 (97 N. W. 318).

—— Actions for damages, nature of.

99. (1903.) Sections 3, 4, 5, and 6, article 3, chapter 2, Compiled Statutes, entitled the "Herd Law" provide a reasonable method of procedure in the nature of an action in rem against tresspassing stock, and that proceedings under these sections are not in conflict with constitutional guaranties. Randall v. Gross, 67 Neb. 255 (93 N. W. 223).

—— Actions, jurisdiction.

100. (1885.) Under the provisions of the herd law of Nebraska, when proof of damage and the service of notice as provided by that law is filed with a justice of the peace, by the taker-up of stock, the issuance and service of summons are not necessary to give the justice jurisdiction to issue execution. Holmes v. Irwin, 17 Neb. 99 (22 N. W. 124, 347).

101. (1885.) When jurisdiction under the herd law is acquired, the fact that the justice of the peace renders an illegal and void "judgment" will not destroy such jurisdiction, and the issuance of the execution and sale of the property will not be held to be void. Holmes v. Irwin, 17 Neb. 99 (22 N. W. 124, 347).

102. (1903.) In proceedings under the herd law, the filing of a notice and proof of damages with a justice of the peace is sufficient to give him jurisdiction, without the issuance and service of a summons. Randall v. Gross, 67 Neb. 255 (93 N. W. 223).

—— Actions, petition.

103. (1902.) A petition which states that the defendant, with his cattle, broke and entered upon plaintiff's premises, and injured and destroyed property thereon, charges a willful trespass, and is good against a general demurrer. Meyers v. Menter, 63 Neb. 427 (88 N. W. 662).

—— Actions, damages.

104. (1898.) An instruction in an action for damages to a growing crop of corn by trespassing animals, that charges the jury the measure of damages is the market value at the time the damage was done, less an amount claimed by defendant, is erroneous as ambiguous. Stewart v. Demming, 54 Neb. 7 (74 N. W. 265).

—— Actions, evidence.

105. (1880.) In an action for damages from trespassing cattle on open and wild land, brought by a lessee, it is error to admit as evidence a letterpress copy of letter written by an agent of the lessor to his principal, concerning the leasing of the lands to plaintiff. Delaney v. Errickson, 10 Neb. 492 (6 N. W. 600; 35 Am. Rep. 487).

105*a*. (1881.) In an action to recover damages for grain in the field destroyed by defendant's hogs, where there was evidence that other hogs than those of defendant committed a portion of the injury, but no proof

www.libtool.com.cn
Digitized by Google

as to the proportion thereof committed by defendant's hogs, a verdict for only 25 cents cannot be said to be against the weight of the evidence. Blanchard v. Loges, 11 Neb. 460 (9 N. W. 568).

www.ubtool.com.cn

105*b*. (1882.) Where, in an action for trespass, evidence of the destruction of a field of corn by a herd of about six hundred cattle, witnesses recognized the brand and ear marks of the defendants on about two hundred of the cattle of the herd, it is prima facie evidence for plaintiff. Keith & Barton v. Tilford, 12 Neb. 271 (11 N. W. 315).

106. (1883.) Where the evidence only shows a threat by defendant to shoot plaintiff's stock if not kept at home, and plaintiff's colt was found injured on defendant's premises, a finding for defendant will not be set aside. Bolar v. Williams, 14 Neb. 386 (15 N. W. 716).

Exhibition of a nuisance.

107. (1907.) The exhibition of a stallion on the public streets of a city or village may be declared a nuisance by the municipal authorities and punished as such. State v. Iams, 78 Neb. 678 (111 N. W. 604).

Pounds.

108. (1898.) Where a village ordinance provides for impounding animals found running at large, and fixes certain fees which must be paid before the animal will be released, no lien is created for any fees or charges not included within those specified. Martin v. Foltz, 54 Neb. 162 (74 N. W. 418).

Sale of diseased animals.

109. (1891.) A sale of hogs to come within section 76 of the criminal code, making it unlawful to sell diseased animals, must be made with knowledge, or such notice as to impute knowledge of the fact of an infection of the hogs. Stryker v. Crane, 33 Neb. 690 (50 N. W. 1132).

110. (1891.) Under section 76 of the criminal code, Compiled Statutes, the use of the words "contagious or infectious" in the statute is believed to have been intended to describe one disease, and not distinctive diseases. Stryker v. Crane, 33 Neb. 690 (50 N. W. 1132).

111. (1906.) Section 13, chapter 4, article 1, Compiled Statutes, enacting a penalty for selling glandered horses or permitting them to run at large, was not superseded or repealed by a subsequent act to prevent the importation, selling or permitting to run at large of any domestic animal afflicted with a contagious disease, being sections 3174 to 3177 of said statutes, the latter being general in its terms, while the former has a special and particular object. Canham v. Bruegman, 77 Neb. 436 (109 N. W. 733).

ANNEXATION.

Of fixtures, see Fixtures, §§ 4-10.

Of territory to county, see Counties, § 30.

Of territory to cities, see Municipal Corporation, §§ 41-60.

ANSWER.

In particular proceedings, see Specific Topics.

Effect as appearance, see Appearance.

In general, see Pleading, III.

In equity, see Equity, § 81.

In quo warranto, see Quo Warranto, §§ 27-34.

ANTENUPTIAL AGREEMENTS.

See Husband and wife, §§ 22-24.

ANTI-TRUST LAWS.

See Monopolies.

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

APPEAL AND ERROR.

ANALYSIS.

I. NATURE AND FORM OF REMEDY.
Right of review, §§ 1-3.
Statutory provisions, §§ 4, 5.
Cross-appeals, §§ 6, 7.
Proper mode of review, §§ 8-16.
——— Legal actions, §§ 17-21.
——— Equitable actions, §§ 22-28.
——— Probate proceedings, §§ 29-33.
——— Eminent domain proceedings, § 34.
——— Habeas corpus proceeding, §§ 35-37.
——— Mandamus proceeding, §§ 38, 39.
——— Proceedings to vacate judgments, §§ 40-42.
Election between remedies, §§ 43, 44.
——— Necessity, §§ 45-47.
——— Effect of filing transcript, §§ 48, 49.
——— Effect of filing petition in error, §§ 50-52.
——— Taking writ of error on dismissal of appeal, §§ 53, 54.

II. DECISION REVIEWABLE.
(A) Courts and other tribunals subject to review.
Secretary of state, § 55.
County board, §§ 56, 57.
District judge at chambers, § 58.
County court, § 59.
(B) Nature of subject-matter.
Jurisdiction of trial court, § 59a.
Probate proceedings, § 60.
Divorce actions, § 61.
Orders in receivership, § 62.
Smallest of damages in tort actions, §§ 63-66.
(C) Finality of determination.
Necessity of final determination, §§ 67-70.
What are final orders or judgments, §§ 71-75.
——— Interlocutory orders in general, §§ 76-80.
——— Judgment for costs, §§ 81-86.
——— Taxation of costs, §§ 87, 88.
——— Injunction, § 89.
——— Dissolving or modifying injunction, §§ 90-99.
——— Discharging or denying attachment, §§ 100-102.
——— Quashing service of process, §§ 103-105.
——— Opening or vacating judgment, §§ 106-108.
——— Setting aside execution, § 109.
——— Confirming or setting aside sale, §§ 110-112.
——— Motions to dismiss, §§ 113-115.
——— Motions for default, §§ 116, 117.
——— Rulings on pleadings, §§ 118-123.
——— Approval of bonds, § 124.
——— Granting new trial, §§ 125, 126.
——— Appointment of receiver, §§ 127-129.
——— Intervention, §§ 130-132.
——— Order for payment of money into court, § 133.
——— Alimony allowance, §§ 134, 135.

Digitized by Google

——— Reversal of justice of the peace or county court, §§ 136-139.
——— Probate proceedings, §§ 140-142.
——— Foreclosure proceedings, §§ 143-147.
——— Proceedings in aid of execution, § 148.
——— Partition proceedings, § 149.
——— Writ of assistance, § 150.

(D) Nature, scope and effect of decision.
Discretionary matter, § 151.
Affecting substantial rights, §§ 152, 153.
Ministerial duties, § 154.
Matters of procedure, §§ 155, 156.
Relating to costs, § 157.

(E) Mode of rendition, form, and entry of judgment or order.
Necessity of formal judgment, §§ 158-162.
Sufficiency of entry, §§ 163-165.
——— Finding or memorandum, §§ 166-170.

III. RIGHT OF REVIEW.

(A) Persons entitled.
Parties of record, or privies, §§ 171-177.
Parties not prejudiced, §§ 178, 179.
Interest in subject matter, §§ 180-184.
——— Sureties of parties, § 185.
——— Attorneys of parties, § 186.

(B) Estoppel, waiver, or agreements affecting right.
Inconsistent position or action in general, §§ 187-191.
Acquiescence in decision, §§ 192-197.
Compliance with judgment, §§ 198, 199.
Acceptance of benefits, §§ 200-202.
Agreements and stipulations, §§ 203-207.

IV. PRESENTATION AND RESERVATION IN LOWER COURT OF GROUNDS OF REVIEW.

(A) Issues and questions in lower court.
Necessity of presentation in general, §§ 208-220.
Theory of cause, §§ 221-225.
Grounds of action or relief, §§ 226, 227.
Grounds of defense, §§ 228-232.
——— Invalidity of statute, § 233.
——— Capacity or right to sue, §§ 234, 235.
——— Defect of parties, §§ 236, 237.
——— Statute of limitations, § 238.
Construction of pleadings, §§ 239-244.
Construction of contract, § 245.
Facts admitted or not denied, § 246.
Evidence considered without offer, § 247.
Questions in intermediate court, §§ 248, 249.

(B) Objections, motions and requests, and rulings thereon.
Necessity in general, §§ 250-252.
Sufficiency in general, § 253.
Nature and form of remedy, §§ 254-259.
Trial in absence of counsel or witnesses or reporter, §§ 260-262.
Qualification and selection of jurors, §§ 263-265.
Trial without jury, §§ 266, 267.
Process, § 268.
——— Sufficiency of objection, § 269.
Parties, §§ 270-272.

Digitized by Google

Pleadings, §§ 273, 278.
——— Failure to state cause of action or defense, §§ 279-284.
——— Joinder of causes, § 285.
——— Construction of pleading not objected to, §§ 286, 287.
——— Variance, §§ 288, 289.
Admission of evidence, §§ 290-303.
——— Form of question, § 304.
——— Sufficiency of objection, §§ 305-325.
——— Motion to strike out answer, §§ 326-330.
Offer of proof on exclusion of evidence, §§ 331-342.
Qualification of witnesses, § 343.
Stipulation, § 344.
Misconduct of counsel, §§ 345-351.
Instructions, §§ 352-356.
Verdict and findings, §§ 357-362.
Dismissal, § 363.
Judgment, §§ 364-366.
Vacation or modification of judgment, § 367.
Judicial sale, §§ 368-373.
Motion to retax costs, §§ 374-377.
Objections in intermediate court, §§ 378-384.
Request for instructions, §§ 385-393.
Request for findings, § 394.
Request for judgment, §§ 395, 396.
(C) Exceptions.
Necessity in general, §§ 397, 398.
Sufficiency in general, §§ 399, 400.
Discretionary matters, § 401.
Motions and rulings thereon in general, §§ 402-405.
Rulings as to parties, § 406.
Rulings as to pleadings, §§ 407-413.
Continuance granted or denied, § 414.
Evidence admitted or excluded, §§ 415-417.
——— Sufficiency of exceptions, §§ 418, 419.
Report of referee, § 420.
Submission of issues and special findings, §§ 421, 422.
Direction of verdict, § 423.
Instructions given or refused, §§ 424-432.
——— Numbering and endorsement and filing of instructions, §§ 433-438.
——— Sufficiency of exception, §§ 439-453.
Misconduct of counsel, §§ 454-456.
Judgment or findings, §§ 457, 458.
Ruling on motion for new trial, §§ 459-461.
Decisions of intermediate courts, §§ 462-464.
(D) Motion for new trial.
Necessity in general, §§ 465-477.
Sufficiency in general, §§ 478, 479.
Necessity for review on appeal, §§ 480-483.
Summary proceedings, § 484.
Equitable actions, §§ 485-487.
Review of sufficiency of pleadings, §§ 488-498.
Review of rulings on motions, §§ 499-501.
Review of rulings as to admission of evidence, §§ 502-506.
Review of sufficiency of evidence, §§ 507-509.
Review of ruling on petition of intervention, § 510.
Review of instructions given or refused, §§ 511, 512.
Review of sufficiency of findings of court or referee, §§ 513-515.
Review of ruling on motion to vacate confirmation of sale, § 516.

Digitized by Google

Review of decisions of intermediate courts or bodies, §§ 517-524.
Necessity of timely motion, §§ 525, 526.
Joint motion, §§ 527-531.
Separate motions by coparties, § 532.
Statement of grounds, and assignments of error, §§ 533-541.
——— Competency and selection of jurors, § 542.
——— Rulings on pleadings, §§ 543, 544.
——— Admission or exclusion of evidence, §§ 545-550.
——— Instructions, §§ 551-563.
——— Directing or refusing to direct verdict, §§ 564, 565.
——— Assessment of damages, §§ 566-571.
——— Verdict, §§ 572-579.
Necessity of ruling on motion, § 580.
Affidavits supporting motion, § 581.

V. PARTIES.

Necessary parties in general, §§ 582-584.
——— Review of joint judgment, §§ 585-593.
Appellants or plaintiffs in error, §§ 594, 595.
——— Separate proceedings by one or more coparties, §§ 596, 597.
Intervention or addition of new parties, § 598.
Death, §§ 599-601.
Defects and objections and waiver, §§ 602-605.

VI. REQUISITES AND PROCEEDINGS FOR TRANSFER OF CAUSE.

(A) Time of taking proceedings.
Taking appeal, §§ 606-610.
——— Review on error when appeal taken too late, §§ 611, 612.
Bringing proceedings in error, §§ 613-620.
Commencement of period of limitation, §§ 621-625.
——— Effect of motion for new trial, §§ 626-630.
Computation of time limited, §§ 631, 632.
Excuses for delay, §§ 633-639.
Extension of time.
——— Judicial authority, §§ 640-644.
——— Consent of parties, §§ 645-647.

(B) Petition in error.
Necessity, §§ 648, 649.
Designation of parties, § 650.
Signature and verification, §§ 651, 652.
Amendment, §§ 653-655.

(C) Bonds or other securities.
Necessity, §§ 656-659.
Amount or penalty, §§ 660-662.
——— Fixing of amount, §§ 663-665.
Sureties, §§ 666-668.
Execution, §§ 669.
Time for furnishing, § 670.
Amendment, §§ 671-676.
Effect of insufficiency, §§ 677, 678.

(D) Notice of appeal and summons.
Necessity and sufficiency of notice, §§ 679-681.
Necessity of summons, §§ 682-684.
Time for issuance of summons, § 685.
Authority to serve, §§ 686, 687.
Sufficiency of service, §§ 688-691.
——— Publication, § 692.
Effect of failure to serve, §§ 693, 694.
Waiver of summons or defects therein, §§ 695, 696.

Digitized by Google

——— Authority of attorney, §§ 697-701.
(E) Appearance.
Effect of appearance, § 702.

VII. EFFECT OF TRANSFER OF CAUSE OR PROCEEDINGS THEREFOR.
Jurisdiction acquired by appellate court.
——— Over person of appellant or plaintiff in error, §§ 703-709.
——— Over subject matter, §§ 710-712.

VIII. SUPERSEDEAS OR STAY OF PROCEEDINGS.
Judgments which may be superseded, §§ 713, 714.
Operation of appeal or writ of error in general, §§ 715-720.
Fixing conditions of bond, §§ 720a, 720b.
Operation of supersedeas bond, §§ 721-726.
——— Sufficiency of bond, §§ 727-729.
Qualifications of sureties, § 729a.
Additional or new security, § 730.
Approval of bond, § 730a.
Allowance by court, §§ 730b-733.
Proceeding in cause upon giving security for restitution, §§ 734, 735.

IX. RECORD AND PROCEEDINGS NOT IN RECORD.
(A) Matters which should be contained in record.
Tribunal where proceedings were had, §§ 736, 737.
Jurisdiction of lower court, §§ 738, 739.
Rules of lower court, § 740.
Docket of lower court, § 741.
Contents of record on former appeal or in another case, §§ 742-745.
Examination of jurors, § 746.
Process, § 747.
Pleadings, §§ 748-758.
——— Amendment of pleadings, §§ 759-762.
Motions, §§ 763-766.
Proceedings for removal of cause, § 767.
Evidence, §§ 768-782.
——— All of the evidence, §§ 783-792.
——— Excluded evidence, §§ 793, 795.
——— Depositions, §§ 796, 797.
——— For review of questions of fact, §§ 798-813.
——— For review of instructions, §§ 814-818.
——— For review of ruling on motion for new trial, §§ 819-821.
——— For review on appeal, §§ 822-825.
Ruling on evidence, § 826.
Affidavits, §§ 827-835.
Stipulations, § 836.
Fact as to which mistake is claimed, § 837.
Instructions, §§ 838-841.
Misconduct of counsel, §§ 842-845.
Allowance of attorney's fees, § 846.
Verdict, § 847.
Judgment or final order, §§ 848-858.
Grounds for decision, § 859.
Presentation of question to lower court, §§ 860-870.
Ruling of court on objections, §§ 871-873.
Opinion of lower court, §§ 874-875.
Review of decision of intermediate court, §§ 876-885.
Matters not essential to review, §§ 886-892.
(B) Necessity of bill of exceptions to bring matters into record.
In general, §§ 893-900.

Digitized by Google

For review on appeal, § 901.
Evidence, §§ 902-917.
Depositions, §§ 918, 919.
Affidavits, §§ 920-937.
Instructions, §§ 938-942.
Motions, §§ 943, 944.
Stipulations, §§ 945-947.
Rules of district court, § 948.
Certificates, § 949.
Effect of failure to procure bill, §§ 950, 951.
(C) Contents, making and settlement of bill of exceptions.
Nature and purposes in general, §§ 952, 953.
Requisites and sufficiency in general, §§ 954-959.
Statutory provisions, § 960.
Right to bill, § 961.
Matters included in general, §§ 962-966.
Incorporating evidence at former trial, § 967.
Incorporating exhibits, §§ 968, 969.
Incorporating grounds of objection, § 970.
Duty of stenographer to furnish transcript, § 971.
Presentment to adverse party, §§ 972-980a.
Proposed amendments, §§ 981-986.
——— Effect of failure to propose amendments, §§ 987, 988.
Time for preparation and service, §§ 989-1002.
——— Presumptions as to time, § 1003.
——— Extension of time, §§ 1004-1020.
——— Effect of delay, §§ 1021-1024.
Notice of presentment for allowance, § 1025.
Stipulations as to allowance or settlement, §§ 1026-1029.
Settlement, §§ 1030-1036.
——— Loss of signature, § 1037.
Authority to settle—Referee, §§ 1038-1040.
——— Chairman of county board, § 1041.
——— Judge of district court, § 1042.
——— Trial judge whose term has expired, § 1043.
——— Clerk of court, §§ 1044-1052.
——— Stipulation authorizing clerk to settle, §§ 1053-1058.
Time for allowance and settlement, §§ 1059-1061.
——— Commencement of running of limitation, §§ 1062-1067.
——— Excuses for delay, §§ 1068-1074.
——— Presumption as to time, §§ 1075-1077.
——— Effect of delay, § 1078.
Compelling allowance or settlement, §§ 1079-1081.
Consideration of quashed or defective bill, §§ 1082-1086.
(D) Abstracts of record.
Contents, §§ 1087-1089.
Effect as limitation of record, §§ 1090-1093.
(E) Making, form and requisites of transcripts.
Necessity, §§ 1094-1096.
——— By cross-appellant, §§ 1097, 1098.
Nature and form, §§ 1099-1101.
Contents, §§ 1102, 1103.
Substitutes, §§ 1104, 1105.
——— Original papers, §§ 1106-1110.
Effect of failure to make proper transcript, 1111, 1112.
(F) Authentication and certification.
Authentication by clerk, §§ 1113-1135.

Digitized by Google

——— Sufficiency, §§ 1136-1146.
——— Alteration of certificates, § 1147.
——— Loss of authentication, § 1148.
——— Stipulation as substitute, § 1149.
Certificate as to contents by judge or referee, §§ 1150-1153.
——— Sufficiency, §§ 1154-1165.
——— Effect of recitals, § 1166.

(G) Transmission and filing.
Necessity, §§ 1167-1172a.
Withdrawal, § 1173.

(H) Defects, objections, amendment and correction.
Effect of defects, §§ 1174-1176.
Clerical errors, § 1177.
Objections and motions to quash, §§ 1178-1186.
Waiver of objections, §§ 1187-1205.
Amendment or correction in trial court, §§ 1206-1218.
Amendment or correction in appellate court, §§ 1219-1231a.
Additional transcript, § 1232.
Cost of including unnecessary papers, §§ 1233, 1234.

(I) Conclusiveness, impeachment and contradicting.
Conclusiveness of transcript or bill of exceptions, §§ 1235-1247.
Conclusiveness of certificate, §§ 1248-1251.
Conflict in record, § 1252.
Impeachment or contradicting, §§ 1253-1255.
Affidavits, §§ 1256-1260.

(J) Questions presented for review.
Limitation by scope of record in general, §§ 1261-1265.
In absence of bill of exceptions, §§ 1266-1284.

X. ASSIGNMENT OF ERRORS.
Specification of errors, §§ 1285-1293.
——— Error of law occurring at trial, §§ 1294-1299.
——— Pleadings, §§ 1300-1302.
——— Admission or exclusion of evidence, §§ 1303-1322a.
——— Sufficiency of evidence, §§ 1323-1325.
——— Instructions, §§ 1326-1335a.
——— Misconduct of jury, § 1336.
——— Verdict, §§ 1337-1341.
——— Judgment, §§ 1342-1346.
——— Ruling on motion for new trial, § 1347.
Including several errors in one assignment, § 1348.
——— Instructions, §§ 1349-1351.
——— Rulings on evidence, §§ 1352-1353.
Joint assignments, § 1354.
Effect of failure to assign particular errors, §§ 1355-1362.
——— Sufficiency of pleadings, §§ 1363, 1364.
——— Rulings on evidence, § 1365.
——— Sufficiency of evidence, § 1366.
——— Instructions, §§ 1367-1369.
——— Assessment of damages, §§ 1370-1372.
——— Verdict, § 1373.
——— Form of judgment, § 1374.
——— Rulings on motion for new trial, §§ 1375-1380.
Defects and objections, §§ 1381, 1381a.
Waiver of assignments, § 1382.
Affidavits to support assignments, § 1383.

www.tiptool.com.cn
Digitized by Google

XI. BRIEFS.
Specification of errors, §§ 1384-1388.
——— Sufficiency, §§ 1389-1391.
Points and arguments, §§ 1392-1395.
Improper recitals, §§ 1396-1397.
——— Striking out brief, §§ 1398-1400.
Filing and service, §§ 1401-1404.
Failure to file or serve, §§ 1405-1408.
——— Affirmance of judgment, §§ 1409-1414.

XII. DISMISSAL OR ABANDONMENT.
Voluntary dismissal or withdrawal, § 1415.
Dismissal on consent, § 1416.
Grounds for dismissal.
——— Mistake in form of remedy, § 1417.
——— Want of final judgment, § 1418.
——— Failure to preserve question for review, §§ 1419-1424.
——— Defect of parties, §§ 1425, 1426.
——— Failure to take proceedings in time, §§ 1427-1433.
——— Defect in appeal bond, §§ 1434, 1435.
——— Defects relating to record, §§ 1436-1444.
——— Failure to prosecute proceedings, §§ 1445-1447.
——— Review unnecessary or ineffectual, §§ 1448-1452.
——— Waiver of objections, §§ 1453-1456.
Motion to dismiss.
——— Notice, §§ 1457, 1458.
——— Question considered, §§ 1459-1463a.
Abandonment, §§ 1464, 1465.

XIII. DOCKETS AND CALENDARS.
Order of causes, §§ 1466, 1467.

XIV. HEARING AND REHEARING.
In general, § 1468.
Effect of failure to appear, §§ 1469, 1470.
Arguments of counsel, § 1471.
Rehearing, §§ 1472, 1473.
——— Motions, §§ 1474-1476.
——— Grounds, §§ 1477-1479.
——— Hearing on application, § 1480.
——— Effect of application as stay of proceedings, §§ 1481, 1481a.

XV. REVIEW.
(A) Scope and extent in general.
Matters considered in determining questions, §§ 1482, 1482b.
Instruction not complained of as law of case, § 1483.
Questions considered in general, § 1484.
——— Matters not necessary to decision, § 1485.
——— Appeal by portion only of the parties, § 1486.
Theory and grounds of decision of lower court, §§ 1487, 1488b.
——— Questions arising subsequent to decision, § 1489.
Extent of review dependent on mode of review, §§ 1490-1494.
Nature of decision appealed from, §§ 1495, 1496.
——— Default judgment, § 1497.
(B) Interlocutory, collateral and supplemental proceedings.
On appeal from final decision, §§ 1498-1501.
On appeal from order made after judgment, §§ 1502, 1503.
(C) Parties entitled to allege error.
Appellee, § 1504.
Joint party not appealing, § 1505.
Error affecting only coparty, §§ 1506-1508.

Digitized by Google

Estoppel to allege error, § 1509.
——— Error committed or invited by party complaining, §§ 1510-1537.
——— Assent to proceedings, §§ 1538-1546.
——— Recognition of validity of proceedings, §§ 1547-1551.
www.libtool.com.cn
(D) Amendments, additional proofs, and trial de novo.
Amendment of proceedings of lower court, §§ 1552, 1553.
Further pleadings, § 1554.
Addition proofs, § 1555.
——— Reference, § 1556.
Trial de novo, §§ 1557-1559.

(E) Presumptions.
Proceedings of trial court in general, §§ 1560-1567.
Burden of showing error, §§ 1568-1578.
Court where case originated, § 1579.
Jurisdiction of lower court, §§ 1580-1583.
On appeal from intermediate court, §§ 1584-1592.
Preliminary and interlocutory proceedings, §§ 1593-1599.
——— Special appearance, § 1600.
Process, § 1601.
Parties, § 1602.
Pleadings, §§ 1603-1609.
Qualifications of judge, § 1610.
Admissibility of evidence, §§ 1611, 1612.
Depositions, § 1613.
Sufficiency of evidence, §§ 1614-1627.
Instructions given or refused, §§ 1628-1633.
On direction of verdict, §§ 1634-1636a.
Conduct of counsel, § 1637.
Verdict, § 1638.
Ruling on application for receiver, § 1639.
Special findings of jury, § 1640.
Findings of court or referee, §§ 1641-1645.
Judgment, §§ 1646, 1647.
——— Default, § 1648.
Proceedings in enforcement of judgment or decree, §§ 1649-1654.
Order granting or refusing new trial, §§ 1655-1657.
Presentation of question for review, §§ 1658, 1659.

(F) Discretion of lower court.
Burden of showing abuse of discretion, §§ 1660, 1661.
Ruling on motion for continuance, or change of venue, §§ 1662-1667a.
Ruling on petition to reinstate cause, § 1668.
Rulings as to pleadings, § 1669.
——— Amendments, §§ 1670-1675.
Rulings as to stipulations, § 1676.
Rulings on examination of jurors, §§ 1677-1682.
Conduct of trial in general, § 1682a.
Rulings on evidence, §§ 1683-1687.
——— Competency of witnesses, §§ 1688-1691.
Order of proof, §§ 1692, 1693.
Exclusion of witness, § 1694.
Examination of witnesses, §§ 1695-1698.
——— Leading questions, §§ 1699, 1700.
Reopening case for further testimony, §§ 1701, 1702.
Rulings on requests for special findings, § 1703.
Arguments of counsel, §§ 1704-1706.
Vacating or modifying judgments, §§ 1707-1710.
New trials, §§ 1711-1715.

Digitized by Google

Directions to receiver, § 1716.
Taxation of costs, §§ 1717-1719.
(G) Questions of fact, verdicts, and findings.
Credibility of witnesses, §§ 1720-1723.
Verdicts, §§ 1724-1729.
——— In equitable actions, §§ 1730, 1731.
——— Sufficiency of evidence to support, §§ 1732-1753.
——— Conflicting evidence, §§ 1754-1767a.
——— Against weight of evidence, §§ 1768-1776.
——— Approval of trial court, §§ 1777, 1778.
——— Sucessive verdicts, §§ 1779-1782.
Ruling on motion, §§ 1783-1789.
Findings of court, §§ 1790-1800.
——— Sufficiency of evidence, §§ 1801-1818.
——— Conflicting evidence, §§ 1819-1830.
——— Decision on motion for new trial, §§ 1831-1840.
Findings of referee, §§ 1841-1844.
(H) Harmless error.
Prejudice as grounds of review in general, § 1845.
Error not affecting substantial right, §§ 1846-1858.
Errors not affecting result, §§ 1859-1862.
Errors in cases of decisions correct on merits, §§ 1863-1873b.
Presumptions as to effect of error, § 1874.
Burden to show prejudice from error, §§ 1875, 1876.
Error favorable to party complaining, §§ 1877-1890.
Pleadings, §§ 1891-1898.
——— Amendments, § 1899.
——— Striking out, §§ 1900-1902.
——— Variance, §§ 1903, 1904.
——— Error cured by instructions, § 1905.
Ruling on motion for security for costs, §§ 1906-1908.
Ruling on application for continuance, §§ 1909-1911.
Selection and impaneling of jury, §§ 1912-1915.
Admission of evidence, §§ 1916-1923.
——— Evidence not affecting result, §§ 1924-1927a.
——— In cases tried without jury, §§ 1928-1936a.
——— Defects supplied or objection removed subsequently, §§ 1937-1939.
——— Facts otherwise established, §§ 1940-1951a.
——— Facts admitted or assumed, §§ 1952-1954.
——— Error cured by withdrawal, striking out, or instructions to jury, §§ 1955-1958.
Exclusion of evidence, § 1959.
——— Ineffective evidence, §§ 1960-1965.
——— Exclusion under wrong objection, §§ 1966, 1967.
——— Facts otherwise established, §§ 1968-1971a.
——— Error cured by subsequent admission or instruction to jury, §§ 1972-1979.
Dismissal, nonsuit, or direction of verdict, §§ 1980, 1981.
Instructions, §§ 1982-1996.
——— Failure to mark as given or refused, §§ 1997-1999.
——— Verdict correct on the merits, §§ 2000-2007.
——— Refusal of requests, §§ 2008-2012.
——— Cure by other instruction, §§ 2013-2019.
——— Cure by remittitur, §§ 2020, 2021.
Submission of issues or questions to jury, § 2022.
Misconduct of counsel, §§ 2023-2026.
Misconduct of court, §§ 2027, 2028.
Conduct and deliberations of jury, §§ 2029-2031.

Digitized by Google

Verdict, §§ 2032-2034.
——— Special findings, §§ 2035, 2036.
Judgment, §§ 2037-2039.
——— Wrong reason for correct decision, §§ 2040-2042.
Decision on motion for new trial, §§ 2043, 2044.
(I) Error waived in appellate court.
Failure to appear, § 2045.
Delay in urging objections, §§ 2046, 2047.
Failure to urge objections in brief or argument, §§ 2048-2052a.
(J) Decisions of intermediate courts.
In general, § 2053.
(K) Subsequent appeals.
Scope and extent of review, §§ 2054-2059.
Former decision as law of the case in general, §§ 2060-2071a.
Questions concluded, §§ 2072-2091.
XVI. DETERMINATION AND DISPOSITION OF CAUSE.
(A) Decision in general.
Remand without decision, §§ 2092, 2093.
Effect of lack of jurisdiction, § 2094.
Consolidated causes, § 2095.
Scope of decision, § 2096.
Scope and extent of relief, §§ 2097, 2098.
——— Persons entitled, §§ 2099, 2100.
(B) Affirmance.
Error not shown, § 2101.
Reversal ineffectual or not beneficial, § 2102.
Remission of part of recovery, §§ 2103-2113.
——— Reference to determine amount of deduction, §§ 2114, 2115.
(C) Modification.
Correction of errors, §§ 2116-2118.
Rendering judgment which lower court should have rendered, §§ 2119-2124.
Granting relief not prayed for in lower court, § 2125.
(D) Reversal.
Error as to grounds of decision, § 2126.
Error complained of by both parties, § 2127.
Reversal as to one or more coparties, §§ 2128-2130.
Directing further proceedings in lower court, §§ 2131-2137.
Rendering final judgment, §§ 2138-2141.
Reinstatement of former verdict, § 2142.
Stipulation as to disposition of case, § 2143.
Scope and effect of reversal, §§ 2144, 2145.
Right of appellant to restitution, §§ 2146-2149.
——— Compelling restitution, §§ 2150-2155.
(E) Rendition, form, and entry of judgment.
Modification, §§ 2156, 2157.
(F) Mandate and proceedings in lower court.
Mandate.
——— Necessity, § 2158.
——— Correction in lower court, § 2159.
Powers and duties of lower court.
——— Further proceedings in general, §§ 2160-2165.
——— Amendment of pleadings, §§ 2166-2173.
——— Compliance with mandate, §§ 2174-2176.
——— Enforcement of compliance by mandamus, §§ 2177, 2178.
New trial, §§ 2179-2182.
——— Scope of issue, §§ 2183-2191a.

Digitized by Google

(G) Jurisdiction and proceedings of appellate court after remand. Modification of judgment, § 2192.

XVII. LIABILITIES ON BONDS AND UNDERTAKINGS.

Nature and construction and validity of obligation, §§ 2193-2197.
Insufficient, void, or defective bond, §§ 2198-2204.
Discharge of sureties, § 2205.
——— Stipulation for judgment, § 2206.
——— Continuance of cause, § 2207.
——— Alteration of undertaking, §§ 2208, 2209.
——— Death of principal, §§ 2210-2212.
Extent of liability, §§ 2213, 2214.
Accrual or release of liability.
——— Failure to perfect appeal, § 2215.
——— Dismissal of appeal, §§ 2216-2222.
Actions.
——— Right of action, §§ 2223, 2224.
——— Conditions precedent, §§ 2225-2229.
——— Defenses, §§ 2230-2232.
——— Parties, § 2233.
——— Pleading, §§ 2234-2236.
——— Limitations, § 2237.
———Amount of recovery, §§ 2238, 2239.
——— Judgment, § 2239a.

www.libtool.com.cn

CROSS REFERENCES.

Review of matters relating to particular matter of subjects, see specific topics.

Appeal from allowance of claim by city, see Municipal Corporations, §§ 1070-1072.

Appeal from county court or justice of the peace, see Justice of the Peace, §§ 284-584.

Appeal from probate jurisdiction of county court, see Courts, § 147*a*.

Appellate jurisdiction of district court, see Courts, §§ 151-152.

Costs on appeal or error, see Costs, §§ 118-131.

Decisions and opinions of supreme court as precedents for lower courts, see Courts, §§ 51-114.

Effect of erroneous question on cross-examination not answered, see Witnesses, § 279.

Errors at trial as ground for discharge from arrest, see Habeas Corpus, §§ 21-28.

In criminal prosecutions, see Criminal Law, §§ 928-1155.

Jurisdiction of supreme court in general, see Courts, §§ 154-166.

Prosecuting error as appearance, see Appearance, §§ 49-50.

Review of award by arbitrators, see Arbitration and Award.

Not allowed after stay of execution, see Execution, §§ 121-124.

Review of determination of remonstrance of liquor license, see Intoxicating Liquors, §§ 189-191.

Review of ruling on qualifications of jurors, see Jury, §§ 300-322.

Revival of course in supreme court, see Abatement and Revival, §§ 59, 60.

Right to issue writ of prohibition in aid of appellate jurisdiction, see Courts, § 171.

Use of deposition on, see Depositions, § 15.

I. NATURE AND FORM OF REMEDY.

Right of review.

1. (1877.) A petition for rehearing of a cause upon the ground of accident or mistake occuring at the trial is somewhat in the nature of a writ of error in fact, and lies only to the same court in which the judgment was given to examine its own record and rectify error, if any exist. Morrill v. Taylor, 6 Neb. 236.

2. (1885.) Under the constitution of 1875, a party may as a right have a cause reviewed either by appeal or on error in the court of last resort, and the legislature has no authority to impose a penalty of five per cent. upon the affirmance of the judgment. Moore & Cozine v. Herron, 17 Neb. 703 (24 N. W. 451).

3. (1896.) The right of review, either by error or appeal, is granted by the constitution, and the legislature has no authority to impose a penalty of five per cent upon the affirmance of a judgment, Coburn v. Watson, 48 Neb. 257 (67 N. W. 171).

Digitized by Google

Statutory provisions.

4. (1876.) The act of March 3, 1873, granting the right of appeal in equity causes, is not retrospective in its operations. White v. Blum, 4 Neb. 555; Wilcox v. Saunders 4 Neb. 569.

5. (1882.) Appeal act (Comp. St. ch. 20, sec. 42) is constitutional. Casey v. Peebles, 13 Neb. 7 (12 N. W. 840).

Cross-appeals.

6. (1906.) Under our former practice a party might take a cross-appeal, after the filing of the transcript by the appellant, by filing a brief in due season assailing the decree so far as it affected his interest. Meade Plumbing, Heating & Lighting Co. v. Irwin, 77 Neb. 385 (109 N. W. 381).

7. (1906.) In appeals in equity cases one may prosecute a cross-appeal by filing his brief in due season assailing the decree appealed from. Meade Plumbing, Heating & Lighting Co. v. Irwin, 77 Neb. 391.

Proper mode of review.

Dismissal for mistake in form of remedy, see post, § 1417.

Election between remedies, see post, §§ 43-54.

Mode of remedy as dependent on errors to be reviewed, see post, §§ 1490-1494.

8. (1872.) Since the passage of the act of 1867, abolishing distinctions between actions at law and suits in equity, and repealing title 24 of the code of 1866, entitled "Chancery," no appeal lies to the supreme court. The only remedy for obtaining a review of judgments rendered in the district court, whether in actions legal or equitable, is by petition in error. Irwin v. Calhoun, 3 Neb. 453.

9. (1876.) An appeal from a judgment sustaining a demurrer to a petition, on the ground of misjoinder of causes of action, does not lie to the supreme court. The remedy is by petition in error. Stewart v. Carter, 4 Neb. 564.

10. (1877.) The only mode of reviewing in the supreme court the judgment of inferior courts, and tribunals exercising judicial power, in civil cases, is by appeal or petition in error. Furnas v. Nemaha County, 5 Neb. 367.

11. (1877.) An appeal is exclusively a statutory right, and must be regulated by the statute granting it. Nebraska S. Co. v. Van Dusen, 6 Neb. 160.

12. (1879.) The right to review by appeal was unknown to the common law. It is regulated entirely by statute. State Bank v. Green, 8 Neb. 297.

13. (1897.) A distinction exists between an appeal and a proceeding in error. Western Cornice & Mfg. Works v. Leavenworth, 52 Neb. 418 (72 N. W. 592).

14. (1894.) The right of appeal did not exist at common law. This right is purely a statutory one, and unless expressly conferred does not exist. Wilcox v. Saunders, 4 Neb. 569, and State v. Ensign, 11 Neb. 529, followed. State v. Bethea, 43 Neb. 451 (61 Neb. 578).

15. (1903.) The question whether a party is entitled to a jury trial upon an issue presented by his pleading cannot be determined upon appeal, but must be presented by petition in error. Day & Frees Lumber Co. v. Bixby, 4 Unof. 154 (93 N. W. 688).

16. (1904.) A final order by a district court rendered upon appeal from an order of a village board, granting or refusing a license to sell intoxicating liquors, is not reviewable upon appeal by this court. Halverstadt v. Berger, 72 Neb. 462 (100 N. W. 394).

——— Legal actions.

17. (1872.) A judgment rendered in an action at law, during the prosecution of which in the district court no exception was taken to any ruling, cannot be brought to the supreme court by appeal, and there tried de novo. Robertson v. Hall, 2 Neb. 17.

18. (1879.) The supreme court can review an action at law only by proceedings in error. Roade v. Dunbar, 9 Neb. 95 (1 N. W. 345); (1882) State, ex rel. Miller, v. Lancaster County, 13 Neb. 223 (13 N. W. 212); (1894) Prentice Brownstone Co. v. King, 39 Neb. 816 (58 N. W. 277); (1895) State, ex rel. McMullen, v. Affholder, 44 Neb. 497 (62 N. W. 871); (1896) Campbell v. F. & M. Bank of Elk Creek, 49 Neb. 143 (68 N. W. 344); (1898) Nebraska Wesleyan University v. Craig, 54 Neb. 173 (74 N. W. 605); (1898) Lowe v. Riley, 57 Neb. 252 (77 N. W. 758); (1899) Cary v. Kearney Nat Bank, 59 Neb. 169 (80 N. W. 484); (1902) Van Doren v. Empkie-Shugart Co., 2 Unof. 818 (90 N. W. 220).

19. (1898.) Plaintiff cannot appeal to the supreme court from a dismissal of his petition for false imprisonment rendered because of a failure to state a cause of action, the remedy being by petition in error. Collins v. City of Omaha, 55 Neb. 208 (75 N. W. 557).

Digitized by Google

20. (1899.) An appeal from an order or judgment of the district court in a law action does not invest the supreme court with jurisdiction of the cause. Hayden v. Hale, 57 Neb. 349 (77 N. W. 733); (1899) Cary v. Kearney Nat. Bank, 59 Neb. 169 (80 N. W. 484); (1901) Uecker v. Magdanz, 62 Neb. 618 (87 N. W. 344); (1903) Ewings v. Hoffine, 67 Neb. 26 (93 N. W. 186).

21. (1901.) Where a judgment has been rendered in the district court in a suit brought by a depositor against the receiver of a state bank, such judgment cannot be reviewed in the supreme court on appeal. Error proceedings is the exclusive remedy. State v. Bloomfield State Bank, 1 Unof. 524 (95 N. W. 790).

——— Equitable actions.

Effect of failure to file petition in error within time for perfecting appeal, see post, § 606.

22. Appeal is not an exclusive remedy in equity cases. In such cases the decree of the district court may be reviewed by the supreme court, either upon error or by appeal. (1876) White v. Blum, 4 Neb. 555; (1889) Smith v. Gibson, 25 Neb. 511 (41 N. W. 360); (1902) Bannard v. Duncan, 65 Neb. 179 (90 N. W. 947).

23. (1877.) Where a demurrer to a petition in a suit in equity is sustained in the district court, the cause may be taken by appeal to the supreme court. Arnold v. Baker, 6 Neb. 134. (Stewart v. Carter, 4 Neb. 564; distinguished.)

24. (1877.) An appeal will lie to the supreme court from the final judgment of the district court, in an action brought to set aside a judgment of a justice of the peace, and to obtain a new trial. Horn v. Queen, 5 Neb. 472.

25. (1882.) Appeal lies from judgment making injunction perpetual that subjects securities for payment of a debt not due. Crowell v. Horacek, 12 Neb. 622 (12 N. W. 99).

26. (1889.) An action at law, or a final order in any special proceeding therein, can be reviewed only on error; but an action in equity, or any special proceeding therein in the nature of a final order, may be reviewed on appeal. Morse & Co. v. Engle, 26 Neb. 247 (41 N. W. 1098).

27. (1904.) Where the wife of an attachment debtor is allowed to intervene in the attachment suit, and asks to have the attachment dissolved as to the homestead, as constituting a cloud thereon, the relief prayed for is equitable and hence appeal lies from an order refusing it. National Bank of Commerce v. Chamberlain, 72 Neb. 469 (100 N. W. 943).

28. (1905.) Under the statute allowing appeals "in actions in equity," any order or proceeding in such action that may be brought to the supreme court for review may be brought by appeal. Williams v. Miles, 73 Neb. 193 (102 N. W. 482, 105 N. W. 181, 106 N. W. 769).

——— Probate proceedings.

Jurisdiction to review judgment of district court, see post, §60.

29. (1898.) An order of the district court disallowing a claim against a decedent's estate, on appeal from the county court, is not reviewable by appeal. Nebraska Wesleyan University v. Craig's Estate, 54 Neb. 173 (74 N. W. 605).

30. (1901.) Section 675 of the code does not give the right to have reviewed by the supreme court on "appeal" decisions by a county court in the settlement of a decedent's estate. Whalen v. Kitchen, 61 Neb. 329 (85 N. W. 278); (1904) Huffman v. Rhodes, 72 Neb. 57 (100 N. W. 159).

31. (1901.) Judgments of the district court rendered on appeal from the probate side of the county court are reviewable only by petition in error and cannot be reviewed on appeal by consent of the parties. Boales v. Ferguson, 2 Unof. 172 (96 N. W. 337).

32. (1902.) An application to a district court by an executor or administrator for license to sell real property is not an "action in equity" within the purview of section 675, code of civil procedure. Hence a final order made in such a proceeding is reviewable only by petition in error. Poessnecker v. Entermann, 64 Neb. 409 (89 N. W. 1033).

33. (1902.) An action was brought in the county court, after the time allowed for an appeal from an order probating a will had elapsed, for the purpose of having such order set aside and for leave to present for probate an alleged subsequent will of the decedent. Held to be an equitable action under section 675 of the code of civil procedure, and therefore appealable. Williams v. Miles, 63 Neb. 859 (89 N. W. 451).

Digitized by Google

——— Eminent domain proceedings.

34. (1897.) The method of bringing to the supreme court for review judgments of the district court in proceedings by railroads for the exercise of the right of eminent domain is by petition in error and not by appeal. Nebraska Loan & Trust Co. v. Lincoln & B. H. R. Co., 53 Neb. 246 (73 N. W. 546).

——— Habeas corpus proceeding.

35. (1894.) The proceedings in a hearing on habeas corpus may be reviewed on error; but being in its nature a civil proceeding, such review must be by petition in error. In re Van Sciever, 42 Neb. 772 (60 N. W. 1037).

36. (1904.) The judgment of a district court in a proceeding in habeas corpus will not be reviewed by the supreme court on appeal. In re Greaser, 72 Neb. 612 (101 N. W. 235).

37. (1906.) The procedure to obtain a review in this court of a final order made by a district court or judge in a proceeding in habeas corpus must be such as is required to be followed for a like purpose in civil actions. Sections 483 and 515 of the criminal code are not applicable thereto. State v. Decker, 77 Neb. 33 (108 N. W. 157).

——— Mandamus proceeding.

38. (1882.) A mandamus is an action at law, and is reviewable only on error, and not by appeal. State, ex rel. Miller, v. Lancaster County, 13 Neb. 223 (13 N. W. 212).

39. (1895.) A judgment in a mandamus proceeding can only be reviewed on error. State, ex rel. McMullen, v. Affholder, 44 Neb. 497 (62 N. W. 871).

——— Proceedings to vacate judgments.

40. (1876.) The power conferred to vacate or modify a court's own judgments is only that of further proceedings, for the causes enumerated, in an action after judgment, and are therefore merely special proceedings in an action, and are not an original action, and therefore not appealable, but should be brought up by petition in error, under section 584 of the civil code. Iler v. Darnell, 5 Neb. 192.

41. (1880.) Error will lie for alleged errors of the district court for granting a new trial on a petition after the adjournment of the term, on the ground of newly discovered evidence. Kruger v. Adams Harvester Co., 9 Neb. 526 (4 N. W. 252).

42. (1902.) A final order by a district court made in a statutory proceeding, under section 602 et seq. of the code to obtain a new trial in an action in equity, is not reviewable by this court upon appeal. Browne v. Croft, 3 Unof. 133 (91 N. W. 177).

Election between remedies.

43. (1897.) If the judgment which a litigant seeks to have reviewed in this court is appealable he may have it reviewed on appeal or error at his election. He may make such election at any time before the final submission of the case in this court. He may dismiss his appeal and stand on his petition in error, or vice versa. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Cass County, 51 Neb. 369 (70 N. W. 955).

44. (1904.) After serving and filing his brief in the supreme court, in which he presents only questions not reviewable upon appeal, a party will not, ordinarily, be allowed to delay the hearing, by abandoning his proceedings in error and submitting the cause as upon appeal. Nor will he be allowed to make such change, except upon just terms, when his opponent will be required to rebrief the case, or is otherwise put to cost or expense thereby. Jones v. Danforth, 71 Neb. 130 (98 N. W. 668).

——— Necessity.

45. (1892.) The filing of assignments of error on an appeal does not change the character of the proceeding, nor constitute an independent proceeding, and hence the appellant will not be compelled to elect between the appeal and proceeding in error. Shickle H. & H. Iron Co. v. Kent, 34 Neb. 568 (52 N. W. 286).

46. (1896.) Where the judgment below is appealable, the party aggrieved may have it reviewed by petition in error or appeal, but cannot pursue both remedies. Beatrice Paper Co. v. Beloit Iron Works, 46 Neb. 900 (65 N. W. 1059).

47. (1904.) A litigant, who brings to the supreme court an appealable case, cannot have it considered both as an appeal and as a proceeding in error. Jones v. Danforth, 71 Neb. 130 (98 N. W. 668).

——— Effect of filing transcript.

48. (1904.) If, in an appealable case, a transcript of the proceedings in the district court is duly filed in the supreme court, and all proceedings taken necessary to a review upon proceedings in error as well as upon appeal, the party bringing the cause here may submit the same either as an appeal, or as upon proceedings in error. If he makes no choice, it will be considered as upon proceedings in error. Jones v. Danforth, 71 Neb. 130 (98 N. W. 668).

Digitized by Google

49. (1895.) The filing with a transcript of the record of a paper containing assignments of error will not alone require the court to treat the proceeding as one in error and not as an appeal. To have such effect the instrument filed should possess the essential elements of a petition in error. Chadron Banking Co. v. Mahoney, 43 Neb. 214 (61 N. W. 594).

www.libool.com.cn

——— Effect of filing petition in error.

50. (1895.) When a case is, in its nature, appealable, and the party seeking a review files in connection with the transcript a petition in error, he will be deemed to have elected to proceed in error and not by appeal. Woodward v. Baird, 43 Neb. 310 (61 N. W. 612); (1895) Monroe v. Reid, 46 Neb. 316 (64 N. W. 983); (1896) Thomas v. Churchill, 48 Neb. 226 (67 N. W. 182); (1896) Childerson v. Childerson, 47 Neb. 162 (66 N. W. 281); (1897) Nebraska Land, Stock-Growing & Inv. Co. v. McKinley-Lanning Loan & Trust Co., 52 Neb. 410 (72 N. W. 357).

51. (1897.) When a case, in its nature appealable, is brought into this court for review, the filing of a petition in error will be construed as an abandonment of an attempted appeal from the same judgment or decree. Shaw & Co. v. Robinson & Stokes Co., 51 Neb. 164 (70 N. W. 953).

52. (1897.) If no election is made, the supreme court will review the judgment of the district court on error only when there is filed with the transcript a petition in error. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Cass County, 51 Neb. 369 (70 N. W. 955).

——— Taking writ of error on dismissal of apeal.

53. (1882.) Where an appeal is dismissed, and it is necessary to file an amended transcript in order to show the judgment sought to be reviewed, leave will not be granted to file a petition in error. State, ex rel. Miller, v. Lancaster County, 13 Neb. 223 (13 N. W. 212).

54. (1894.) The appellant will be permitted to file a petition in error in the supreme court upon the dismissal of his appeal in order to secure a review of the decree appealed from upon exception, provided such proceeding be commenced within one year from the date of such order or decree. Omaha Loan & Trust Co. v. Ayer, 38 Neb. 891 (57 N. W. 567).

II. DECISION REVIEWABLE.

A. Courts and Other Tribunals Subject to Review.

Secretary of state.

55. (1896.) An appeal or proceeding in error will not lie directly to the supreme court to review the decisions of the secretary of state under the Australian ballot law, State, ex rel. Dahlman, v. Piper, 50 Neb. 25, 39 (69 N. W. 378).

County board.

56. (1897.) A question of fact determined by a county board cannot be reviewed on error in absence of a statute providing a method for preserving the evidence. Keens v. Buffalo County, 53 Neb. 1 (73 N. W. 214).

57. (1906.) The right of appeal in this state is purely statutory, and, unless the statute provides for an appeal from the decision of a quasi-judicial tribunal, such right does not exist. Whedon v. Lancaster County, 76 Neb. 761 (107 N. W. 1092).

District judge at chambers.

58. (1900.) The determination of a civil matter by a judge at chambers is not final; it may be reviewed by an appellate court in the proper proceeding. Porter v. Flick, 60 Neb. 773 (84 N. W. 262).

County court.

59. (1902.) The supreme court cannot review the rulings of a county court directly, but can only review the judgment of a district court rendered on error or appeal therefrom. Kingman v. Davis, 63 Neb. 578 (88 N. W. 777).

B. Nature of Subject-Matter.

Jurisdiction of trial court.

59*a*. (1907.) The jurisdiction of an appellate court is dependent upon that of the tribunal from which the appeal is taken. Redell v. City of Omaha, 80 Neb. 178 (113 N. W. 1054).

Probate proceedings.

60. (1885.) The supreme court has jurisdiction to review upon error the judgments and decisions of the district court made upon appeal from the county court in matters pertaining to the settlement of assigned estates. Stout v. Rapp, 17 Neb. 462 (23 N. W. 351, 364).

Divorce actions.

61. (1881.) Appeal lies from decree of district court granting divorce. Brotherton v. Brotherton, 12 Neb. 72 (10 N. W. 543).

Digitized by Google

Orders in receivership.

62. (1899.) An order directing a receiver of a banking corporation to sell its real estate, is appealable. State, ex rel. German Savings Bank, v. Fawcett, 58 Neb. 371 (78 N. W. 636).

Smallness of damages in tort actions.

63. (1871.) In an action for assault and battery, a new trial will not be granted on account of the smallness of damages awarded by the verdict. Shoff v. Wells, 1 Neb. 168.

64. (1899.) In an action by a passenger for damages for ejection from a train, where the jury's assessment of damages is inadequate, a judgment on the verdict may be reversed. Spirk v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 57 Neb. 565 (78 N. W. 272).

65. (1902.) Whether, in an action for injuries to the person, a new trial may not be granted on account of the "smallness of damages," where the testimony clearly shows that the damages awarded are grossly inadequate as compensation for the pecuniary injuries actually sustained, quære. Carpenter v. City of Red Cloud, 64 Neb. 126 (89 N. W. 637).

66. (1903.) In an action for personal injuries, a new trial will not be granted on account of smallness of damages. O'Reilly v. Hoover, 70 Neb. 357 (97 N. W. 470).

C. Finality of Determination.

Dismissal for want of final judgment, see post, § 1418.

Necessity of final determination.

67. (1876.) To obtain the review of a case in the supreme court there must be a final judgment upon the merits of the case, in the court below. Nichols, Shepard & Co. v. Hall, 5 Neb. 194; (1884) Daniels v. Tibbets, 16 Neb. 666 (21 N. W. 454); (1896) Sims v. Davis, 48 Neb. 720 (67 N. W. 765); (1896) Reynolds v. City of Tecumseh, 48 Neb. 785 (67 N. W. 792); (1896) Hall County v. Smith, 49 Neb. 274 (68 N. W. 481); (1898) Bartels v. Sonnenschein, 54 Neb. 68 (74 N. W. 417); (1901) McLucas v. St. Joseph & G. I. R. Co., 2 Unof. 154 (96 N. W. 115); (1902) Creamery Package Mfg. Co. v. Magill, 2 Unof. 414 (89 N. W. 170); Bock v. Grooms, 2 Unof. 802 (90 N. W. 204).

68. (1878.) An appeal to the supreme court will only lie upon a final order or decree. Normand v. Otoe County, 7 Neb. 261; (1897) Marrow v. Gilbert, 52 Neb. 195 (71 N. W. 1014).

69. (1893.) The rulings of the district court cannot be reviewed in the supreme court before final judgment has been entered upon the merits of the case in the court below. Smith v. Johnson, 37 Neb. 675 (56 N. W. 323); (1895) Seven Valleys Bank v. Smith, 43 Neb. 237 (61 N. W. 606); Einspahr v. Smith, 46 Neb. 138 (64 N. W. 689).

70. (1901.) Rulings and orders of an interlocutory character cannot be reviewed by appeal. Walsh v. Walsh, 1 Unof. 719 (95 N. W. 1024); (1902) Coleridge Creamery Co. v. Jenkins, 66 Neb. 129 (92 N. W. 123); (1905) Swift & Co. v. Koutsky, 73 Neb. 730 (103 N. W. 436).

What are final orders or judgments.

71. (1871.) An order to be final and subject to review in an appellate court upon appeal or petition in error, must dispose of the whole merits of the case, and leave nothing for the further determination of the court. It must affect a substantial right and determine the action. Smith v. Sahler, 1 Neb. 310; (1896) Bartram v. Sherman, 46 Neb. 713 (65 N. W. 789; (1906) Continental Trust Co. v. Peterson, 76 Neb. 417 (107 N. W. 786).

72. (1871.) An order or decree which leaves the law or equity of the case, or some material question connected with the merits of the controversy, for future determination, is interlocutory, and is not subject to review in any appellate court on appeal or petition in error. Smith v. Sahler, 1 Neb. 310.

73. (1900.) A decree is not final, if anything remains to be done by the court before it can be executed. Parmele v. Schroeder, 59 Neb. 553 (81 N. W. 506).

74. (1901.) A decree is not final and appealable until nothing remains to be done but to execute its provisions. Parmele v. Schroeder, 61 Neb. 553 (85 N. W. 562; 87 Am St. Rep. 466).

75. (1904.) An order is not final when the substantial rights of the parties involved in the action remain undetermined and when the cause is retained for further action. In such a case, the order is interlocutory. When no further action of the court is required to dispose of the cause pending, the order becomes final and from which an appeal or proceedings in error will lie. Huffman v. Rhodes, 72 Neb. 57 (100 N. W. 159).

Digitized by Google

——— Interlocutory orders in general.

76. (1886.) An order overruling a motion for an order of arrest is not a final order and cannot be reviewed on error until after judgment. Whiteley v. Davis, 20 Neb. 504 (31 N. W. 74).

77. (1890.) The overruling by the district court of an objection made to its jurisdiction is not a final order, and a petition in error cannot be prosecuted therefrom before final judgment in the action. School District No. 49 v. Cooper, 29 Neb. 433 (45 N. W. 618).

78. (1894.) Where a counter-claim is stricken out for the reason that it is foreign to the subject of the action, an order denying the defendant's motion to docket it as a separate cause of action, under the provision of section 126 of the code, is not a final order and will not be reviewed in the supreme court by petition in error. Yager v. Lemp, 39 Neb. 93 (58 N. W. 285).

79. (1895.) An order of a district court which, in effect, determines that an appeal from an inferior court had been perfected in due time allowed by law for such purpose and places the case upon its docket for adjudication, held, not a final order and not subject to review upon error to the supreme court. Edgar v Keller, 43 Neb. 263 (61 N. W. 587).

80. (1898.) An order that after exhausting the remedy against the principal debtor the creditor may apply for and obtain a judgment against a guarantor of collection is not final, and therefore not appealable. Millard v. Parsell, 57 Neb. 178 (77 N. W. 390).

——— Judgment for costs.

81. (1896.) A judgment for costs is not one from which appeal or error will lie. Barnhouse v. Village of Adams, 47 Neb. 756 (66 N. W. 821); (1896) Reynolds v. City of Tecumeh, 48 Neb. 785 (67 N. W. 792); (1901) Welch v. Tippery, 1 Unof. 163 (95 N. W. 491); (1902) Solack v. Ganson, 2 Unof. 276 (96 N. W. 633); (1903) Thompson v. Nelson, 4 Unof. 687 (96 N. W. 194); (1903) Jarvis v. County of Chase, 5 Unof. 215 (97 N. W. 831).

82. (1876.) A judgment upon the verdict of a jury finding for defendant, for costs only, is not a final judgment. Nichols, Shepard & Co. v. Hail, 5 Neb. 794.

83. (1874.) A judgment: "It is considered, ordered, and adjudged by the court that said defendants do have and recover judgment in this action against said plaintiffs, and that said defendants have and recover of and from said plaintiffs their costs, and that execution issue therefor," is a mere judgment for costs; it is not a final judgment from which error will lie to an appellate court. Sprick v. Washington County, 3 Neb. 253.

84. (1878.) An entry that on the hearing it was considered that a demurrer to the petition be sustained and that, plaintiff having elected to stand on the petition, defendant moved for judgment and "it is considered, adjudged and decreed that defendants have and recover of plaintiffs their costs," etc., is a mere judgment for costs, and not a final decree from which an appeal would lie. Normand v. Otoe County, 7 Neb. 261.

85. (1896.) A mere judgment for costs in favor of the defendant, in whose favor a verdict had been returned, without a final disposition of the cause in the district court, cannot be reviewed in the supreme court. Little, Maxwell & Co. v. Gamble, 47 Neb. 827 (66 N. W. 849).

86. (1901.) In an action for conversion, a judgment for costs only is not a final judgment, and not reviewable on error. Carlson v. Jordon, 1 Unof. 418 (95 N. W. 671).

——— Taxation of costs.

87. (1886.) A party complaining of the taxation of costs in the district court must file a motion in that court to retax the same. The ruling on the motion to retax is subject to review. Whitall v. Cressman, 18 Neb. 508 (26 N. W. 245).

88. (1897.) An order of the district court taxing costs as directed by a mandate of the supreme court held not reviewable. Oliver v. Lansing, 51 Neb. 818 (71 N. W. 735).

——— Injunction.

89. (1882.) A decree enjoining a sale of real estate is a final judgment, and may be revived on error or appeal. Rickards v. Coon, 13 Neb. 419 (14 N. W. 162).

——— Dissolving or modifying injunction.

90. (1878.) An order of a judge of a district court dissolving a temporary injunction is not final, but interlocutory merely, and insufficient to support a petition in error before final judgment in the action. Scofield v. State Nat. Bank, 8 Neb. 16; (1897) Meng v. Coffee, 52 Neb. 44 (71 N. W. 975); (1902)

Digitized by Google

Stansbury v. Storer & Ellis, 3 Unof. 100 (91 N. W. 197).

91. (1896.) No provision of the code makes an order dissolving or modifying a temporary injunction reviewable except in connection with the final judgment rendered in the action of which the temporary injunction is an incident. Bartram v. Sherman, 46 Neb. 713 (65 N. W. 789); (1904) Horst v. Board of Supervisors of Dodge County 5 Unof. 410 (98 N. W. 822).

92. (1871.) An order dissolving an injunction when the same is an incident of the action, and the substantial rights of the parties remain undetermined, is interlocutory and not appealable. Smith v. Sahler, 1 Neb. 310.

93. (1880.) An order vacating a temporary injunction granted at the commencement of an action by a school board to enjoin the continuance of alleged acts of trespass, the record failing to show a final disposition of the case, is not a final order from which appeal will lie. School District No. 15 v. Brown, 10 Neb. 440 (6 N. W. 770).

94. (1886.) An order before judgment dissolving a temporary injunction is not a final order and not appealable; but an order overruling an application to set aside a default and for leave to answer may be appealed or reviewed on error. Steele v. Haynes, 20 Neb. 316 (30 N. W. 63).

95. (1891.) An order of a judge of a district court, overruling a motion to vacate a temporary injunction granted at the commencement of the action, is not a final order, and cannot be reviewed until the final determination of the cause in the district court. Clark v. Fitch, 32 Neb. 511 (49 N. W. 374).

96. (1895.) An order continuing in force, during the pleasure of the court, a temporary injunction theretofore issued is not final, and is, therefore, not appealable. Einspahr v. Smith, 46 Neb. 138 (64 N. W. 698).

97. (1896.) An order dissolving a temporary restraining order and denying a temporary injunction is not a final order, and is not appealable. Manning v. Connell, 47 Neb. 83 (66 N. W. 17).

98. (1901.) A temporary restraining order pending a hearing on the application for a temporary order of injunction may be subsequently dissolved, and the party in whose favor it was allowed is not entitled to have the order of dissolution superseded pending review, as in the case of a temporary order of injunction. State, ex rel. Plattsmouth Telephone Co., v Baker, 62 Neb. 840 (88 N. W. 124).

99. (1906.) An order dissolving a temporary injunction, and which does not determine or make some final disposition of the case in which the injunction was issued, is not final, and is not alone, or until after a final judgment in the action, reviewable on error or appeal in the supreme court. Meng v. Coffee, 52 Neb. 44, followed and approved. Young v. City of Albion, 77 Neb. 678 (110 N. W. 706).

——— Discharging or denying attachment.

100. (1877.) Refusal to allow a writ of attachment is reviewable on error. Seidentopf v. Annabil, 6 Neb. 524.

101. (1883.) An order overruling a motion to discharge an attachment is not a final order, as it is subject to review up to the time judgment is rendered. Wilson v. Sheppard, 15 Neb. 15 (16 N. W. 826); (1890) Root v. State Bank, 30 Neb. 772 (47 N. W. 82).

102. (1889.) Where a motion to discharge an attachment is sustained, and the plaintiff fails to file an undertaking for the retention of the attached property, while he thereby loses his attachment, it is a final order, he may have it reviewed on error. Adams County Bank v. Morgan, 26 Neb. 148 (41 N. W. 993).

——— Quashing service of process.

103. (1890.) A ruling of the court sustaining the defendant's motion to quash the service against him by publication, without a judgment of record, is not such a final order determining the plaintiff's rights of action as will be reviewed on error. Brown v. Rice, 30 Neb. 236 (46 N. W. 489); (1904) Goldie v. Stewart, 5 Unof. 523 (99 N. W. 255).

104. (1892.) An order of the district court quashing the service of a summons cannot be reviewed by the supreme court before final judgment is rendered in the action. Standard Distilling Co. v. Freyhan, 34 Neb. 434 (51 N. W. 976); (1892) Persinger v. Tinkle, 34 Neb. 5 (51 N. W. 299).

104*a*. (1896.) An order sustaining a motion to quash a summons is not reviewable until followed by a final judgment of dismissal. Lewis v. Barker, 46 Neb. 662 (65 N. W. 778).

105. (1907.) Where the service of summons is erroneously quashed, and the cause dismissed without prejudice for want of service, such order is a final judgment and appealable. Davis v. Jennings, 78 Neb. 462 (111 N. W. 128), ——— Opening or vacating judgment.

Digitized by Google

106. (1879.) An order setting aside a judgment dismissing a cause, may be reviewed on error. Hansen v. Bergquist, 9 Neb. 269 (2 N. W. 858). [Corrected in Roh v. Vitera, 38 Neb. 333 (56 N. W. 977) to read "an order setting aside an execution."]

106*a*. (1883.) An order of a district court vacating its own judgment during the term at which it was rendered is not a final order, and therefore is not reviewable by proceedings in error. Brown v. Edgerton, 14 Neb. 453 (16 N. W. 474).

106*b*. (1888.) An order of the district court setting aside a decree and permitting a defendant to plead to an answer filed by a co-defendant, by leave of court, but of which said defendant had no notice, is not a final order. Spencer v Thistle, 13 Neb. 227, distinguished. Cockle Separator Mfg. Co. v. Clark, 23 Neb. 702 (37 N. W. 628).

106*c*. (1892). An order setting aside a judgment under the provisions of section 318 of the code and allowing a new trial, on grounds discovered subsequent to the adjournment of the term at which such judgment was rendered, is a final order and may be reviewed on petition in error. Johnson v. Parrotte, 34 Neb. 26 (51 N. W. 290).

106*d*. (1893.) An order of the district court vacating its own judgment rendered by default, and permitting the defendant to answer at the same term at which the judgment is rendered, is not a final order. Roh v. Vitera, 38 Neb. 333 (56 N. W. 977).

106*e*. (1902.) An order vacating a decree rendered at a former term, on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction of the subject-matter, is a final order, within the meaning of section 581 of the code of civil procedure. Bannard v. Duncan, 65 Neb. 179 (90 N. W. 947).

106*f*. (1903.) An order setting aside a judgment or decree, fixing the time for filing pleadings and setting the cause down for a new trial, under section 602 of the code, is not a final order from which appeal or error will lie before trial and a final judgment. Rose v. Dempster Mill Mfg. Co., 69 Neb. 27 (94 N. W. 964).

107. (1896.) There cannot be a review of an order of the district court opening a judgment and permitting an answer to be filed in the case until there has been a further order or judgment in its nature final. Merle & Heaney Mfg. Co. v. Wallace, 48 Neb. 886 (67 N. W. 883); (1902) Browne v. Croft, 3 Unof. 134 (93 N. W. 406).

108. (1906.) An order setting aside a judgment under the provisions of section 602 of the code is an interlocutory and not a final order, and cannot be reviewed by this court on appeal. Continental Trust Co. v. Peterson, 76 Neb. 411 (107 N. W. 786).

——— Setting aside execution.

109. (1879.) An order setting aside an execution, where it affects a substantial right, may be reviewed on error. Hansen v. Bergquist, 9 Neb. 269, as corrected in Roh v. Vitera, 38 Neb. 333 (56 N. W. 977).

——— Confirming or setting aside sale.

110. (1879.) An order confirming a sale of real estate made by a judge of the district court in vacation, is a final order, from which an appeal will lie to the supreme court. State Bank v Green, 8 Neb. 297.

111. (1879.) That an order confirming or setting aside a sale is a final order will not be denied, and under our code may be reviewed by appeal or petition in error. Berkley v. Lamb, 8 Neb. 392.

112. (1906.) An order overruling a motion to deny confirmation of a judicial sale and to set the sale aside is not final or appealable. Hall v. Moore, 75 Neb. 693 (106 N. W. 785).

——— Motions to dismiss.

113. (1881.) A judgment dismissing action and for costs in favor of defendant is final and may be appealed from. Rogers v. Russell, 11 Neb. 361 (9 N. W. 547).

114. (1889.) An order of the district court refusing to dismiss a cause upon the motion of a defendant is not a final order which can be reviewed upon error to the supreme court. Grimes v. Chamberlain, 27 Neb. 605 (43 N. W. 395); (1899) Troup v. Horbach, 57 Neb. 644 (78 N. W. 286).

115. (1898.) In an action of replevin the court determined that the writ was, in its inception, unauthorized and the court without jurisdiction, and rendered a judgment of dismissal of the plaintiff's action, coupled with an order to impanel a jury to inquire of the right of property and possession of defendants and their damages. Held, A final judgment in the action as to plaintiff. Swain v. Savage, 55 Neb. 687 (77 N. W. 362).

Digitized by Google

——— Motions for default.

116. (1887.) The overruling a motion to take a default against the defendant is not a final order, and not reviewable in the supreme court until after final judgment. Shedenhelm v. Shedenhelm, 21 Neb. 387 (32 N. W. 170).

117. (1884.) A finding by the district court that the allegations of a petition are confessed to be true by a defendant who is in default for want of an answer is not a final order or judgment. Daniels v. Tibbets, 16 Neb. 666 (21 N. W. 454).

——— Rulings on pleadings.

118. (1887.) An order of a district court sustaining a motion to strike an amended petition from the files is not a final order from which error may be taken to the supreme court, in the absence of a judgment. Welch v. Calhoun, 22 Neb. 166 (34 N. W. 348).

119. (1894.) The sustaining of a demurrer to a petition or answer is not such a final order as will be reviewed by petition in error in this court. Yager v. Lemp, 39 Neb. 93 (58 N. W. 285).

120. (1898.) An order overruling a plea in abatement is not a final order, hence not reviewable. Bartels v. Sonnenschein, 54 Neb. 68 (74 N. W. 417).

121. (1902.) Rulings upon demurrer for misjoinder of causes of action, will not be reviewed on appeal. Leavitt v. Mercer Co., 64 Neb. 31 (89 N. W. 426).

122. (1906.) An order sustaining a general demurrer to a petition not followed by a judgment of dismissal or other final disposition of the case, is not a final order or judgment, and is not reviewable in the supreme court. Larson v. Sloan, 77 Neb. 438 (109 N. W. 725).

123. (1907.) If a plaintiff is denied an opportunity to prove his cause of action upon a sufficient pleading, it matters not whether such denial be upon motion or demurrer, he is entitled, if he has not waived his right, to have an adverse judgment reviewed in the supreme court. Walters v. Village of Exeter, 78 Neb. 222 (110 N. W. 631).

——— Approval of bonds.

124. (1895.) An order refusing to require the clerk of the district court to approve a supersedeas bond is a final order. State, ex rel. Lion Ins. Co., v. Baker, 45 Neb. 39 (63 N. W. 139).

——— Granting new trial.

125. (1884.) An order of a district court setting aside the verdict of a jury and granting a new trial during the term at which the verdict is returned, and before judgment, is not a final order, and therefore not reviewable by proceedings in error. Artman v. West Point Mfg. Co., 16 Neb. 572 (20 N. W. 873); (1895) Johnson v. Parrotte, 46 Neb. 51 (64 N. W. 363).

126. (1892.) Where neither party offers any evidence on a new trial granted to defendant, and the court dismisses the cause the supreme court will not review the action of the lower court in granting a new trial since such an order is not a final one. Snow v. Vandeveer, 33 Neb. 735 (51 N. W. 127).

——— Appointment of receiver.

127. (1890.) The appointment of a receiver to take charge of property pendente lite is an interlocutory order, and no appeal therefrom can be taken until after final judgment. McCord, Brady & Co. v. Weil, 29 Neb. 682 (45 N. W. 1103; 46 N. W. 153). [Overruled. 33 Neb. 868; 57 Neb. 214.]

128. (1892.) Order appointing a receiver for an insolvent, is a final order which may be reviewed in advance of the main case. McCord v. Weil, 33 Neb. 868 (51 N. W. 300).

129. (1898.) An order appointing a receiver is appealable in advance of the final disposition of the cause. Seeds Dry-Plate Co. v. Heyn Photo-Supply Co., 57 Neb. 214 (77 N. W. 660).

——— Intervention.

130. (1886.) An order overruling a petition to intervene in an action is, so far as the proposed intervener is concerned, a final order, and reviewable on error. Harman v. Barhydt, 20 Neb. 625 (31 N. W. 488).

131. (1897.) An order striking a petition of intervention from the record, on the ground that it was not filed within the time allowed, is not such a final order as will be reviewed upon petition in error. Whitney v. Spearman 50 Neb. 617 (70 N. W. 240).

132. (1898.) A third person filed a petition of intervention in a replevin case in the county court. He obtained leave to do so, but at the time of judgment his petition was dismissed, after a finding for plaintiff. Held, That this was an adjudication of the merits against him, and he might appeal from the judgment. Moline, M. & S. Co. v. Hamilton, 56 Neb. 132 (76 N. W. 455).

Digitized by Google

——— Order for payment of money into court.

www.libtool.com.cn

133. (1883.) An order of a district court requiring an attorney in an action to pay money alleged to have been collected by him into court "for the use of the plaintiff—and in default that execution issue therefor," is a final order and may be reviewed by proceedings in error. Baldwin v. Foss, 14 Neb. 455 (16 N. W. 480).

——— Alimony allowance.

134. (1885.) An order in an action for divorce awarding the wife alimony and suit money pendente lite to be paid by the husband, cannot be taken by appeal or error to the supreme court before judgment or decree granting or denying a divorce. Aspinwall v. Aspinwall, 18 Neb. 463 (25 N. W. 623).

135. (1897.) An order made on application to modify a decree for permanent alimony is apealable. State, ex rel. Beard, v. Cook, 51 Neb. 822 (71 N. W. 732).

——— Reversal of justice of the peace or county court.

136. (1876.) Where the judgment of a justice of the peace is taken on error to the district court and reversed, and the original case retained for trial in that court, such judgment of reversal is a final judgment, and may be reviewed by the supreme court without waiting for the final disposition of the original case. Banks v. Uhl, 5 Neb. 240.

137. (1886.) Where a judgment of a justice of the peace or county judge is taken on error to the district court and reversed, and the original case retained for trial in that court, such judgment of reversal is a final judgment and may be reviewed by the supreme court without waiting for the final disposition of the original case in the district court. Tootle, Hosea & Co. v. Jones, 19 Neb. 588 (27 N. W. 635).

138. (1896.) An order of a district court, made in an error proceeding setting aside the judgment of a county court, is a final order which may be reviewed on error by the supreme court before the final disposition of the original case by the district court. Dane County Bank v. Garrett, 48 Neb. 916 (67 N. W. 884).

139. (1903.) A judgment of the district court on appeal from an inferior tribunal, which is a complete adjudication so far as the district court is concerned, so as to leave nothing further to be done in that court, is a final order within the purview of section 582 of the code, although the cause is remanded for further proceedings below. Ribble v. Furmin, 69 Neb. 38 (94 N. W. 967).

——— Probate proceedings.

140. (1901.) An order denying a petition for distribution on the ground that the petitioner is not an heir is appealable. Estate of Morton v. Morton, 62 Neb. 420 (87 N. W. 182).

141. (1904.) An order of a county court refusing an application to file a claim against an estate, because presented after the expiration of the time allowed for presenting claims, is a final order from which an appeal to the district court will lie. Ribble v. Furmin, 71 Neb. 108 (98 N. W. 420).

142. (1904.) A ruling of the district court on appeal from an order of the county court disallowing a claim against an estate, that the action as a claim against the estate ought to be dismissed for want of jurisdiction, which was followed by an agreement of the parties to allow claimant to file a petition in equity to enforce the claim, is not a final order. Huffman v. Rhodes, 72 Neb. 57 (100 N. W. 159).

——— Foreclosure proceedings.

143. (1894.) The ruling of a district court, in recalling an order of sale and permitting defendant to file a stay in a foreclosure suit after twenty days from rendition of decree is a final order affecting a substantial right, and may be reviewed on error. State, ex rel. Harris v. Laflin, 40 Neb. 441 (58 N. W. 936).

144. (1894.) The ruling of the district court denying plaintiff's application for the appointment of a special master commissioner to make the sale of the mortgaged premises is not reviewable in the supreme court prior to the rendition of a final decree of foreclosure. American Investment Co. v. Nye, 40 Neb. 720 (59 N. W. 355; 42 Am. St. Rep. 692).

145. (1897.) In a foreclosure proceeding, an order adjudging the mortgage void in continuing the case for a hearing on defendant's liability for the debt, is appealable. France v. Bell, 52 Neb. 57 (71 N. W. 984).

146. (1900.) A decree foreclosing a real estate mortgage, with provisions for sale, is a final order. Schuyler Building & Loan Ass'n v. Fulmer, 61 Neb. 68 (84 N. W. 609).

147. (1901.) A decree in a foreclosure

Digitized by Google

that if the sale of the property was insufficient to pay the indebtedness the sheriff should specify the deficiency and upon confirmation of his report execution issue therefore against appellants, is not appealable as a final order. Parmele v. Schroeder, 61 Neb. 553 (85 N. W. 562; 87 Am. St. Rep. 466).

www.libtool.com.cn

—— Proceedings in aid of execution.

148. (1896.) In a proceeding in aid of execution, a judgment defendant who is aggrieved by an ex parte order requiring him to appear and submit to an examination may move to vacate the order and prosecute error from a judgment overruling his motion. Clarke v. Nebraska Nat. Bank, 49 Neb. 800 (69 N. W. 104).

—— Partition proceedings.

149. (1872.) A judgment in partition made upon report of referees that the property cannot be divided, and directing a sale, and a report of the referees in making the sale, but reserving the confirmation and making of deeds to the purchaser until the coming in of the report, is not so far final as to support an appeal to the supreme court. Mills v. Miller, 2 Neb. 299.

—— Writ of assistance.

150. (1905.) An appeal will lie from an order awarding a writ of assistance in a foreclosure proceeding after the sale has been confirmed and deed ordered, subject to the conditions of an appeal from an order confirming the sale. Escritt v. Michaelson, 73 Neb. 634 (103 N. W. 300).

D. Nature, Scope and Effect of Decision.

Discretionary matters.

151. (1880.) Although there is no statute entitling a party to a supersedeas, or stay of proceedings on a judgment of ouster from office, yet it is within the province of the trial court, in its discretion, to grant it. But the refusal of that court to do so cannot be reviewed by proceedings in error. Gandy v. State, 10 Neb. 243 (4 N. W. 1019).

Affecting substantial rights.

152. (1882.) An order discharging garnishees is an order affecting a substantial right, in a special proceeding, that may be reviewed on error before final judgment in the action. Turpin v. Coates, 12 Neb. 321 (11 N. W. 300).

153. (1899.) An appeal will not lie from an order fixing the amount of a supersedeas bond in an application for, and in response to which there has been allowed, a writ of assistance to gain possession of real property purchased at judicial sale since such order did not affect a substantial right. Green v. Morse, 57 Neb. 798 (78 N. W. 395).

Ministerial duties.

154. (1904.) The refusal of the district court to fix the amount of a supersedeas for an appeal, involves merely a minsterial duty, and the remedy is by mandamus. McBride v. Whitaker, 5 Unof. 399 (98 N. W. 847).

Matters of procedure.

155. (1879.) On a motion to confirm a sale of mortgaged premises under a decree formally journalized, it was objected, in substance, that such entry differed materially from the judgment actually pronounced, but the sale was confirmed notwithstanding the objection. Held, That the court thereby decided that the journal was correct, and that such decision was not subject to review, although the decree itself would be. Findley v. Bowers, 9 Neb. 72 (2 N. W. 349).

156. (1902.) Alleged errors in matters of procedure, occuring at or before trial, are not reviewable by appeal. President & Directors of the Ins. Co. of North America v. Parker, 64 Neb. 411 (89 N. W. 1040).

Relating to costs.

157. (1891.) One H. was permitted to file an amended petition upon payment of costs. He paid a large amount of costs and filed an amended petition on which the case was tried and a decree rendered. Held, That as the court below had deemed the order of the court as to payment of costs satisfied by trying the cause and rendering a decree, if more costs were still due, the remedy of the defendant was a motion to retax, and that should additional costs still be due from the plaintiff it would not be cause for the reversal of the judgment. Hoagland v. Van Etten, 31 Neb. 292 (47 N. W. 920).

E. Mode of Rendition, Form, and Entry of Judgment or Order.

Necessity of formal judgment.

158. (1878.) Where a demurrer to a petition is sustained in the court below, to authorize a review of the case by the supreme court, there must be a final judgment dismissing the case. Miller v. Burlington & M. R. Co., 7 Neb. 227.

159. (1894.) The supreme court will not review on appeal or error a decree rendered by the district court, prior to the formal entry of such decree upon the journal of the trial court. Ward v. Urmson, 40 Neb. 695 (59 N. W. 97); (1896) 47 Neb. 826 (66 N. W. 867).

Digitized by Google

160. (1895.) A motion for judgment non obstante veredicto presents no question for review where the record fails to show that is was ruled on below. Barr v. Kimball, 43 Neb. 766 (62 N. W. 196).

161. (1900.) An appeal from a decree of foreclosure by a defendant who objects only to the entry of a deficiency judgment against him is premature, if taken before the rendition of such judgment. Parmele v. Schroeder, 59 Neb. 553 (81 N. W. 506).

162. (1900.) Where a writ of mandamus has been refused, but no order dismissing the proceedings has been entered, there is no final order from which an appeal will lie. State, ex rel. Yeiser, v. Higby, 60 Neb. 765 (84 N. W. 261).

Sufficiency of entry.

163. (1892.) An order that "'judgment be rendered on the verdict" is a mere recital, and a petition in error cannot be predicated thereon. Stone v. Neely, 34 Neb. 81 (51 N. W. 314).

164. (1895.) Where plaintiff in his petition prays for partition of land, or for a sale thereof in case it cannot be divided, a record showing that a demurrer to the answer was sustained, and merely reciting "judgment of partition as prayed for in the petition," does not disclose a final judgment. Atwood v. Atwood, 45 Neb. 201 (63 N. W. 362).

165. (1897.) An order setting aside a verdict that recites "The court finds that the order granting a new trial was made contrary to, and in violation of, the rules of this court, * * * was prejudicial error, and erroneously granted, * * * and the court would set aside said order granting said new trial had this court jurisdiction to do so," is not a final order. Marrow v. Gilbert, 52 Neb. 195 (71 N. W. 1014).

——— Finding or memorandum.

166. (1878.) The recitals in the record were as follows: "This cause coming on to be heard on the demurrer to the plaintiff's petition heretofore filed, the court, after hearing the argument of counsel thereon, and after due consideration, sustained said demurrer and rendered judgment for the defendant, and against the plaintiff, for the costs of this action taxed at $11.20." Held. Not a judgment, but a mere recital that one had been rendered for costs. Miller v. Burlington & M. R. R. Co., 7 Neb. 227.

167. (1883.) A journal entry in an ejectment suit that "the cause came on for hearing, and a jury being waived, and after hearing the evidence the court finds the defendant should have judgment entered and stand against plaintiff," is not a final order from which appeal will lie. Meglemere v. Bell, 14 Neb. 377 (15 N. W. 703).

168. (1894.) A memorandum for a decree made by a judge of the district court upon his calendar will not authorize a revied of the case in this court before such decree is extended in due form and apt language upon the court journal. Ward v. Urmson, 40 Neb. 695 (59 N. W. 97).

169. (1896.) A memorandum of a judgment made by a judge of the district court upon his trial docket will not authorize a review thereof in the supreme court before the extension of such judgment upon the journal of the district court, in apt language and in due form. Hornick, Hess & Moore, v. Maguire, 47 Neb. 826 (66 N. W. 867).

170. (1897.) A finding without a judgment in a summary prosecution for contempt of court will not reviewed by means of proceedings in error. Blodgett v. State, 50 Neb. 121 (69 N. W. 751).

III. RIGHT OF REVIEW.

A. Persons Entitled.

Parties of record, or privies.

Persons entitled to alleged error, see post, §§ 1504-1551.

171. (1896.) Only parties to a judgment, or their privies, can prosecute error or appeal. Burlington & M. R. R. Co. v. Martin, 47 Neb. 56 (66 N. W. 15); (1900) Peterson v. Martin, 60 Neb. 577 (83 N. W. 831); (1901) Large & Amsden Co. v. Nott & Son, 1 Unof. 147 (95 N. W. 484).

172. (1896.) Where plaintiffs in error are not parties to a judgment, or their privies, the petition in error may be dismissed. Burlington & M. R. R. Co. v. Martin, 47 Neb. 56 (66 N. W. 15).

173. (1898.) Where a party dies after judgment, the administrator may prosecute error without procuring an order of reviving the action in his name. Webster v. City of Hastings, 56 Neb. 245 (76 N. W. 565).

174. (1899.) A judgment cannot be reviewed by one not a party thereto, or who is not affected thereby. Pennsylvania Co. v. Kennard Glass & Paint Co., 59 Neb. 435 (81 N. W. 372).

Digitized by Google

175. (1900.) An order confirming sale of realty by receiver of a bank is appealable and may be superseded by the bank. State v. Fawcett, 60 Neb. 393 (83 N. W. 176).

www.libtool.com.cn

176. (1900.) Any party prejudiced by a judgment rendered against him may, by taking the proper steps, have the same reviewed. Horton v. State, ex rel. Hayden, 60 Neb. 701 (84 N. W. 87).

177. (1901.) The right of review on appeal is confined to those who are parties to the suit in the court below. State v. Bloomfield State Bank, 1 Unof. 526 (95 N. W. 791).

Parties not prejudiced.

178. (1899.) One not prejudiced by a judgment cannot obtain a review thereof. Sturtevant Co. v. Bohn Sash & Door Co., 59 Neb. 82 (80 N. W. 273); (1900) First Nat. Bank v. Gibson, 60 Neb. 767 (84 N. W. 259).

179. (1905.) A defendant who has disclaimed in the district court, and against whom no judgment has been rendered except to bar him of the subject of the action, is not entitled to a review on error or appeal. Rock v. Huff, 73 Neb. 162 (102 N. W. 267).

Interest in subject-matter.

180. (1896.) A judgment debtor disclaiming any interest in the money garnished cannot predicate error upon an order requiring the garnishee to pay the money into court, or upon the refusal to vacate such order. Burnham v. Ramge, 47 Neb. 175 (66 N. W. 277).

181. (1897.) An appealable interest exists when the judgment or decree so affects a party or privy to the record that he would derive a substantial benefit from its modification or reversal. Penn Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Creighton Theatre Building Co., 51 Neb. 659 (71 N. W. 279).

182. (1897.) A bidder at a judicial sale whose bid has been accepted may appeal from an order setting the sale aside. Penn Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Creighton Theatre Building Co., 51 Neb. 659 (71 N. W. 279).

183. (1898.) Where, in an action by a surety to foreclose an indemnity mortgage, it appears from the pleadings that the proceeds of the sale of the mortgaged property are to go to the creditor, who is also a party to the action, such creditor is so interested in the controversy that he may, for his own benefit, prosecute an appeal from a judgment adverse to the surety. Blair State Bank v. Stewart, 57 Neb. 58 (77 N. W. 370).

184. (1906.) The purchaser of an equity of redemption has an interest that will support the right to appeal a foreclosure. Street v. Smith, 75 Neb. 434 (106 N. W. 472).

——— Sureties of parties.

185. (1905.) When there has been a trial and judgment in replevin after the death of the plaintiff and without revivor or suggestion of death upon the record, the sureties in the replevin bond have such an interest as entitles them to have the error corrected by direct proceedings under the statute. McBrayer v. Jordan, 73 Neb. 483 (103 N. W. 50.)

——— Attorneys of parties.

186. (1903.) Attorneys who have undertaken to establish, for a contingent fee, a client's right to a fund in court, and who, after rendering valuable services, have been defeated in the district court, and who have furnished a supersedeas bond to retain the fund, and are taking steps to have the decision against their client reviewed on error, are entitled, when their client under these circumstances refuses to pay them and instructs them to proceed no further on her behalf, to prosecute error proceedings in her name, on their own behalf, in order to collect their contingent fee out of the fund still in court, if they can establish their client's right to it. Counsman v. Modern Woodmen of America, 69 Neb. 713 (98 N. W. 414).

B. Estoppel, Waiver or Agreements Affecting Right.

Estopped to allege errors, see post, §§ 1509-1551.

Inconsistent position or action in general.

187. (1876.) The taking of a stay of execution, prior to the act of February 23, 1875, is not a waiver of the right to prosecute proceedings in error in the supreme court. White v. Blum, 4 Neb. 555; (1876) Seymour v. Street, 5 Neb. 85. [Overruled. 11 Neb. 474; 20 Neb. 315.]

188. (1879.) If a stay of the order of sale under a decree of foreclosure be taken, no proceedings on appeal from each decree can afterwards be had. McCreary v. Pratt, 9 Neb. 122 (2 N. W. 352).

189. (1882.) After a party has a stay of order of sale, he cannot have the judgment reviewed on error or appeal. Sullivan Saving Inst. v. Clark, 12 Neb. 578 (12 N. W. 103).

190. (1893.) Where, in an equitable proceeding, the unsuccessful party secures a re-examination by the district court of the questions at issue, upon an application in the nature of a bill of review, although by motion, instead of a petition, he will be held to have waived his right to appeal from such decree. Wilson v. Roberts, 38 Neb. 206 (56 N. W. 787).

Digitized by Google

191. (1900.) An appeal from a judgment claimed to have been irregularly obtained estops the party appealing from afterwards relying on the alleged irregularities antecedent to the judgment appealed from. Dredla v. Baache, 60 Neb. 655 (83 N. W. 916).

191*a*. (1907.) In an action for personal injuries as a result of negligence, the fact that the jury has, at the request of one of the parties, inspected the scene of the injury, does not necessarily preclude such party from complaining that the verdict is not supported by the evidence. Forbes v. City of Omaha, 79 Neb. 6 (112 N. W. 326).

Acquiescence in decision.

192. (1883.) Taking an order for leave to plead in the district court after an erroneous reversal of the judgment of a justice of the peace, the order being afterwards vacated, is not a waiver of the error, nor does it estop a party from prosecuting error to the supreme court on the judgment of reversal. Raymond v. Strine, 14 Neb. 236 (15 N. W. 350).

193. (1884.) If a defendant, after the overruling of a demurrer, answer to the merits, he thereby waives his exception to the ruling of the court on such demurrer. Dorrington v. Minnick, 15 Neb. 397 (19 N. W. 456).

194. (1897.) An order striking from the files an amended petition as being substantially the same as the original, to which a demurrer had been sustained, may be reviewed by a proceeding in error, the right not being waived by filing the amended petition. Wheeler v. Barker, 51 Neb. 846 (71 N. W. 750).

195. (1901.) The filing of a motion, which is overruled, to vacate a decree and dismiss the action in which it is rendered, because of findings of fact made by the court in the same action, does not waive an appeal from the decree thus vainly attacked. Anderson v. Hendrickson, 1 Unof. 610 (95 N. W. 844).

196. (1901.) A party who has acquiesced in an adverse finding of fact by making it the basis of subsequent proceedings in the cause, is precluded from obtaining review of such finding on appeal. Walsh v. Walsh, 1 Unof. 719 (95 N. W. 1024).

197. (1902.) At a term subsequent to that at which the motion for a new trial was overruled the unsuccessful party asked the court to render judgment on the verdict. Held, That such party was not thereby precluded from obtaining a review of errors in the supreme court. Carlson v. Benton, 66 Neb. 486 (92 N. W. 600).

Compliance with judgment.

198. (1895.) A motion of an appellee to dismiss an appeal because of the payment by appellant of the judgment from which an appeal had been taken must be overruled when it is shown that such payment was not voluntary, but was made to avoid a sale of appellant's property on an execution issued for the satisfaction of the aforesaid judgment. Green v. Hall, 43 Neb. 275 (61 N. W. 605; 47 Am. St. Rep. 761).

199. (1899.) The mere payment of the costs by an unsuccessful litigant is not a waiver of the right to appeal or prosecute error from the judgment rendered on the merits. Woodward v. State, ex rel. Thomssen, 58 Neb. 598 (79 N. W. 164).

Acceptance of benefits.

200. (1885.) A party who accepts the amount of an order or judgment cannot afterwards prosecute an appeal from the same. Gray v. Smith, 17 Neb. 682 (24 N. W. 340).

201. (1894.) A party who, after appealing from a decree in his favor, voluntarily accepts the benefits, or receives the advantage, of the decree is thereby precluded from afterwards prosecuting his appeal. Harte v. Castetter, 38 Neb. 571 (57 N. W. 381).

202. (1906.) A party is not estopped to prosecute his appeal by the fact that he accepts the amount of a judgment which the appellee concedes to be due him; the appeal in such case involving only his right to a further recovery. Meade Plumbing, Heating & Lighting Co. v. Irwin, 77 Neb. 385 (109 N. W. 391).

Agreements and stipulations.

203. (1880.) Where a judgment debtor, by an agreement secures a settlement of the entire controversy, he cannot thereafter prosecute a petition in error to reverse the decree directed against him. Treischke v. Western Grain Co., 10 Neb. 358 (6 N. W. 427).

204. (1883.) Where a party enters into a stipulation to pay all costs in case no appeal is taken, and fails to pay the costs, he cannot insist upon the stipulation to prevent an appeal. Clark v. Strong, 14 Neb. 229 (15 N. W. 236).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

205. (1898.) A judgment on the agreement of parties thereto is binding and will not be reversed on appeal. Andersen v. Carson, 54 Neb. 678 (74 N. W. 1072).

206. (1901.) A stipulation in an action pending in a district court that the property which is the subject of the controversy shall be sold and the proceeds deposited with the clerk until it shall be determined which party to the action is entitled to them, and that, if the sale shall be made before the matter shall be fully litigated, the funds shall be paid out when the court shall have made an order that one or the other party is entitled to them, is not effectual as a release of errors and a waiver of the right of review in the supreme court. An intent by the parties to bar themselves from the right of access to the courts must be manifested by express words or by the strongest implication. Ryan v. Donley, 2 Unof. 6 (96 N. W. 49).

207. (1903.) A stipulation in an action that the property which is the subject of the controversy shall be sold and the proceeds deposited with the clerk to be paid out when the court shall have made an order that one or the other party is entitled to them, is not effectual as a release of errors and a waiver of the right of review in the supreme court. An intent by the parties to bar themselves from the right of access to the courts must be manifested by express words or by the strongest implication. Ryan v. Donley, 69 Neb. 623 (96 N. W. 231).

IV. PRESENTATION AND RESERVATION IN LOWER COURT OF GROUNDS OF REVIEW.

Dismissal for failure to preserve question for review, see post, §§ 1419-1424.

A. Issues and Questions in Lower Court. Necessity of presentation in general.

208. (1876.) To obtain a review of a case in the supreme court, the party must first have fully and fairly presented, in the proper mode, the questions of law to the court below. Gibson v. Arnold, 5 Neb. 186.

209. (1881.) Cases are to be tried on the same issue in the appellate court as in the court of original jurisdiction, with the exception that matter arising after the trial, such as payment, compromise, release, etc., may be pleaded as a defense to the action. O'Leary v. Iskey, 12 Neb. 136 (10 N. W. 576); (1896) Cobbey v. Buchanan, 48 Neb. 391 (67 N. W. 176); (1897) Morrill v. Crawford, 51 Neb. 284 (70 N. W. 954); (1902) Carnahan v. Brewster, 2 Unof. 366 (96 N. W. 590); (1903) McCook Irrigation & Water Power Co. v. Crews, 70 Neb. 115 (102 N. W. 249); (1904) Banking House of A. Castetter v. Stewart, 70 Neb. 815 (98 N. W. 94).

210. (1881.) In its appellate jurisdiction, the province of the supreme court is, generally, to review the rulings of the inferior tribunals, duly expected to at the time of being made, and to correct such of them as are found to be erroneous; not the consideration of questions first raised after the case is brought here, unless they be those of jurisdiction. Courtnay v. Price, 12 Neb. 188 (10 N. W. 698).

211. (1884.) In a proceeding on error to a district court the supreme court can only consider such points as have been brought to the attention of the district court and a ruling had or demanded thereon, and it is such ruling or refusal to rule by the district court upon which this court can act. Chicago, St. P., M. & O. R. Co. v. Lundstorm, 16 Neb. 254 (20 N. W. 198; 49 Am. Rep. 718).

212. (1894.) Where a case is brought to the supreme court on petition in error, to review the decision of the lower court on a motion of a purchaser to vacate the confirmation and set aside a judicial sale of real estate, only such questions as were presented in the lower court, or to which its attention was called and its ruling taken or requested, will be reviewed or considered in the supreme court. Norton v. Nebraska Loan & Trust Co., 40 Neb., 394 (58 N. W. 953).

213. (1895.) The supreme court as an appellate tribunal can pass upon no question which was not presented to and passed on by the district courts; and will not, for the purpose of determining whether a district court came to a correct conclusion, examine any evidence which was not presented to that court. Omaha Fire Ins. Co. v. Dierks & White, 43 Neb. 473 (61 N. W. 740).

214. (1895.) An issue not presented by the pleadings will be disregarded on appeal. Chapman v. Brewer, 43 Neb. 890 (62 N. W. 320; 47 Am. St. Rep. 779).

215. (1895.) A stipulation of the facts filed in the district court after its judgment has been rendered cannot be considered upon proceedings for the review of such judgment in the supreme court. Bowen v. State, 46 Neb. 23 (64 N. W. 353).

Digitized by Google

216. (1888.) A question which was not presented to the trial court, but is raised for the first time in the supreme court, need not be considered. Dunham v. Courtnay, 24 Neb. 627 (39 N. W 784); (1896) Dayton Spice-Mills Co. v. Sloan, 49 Neb. 622 (68 N. W. 1040); (1896) Fuller v. Cunningham, 48 Neb. 857 (67 N. W. 879); (1899) Broadwater v. Foxworthy, 57 Neb. 406 (77 N. W. 1103); (1899) Bankers Life Ins. Co. v. Robbins, 59 Neb. 170 (80 N. W. 484); (1899) Arlington State Bank v. Paulsen, 59 Neb. 94 (80 N. W. 263); (1900) Hyde v. Hyde, 60 Neb. 502 (83 N. W. 673); (1903) Batty v. City of Hastings, 69 Neb. 511 (95 N. W. 866).

217. (1901.) When the defendant in an action to foreclose a tax lien files no pleading in the district court except a motion to strike plaintiff's petition from the files, the action of the trial court in overruling such motion cannot be reviewed on appeal. Seaman v. Atkinson, 2 Unof. 197 (96 N. W. 149).

218. (1905.) The failure of the clerk, in recording a judgment, to certify that certain of the defendants are sureties, where such is the fact, is reversible error, though not presented to the trial court. Escritt v. Michaelson, 73 Neb. 634 (103 N. W. 300).

219. (1906.) Questions not raised by the pleadings in the court of original jurisdiction cannot be considered by the supreme court on appeal. Bankers Union of the World v. Landis, 75 Neb. 625 (106 N. W. 973).

220. (1906.) The failure of the appellees to answer in the court below does not deprive them of the right to review the judgment of that tribunal. Lancaster County v. Whedon, 76 Neb. 753 (108 N. W. 127).

Theory of cause.

221. (1897.) Parties will, as a rule, be restricted to the theory upon which the cause was tried below. Shaw & Co. v. Robinson & Stokes Co., 51 Neb. 164 (70 N. W. 953); (1903) Parker v. Knights Templars & Masons Life Indemnity Co., 70 Neb. 268 (97 N. W. 281).

222. (1895.) A case will in general be reviewed in the supreme court, only with reference to the theory adopted by the parties in the district court. Woodward v. Baird, 43 Neb. 310 (61 N. W. 612); (1896) Omaha Brewing Ass'n v. Wuethrick, 47 Neb. 920 (66 N. W. 990).

223. (1897.) In an action by a receiver of a bank against one who had held some of its unpaid stock, and his transferee thereof, for the amount of an assessment thereon, in which it was sought to obtain judgment against one defendant if certain allegations of fraud against him should be sustained by the proofs to be adduced, and if not so sustained then against the other defendant, the cause must be tried on appeal as one for alternative relief; and the evidence not being found sufficient to charge the original holder of the stock on the theory proceeded on against him in the district court, he cannot be held liable in the supreme court on a different theory. Morrill v. Crawford, 51 Neb. 284 (70 N. W. 954).

224. (1899.) Where parties rest the priorities of liens on the determination of a definitely stated question, the reviewing court will not settle them in accordance with other conditions or facts existing in the case. Woolworth v. Parker, 57 Neb. 417 (77 N. W. 1090).

225. (1901.) As a general rule, the supreme court will review a case only with reference to the theory adopted by the parties in the trial court. This rule is particularly applicable where a party who has procured a decree upon one theory, seeks a modification thereof in the supreme court upon a different theory. Commercial State Bank v. Ketchum, 1 Unof. 454 (96 N. W. 614).

Grounds of action or relief.

226. (1895.) In reviewing the action of the district court in refusing to set aside a sale the supreme court can consider only whether the district court erred in refusing to set aside the sale on the specific grounds assigned for that purpose in the motion filed in the court below. Hooper v. Castetter, 45 Neb. 67 (63 N. W. 135).

227. (1903.) In an equitable action for a new trial, evidence offered for the purpose of proving the plaintiff had a substantial and meritorious defense in the prior action was objected to an excluded on the ground of irrelevancy and immateriality, and a ruling of the trial court procured limiting the evidence to the alleged ground of fraud, and the suit was tried upon that theory. Held, on appeal from a judgment dismissing the suit, that it is proper to adopt the same theory in determining whether the plaintiff is entitled to a new trial and that, for the purpose of the case, it will be assumed that a valid and meritorious defense existed in his favor in the original action. Klabunde v. Byron Reed Co., 69 Neb. 126 (98 N. W. 182).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

Grounds of defense.

228. (1881.) If a defendant in the trial court omit a defense upon the merits which he might have made, he will, in the supreme court, be bound by the case made by the pleadings and evidence, as exhibited by the records. Courtnay v. Price, 12 Neb. 188 (10 N. W. 698); (1894) Chamberlain v. Grimes, 42 Neb. 701 (60 N. W. 948).

229. (1894.) A subcontractor brought a suit to foreclose a mechanic's lien. The owner, the original contractor, and a material-man were made defendants. The material-man filed an answer, in the nature of a cross-bill, claiming a lien upon the premises of the owner for material furnished in the erection of the improvement. To this cross-bill the owner filed no answer. Held, That the owner could not be heard to object, on appeal, to the correctness of the finding and decree of the district court in favor of the material-man. Zarrs v. Keck, 40 Neb. 456 (58 N. W. 933).

230. (1895.) Where the answer in the district court was a general denial of the averments of the petition, the defendant, having urged in that court but one ground for the avoidance of the effect of his alleged indorsement of a promissory note, will not be permitted, for the first time by brief in the supreme court, to urge that he should be held not liable on a radically different ground. Greaves v. Norfolk Nat. Bank, 45 Neb. 840 (64 N. W. 225).

231. (1898.) In a suit against a railroad company by an employe who was injured through negligence of a co-employe, the defense that the employes were fellow-servants cannot be considered on review unless presented to the trial court by a pleading, an instruction, or in some other manner. Union P. R. Co. v. Elliott, 54 Neb. 299 (74 N. W. 627).

232. (1903.) Defenses not interposed in the court below and not complained of in the petition in error, will not be reviewed on error proceedings in the supreme court, unless they go to the jurisdiction of the subject-matter. Houser v. McCrystal, 5 Unof. 217 (97 N. W. 828).

——Invalidity of statute.

233. (1895.) Where a statute is claimed to be invalid on the ground that it was not enacted in the constitutional mode, such invalidity must be presented by the pleadings or in some other form in the trial court to be of any avail here. Such objection cannot be raised for the first time in the appellate court. Clearwater Bank v. Kurkonski, 45 Neb. 1 (63 N. W. 133).

——Capacity or right to sue.

234. (1890.) The objection that the plaintiff, which sought to establish a lien upon certain personal property in the hands of D. as the property of C., a judgment debtor of the plaintiff, was, as to the property, only a general creditor of C., it not having attached the same, the question not having been raised in the trial court; held, that it would not be heard when raised for the first time, in the supreme court on appeal. South Omaha Nat. Bank v. Chase, 30 Neb. 444 (46 N. W. 513).

235. (1903.) The question of legal capacity of plaintiff to maintain an action cannot be successfully urged for the first time in the supreme court. Taylor v. Weckerly, 69 Neb. 739 (96 N. W. 618).

——Defect of parties.

236. (1899.) Defense of defect of parties defendant is waived unless raised by answer or demurrer and cannot be first raised on appeal. Ayres v. Duggan, 57 Neb. 750 (78 N. W. 296).

237. (1903.) The question of a defect of parties cannot be successfully urged for the first time in the supreme court. Taylor v. Weckerly, 69 Neb. 739 (96 N. W. 618).

——Statute of limitations.

238. (1897.) The defense of the statute of limitations, will be waived if not raised in the trial court. Bell v. Rice, 50 Neb. 547 (70 N. W. 25); (1902) Omaha Carpet Co. v. Clapp, 2 Unof. 406 (89 N. W. 246).

Construction of pleadings.

239. (1890.) When there is no answer in the record brought to this court, but it appears that the cause was tried by both parties without objection, as though an answer had been filed denying the allegations of the petition, the supreme court will treat the case in the same way. Schuster v. Carson, 28 Neb. 612 (44 N. W. 734).

240. (1902.) Where pleadings are not marked filed by the clerk, but are treated by the trial court as though they were actually filed, they will be so treated on appeal. Jolliffe v. Maxwell, 8 Unof. 244 (91 N. W. 563).

Digitized by Google

241. (1903.) If, after the issues are made up in the lower court by petition, answer, and reply, an amended answer is filed containing allegations not denied by the reply, and the cause is tried in the lower court, and presented in the supreme court, on the theory that the reply stands as a reply to the amended answer, it will be so considered by this court. Palmer v. Mizner, 70 Neb. 200 (97 N. W. 334).

242. (1905.) A reviewing court will not only liberally construe a petition assailed for the first time in that court, in order to uphold it if possible, but will view it in the light of the entire record; and where, from the nature of the answer and the testimony adduced, it appears that both parties have placed the same construction on such petition, the court will not ignore such construction in ruling on the sufficiency of the petition, even though the petition standing alone might not admit of such construction. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Kerr, 74 Neb. 1 (104 N. W. 49).

243. (1905.) Where the court and the parties to the action proceed in the trial of a case on the theory that the pleadings present a certain material issue not jurisdictional in its nature, the supreme court will not on appeal examine the pleadings to determine their sufficiency to clearly make the issue. Morrill v. McNeill, 74 Neb. 291 (104 N. W. 195).

244. (1902.) Where the parties to an action enter upon a trial and treat the allegations of new matter alleged in the answer as denied, this court will also treat it so notwithstanding no reply appears in the record. Loan & Trust Savings Bank v. Stoddard, 2 Unof. 486 (89 N. W. 301).

Construction of contract.

245. (1895.) In an action on a contract, where both parties in the district court adopt a particular construction, neither will be permitted to urge a different one in the reviewing court. Woodward v. Baird, 43 Neb. 310 (61 N. W. 612).

Facts admitted or not denied.

246. (1902.) Facts not put in issue by the pleadings form no basis for an assignment of error on the ground of the insufficiency of the evidence to sustain a finding as to the existence of such facts. Clements v. Eiseley, 63 Neb. 651 (88 N. W. 871).

Evidence considered without offer.

247. (1901.) Writings present at the trial below and made the basis of examination of witnesses, without objection, and treated by the court and both parties as in evidence, will be so regarded in this court, although there was no formal offer of the same in evidence. Peterson v. Wolf, 1 Unof. 242 (95 N. W. 332).

Questions in intermediate court.

248. (1894.) Assignments of error not presented to the district court on error from a justice of the peace will not be considered in the supreme court in reviewing a judgment of affirmance. Weeks v. Wheeler, 41 Neb. 200 (59 N. W. 554).

249. (1898.) The validity of an order of a county board allowing a claim cannot be raised for the first time in the supreme court on error or appeal. State, ex rel. Seth Thomas Clock Co., v. County Com'rs, 53 Neb. 767 (74 N. W. 254).

B. Objections, Motions and Requests, and Rulings Thereon.

Necessity in general.

250. (1881.) In all cases of error, not of a jurisdictional character, before the aggrieved party can be heard in a court of error, he should first seek relief at the hands of the court where the error has occurred. Griggs v. Le Poidevin, 11 Neb. 385 (9 N. W. 557).

251. (1894.) An alleged error in accepting an insufficient receiver's bond, not brought to the attention of the trial court will not be considered by the supreme court on a review of the case by petition in error. Ecklund v. Willis, 42 Neb. 737 (60 N. W. 1026).

252. (1902.) Objections argued in the briefs which were not presented to the trial court will not be considered. Moore v. Jacobs, 64 Neb. 72 (89 N. W. 1134).

Sufficiency in general.

253. (1879.) Objections and exceptions should present distinctly and specifically the ruling objected to. Tomer v. Densmore, 8 Neb. 384.

Nature and form of remedy.

254. (1894.) Objection to the jurisdiction of a court of equity on the ground that the plaintiff has an adequate remedy at law must be made before judgment on the merits of the cause, and will not be entertained when made for the first time in the supreme court on the appeal of the objecting party. Sherwin v. Gaghagen, 39 Neb. 238 (57 N. W. 1005); (1895) Dorsey v. Nichols, 43 Neb. 214 (61 N. W. 584).

Digitized by Google

255. (1892.) No objection to the procedure to obtain a modification of a decree of foreclosure and sale being made in the district court, the objection will be unavailing if made for the first time in the supreme court. Richardson v. Smith, 34 Neb. 595 (52 N. W. 279).

256. (1897.) An objection to an equitable proceeding on the ground that there is an adequate remedy by garnishment cannot be first raised on appeal. Raymond v. Leinberger, 50 Neb. 815 (70 N. W. 400).

257. (1895.) A defendant who has answered to the merits and submits to the jurisdiction of a court of equity cannot object for the first time on appeal in the supreme court, on the ground that the plaintiff had an adequate remedy at law. Dorsey v. Nichols, 43 Neb. 241 (61 N. W. 584); (1897) Stahlhut v. Bauer, 51 Neb. 64 (70 N. W. 496).

258. (1899.) An objection that an application for revivor of a judgment should have been made by motion supported by affidavit, and not by petition, cannot be first raised in the reviewing court. Broadwater v. Foxworthy, 57 Neb. 406 (77 N. W. 1103).

259. (1903.) Where issues have been made and trial had on the merits, the defeated party should not be heard to complain for the first time on appeal in the supreme court, that the form of action should have been by petition under section 602 of the code instead of by petition in equity. MacCall v. Looney, 4 Unof. 715 (96 N. W. 238).

Trial in absence of counsel or witnesses or reporter.

260. (1882.) An objection that a case was called and a jury impaneled in the absence of the attorneys for one of the parties must be made in the trial court, and cannot be made for the first time in the supreme court. Wasson v. Palmer, 13 Neb. 376 (14 N. W. 171).

261. (1896.) An objection to proceeding with a trial on account of the absence of witnesses should be made when the case is called. Kreamer v. Irwin, 46 Neb. 827 (65 N. W. 885).

262. (1905.) If a party desires to complain of the absence of the official reporter, he should call the attention of the trial court thereto, obtain a ruling, and if forced to trial without the reporter preserve his exceptions. Tootle-Weakley Millinery Co. v. Billingsley, 74 Neb. 531 (105 N. W. 85).

Qualification and selection of jurors.

263. (1876.) An objection that a juror was disqualified by reason of his non-residence within the county for a sufficient length of time, should be made by way of challenge before the trial. Or if the disqualification were not known then, the record should show that an effort was made to ascertain the fact by an examination of the juror on his voir dire; otherwise, a new trial will not be granted. Wilcox v. Saunders, 4 Neb. 569.

264. (1891.) Objections to jurors not made in the trial court, will not be considered. Van Etten v. Butt, 32 Neb. 285 (49 N. W. 365).

265. (1892.) Where the clerk of the court and deputy sheriff are interested in the result of an action, and hence in drawing the jury and talesmen, the party complaining should make objections before the trial, otherwise they cannot be considered in the supreme court. Leavitt v. Sizer, 35 Neb. 80 (52 N. W. 832).

Trial without jury.

266. (1893.) In a cause tried to the court without a jury, in order to raise objection in supreme court that no waiver of jury is shown it must appear that the objection was made and overruled in trial court; objection made for first time in supreme court is unavailing. Shoning v. Coburn, 36 Neb. 76 (54 N. W. 84).

267. (1895.) Where the record does not show a demand for a jury trial or an objection to a trial to the court, it will be presumed that a jury was waived. Davis v. Snyder, 45 Neb. 415 (63 N. W. 789).

Process.

268. (1879.) Mere irregularities in a summons, not at all prejudicial to the party, and of which no advantage was sought to be taken in the court issuing it, furnish no sufficient grounds for reversing a judgment. Roggencamp v. Moore, 9 Neb. 105 (2 N. W. 227).

——— Sufficiency of objection.

269. (1884.) A defendant who appears in a case to object to the jurisdiction of the court over him by reason of defective service of summons must point out specifically the defects complained of, and an objection "that no certified copy of the summons therein has been served on the defendant as required by law" is too general to be available. Freeman v. Burks, 16 Neb. 328 (20 N. W. 207); (1890) Brown v. Goodyear, 29 Neb. 376 (45 N. W. 618).

Parties.

270. (1895.) Where one asks to intervene, files a pleading, and is examined by an adverse party, the latter cannot for the first time, upon appeal from a decree adjudicating the rights of intervenor, urge that the intervenor had not by an order been made a party below. Chadron Banking Co. v. Mahoney, 43 Neb. 214 (61 N. W. 594).

Digitized by Google

271. (1899.) An objection that one of the defendants was not joined in an application to revive a judgment cannot be urged for the first time in the reviewing court. Broadwater v. Foxworthy, 57 Neb. 406 (77 N. W. 1103).

272. (1902.) The objection that there was a misjoinder of parties plaintiff cannot be urged for the first time on appeal. Thompson v. Rush, 66 Neb. 758 (92 N. W. 1060).

Pleadings.

273. (1892.) Objections to the form of the pleadings must be made in the trial court to be available in the supreme court. Clay v. Greenwood, 35 Neb. 736 (53 N. W. 659).

274. (1893.) A new cause of action should not be presented in the reply, but when no objection is made on that ground in the district court and the issues presented are submitted on their merits, the objection that the cause of action was first stated in the reply will be held to have been waived. Gregory v. Kaar, 36 Neb. 533 (54 N. W. 859).

275. (1899.) The authority of counsel to file a pleading for one of the parties to an action cannot be first raised in the supreme court. German Nat. Bank of Hastings v. First Nat. Bank of Hastings, 59 Neb. 7 (80 N. W. 48).

276. (1901.) An objection that a pleading is indefinite must be raised in the trial court by a motion to make more definite and certain. Sanford v. Litchenberger, 62 Neb. 501 (87 N. W. 305); (1902) Iodence v. Peters, 64 Neb. 425 (89 N. W. 1041).

277. (1902.) Where objection that the petition is not verified, is first raised on appeal, the appellee will be permitted to amend to conform to the proofs after submission of the cause in the supreme court, and upon amendment the decree will be affirmed. Ure v. Bunn, 3 Unof. 61 (90 N. W. 904).

278. (1905.) If the evidence in an action in equity for a new trial shows that a motion for a new trial was in fact filed, and evidence was received without objection, and the case tried in all respects as though the petition contained such allegation, the petition will be treated as sufficient in that respect. Parker v. Parker, 73 Neb. 4 (102 N. W. 85).

——— Failure to state cause of action or defense.

279. (1888.) Where answer fails to constitute a defense to the action, but no objection was made thereto in the court below, nor error on that ground assigned in the supreme court, the question will not be considered. Dunham v. Courtnay, 24 Neb. 627 (39 N. W. 784).

280. (1895.) Objection that a pleading does not state a cause of action or defense should be made in the trial court and assigned in the petition in error. Pearce v. McKay, 45 Neb. 296 (63 N. W. 851).

281. (1896.) The sufficiency of a petition to state a cause of action may be challenged in the appellate court. Sage v. City of Plattsmouth, 48 Neb. 558 (67 N. W. 455).

282. (1899.) Insufficiency of a petition to state a cause of action may be raised for the first time in the appellate court. Kemper v. Renshaw, 58 Neb. 513 (78 N. W. 1071).

283. (1903). The question of whether a petition states a cause of action or discloses grounds sufficient for the granting of equitable relief, may be raised at any stage of the proceedings in the appellate court, up to and including the filing of a motion for a rehearing. Vila v. Grand Island Electric Light, Ice & Cold Storage Co., 68 Neb. 233 (97 N. W. 613).

284. (1907.) A pleading which is attacked for the first time in the supreme court on the ground that it does not state a cause of action, will be liberally construed. Omaha Nat. Bank v. Kiper, 60 Neb. 33, followed and approved. Nelson v. Modern Brotherhood of America, 78 Neb. 429 (110 N. W. 1008).

——— Joinder of causes.

285. (1892.) The supreme court will not notice an objection to a petition on the ground that two causes of action are improperly joined, unless such objection was made in the trial court. First Nat. Bank v. Miltonberger, 33 Neb. 847 (51 N. W. 232).

——— Construction of pleading not objected to.

286. (1902.) A petition when assailed for the first time in the supreme court will be liberally construed. First Nat. Bank of Madison v. Tompkins, 3 Unof. 334 (94 N. W. 717).

287. (1905.) Where a petition is for the first time assailed in the supreme court because of its alleged failure to state a cause of action, its allegations will receive a liberal construction, with a view of giving effect to the pleader's purpose, and, if possible, sustaining the petition. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Kerr, 74 Neb. 1 (104 N. W. 49).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

——— Variance.

288. (1897.) Where the claim of an agent for compensation was for finding a purchaser for the land of the defendant ready and willing to purchase, and, without objection, proof was made of the ability to purchase, as well as of the alleged readiness and willingness, the variance cannot be urged as error for the first time in the supreme court. Hoefer v. Langhorst, 53 Neb. 364 (73 N. W. 692).

289. (1905.) Where a party relies upon a variance between the pleadings and the proof to defeat a recovery, that question should be raised at some time during the progress of the trial, and, unless it is so raised and suggested to the trial court, it will not be considered on error in the supreme court. Spencer v. Wilson, 74 Neb. 459 (104 N. W. 930).

Admission of evidence.

290. (1879.) Where testimony is introduced without objection, error will not lie upon the ground that the testimony was improperly admitted. Catron v. Shephard, 8 Neb. 308; (1889) Chicago, K. & N. R. Co. v. Wiebe, 25 Neb. 542 (41 N. W. 297); (1891) Western Union Tel. Co. v. Lowrey, 32 Neb. 732 (49 N. W. 707); (1892) Rupert v. Penner, 35 Neb. 587 (53 N. W. 598; 17 L. R. A. 824); (1892) Wohlenberg v. Melchert, 35 Neb. 803 (53 N. W. 982); (1896) Graham v. Frazier, 49 Neb. 90 (68 N. W. 367); (1899) Willits v. Arena Fruit Co., 58 Neb. 659 (79 N. W. 624); (1899) Palmer v. First Bank of Ulysses, 59 Neb. 412 (81 N. W. 303); (1900) Fulton v. Ryan, 60 Neb. 9 (82 N. W. 105); (1901) Clark v. Folkers, 1 Unof. 96 (95 N. W. 328); (1904) Goken v. Dallugge, 72 Neb. 22 (101 N. W. 244).

291. (1882.) Where no objection was made in the court below to direct proof showing the amount of damages sustained by a landowner by reason of the location of a railroad across his land, the objection is not available on error. Republican V. R. Co. v. Hayes, 13 Neb. 489 (14 N. W. 521).

292. (1884.) When the testimony of an incompetent witness is certified to this court the same as any other witness who testified on the trial, and the record shows no objection made on the trial to the testimony of the witness, the presumption follows that the objection was waived. Bartlett v. Bartlett, 15 Neb. 593 (19 N. W. 691).

293. (1884.) Where oral proof of the terms of a warranty is received without objection, a party cannot allege error in the admission of such testimony, even if the record shows a written warranty. McCormick v. Laughran, 16 Neb. 87 (20 N. W. 107).

294. (1886.) Where evidence showing contradictory statements of a witness is introduced without first calling his attention to the time, place, and person involved in the supposed contradiction, and no objection is made to such evidence, the jury may consider it, and, if sufficient, base their verdict thereon. Coal v. Roche, 20 Neb. 550 (31 N. W. 367).

295. (1889.) Error cannot be successfully assigned upon the admission of evidence by a trial court, which was admitted by the consent of the complaining party, no objection having been made thereto. Omaha Belt Railway v. McDermott, 25 Neb. 714 (41 N. W. 648).

296. (1889.) When upon a trial, evidence, incompetent or illegal but which tends to prove the case of the side offering it, is admitted without objection, and considered by the jury in agreeing upon their verdict, the incompetency or illegality of such evidence will not be considered on error or appeal. Missouri P. R. Co. v. Vandeventer, 26 Neb. 222 (41 N. W. 998; 3 L. R. A. 129).

297. (1893.) Where a witness volunteers testimony not responsive to any questions, and which is immaterial under the issues, the complaining party should object thereto or move to strike it out of the record. A new trial will not be allowed on account of such volunteer evidence when no objection is made to it at the time of the trial. Omaha S. R. Co. v. Beeson, 36 Neb. 361 (54 N. W. 557).

298. (1895.) In order to render an alleged error in the admission of testimony available in a review of a case the record must disclose an objection made in the trial court to the introduction of the particular piece of testimony, a ruling obtained thereon, and, if adverse, an exception taken. Gran v. Houston, 45 Neb. 813 (64 N. W. 245).

299. (1896.) Allegations of error as to admitting evidence not objected to will be disregarded. Denise v. City of Omaha, 49

Digitized by Google

Neb. 750 (69 N. W. 119); (1871) Morgan v. Lorsh, 1 Neb. 361.

300. (1897.) Where the record does not disclose by whom certain evidence was offered or that anyone objected thereto, it will not be assumed in the supreme court that such evidence was improperly considered. Morgan v. Mitchell, 52 Neb. 667 (72 N. W. 1055).

www.libtool.com.cn

301. (1902.) Where evidence of facts tending to impeach the validity of a judgment is presented to the trial court by affidavits, and no objection is made in the court below to the consideration of the affidavits because the judgment creditor has not had an opportunnity to cross-examine witnesses, it is too late to interpose this objection after the case has been removed to the supreme court upon appeal. Baldwin v. Burt, 2 Unof. 383 (96 N. W. 401).

302. (1902.) Where evidence tending to establish facts not directly put in issue by the pleading, has been admitted without objection, a party cannot, on appeal to the supreme court, be heard to complain that such facts were not an issue in the case. Pres. & Directors of Ins. Co. of North America v. Buckstaff, 3 Unof. 632 (92 N. W. 755).

303. (1903.) Where an objection to a question is overruled—the answer not being given—and the question is afterwards put in another form and is answered without objection, error cannot be predicated thereon. Draper v. Tucker, 69 Neb. 434 (95 N. W. 1026).

——— Form of question.

304. (1902.) An objection to the form of an hypothetical question asked of a medical expert on the ground that it permitted the witness to consider the subjective conditions in giving his opinion should be made at the trial or it will be unavailing. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Church, 3 Unof. 22 (90 N. W. 1026).

——— Sufficiency of objection.

305. (1872.) Objections to evidence tendered at a trial not supported by reasons therefor are not usually considered; but, if the testimony be directed to a point already indisputably established, refusing to receive it is not ground for awarding a new trial. Pyle v. Warren, 2 Neb. 241.

306. (1874). When an objection is made to the admission of any particular testimony, the ground of the objection should be stated, together with the ruling of the court, and both preserved by bill of exceptions; otherwise they will not be considered in the supreme court. Michel v. Ware, 3 Neb. 229; (1881) Stevenson v. Anderson, 12 Neb. 83 (10 N. W. 552).

307. (1874.) Where objection is made to the admission or rejection of testimony, the reason should be given. Tierney v. Cornell, 3 Neb. 267; (1881) Stevenson v. Anderson, 12 Neb. 83 (10 N. W. 552).

308. (1878.) In order to make an objection to testimony available it is necessary that the grounds of the objection be stated; otherwise it is impossible for the reviewing court to know whether the court below was in fault or not. Wright v. Greenwood Warehouse Co., 7 Neb. 435.

309. (1878.) Even where it is apparent that a valid objection to testimony could have been made, still the court is not at liberty to assume that this was the one relied on; in the absence of an affirmative showing to the contrary all presumptions are favorable to the court whose judgment is under review. Wright v. Greenwood Warehouse Co., 7 Neb. 435.

310. (1882.) Where to a question put to a witness the objection was made "Plaintiff objects as before," and no previous objection had been made during the examination of this witness, although there had been many, and for various reasons, during the examination of others, the objection was bad for indefiniteness. Dunbier v. Day, 12 Neb. 596 (12 N. W. 109).

311. (1889). Objections to a transcript of a judgment of another state, that it contains no certificate of the presiding judge "that the attestation is in due form of law," must be specific. Dvorak v. More, 25 Neb. 735 (41 N. W. 777).

312. (1892.) An objection to the admission of a deed as incompetent, immaterial, and irrelevant, is not specific enough to reach a defect in the execution of the instrument. Rupert v. Penner, 35 Neb. 537 (53 N. W. 598; 17 L. R. A. 824*n*).

313. (1894.) Generally, in order to predicate error on the overruling of an objection to testimony, specific ground of objection must have been brought to the attention of the trial court prior to the ruling; but where a general objection to evidence is sustained, the party against whom the ruling was made cannot urge, as a ground of reversal, that the objection was not specific. Hurlburt v. Hall, 39 Neb. 889 (58 N. W. 538).

Digitized by Google

314. (1896.) An objection to a hypothetical question put to an expect witness, that it is "incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant," is too general to raise the point that the question involves erroneous statements of evidence. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Archer, 46 Neb. 907 (65 N. W. 1043).

315. (1898.) An objection to the admission of a deed of assignment in evidence that it was not executed or acknowledged in the manner in which a conveyance is required to be executed and acknowledged is too general and not sufficiently specific to reach defects in the form of execution and acknowledgement of the instrument. Maul v. Drexel, 55 Neb. 446 (76 N. W. 163).

316. (1890.) Objection to testimony on the ground that it is "incompetent, irrelevant, and immaterial," is specific enough to apprise the trial court of the real grounds of objection to the testimony. First Nat. Bank v. Carson, 30 Neb. 104 (46 N. W. 276); (1899) Bennett v. McDonald, 59 Neb. 234 (80 N. W. 826).

317. (1896.) An objection that a question is "incompetent, irrelevant, and immaterial" is held sufficient generally to appraise the court of any ground of complaint falling within the meaning of those terms. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Archer, 46 Neb. 907 (65 N. W. 1043).

318. (1893.) An objection interposed to a question not answered by a witness does not present for review the propriety of a similar question asked at a later stage of the examination and answered without objection. Wheeler v. Van Sickle, 37 Neb. 651 (56 N. W. 196).

319. (1901.) A party cannot justly complain of an adverse ruling upon an objection to the introduction of evidence which is so indefinite as to be unintelligible. McPherson v. Commercial Nat. Bank, 61 Neb. 695 (85 N. W. 895).

320. (1901.) Where a question is asked a witness, and the adverse party examines such witness as to the competency of the proposed evidence and then interposes an objection to the question which is overruled and an exception taken, and the witness is again asked the same question, to which an answer is given without further objection, the objection made to the question first asked and an exception taken to the ruling thereon are sufficient to present for review the admissibility of such evidence. Bee Publishing Co. v. World Publishing Co., 62 Neb. 732 (87 N. W. 945.) [Overruling Bee Publishing Co. v. World Publishing Co.. 59 Neb. 713.]

321. (1902.) An objection to an entire question put to a witness calling for testimony, part of which is admissible and part inadmissible, is properly overruled, and error cannot be predicated on such ruling. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Church. 3 Unof. 22 (90 N. W. 878).

322. (1902.) It is the duty of one objecting to a question asked a witness to state the grounds upon which he relies for the exclusion of the proffered testimony, so that the trial court may rule with such criticism in mind; and an objection based upon grounds not disclosed at the time such objection is made will be disregarded on appeal. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Church, 3 Unof. 22 (90 N. W. 878).

323. (1902.) An objection to an exhibit as a whole is properly overruled where a part of it is admissible. Skow v. Loche, 3 Unof. 176 (91 N. W. 204).

324. (1904.) Objections to the introduction of evidence must be sufficiently specific to challenge the attention of the trial court to the ground upon which the objection is based, or they will be unavailing. Weatherford v. Union P. R. Co., 5 Unof. 464 (98 N. W. 1089).

325. (1905.) An insufficient objection to the competency of a witness cannot be availed of as an objection to the competency or relevancy of his testimony. Lincoln Supply Co. v. Graves, 73 Neb. 214 (102 N. W. 457).

——— Motion to strike out answer.

326. (1893.) Where the admissibility of evidence is for the first time called in question by a motion to strike it out of the record, it is very questionable whether, under any circumstances, a review can be had of the ruling of the district court upon such motion. Lee v. Brugmann, 37 Neb. 232 (55 N. W. 1053).

327. (1894.) Consideration will not be given in the supreme court to an assignment of error based upon the admission in evidence of a statement by a witness not responsive to the question he was answering, although such question was objected to, unless by a motion to strike out that portion of his answer, or otherwise, the trial judge was given an opportunity to rule upon the particular testimony, the admission of which is assigned as error. Violet v. Rose, 39 Neb. 660 (58 N. W. 216).

Digitized by Google

328. (1894.) In order to predicate error upon the admission of an answer not responsive to the question put a witness a motion should be made to strike out the answer for that reason. German Nat. Bank of Hastings v. Leonard, 40 Neb. 676 (59 N. W. 107).

329. (1895.) Error in admitting evidence given before objection has been made to its introduction cannot be shown in absence of a ruling on a motion to strike it out. Kissinger v. Staley, 44 Neb. 783 (63 N. W. 55).

330. (1896.) Where in response to a question proper in itself, inadmissible matter is introduced, the admissibility of testimony contained in the answer is properly presented for review by a motion to strike out the answer and an exception to an order overruling such motion. Malm v. Thelin, 47 Neb. 686 (66 N. W. 650).

Offer of proof on exclusion of evidence.

330*a*. (1884.) The supreme court cannot say that the district court erred in sustaining an objection to a question in the examination in chief of a witness when no statement or offer was made to the court. Fosbinder v. Svitak, 16 Neb. 499 (20 N. W. 866).

331. (1886.) In order that a party may avail himself of an error in rejecting the testimony of a witness he must make an offer to prove the facts he expected to show by such testimony. Lipscomb v. Lyon, 19 Neb. 511 (27 N. W. 731); (1886) Masters v. Marsh, 19 Neb. 458 (27 N. W. 438); (1887) Connelly v. Edgerton, 22 Neb. 82 (34 N. W. 76); (1888) Hamilton v. Ross, 23 Neb. 630 (37 N. W. 467); (1888) Yates v. Kinney, 25 Neb. 120 (41 N. W. 128); (1890) Mordhorst v. Nebraska Telephone Co. 28 Neb. 610 (44 N. W. 649); (1890) Burns v. City of Lincoln, 28 Neb. 866 (45 N. W. 175); (1890) Coombs v. Brenklander, 29 Neb. 586 (45 N. W. 929); (1890) Salisbury v. Iddings, 29 Neb. 736 (46 N. W. 267); (1891) Hammond v. City of Harvard, 31 Neb. 635 (48 N. W. 462); (1891) Lincoln Nat. Bank v. Davis, 32 Neb. 1 (48 N. W. 892); (1892) Brecker v. Treitschke, 33 Neb. 699 (50 N. W. 1041); (1892) Burk v. Dempster, 34 Neb. 426 (51 N. W. 976); (1892) Rooch v. Hawkinson, 34 Neb. 658 (52 N. W. 373); (1892) German Ins Co. v. Hyman, 34 Neb. 704 (52 N. W. 401); (1893) Dukehart v. Coughman, 36 Neb. 412 (54 N. W. 680); (1893) Smith v. Hitchcock, 38 Neb. 104 (56 N. W. 791); (1894) Barr v. City of Omaha, 42 Neb. 341 (60 N. W. 591); (1895) Omaha Fire Ins. Co. v. Berg, 44 Neb. 522 (62 N. W. 862); (1896) Murry v. Hennessey, 48 Neb. 608 (67 N. W. 470); (1896) Denise v. City of Omaha, 49 Neb. 750 (69 N. W. 119); (1895) Alter v. Covey, 45 Neb. 508 (63 N. W. 863); (1897) Morsch v. Besack, 52 Neb. 502 (72 N. W. 953); (1899) Spirk v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 57 Neb. 565 (78 N. W. 272); (1899) Union P. R. Co. v. Vincent, 58 Neb. 171 (78 N. W. 457); (1899) Hambleton v. Fort, 58 Neb. 282 (78 N. W. 498); (1899) Johnson v. Opfer, 58 Neb. 631 (79 N. W. 547); (1900) Nebraska Telephone Co. v. Jones, 60 Neb. 396 (83 N. W. 197); (1900) Wittenberg v. Mollyneaux, 60 Neb. 583 (83 N. W. 842); (1901) Farmers & Merchants Ins. Co. v. Dobney, 62 Neb. 213 (86 N. W. 1070; 97 Am. St. Rep. 624); (1901) Brennan-Love Co. v. McIntosh, 62 Neb. 522 (87 N. W. 327); (1901) Green v. Tierney, 62 Neb. 561 (87 N. W. 331); (1901) Likens v. State, 63 Neb. 249 (88 N. W. 505); (1901) Boughn v. Security State Bank of Randolph, 1 Unof. 490 (95 N. W. 680); (1902) Lusk v. Riggs, 65 Neb. 258 (91 N. W. 243); (1902) City of Crete v. Hendricks, 2 Unof. 847 (90 N. W. 215); (1902) City of South Omaha v. Burke, 3 Unof. 309 (91 N. W. 562); (1903) Riley v. Missouri P. R. Co., 69 Neb. 83 (95 N. W. 20); (1908) Blondel v. Bolander, 80 Neb. 531 (114 N. W. 574.

332. (1888.) A party who has examined a witness in part, and the witness is excused on the ground that the matter testified to was confidential, must show either by the questions asked the witness and overruled, or by an offer of proof, that he desired the witness to testify further; otherwise the objection will be unavailing. Welton v. Baltezore, 25 Neb. 190 (41 N. W. 146).

333. (1889.) To entitle a plaintiff in error to a review of the ruling of the court below on the rejection of testimony it is required that the party complaining shall have made an offer of the testimony, clearly indicating what he expects to prove by the witness in response to the question propounded and overruled by the court. Sellars v. Foster, 27 Neb. 118 (42 N. W. 907).

334. (1893.) The rulings of the trial court, in not permitting the defendant to answer certain questions propounded to him by his counsel on direct examination, cannot be reviewed by this court, for the reason no offer was made in the trial court to prove the facts which the party complaining assumes the questions would have elicited. Barton v. McKay, 36 Neb. 632 (54 N. W. 968).

335. (1895.) Upon an offer to prove certain facts if a pending question is permitted to be answered, such question should be so clearly pertinent that a favorable relevant answer thereto must obviously tend to establish the existence of some fact material to the issues being tried. If these essentials are lacking in the question propounded they cannot be supplied by mere offers to make proofs foreign to the scope of such question. Cutting v. Baker, 43 Neb. 470 (61 N. W. 726).

Digitized by Google

336. (1898.) An offer to prove, to lay the foundation for the proper presentment of error in the exclusion of proposed testimony as answer to a question to which an objection is sustained, must be of matter which would have been admitted as relevant, responsive, and pertinent in answer to the rejected interrogatory. Perkins v. Tilton, 53 Neb. 440 (73 N. W. 930).

337. (1898.) It is not error to reject an offer of proof not within the limits of the question on which the offer is based. Barr v. Post, 56 Neb. 698 (77 N. W. 123).

338. (1900.) Where an objection to a question as improper rebuttal testimony is properly sustained, and the testimony is desired as a part of the main case, it is required that it should be offered as such, and a ruling thereon obtained, before error can be predicated on the exclusion of such testimony. McLain v. Maricle, 60 Neb. 359 (83 N. W. 829).

339. (1902.) Where the trial court rejects all the evidence offered by a party, in determining its admissibility, the complaining party will be given the benefit of every inference that might be reasonably drawn from the testimony received. Horbach v. Boyd, 64 Neb. 129 (89 N. W. 644).

340. (1902.) An offer of proof, not put in a deceptive manner, nor in language calculated to mislead, which is fairly susceptible of a construction rendering the evidence admissible, should be so construed, although a different construction might be put upon it, where it clearly appears from the record that the trial court did not proceed upon a correct theory in rejecting it. Horbach v. Boyd, 64 Neb. 129 (89 N. W. 644).

341. (1903.) No formal offer to prove is required, to obtain a review of a ruling of the trial court excluding the answer of a witness to a question, where the question itself clearly indicates what the party expected to prove by the witness. Williams v. Fuller, 68 Neb. 354 (94 N. W. 118).

342. (1904.) Where the evidence on a vital proposition is erroneously excluded, it is not necessary for the party offering it to proceed to establish other propositions in his case in order to predicate error on such ruling. Gartner v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 71 Neb. 444 (98 N. W. 1052).

Qualification of witnesses.

343. (1899.) Where an irregularity in the manner of administering an oath to a witness is known at the time, objection must then be made, or it will be waived. City of O'Neill v. Clark, 57 Neb. 760 (78 N. W. 256).

Stipulation.

344. (1889.) Where, in an action to foreclose a mortgage, it is stipulated that if a certain witness were present he would testify that the entire consideration for the note and mortgage was usurious interest on a loan of money, and no contradictory evidence is offered, objections to the stipulation as the statement of a conclusion and not of facts cannot be made for the first time in the supreme court. Richardson v. Stone, 28 Neb. 137 (44 N. W. 105).

Misconduct of counsel.

345. (1895.) Where it is assigned for error that there was misconduct of an attorney for the prevailing party during the course of argument to the jury, consisting of language used or statements made prejudicial to the rights of the adverse party, the attention of the trial court must be called to the language or statements by an objection, and, if overruled, an exception taken, and this portion of the proceedings incorporated in the bill of exceptions. It will then be reviewed by this court; otherwise not. Gran v. Houston, 45 Neb. 813 (64 N. W. 245); (1896) Bankers Life Ass'n v. Lisco, 47 Neb. 340 (66 N. W. 412); (1898) Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Kellogg, 54 Neb. 127 (74 N. W. 454); (1899) Summers v. Simms, 58 Neb. 579 (79 N. W. 155).

346. (1879.) Where no objection or ruling of the trial court is made to appear in the record, the supreme court will not consider, as one ground of error, the misconduct of counsel in his argument to the jury. Cropsey v. Averill, 8 Neb. 151.

347. (1884.) An objection to the conduct of opposing counsel in the argument to the jury, to be availing, must be first made to the trial court at the time, and if the ruling of the court is adverse to the party making the objection, such ruling will be reviewed by this court. Fitzgerald v. Fitzgerald, 16 Neb. 413 (20 N. W. 269).

Digitized by Google

348. (1897.) In order to preserve for review error in permitting improper remarks by counsel, objection must be made at the time, a ruling obtained and exception taken. Golder v. Lund, 50 Neb. 867 (70 N. W. 379); (1903) Lansing v. Wessell, 5 Unof. 199 (97 N. W. 815).

www.libool.com.cn

349. (1898.) A party desiring to review misconduct of counsel in argument should make an objection, and except to any adverse ruling; but where misconduct is so flagrant, and of such a character, that neither a complete retraction nor an admonition from the court can entirely destroy its sinister influence, a new trial should be awarded regardless of the want of an objection and exception. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Kellogg, 55 Neb. 748 (74 N. W. 462).

350. (1904.) Alleged misconduct of counsel in addressing the jury must be objected to when the language is used, and a ruling of the trial court procured on such objection available in this court. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Krayenbuhl, 70 Neb. 766 (98 N. W. 44).

351. (1907.) An objection at the close of an argument, "to the manner and style" of the argument, without a ruling of the court thereon, presents nothing for review in the supreme court. Home Savings Bank v. Stewart, 78 Neb. 624 (110 N. W. 947).

Instructions.

352. (1871.) If the charge to the jury contain more than one proposition, and any portion of it be correct, each specific point deemed erroneous must be pointed out, and separately objected to. McReady v. Rogers, 1 Neb. 124 (93 Am. Dec. 333).

353. (1889.) Objections to instructions, or to the want thereof, not made to the district court, cannot be entertained by the supreme court. Downing v. Glenn, 26 Neb. 323 (41 N. W. 1119).

354. (1889.) When not objected or excepted to at trial, instructions will not be considered in the supreme court on review. Gibbons v. Sherwin, 28 Neb. 146 (44 N. W. 99).

355. (1896.) An objection that the court erred in giving or refusing instructions cannot be raised for the first time in the appellate court. Keens v. Robertson, 46 Neb. 837 (65 N. W. 897).

356. (1900.) Rulings on instructions cannot be considered, unless the objections were first presented to the trial court. Missouri P. R. Co. v. Tipton, 61 Neb. 49 (84 N. W. 416).

Verdict and findings.

357. (1883.) An objection that the findings of the jury are inconsistent, and do not sustain the judgment rendered thereon, will not be considered where raised for the first time in the petition in error. Laughlin v. Kavanaugh, 15 Neb. 39 (16 N. W. 754).

358. (1893.) In a verdict, the omission from the title of the cause of the name of a defendant who had been made a party after the commencement of the suit, is not a fatal defect, where no objection was made in the trial court, and the verdict was returned and filed in the proper action. Parrish v. McNeal, 36 Neb. 727 (55 N. W. 222).

359. (1894.) Objections to form or terms of a verdict should be made at the time it is rendered. Roggencamp v. Hargreaves, 39 Neb. 540 (58 N. W. 162); (1896) Yankton, N. & S. W. R. Co. v. State, 49 Neb. 272 (68 N. W. 487); (1895) Brumback v. German Nat. Bank of Beatrice, 46 Neb. 540 (65 N. W. 198); (1899) Cervenna v. Thurston, 59 Neb. 343 (80 N. W. 1048); (1903) Whiting v. Carpenter, 4 Unof. 342 (93 N. W. 296).

360. (1901.) An alleged error in the size of the verdict, not brought to the attention of the trial court will not be considered by the supreme court on a review of the case by petition in error. Farmers & Merchants Ins. Co. v. Dobney, 62 Neb. 213 (86 N. W. 1070; 97 Am. St. Rep. 624).

361. (1901.) Objections to a verdict which go to its form only should be made at the time of its rendition. Parsons Band Cutter & Self-Feeder Co. v. Gadeke, 1 Unof. 605 (95 N. W. 850).

362. (1902.) Objections to the form of a verdict must be made when it is rendered, and before the jury is discharged. Objections not made and exceptions not taken to it until a motion for a new trial is filed will be deemed to have been waived. Kingman Implement Co. v. Strong, 2 Unof. 729 (89 N. W. 993).

Dismissal.

363. (1889). The supreme court, in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction, has no authority to reinstate a cause in the district court which has been there voluntarily dismissed by the plaintiff. Where it is claimed that a dismissal was obtained by fraud, an application to reinstate must be made in the court where the cause was pending at the time the dismissal was entered. Grimes v. Chamberlain, 27 Neb. 605 (43 N. W. 395).

Digitized by Google

Judgment.

364. (1872.) An objection that judgment was entered on the pleadings without taking the necessary proof must be pointed out to the court entering the same. Mills v. Miller, 2 Neb. 299.

365. (1879.) Where a creditor's bill was filed against a husband and wife, and the decree, in favor of the wife, was taken for too large a sum, the plaintiff should have filed a motion in the court below to correct it. First Nat. Bank of Omaha v. Bartlett, 8 Neb. 329.

366. (1891.) Errors in entering a judgment in foreclosure, on demurrer, which judgment recites that it is rendered on the pleadings and evidence, must be corrected in the trial court. Townsend v. Case Threshing Machine Co., 31 Neb. 836 (48 N. W. 899).

Vacation or modification of judgment.

367. (1898.) M. obtained a verdict in her favor, which was set aside without service upon her of notice as required by the rules of the court. She made no complaint during the term, nor until after there had been another trial and an adverse verdict and judgment rendered against her. Held, That she had waived her right to complain of the irregularity. Gilbert v. Marrow, 54 Neb. 77 (74 N. W. 420).

Judicial sale.

368. (1890.) An objection to a confirmation of sale that was not made in the lower court will not be considered in the supreme court. Runge v. Brown, 29 Neb. 116 (45 N. W. 271); (1896) Creighton University v. Mulvihill, 49 Neb. 577 (68 N. W. 931); (1898) Toscan v. Devries, 57 Neb. 276 (77 N. W. 669); (1900) Mandell v. Weldin, 59 Neb. 699 (82 N. W. 6); (1900) Pearson v. Badger Lumber Co., 60 Neb. 167 (82 N. W. 374); (1900) Ashpole v. Hallgren, 60 Neb. 196 (82 N. W. 623); (1903) Walker v. Fitzgerald, 69 Neb. 52 (95 N. W. 32).

369. (1897.) Grounds for setting aside a judicial sale are unavailing on review unless they were presented in the court below. Creighton University v. Riley, 50 Neb. 341 (69 N. W. 943).

370. (1897.) The supreme court will not review the appraisement made of real estate sold on execution, for the purpose of determining whether such appraisement is too high or too low, unless objections on that ground be made and filed in the court from which the execution issued, before the sale occurred, and such objections be ruled upon by said court. McMurtry v. Columbia Nat. Bank, 53 Neb. 21 (73 N. W. 212).

371. (1901.) Where the court, having jurisdiction of the subject-matter and of the parties, upon trial and without objection vacates a sale because the property sold was exempt, the execution creditor cannot be heard to complain for the first time in the supreme court that the question of exemptions cannot properly be tried on confirmation of sale. Jackett v. Bower, 62 Neb. 232 (86 N. W. 1075).

372. (1901.) A ground for setting aside a judicial sale is unavailing on review, unless the same was presented to the court below. Hawver v. Parkway Real Estate Co., 62 Neb. 504 (87 N. W. 312).

373. (1903.) Objections to a sale not raised by objection to the confirmation in the trial court will not be considered on appeal. Nebraska Loan & Trust Co. v. Corning, 4 Unof. 364 (94 N. W. 1135).

Motion to retax costs.

Review on error from final judgment, see post, § 1498.

374. (1886.) A party complaining of the taxation of costs in the district court must file a motion in that court to retax the same. The ruling on the motion to retax is subject to review. Whitall v. Cressman, 18 Neb. 508 (26 N. W. 245); (1892) Railsback, Mitchell & Co. v. Patton, 34 Neb. 490 (52 N. W. 277).

375. In order to review the question of taxation of costs, a motion to retax the costs must be made in the trial court, and a ruling obtained thereon by that court. (1887) Wilkinson v. Carter, 22 Neb. 186 (34 N. W. 351); (1894) Real v. Honey, 39 Neb. 516 (58 N. W. 136); (1894) Richards v. Borowsky, 39 Neb. 774 (58 N. W. 277); (1894) Cahn v. Lipson, 39 Neb. 776 (58 N. W. 280); (1894) Haskell v. Valley County, 41 Neb. 254 (59 N. W. 680); (1894) Roberts v. Drehmer, 41 Neb. 306 (59 N. W. 911); (1894) Shields v. Gamble, 42 Neb. 850 (61 N. W. 101); (1895) Ins. Co. of North America v. Bachler, 44 Neb. 549 (62 N. W. 911); (1896) Yankton, N. & S. R. Co. v. State, 49 Neb. 272 (68 N. W. 487).

376. (1897.) A motion to retax costs is essential to obtain a review of a mistake, neglect, or omission of the clerk of the trial court in the taxation of costs, but such motion is unnecessary where the court has determined that a party is liable for certain costs and rendered judgment against him therefor. Hartford Fire Ins. Co v. Corey, 53 Neb. 209 (73 N. W. 674).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

377. (1898.) Where the question as to liability for costs was directly considered by the trial court, the party against whom they were taxed may have the ruling reviewed without having filed a motion to retax. Lamaster v. Elliott, 53 Neb. 424 (73 N. W. 925).

Objections in intermediate court.

378. (1883.) Upon a hearing in the supreme court in a case originating before a justice of the peace, and taken to the district court by petition in error, an objection as to the sufficiency of the bill of exceptions taken before the justice, not made in the district court, but raised for the first time in the supreme court, will not be considered. Hawley v. Robeson, 14 Neb. 435 (16 N. W. 438).

379. (1885.) An objection that a cause appealed to the district court is not based on the same cause of action as in the justice court comes too late, it should have been made in the district court. Sawyer v. Brown, 17 Neb. 171 (22 N. W. 355).

380. (1888.) Where a cause is tried before a justice of the peace, and on appeal in the district court without objection to the jurisdiction of the court, and the want of jurisdiction does not apear on the face of the papers, the objection will not be considered in the supreme court. McClure v. Campbell, 25 Neb. 57 (40 N. W. 595).

381. (1891.) An objection that the judgment of a justice of the peace was not in the proper form cannot be first urged in the supreme court. Gapen v. Bretternitz, 31 Neb. 302 (47 N. W. 918).

382. (1891.) The objection that there was no ordinance in force authorizing the granting of a saloon license, cannot be raised for the first time in the supreme court. Livingston v. Corey, 33 Neb. 366 (50 N. W. 263).

383. (1894.) An objection that a petition filed in the district court introduced a new cause of action will not be considered by the supreme court, where it appears that no objection was made or exception taken on that ground until after the trial in the lower court. Levi v. Fred, 38 Neb. 564 (57 N. W. 386).

384. (1897.) An objection that a cause was tried in the district court on appeal upon different issues from those involved in the court whence the appeal was taken, is unavailing in the supreme court, unless seasonably raised in the court below, a ruling obtained thereon, and an exception thereto preserved in the record. Stichter v. Cox, 52 Neb. 532 (72 N. W. 848).

Request for instructions.

385. (1883.) The objection to an instruction that it is not sufficiently explicit, especially in civil cases, will not be regarded unless the matter were brought to the attention of the trial court by a request for one that was satisfactory. B. & M. R. R. Co. v. Schluntz, 14 Neb. 421 (16 N. W. 439); (1882) Sioux City R. Co. v. Brown, 13 Neb. 317 (14 N. W. 407); (1884) Republican V. R. Co. v. Fellers, 16 Neb. 169 (20 N. W. 217); (1884) Sioux City & P. R. Co. v. Finlayson, 16 Neb. 578 (20 N. W. 860; 49 Am. St. Rep. 724); (1885) Republican V. R. Co. v. Fink, 18 Neb. 89 (24 N. W. 691); (1889) Klosterman v. Olcott, 25 Neb. 382 (41 N. W. 250); (1894) Barr v. City of Omaha, 42 Neb. 341 (60 N. W. 591); (1897) Stewart v. Smith, 50 Neb. 631 (70 N. W. 235); (1899) Wittenberg v. Mollyneaux, 59 Neb. 203 (80 N. W. 824); (1901) Wickham v. Wolcott, 1 Unof. 160 (95 N. W. 366); (1902) O'Donnell v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Co., 65 Neb. 612 (91 N. W. 566); (1903) Riley v. Missouri P. R. Co., 69 Neb. 82 (95 N. W. 20); (1903) Parkins v. Missouri P. R. Co., 4 Unof. 1 (93 N. W. 197).

386. (1896.) In order to present for review the failure of the trial court to instruct the jury upon particular issues or evidence in a case, the party complaining must have requested instructions on the omitted topics. Carter White Lead Co. v. Kinlin, 47 Neb. 409 (66 N. W. 536); (1886) Post v. Garrow, 18 Neb. 682 (26 N. W. 580); (1889) Woodruff v. White, 25 Neb. 745 (41 N. W. 781); (1893) Barton v. McKay, 36 Neb. 632 (54 N. W. 968); (1893) Barney v. Pinkham, 37 Neb. 664 (56 N. W. 323); (1894) Laing v. Nelson, 40 Neb. 252 (58 N. W. 846); (1894) German Nat. Bank of Hastings v. Leonard, 40 Neb. 676 (59 N. W. 107); (1897) Sanford v. Craig, 52 Neb. 483 (72 N. W. 864); (1897) Weber Bros. v. Whetstone, 53 Neb. 371 (73 N. W. 695); (1901) Peterson v. State, 63 Neb. 251 (88 N. W. 549).

387. (1890.) Instructions to the jury must be requested before error can be predicated upon refusal to submit. Davis v. Giddings, 30 Neb. 209 (46 N. W. 425); (1897)

Digitized by Google

Everett v. Hobleman, 51 Neb. 376 (19 N. W. 452).

388. (1897.) Where a jury is directed to find upon particular questions of fact, if any further than those submitted are desired by a party to the action, a request must be made for the submission of the further questions. If no request is made, error cannot be predicated upon the failure of the court to include such questions in the list of those directed to be answered. Town v. Missouri P. R. Co., 50 Neb. 768 (70 N. W. 402).

389. (1899.) A party cannot predicate error upon the giving of a vague instruction, unless he has requested a proper one. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Oyster, 58 Neb. 1 (78 N. W. 359).

390. (1899.) The jury should be charged by the court to base the verdict solely upon the evidence; but a failure in this regard is a non-direction simply. If the defeated party wishes to predicate error thereon, he should prepare and ask an instruction to that effect. Burr v. McCallum, 59 Neb. 326 (80 N. W. 1040; 80 Am. St. Rep. 677).

391. (1902.) Where an instruction assumes to define the whole law of the case, and omits a material element from the definition given, it is reversible error, which may be relied on although no proper instruction has been requested by the party seeking to take advantage of the defect. City of South Omaha v. Hager, 66 Neb. 803 (92 N. W. 1017).

392. (1902.) Where the trial court undertakes to instruct the jury as to the issues involved in a cause on trial before them, he should state the issues fully, accurately and fairly; but where such instruction is incomplete, vague or uncertain, counsel should tender an instruction free from the defect urged and obtain a ruling thereon, in order to lay the basis for complaint upon review; otherwise the error, if any, will be deemed to have been waived. City of South Omaha v. Meyers, 3 Unof. 699 (92 N. W. 743).

393. (1903.) If the trial judge substantially misstates the testimony in giving his recollection thereof under section 287 of the code, it is error; but if he merely fails to make a complete statement, the party who desires that a further or fuller statement be made, being present at the time, should make a request to that effect, and, if he makes no request, a mere general exception to the statement of the trial judge will not suffice. Barton v. Shull, 70 Neb. 324 (97 N. W. 292).

Request for findings.

394. (1901.) Error cannot be predicated on the failure of the courts to make special findings of fact where none were asked. Sheibley v. Dixon County, 61 Neb. 409 (85 N. W. 399).

Request for judgment.

395. (1890.) Before error can be predicated upon the failure of a district court to render a deficiency judgment, it must appear that the court refused to render one when requested to do so. Brownlee v. Davidson, 28 Neb. 785 (45 N. W. 51).

396. (1900.) The failure of a trial court to make a complete and final disposition of a cause cannot be reviewed until it has been asked to so proceed in the case. McClave v. McClave, 60 Neb. 464 (83 N. W. 668).

C. Exceptions.

Failure to except as ground for dismissal of appeal, see post, §§ 1419-1424.

Necessity that record show exceptions, §§ 860-870.

Necessity in general.

397. (1877.) When no exceptions are taken in the court below, in an action at law, where a trial on the merits has been had, the case cannot be reviewed in the supreme court. Hosford v. Stone, 6 Neb. 378.

398. (1879.) Where it appears from the record that no exceptions were taken to the ruling of the court below, and no steps taken to call the attention of the court to the alleged errors, they will not be reviewed by this court. Roode v. Dunbar, 9 Neb. 95 (2 N. W. 345).

Sufficiency in general.

399. (1874.) To make exceptions to the charge of the court to the jury available to the party excepting, or to the ruling of the court in the refusal to give instructions asked for, the exceptions must be reduced to writing during the same term at which the trial took place. Heady v. Fishburn, 3 Neb. 263.

400. (1876.) An exception taken in the court below must not be so indefinite as to leave it uncertain as to what it is intended to apply. Gibson v. Arnold, 5 Neb. 186.

Discretionary matters.

401. (1901.) An alleged abuse of discretion on the part of the trial court is unavailing unless excepted to. Guthrie v. State, 2 Unof. 28 (96 N. W. 243).

Digitized by Google

Motions and rulings thereon in general.

402. (1898.) A ruling on a motion to which no exception was taken cannot be reviewed in the supreme court, especially if such review is sought upon appeal as distinguished from error proceedings. Frenzer v. Phillips, 57 Neb. 229 (77 N. W. 668).

www.hbtool.com.cn

403. (1899.) An interlocutory order to which no exception has been taken cannot be reviewed. Estep v. Schlesinger, 58 Neb. 62 (78 N. W. 383).

404. (1902.) Where a motion has been sustained in part and overruled in part, the maker of it, who has taken no exceptions, cannot complain of error in its overruling. Curran v. Hageman, 3 Unof. 779 (92 N. W. 1003).

405. (1903.) To authorize the supreme court to review the rulings of the trial court on motions and other matters of procedure, the party complaining must except to such rulings, file a motion for a new trial, and present the questions by a petition in error. Danforth v Fowler, 68 Neb. 452 (94 N. W. 637).

Rulings as to parties.

406. (1898.) Where no exception is taken to an order substituting a party plaintiff, such order cannot be reviewed. Maul v. Drexel, 55 Neb. 446 (76 N. W. 163).

Rulings as to pleadings.

407. (1877.) An order of court, in making up the pleadings, to which no exception is taken, will not be reviewed on error. Healy v. Aultman Co., 6 Neb. 349.

408. (1894.) A ruling on an application for leave to file an amended answer cannot be reviewed where the record fails to show that an exception was taken thereto. Hiatt v. Kinkaid, 40 Neb. 178 (58 N. W. 700).

409. (1899.) A ruling on an application to amend a pleading will be disregarded on review in absence of an exception below. Troup v. Horbach, 57 Neb. 644 (78 N. W. 286).

410. (1896.) To secure a review of alleged error in sustaining a demurrer to a petition, an exception is indispensably necessary, even though the action is solely for equitable relief. Abbott v. Barton, 47 Neb. 822 (66 N. W. 838).

411. (1901.) Where no exception is taken to a ruling sustaining a demurrer but leave to amend is given, error is waived. Robertson v. Hamilton, 61 Neb. 791 (86 N. W. 493).

412. (1902.) An order overruling a special demurrer will not be reviewed where no exception to such order is saved. Holway v. American Exchange Nat. Bank, 64 Neb. 67 (89 N. W. 382).

413. (1903.) A party is not in a position to complain of a ruling of the trial court, requiring certain defendants to file answers, instanter, as of date when the judgment was rendered, when no exception is taken to such ruling and it is made in response to a motion, filed many months after the rendition of the judgment, asking that such parties be required to answer. Norbury v. Harper, 70 Neb. 389 (97 N. W. 438).

Continuance granted or denied.

414. (1891.) To predicate error upon order denying a continuance it must be excepted to at trial. Coad v. Home Cattle Co., 32 Neb. 761 (49 N. W. 757; 29 Am. St. Rep. 465); (1898) Staples v. Arlington State Bank, 54 Neb. 760 (74 N. W. 1066).

Evidence admitted or excluded.

415. (1882.) Alleged error in the admission of evidence cannot be considered, in the absence of an exception to the ruling. Dunbier v. Day, 12 Neb. 596 (12 N. W. 109); (1882) Republican V. R. Co. v. Arnold, 13 Neb. 485 (14 N. W. 478); (1887) Singer Mfg. Co. v. McAllister Bros., 22 Neb. 359 (35 N. W. 181); (1901) Pope v. Klingerman & Co., 2 Unof. 184 (96 N. W. 519).

416. (1882.) Unless exceptions have been taken in the trial court to the admission or refusal to admit testimony, no error can be predicated thereon. Pettit v. Black, 13 Neb. 142 (12 N. W. 841); (1880) Stanton County v Canfield, 10 Neb. 389 (6 N. W. 466); (1892) Johnson v. Swayze, 35 Neb. 117 (52 N. W. 835); (1894) Hurlburt v. Hall, 39 Neb. 889 (58 N. W. 538); (1897) Bennett v. McDonald, 52 Neb. 278 (72 N. W. 268).

417. (1883.) In order to lay the foundation for reviewing a ruling of the trial court on the admission of evidence, an exception is necessary. Republican V. R Co. v. Boyse, 14 Neb. 130 (15 N. W. 364).

——— Sufficiency of exceptions.

418. (1881.) When exceptions are taken to the admission or rejection of testimony in an action tried to a jury, such exceptions must be reduced to writing at the term at which the verdict is rendered, or within the time fixed by statute thereafter. Scott v. Waldeck, 11 Neb. 525 (10 N. W. 409).

419. (1897.) An exception, well taken, to the exclusion of evidence is not waived by a failure to present the same grounds of objection by an exception to an instruction given or refused. Rosenthal v. Ogden, 50 Neb. 218 (69 N. W. 779).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

Report of referee.

420. (1892.) Where exceptions to the report of a referee are withdrawn, objection cannot be made in the supreme court that certain findings are not sustained by the evidence. Whalen v. Brennan, 34 Neb. 129 (51 N. W. 759).

Submission of issues and special findings.

421. (1896.) A party aggrieved by the form of submitting an issue of fact to a jury in an equity case should take an exception. Hay v. Miller, 48 Neb. 156 (66 N. W. 1115).

422. (1902.) The submission of special findings to the jury upon matters claimed to be irrelevant and immaterial will not be reviewed unless excepted to at the time and assigned as error in the motion for a new trial. Livingston v. Moore, 2 Unof. 498 (89 N. W. 289).

Direction of verdict.

423. (1901.) An exception is indispensable to secure a review of the action of the trial court in directing a verdict. Startzer v. Clarke, 1 Unof. 91 (95 N. W. 509).

Instructions given or refused.

424. Objections to instructions to a trial jury will not be noticed by the supreme court, unless the attention of the trial court is first called to them by the proper exceptions taken at the time the instructions were given. (1874) Brown v. Hurst, 3 Neb. 353; (1885) Warrick v. Rounds, 17 Neb. 411 (23 N. W. 785); (1886) Nyce v. Shaffer, 20 Neb. 507 (30 N. W. 943); (1887) Billings v. Filley, 21 Neb. 511 (32 N. W. 567); (1888) Schroeder v. Rinehard, 25 Neb. 75 (40 N. W. 593); (1890) Watson v. Roode, 30 Neb. 264 (46 N. W. 491); (1892) Rooch v. Hawkinson, 34 Neb. 658 (52 N. W. 375); (1892) Darner v. Daggett, 35 Neb. 695 (53 N. W. 608); (1893) Levi v. Fred, 38 Neb. 564 (57 N. W. 386); (1894) American B. & L. Ass'n v. Mordock, 39 Neb. 413 (58 N. W. 107); (1894) Glaze v. Parcel, 40 Neb. 732 (59 N. W. 382); (1894) Bouvier v. Stricklett, 40 Neb. 792 (59 N. W. 550); (1894) Bloedel v. Zimmerman, 41 Neb. 695 (60 N. W. 6); (1895) Sigler v. McConnell, 45 Neb. 598 (63 N. W. 870); (1896) Romberg v. Hediger, 47 Neb. 201 (66 N. W. 283); (1897) Hodgin v. Whitcomb, 51 Neb. 617 (71 N. W. 314); (1897) Anderson v. Beeman, 52 Neb. 387 (72 N. W. 361); (1897) Morsch v. Besach, 52 Neb. 502 (72 N. W. 953); (1898) State, ex rel. Vale, v. School District, 55 Neb. 317 (75 N. W. 855); (1898) Burnet v. Cavanagh, 56 Neb. 190 (76 N. W. 578); (1899) Omaha Brewing Ass'n v. Bullnheimer, 58 Neb. 387 (78 N. W. 728); (1899) Walker v. Allen, 58 Neb. 537 (78 N. W. 1070); (1899) Humpert v. McGavock, 59 Neb. 346 (80 N. W. 1038); (1901) Elkhorn Valley Bank v. Marley, 61 Neb. 583 (85 N. W. 846); (1902) Engel v. Dado, 66 Neb. 400 (92 N. W. 629); (1902) Livingston v. Moore, 2 Unof. 498 (89 N. W. 289); (1903) First Nat. Bank of Wayne v. Tolerton & Stetson Co., 5 Unof. 43 (97 N. W. 248); (1906) Union P. R. Co. v. Meyer, 76 Neb. 549 (107 N. W. 793).

425. In civil cases, instructions by the court to a jury, the giving or refusal of which was not excepted to upon the trial in the court below, will not be considered in the supreme court. (1877) Black v. Winterstein, 6 Neb. 224; (1889) Holloway v. Schooley, 27 Neb. 553 (43 N. W. 346); (1889) Chicago, B & Q. R. Co. v. Starmer, 26 Neb. 630 (42 N. W. 706); (1893) Richardson & Boynton Co. v. Winter, 38 Neb. 288 (56 N. W. 886); (1894) Rector v. Canfield, 40 Neb. 595 (58 N. W. 1131); (1894) Wiseman v. Ziegler, 41 Neb. 886 (60 N. W. 320); (1897) Costello v. Kottas, 52 Neb. 15 (71 N. W. 950); (1901) Darrah v. Juel, 1 Unof. 834 (96 N. W. 166); (1901) Ish v. Marsh, 1 Unof. 864 (96 N. W. 58).

426. (1896.) The refusal of an instruction must be excepted to in the trial court, in order to lay the foundation for its review in the supreme court. City of Omaha v. McGavock, 47 Neb. 313 (66 N. W. 415); (1897) Sanford v. Craig, 52 Neb. 483 (72 N. W. 864); (1897) Brinckle v. Stitts, 53 Neb. 10 (73 N. W. 223).

427. (1875.) All alleged errors, occurring during the trial of a cause, must be excepted to, and complained of in the motion for a new trial, in order to obtain a review of the same in the supreme court; and error committed by the giving of an oral charge to the jury, instead of reducing such charge to writing, as required by Gen. Stat., 262, is no exception to the rule. Horbach v. Miller, 4 Neb. 31.

428. (1882.) Oral statements made by the judge to the jury as to the law of the case must be excepted to, to be reviewed on error. Republican V. R. Co. v. Arnold, 13 Neb. 485 (14 N. W. 478).

Digitized by Google

429. (1896.) A ruling which modifies an instruction requested will not be reviewed in absence of an exception to the modification. Denise v. City of Omaha, 49 Neb. 750 (69 N. W. 119).

www.libtool.com.cn

430. (1898.) Error in giving an oral instruction is not available in the supreme court where no exception was specially taken at the time. Elkhorn Valley Lodge v. the time the instruction was given. Elliott v. Carter White Lead Co., 53 Neb. 458 (73 N. W. 948).

431. (1899.) The charge of a trial court should be filed with the clerk before read to the jury; but that it was not done is not available error, unless the complainant excepted to such omission at the time. Minzer v. Willman Mercantile Co., 59 Neb. 410 (81 N. W. 307).

432. (1900.) Error cannot be predicated upon an instruction in regard to the computation of interest, unless exception is taken at the time. Elkhorn Valley Lodge v. Hudson, 59 Neb. 672 (81 N. W. 859).

——— Numbering and indorsement and filing of instructions.

433. (1881.) Instructions should be filed with the clerk before being read by the court to the jury. And the word "given" or "refused" should be written on the margin of each instruction given or requested. But a failure to comply with the statute is not ground of error, unless excepted to. Fry v. Tilton, 11 Neb. 456 (9 N. W. 638).

434. (1886.) The provision of Comp. St., chapter 19, section 54, directing the charge of the court to the jury to be written in consecutively numbered paragraphs, is a right which the supreme court will regard as waived if no objection is made or exception is taken to a particular clause only. Gibson v. Sullivan, 18 Neb. 558 (26 N. W. 368).

435. (1891.) Where the court fails to write the word "given" on the margin of each instruction as required by the statute, exception must be specially taken on that ground, as the objection does not go to the substance of the instruction. Omaha & Florence L. & T. Co. v. Hansen, 32 Neb. 449 (49 N. W. 456).

436. (1895.) The failure to mark an instruction "given" or "refused" unless excepted to on that ground cannot be reviewed. City of Chadron v. Glover, 43 Neb. 732 (62 N. W. 62).

437. (1896.) In order to present for review the failure of the district court to properly number instructions, exception must at the trial have been taken on that especial ground. Herzog v. Campbell, 47 Neb. 370 (66 N. W. 424).

438. (1899.) Failure to file instructions before they are read to the jury is not reversible error, where a specific exception was not taken on that ground before they were read. Fire Ass'n of Philadelphia v. Ruby, 58 Neb. 730 (79 N. W. 723).

——— Sufficiency of exception.

439. (1871.) To make exceptions to the charge of the court to the jury available to the party excepting, the exception must be reduced to writing, together with so much of the charge as is necessary to explain it. Monroe v. Elburt, 1 Neb. 174; (1874) Heady v. Fishburn, 3 Neb. 263.

440. (1872.) A general exception to the whole of a charge of the court to the jury, composed of several distinct propositions of law, will not avail the party making it, even though some of the propositions be not tenable. Strader v. White, 2 Neb. 348; (1895) Redman v. Voss, 46 Neb. 512 (64 N. W. 1094); (1896) Union P. R. Co. v. Montgomery, 49 Neb. 429 (68 N. W. 619).

441 (1888.) A general exception to instructions given is insufficient. Each specific instruction which is claimed to be erroneous must be distinctly pointed out and specifically excepted to. Brooks v. Dutcher, 22 Neb. 644 (36 N. W. 128) [overruled, 24 Neb. 300]; 49 Neb. 103; 49 Neb. 2441]; (1889) Walker v. Turner, 27 Neb. 103 (42 N. W. 918); (1894) Hedrick v. Strauss, 42 Neb. 485 (60 N. W. 928); (1896) City of Omaha v. McGavock, 47 Neb. 313 (66 N. W. 415); (1896) Valley Lumber Co. v. Smith, 48 Neb. 293 (67 N. W. 159); (1898) American Fire Ins. Co. v. Landfare, 56 Neb. 482 (76 N. W. 1068).

442. (1888.) An exception to "each and every one of the above instructions separately" is not sufficient to permit an examination of instructions of ten paragraphs. Brooks v. Dutcher, 24 Neb. 300 (38 N. W. 780). [Overruled. 49 Neb. 106; 49 Neb. 244.]

443. (1895.) The notation of the words "given" or "refused," as required by statute, on the margin of the instructions is also a portion of the record, indicating the court's ruling on the instruction, and an exception is properly noted by a memorandum on the margin of the instructions. Blumer v. Bennett, 44 Neb. 873 (63 N. W. 14); (1897)

Digitized by Google

Bennett v. McDonald, 52 Neb. 278 (72 N. W. 268).

444. (1895.) Where counsel, when instructions were given, indicated in open court their desire to except thereto, and afterwards themselves noted their exceptions by a memorandum on the margin of the instructions, the court, in overruling a motion to strike from the record such memorandum adopted and ratified the notation, and such notation being in accordance with the facts, there was no error in the court's ruling. Blumer v. Bennett, 44 Neb. 873 (63 N. W. 14).

445. (1897.) An exception to all of the instructions is unavailing if any one of them is correct. City of South Omaha v. Powell, 50 Neb. 798 (70 N. W. 391); (1897) Home Fire Ins. Co. v. Phelps, 51 Neb. 623 (71 N. W. 303); (1897) Adams-Smith Co. v. Hayward, 52 Neb. 79 (71 N. W. 949); (1897) Bennett v. McDonald, 52 Neb. 278 (72 N. W. 268).

446. (1893.) A general exception to instructions, as "to the giving of the above instructions the plaintiff then and there excepted," is insufficient to lay the foundation for their review in the supreme court. Exception should be specifically taken to each paragraph of the charge claimed to be erroneous. First Nat. Bank of Denver v. Lowrey, 36 Neb. 290. (54 N. W. 568).

447. (1896.) An exception to instructions numbered 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, and 9, given by the court on its own motion, is in effect a general exception to the whole charge consisting of nine paragraphs, and is not available on review, if any one of the instuctions was correct and free from criticism. Blue Valley Lumber Co. v. Smith, 48 Neb. 293 (67 N. W. 159).

448. (1896.) An exception to the "giving of instructions 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, and 9, contained in the general charge of the court, and to the giving of each of said instructions," is a separate and specific exception to each of said paragraphs, and is, therefore, sufficient. City of Omaha v. Richards, 49 Neb. 244 (68 N. W. 528).

449. (1897.) Where several distinct requests to charge are denied, an exception to the refusal of all of them is insufficient, unless it appears that each should have been given. City of South Omaha v. Powell, 50 Neb. 798 (70 N. W. 391).

450. (1898.) Exceptions to rulings in giving and in refusing instructions came too late when noted two days after the rulings were made. Smith v. Kennard, 54 Neb. 523 (74 N. W. 859).

451. (1898.) The exception to a portion of the instructions as a "paragraph" held entirely proper, and the portion to which reference was made to clearly come within the meaning of the word used. McClellan v. Heim, 56 Neb. 600 (77 N. W. 120).

452. (1898.) A prepared statement in writing of the exceptions to the giving specifically designated instructions, also to refusals to give requested ones duly filed at the proper time, indorsed by the trial judge "allowed," and authenticated as a part of the proceedings, furnish evidence of the exception having been made and is not an improper manner of notation; also properly of the record. State v. Bartley, 56 Neb. 810 (77 N. W. 438).

453. (1903.) Where one of several instructions asked by a party fails to correctly state the law, error can not be predicated upon an exception taken to the refusal of the court to give the instruction as a whole. Strong v. Combs, 68 Neb. 315 (94 N. W. 149).

Misconduct of counsel.

454. (1885.) When it is alleged that an attorney, in the argument of a cause on trial to a jury, went outside of the record and appealed to the passions and prejudices of the jury, the attention of the court should be called to the language and conduct of the attorney by the proper objection and a ruling had thereon by the court. If the objection is overruled and an exception taken to the ruling the questions may be reviewed in the supreme court upon the decision of the trial court. Without such ruling and exception there is nothing for the reviewing court to consider. Bohanan v. State, 18 Neb. 57 (24 N. W. 390; 54 Am. Rep. 791).

455. In order to preserve for review error in permitting improper remarks by counsel, objection must be made at the time, a ruling obtained from the court and an exception taken. (1897) Golden v. Lund, 50 Neb. 867 (70 N. W. 379); (1903) Lansing v. Wessell, 5 Unof. 199 (97 N. W. 815).

456. (1899.) Alleged misconduct of counsel consisting of statements during argument to the jury, to be available on review must be made the subject of an objection at the time, a ruling obtained, and exception taken thereto, and the portion of the proceedings incorporated in the bill of exceptions. Summers v. Simms, 58 Neb. 579 (79 N. W. 155).

Digitized by Google

Judgment or findings.

457. (1877.) It is not necessary that exception be taken to a final judgment to entitle a party to have it reviewed. Black v. Winterstein, 6 Neb. 224; (1879) Jones v. Null, 9 Neb. 254 (2 N. W. 350); (1885) Welton v. Beltezore, 17 Neb. 399 (23 N. W. 1); (1890) Cheney v. Wagner, 30 Neb. 267 (46 N. W. 427); (1895) Erck v. First Nat. Bank, 43 Neb. 613 (62 N. W. 67); (1898) State v. Bartley, 56 Neb. 810 (77 N. W. 438).

458. (1878.) Where the court is requested under the statute to state its findings of fact and law separately, and omits to do so, if no exception be taken, this will be considered as a waiver of the demand, and an acquiescence in a general finding upon the issues. Lowrie v. France, 7 Neb. 191.

Ruling on motion for new trial.

459. (1878.) When errors of law and irregularities occuring at the trial are the grounds on which a new trial is moved in order to entitle a party to a review of the decision of the court on the motion, an exception is necessary. Lowrie v. France, 7 Neb. 191.

460. (1881.) Exeptions to granting or overruling of a motion for new trial should be taken to obtain review of such motion. Murray v. School Dist. No. 3, 11 Neb. 436, 438 (9 N. W. 573).

461. (1898.) An exception in the trial court to an order overruling a motion for a new trial is necessary to obtain a review in the appellate court of questions properly included in the motion. Van Etten v. Medland, 53 Neb. 569 (74 N. W. 33); (1898) Devries v. Squire, 55 Neb. 438 (76 N. W. 16); (1898) State v. Bartley, 56 Neb. 810 (77 N. W. 438); (1900) State, ex rel. Saunders, v. Clark, 59 Neb. 702 (82 N. W. 8).

Decisions of intermediate courts.

462. (1876.) Error alleged to have been committed by the district court, in the reversal of a judgment rendered in favor of the plaintiff before a justice of the peace, is waived where no exception was taken and plaintiff filed a petition as provided by the code. Lash v. Christie, 4 Neb. 262.

463. (1876.) The failure to except to a judgment of reversal, and to take steps to set it aside until after the original case has proceeded to final judgment, will be deemed a waiver of all errors committed in its rendition. Banks v. Uhl, 5 Neb. 240.

464. (1876.) To obtain a review of a judgment of the district court, dismissing an appeal taken from a justice of the peace, no exception need by taken or made part of the record by a formal bill of exceptions. Morrow v. Sullender, 4 Neb. 374; (1896) Claflin v. American Nat. Bank of Omaha, 46 Neb. 884 (65 N. W. 1056).

D. Motion for New Trial.

Necessity for motion for new trial in appeal in habeas corpus, see Habeas Corpus, §§ 53-55.

Defect in motion as ground for dismissal of appeal, see post, §§ 1419-1424.

Effect as extending time for taking proceedings for review, see post, §§ 626-630.

Necessity for exception to ruling on motion, see ante, §§ 459-461.

Necessity that record show motion and ruling thereon, see post, §§ 860-873.

Necessity in general.

465. (1876.) The supreme court will not review upon petition in error, alleged errors occurring during the trial of a cause in the district court, unless a motion for a new trial was made in the trial court and a ruling obtained thereon. Singleton v. Boyle, 4 Neb. 414; (1877) Hull v. Miller, 6 Neb. 128; (1886) Cruts v. Wray, 19 Neb. 581 (27 N. W. 634); (1886) Joiner v Van Alstyne, 20 Neb. 578 (30 N. W. 944); (1888) Harrington v. Latta, 23 Neb. 84 (36 N. W. 364); (1892) Smith v. Spaulding, 34 Neb. 128 (51 N. W. 469); (1893) Jones v Hayes, 36 Neb. 526 (54 N. W. 858; (1894) Shrimpton v. King, 39 Neb. 779 (58 N. W. 286); (1894) Zehr v. Miller, 40 Neb. 791 (59 N. W. 384); (1899) Broadwater v Foxworthy, 57 Neb. 406 (77 N. W. 1103); (1901) Aultman, Miller & Co. v. Moline Co., 1 Unof. 106 (95 N. W. 369); (1901) Woodard v. Cutter, 2 Unof. 84 (96 N. W. 54); (1902) Marsh v State, 2 Unof. 372 (96 N. W. 520; (1902) Cedar County v. Goetz, 3 Unof. 172 (91 N. W. 177); (1903) Norbury v. Harper, 70 Neb. 389 (97 N. W. 438); (1904) State, ex rel. Holm, v. Ellsworth, 72 Neb. 277 (100 N. W. 314); (1905) Hanson v. Nathan, 74 Neb. 288 (104 N. W. 173).

466. (1876.) To obtain the review of a case in the supreme court a party dissatisfied with either the verdict or judgment in such case, must file the proper motion and in this way present the questions of law fairly and fully to the court below. Creighton v. Newton, 5 Neb. 100.

Digitized by Google

467. (1876.) Where no motion for a new trial has been made to a hearing before a referee, the alleged errors will not be considered. Simpson v. Gregg, 5 Neb. 237.

468. (1880.) In all cases of the trial of issues of fact in actions at law in the district court, a motion for a new trial must be filed and a ruling had thereon, to obtain a review in the supreme court. Lichty v. Clark, 10 Neb. 472 (6 N. W. 760); (1902) Lau v. Lindsey, 3 Unof. 681 (92 N W. 642).

469. (1885.) No point of error not brought to the attention of the trial court for its ruling nor necessary to be considered and passed upon by it in order to reach the judgment rendered will be considered by this court in a proceeding in error. Hurford v. Baker, 17 Neb. 443 (23 N. W. 339).

470. (1893.) The supreme court will not review alleged errors of law occurring in a trial to the district court unless a motion for a new trial is made there and a ruling had on such motion. Withnell v. City of Omaha, 37 Neb. 621 (56 N. W. 381); (1894) Ward v. Western Horse & Cattle Ins. Co., 42 Neb. 374 (60 N. W. 574); (1901) Cobb v. Hadley Co., 1 Unof. 294 (95 N. W. 482); (1903) Toozer v. State, 5 Unof. 182 (97 N. W. 584).

471. (1894.) Allegations of error as to rulings of trial court and verdict of jury will not be reviewed where the party aggrieved failed to present the questions below by a motion for a new trial. Brown v. Ritner, 41 Neb. 52 (59 N. W. 360).

472. (1895.) Allegations that there were errors in the trial below will not be considered in absence of a motion for a new trial. Zimmerman v. State, 46 Neb. 13 (64 N. W. 375).

473. (1895.) In order to secure a review of errors committed during a trial in proceedings for contempt such errors must first be submitted to the court wherein such proceedings were had by a motion for a new trial. Zimmerman v. State, 46 Neb. 13 (64 N. W. 375).

474. (1902.) When a motion for a new trial is overruled, because not filed within the time required by statute, all matters necessarily included therein as grounds for a new trial are unavailing on review by proceedings in error. Harris v. Jennings, 64 Neb. 80 (89 N. W. 625; 97 Am. St. Rep. 635).

475. (1902.) Where the correction of the errors complained of involves the reexamination of no issue of fact, a motion for a new trial is not a prerequisite to a review of a final order or judgment on error. Bannard v. Duncan, 65 Neb. 179 (90 N. W. 947).

476. (1902.) An error not going to the jurisdiction of the trial court, and not called to its attention in any way, by motion for new trial or otherwise, will not be regarded in the supreme court. Jenkins v. Myatt, 2 Unof. 592 (89 N. W. 599).

477. (1906.) The change made by the act of 1905 in the procedure to obtain a review of a judgment at law in a civil case leaves the rule with respect to the necessity of a motion for a new trial unchanged. Carmack v. Erdenberger, 77 Neb. 592 (110 N. W. 315).

Sufficiency in general.

478. (1890.) An oral motion for a new trial is insufficient to bring a cause to the supreme court for review. Phœnix Ins. Co. v. Readinger, 28 Neb. 587 (44 N. W. 864).

479. (1906.) A motion for a new trial, filed out of the time and not coming within any of the exceptions of the statute, is of no avail for the purposes of a review of errors in the supreme court. Carmack v. Erdenberger, 77 Neb. 592 (110 N. W. 315).

Necessity for review on appeal.

480. (1881.) Motion for a new trial below is necessary in all cases brought up on error, but not in equity causes brought up on appeal. Swansen v. Swansen, 12 Neb. 210 (10 N. W. 713)

481. (1888.) Where plaintiff filed his petition in equity in the district court, to which defendant presented a demurrer, on the ground that the petition did not state the facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, and such demurrer was sustained, neither a motion for a new trial nor bill of exceptions was necessary in order to obtain a review in the supreme court by appeal. Hays v. Mercier, 22 Neb. 656 (35 N. W. 894).

482. (1891.) An election contest brought to the supreme court on petition in error, which is in fact an appeal, will not be remanded for want of a motion for a new trial. Barnd v. Hunt, 32 Neb. 116 (49 N. W. 222).

483. (1899.) A motion for a new trial is not essential to a review of an equity cause on appeal. Smith v. Silver, 58 Neb. 429 (78 N. W. 725).

Summary proceedings.

484. (1905.) A judgment in a summary proceeding for contempt in facie curiæ, where no complaint is filed, no evidence is taken, and no trial had, may be reviewed on the record made therein without the filing of a motion for a new trial. Crites v. State, 74 Neb. 687 (105 N. W. 469).

Digitized by Google

Equitable actions.

www.libtool.com.cn

Necessity for review on appeal, see ante, §§ 480-483.

485. (1878.) In order to review an action in equity on error, the errors complained of must be brought before the district court by a motion for a new trial, or they will be considered as waived. Cutler v. Roberts, 7 Neb. 4 (29 Am. Rep. 371).

486. (1890.) In order to review the proceedings in the trial of an equity cause by a petition in error, a motion for a new trial must be filed as in an action at law. Carlow v. Aultman Co., 28 Neb. 672 (44 N. W. 873); (1891) Gaughran v. Crosby, 33 Neb. 33 (49 N. W. 776); (1893) Gray v. Disbrow & Co., 36 Neb. 857 (55 N. W. 255); (1894) Scroggin v. Nat. Lumber Co., 41 Neb. 195 (59 N. W. 548); (1894) Appelget v. McWhinney, 41 Neb. 253 (59 N. W. 918); (1894) Farmers Loan & Trust Co. v. Davis, 42 Neb. 46 (60 N. W. 321); (1902) Miles v. Deming, 2 Unof. 626 (89 N. W. 599); (1902) Curran v. Hageman, 3 Unof. 779 (92 N. W. 1003).

487. (1898.) A review by petition in error of the proceedings during the trial in the district court of an equity cause cannot be obtained in the supreme court if no motion for a new trial was filed in the trial court; and in a case so presented here, the record will be examined no further than to ascertain whether the pleadings state a cause of action or defense and support the judgment or decree. Storey v. Burns, 53 Neb. 535 (74 N W. 39).

Review of sufficiency of pleadings.

Sufficiency of assignment in motion, see post, §§ 543, 544.

488. (1881.) The motion for a new trial, is to correct error in the proceedings, and it is not necessary to raise an objection to a vital defect in a petition, like a failure to state a cause of action. Swansen v. Swansen, 12 Neb. 210 (10 N. W. 713).

489. (1882.) A motion for a new trial is necessary only in those cases where a trial has been had. If the court has merely construed the pleadings or some of them, as in sustaining or overruling a demurrer to a petition, answer or reply, no motion for a new trial is necessary. O'Donohue v. Hendrix, 13 Neb. 255 (13 N. W. 215).

490. (1893.) To obtain a review upon error of matters occurring upon a trial in the district court, a motion for a new trial must have been made in that court, but, in the absence of such a motion, the supreme court will examine the question as to whether the petition states a cause of action. Schmid v. Schmid, 37 Neb. 629 (56 N. W. 207).

491. (1895.) Where it is sought to review on error in the supreme court the judgment of a district court, no motion for a new trial having been filed, this court will look into the record to ascertain if the pleadings state a cause of action or defense and support the judgment or decree rendered; but will not go back of the verdict rendered by the jury or the findings of fact made by the trial court to review anything done or any proceeding had. Hansen v. Kinney, 46 Neb. 207 (64 N. W. 710); (1901) Farmers' & Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Mosher, 63 Neb. 130 (88 N. W. 552); (1905) Johnson v. Songster, 73 Neb. 724 (103 N. W. 274).

492. (1896.) In error proceedings the supreme court will, on proper assignments of error, review a record to ascertain whether the pleadings suport the judgment rendered by the district court, although there was in that court no motion for a new trial. Farris v State, ex rel. Murphy, 46 Neb. 857 (65 N. W. 890); (1901) Ames v. Parrott, 61 Neb. 847 (86 N. W. 503; 87 Am. St. Rep. 536).

493. (1896.) A motion for a new trial is unnecessary to present to this court the question whether the petition states a cause of action. Scarborough v. Myrick, 47 Neb. 794 (66 N. W. 867).

494. (1899.) Where there was filed in the district court a motion for a new trial, the supreme court will only look into the record to ascertain if the pleadings support the judgment sought to be reversed by error proceedings. Holmes v. Lincoln Salt Lake Co., 58 Neb. 74 (78 N. W. 379); (1901) Gillispie v. Morsman, 1 Unof. 586 (95 N. W. 774).

495. (1900.) A final judgment based upon a pleading defective in substance may be reviewed without a motion for a new trial having been filed and ruled upon. Horton v. State, ex rel. Hayden, 60 Neb. 701 (84 N. W. 87).

496. (1902.) Where no motion for a new trial is filed and the case is brought to the supreme court by a petition in error, the judgment of the lower court will be affirmed

Digitized by Google

if sustained by the pleadings. Lau v. Lindsey, 3 Unof. 681 (92 N. W. 642).

497. (1904.) In a statutory proceeding for a license to sell real estate by an administrator or executor, where no motion for a new trial is filed in the court below, the supreme court will, on error proceedings, examine the sufficiency of the pleadings to sustain the judgment. Bixby v. Jewell, 72 Neb. 755 (101 N. W. 1026).

498. (1906.) Where a judgment at law is rendered on the pleadings alone, a motion for a new trial is not necessary to obtain a review in the supreme court. First Nat. Bank of Sutton v Sutton Mercantile Co., 77 Neb. 596 (110 N. W. 306).

Review of rulings on motions.

499. (1894.) An order overruling a motion to dismiss a petition in an action to recover on an insurance policy, the ground of the motion being that the action was not commenced within the time limited by the policy, is conclusive when presented for review neither by a motion for a new trial nor a petition in error. Home Fire Ins. Co. v. Murray, 40 Neb. 597 (59 N. W. 102).

500. (1899.) A ruling of the district court on motion to require its clerk to pay out moneys in his hands may be reviewed, though there was no motion for a new trial. Slobodisky v. Curtis, 58 Neb. 211 (78 N. W. 522).

501. (1903.) To authorize the supreme court to review the rulings of the trial court on motions and other matters of procedure, the party complaining must except to such rulings, file a motion for a new trial, and present the questions by a petition in error. Danforth v. Fowler, 68 Neb. 452 (94 N. W. 637).

Review of rulings as to admission of evidence.

Sufficiency of assignment in motion, see post, §§ 546-550.

502. (1881.) To entitle a defendant in error to a review in the supreme court of errors in the admission of evidence against his objection, it is not enough that he excepted to the overruling of his objection, but he should have moved for a new trial on that ground, and if still unsuccessful, have prosecuted a petition in error. The rule in this particular is the same, whether the party complaining of such errors be a plaintiff or a defendant. Johnson v. Ghost, 11 Neb. 414 (8 N. W. 391).

503. (1888.) To obtain review of the action of a trial court in rejecting an affidavit offered in evidence, the party aggrieved must have made a motion for a new trial in that court. Durham v. Courtnay, 24 Neb. 627 (39 N. W. 784).

504. (1892.) A motion for a new trial is necessary to obtain a review by petition in error of the rulings of the trial court on admission or exclusion of testimony, or to secure a review of the evidence for the purpose of determining whether it is sufficient to sustain the finding and judgment. Miller v. Antelope County, 35 Neb. 237 (52 N. W. 1116).

505. (1901.) Rulings upon the admission of testimony cannot be reviewed unless raised by a motion for a new trial and a petition in error. Pioneer Savings & Loan Co. v. Eyer, 62 Neb. 810 (87 N. W. 1058).

506. (1903.) Alleged errors of a trial court in the admission and exclusion of testimony can only be reviewed in the supreme court when they have first been called to the attention of the trial court by a motion for a new trial. State, ex rel. Douglas, v. Alstadt, 4 Unof. 211 (93 N. W. 696); (1903) Saling v. Estate of Saling, 4 Unof. 507 (94 N. W. 963).

Review of sufficiency of evidence.

507. (1895.) An objection that the findings and judgment are not supported by sufficient evidence is unavailing in an error proceeding where the record fails to show that a motion for a new trial was filed and ruled on below. Losure v. Miller, 45 Neb. 465 (63 N. W. 863); Losure v. Thompson, 45 Neb. 466; (1897) Gretna State Bank v. Grabow, 52 Neb. 354 (72 N. W. 361); (1901) Westervelt v. Baker, 1 Unof. 635 (95 N. W. 793); (1901) Quigley v. Mulford, 1 Unof. 265 (95 N. W. 490).

508. (1897.) Objection that the judgment is unsupported by the evidence will not be considered on petition in error unless presented below by motion for a new trial. Shaw & Co. v. Robinson & Stokes Co., 51 Neb. 164 (70 N. W. 953); (1898) Wollam v. Brandt, 56 Neb. 527 (76 N. W. 1081); (1904) Cassiday v. Collier, 72 Neb. 376 (100 N. W. 802).

509. (1907.) Whether the evidence in an action at law is sufficient to sustain the verdict, or special findings of the jury, must be brought to the attention of the trial court by motion for a new trial, and a ruling had thereon, before a review thereof can be had in this court Kafka v. Union Stock Yards Co., 78 Neb. 140 (110 N. W. 672).

Digitized by Google

Review of ruling on petition of intervention.

510. (1896.) A motion for a new trial is not necessary to obtain a review, on error, of an order refusing to permit a third person to intervene in an action. Deere, Wells & Co. v. Eagle Mfg. Co., 49 Neb. 385 (68 N. W. 504)

Review of instructions given or refused.

Sufficiency of assignment in motion, see post, §§ 551-563.

511. (1886.) Where objection is made to the ruling of a trial court in the giving or refusing to give instructions to the jury hearing the cause, the instructions given or refused must be pointed out in the motion for a new trial in some way, either by number or other means of identifying the same. Weir v. Burlington & M. R. R. Co., 19 Neb. 212 (26 N. W. 627); (1886) Nyce v. Shaffer, 20 Neb. 507 (30 N. W. 943); (1893) Riverside Coal Co. v. Holmes, 36 Neb. 858 (55 N. W. 255); (1894) Hedrick v. Strauss, 42 Neb. 485 (60 N. W. 928).

512. (1909.) To review alleged errors in refusing instructions they must be called to the attention of the trial court by a motion for a new trial. Schmitt & Bro. Co. v. Mahoney, 60 Neb. 20 (82 N. W. 99); (1907) Tarpenning v. Knapp, 79 Neb. 62 (112 N. W. 290).

Review of sufficiency of findings of court or referee.

513. (1881.) To obtain a review of the decision of a referee a motion for a new trial is necessary. Light v. Kennard, 11 Neb. 129 (7 N. W. 539).

514. (1881.) Exceptions to the report of a referee although proper practice in certain cases, as where it fails to cover all the issues submitted, or the conclusion drawn from the facts found is unwarranted, and the like, cannot supply the place of a motion for a new trial for matters proper to be included therein. Murray v. School District No 3, 11 Neb. 438 (9 N. W. 573).

515. (1903.) On a complaint in the supreme court, that a decree is contrary to law, the question as to whether or not it is supported by the findings of fact in the lower court may be examined on error in the absence of a motion for a new trial, but the decree will not be set aside unless the findings as a whole show it clearly wrong. Bemis v. McCloud, 4 Unof. 731 (97 N. W. 828).

Review or ruling on motion to vacate confirmation of sale.

516. (1903.) In order to obtain a review of the ruling of the trial court in overruling a motion to vacate an order of confirmation, it is not necessary that a motion for a new trial alleging such ruling as error be first addressed to the trial court, and a rulings had thereon. Linton v. Cathers, 4 Unof. 641 (95 N. W. 1044).

Review of decisions of intermediate courts or bodies.

517. (1880.) Where the judgment of a justice of the peace is taken on error to the district court and affirmed, no motion for a new trial is necessary in that court in order to have the judgment reviewed in the supreme court. Newlove v. Woodward, 9 Neb. 502 (4 N. W. 237).

518. (1881.) A motion for a new trial is unnecessary in cases brought to the district court on error from the justice of the peace, where no retrial of the issues of fact is to be had. Leach v. Sutphen, 11 Neb. 527 (10 N. W. 409).

519. (1888.) If the appellant desire to vacate the judgment of the district court and for leave to answer or other relief, he must apply to that court. Otherwise he cannot allege error in the failure to try the cause. Slaven v. Hellman, 24 Neb. 646 (39 N. W. 843).

520. (1895.) No motion for a new trial is necessary in a cause taken from a justice court by a proceeding in error, in order to have the judgment reviewed in the supreme court. Dryfus v. Moline, Milburn & Stoddard Co., 43 Neb. 233 (61 N. W. 599).

521. (1896.) A judgment of the district court dismissing an appeal may be reviewed without a motion for a new trial or an exception to the ruling. Claflin v. American Nat. Bank of Omaha, 46 Neb. 884 (65 N. W. 1056).

522. (1896.) A motion for a new trial is not necessary to a review of the decision of the district court in reversing, in an error proceeding, a judgment of the county court. Weitz v. Wood Reaping & Mowing Machine Co., 49 Neb. 434 (68 N. W. 613).

523. (1900.) A motion for a new trial is not essential to a review of a decision of the district court affirming a cause taken to that court by proceedings in error. Biart v. Myers, 59 Neb. 711 (82 N. W. 7); (1903) Bastian v. Adams, 5 Unof. 32 (97 N. W. 231).

Digitized by Google

524. (1903.) A motion for a new trial is not necessary in order to obtain a review of the judgment of the district court entered on the hearing of an appeal taken from the order of a license board granting or refusing a license to sell intoxicating liquors. Bennett v. Otto, 68 Neb. 652 (94 N. W. 807); (1904) In re Application of Krug, 72 Neb. 576 (101 N. W. 242); (1905) Lee v. Brittain, 74 Neb. 591 (104 N. W. 1076).

www.libtool.com.cn

Necessity of timely motion.

525. (1893.) Unless a motion for a new trial is made within three days after the verdict or decision, the supreme court cannot examine any of the errors which it is alleged occurred at the trial. Fitzgerald v. Brandt, 36 Neb. 683 (54 N. W. 992).

526. (1902.) When a motion for a new trial is overruled, because not filed within the time required by statute, all matters necessarily included therein as grounds for a new trial are unavailing on review by proceedings in error. Harris v. Jennings, 64 Neb. 80 (89 N. W. 625; 97 Am. St. Rep. 635).

Joint motion.

527. (1884.) In an action against two defendants in which a verdict against both, was sustained by the evidence as to one but not as to the other, and the one against whom there was but insufficient evidence made no motion for a new trial as to himself alone, and judgment was rendered against both, it will not be disturbed. Long & Smith v. Clapp, 15 Neb. 417 (19 N. W. 467); (1886) Boldt v. Budwig, 19 Neb. 739 (28 N. W. 280); (1887) Hoke v. Halverstadt, 22 Neb. 421 (35 N. W. 204).

528. (1893.) In an action of ejectment against twenty-three different defendants, Z., and eight others united in an answer signed by W. their attorney, while G., with twelve others by their attorney F. filed an answer alleging a defense different from that stated in the answer of Z. After a finding and judgment for the plaintiff against all of the defendants, a motion for a new trial was filed alleging errors of law occurring at the trial and signed "E. A. F., attorney for defendants." Held, In the absence of evidence that F. appeared in the district court for the defendants who joined in the answer of Z., the latter have no standing in this court, and are not entitled to have the judgment reviewed. Gage v. Bloomington Town Co., 37 Neb. 699 (56 N. W. 491).

529. (1897.) Where two or more plaintiffs or defendants join in a motion for a new trial or in a petition in error, an assignment of error which is not good as to all who join must be overruled as to all. Minneapolis Threshing-Machine Co. v. Regier, 51 Neb. 402 (70 N. W. 934).

530. (1903.) Where a verdict is returned against plaintiff and in favor of several defendants on separate defenses, and a single motion for a new trial is overruled, the supreme court will examine the record only far enough to ascertain if the verdict is good as to any one of the defendants. Lydick v. Gill, 68 Neb. 273 (94 N. W. 109).

531. (1905.) The rule that a motion for a new trial is indivisible cannot be invoked to defeat a review of a meritorious petition in error filed by a minor defendant, whose guardian ad litem has inadvertently joined her with a mere nominal defendant who has no rights involved in the controversy. Godfrey v. Smith, 73 Neb. 756 (103 N. W. 450).

Separate motions by coparties.

532. (1904.) When it appears from a fair interpretation of the record that separate motions for a new trial were ruled upon by the district court, the supreme court will not decline to consider separate petitions in error, merely because of a slight verbal inaccuracy in the order on the motions. Goken v. Dallugge, 72 Neb. 16 (99 N. W. 818).

Statement of grounds and assignments of more error.

533. (1873.) To entitle a party to a review of any alleged errors transpiring upon the trial of a cause, a motion for a new trial must be made, distinctly setting forth the errors complained of. Cropsey v. Wiggenhorn, 3 Neb. 108; (1874) Wells, Fargo & Co. v. Preston, 3 Neb. 444.

534. (1874.) No errors will be considered upon the trial of a cause in the supreme court, except such as are assigned in the motion for a new trial. Tierney v. Cornell, 3 Neb. 267.

535. (1879.) To lay the foundation for a review by the supreme court of questions raised and decided on the trial in the court below, it is necessary that the particular errors relied on be first assigned in the motion for a new trial. Lyman v. McMillan, 8 Neb. 135; (1879) McCormick v. Drummett, 9 Neb. 384 (2 N. W. 729); (1884) Dolen v. State, 15 Neb. 405 (19 N. W. 627); (1887) Manning v. Cunningham, 21 Neb. 288 (31

Digitized by Google

N. W. 933); (1889) Planck v. Bishop, 26 Neb. 589 (42 N. W. 723); (1890) Weitz v. Wolfe, 28 Neb. 500 (44 N. W. 485); (1802) Becker v. Simonds, 33 Neb. 680 (50 N. W. 1129); (1893) Upton v. Cady, 38 Neb. 209 (56 N. W. 881); (1894) Kohler v. Summers, 42 Neb. 330 (60 N. W. 567); (1901) Green v. Tierney, 62 Neb. 561 (87 N. W. 331); (1902) Engel v. Dado, 66 Neb. 400 (92 N. W. 629); (1903) Lincoln Traction Co. v. Moore, 70 Neb. 422 (97 N. W. 605); (1904) County of Lancaster v. Lincoln Packing Co., 5 Unof. 521 (99 N. W. 265).

536. (1880.) Errors not assigned in the motion for a new trial are waived. Stanton County v. Canfield, 10 Neb. 389 (6 N. W. 466).

537. (1880.) Only such errors as were assigned in the motion for a new trial are proper to be assigned in the petition in error. Staton County v. Canfield, 10 Neb. 389 (6 N. W. 466).

538. (1890.) A motion for a new trial must specify causes therefore, which are sufficient in law to authorize the granting of the same. An oral motion, or one in writing, in which no cause or causes for a new trial are assigned, will not justify the granting of a new trial, nor will the overruling of such a motion be sufficient to present errors of law to either the trial or reviewing court. Phœnix Ins. Co. v. Readinger, 28 Neb. 587 (44 N. W. 864).

539. (1896.) Rulings, except such as are made during the trial of a cause, to be available in an error proceeding, should be specially assigned in the motion for a new trial. Andres v. Kridler, 49 Neb. 535 (68 N. W. 938).

540. (1898.) Rulings of the court below during the trial, instructions given and refused, and the sufficiency of the evidence to sustain the verdict, to be available in the supreme court, must have been raised by the motion for a new trial. Hake v. Woolner, 55 471 (75 N. W. 1087).

541. (1901.) A general assignment in a motion for a new trial that the court erred in overruling the objections made by the defendant will be disregarded where any one of such objections was properly overruled. Startzer v. Clarke, 1 Unof. 91 (95 N. W. 509).

——— Competency and selection of jurors.

542. (1883.) Objections to the competency of jurors must be assigned in the motion for a new trial to be available in the supreme court. Hastings & G. I. R. R. Co. v. Ingalls, 15 Neb. 123 (16 N. W. 762); (1896) Mengedoht v. Van Dorn, 48 Neb. 880 (67 N. W. 858).

542*a*. (1902.) Alleged irregularities in the issuance of a special venire after the quashing of the regular panel of jurors, which have in nowise been called to the attention of the trial court, nor mentioned in the motion for a new trial cannot be considered in the appellate court on review by proceedings in error. Randolph v. State, 65 Neb. 520 (91 N. W. 356).

——— Rulings on pleadings.

543. (1893.) The statutory assignment in a motion for a new trial of "errors of law occurring at the trial and duly excepted to," is sufficient to present for review the ruling of the court upon a demurrer on terms interposed before the introduction of any evidence. Riverside Coal Co. v. Holmes, 36 Neb. 858 (55 N. W. 255).

544. (1906.) An order overruling a motion to strike from a petition will not be reviewed on appeal when not assigned as error in the motion for a new trial. Caproon v. Mitchell, 77 Neb. 562 (110 N. W. 378).

——— Admission or exclusion of evidence.

545. (1871.) Errors in the admission or refusal of testimony on the trial will be considered as waived unless complaint thereof be made in the motion for a new trial. Midland P. R. Co. v. McCartney, 1 Neb. 398; (1878) Heard v. Dubuque Bank, 8 Neb. 10 (30 Am. Rep. 811); (1888) Yates v. Kinney, 25 Neb. 120 (41 N. W. 128).

546. (1878.) To entitle a party to a review of the ruling of the court below on the admission or rejection of testimony it is necessary that the alleged error should be specifically pointed out, not only in the petition in error, but also in the motion for a new trial in the court below. Scofield v. Brown, 7 Neb. 221; (1879) Burlington & M. R. R. Co. v. Harris, 8 Neb. 140 [changed by statute, Labaree v. Klosterman, 33 Neb. 150]; (1879) Shaffer v. Maddox, 9 Neb. 205 (2 N. W. 464).

547. (1881.) Error in the admission of evidence is not available on appeal, unless presented in the motion for a new trial. Birdsall v. Carter, 11 Neb. 143 (7 N. W. 751); (1882) Republican V. R. Co. v. Hayes, 13 Neb. 489 (14 N. W. 521); (1895) Viergutz v. Aultman, 46 Neb. 141 (64 N. W.

Digitized by Google

693); (1898) Flower v. Nichols, 55 Neb. 314 (75 N. W. 864).

548. (1891.) The assignment in a motion for a new trial, of errors of law occurring at the trial, is sufficient to entitle a party to review the rulings of the district court on the admission or rejection of testimony. Labaree v. Klostermann, 33 Neb. 150 (49 N. W. 1102); (1895) Risse v. Gasch, 43 Neb. 287 (61 N. W. 616); (1895) Houston v. City of Omaha, 44 Neb. 63 (62 N. W. 251).

549. (1896.) An assignment that the court erred in admitting or excluding certain evidence may be disregarded where no complaint of the rulings on evidence is made in the motion for a new trial. Burke v. Brown, 49 Neb. 723 (68 N. W. 1026); (1899) Humpert v. McGavock, 59 Neb. 346 (80 N. W. 1038); (1901) Keller v. Van Brunt, 1 Unof. 301 (95 N. W. 668).

550. (1899.) An assignment in a motion for a new trial, of "errors of law occurring at the trial, and duly excepted to," is sufficient to entitle a party to review the rulings of the trial court on the admission of evidence. Albright v. Peters, 58 Neb. 534 (78 N. W. 1063).

——Instructions.

551. (1871.) Errors in the giving or refusal of instructions to the jury will be considered as waived unless complaint thereof be made in the motion for a new trial. Midland P. R. Co. v. McCartney, 1 Neb. 398 [modified by statute, Labaree v. Klosterman, 33 Neb. 150]; (1893) Barton v. McKay, 36 Neb. 632 (54 N. W. 968); (1894) Barr v. City of Omaha, 42 Neb. 341 (60 N. W. 591); (1896) Hickman v. Layne, 47 Neb. 177 (66 N. W. 298); (1897) Phœnix Ins. Co. of Hartford v. King, 52 Neb. 562 (72 N. W. 855).

552. (1875.) All alleged errors, occurring during the trial of a cause, must be excepted to, and complained of in the motion for a new trial, in order to obtain a review of the same in the supreme court; and error committed by the giving of an oral charge to the jury, instead of reducing such charge to writing, as required by Gen. Stat., 262, is no exception to the rule. Horbach v. Miller, 4 Neb. 31.

553. (1883.) Under the general assignment, in the motion for a new trial, of "errors of law occurring at the trial," only such errors as appear in the bill of exceptions can be considered. If objection is made to any of the instructions it must be specifically assigned. Cleveland Paper Co. v. Banks, 15 Neb. 20 (16 N. W. 833; 48 Am. Rep. 334); (1897) Phœnix Ins. Co. of Hartford v. King, 52 Neb. 562 (72 N. W. 855).

554. (1884.) Where no objections were made to the instructions in the motion for a new trial they cannot be considered by the supreme court. Schreckengast v. Ealy, 16 Neb. 510 (20 N. W. 853); (1887) Omaha, N. & B. H. R. Co. v. O'Donnell, 22 Neb. 475 (35 N. W. 235); (1889) Sherwin v. O'Conner, 24 Neb. 603 (39 N. W. 620); (1890) Walker v. Haggerty, 30 Neb. 120 (46 N. W. 221); (1892) Hanover Ins. Co. v. Schellak, 35 Neb. 701 (53 N. W. 605); (1894) Peaks v. Lord, 42 Neb. 15 (60 N. W. 349); (1895) Hamilton v. Goff, 45 Neb. 339 (63 N. W. 807); (1896) Denise v. City of Omaha, 49 Neb. 750 (69 N. W. 119); (1897) Union P. R. Co. v. Thorne, 51 Neb. 472 (70 N. W. 1119); (1897) Hodgin v. Whitcomb, 51 Neb. 617 (71 N. W. 314); (1897) Farwell v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 52 Neb. 614 (72 N. W. 1036); (1898) Flower v. Nichols, 55 Neb. 314 (75 N. W. 864); (1903) First Nat. Bank of Wayne v. Tolerton & Stetson Co., 5 Unof. 43 (97 N. W. 248); (1904) Davis v. Hall, 70 Neb. 678 (97 N. W. 1023).

555. (1888.) In a motion for a new trial a general assignment that the court erred in giving each of the instructions given to the jury is too general, and such an assignment will not be considered in the supreme court. Russell v. Rosenbaum, 24 Neb. 769 (40 N. W. 287). [Overruled. Aultman v. Martin, 49 Neb. 103.]

556. (1894.) Instructions not complained of in the motion for a new trial cannot be reviewed in the supreme court, even though their correctness is challenged by the petition in error and in argument of counsel. Dunphy v. Bartenbach, 40 Neb. 143 (58 N. W. 856).

557. (1896.) The neglect of the district court to file with the clerk instructions given, in order to be available as ground for reversal, must be called to the attention of that court by means of the motion for a new trial. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Shafer, 49 Neb. 25 (68 N. W. 342).

558. (1896.) Errors in respect to giving or refusing to give instructions must be separately assigned in the motion for new trial. If assigned in group, and any one of the group against which this assignment is directed is without error, the assignment must be overruled. Johnston v. Milwaukee & Wyoming Inv. Co.,

Digitized by Google

49 Neb. 68 (68 N. W. 383); (1897) Hanover Fire Ins. Co. v. Stoddard, 52 Neb. 745 (73 N. W. 291); (1896) Graham v. Frazier, 49 Neb. 90 (68 N. W. 367); (1897) Peck v. Tingley, 53 Neb. 171 (73 N. W. 450); (1896) Union P. R. Co. v. Montgomery, 49 Neb. 129 (68 N. W. 619); (1896) Fremont, E. & M. V. R. Co. v. Root, 49 Neb. 900 (69 N. W. 397); (1896) Stough v. Ogden, 49 Neb. 291 (68 N. W. 516); (1897) Kliment v. Corcoran, 51 Neb. 142 (70 N. W. 910); (1897) Home Fire Ins. Co. v. Phelps, 51 Neb. 623 (71 N. W. 303); (1897) City of South Omaha v. Powell, 50 Neb. 798 (70 N. W. 391); (1898) McCormick Harvesting Machine Co. v. Courtright, 54 Neb. 18 (74 N. W. 418); (1898) Globe Oil Co. v. Powell, 56 Neb. 463 (76 N. W. 1081); (1898) American Fire Ins. Co. v. Landfare, 56 Neb. 482 (76 N. W. 1068); (1901) Ledwith v. Campbell, 1 Unof. 695 (95 N. W. 838).

559. (1896.) In a motion for a new trial an assignment that "the court erred in giving instructions 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, and 8, and each of them asked for by plaintiff," is sufficiently specific for review of each of the instructions. Aultman v. Martin, 49 Neb. 103 (68 N. W. 340).

560. (1897.) An assignment of error in a motion for a new trial that "the court erred in giving paragraphs 3, 5, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, and 13 of the instructions, and in giving each of them, given by the court on its own motion," is sufficiently specific, and so is a similar assignment in regard to the refusal to give several enumerated instructions. Kirchman v. Kratky, 51 Neb. 191 (70 N. W. 916); (1897) Meyer v. Shamp, 51 Neb. 424 (71 N. W. 57).

561. (1897.) Where the refusal of an instruction is not excepted to or assigned as error in the motion for a new trial, objections to the ruling are waived. Sanford v. Craig, 52 Neb. 483 (72 N. W. 864).

562. (1898.) Errors in respect to refusing instructions must be separately assigned in the motion for a new trial. Langhorst v. Coon, 53 Neb. 765 (74 N. W. 257).

563. (1898.) An assignment of error in the motion for a new trial relative to giving instructions must be specific as to each. McIntyre v. Union P. R. Co., 56 Neb. 587 (77 N. W. 57).

——— Directing or refusing to direct verdict.

564. (1897.) An objection that the court refused to direct a verdict will be disregarded if it was not raised below in the motion for a new trial. Home Fire Ins. Co. v. Phelps, 51 Neb. 623 (71 N. W. 303); (1899) Albright v. Peters, 58 Neb. 534 (78 N. W. 1063); (1902) Link v. Reeves, 3 Unof. 383 (91 N. W. 506).

565. (1902.) When a party requests a peremptory instruction in his favor and afterwards requests and obtains the submission of specific inquiries of fact to the jury covering all essential matters in issue and the jury returns a verdict for his adversary, a motion for a new trial on the ground of insufficiency of evidence raises the same questions as that raised by the request and only one of such rulings need be determined in the disposition of the case in this court. St. Joseph & G. I. R. Co. v. McCarty 3 Unof. 626 (92 N. W. 750).

——— Assessment of damages.

566. (1889.) Errors alleged to have occurred in the assessment of damages must be assigned in the motion for a new trial. Volker v. First Nat. Bank, 26 Neb. 602 (42 N. W. 732).

567. (1893.) The failure of a jury, in assessing the amount of recovery, to allow interest upon a sum due upon contract is not presented for review by the assignment, in a motion for a new trial, that the verdict is not supported by sufficient evidence. Riverside Coal Co. v. Holmes, 33 Neb. 858 (55 N. W. 255).

568. (1896.) The assignment in a motion for a new trial that the finding is not sustained by the evidence does not, in an action on contract, raise the question of error in the assessment of the amount of recovery. Wachsmuth v. Orient Ins. Co., 49 Neb. 590 (68 N. W. 935).

569. (1898.) Error in the assessment of the amount due will not be reviewed under an assignment in the motion for a new trial that the verdict is not sustained by sufficient evidence. Hammond v. Edwards, 56 Neb. 631 (77 N. W. 75).

570. (1900.) In an error proceeding to review a decree sustaining a mechanic's lien, the supreme court will not examine the record to ascertain whether the amount of recovery was excessive, where the point was not raised in the trial court on the motion for a new trial. Miller v. Neely & Westover, 59 Neb. 539 (81 N. W. 443).

571. (1904.) Error in the assessment of the amount due will not be reviewed under an assignment in the motion for a new trial that the verdict is not sustained by sufficient evidence. Dickenson v. Columbus State Bank, 71 Neb. 260 (98 N. W. 813).

Digitized by Google

——— Verdict.

www.libtool.com.cn

572. (1888.) Where no objection is made in a motion for a new trial that the verdict is excessive, but there is an assignment that the verdict is not supported by sufficient evidence, this, liberally construed, will cover the point that the verdict is excessive. Burkholder v. Burkholder, 25 Neb. 270 (41 N. W. 145).

573. (1891.) In an action to recover the balance of an account where in the prayer it is sought to recover "the amount of said bill," no definite sum being named therein, and no objection has been made in the motion for a new trial that the judgment is excessive, the question of such excess will not be considered by the supreme court, it being a court of review. Flannagan v. Heath, 31 Neb. 776 (48 N. W. 904).

574. (1892.) Where no objection is made in the motion for a new trial that the verdict is excessive, the objection cannot be considered for the first time in the supreme court. Everett v. Tidball & Fuller, 34 Neb. 803 (52 N. W. 816).

575. (1893.) The failure of a jury, in assessing the amount of recovery, to allow interest upon a sum due upon contract is not presented for review by the assignment, in a motion for a new trial, that the verdict is not supported by sufficient evidence. Riverside Coal Co. v. Holmes, 36 Neb. 858 (55 N. W. 255).

576. (1894.) Objection to the form of a verdict will be of no avail in this court, where the same was not made in the motion for a new trial or petition in error. Crooker v. Stover, 41 Neb. 693 (60 N. W. 10).

577. (1896.) An objection that the verdict is for a sum greater than that prayed for will be deemed waived unless by motion for a new trial. Fox v. Graves, 46 Neb. 812 (65 N. W. 887).

578. (1899.) Alleged error in the verdict will not be considered on review when not raised either in the motion for a new trial or petition in error. Hart v. Weber, 57 Neb. 442 (77 N. W. 1085).

579. (1899.) An assignment of error that the verdict is contrary to an instruction, if not presented by the motion for a new trial, is not available on error to this court. Palmer v. First Bank of Ulysses, 59 Neb. 412 (81 N. W. 303).

Necessity of ruling on motion.

580. (1898.) Errors in the trial or in the rendition of judgment cannot be considered on petition in error, in absence of a ruling below on the motion for a new trial. Geneva Nat. Bank v. Donovan, 53 Neb. 613 (74 N. W. 33).

Affidavits supporting motion.

581. (1895.) Affidavits supporting a motion for a new trial on the ground of accident or surprise will not be considered unless filed in and called to the attention of the trial court and incorporated in the bill of exceptions. Omaha Fire Ins. Co. v. Dierks & White, 43 Neb. 473 (61 N. W. 740).

V. PARTIES.

Death of party pending appeal, see Appeal and Error, §§ 599-601.

Designation in petitions in error, see post, § 650.

Dismissal for defect of parties, see post, §§ 1425, 1426.

Necessary parties in general.

582. (1896.) One of several defendants having separate and distinct defenses may prosecute an appeal to the district court without joining his co-defendants. Claflin v. American Nat. Bank of Omaha, 46 Neb. 884 (65 N. W. 1056).

583. (1902.) Where a judgment is entered in the district court in favor of a party to the proceedings, and error from such judgment is prosecuted to this court without making such party a party to the error proceedings, this court has no jurisdiction to determine the correctness of the judgment. Willits v. Harlan County, 2 Unof. 865 (90 N. W. 656).

584. (1903.) One made a party defendant in an action but who was dismissed from the case, or against whom no judgment was rendered, is not a necessary party to an appeal taken from a judgment entered against other parties defendent. Halstead v. Olson, 5 Unof. 112 (97 N. W. 442).

——— Review of joint judgment.

585. (1887.) All the parties in a joint judgment are necessary parties to a petition filed by one of their number to reverse it, and may be made so as plaintiffs or defendants, in conformity with the provisions of the code as to parties to civil actions. Wolf v. Murphy, 21 Neb. 472 (32 N. W. 302);

Digitized by Google

(1890) Curten v. Atkinson, 29 Neb. 612 (46 N. W. 91.

586. (1890.) If all defendants to a joint judgment are not made parties to the petition in error, within one year from the rendition of judgment, the reviewing court has no jurisdiction over the subject-matter as will authorize it to reverse or modify any part of it. Curten v. Atkinson, 29 Neb. 612 (46 N. W. 91). [Overruled. Curten v. Atkinson, 36 Neb. 110.]

587. (1894.) Where only a part of several defendants, against all of whom a joint judgment has been rendered, file a petition in error for the purpose of procuring the vacation of such judgment, and the judgment defendants who have not joined in the petition in error are not made defendants in error, there exists such defect of parties that the judgment complained of cannot be reviewed. Andres v. Kridler, 42 Neb. 784 (60 N. W. 1014).

588. (1895.) In order to secure review of a joint judgment by petition in error, all persons interested must be made parties to the proceeding as plaintiffs or defendants. Polk v. Covell, 43 Neb. 884 (62 N. W. 240).

589. (1895.) All parties to a joint judgment are necessary parties to a petition in error filed here by one of their number to reverse it; but this rule does not require that all the parties to a suit in which a judgment has been rendered should be made parties to the error proceedings instituted here for a review of such judgment. Only the parties who are liable on, or bound by, the judgment are necessary parties to the proceeding in error here. Kuhl v. Pierce County, 44 Neb. 584 (62 N. W. 1066).

590. (1898.) All parties to a joint judgment must be made parties to a petition in error, and a failure to do so is ground for dismissal. Farncy v. Hamilton County, 54 Neb. 797 (75 N. W. 44).

591. (1898.) In error proceedings for the review of a final order by which the inseparable interests of several defendants are affected, all persons interested must be made parties to such proceedings as plaintiffs or defendants. Collins Mfg. Co. v. Seeds Dry Plate Co., 55 Neb. 576 (75 N. W. 1099).

592. (1899.) All parties to a joint judgment, or those who may be affected by the modification or reversal thereof, must be made parties in the supreme court upon proceeding in error; and a failure to do so is a ground for dismissal, if the objection is seasonably made. Richardson v. Thompson, 59 Neb. 299 (80 N. W. 909).

593. (1904.) All parties against whom a joint judgment has been rendered must be made parties to a proceeding in error. But this rule has no application where the judgment complained of is several, and in favor of the defendant in error alone. Eccles v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 72 Neb. 439 (100 N. W. 942).

Appellants or plaintiffs in error.

594. (1898.) After a transcript for appeal has been filed in the supreme court, any party may assume the attitude of an appellant by the filing of a brief assailing the decree. Goos v. Goos, 57 Neb. 294 (77 N. W. 687).

595. (1902.) Where a cause of action is pending in the supreme court, on error, the right of action, within the meaning of section 456 of the code of civil procedure, is the right to have the judgment of the district court set aside. Jameson v. Bartlett, 63 Neb. 638, (88 N. W. 860).

——— Separate proceeding by one or more coparties.

596. (1888.) An appeal by the principal, in an action on a promissory note against him and sureties, as joint makers thereof, brings the case before the appellate court as to all the defendants, and the court has jurisdiction to render judgment against all the defendants. Wilcox v. Raben, 24 Neb. 368 (38 N. W. 844; 8 Am. St. Rep. 207).

597. (1895.) When the interests of the several defendants are inseparably connected, an appeal by one defendant brings up the whole case. Polk v. Covell, 43 Neb. 884 (62 N. W. 240).

Intervention or addition of new parties.

598. (1894.) Judgment defendants, who, within the time allowed by statute for the institution of error proceedings, have not been made parties to such proceedings pending in this court, cannot become plaintiffs in error; they may, however, with their consent, be made defendants in error to obviate a defect of parties. Andres v. Kridler, 42 Neb. 784 (60 N. W. 1014).

Death.

599. (1898.) Where a party dies after judgment has been rendered against him, the administrator of his estate may prosecute error without procuring an order reviving the action in his name. Webster v.

Digitized by Google

City of Hastings, 56 Neb. 245 (76 N. W. 565).

600. (1902.) When a party to an appellate proceeding dies, and his interest in the litigation passes to his heirs, the heirs are necessary parties to the proceeding. Urlau v. Ruhe, 63 Neb. 883 (89 N. W. 431).

601. (1905.) A proceeding in error may be prosecuted in this court against the personal representative of the deceased party, whether plaintiff or defendant to the judgment attacked. Ritchey v. Seeley, 73 Neb. 164 (102 N. W. 256).

Defects and objections and waiver.

602. (1892.) While all the parties to a joint judgment that is sought to be reviewed by the supreme court by a petition in error should be made parties therein, yet, where the cause is submitted on its merits, and no objection is interposed, that there is a defect of parties, until after such submission, it will be taken to constitute a waiver of the absence of proper parties. Consaul v. Sheldon, 35 Neb. 247 (52 N. W. 1104); (1898) Bates-Smith Investment Co. v. Scott, 56 Neb. 475 (76 N. W. 1063).

603. (1893.) Submission of error proceeding on merits is waiver of defect of parties. Curtin v. Atkinson, 36 Neb. 110 (54 N. W. 131).

604. (1898.) The mere acceptance of service of briefs by a defendant to an error proceeding is not a waiver of the objection that there is a defect of parties. Farney v. Hamilton County, 54 Neb. 797 (75 N. W. 44).

605. (1900.) When a defendant in error has filed a cross-assignment of errors without bringing in new parties, he is thereby precluded from urging the dismissal of the petition in error of his adversary on the ground of defective parties. Biart v. Myers, 59 Neb. 711 (82 N. W. 7).

VI. REQUISITES AND PROCEEDINGS FOR TRANSFER OF CAUSE.

A. Time of Taking Proceedings.

Time to appeal from imprisonment for non-payment of fine, see Fines, § 4.

Dismissal for failure to take proceedings in time, see post, §§ 1427-1433.

Time for filing appeal bond, see post, § 670.

Time for issuance of summons in error, see post, § 685.

Time for serving and settling bill of exceptions, see post, §§ 989-1024, 1059-1078.

Taking appeal.

606. (1881.) Where more than six months has elapsed from the rendition of a judgment before the petition in error is filed, the errors assigned cannot be considered an appeal. Swansen v. Swansen, 12 Neb. 210 (10 N. W. 13).

607. (1893.) To give the supreme court jurisdiction to review a case on appeal the transcript of the proceedings must be filed within six months after the rendition of the decree sought to be reviewed. Wistedt v. Beckman, 37 Neb. 499 (55 N. W. 1061); (1893) Withnell v. City of Omaha, 37 Neb. 621 (56 N. W. 381); (1898) Albers v. City of Omaha, 56 Neb. 357 (76 N. W. 911); (1899) Smith v. Silver, 58 Neb. 429 (78 N. W. 725); (1899) Dufrene v. Smeaton, 59 Neb. 67 (80 N. W. 267).

608. (1894.) The provision of section 675 of the code, for the taking of appeals within six months after the date of the decree of final order apealed from, is mandatory, and a compliance therewith essential in order to confer jurisdiction upon the supreme court, unless the failure is in nowise attributable to the laches of the appellant. Omaha Loan & Trust Co. v. Ayer, 38 Neb. 891 (57 N. W. 567).

609. (1900.) The supreme court cannot review a decree of foreclosure when the same was rendered more than two years prior to the perfecting of the appeal. Cox v. Parrotte, 59 Neb. 701 (82 N. W. 7).

610. (1903.) To give the supreme court jurisdiction to review an order of the district court appointing a receiver, the appeal must be perfected within six months from the entry of the order. First Nat. Bank of Sutton v. Ashley, 4 Unof. 185 (93 N. W. 685).

——— Review on error when appeal taken too late.

611. (1886.) Where the same relief can be given either by an appeal or proceedings in error, a transcript filed in the supreme court for an appeal, more than six months but less than one year from the rendition of the decree in the court below, will not be stricken from the files, but the appellant will have leave upon such terms as may be just to file a petition in error. Steele v. Haynes, 20 Neb. 316 (30 N. W. 63); (1890) Cheney v. Wagner, 30 Neb. 262 (46 N. W. 427).

612. (1890.) The transcript of the judgment of the district court was filed with the clerk of the supreme court more than six months after the rendition of the judgment. A notice of appeal was issued and service accepted by the defendants, who made no general appearance. Sixteen months after the date of the judgment a petition in error was filed, and summons issued thereon, which was served on the defendants. Held, to be too late. Benson v. Michael, 29 Neb. 131 (45 N. W. 276).

Digitized by Google

Bringing proceedings in error.

613. (1878.) A petition in error filed December 13, to reverse a judgment entered May 17, is too late, and should be dismissed, since act of February 15, 1877, extending the time to one year had not gone into effect when the judgment was rendered. French v. English, 7 Neb. 124.

614. (1879.) By the act approved February 15, 1877 (laws 1877, p. 14), one year is given from the rendition of a judgment, or the making of a final order complained of, within which to commence proceedings in error, and such act applies to all judgments or final orders entered after such act took effect. Roesink v. Barnett, 8 Neb. 146.

615. (1882.) An alias summons in proceedings in error, issued more than one year from the date of the final order sought to be reviewed, is of no effect, being issued after the bar of the statute is complete. Baker v. Sloss, 13 Neb. 230 (13 N. W. 212); (1882) Republican Valley R. Co. v. Sayre, 13 Neb. 280 (13 N. W. 404).

616. (1896.) Proceedings in error may be commenced in the supreme court at any time within one year from the rendition of the judgment or decree, or final order sought to be reviewed. Scarborough v. Myrick, 47 Neb. 794 (66 N. W. 867).

617. (1896.) To invest the supreme court with jurisdiction to review on error a judgment of the district court, a petition in error must be filed with the clerk of the supreme court within one year after the date of the rendition of the judgment sought to be reversed. Campbell v. F. & M. Bank of Elk Creek, 49 Neb. 143 (68 N. W. 344); (1897) Hogue v. Ogle, 51 Neb. 223 (70 N. W. 940); (1898) Forbes v. Morearty, 54 Neb. 505 (74 N. W. 822); (1898) Dixon Nat. Bank v. Omaha Nat. Bank, 54 Neb. 796 (75 N. W. 55); (1898) Collins v. City of Omaha, 55 Neb. 208 (75 N. W. 557); (1899) Clark v. McDowell, 58 Neb. 593 (79 N. W. 158).

618. (1898.) One seeking review by a proceeding in error must file a transcript and petition in error within a year after rendition of the judgment assailed, but amendments to the transcript may be filed afterward. Moss v. Robertson 56 Neb. 774 (77 N. W. 403).

619. (1903.) Under section 592 of the code of civil procedure, as amended in 1901, to obtain a review of a judgment of the district court rendered subsequent to the passage and taking effect of the act, the transcript must be filed in the supreme court before the expiration of six months after the rendition of the judgment, or the supreme court will be without jurisdiction to consider the assignments of error. Snell v. State, 5 Unof. 94 (97 N. W. 329); (1904) Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Sporer, 72 Neb. 372 (100 N. W. 813).

620. (1904.) The act of 1901, amending section 592 of the code, limiting the time for commencing proceedings to reverse, judgments or final orders, to six months, is not unconstitutional. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Sporer, 72 Neb. 372 (100 N. W. 813).

Commencement of period of limitation.

621. (1886.) The time within which to perfect appeal begins to run at the date of rendition of judgment or decree, and not the date in which the clerk in vacation enters the same on the journal. Horn v. Miller, 20 Neb. 98 (29 N. W. 260). [Overruled. 35 Neb. 761 (53 N. W. 633); 35 Neb. 822.]

622. (1892.) The time within which an appeal may be taken from a decree of the district court does not begin to run until such decree has been entered of record, so that it is within the power of the appellant to comply with the statute regulating appeals, by filing in the supreme court a certified transcript of the proceedings of the district court. Bickel v. Dutcher, 35 Neb. 761 (53 N. W. 663); (1906) Morrison v. Gosnell, 76 Neb. 539 (107 N. W. 753).

623. (1893.) Where a decree of foreclosure was rendered April 18, 1892, without objection, and a sale had thereunder also without objection and deficiency judgment rendered June 26, 1893, it is then too late to take a bill of exceptions to the original decree. State, ex rel. Coffman, v. Walton, 38 Neb. 496 (57 N. W. 18).

624. (1902.) The time for perfecting an appeal in equitable actions begins to run at the date on which the final decree is entered of record. Hall v. Moore, 3 Unof. 574 (92 N. W. 294).

Digitized by Google

625. (1903.) Where no summons in error issues, the date of voluntary appearance is to be taken as the date of commencement of proceedings in error within the meaning of section 592 of the code. Estate of James v. O'Neill, 70 Neb. 132 (97 N. W. 22).

www.hbtool.com.cn

——Effect of motion for new trial.

626. Proceedings in error in the supreme court must be commenced within one year from the date of the rendition of the judgment complained of, without regard to the time when the motion for a new trial was decided. (1883) Hollenbeck v. Tarkington, 14 Neb. 430 (16 N. W. 472); (1891) Phœnix Ins. Co. v. Swantkowski, 31 Neb. 245 (47 N. W. 917). [Overruled. 34 Neb. 406; 64 Neb. 725.]

627. (1884.) Where a trial is had and verdict returned, a party excepting must reduce his exceptions to writing within the time fixed by law after the close of the term at which the trial was had, and the continuance of the hearing of the motion for a new trial to a subsequent term will not extend the time in which to prepare a bill of exceptions. Donovan v. Sherwin, 16 Neb. 129 (20 N. W. 26).

628. (1892.) Proceedings in error in the supreme court may be commenced within one year from the time the motion for a new trial is overruled. Sharp v. Brown, 34 Neb. 406 (51 N. W. 1030).

629. (1899.) The filing of a motion for a new trial will not extend the time for prosecuting an appeal. The time for taking an appeal begins to run from the date of the entry of the decree or final order, and not from the overruling of the motion for a new trial, since a motion for a new trial is not necessary in an equity case. Smith v. Silver, 58 Neb. 429 (78 N. W. 725).

630. (1902.) In a law action, which can be reviewed only by proceedings in error, where a motion for a new trial on the ground of alleged errors occurring during the trial is seasonably presented, and not ruled upon until after rendition of the judgment, the time in which error proceedings may be begun will not begin to run until a ruling is made on the motion for a new trial. City of Lincoln v. First Nat. Bank, 64 Neb. 725 (90 N. W. 874).

Computation of time limited.

631. (1875.) An appeal taken on the 22d of August, from a judgment rendered February 21, is not within the six months prescribed by the act of March 3, 1873. Glore v. Hare, 4 Neb. 131.

632. (1891.) Where a final judgment was rendered on the 8th day of July, 1890, and transcript and petition in error filed in the supreme court on the 9th day of July, 1891, the proceedings in error were not commenced in time. Chapman v. Allen, 33 Neb. 129 (49 N. W. 926).

Excuses for delay.

633. (1878.) Where a party has been prevented from complying with the legal requisites to obtain an appeal, by the default or absence of the justice or judge of the court in which the cause is pending, and not by any default or laches on his part, the appeal may be taken and perfected after the expiration of the time limited by statute, and such appeal must be treated in the appellate court as though it had been taken within the time prescribed by law. Dobson v. Dobson, 7 Neb. 296; (1882) Republican Valley R. Co. v. McPherson 12 Neb. 480 (11 N. W. 739); (1886) Horn v. Miller, 20 Neb. 98 (29 N. W. 260).

634. (1880.) Mere imbecility or weakness of mind, however great is not unsoundness of mind sufficient to excuse delay in filing a petition in error. Witte v. Gilbert, 10 Neb. 539 (7 N. W. 288).

635. (1890.) Where the judge, after signing a bill of exceptions, mislaid it, so that it could not be found for some time, the time during which it was lost, will be added to the statutory time for filing the transcript. Allis v. Newman, 29 Neb. 207 (45 N. W. 621). [Overruled. Stull v. Cass County, 51 Neb. 760 (71 N. W. 777.]

636. (1894.) The fact that the appellant, through no fault or negligence of his own, is unable to procure the allowance of a bill of exceptions within the time allowed for taking an appeal, will not excuse the filing of the transcript required by law within six months after the date of the decree or order appealed from. Omaha Loan & Trust Co. v. Ayer, 38 Neb. 891 (57 N. W. 567).

637. (1895.) Where a party free from fault or laches is prevented from having his appeal docketed in the appellate court within the statutory period solely through the neglect or failure of the proper officer to prepare the transcript of the proceedings, the law will not permit him thereby to be deprived of his appeal. Continental Build- ing & Loan Association v. Mills, 44 Neb. 136 (62 N. W. 478).

Digitized by Google

638. (1897.) Omission to file a transcript for review within the statutory period is not excused by the fact that plaintiff in error was unable to obtain a bill of exceptions in time. Stull v. Cass County, 51 Neb. 760 (71 N. W. 777).

639. (1904.) The fact that the attorney for the defeated party relied on the clerk of the district court to inform him of the time when his transcript must be filed in the supreme court is no excuse, for failure to file such transcript within the time required by law. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Sporer, 72 Neb. 372 (100 N. W. 813).

Extension of time.

——— Judicial authority.

640. (1871.) Courts do not possess any power to enlarge the time within which the transcript of the record of the district court shall be filed in the supreme court, in order to perfect an appeal from the decree of the former court, when the legislature has limited the time within which it shall be filed, and provided as a consequence of failure to do so, that the decree shall stand and be proceeded on, as if no appeal had been taken. Verges v. Roush, 1 Neb. 113.

641. (1879.) The court may fix a time not to exceed twenty days, in which to file a petition in error to review a discharge of an attachment. State, ex rel. Rieschick, v. Cunningham, 9 Neb. 146 (1 N. W. 1011).

642. (1884.) Where a transcript was duly filed within the time required by law for an appeal, and the defendant had entered an appearance, the court in further ance of justice may upon terms permit the appellant to file a petition in error after the expiration of a year from the date of the rendition of the judgment. Bazzo v. Wallace, 16 Neb. 290 (20 N. W. 315).

643. (1886.) The court has no power to extend time to which appeal may be taken. Horn v. Miller, 20 Neb. 98 (29 N. W. 260).

644. (1893.) The time fixed by section 675 of the code for perfecting appeals in equity cases is jurisdictional, and the supreme court cannot extend it unless it clearly appears that the failure to perfect the appeal is in nowise attributable to the laches of appellants. Fitzgerald v. Brandt, 36 Neb. 683 (54 N. W. 992).

——— Consent of Parties.

645. (1887.) Prior to the expiration of the time within which a proceeding in error might be instituted in the supreme court, the defendant in error stipulated with plaintiff in error waiving the issuance and service of summons in error, and agreeing that the cause might be heard at a term then in session. It was held that such waiver and stipulation did not give authority to plaintiff in error to commence the action after the expiration of the time fixed by statute, and after the final adjournment of the term at which it was agreed the cause should be submitted. Clark v. Morgan & Co., 21 Neb. 673 (33 N. W. 245).

646. (1897.) The statute is mandatory as regards the time for taking appeals and proceedings in error, and the time for doing so cannot be extended by agreement of the parties. Stull v. Cass County, 51 Neb. 760 (71 N. W. 777).

647. (1897.) The supreme court does not acquire jurisdiction of an error proceeding commenced more than a year after rendition of the judgment below, and the time cannot be extended by stipulation of the parties. Tootle, Hosea & Co. v. Shirey, 52 Neb. 674 (72 N. W. 1045).

B. Petition in Error.

Filing petition in error as election as to mode of review, see ante, §§ 50-52.

Necessity and sufficiency of assignments of error in petition, see post, §§ 1285-1383.

Time for filing petition in error, see ante, §§ 613-620.

Necessity.

648. (1871.) A petition in error must be filed with the transcript of the record of the district court, and before the summons in error is issued, in order to give the supreme court jurisdiction. City of Brownville v. Middleton, 1 Neb. 10.

649. (1893.) A judgment cannot be reviewed on error by the supreme court unless a petition in error has been filed in said court therefor. Wistedt v. Beckman, 37 Neb. 499 (55 N. W. 1061); (1903) Jarvis v. County of Chase, 5 Unof. 215 (97 N. W. 831).

Designation of parties.

650. (1902.) The words "et al." following the names of parties to a petition in error are not a sufficient designation of any persons not expressly named in the petition, even though such persons were parties before the inferior tribunal. Brabham v. Custer County, 3 Unof. 801 (92 N. W. 989).

Digitized by Google

Signature and verification.

651. (1880.) It is unnecessary to add a verification to a petition in error, it not being a pleading of fact within the meaning of the code. Newlove v. Woodward, 9 Neb. 502 (4 N. W. 237).

652. (1902.) A petition in error cannot be treated as a nullity and entirely disregarded because authenticated in the name of plaintiff in error by her attorney, giving his name, each appearing only in typewriting. Moore v. Moran, 64 Neb. 84 (89 N. W. 629).

Amendment.

653. (1882.) A petition in error may be amended by leave of court where the amendment will be in furtherance of justice upon such terms as to costs as may be proper. Spencer v. Thistle, 13 Neb. 201 (13 N. W. 208).

654. (1882.) Where a transcript and petition in error are filed within one year from the rendition of the judgment, it may, on leave granted, be amended after the expiration of the year, to include new assignments. Hastings & G. I. R. R. Co. v. Ingalls, 13 Neb. 279 (13 N. W. 403).

655. (1897.) A party may be permitted to amend his petition in error to cover a point presented below. Robinson v. Kilpatrick-Koch Dry Goods Co., 50 Neb. 795 (70 N. W. 378).

C. Bonds or Other Securities.

Dismissal for defects in appeal bond, see post, §§ 1434, 1435.

Liabilities on bonds, see post, §§ 2193-2239.

Necessity and sufficiency to stay proceedings, see post, §§ 713-735.

Refusal to compel approval of bond, as final order, see ante, § 124.

Necessity.

656. (1885.) Ordinarily the filing of a supersedeas bond is not essential to secure a review of a cause upon error. Such bond is only necessary if a stay of proceedings is desired pending the review of a judgment or final order. Welton v. Beltezore, 17 Neb. 399 (23 N. W. 1).

657. (1891.) Provisions of section 36, chapter 13, Compiled Statutes, that no appeal bond shall be required of a city is not unconstitutional as being ununiform in its operation. McClay v. City of Lincoln, 32 Neb. 412 (49 N. W. 282).

658. (1895.) The constitutional right of appeal does not prevent the legislature from requiring the appellant to give an appeal bond. School District v. Traver, 43 Neb. 524 (61 N. W. 720).

659. (1897.) While a supersedeas bond is not essential to obtain a review of a decree in an equity cause, such bond is indispensable to a stay of the enforcement of such decree pending the review. Creighton v. Keith, 50 Neb. 810 (70 N. W. 406).

Amount or penalty.

660. (1879.) Upon the confirmation of the sale of certain real estate under a decree of foreclosure, and an order awarding execution for the deficiency amounting to $9,944.33, the case comes within the provisions of the third subdivision of the third section of the act in relation to appeals in actions in equity, and that the amount of the supersedeas bond was discretionary with the court. State Bank v. Green, 8 Neb. 297.

661. (1896.) The penalty of a supersedeas bond for appeal from a decree awarding alimony must be double the amount of the decree, and the bond must be conditioned according to subdivision 1, section 677, of the code. State, ex rel. Walton, v. Cornish, 48 Neb. 614 (67 N. W. 481).

662. (1899.) An appeal undertaking must be in double the amount of the judgment and costs. Deere, Wells & Co. v. Hodges, 59 Neb. 288 (80 N. W. 897).

——— Fixing of amount.

663. (1886.) Where a writ of mandamus has been granted against a street railway company to compel it to run cars over a certain line, in an appeal by the company, there is no statutory provision requiring the district court to fix the amount of the supersedeas bond. State, ex rel. Omaha Horse R. Co., v. The Judges, 19 Neb. 149 (26 N. W. 723).

664. (1896.) Neither the district court, nor the judge thereof, has the power to fix the amount of the penalty of the bond to be given on appeal from a decree awarding alimoney since the amount is prescribed by statute. State, ex rel. Walton, v. Cornish, 48 Neb. 614 (67 N. W. 481).

665. (1900.) Mandamus will lie in a proper case to compel fixing the amount of the penalty of a supersedeas bond to be given on appeal from an order confirming a sale of real estate. State, ex rel. German Savings Bank, v. Fawcett, 60 Neb. 393 (83 N. W. 176).

Digitized by Google

Sureties.

666. (1882.) Although a bond on appeal contains but one surety, it will be sufficient unless objected to on that ground. Casey v. Peebles, 13 Neb. 7 (12 N. W. 840).

667. (1898.) A practicing attorney is not a proper surety on an appeal undertaking, but if he execute the same, the bond is not thereby rendered invalid. Chase v. Omaha Loan & Trust Co., 56 Neb. 358 (76 N. W. 896).

668. (1907.) The word "Cashier" appended to the signature of a surety on an appeal bond is merely descriptio personæ. Northrup v. Bathrick, 78 Neb. 62 (110 N. W. 658).

Execution.

669. (1883.) In an appeal in a contested election suit it is error to dismiss because the appeal bond was not signed by the appellant. Clark v. Strong, 14 Neb. 229 (15 N. W. 236).

Time for furnishing.

670. (1899.) Where the time for furnishing an appeal bond on the tenth day from the date of the judgment expires on a Sunday, ordinarily the approval may be of the following day, or Monday. Deere, Wells & Co. v. Hodges, 59 Neb. 288 (80 N. W. 897).

Amendment.

671. (1873.) Steps taken by filing an appeal bond to obtain a review of an award made by appraisers, of damages on account of the laying out of a public highway, is a proceeding in an action, and clearly within the statutory meaning of that term; and if such bond be found to be defective it may be amended in the appellate court, by consent of sureties, or a new bond may be filed. O'Shea v. Washington County, 3 Neb. 118.

672. (1882.) Where the statute requires two sureties upon a bond for an appeal, and a bond containing but one is duly approved, it is not void, but may be amended. Casey v. Peebles, 13 Neb. 7 (12 N. W. 840).

673. (1886.) The filing of a supersedeas bond is a proceeding within the meaning of section 144 of the civil code, and may be amended. State, ex rel. Lucas, v. Theile, 19 Neb. 220 (27 N. W. 109).

674. (1892.) The appeal of a taxpayer from the allowance of a claim against a county will not be dismissed on account of informalities or omissions in the undertaking, but an opportunity will be given to file a proper bond in the district court. Rube v. Cedar County, 38 Neb. 896 (53 N. W. 1009).

675. (1899.) If the appeal undertaking is insufficient in amount, it may be amended. Deere, Wells & Co. v. Hodges, 59 Neb. 288 (80 N. W. 897).

676. (1905.) It is not error for the district court to allow an appellant to file an amended appeal bond within a specified time, to take the place of a bond irregular and defective in form. McGinnis v. R. K. Johnson Co., 74 Neb. 356 (104 N. W. 869).

Effect of insufficiency.

677. (1898.) A county judge has no authority to eliminate from the files an appeal undertaking which he has approved, because the bond was signed by a practicing attorney. Chase v. Omaha Loan & Trust Co., 56 Neb. 358 (76 N. W. 896).

678. (1898.) When an insufficient appeal bond is filed, the appropriate practice is to move in the appellate court for an order requiring a renewal of the bond by a time to be designated by the court, and in default thereof that the appeal be dismissed. Chase v. Omaha Loan & Trust Co., 56 Neb. 358 (76 N. W. 896).

D. Notice of Appeal, and Summons.

Necessity and sufficiency of notice.

679. (1871.) If notice of appeal from a judgment be served upon the successful party and the clerk not until thirty days have expired from the rendition of the judgment, they are ineffectual to give the supreme court jurisdiction. Redgrave v. Baptist Church, 1 Neb. 345.

680. (1879.) The right to appeal in equity cases is regulated entirely by statute. No notice is necessary by the appellant on taking the appeal other than that derived from filing the supersedeas bond. The appellant has six months from the date of the rendition of the judgment, order, or decree, in which to file the transcript in the supreme court. State Bank v. Green, 8 Neb. 297.

681. (1890.) Notice of appeal is not necessary in order to confer jurisdiction on supreme court. Schuyler v. Hanna, 28 Neb. 601 (44 N. W. 731; 11 L. R. A. 321).

Necessity of summons.

682. (1879.) A proceeding in error is not to be deemed "commenced" within the meaning of section 592 of the code of civil procedure, when personal service can be obtained, until a summons is issued which shall be duly served, as the statute directs. Bemis v. Rogers, 8 Neb. 149.

Digitized by Google

683. (1880.) Where a party files a petition in error in the supreme court, he must request the clerk either orally or in writing to issue summons in error thereon. Rogers v. Redick, 10 Neb. 332 (6 N. W. 413).

684. (1888.) Jurisdiction is acquired only by the issuance and service of summons in error or general appearance of defendant in error. Wiley v. Neal, 24 Neb. 141 (37 N. W. 926).

Time for issuance of summons.

685. (1880.) A summons in error must be issued within one year from the date of the judgment or final order sought to be reviewed, although it may be served afterwards. Rogers v. Redick, 10 Neb. 332 (6 N. W. 413).

Authority to serve.

686. (1882.) Where a summons in error is directed to the sheriff of a particular county, it cannot be served by a private person unless appointed for that purpose by such sheriff. Republican V. R. Co. v. Sayer, 13 Neb. 280 (13 N. W. 404).

687. (1882.) A court or judge may, for cause shown, appoint a person to serve a particular process, but a justice of the peace has no authority to appoint a person to serve a summons issued out of the supreme court. Republican V. R. Co. v. Sayre, 13 Neb. 280 (13 N. W. 404).

Sufficiency of service.

688. (1888). Service of summons in error upon attorney of record in court below sufficient to give court jurisdiction, although attorney may not appear in the supreme court. Kinney v. Hickox, 24 Neb. 167 (38 N. W. 816).

689. (1889.) Where there are two attorneys of record who appear for one of the parties on the trial of a cause, the service of a summons in error on one of such attorneys will be sufficient. Comstock v. Cole, 28 Neb. 470 (44 N. W. 487).

690. (1890.) It is not necessary that a summons in error should be served within one year from the date of the rendition of the judgment sought to be reversed. If the summons that is served is issued within the year it is sufficient. Hendrickson v. Sullivan, 28 Neb. 790 (44 N. W. 1135).

691. (1902.) A summons in error may properly be served upon the attorney of record in the trial court in the original case, though at the time of such service the defendant in error should be dead. Link v. Reeves, 63 Neb. 424 (88 N. W. 670).

——— Publication.

692. (1882.) When a petition in error is filed in the supreme court, and it is necessary to obtain service upon the defendant in error by publication, such publication must be made four successive weeks in a newspaper published in the county, in which the petition is filed. Flint v. Gurrell, 12 Neb. 341 (11 N. W. 431).

Effect of failure to serve.

693. (1905.) An attorney for a plaintiff in error proceedings may presume that an officer has properly served summons placed in his hands for that purpose, and he is not guilty of negligence in failing to further investigate the manner of service in the absence of circumstances suggesting a doubt as to its validity. Parker v. Parker, 73 Neb. 4 (102 N. W. 85).

694. (1905.) When summons in error from the supreme court is duly issued and placed in the hands of the proper officer for service, who informs the plaintiff's attorney upon inquiry that he has served the same, and the clerk of the supreme court also informs plaintiff's attorney that the summons has been served and returned, the plaintiff's attorney may rely upon the presumption that the officer has done his duty. He is not guilty of negligence in failing to further investigate the manner of the service, there being no circumstances tending to suggest a doubt as to its validity. Parker v. Parker, 73 Neb. 4 (102 N. W. 85).

Waiver of summons or defects therein.

695. (1890.) Oral agreements of attorneys in regard to a case—as that the attorney for the defendant will waive the issuing and service of a summons in error—if made out of court will not be enforced, as they lack the certainty necessary to justify action thereon by the court, while agreements, if made publicly in open court, or in writing duly signed, will be sustained. Haylen v. Missouri P. R. Co., 28 Neb. 660 (44 N. W. 873).

696. (1905.) A motion to dismiss a petition in error because of failure to file a motion for a new trial in the lower court is a waiver of objections to the sufficiency of the summons in error. State, ex rel. Gardner, v. Shrader, 73 Neb. 618 (103 N. W. 276).

Digitized by Google

——— Authority of attorney.

697. (1871.) An attorney of record in a cause in the district court, may, when the cause is removed into the supreme court, enter therein the voluntary appearance of his clients, without the issue or service of summons in error. McDonald v. Pennis-ton, 1 Neb. 324.

698. (1889.) Waiver of service, by one of the two attorneys or record for the party, will be sufficient. Comstock v. Cole, 28 Neb. 470 (44 N. W. 487).

699. (1903.) A county attorney has authority to waive issuance and service of summons in error in a case against a county in which he has appeared for it at the trial. Dakota County v. Bartlett, 67 Neb. 62 (93 N. W. 192).

700. (1903.) Seeley obtained a judgment in the district court, and after his death a petition in error making Seeley the sole party defendant was filed and attorneys who were attorneys of record for Seeley in the district court, filed with said petition in error a written statement, signed by them, as attorneys for Seeley, purporting to waive the issuing of summons in error and to enter the voluntary appearance of Seeley in the supreme court. Held, That the supreme court acquired no jurisdiction. Ritchey v. Seeley, 68 Neb. 127 (97 N. W. 818).

701. (1905.) Where a person obtains a judgment in the district court, and after his death error proceedings are begun seeking to reverse the same, an acceptance of service of summons in error by his attorneys of record in the district court is not sufficient to give the supreme court jurisdiction of the error proceedings. Omaha Nat. Bank v. Robinson, 73 Neb. 351 (102 N. W. 613; 104 N. W. 1070).

E. Appearance.

As waiver of summons in error, see ante, §§ 695, 696.

Effect of appearance.

702. (1889.) Where a transcript and petition in error are filed in the supreme court within a year from the date of the rendition of the judgment, and the adverse party voluntarily enters an appearance therein, after the expiration of the year, the case will not be dismissed for want of jurisdiction. Lloyd v. Reynolds, 26 Neb. 63 (41 N. W. 1072).

VII. EFFECT OF TRANSFER OF CAUSE, OR PROCEEDINGS THEREFOR.

Appeal as waiver of new trial, see New Trial, § 14.

Jurisdiction acquired by appellate court. ——— Over person of appellant or plaintiff in error.

703. An appeal from a judgment of the county court in a personal action, gives the appellate court jurisdiction of appellant regardless of whether the lower court had acquired jurisdiction over him or not. (1883) Pearson v. Kansas Mfg. Co., 14 Neb. 211 (14 N. W. 346); (1883) Brondberg v. Babbott, 14 Neb. 517 (16 N. W. 845). [Overruled. 39 Neb. 158; 54 Neb. 437; 5 Unof. 36.]

704. (1883.) A party taking an appeal from, or filing a petition in error to, the district court thereby submits himself to the jurisdiction of said court, and waives any errors which have intervened in the service or return of process necessary to bring him within such jurisdiction. Shawang v. Love, 15 Neb. 142 (17 N. W. 264). [Overruled. 39 Neb. 158; 54 Neb. 437; and in part, 17 Neb. 560; 5 Unof. 36.]

705. (1885.) By bringing a cause to the supreme court on error, a defendant in the court below waives all questions of the jurisdiction of such court over his person. Hurford v. Baker, 17 Neb. 443 (23 N. W. 339). [Overruled. 17 Neb. 560; 39 Neb. 158; 54 Neb. 434.]

706. (1885.) A defendant who resides in a different county from that in which the action is brought, and denies the jurisdiction of the court over his person, should have the ruling of the court on his objection thereto reviewed on error and not by appeal. By appealing he enters a general appearance. Dunn v. Haines, 17 Neb. 560 (23 N. W. 501).

707. (1888.) Where a decree entered by agreement, in a foreclosure proceeding, finding a portion of the land covered by the mortgage, owned by one of the defendants, was not subject to the mortgage, was, more than a year after its entry, set aside by agreement of all parties except said defendant, and a new decree entered which was void as to such defendant for want of notice, and another party appealed from the second decree but no notice thereof was given to said defendant, and she made no appearance in the supreme court, having no knowledge of the last decree by the district court, nor of the appeal therefrom to the supreme court, the supreme court acquired no jurisdiction over her, and could make no decree prejudicially affecting her rights. Blake v. McMurtry, 25 Neb. 290 (41 N. W. 172).

Digitized by Google

708. (1894.) When the district court has not otherwise obtained jurisdiction of the person of a defendant, he does not submit himself to its jurisdiction by appealing or prosecuting error to this court, and the case of Shawang v. Love, 15 Neb. 142, holding the contrary doctrine, is overruled, as in contravention of the provisions of section 24, article 1, of the constitution of this state. Hurlburt v. Palmer, 39 Neb. 158 (57 N. W. 1019).

709. (1898.) Objections to jurisdiction of the person, not appearing on the face of the record, may be raised by answer, and the prosecution of appeal or error is not a waiver of such jurisdictional defense. Mayer v. Nelson, 54 Neb. 434 (74 N. W. 841).

——Over subject-matter.

710. (1883.) Want of jurisdiction of the subject-matter cannot be waived by consent of the parties, and an appeal from the judgment in such a case confers no jurisdiction on the appellate court. Brondberg v. Babbott, 14 Neb. 517 (16 N. W. 845); (1895) Keeshan v. State, 46 Neb. 155 (64 N. W. 695); (1896) Sternberg v. State, ex rel. Keller, 48 Neb. 299 (48 N. W. 299); (1897) Anderson v. Story, 53 Neb. 259 (73 N. W. 735).

711. (1900.) The supreme court has jurisdiction to review by proceeding in error a judgment rendered by the district court without jurisdiction of the subject-matter. Armstrong v. Mayer, 60 Neb. 423 (83 N. W. 401).

712. (1905.) During the pendency of an appeal from a judgment of the district court confirming a judicial sale, the supreme court is vested with jurisdiction to entertain an application to redeem and to determine the amount of redemption money required for that purpose, and where such jurisdiction is exercised the adjudication of the appellate court incident thereto becomes res judicata. Thesing v. Westergren, 75 Neb. 387 (106 N. W. 438).

VIII. SUPERSEDEAS OR STAY OF PROCEEDINGS.

Allowance of supersedeas bond in mandamus, see Mandamus, §§ 313-315.

Judgments which may be superseded.

713. (1896.) An order appointing a receiver pendente lite cannot be superseded as a matter of right during the pendency of an appeal therefrom to the supreme court. State, ex rel. Heinzelman, v. Stull, 49 Neb. 739 (69 N. W. 101).

714. (1905.) An order granting a writ of assistance in a foreclosure suit, after decree, sale, confirmation thereof and the execution of a sheriff's deed, directing the sheriff to put the purchaser in possession of the premises, is a final order and is appealable; but is not such an order, within the meaning of the third subdivision of section 677 of the code, as may be superseded by giving the waste bond therein provided for. Escritt v. Michaelson, 73 Neb. 640 (106 N. W. 1016).

Operation of appeal or writ of error in general.

715. (1896.) An appeal does not operate as a supersedeas except as provided by statute. Home Fire Ins. Co. v. Dutcher, 48 Neb. 755 (67 N. W. 766).

716. (1900.) An appeal does not operate as a stay proceeding unless the appellant should execute a supersedeas bond within twenty days from the entry of such decree, conditioned as required by section 677 of the code. Dovey v. McCullough, 60 Neb. 376 (83 N. W. 171).

717. (1897.) A supersedeas bond is not essential to a review of a final order, but is indispensable to a stay of proceedings pending review. State, ex rel. Morrissey, v. Ramsey, 50 Neb. 166 (69 N. W. 758).

718. (1897.) While a supersedeas bond is not essential to obtain a review of a decree in an equity cause, such bond is indispensable to a stay of the enforcement of such decree pending the review. Creighton v. Keith, 50 Neb. 810 (70 N. W. 406).

719. (1902.) By the perfecting an appeal in a suit in equity the parties are placed in the same situation, and their rights are the same, as they were at the time of the commencement of the action. Riley Bros. Co. v. Melia, 3 Unof. 666 (92 N. W. 913).

720. (1904.) When a decree in equity requires the plaintiff to deposit money or securities in court as conditions precedent to enforcing the decree against the defendant, and defendant, within the time limited for making such deposit, appeals from said decree and supersedes the same, the time allowed for making the deposit is thereby extended until a like time after the decree becomes again enforceable. Ruzicka v. Hotovy, 72 Neb. 589 (101 N. W. 328).

Fixing conditions of bond.

720*a*. (1902.) In cases not within the purview of section 677 of the code of civil procedure, but in which the court has allowed a supersedeas, the district court should fix not only the amount of the supersedeas bond but the conditions thereof; and if it does not, the party seeking a supersedeas should proceed in the appropriate manner to obtain an order fixing such conditions. Carson v. Jansen, 65 Neb. 423 (91 N. W. 398).

Digitized by Google

www.lstpool.com.cn

720*b*. (1903.) If the district court fails to fix the conditions of the supersedeas bond, application should be made for a further order, and there is no supersedeas until the terms of the bond are determined by the court and the required bond is given. State, ex rel. Baker, v. Baxter, 4 Unof. 869 (96 N. W. 647).

Operation of supersedeas bond.

721. (1879.) Where a proper supersedeas bond is filed and approved, no execution can issue on the judgment until the bond is set aside, modified, or the appellant fails to perfect his appeal. State Bank v. Green, 8 Neb. 297.

722. (1894.) Where an order is made discharging an attachment, the filing of a petition in error and the filing and approval of a supersedeas bond within the time fixed by the court, not to exceed twenty days, operate to continue the lien of the attachment in force pending error proceedings. The issuance of a summons in error within that time is not necessary for that purpose. McDonald v. Bowman, 40 Neb. 269 (58 N. W. 704).

723. (1894.) Filing approved supersedeas bond below and petition in error in supreme court does not suspend an order of the district court recalling an order of sale and permitting defendant to file stay after twenty days from rendition of decree of foreclosure. State, ex rel. Harris, v. Laflin, 40 Neb. 441 (58 N. W. 936).

723*a*. (1897.) A proper supersedeas bond executed, filed, and approved in one cause will not act as a supersedeas of a decree subsequently rendered in another action between the same parties. State, ex rel. Morrissey, v. Ramsey, 50 Neb. 166 (69 N. W. 758).

724. (1898.) A bond executed in accordance with the third clause of section 677 of the code of civil procedure, conditioned that the appellants will prosecute an appeal without delay and during its pendency not commit, or suffer to be committed, any waste upon the premises involved in the action, will not supersede an order appointing a receiver for said premises. Lowe v. Riley, 57 Neb. 252 (77 N. W. 758).

725. (1902.) The perfecting of an appeal to the supreme court from a decree of the district court in a suit in equity, together with the filing and approval of a supersedeas bond, operates to suspend such decree, and the case is thereupon pending here for trial de novo. Riley Bros. Co. v. Melia, 3 Unof. 666 (92 N. W. 913).

725*a*. (1903.) The filing and approval of a supersedeas bond in an error proceeding from a judgment of the district court suspends the lien of the judgment, which is a mere incident thereto; and the running of the statute of limitations against the lien of such judgment is suspended during the pendency of such error proceedings in the supreme court. Ebel v. Stringer, 4 Unof. 43 (93 N. W. 142).

726. (1905.) An appeal and supersedeas operates to deprive the purchasers of property at execution sale of the use of the premises after the interest on his claim ceased. Westerfield v. South Omaha Loan & Bldg. Ass'n, 75 Neb. 58 (107 N. W. 1010).

726*a*. (1904.) A supersedeas is a statutory remedy, and if not given within the time limited by statute, the right to such remedy is lost, and if given thereafter, is ineffective. Whitaker v. McBride, 5 Unof. 411 (98 N. W. 877).

——— Sufficiency of bond.

726*b*. (1895.) A supersedeas undertaking executed by several sureties, but one of whom resides in the county in which such undertaking is required, the others being residents of a different county in this state, should not be rejected on the ground that the resident surety lacks the necessary property qualifications, provided his co-sureties possess all of the qualifications prescribed by law, and the undertaking in other respects satisfies the requirements of the statute. State, ex rel. Lion Ins. Co., v. Baker, 45 Neb. 39 (63 N. W. 139).

727. (1895.) An appeal bond in an action for injunction which omits a material condition prescribed by law is insufficient and will not operate to supersede a decree of the district court dissolving an order of injunction and continue the order in force during the pendency of the appeal to the supreme court. O'Chandler v. State, 46 Neb. 10 (64 N. W. 373).

Digitized by Google

727a. (1897.) A bond, though filed and approved, will not operate as a supersedeas unless it contains the conditions prescribed by law. State, ex rel. Morrissey, v. Ramsey, 50 Neb. 166 (69 N. W. 758).

www.libtool.com.cn

727b. (1901.) A supersedeas bond not conditioned as required by statute is insufficient to prevent the enforcement of the judgment or decree it was given to supersede. Gillespie v. Morsman, 2 Unof. 162 (95 N. W. 1127).

728. (1902.) In an error proceeding from a decree of the district court foreclosing a real estate mortgage, an undertaking which does not provide for the payment of "the value of the use and occupation of the property" is not effective as a supersedeas. Collins v. Brown, 64 Neb. 173 (89 N. W. 754).

729. (1905.) The statute, prior to the recent amendment, allowed the supersedeas of a decree confirming a sale upon the foreclosure of mortgage by giving a waste and cost bond only, and the purchaser at such sale could not recover for the use of the premises while the order of confirmation was so superseded, pending an appeal, even though the appeal was voluntarily dismissed by the appellant. Westerfield v. South Omaha Loan & Bldg. Ass'n, 75 Neb. 58 (107 N. W. 1010).

Qualifications of sureties.

729a. (1895.) The only qualifications prescribed by the civil code for sureties on undertakings therein authorized are those mentioned in section 898, viz., that such sureties must be residents of this state, worth double the sum to be secured beyond the amount of their debts, and have property liable to execution in this state equal to the sum to be secured. State, ex rel. Lion Ins. Co., v. Baker, 45 Neb. 39 (63 N. W. 139).

Additional or new security.

730. (1894.) Where it is shown that a supersedeas bond is entirely inadequate in amount, a sufficient bond may be required of the appellant as a condition necessary to the continuance of a stay of proceedings. Tulleys v. Keller, 42 Neb. 788 (60 N. W. 1015).

Approval of bond.

730a. (1897.) It is the duty of the clerk of the district court to determine whether the sureties on a supersedeas bond, when the same is duly tendered, are financially responsible for the amount of the penalty of such bond; and, if the clerk so finds, it is his duty to approve and file the bond. State, ex rel. Beard, v. Cook, 51 Neb. 822 (71 N. W. 733).

Allowance by court.

730b. (1896.) It is within the power of the supreme court in its discretion, after obtaining jurisdiction of a case by appeal, to allow a supersedeas in cases not provided for by statute, and upon terms which the court may prescribe. Home Fire Ins. Co. v. Dutcher, 48 Neb. 755 (67 N. W. 766).

730c. (1896.) In cases where the statute makes no provision for a supersedeas as a matter of right, the court may in its discretion allow a supersedeas upon conditions which it may affix for the protection of the parties. Home Fire Ins. Co. v. Dutcher, 48 Neb. 755 (67 N. W. 766).

731. (1897.) In such cases not within the statute the district court may, in its discretion, allow a supersedeas on proper terms, and should do so where the appellant's rights will be jeopardized if the order is not superseded, and no party will be injured beyond the protection of a bond by superseding the order. Penn Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Creighton Theatre Building Co., 51 Neb. 659 (71 N. W. 197).

732. (1902.) After obtaining jurisdiction of a cause by appeal, the supreme court may, in its discretion, allow a supersedeas in cases not provided for by statute, upon such terms as it may prescribe. Carson v. Jansen, 65 Neb. 423 (91 N. W. 398).

732a. (1902.) In cases not within the purview of section 677 of the code of civil procedure, the district court may, in its discretion, allow a supersedeas upon conditions which it determines to be proper or necessary for the protection of the parties. Carson v. Jansen, 65 Neb. 423 (91 N. W. 398).

733. (1905.) It is within the discretion of the district court to determine whether a supersedeas should be allowed. But this is a legal discretion, and where such supersedeas is refused, the supreme court will, in a proper case, supersede the judgment of the district court upon proper terms. Prante v. Lompe 74 Neb. 210 (104 N. W. 1150).

Proceeding in cause upon giving security for restitution.

734. (1898.) A plaintiff may proceed to enforce his judgment obtained on a contract for the payment of money only, notwithstanding the execution by the defendant of a sufficient supersedeas bond as required by law to stay proceedings pending a review of the judgment in the appellate court, upon the plaintiff executing, with at least two sufficient sureties, the undertaking prescribed by section 591 of the code of civil procedure and obtaining leave from the court below, or a judge thereof in vacation, to enforce the collection of the judgment. Bodewig v. Standard Cattle Co., 56 Neb. 217 (76 N. W. 580).

Digitized by Google

735. (1898.) Where plaintiff has complied with the provisions of section 591 of said code, the defendant is not entitled to an order restraining the enforcement of the judgment during the pendency of error proceedings to review such judgment. Bodewig v. Standard Cattle Co. 56 Neb. 217 (76 N. W. 580).

IX. RECORD AND PROCEEDINGS NOT IN RECORD.

Burden of showing error in the record, see post, §§ 1568-1578.

Dismissal for defects relating to record, see post, §§ 1436-1444.

Effect of filing, as election to proceed by error instead of appeal, see ante, §§ 48-49.

Presumption where record fails to show error, see post, §§ 1560-1659.

A. Matters Which Should Be Contained in Record.

Necessity of bill of exceptions to bring matters into record, see post, §§ 893-951.

Tribunal where proceedings were had.

736. (1871.) Transcripts of records of proceedings had in the district court, when filed in the supreme court for the purpose of reviewing the action appearing thereby, must show when and where the court was held, its term, and the names of the judges and other officers present, and be duly authenticated by its clerk. McDonald v. Penniston, 1 Neb. 324.

737. (1872.) A transcript of the record of the proceedings of the district court filed in the supreme court must show upon its face when, where, and before what court proceedings were had, so as to make it appear that they were before a court known to the law, held at a time and place authorized by law, and were coram judice. Orr v. Orr, 2 Neb. 170; (1877) Clark v. Wright, 6 Neb. 413.

Jurisdiction of lower court.

738. (1901.) The records of inferior courts must affirmatively show that such courts have acted within the scope of their authority. Kuker v. Beindorff, 63 Neb. 91 (88 N. W. 190).

739. (1902.) Ordinarily, when a judgment or order of an inferior court is assailed on the ground of a want of jurisdiction, every fact essential to jurisdiction must affirmatively appear; but such rule has no application, when the transcript before the reviewing court shows on its face that the jurisdictional steps, actually taken, are omitted therefrom. Biart v. Myers, 3 Unof. 196 (91 N. W. 573).

Rules of lower court.

740. (1899.) The supreme court will not take judicial notice of the rules of practice of the district court. To be considered, such rules must be made a part of the record. Dunn v. Bozarth, 59 Neb. 244 (80 N. W. 811).

Docket of lower court.

741. (1898.) Entries made upon the trial docket of the district court cannot be considered on review for the purpose of ascertaining what were the proceedings in that court. Barker v. State, 54 Neb. 53 (74 N. W. 427).

Contents of record on former appeal or in another case.

742. (1894.) A bill of exceptions must contain all the evidence upon which questions of fact are to be determined, a reference in such bill to evidence to be found by reference to another bill filed in an independent case not being sufficient. Lowe v. Riley, 41 Neb. 812 (60 N. W. 96); (1887) Tecumseh Nat. Bank v. Best, 50 Neb. 518 (70 N. W. 41).

743. (1896.) The parties cannot by stipulation make the bill of exceptions settled and allowed in another case the record. State Ins. Co. v. Buckstaff Bros. Mfg. Co. 47 Neb. 1 (66 N. W. 27).

744. (1898.) A second appeal to the supreme court is so far independent of a former appeal that pleadings filed in the original appeal cannot be referred to in that subsequently taken, for the purpose of ascertaining what issues had been originally joined and presumably were tried, when there was entered the decree sought to be reversed. Calmelet v. Sichl, 54 Neb. 97 (74 N. W. 407).

745. (1898.) Solely by stipulation, a bill of exceptions in one case cannot be made a part of the record of another case, even though the two cases be between the same parties. Murphy v. Warren & Co., 55 Neb. 220 (75 N. W. 575).

Digitized by Google

Examination of juror.

746. (1888.) Examination of juror on his voir dire must be preserved in the record, so that it may appear he was examined on the question of whether he has expressed an opinion or not. Everton v. Esgate, 24 Neb. 235 (38 N. W. 794).

www.libtool.com.cn

Process.

747. (1902.) The supreme court cannot decide whether the district court erred in permitting an amendment to the return of a process, unless the process and the original return thereto, or authenticated copies of them, are preserved in the record or bill of exceptions. Saussay v. Lemp Brewing Co., 64 Neb. 429 (89 N. W. 1048).

Pleadings.

748. (1880.) The omission to give a copy of the petition on which the judgment claimed to be erroneous was rendered, makes it impossible for the reviewing court to say whether it contained facts sufficient to warrant it or not, but the presumption will be that it did, unless the subject of the suit be one on which no cause of action could possibly be shown to exist. Reynolds v. Reynolds, 10 Neb. 574 (7 N. W. 322).

749. (1883.) Every case submitted to the supreme court for review should contain a transcript of the pleadings constituting the issue tried in the district court, otherwise the judgment of the court below will be affirmed. Galley v. Knapp, 14 Neb. 262 (15 N. W. 329).

750. (1887.) It is an inflexible rule of practice, that in order to predicate error upon the refusal of a trial court to permit a supplemental pleading to be filed, the paper proposed, or at least the substance of it, must be made a part of the record. Killinger v. Hartman, 21 Neb. 297 (31 N. W. 918).

751. (1895.) Assignments of error based on an order sustaining a demurrer will not be considered where the demurrer has been omitted from the transcript. Ball v. Nelson, 45 Neb. 205 (63 N. W. 361).

752. (1896.) Should a party desire to urge in the supreme court that he was entitled to a judgment in his favor upon the pleadings, they must be copied into the transcript. Lewis Investment Co. v. Boyd, 48 Neb. 604 (67 N. W. 456).

753. (1896.) Where the record shows that a reply was filed, defendant will not be heard to insist that his answer should be taken as true because of his failure to have the reply copied into the transcript. Lewis Investment Co. v. Boyd, 48 Neb. 604 (67 N. W. 456).

754. (1898.) When there is filed in the supreme court on appeal no pleading but a supplemental petition, and the decree discloses that it was rendered upon consideration of a petition and supplemental petition, the decree may be affirmed. Calmelet v. Sichl, 54 Neb. 97 (74 N. W. 407).

755. (1899.) Alleged error in striking out portions of a pleading omitted from the transcript for review will be disregarded. Doolittle v. American Nat. Bank, 58 Neb. 454 (78 N. W. 926).

756. (1900.) An assignment of error predicated upon the insufficiency of a petition will not be considered upon review, unless a copy of the proceeding is included in the transcript. Western Seed & Irrigation Co. v. Morton, 59 Neb. 579 (81 N. W. 616).

757. (1902.) Where the ground of complaint is that the findings of themselves would entitle the plaintiff in error to more relief than was granted, a record containing the findings and judgment only is insufficient to procure modification or reversal, since the prayer of the petition may have been more limited than the relief warranted by the facts alleged and found. Shelby v. Creighton, 2 Unof. 264 (96 N. W. 382).

758. (1902.) Where the findings show a narrower liability than that enforced by the judgment of the court, or show no liability and the judgment enforces one, or in any other way a discrepancy between findings and judgment is presented which no possible state of the pleadings could justify, modification or reversal may be had upon a record showing such findings and judgment only. Shelby v. Creighton, 2 Unof. 264 (96 N. W. 382).

——— Amendment of pleadings.

759. (1895.) A ruling amending a pleading below cannot be reviewed on error unless it affirmatively appears what particular amendment was allowed. German-American Ins. Co. v. Hart, 43 Neb. 441 (61 N. W. 582).

760. (1896.) A record containing a journal entry "Now on this day came the parties hereto with their attorneys and leave is hereby granted the plaintiff to amend the petition herein by interlineation, to which the defendant duly excepts," held, too indefinite to present for review the question of the propriety of the action of the trial court, there being no statement of what was embodied in the amendment; and furthermore, in order to make any error in such order available for review a statement of what was allowed to be done and the matter of the amendment should have been made a part of and preserved by the bill of exceptions. Imhoff v. Richards, 48 Neb. 590 (67 N. W. 483).

Digitized by Google

761. (1902.) The supreme court cannot take judicial notice of the records of the district court, and when the record in this court shows that an amended petition was filed in the district court, but does not show that a new cause of action was set up in the amended petition, the statute of limitations will cease to run from the commencement of the action. Bush v. Tecumseh Nat. Bank, 64 Neb. 451 (90 N. W. 236).

762. (1903.) Where it is claimed that the court erred in permitting a pleading to be amended during trial, the alleged fact must be shown by the record; its existence will not be presumed. Pratt v. Smith 68 Neb. 151 (94 N. W. 104.)

Motions.

763. (1891.) The supreme court will not review the action of the district court in overruling a motion for a change of venue, where the motion is not included in the records brought up. Van Etten v. Butt, 32 Neb. 285 (49 N. W. 365).

764. (1896.) The supreme court cannot determine that the ruling of the district court upon a motion was without justification, when there is presented for review neither the motion nor the proofs submitted in support of it. Hudson v. Pennock, 48 Neb. 359 (67 N. W. 188).

765. (1899.) A ruling on a motion not included in the transcript will not be considered. Brown v. Johnson, 58 Neb. 222 (78 N. W. 515).

766. (1900.) A motion to set aside a sale cannot be considered, unless certified in the transcript by the clerk of the district court. Mandell v. Weldin, 59 Neb. 699 (82 N. W. 6).

Proceedings for removal of cause.

767. (1876.) Upon suggestion of diminution of record, certificates of the clerk of the United States circuit court were produced to show that before judgment was rendered, the case had been removed to that court. Held, That the question of removal could only be reviewed upon a bill of exceptions showing the course taken to obtain it, and the action of the district court thereon. Singleton v. Boyle, 4 Neb. 414.

Evidence.

Necessity for bill of exceptions to bring evidence into record, see post, §§ 902-917.

768. (1875.) Where the finding of the court below upon the facts is not disputed, and the only error complained of is one of law, the testimony taken need not be embodied in the record brought to the supreme court. Rogers v. Omaha Hotel Co., 4 Neb. 54.

769. (1883.) Where, in the assessment of damages for right of way for a railroad by a jury, a plat of the land, showing the location of the road, etc., is used, a record of the evidence is not complete without it. Missouri P. R. Co. v. Hays, 15 Neb. 224 (18 N. W. 51).

770. (1884.) The decision of an inferior court in admitting evidence on the trial of a cause will not be reversed unless the evidence is before the supreme court, and prejudicial error is shown. Wilson v. Young, 15 Neb. 627 (19 N. W. 487).

771. (1889.) Plats introduced in evidence should be attached to the bill of exceptions. Fink v. Republican V. R. Co., 27 Neb. 660 (43 N. W. 418).

772. (1891.) Errors of trial court in overruling motions to exclude evidence will not be considered unless the motion, the ruling, and the evidence are presented in the record by bill of exceptions. Zimmerman v. Klingeman, 31 Neb. 495 (48 N. W. 268).

773. (1892.) Proceedings in district court, to contest an election to locate county seat, will not be reviewed by the supreme court in the absence of bill of exceptions. Peters v. Morey, 34 Neb. 82 (51 N. W. 312).

774. (1892.) A party is not entitled to review, on error or appeal, the decision of a trial court in denying a new trial upon the ground of newly discovered evidence, unless all the testimony given on the hearing of the motion is set out in a bill of exceptions. Wohlenberg v. Melchert, 35 Neb. 803 (53 N. W. 982); (1894) National Lumber Co. v. Ashby, 41 Neb. 292 (59 N. W. 913).

775. (1894.) Allegations of error in admitting and refusing evidence will not be considered in absence of a bill of exceptions.

Digitized by Google

Haskell v. Valley County, 41 Neb. 234 (59 N. W. 680).

776. (1896.) The supreme court will take judicial notice of the boundaries of a judicial district and of the counties therein. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Hyatt, 48 Neb. 161 (67 N. W. 8).

777. (1896.) In order to entitle the unsuccessful party to a petition for a new trial under section 318 of the code to a review in the supreme court, the evidence on the former trial must, when material, be preserved in the bill of exceptions. Western Gravel Co. v. Gauer, 48 Neb. 246 (67 N. W. 150).

778. (1897.) Alleged error in admitting an account-book in evidence was disregarded upon review, where the party complaining failed to make the book or its contents a part of the bill of exceptions. Anderson v. Beeman, 52 Neb. 387 (72 N. W. 361).

779. (1900.) The supreme court does not take judicial cognizance of the net earnings of railroad companies, and can not assume, without proof, that the "Maximum Rate Law" (Session Laws, 1893, ch. 24) is not, or was at the time of its enactment, confiscatory legislation. Nebraska Telephone Co. v. Cornell, 59 Neb. 737 (82 N. W. 1).

780. (1903.) The ruling of the district court on a motion for a judgment on the pleadings, can not be reviewed on appeal if it appears that the judgment is sustained by and conforms to the pleadings and there is no bill of exceptions. Danforth v. Fowler, 68 Neb. 452 (94 N. W. 637).

781. (1906.) Evidence not having been preserved in the manner provided by law in the bill of exceptions cannot be considered on appeal. Parker v. State, 76 Neb. 765 (108 N. W. 121).

782. (1906.) Under the practice of the supreme court, where the record contains no bill of exceptions and the pleadings are sufficient to support the judgment of the trial court, it will be affirmed. McIntyre v. Mote, 77 Neb. 418 (109 N. W. 763).

——All of the evidence.

783. (1871.) All the evidence adduced on the trial should be preserved in the bill of exceptions, and the fact be accordingly stated, in order to justify a claim that the court below erred in refusing a new trial, asked for on the ground that the verdict was not sustained by sufficient evidence. Midland P. R. Co. v. McCartney, 1 Neb. 398.

784. (1875.) Bills of exceptions should state affirmatively that they contain "all the evidence." To state that they contain "the substance of the evidence introduced bearing upon the issues," is not sufficient. Omaha & Northwestern R. Co. v. Menk, 4 Neb. 21; (1877) Faulkner v. Meyers, 6 Neb. 414.

785. (1876.) If the bill of exceptions does not affirmatively show that it contains all the evidence, the supreme court will not examine the question whether the verdict is against evidence. Wilcox v. Saunders, 4 Neb. 569; (1877) Faulkner v. Meyers, 6 Neb. 414.

786. (1887.) Bills of exceptions should contain all the evidence considered by a court in the trial of a cause. If not, it must be presumed that the findings of the trial court on questions of fact are correct. Aspinwall v. Sabin, 22 Neb. 73 (34 N. W. 72; 3 Am. St. Rep. 258); (1889) Chamberlain v. Brown, 25 Neb. 434 (41 N. W. 284); (1892) Becker v. Simonds, 33 Neb. 680 (50 N. W. 1129); (1896) Greene v. Greene, 49 Neb. 546 (68 N. W. 947; 59 Am. St. Rep. 560; 34 L. R. A. 110); (1899) Barr v. Post, 59 Neb. 361 (80 N. W. 1041; 80 Am. St. Rep. 680).

787. (1889.) A verdict of a jury and judgment thereon will not be set aside as being unsupported by the evidence when the bill of exceptions shows upon its face that all the evidence submitted to the trial jury is not before the supreme court; all presumptions being in favor of the regularity of the proceedings of the district court. Garneau Cracker Co. v. Palmer, 28 Neb. 307 (44 N. W. 463); (1895) Omaha Fire Ins. Co. v. Berg, 44 Neb. 522 (62 N. W. 862); (1896) Warner v. Hutchins, 48 Neb. 672 (67 N. W. 745); 1901) Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Bigley, 1 Unof. 225 (95 N. W. 344)

788. (1892.) Where it appears from an inspection of a bill of exceptions that important and material evidence introduced on the trial of the cause has been omitted therefrom, the bill of exceptions will not be considered by this court for the purpose of determining whether the verdict is supported by the evidence. Schneider v. Tombling, 34 Neb. 661 (52 N. W. 283).

789. (1894.) Findings if a referee will not be reviewed where his certificate to the bill of exceptions fails to show that the bill contains all evidence adduced. McClain v. Morse, 42 Neb. 52 (60 N. W. 334).

790. (1895.) A verdict will not be disturbed as being contrary to the evidence where important testimony has been omitted from the bill of exceptions. Conger v. Dodd, 45 Neb. 36 (63 N. W. 125); (1897) Anderson v. Beeman, 52 Neb. 387 (72 N. W. 361); (1897) Dunn v. Eberly, 52 Neb. 468 (72 N. W. 485).

Digitized by Google

791. (1899.) Where, upon an inspection of a bill of exceptions, palpable omissions appear, the reviewing court will not pass upon the sufficiency of the evidence. Davidson v. Gretna State Bank, 59 Neb. 63 (80 N. W. 256); (1900) Scott v. Society of Russian Israelites, 59 Neb. 571 (81 N. W. 624).

792. (1902.) Evidence will not be reviewed, where it is not disclosed that all of it is in the bill of exceptions. Dederick v. Gillespie, 63 Neb. 422 (88 N. W. 659).

——— Excluded evidence.

793. (1876.) To obtain a review of the action of the court in excluding evidence from the jury, the testimony offered, and the ground of its exclusion, should be preserved by bill of exceptions. Commissioners of Kearney County v. Kent, 5 Neb. 227.

794. (1884.) Where documentary evidence is excluded by the trial court, if such exclusion is sought to be assigned in the supreme court as error, the excluded evidence must be preserved by the bill of exceptions. Error cannot be presumed. O'Dea v. State, 16 Neb. 241 (20 N. W. 299); (1892) Schneider v. Tombling, 34 Neb. 661 (52 N. W. 283; (1892) Conner v. Draper, 34 Neb. 870 (52 N. W. 720); (1896) Graham v. Frazier, 49 Neb. 90 (68 N. W. 367); (1897) Brinckle v. Stitts, 53 Neb. 10 (73 N. W. 223).

795. (1889.) In the absence of a copy of the will in the bill of exceptions, the supreme court cannot say whether the property was improvidently distributed, and owing to such absence it cannot be presumed that the district court erred in excluding the evidence as to the financial condition of some who would naturally be the recipients of the bounty of the testator. Latham v. Schaal, 25 Neb. 535 (41 N. W. 354).

——— Depositions.

796. (1881.) When error is assigned upon the refusal of the court to suppress and exclude depositions as evidence, to have a review of the ruling, it is necessary that such depositions be included in the record. Stevenson v. Anderson, 12 Neb. 83 (10 N. W. 552).

797. (1896.) Error in reading a deposition to the jury will not be held prejudicial where it was not preserved by a bill of exceptions. Keens v. Robertson, 46 Neb. 837 (65 N. W. 897).

——— For review of questions of fact.

798. (1888.) Where none of the evidence produced on the trial is preserved in the record, it is impossible to review the facts. Welborn v. Eskey, 25 Neb. 193 (40 N. W. 959); (1896) White v. Smith, 47 Neb. 625 (66 N. W. 638); (1897) Iowa Loan & Trust Co. v. Walker, 50 Neb. 667 (70 N. W. 243); (1897) Everingham v. Harris, 51 Neb. 627 (71 N. W. 300); (1897) Alexander v. Overton, 52 Neb. 283 (72 N. W. 212); (1898) Mills v. Hamer, 55 Neb. 445 (75 N. W. 1105); (1901) Hammer v. Coglizer, 1 Unof. 633 (95 N. W. 681); (1903) Emery v. Hanna, 4 Unof. 491 (94 N. W. 973).

799. (1888.) In an appeal from the judgment setting aside a finding by a referee the bill of exceptions should contain all of the record as contained in the district court, and a motion to strike out certain matter of evidence, on the ground that the same was not before the referee, was properly overruled. Gibson v. Gibson, 24 Neb. 394 (39 N. W. 450).

800. (1888.) The assignment in a motion for a new trial, that the verdict of the jury was not sustained by sufficient evidence, cannot be considered by the supreme court in proceedings in error, unless the evidence submitted to the jury is before the court by a proper bill of exceptions. Schroeder v. Rinehard, 25 Neb. 75 (40 N. W. 593).

801. (1889.) The verdict of a jury was set aside and a new trial granted upon the motion of the losing party, based upon a number of assignments, among which were, misconduct of the jurors, and that the verdict was not sustained by sufficient evidence. In the absence of a bill of exceptions showing what the evidence was, it is presumed that the decision of the court in granting the new trial was correct, the journal entry not showing the reasons for which the verdict was set aside. Latham v. Schaal, 25 Neb. 535 (41 N. W. 354).

802. (1890.) In a record without pleadings in which it appeared from a journal entry of the judgment that the plaintiff's cause of action arose from defendant's live stock trespassing upon cultivated ground and the defendant's answer an award of arbitrators, under the herd law, as a bar to the action, held, that a bill of exceptions exhibiting the evidence on which the judgment was rendered was required to review it. Herbison v. Taylor, 29 Neb. 217 (45 N. W. 626).

Digitized by Google

803. (1892.) Where judgment is entered according to referee's conclusions of law, the evidence not being preserved by bill of exceptions, the supreme court cannot consider whether evidence supports findings. Brown v. Williams, 34 Neb. 376 (51 N. W. 851).

804. (1894.) The supreme court cannot examine the question whether the verdict is sustained by the evidence, when the evidence adduced on the trial is not made a part of the record by a bill of exceptions. Murphy v. Gould, 40 Neb. 728 (59 N. W. 383); (1894) Appelget v. McWhinney, 41 Neb. 253 (59 N. W. 918).

805. (1894.) The finding of the amount due the mortgagee for repairs cannot be reviewed, since the evidence upon which the same was based is not contained in the bill of exceptions. Morrow v. Jones, 41 Neb. 867 (60 N. W. 369).

806. (1895.) Where the questions presented in error proceedings are dependent upon the existence of certain facts there can be no review of such questions in the absence of a showing that any evidence was introduced upon the trial in the district court. Bowen v. State, 46 Neb. 23 (64 N. W. 353).

807. (1896.) The action of the district court in overruling a motion cannot be reviewed where evidence was necessary to support such motion and such evidence was not preserved by a bill of exceptions. First Nat. Bank of Madison v. Carson, 48 Neb. 763 (67 N. W. 779); (1903) Cox v. Crow, 4 Unof. 434 (94 N. W. 524); (1903) Hagadorn v. Wagoner, 4 Unof. 713 (96 N. W. 184).

808. (1898.) The entire omission from the bill of exceptions of evidence necessary to sustain an essential controverted averment of appellant's petition necessitates the affirmance of the judgment of the district court. Hoffman v. Becker, 56 Neb. 678 (77 N. W. 53).

809. (1902.) Objections to an appraisement are unavailable unless the evidence offered thereon is preserved in bill of exceptions. Simpson v. Snook, 2 Unof. 412 (89 N. W. 168).

810. (1903.) On a general finding for the defendant in a trial to the court, where the evidence is not preserved and there is no special finding inconsistent with such general finding, if the answer sets forth a defense, the judgment of the trial court must in the absence of error in making up the pleadings, be upheld. Snyder v. Johnson, 69 Neb. 266 (95 N. W. 692).

811. (1903.) When, after issue joined, there has been a trial and the record recites that the plaintiff introduced all his evidence, which the trial court found to be insufficient and dismissed the action, the judgment will not be reviewed in this court in the absence of a bill of exceptions, although it also recites that in the opinion of the trial judge the petition does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. McCowan v. Votaw, 4 Unof. 370 (93 N. W. 1129).

812. (1904.) An action in district court was voluntarily dismissed without prejudice and afterwards, during the same term, it was reinstated upon evidence presented. Held, That where such evidence is not preserved by bill of exceptions, error by abuse of discretion will not be presumed. Union P. R. Co. v. Smith, 5 Unof. 631 (99 N. W. 813).

813. (1906.) The supreme court will take jurisdiction of an appeal in equity, where no bill of exceptions is filed with the transcript; but if the judgment of the district court is one which might be supported by competent testimony on the questions of fact arising on the pleadings, in the absence of a bill of exceptions containing the testimony, the supreme court will presume that the judgment is supported by the evidence. McMillan v. Diamond, 77 Neb. 671 (110 N. W. 542).

——— For review of instructions.

814. (1889.) The testimony not being preserved in the record, the court cannot say that it was error to refuse certain instructions. Fischer v. Burchall, 27 Neb. 245 (42 N. W. 1034); (1896) City Nat. Bank of Hastings v. Thomas, 46 Neb. 861 (65 N. W. 895); (1897) Union P. R. Co. v. Thorne, 51 Neb. 472 (70 N. W. 1119).

815. (1891.) Instructions to the jury apparently judicious, and not excepted to on the trial, are not reversible error unless the evidence is presented in the record by bill of exceptions. Zimmerman v. Klingeman, 31 Neb. 495 (48 N. W. 268).

816. (1895.) Applicability of instructions to evidence and rulings as to testimony will not be considered in absence of a bill of exceptions. Nelson v. Johnson, 44 Neb. 7 (62 N. W. 244).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

817. (1899.) Where corrections of instructions depends on the evidence they will not be reviewed in absence of a properly authenticated bill of exceptions. Crawford v. Smith, 57 Neb. 503 (77 N. W. 1078).

818. (1901.) When a case is brought to the supreme court by petition in error and there is no bill of exceptions in the record, instructions given by the trial court that might have been proper under any possible condition of the evidence under the pleadings will not be held erroneous and prejudicial. Connor v. Schreiner-Flack Grain Co., 2 Unof. 188 (96 N. W. 221).

——— For review of ruling on motion for new trial.

819. (1888.) Where a new trial is sought upon a petition filed after the term at which the judgment was rendered, the evidence on the trial as well as the newly discovered evidence must be set out in a bill of exceptions. Omaha, N. & B. H. R. Co. v. O'Donnell, 24 Neb. 753 (40 N. W. 298).

820. (1895.) The ruling upon a motion for a new trial will not be reviewed where the evidence considered upon the hearing has not been preserved by a bill of exceptions. Spotswood v. Nat. Bank of Commerce, 44 Neb. 1 (62 N. W. 245).

821. (1907.) A decision of a district court granting an application for a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence will not be reviewed by the supreme court in the absence of a bill of exceptions containing both the evidence used on the trial and that alleged to have been newly discovered. Dickinson v. Aldrich, 79 Neb. 198 (112 N. W. 293).

——— For review on appeal.

822. (1874.) In chancery causes commenced prior to the act of 1867, abolishing distinctions between actions at law and suits in equity, and carried by appeal to the supreme court, the entire record should be brought to the supreme court. Wamsley v. Crook, 3 Neb. 344.

823. (1878.) On appeal, if the evidence be not wholly preserved, and brought into the record, the decision of questions of fact will not be disturbed. And this is the rule whether the trial below be to the court, to a referee, or to a jury. Farmer v. Volentine, 7 Neb. 498.

824. (1882.) In cases appealed to the supreme court, the same steps are required to preserve the evidence for use on appeal as are required in a review by proceedings in error. Leech v. Philpott, 12 Neb. 577 (12 N. W. 116).

825. (1903.) Where, on an appeal in equity from a judgment of the district court, the record contains no bill of exceptions and the pleadings are sufficient to support the judgment, it will be affirmed. Stansbury v. Storer, 70 Neb. 603 (97 N. W. 805).

Ruling on evidence.

826. (1899.) The decision of a trial court in a cause in which there was a trial to the court without a jury cannot, in an appeal to the supreme court, be assailed because based on the evidence from which there had been an improper exclusion of a portion from consideration, where it does not appear of record that any portion of the evidence was so excluded. Hanscom v. Meyer, 57 Neb. 786 (78 N. W. 367; 73 Am. St. Rep. 544).

Affidavits.

Necessity of bill of exceptions to bring affidavit into record, see post, §§ 920-937.

827. (1877.) Affidavits of jurors in support of a motion for a new trial, which are not embodied in the bill of exceptions, will not be considered by the supreme court. Ray v. Mason, 6 Neb. 101.

828. (1883.) Affidavits used in the district court will not be considered in the supreme court in error proceedings, unless made part of the record, which can ordinarily be done only by means of a bill of exceptions. Walker v. Lutz, 14 Neb. 274 (15 N. W. 352); (1889) Barlass v. Braash, 27 Neb. 212 (42 N. W. 1028); (1895) Houston v. City of Omaha, 44 Neb. 63 (62 N. W. 251).

829. (1884.) Affidavits used at the hearing of a motion to dissolve an attachment will not be considered by the supreme court unless preserved by a bill of exceptions. Tessier v. Crowley, 16 Neb. 369 (20 N. W. 264).

830. (1891.) To review a ruling of the district court in striking from the files an affidavit claimed to contain language disrespectful to the trial court, the affidavit must be incorporated in the bill of exceptions, and if the trial judge refuse to do so, he will, in a proper case, be compelled by mandamus to include the same in the bill of exceptions. Van Etten v. Butt, 32 Neb. 285 (49 N. W. 365).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

831. (1895.) Where papers are filed with a motion and are necessary to a determination thereof, the ruling on the motion will not be reviewed where the papers are not preserved by a bill of exceptions. Fremont Butter & Egg Co. v. Peters, 45 Neb. 356 (63 N W. 791).

832. (1901.) To obtain a review of the action of a trial court on an application to continue, the affidavits on which it was heard must be made a part of the bill of exceptions. Donahue v. Potter & George Co., 63 Neb. 128 (88 N. W. 171); (1902) Kinney v. Bittinger, 3 Unof. 817 (92 N. W. 1005).

833. (1902.) Defects in a replevin affidavit not brought to the supreme court with the record will not be considered. Skow v. Locke, 3 Unof. 176 (91 N. W. 204).

834. (1903.) An assignment of error, based on the alleged misconduct of the jury, will not be considered, where such misconduct is ascertainable only from affidavits not included in the bill of exceptions. Pledger v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 69 Neb. 456 (95 N. W. 1057).

835. (1906.) Affidavits used on the hearing of a motion to set aside a default, if not preserved in the bill of exceptions, will not be considered in this court. Jordan v. Jackson, 76 Neb. 15 (107 N. W. 1047).

Stipulations.

Necessity for bill of exceptions to bring stipulation into record, see post, §§ 945-947.

836. (1902.) Stipulations not embraced in the record, will not be considered. Bush v. Tecumseh Nat. Bank, 64 Neb. 451 (90 N. W. 236).

Fact as to which mistake is claimed.

837. (1877.) An accident or mistake in respect of a fact occurring on the trial of a cause in the district court which is not incorporated in a bill of exceptions and made a part of the record, is not sufficient ground to set aside the judgment of the supreme court and grant a new trial. Morrill v. Taylor, 6 Neb. 236.

Instructions.

Necessity for bill of exceptions to bring instructions into record, see post, §§ 938-942.

838. (1892.) Objections to instructions will not be considered, when the charge of the court was not copied into the record brought up. Schneider v. Tombling, 34 Neb. 661 (52 N. W. 283); (1896) Callen v. Rose, 47 Neb. 638 (66 N. W. 639).

839. (1889.) Objection cannot be raised to refusal to give instructions not set out in the bill of exceptions. Bowie v. Spaids, 26 Neb. 635 (42 N. W. 700).

840. (1894.) Error cannot be predicated for the refusing a request to charge, where such instruction is not contained in the record brought to the supreme court. Wiseman v. Ziegler, 41 Neb. 886 (60 N. W. 320).

841. (1895.) Where error is assigned upon the giving of a certain instruction, on the ground that while abstractly correct, it is misleading for want of modifications, the court will not consider such assignment where it appears that the whole charge is not included in the transcript, because proper modifications may have been given in other instructions. Conger v. Dodd, 45 Neb. 36 (63 N. W. 125).

Misconduct of counsel.

842. (1898.) A litigant, to take advantage of alleged misconduct of opposing counsel, must call the attention of the trial court to such misconduct at the time it occurs, ask for protection therefrom, preserve in the bill of exceptions the alleged misconduct with the ruling of the court and exceptions thereto, and present the record as an assignment of error. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Kellogg, 54 Neb. 127 (74 N. W. 454).

843. (1899.) Alleged misconduct of counsel will not be reviewed where the only record thereof consists of averments in the motion for a new trial. Muchow v. Reid, 57 Neb. 585 (78 N. W. 263).

844. (1899.) Alleged misconduct of counsel, consisting of statements during argument to the jury, to be available on review must be made the subject of an objection at the time, a ruling obtained, and exception taken thereto, and the portion of the proceedings incorporated in the bill of exceptions. Summers v. Simms, 58 Neb. 579 (79 N. W. 155).

845. (1906.) To obtain a review of the rulings of the district court on objections to alleged misconduct of counsel in addressing the jury, the record must show, not only that objections were made, but the matter objected to, and the rulings of the court thereon. Union P. R. Co. v. Edmondson, 77 Neb. 682 (110 N. W. 650).

Digitized by Google

Allowance of attorney's fees.

846. (1897.) Assessment of amount of attorney's fee and allowance thereof are not reviewable upon a record failing to show such allowance. Hanover Fire Ins. Co. v. Stoddard, 52 Neb. 745 (73 N. W. 291).

Verdict.

847. (1894.) The objection that the verdict is not sustained by, or is contrary to, the weight of the evidence, or that it is contrary to law, connot be considered upon a record in which such verdict does not appear. Hiatt v. Kinkaid, 40 Neb. 178 (58 N. W. 700).

Judgment or final order.

848. (1871.) The attention of counsel is called to the necessity of seeing to it, that proper orders are entered in the records of the district court, and that full transcripts thereof are brought to the supreme court. Orr v. Seaton, 1 Neb. 105.

849. (1894.) Where the transcript filed in this court does not contain the judgment, or final order, of the district court sought to be reviewed, the petition in error will be dismissed. Baker v. Kloster, 41 Neb. 890 (60 N. W. 318); (1895) Jandt v. Deranlieu, 43 Neb. 422 (61 N. W. 632); (1897) Union P. R. Co. v. Young, 52 Neb. 190 (71 N. W. 1014); (1898) Forbes v. Morearty, 54 Neb. 505 (74 N. W. 822); (1899) Bohman v. Chase, 58 Neb. 712 (79 N. W. 707); (1901) Post v. Smith, 1 Unof. 94 (95 N. W. 500); (1902) Jones v. Miller, 2 Unof. 581 (89 N. W. 598); (1905) Modern Woodmen of America v. Plummer, 74 Neb. 711 (105 N. W. 181).

850. (1896.) In order to confer jurisdiction upon the supreme court to review on error a judgment of the district court there must be filed in the supreme court a certifiefidfi transcript of the judgment. A stipulation as to the character of the judgment, or a recital thereof in the petition in error, is insufficient. Wachsmuth v. Orient Ins. Co., 49 Neb. 590 (68 N. W. 935).

851. (1898.) In every case presented to the supreme court by proceedings in error there must be of the record a transcript of the proceedings in the trial court inclusive of the judgment or final order, authenticated by the certificate of the clerk of such court, otherwise the error proceeding must be dismissed. Casler v. Nordgren, 55 Neb. 669 (76 N. W. 524).

852. (1898.) Alleged error in an order modifying a decree so as to appoint a master to make the sale instead of the sheriff was not reviewed where the transcript did not contain a copy of the decree or a copy of the order modifying it. La Selle v. Nicholls, 56 Neb. 458 (76 N. W. 870).

853. (1899.) An order refusing to extend the time for preparing a bill of exceptions cannot be reviewed where the order does not appear of record. Doolittle v. American Nat. Bank, 58 Neb. 454 (78 N. W. 926).

854. (1901.) An assignment of error that the justice failed to state in his docket that a writ of attachment was issued, presents no question for review where the record fails to disclose any order dissolving or sustaining the attachment. Kuker v. Beindorff, 63 Neb. 91 (88 N. W. 190).

855. (1901.) To predicate error upon a ruling of the court, the record must show affirmatively what the ruling was. Ledwith v. Campbell, 1 Unof. 695 (95 N. W. 838).

856. (1902.) When the record in a proceeding in the supreme court does not contain a transcript from the journal of the district court of an alleged order made by that court, its absence is not supplied by a recital in the bill of exceptions, certified by the court reporter to be true, that such an order was made, if the judge, at the time of settling the bill of exceptions, certifies that the recital is false and orders it to be stricken out. Saussay v. Lemp Brewing Co., 64 Neb. 429 (89 N. W. 1048).

857. (1905.) Where the transcript shows no order disposing of the motion for a new trial, and no final judgment, the supreme court is without jurisdiction and the appeal will be dismissed. Wall v. Kerr, 74 Neb. 603 (104 N. W. 1076).

858. (1907.) A transcript upon an appeal to this court which does not contain a final order or judgment presents nothing for review. Propeck v. Propeck, 79 Neb. 218 (112 N. W. 302).

Grounds for decision.

859. (1896.) Where there was a stipulation for a continuance, and a dismissal at the same term, the order of dismissal cannot be reviewed in absence of a record showing the grounds of the court's ruling. School District No. 1 v. Bishop, 46 Neb. 850 (65 N. W. 902).

Presentation of question to lower court.

860. (1874.) When an objection is made to the admission of any particular testimony, the ground of the objection should be stated, together with the ruling of the court, and both preserved by bill of exceptions; otherwise they will not be considered in the supreme court. Michel v. Ware, 3 Neb. 229.

Digitized by Google

861. (1878.) Where the record does not show that any exception was taken to the charge of the court to the jury, no foundation is laid for a review of the instructions in the supreme court. Scofield v. Brown, 7 Neb. 221.

862. (1879.) In order to make errors committed by the court below on the trial, in ruling upon the evidence, or in giving the law to the jury, ground for reversing the judgment, the record must show that they were clearly pointed out to the court below in the motion for a new trial. McCormick v. Keith, 8 Neb. 142.

863. Assignments of error relating to the giving and refusal of instructions cannot be considered unless the record discloses that exceptions were taken at the trial. (1894) Rea v. Bishop, 41 Neb. 202 (59 N. W. 555); (1896) City of Kearney v. Smith, 47 Neb. 408 (66 N. W. 533); (1896) Unland v. Garton, 48 Neb. 202 (66 N. W. 1130); (1896) Lowe v. Vaughan, 48 Neb. 651 (67 N. W. 464); (1896) Merrill v. Equitable Farm & Stock Co., 49 Neb. 198 (68 N. W. 365); (1897) Rema v. State, 52 Neb. 375 (72 N. W. 474; (1902) German Ins. Co. v. Stiner, 2 Unof. 308 (96 N. W. 122).

864. (1894.) In order to obtain a review of matters occuring on the trial it must appear that the errors complained of were called to the attention of the district court by a motion for a new trial. A record which discloses that a motion for a new trial was filed and overruled, but which does not disclose the grounds of such motion, is insufficient for this purpose. Koehler v. Summers, 42 Neb. 330 (60 N. W. 567).

865. (1895.) A motion for a new trial is a necessary part of a record to review by petition in error a judgment based on the findings of a court. Weber v. Kirkendall, 44 Neb. 766 (63 N. W. 35).

866. (1898.) Taking an exception is an act of counsel in court. The evidence of the act is its notation of record. State v. Bartley, 56 Neb. 810 (77 N. W. 438).

867. (1898.) A journal entry disclosed the presentment of a motion for a new trial. In the same entry was stated that defendant moved for judgment, also the rendition of the same—following all of which there appeared this: "To all of which plaintiff duly excepts." Held, Sufficient evidence of the exception to the action of the court on the motion for a new trial, although somewhat questionable practice to have the exception so noted. State v. Bartley, 56 Neb. 810 (77 N. W. 438).

868. (1899.) An assignment of error that the court erred in denying a motion for a continuance is without merit where the record does not disclose that the motion was ever presented to the court for decision, or that there was any action or refusal to act thereon. Nelson v. Farmland Security Co., 58 Neb. 604 (79 N. W. 161).

869. (1899.) Alleged errors occurring at the trial of a law action cannot be reviewed, unless there is in the record authentic evidence that a motion for a new trial was overruled by the district court. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Young, 58 Neb. 678 (79 N. W. 556).

870. (1902.) The supreme court cannot consider or pass upon assignments of error when the record fails to show any rulings on, or exceptions to, the matters complained of in the court below. Wells v. Fetzer, 2 Unof. 551 (89 N. W. 596).

Ruling of court on objections.

871. (1880.) When the error complained of lies in the exclusion of testimony under objection by opposing counsel, and the record, although showing the objections made, is silent as to the ruling of the court thereon, there is no question presented for review. Haller v. Blaco, 10 Neb. 36 (4 N. W. 362).

872. (1895.) Assignments in a petition in error relating to errors occuring at the trial and in the rendition of judgment will not be considered where the record fails to show a ruling on a motion for a new trial. Leach v. Renwald, 45 Neb. 207 (63 N. W. 387).

873. (1901.) Where reversal of a judgment is sought by reason of errors required to be set up in a motion for a new trial, the record must show a ruling upon such motion. Voorheis, Miller & Co. v. Leisure, 1 Unof. 601 (95 N. W. 676).

Opinion of lower court.

874. (1898.) Where a case is tried to the court without a jury and a general finding made upon which judgment is rendered, and, in addition thereto, the court files a written opinion in the case, such opinion is not an essential part of the record of the case when it is brought here for review. Phenix Ins. Co. v. Fuller, 53 Neb. 811 (74

Digitized by Google

N. W. 269; 68 Am. St. Rep. 637; 40 L. R. A. 408).

875. (1900.) What the presiding judge may say, on the hearing of a motion or trial of a cause, respecting his reasons for granting an order in the case at chambers, is not evidence; and such statement cannot be considered for any purpose. Northwestern Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Burr, 60 Neb. 476 (83 N. W. 663).

Review of decision of intermediate court.

876. (1891.) Errors of law occurring at the trial will not be reviewed in the supreme court upon a petition from the county court to the disctrict court in a civil action tried to the county court without a jury. Nickerson v. Needles, 32 Neb. 230 (49 N. W. 433).

877. (1894.) Where a proceeding in error is prosecuted from the judgment of a justice of the peace to the district court, a petition in error must be filed in that court, specifically enumerating the errors relied on for a reversal of such judgment; and to enable the supreme court to review the judgment of the district court on said error proceeding, the petition in error, on which the district court acted, must be incorporated into the record brought here. Lean v. Andrews, 38 Neb. 656, (57 N. W. 401).

878. (1894.) The testimony taken at the hearing of an application for a liquor license, and transmitted to the district court, becomes a part of the record, and no bill of exceptions is necessary to bring it before the supreme court for review. Powell v. Egan, 42 Neb. 482 (60 N. W. 932).

879. (1894.) To enable the supreme court to review the judgment of the district court reversing the judgment of the county court on error proceedings, the petition in error on which the district court acted must be incorporated into the record. Lean v. Andrews, 38 Neb. 656 (57 N. W. 401); (1895) Jandt v. Deranlieu, 43 Neb. 422 (61 N. W. 632).

880. (1895.) The action of the district court in affirming an order dissolving an attachment in the county court will not be reviewed in the supreme court when the record of the county court has been omitted from the transcript. Goldsmith v. Wix, 43 Neb. 573 (61 N. W. 718).

881. (1895.) An order of the district court refusing to strike out the pleadings because presenting issues not made before a justice from whom the case was appealed cannot be reviewed unless the record discloses the issues presented before the justice. First Nat. Bank of Omaha v. Chilson, 45 Neb. 257 (63 N. W. 362).

882. (1897.) Where the sole question presented in the district court was the regularity of the appointment of a county judge by county commissioners, the affirmance of the judgment of the county court by a district court must be approved in the supreme court as being the only judgment which the district court could have rendered in view of the impossibility of perpetuating the evidence adduced in the county court upon the question therein presented. Lowe v. Bishop, 52 Neb. 551 (72 N. W. 959).

883. (1902.) When the judgment of a district court, in a proceeding in error to review the judgment of a justice of the peace, is before the supreme court for review, the transcript must contain the judgment of the justice and such other proceedings as are up for review. Saussay v. Lemp Brewing Co., 64 Neb. 429 (89 N. W. 1048).

884. (1902.) A judgment of a district court, on an appeal from an order of an excise board, granting a license to sell malt, spirituous and vinous liquors, will not be reviewed by the supreme court in the absence of a duly certified transcript of the application, remonstrance and the final order of such board in the premises. Marferding v. Jones, 2 Unof. 441 (89 N. W. 290).

885. (1903.) Alleged errors by reason of change of issues on appeal from the county court will not be reviewed unless the transcript shows that there was a judgment in and appeal from that court and sets forth the pleadings therein. (Walton v. Campbell, 51 Neb. 788.) Kummer v. Dubuque Turbine and Roller Mills Co., 4 Unof. 347 (93 N. W. 938).

Matters not essential to review.

886. (1871.) The court reflects upon the habit of inserting in the transcripts of the proceedings in the district court, papers filed therein upon which no question is made, because the same unnecessarily encumber and burden the records of the supreme court. Morgan v. Larsh, 1 Neb. 361; (1872) Smith v. Fife, 2 Neb. 10.

887. (1882.) Only such matter should be included in a transcript brought to the supreme court as is necessary to a correct understanding of the case. Galley v. Galley, 13 Neb. 200 (13 N. W. 172); (1888) Hilton v. Bachman, 24 Neb. 490 (39 N. W. 419).

888. (1897.) A bill of exceptions is sufficient if it contains all of the record of the proceedings to be reviewed necessary to explain the exception taken. (Dietrichs v. Lincoln & N. R. Co., 12 Neb. 225.) Sanford v. Modine, 51 Neb. 728 (71 N. W. 740).

Digitized by Google

889. (1898.) The judgment of the district court must stand or fall upon the statutory record of the case—that is, the pleadings, the finding and judgment, and the bill of exceptions made a part of the record, and an opinion filed by the trial court should not be considered. Phenix Ins. Co. v. Fuller, 53 Neb. 811 (74 N. W. 269; 68 Am. St. Rep. 637; 40 L. R. A. 408).

890. (1898.) The transcript brought to this court should contain so much of the record of the district court as is essential to a correct understanding of the case. Koores v. State, ex rel. Shoop, 54 Neb. 486 (74 N. W. 823).

891. (1901.) Affidavits not presented to and considered by the trial court will not be considered in the supreme court in the event that the case is brought to this court for review, and therefore should not be included in the bill of exceptions. State, ex rel. Pierson, v. Fawcett, 2 Unof. 243 (96 N. W. 219).

892. (1906.) A transcript on appeal should contain the judgment or order sought to be reversed or modified, and, in addition thereto, only such matters as may be necessary to present the rulings sought to be reviewed; to include other matters is a useless expense and tends to obscure the real questions presented. Fike v. Ott, 76 Neb. 439 (107 N. W. 774).

B. Necessity of Bill of Exceptions to Bring Matters into Record.

Use of bill of exceptions in another case, see ante, §§ 742-745.

In general.

893. (1882.) Appellants having filed their answer out of time were defaulted, and a motion to set aside such default overruled and a second answer stricken from the files. There being no bill of exceptions no case is presented to the supreme court and appeal dismissed. Dewey v. Lewis, 12 Neb. 306 (11 N. W. 330).

894. (1883.) When it is sought to present to the supreme court alleged errors, occurring upon the trial of a cause in the district court, a bill of exceptions, settled and signed as required by statute, is indispensably necessary, and no other paper, record, or showing can be made to take its place. Edwards v. Kearney, 14 Neb. 83 (15 N. W. 329); (1894) Scott v. Spencer, 42 Neb. 632 (60 N. W. 892); (1896) Oltmanns v. Findlay, 47 Neb. 289 (66 N. W. 425).

895. (1883.) Where a motion for a new trial is made for reasons which would not otherwise be apparent from the record, they should be incorporated in a bill of exceptions. Missouri P. R. Co. v. Hays, 15 Neb. 224 (18 N. W. 51).

896. (1884.) Papers in a case, not a part of the record proper, can only be considered by the supreme court in cases brought to this court on error, or by appeal, when the same are embodied in a bill of exceptions. Frederick v. Ballard, 16 Neb. 559 (20 N. W. 870).

897. (1885.) A bill of exceptions is necessary only to bring into the record that which without one would not be a part thereof. O'Donohue v. Hendrix, 13 Neb. 255 (13 N. W. 215).

898. (1887.) Where plaintiff filed his petition in equity in the district court to which defendant presented a demurrer, on the ground that the petition did not state the facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, and such demurrer was sustained, neither a motion for a new trial nor bill of exceptions was necessary in order to obtain a review in the supreme court by appeal. Hays v. Mercier, 22 Neb. 656 (35 N. W. 894).

899. (1896.) Where it is sought to present to the supreme court alleged errors occurring at the trial in a district court to determine which involves an examination of matters which can only properly be presented by a bill of exceptions, such bill, settled and signed as prescribed by law, is indispensably necessary. Scott v. Spencer, 42 Neb. 632 (60 N. W 892); (1897) Denise v. City of Omaha, 49 Neb. 750 (69 N. W. 119); (1898) Andrews v. Kerr, 54 Neb. 618 (74 N. W. 1071).

900. (1903.) Where error affirmatively appears on the face of the record proper, a bill of exceptions is unnecessary to obtain a review of such errors. Herman v. Beck, 68 Neb. 566 (94 N. W. 512).

For review on appeal.

901. (1901.) An appeal may be prosecuted from a decree in equity, though no bill of exceptions was settled and allowed. National Wall Paper Co. v. Columbia Nat. Bank, 63 Neb. 234 (88 N. W. 481; 56 L. R. A. 121).

Evidence.

Effect of quashing bill of exceptions, see post, §§ 1266-1284.

Digitized by Google

Necessity for having evidence in record, see ante, §§ 768-825.

902. (1877.) Where evidence has been introduced in the court below, which is not properly a matter of record, a party who desires to avail himself of it in the supreme court must preserve the same by a bill of exceptions. Ray v. Mason, 6 Neb. 101.

903. (1879.) When there is no bill of exceptions the supreme court will presume that there was sufficient evidence before the court below to sustain the findings and judgment. State v. Knapp, 8 Neb. 436; (1884) Madsen v. Norfolk Mill Co., 15 Neb. 644 (19 N. W. 636).

904. (1880.) If a party rely upon the fact that there was no evidence in a case where evidence was necessary, he must establish it by a proper bill of exceptions. Credit Foncier v. Rogers 10 Neb. 184 (4 N. W. 1012).

905. (1880.) Where testimony is offered and excluded, the bill of exceptions must set forth the testimony thus offered and rejected. McMillan v. Mallory, 10 Neb. 228 (4 N. W. 1004; 35 Am. Rep. 471).

906. (1881.) There being no bill of exceptions, it will be presumed that the evidence sustains the decree, and that the mortgage contained a provision for an attorney's fee so as to be notice to a purchaser of the mortgaged premises. White v. Rourke, 11 Neb. 519 (9 N. W. 689).

907. (1884.) Where evidence has been introduced in the court below, which is not properly a matter of record, a party who wished to avail himself of it in the supreme court must preserve the same by a bill of exceptions. Thesing v. School District No. 57, 16 Neb. 134 (19 N. W. 625).

908. (1886.) Where it is sought to review the judgment of the trial court upon the facts, the evidence must be preserved in a bill of exceptions. Roberts v. Hershiser, 20 Neb. 594 (31 N. W. 237).

909. (1887.) Objections to the form of notice to a tenant to quit, will not be considered, there being no bill of exceptions. Hitchcock v. McKinster, 21 Neb. 148 (31 N. W. 507).

910. (1889.) Plats introduced in evidence should be attached to the bill of exceptions. Fink v. Republican V. R. Co., 27 Neb. 660 (43 N. W. 418).

911. (1891.) Without a bill of exceptions embodying the evidence, the verdict will not be set aside as excessive and not sustained by the evidence. Zimmerman v. Klingeman, 31 Neb. 495 (48 N. W. 268); (1901) Elkhorn Valley Bank v. Marley, 61 Neb. 583 (85 N. W. 846).

912. (1895.) The character of the evidence introduced below can only be shown in the supreme court by a properly authenticated bill of exceptions. It cannot be shown by affidavits filed in the appellate court. Scott v. Spencer, 44 Neb. 93 (62 N. W. 312).

913. (1896.) Assignments of error relating to the sufficiency of the evidence and the rulings of the court in receiving and excluding evidence, will be disregarded in the absence of a bill of exceptions properly allowed and authenticated. Andres v. Kridler, 47 Neb. 585 (66 N. W. 649); (1898) Cole v. Arlington State Bank, 54 Neb. 632 (74 N. W. 1100); (1898) Village of Arlington v. Barothy, 56 Neb. 656 (77 N. W. 52).

914. (1896.) Where there is presented by appeal only the sufficiency of the evidence to sustain the judgment of the district court, such judgment will be affirmed when there is to be found in the record no bill of exceptions. Winters v. Means, 48 Neb. 333 (67 N. W. 155); (1896) Aultman, Miller & Co. v. Welch, 49 Neb. 117 (68 N. W. 364); (1897) Douglas v. Smith, 50 Neb. 899 (70 N. W. 511); (1898) Gay v. Reynolds, 57 Neb. 194 (77 N. W. 661); (1899) Noble v. Neal, 57 Neb. 797 (78 N. W. 383); (1899) Doolittle v. American Nat. Bank, 58 Neb. 454 (78 N. W. 926); (1901) Bankers Life Ass'n v. Comm'rs of Douglas County, 61 Neb. 202 (85 N. W. 54); (1901) University of Michigan v. McGuckin, 62 Neb. 489 (87 N. W. 180; 57 L. R. A. 917).

915. (1897.) In the absence of a bill of exceptions, issues of fact cannot be considered in the supreme court on appeal, even though the transcript of the pleadings and proceedings recites that the cause was originally determined on an agreed statement of facts copied in such transcript. Following State Ins. Co. of Des Moines v. Buckstaff Bros. Mfg. Co., 47 Neb. 1 (66 N. W. 27). Stuart v. Burcham, 50 Neb. 823 (70 N. W. 383).

916. (1901.) Evidence relating to challenges of jurors for cause and to the array can not be considered, unless settled and allowed by a bill of exceptions. West v. State, 63 Neb. 257 (88 N. W. 503).

917. (1901.) The evidence used in the district court, upon a hearing of a motion to correct an entry in the journal, must be preserved in a bill of exceptions, or it will not be considered in the supreme court. Miller v. Brown, 1 Unof. 754 (95 N. W. 797).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

Depositions.

918. (1871.) A deposition used upon a hearing in the district court, but not included nor referred to in the bill of exceptions, will, on motion in the supreme court, be stricken out of the transcript. Nebraska City v. Baker, 1 Neb. 180.

919. (1883.) Depositions given or offered in evidence in the trial court must be embodied in a bill of exceptions to authorize the supreme court to consider them. Kyle v. Chase, 14 Neb. 528 (16 N. W. 821.)

Affidavits.

Necessity of having affidavits in record, see ante, §§ 827-835.

920. (1880.) Affidavits used on a hearing in the district court must be preserved by a bill of exceptions in order to be considered by the supreme court. A certificate by the clerk of the district court that such affidavits were used on the hearing of the cause must be disregarded, not being authorized by the statute. Aultman v. Howe, 10 Neb. 8 (4 N. W. 357).

921. (1881.) Affidavits used on a hearing in the district court must be embodied in a bill of exceptions to be available in the supreme court. Oliver v. Sheeley, 11 Neb. 521 (9 N. W. 689); (1883) Kyle v. Chase, 14 Neb. 528 (16 N. W. 821); (1884) Dorrington v. Minnick, 15 Neb. 397 (19 N. W. 456); (1884) Empkie v. McLean, 15 Neb. 629 (19 N. W. 593); (1884) Donovan v. Sherwin, 16 Neb. 129 (20 N. W. 26); (1890) Burke v. Pepper, 29 Neb. 320 (45 N. W. 466); (1890) McCarn v. Cooley, 30 Neb. 552 (46 N. W. 715); (1891) Payne v. Jones, 33 Neb. 260 (50 N. W. 8); (1891) Veneman v. McCurtain, 33 Neb. 643 (50 N. W. 955); (1896) Minick v. Minick, 49 Neb. 89 (68 N. W. 374); (1898) Smith Bro. Loan Co. v. Weiss, 56 Neb. 210 (76 N. W. 564); (1901) Newtson v. Walker, 1 Unof. 118 (95 N. W. 470); (1902) Phœnix Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Williams, 3 Unof. 79 (90 N. W. 756); (1903) Stansbury v. Storer, 70 Neb. 603 (97 N. W. 805).

922. (1883.) It is only where affidavits are not otherwise a part of the record that their incorporation in a bill of exceptions is required. Republican V. R. Co. v. Boyse, 14 Neb. 130 (15 N. W. 364). [Overruled. Tessier v. Crowley, 16 Neb. 369].

923. (1883.) To make affidavits used to impeach an award of arbitrators a part of the record so as to be available on proceedings in error, they must be embodied in a bill of exceptions allowed and signed by the judge, or clerk of the court, as the statute directs. Sides v. Brendlinger, 14 Neb. 491 (17 N. W. 113).

924. (1884.) Affidavits in support of a motion for a new trial which are not embodied in the bill of exceptions, will not be considered by the supreme court. Dolen v. State, 15 Neb. 405 (19 N. W. 627); (1891) Hunter v. Bell, 33 Neb. 249 (49 N. W. 1132); (1891) Van Etten v. Butt, 32 Neb. 285 (49 N. W. 365); (1893) Bush v. Bank of Commerce, 38 Neb. 403 (56 N. W. 989); (1895) Gray v. Godfrey, 43 Neb. 672 (62 N. W. 41); (1896) Rosecrans v. Asay, 49 Neb. 512 (68 N. W. 627); (1899) Langdon v. Wintersteen, 58 Neb. 278 (78 N. W. 501); (1899) Willits v. Arena Fruit Co., 58 Neb. 659 (79 N. W. 624); (1901) Wayne Nat. Bank v. Kruger, 1 Unof. 270 (95 N. W. 476); (1901) Johnson v. Carlson, 1 Unof. 368 (95 N. W. 788).

925. (1884.) Affidavits alleged to have been made at the hearing of a motion to set aside a default and judgment in the district court, but which have not been embodied in or saved by a bill of exceptions, will not be considered in the supreme court. Vindquest v. Perky, 16 Neb. 284 (20 N. W. 301); (1894) Beard v. Ringer, 41 Neb. 831 (60 N. W. 95).

926. (1884.) Affidavits other than the verifications of pleadings constitute no part of the record proper, but must be embodied in the bill of exceptions. Frederick v. Ballard, 16 Neb. 559 (20 N. W. 870).

927. (1885.) Affidavits filed as evidence in the district court must be certified to the supreme court by a proper bill of exceptions, and be thus made a part of the record, or they cannot be considered. Bradshaw v. State, 17 Neb. 147 (22 N. W. 361); (1896) Norfolk Nat. Bank v. Job, 48 Neb. 774 (67 N. W. 781).

928. (1885.) Affidavits used as evidence upon the hearing of a motion in the district court will not be considered in the supreme court unless preserved as a part of the record by a bill of exceptions. And when such papers are improperly attached to the record they will, upon motion, be stricken from the files. Graves v. Scoville, 17 Neb. 593 (24 N. W. 222); (1886) Jacoby v. Mitchell, 19 Neb. 537 (26 N. W. 255); (1886) Joiner v. Van Alstyne, 20 Neb. 578 (30 N. W. 944); (1892) Wohlenberg v. Mel- chert, 35 Neb. 803 (53 N. W. 982); (1893) Maggard v. Van Duyn, 36 Neb. 862 (55 N. W. 263); (1894) Barry v. Barry, 39 Neb. 521 (58 N. W. 193); (1894) Aldrich v. Bruss, 39 Neb. 569 (58 N. W. 194); (1894) National Lumber Co. v. Ashby, 41 Neb. 292 (59 N. W. 913); (1897) Morsch v. Besack, 52 Neb. 502 (72 N. W. 853); (1889) Mercantile Trust Co. v. O'Hanlon, 58 Neb. 482 (78 N. W. 925); (1903) Gutterson v. Meyer, 68 Neb. 767 (94 N. W. 969).

Digitized by Google

929. (1887.) An affidavit used in resistance of a motion to dismiss an appeal on the ground that the transcript, etc., of the proceedings before the justice were not presented to the clerk of the district court within the time required by law cannot be considered in the supreme court on a proceeding in error to the district court to reverse its judgment sustaining such motion, and dismissing the appeal, unless such affidavit is preserved by bill of exceptions and so made a part of the record. Clapp v. Bowman & Ware, 22 Neb. 198 (34 N. W. 362).

930. (1889.) Affidavits used at the hearing of a motion to dissolve an attachment will not be considered in the supreme court on error, unless preserved by a bill of exceptions. Olds Wagon Co. v. Benedict, 25 Neb. 372 (41 N. W. 254); (1890) Strunk v. State, ex rel. Lipp, 31 Neb. 119 (47 N. W. 640); (1892) Hobbs v. Hunt, 34 Neb. 657 (52 N. W. 278).

931. (1891.) Where affidavits or other evidence are used on the hearing of a motion for a change of venue in the district court, such evidence must be preserved in a bill of exceptions to be available in the supreme court. Van Etten v. Kosters, 31 Neb. 285 (47 N. W. 916).

932. (1891.) Affidavits as to alleged misconduct of jurors, used in the district court will not be considered by the supreme court, unless they are made a part of the record, by being embodied in a bill of exceptions. City of Plattsmouth v. Boeck, 32 Neb. 297 49 N. W. 167).

933. (1892.) Where issues of fact are tried on affidavits, the supreme court will not review the order of the district court upon such evidence, unless the affidavits are identified and preserved in the form of a bill of exceptions. Fitzgerald v. Benadom, 35 Neb. 317 (53 N. W. 72).

934. (1893.) Affidavits used in support of a motion for a continuance in the district court, to be available in the appellate court, must be made a part of the record by a bill of exceptions. Barton v. McKay, 36 Neb. 632 (54 N. W. 968); (1895) Nelson v. Johnson, 44 Neb. 7 (62 N. W. 244); (1897) Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Corey, 53 Neb. 209 (73 N. W. 674); (1898) Reid v. Panska 56 Neb. 195 (78 N. W. 534); (1901) Union Nat. Bank of Chicago v. Touzalin Improvement Co., 1 Unof. 116 (95 N. W. 489).

935. (1894.) In absence of a bill of exceptions the averments of a petition for a receiver must be taken as true where they have not been denied except by affidavits used as evidence. Lowe v. Riley, 41 Neb. 812 (60 N. W. 96).

936. (1903.) Affidavits filed in support of objections to jurisdiction over the person, to be available in proceedings in error, must be preserved by bill of exceptions. Gretch v. Maxfield, 4 Unof. 256 (93 N. W. 934).

937. (1906.) Affidavits found in the files of the case or attached to the transcript cannot be considered as having been used in support of a motion for a new trial, unless they are included in and shown by the certificate of the proper officer to be a part of the bill of exceptions, and to have been actually used in evidence upon the hearing of the motion. Loar v. State, 76 Neb. 148 (107 N. W. 229).

Instructions.

Necessity for having instructions in record, see ante, §§ 383-841.

938. Instructions are properly matters of record and should not be embodied in a bill of exceptions. (1881) Eaton v. Carruth, 11 Neb. 231 (9 N. W. 58); (1883) Cleveland Paper Co. v. Banks, 15 Neb. 20 (16 N. W. 833).

939. (1891.) Instructions must be preserved in a bill of exceptions in order to be reviewed. Lincoln Nat. Bank v. Davis, 32 Neb. 1 (48 N. W. 892).

940. (1895.) Instructions given and refused are a part of the record and need not be and should not be embodied in a bill of exceptions. Blumer v. Bennett, 44 Neb. 873 (63 N. W. 14).

941. (1897.) Instructions may be reviewed when properly certified in the transcript, and need not be embodied in the bill of exceptions. Bennett v. McDonald, 52 Neb. 278 (72 N. W. 268).

942. (1898.) The instructions to a jury are proper matters of record, and need not be preserved in the bill of exceptions. State v. Bartley, 56 Neb. 810 (77 N. W. 438).

Digitized by Google

Motions.

943. (1881.) Motion for new trial, and all matters required by the statutes to be filed with the clerk and entered upon the journal of the court, should not be embodied in a bill of exceptions. Eaton v. Carruth, 11 Neb. 231 (9 N. W. 58).

www.tiptool.com.cn

944. (1900.) A motion to vacate a sale, when filed, is a part of the record and should not be embodied in the bill of exceptions. Mandell v. Weldin, 59 Neb. 699 (82 N. W. 6).

Stipulations.

Necessity for having stipulation in record, see ante, § 836.

945. (1890.) Where a stipulation of facts between the parties to a trial in the district court is presented without a bill of exceptions, the supreme court will not accept it as the whole of the evidence upon which the findings and judgment of the court below were predicated unless it is brought up on a proper bill of exceptions. Herbison v. Taylor, 29 Neb. 217 (45 N. W. 626).

946. (1896.) A written stipulation of facts forms no part of a record for review unless made so by a bill of exceptions. State Ins. Co. v. Buckstaff Bros. Mfg. Co., 47 Neb. 1 (66 N. W. 27); (1901) Keeler v. Manwarren, 61 Neb. 663 (85 N. W. 839).

947. (1901.) An agreed statement of facts not incorporated in a bill of exceptions is not properly in the record. Bankers Life Ass'n. v. Commissioners of Douglas County, 61 Neb. 202 (85 N. W. 54).

Rules of district court.

948. (1902.) The rules of practice in a district court, alleged to have a material bearing on the rulings complained of, before they can enter into a determination of a question presented in the supreme court, must be incorporated in the bill of exceptions. Jones v. Cleary, 2 Unof. 541 (89 N. W. 386).

Certificates.

949. (1891.) Neither a certificate of the clerk of the district court, showing in what proportion the names of the persons upon the list from which the petit jurors were drawn were selected from the several wards and precincts of D. county, nor a certificate of the county clerk, showing the number of votes returned as cast in the respective wards and precincts of said county, such certificates not having been made a part of a bill of exceptions, will be considered in an appellate proceeding in the supreme court. Neal v. State, 32 Neb. 120 (49 N. W. 174).

Effect of failure to procure bill.

Questions considered when bill of exceptions has been quashed, see post, §§ 1266-1284.

950. (1880.) A party or his attorney is justified in relying on the stenographic reporter for a transcript of the oral proceedings of a trial, and if without fault on his part such transcript is not prepared within the time limited by law, and he is thereby deprived of his bill of exceptions, the court, in a proper case, wil grant a new trial. Curran v. Wilcox, 10 Neb. 449 (6 N. W. 762).

951. (1896.) The failure of a defeated party, through his own neglect, to secure a true bill of exceptions, presents no ground for reversal. Blomgren v. Holmquest, 49 Neb. 49 (68 N. W. 382).

C. Contents, Making and Settlement of Bill of Exceptions.

Nature and purposes in general.

952. (1885.) The purpose of a bill of exceptions is to identify the paper or instrument and designate it as the paper or instrument used on the hearing. Graves v. Scoville, 17 Neb. 593 (24 N. W. 222).

953. (1901.) The function of a bill of exceptions is to bring into the record the facts on which the trial court decided the questions of law presented for review. State, ex rel. Pierson, v. Fawcett, 2 Unof. 243 (96 N. W. 219).

Requisites and sufficiency in general.

954. (1882.) The same procedure is to be observed in preparing a bill of exceptions in an equity case as in an action at law. Uhling v. Schellenberg, 12 Neb. 609 (12 N. W. 272).

955. (1895.) A bill of exceptions should begin with a proper caption, the matter should be systematically arranged, and the judge should, by reference, identify the exhibits. Vaughn v. Crites, 44 Neb. 812 (62 N. W. 1098).

956. (1899.) The validity of a bill of exceptions does not depend upon the time within which a motion for a new trial is filed. Nebraska Nat. Bank v. Pennock, 59 Neb. 61 (80 N. W. 255).

957. (1901.) A bill of exceptions made up of affidavits presented before a trial court on objections to an award, and which does not purport, and is not certified, to present the evidence taken before the arbitrators who rendered the award, cannot be considered with reference to the question as to whether or not the award was sustained by such evidence. Shutt v. Hebebrand, 1 Unof. 573 (95 N. W. 785).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

958. (1903.) The supreme court is under no obligation to consider a bill of exceptions which is not fairly and reasonably legible. Hoy v. State, 69 Neb. 516 (96 N. W. 228).

959. (1895.) The provisions of section 587*a* of the code of civil procedure authorizing the certification of the original bill of exceptions confined to proceedings in the supreme court reviewing judgments of district courts. The original bill of exceptions cannot be certified from a county court to the district court. Sedgwick v. Durham, 45 Neb. 86 (63 N. W. 142).

Statutory provisions.

960 (1886.) The statute relating to bills of exceptions being remedial in its nature will be liberally construed. Morehead v. Adams, 18 Neb. 569 (26 N. W. 242); (1901) Williams v. Miles, 62 Neb. 566 (87 N. W. 315).

Right to bill.

961. (1894.) The right to a bill of exceptions is not implied from the right to prosecute proceedings in error, and that a bill of exceptions cannot be allowed except in pursuance of statutory authority. Moline, Milburn & Stoddard Co. v. Curtis, 38 Neb. 520 (57 N. W. 161). Hopkins v. Scott, 38 Neb. 661 (57 N. W. 391).

Matters included in general.

962. (1881.) Where the exception is for the admission of illegal evidence on the trial, it is not necessary that bill contain more of the testimony than is necessary to explain the exception taken. Dietrichs v. Lincoln & N. R. Co., 12 Neb. 225 (10 N. W. 718).

963. (1899.) A bill of exceptions may properly include a record of events transpiring in the presence of the court, but not formally introduced in evidence. State, ex rel. Bankers Reserve Life Ass'n, v. Scott, 59 Neb. 499 (81 N. W. 305).

964. (1899.) The rules of practice of the district court may be incorporated into the bill of exceptions without being formally introduced in evidence. State, ex rel. Bankers Reserve Life Ass'n, v. Scott, 59 Neb. 499 (81 N. W. 305).

965. (1902.) Matters merely in the judge's mind, and which were in no way a part of the public proceedings at a hearing, are not properly a part of a bill of exceptions. State, ex rel. Cobb, v. Fawcett, 63 Neb. 523 (88 N. W. 681).

966. (1902.) A bill of exceptions may properly include a record of events which took place in the presence of or under the direction of the court and matters of which the court took judicial notice, if in face considered by the court in arriving at a decision, although not formally introduced in evidence. State, ex rel. Cobb, v. Fawcett, 64 Neb. 496 (90 N. W. 250).

Incorporating evidence at former trial.

967. (1898.) Where there have been two or more trials, the bill of exceptions cannot, after the ruling on the final motion, reach back indefinitely and bring into the record the evidence adduced on former trials. State, ex rel. Morton, v. Dickinson, 56 Neb. 251 (76 N. W. 543).

Incorporating exhibits.

968. (1899.) Ballots which have been used in evidence, in an election contest, can be made a part of a bill of exceptions though not physically attached to such bill at the time of the settlement. Mauck v. Brown, 59 Neb. 382 (81 N. W. 313).

969. (1901.) Where ponderous articles, which do not admit of physical attachment to the record proper, are part of the evidence in the case, are referred to in the bill of exceptions, and articles, answering to such reference, are filed in the supreme court with the record in the case, and produced at the hearing, bearing the marks of identification of the official reporter of the trial court; and their identity is unchallenged, save in the course of the argument, the articles produced will be treated as a part of the bill of exceptions. O'Neill v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 62 Neb. 358 (86 N. W. 1098).

Incorporating grounds of objection.

970. (1899.) Grounds of objection to a ruling, order or judgment which do not appear in the record may be brought into the bill of exceptions by the party complaining, by reducing such grounds of objection to writing and asking to have them incorporated into such bill of exceptions. State, ex rel. Bankers Reserve Ins. Co., v. Scott, 59 Neb. 499 (81 N. W. 305).

Duty of stenographer to furnish transcript.

971. (1896.) The supreme court will not make an order on a stenographer below to prepare a transcript of evidence for a bill of exceptions where the district judge made such an order upon condition that the fees should be paid, there being shown neither a compliance with the order nor an attempt to review it. Argabright v. State, 46 Neb. 822 (65 N. W. 886).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

Presentment to adverse party.

972. (1880.) Before a bill of exceptions is signed by the judge, whether in open court or during vacation, he should be satisfied that all parties to the record interested therein have been given suitable opportunity to examine the same, and to propose changes or additions. Jefferson County v. Saxon, 10 Neb. 14 (4 N. W. 309).

973. (1882.) Where a bill of exceptions was signed without being submitted to adverse party for examination and amendment, a motion to quash the same was sustained. Uhling v. Schellenberg, 12 Neb. 609 (12 N. W. 272); (1882) Howard v. Lamaster, 13 Neb. 221 (13 N. W. 211); (1884) Madsen v. Norfolk Mill Co., 15 Neb. 644 (19 N. W. 636).

974. (1882.) If there is no receipt or other evidence in the record, an affidavit stating the delivery of the bill to the adverse party must show when and to whom the bill was delivered. Howard v. Lamaster, 13 Neb. 221 (13 N. W. 211).

975. (1892.) In appeal cases, where the interests of the parties plaintiff or defendant are so connected that the appeal necessarily will bring up the entire record, the failure to serve the bill of exceptions on some of such parties will not be cause for quashing the bill. Reynolds v. Dietz, 34 Neb. 265 (51 N. W. 747).

976. (1892.) Where there are two or more principal defendants against whom the plaintiff is seeking to enforce a claim, there being no particular controversy between them, service of the bill of exceptions upon one of such defendants or his attorney within the time fixed by statute will be sufficient. Crane v. Keck, 35 Neb. 683 (53 N. W. 606).

977. (1893.) In a case where appellees with adverse interests were represented by different counsel, the appellant left the draft of a proposed bill of exceptions at the office of one of appellee's counsel and notified the attorneys for the others that it was there for inspection. Held, Not a sufficient submission under section 311 of the code; and that the bill would be quashed as to all appellees to whom it had not otherwise been submitted. Fitzgerald v. Brandt, 36 Neb. 683 (54 N. W. 992).

978. (1896.) A proposed bill of exceptions is not submitted to the adverse party or his attorney of record, within the meaning of section 311 of the code, by leaving it at the office of the attorney in his absence. Lancaster County Bank v. Gillilan, 49 Neb. 165 (68 N. W. 352).

979. (1897.) A motion to quash a bill of exceptions on the ground that it was not presented to the adverse party or his attorney for examination and amendment within the statutory period should be made within a reasonable time after the bill is filed in the appellate court, and where not made for nearly eighteen months after the filing of the transcript, and after briefs upon the merits have been printed and served by the respective parties, such objection will be considered waived. Nash v. Costello, 50 Neb. 325 (69 N. W. 969).

980. (1897.) Objection to a bill of exceptions that it was not presented for examination and amendment within the statutory period, not made before the bill was signed and allowed by the trial judge, but raised for the first time in the supreme court, will not be considered. Thompson v. Missouri P. R. Co., 50 Neb. 329 (69 N. W. 1119).

980*a*. (1908.) A bill of exceptions will not be quashed upon the motion of an appellee, to whom it had been properly submitted, because it was not served upon another party to the action. First Nat. Bank of Plattsmouth v. Gibson, 80 Neb. 577 (114 N. W. 777).

Proposed amendments.

981. (1879.) Within ten days from the expiration of the time fixed by statute, or the order of the court for preparing the bill by statute, or the order of the court for preparing the bill and submitting it to the adverse party, it must be returned to the party seeking the bill, with the proposed amendments, if any. And the party excepting has ten days after the expiration of the time fixed by law for the return of the bill to him in which to present the bill to the judge for his approval and signature. First Nat. Bank of Omaha v. Bartlett, 8 Neb. 319.

982. (1881.) It is the duty of the adverse party, upon receiving a bill of exceptions, to propose amendments thereto, and return such bill with his proposed amendments within the time limited by statute to the party proposing the bill. Deck v. Smith, 12 Neb. 205 (10 N. W. 705).

983. (1888.) A party seeking a bill of exceptions, who presents the proposed bill to the adverse party or his attorneys for amendment, within the time fixed by law or the order of the court, is entitled to have such bill examined by such adverse party, and amendments thereto proposed, if necessary. State, ex rel. Covey, v. Gaslin, 25 Neb. 71 (40 N. W. 601).

Digitized by Google

984. (1893.) Section 311 of the code makes it the duty of a party to whom is submitted a draft of a bill of exceptions for examination to return it with his proposed amendments, if any, within ten days. Fitzgerald v Brandt, 36 Neb. 683 (54 N. W. 992).

985. (1898.) In settling a bill of exceptions it is not sufficient that a paper containing suggestions of amendments be attached, and that it be disclosed that such amendments were allowed. Amendments which are allowed should be actually made in the body of the bill. Brennan-Love Co. v. McIntosh, 56 Neb. 140 (76 N. W. 461).

986. (1901.) A bill of exceptions allowed by the trial judge is not invalidated nor rendered incomplete or defective by failure upon his part to pass upon proposed amendments; if the party proposing such amendments desires to rely upon or take advantage of them in the supreme court, he should take the proper steps to require a ruling thereon. Warren v. Wales, 1 Unof. 446 (95 N. W. 610).

——— Effect of failure to propose amendments

987. (1882.) An adverse party upon receiving a bill of exceptions must propose amendments thereto and return the same with his proposed amendments to the party preparing the bill within the time limited by law. If no amendments are proposed, the judge, if satisfied of the correctness of the bill, may sign the same. Fitzgerald v. Hollingsworth, 13 Neb. 199 (13 N W. 209).

988. (1883.) Where a bill of exceptions purporting to contain all the testimony is submitted to the adverse party for amendment, and such party certifies that he has no amendments to propose to the same, the court will presume that such bill contains all the evidence, notwithstanding the certificate may not fully so certify. Cattle v. Haddox, 14 Neb. 59 (14 N. W. 803); (1898) Columbia Nat. Bank v. German Nat. Bank, 56 Neb. 803 (77 N. W. 346).

Time for preparation and service.

989. (1873.) Exceptions relating to instructions given to a jury, must be reduced to writing during the term at which the trial took place. Holmes v. Wilhite, 3 Neb. 147.

990. (1874.) To make exceptions to the charge of the court to the jury available to the party excepting, or to the ruling of the court in refusing to give instructions asked for, or to the admission of testimony, the exceptions must be reduced to writing at the same term at which the trial took place. Hughes v. Kellog, 3 Neb. 186.

991. (1881.) Under act of 1877, page 11, a bill of exceptions might be prepared within the time limited from the adjournment of the court sine die. (This is not statute law by amendment of 1881. Comp. Stat., 571.) State, ex rel. Odien, v. Weaver, 11 Neb. 163 (8 N. W. 385).

991*a*. (1886.) When pending the proceeding on a motion for a new trial a remittitur is entered and the motion overruled the statutory time may be had in which to prepare the bill of exceptions after the remittitur. Dodge v. Runels, 20 Neb. 33 (28 N. W. 849). [Overruled. City of Seward v. Klenk, 27 Neb. 615.]

992. (1886.) By section 311 of the civil code the time within which a bill of exceptions is to be prepared begins to run from the final adjournment of the district court. Nyce v. Shaffer, 20 Neb. 507 (30 N. W. 943).

993. (1889.) A jury trial was had in the district court at the March term thereof, 1888, the verdict being returned on the 7th day of the month. Within three days thereafter plaintiff in error filed a motion for a new trial. On the 30th of April the court adjourned sine die, without having passed upon the motion for a new trial. The next regular term convened on the 28th day of May, the same year. On the 30th day of July the motion for a new trial was argued and submitted to the court and on August 6 it was overruled. On the 26th day of September a bill of exceptions was served on defendant in error, who returned it October 11 without suggestion of amendment, and on the same day filed a protest with the judge against the allowance of the bill. On motion to quash it was held, that the bill was not served upon defendant in error within the time required by section 311 of the civil code, and the motion was sustained. City of Seward v. Klenk, 27 Neb. 615 (43 N. W. 407).

994. (1892.) The time within which a party must prepare and serve a bill of exceptions begins to run from the final adjournment of the term of court at which the cause was decided and not from the date of the formal entry of the judgment by the clerk upon the journal. Bickel v. Dutcher, 35 Neb. 761, distinguished. State, ex rel. Cochran, v. Hopewell, 35 Neb. 822 (53 N. W. 990).

Digitized by Google

995. (1893.) The cause was tried in the district court on the 17th day of December, 1889, and forty days were given to reduce the exceptions to writing. The term of court adjourned without day December 23, and on the 29th day of the following month the trial judge, on a showing of diligence, granted an extension of thirty days' additional time in which to complete and serve a bill of exceptions. A draft of the bill was served on the attorneys of the successful party on February 19, 1890. Held, That the same was presented in time. First Nat. Bank of Denver v. Lowrey, 36 Neb. 290 (54 N. W. 568).

996. (1894.) The time for preparing and serving a bill of exceptions preserving the evidence introduced on a hearing of a preliminary motion where no time is given to reduce the exceptions to writing, begins to run from the final adjournment of the term of court at which the decision upon the motion was made, and not from the close of the term at which the final judgment in the case was rendered. Schields v. Horbach, 40 Neb. 103 (58 N. W. 720).

997. (1896.) Where a trial has been had and a motion for a new trial sustained, the time for preparing a bill of exceptions embodying the evidence on that trial is fixed at the latest by the term at which final judgment was rendered, or at which the motion for a new trial was sustained, and not by the term at which final judgment was rendered, or at which a new trial was had, or a new trial after such second trial denied. State ex rel. Marrow, v. Ambrose, 47 Neb. 235 (66 N. W. 306).

998. (1896.) The fact that the party excepting has been diligent, and the delay was caused by the default of the reporter in preparing a transcript, does not authorize the submission of a bill after the expiration of the time fixed by law. Horbach v. City of Omaha, 49 Neb. 851 (69 N. W. 121); (1897) Mathews v. Mulford, 53 Neb. 252 (73 N. W. 661).

999. (1897.) The official reporter's default in preparing a transcript of the testimony does not authorize the submission of the bill after expiration of the time fixed by law and the order of the court. Mathews v. Mulford, 53 Neb. 252 (73 N. W. 661).

1000. (1898.) If there be no motion for a new trial, as in equity cases, the bill must be served within fifteen days from the final adjournment of the term at which judgment is rendered. State, ex rel. Morton, v. Dickinson, 56 Neb. 251 (76 N. W. 543).

1001. (1898.) Where no order is made extending the time, a bill of exceptions, including the evidence given on the trial of a case, must be served within fifteen days from the final adjournment of the term at which the motion for a new trial is ruled on. State, ex rel. Morton, v. Dickinson, 56 Neb. 251 (76 N. W. 543).

1002. (1900.) Where no order is made fixing a time for preparing a bill of exceptions including the evidence adduced on the hearing of a motion to set aside a default and vacate a decree, such bill must be served within fifteen days from the final adjournment of the term at which the motion was determined. State, ex rel. First Nat. Bank of Plattsmouth, v. Ramsey, 60 Neb. 191 (82 N. W. 625).

——— Presumption as to time.

1003. (1885.) Where the transcript shows that a bill of exceptions was taken during the trial of an action of forcible entry and detainer, it will be presumed to have been prepared at that time, although not signed till a few days afterwards. Smith v. Kaiser, 17 Neb. 184 (22 N. W. 368).

——— Extension of time.

1004. (1879.) The statute allows a party excepting, fifteen days from the rising of the court, in which to prepare and submit to the adverse party a bill of exceptions. If longer time is desired, the court may extend the time not exceeding forty days from the rising of the court. First Nat. Bank of Omaha v. Bartlett, 8 Neb. 319; (1880) Jefferson County v. Saxon, 10 Neb. 14 (4 N. W. 309).

1005. (1886.) Where an order of the district court extended the time forty days from the adjournment of the court in which to "present" a bill of exceptions, Held, To mean the time within which to prepare the bill and present the same to the adverse party or his attorney. Morehead v. Adams, 18 Neb. 569 (26 N. W. 242).

1006. (1888.) When a judge decides upon the evidence before him that the party seeking a bill of exceptions has made a "due showing of diligence" in the preparation of the bill, and therefore extends the time in which to prepare the same, the supreme court will not review the evidence on which such extension was granted for the purpose of determining whether the showing was sufficient. Greenwood v. Cobbey, 24 Neb. 648 (39 N. W. 833).

Digitized by Google

1007. (1888.) Where time to prepare bill is extended, it is not necessary to preserve the evidence on which such extension was granted; nor is such order subject to review. Greenwood v. Cobbey, 24 Neb. 648 (39 N. W. 833).

1008. (1891.) Where, after a verdict has been returned in the district court, the judge of another district who tried the cause ceased to preside and returns to his own district, before the motion for a new trial is heard and determined, the motion may be passed upon by the court where the case is pending where the judge of that district is sitting, and the court has authority to allow not exceeding forty days from the adjournment of the term to prepare and serve the bill of exceptions. State, ex rel. Downing, v. Gaslin, 32 Neb. 291 (49 N. W. 353).

1009. (1891.) Where a district court has given a party forty days from the adjournment of a term to reduce his exceptions to writing, the judge has authority to extend the time in which to prepare and serve a bill of exceptions, for a period not exceeding forty days additional, when it appears that the party seeking the bill has used due diligence. Such power exists, notwithstanding the period first allowed expired before the application for an extension of time was made. McDonald v. McAllister, 32 Neb. 514 (49 N. W. 377).

1010. (1891.) Notice of application for additional time to prepare and serve a bill of exceptions is not essential. McDonald v. McAllister, 32 Neb. 514 (49 N. W. 377); (1893) First Nat. Bank of Denver v. Lowrey, 36 Neb. 290 (54 N. W. 568); (1899) Hunter v. Union Life Ins. Co., 58 Neb. 198 (78 N. W. 516).

1011. (1891.) Where the orders extending the time in which to prepare a bill of exceptions do not exceed eighty days from the adjournment of the court sine die, this court will not review the action of the judge in extending the time. Payne v. Jones, 33 Neb. 260 (50 N. W. 8).

1012. (1891.) The code authorizes the court to grant forty days from the final adjournment of the court in which to prepare a bill of exceptions. If this time is insufficient, the court, or a judge thereof, may extend the time in which to prepare such bill an additional forty days. If the judge before whom the cause was tried is absent from his district, another judge of the same district where there are two or more, may make an order extending the time. Payne v. Jones, 33 Neb. 260 (50 N. W. 8)

1013. (1892.) The district judge, by overruling a motion to correct the record to make it show that the time to prepare a bill of exceptions had been extended forty days, in effect held that no such order had been made, and the signing of a bill by him within the time named was without authority. Gray v. Elbling, 35 Neb. 278 (53 N. W. 68).

1014. (1893.) On the granting of an order extending the time for preparing and serving a bill of exceptions, the proper practice is to file the same with the clerk of the district court. First Nat. Bank of Denver v. Lowrey, 36 Neb. 290 (54 N. W. 568).

1015. (1895.) A motion for the extension of time to prepare and serve a bill of exceptions may be overruled where the applicant has not been diligent. Stein v. Vannice, 44 Neb. 132 (62 N. W. 464).

1016. (1896.) An application for additional extension of time to prepare a bill of exceptions should be addressed to the judge to whose ruling exceptions was taken, such extension by another judge being ineffective. Hanscom v. Lantry, 48 Neb. 665 (67 N. W. 762).

1017. (1896) An inability to submit the bill to the adverse party or his attorney, on account of absence of the latter, the party proposing the bill having been diligent, would undoubtedly be good cause for extending the time, and the rights of both parties would thereby be saved. Lancaster County Bank v. Gillilan, 49 Neb. 165 (68 N. W. 352).

1018. (1896.) Section 311 of the code of civil procedure fixes and limits the time within which proposed bills of exceptions may be submitted to the adverse party. In the absence of any order, the party excepting has for this purpose fifteen days from the adjournment sine die of the term at which judgment is rendered or at which a motion for a new trial is ruled on. The court may in its discretion allow additional time, not exceeding forty days from such adjournment. Upon due showing of diligence, and not otherwise, the judge who tried the cause may further extend the time, but not beyond forty days additional. Horbach v. City of Omaha, 49 Neb. 851 (69 N. W. 121)

Digitized by Google

1019. (1904.) The trial court has no authority to extend the time for preparing and serving a bill of exceptions more than 80 days from the adjournment of the term at which the cause was tried, motion for new trial overruled and judgment entered. A bill allowed in violation of this provision of the statute will be quashed upon motion duly made in the supreme court. Stock v. Luebben, 72 Neb. 254 (100 N. W. 307).

1020. (1904.) Where an ex parte order extending the time for the presentation of a bill of exceptions has been found upon a hearing to have been wrongfully and fraudulently obtained, a district judge may set the order aside, and refuse to settle and allow the bill because not presented within the statutory time. In such case he will not be compelled by mandamus to settle and allow the bill. State, ex rel. Pritschan, v. Sornborger, 72 Neb. 615 (101 N. W. 241),

——Effect of delay.

1021. (1871.) If the bill of exceptions be not reduced to writing and tendering during the term at which the trial is had, it will be disregarded. Monroe v. Elburt, 1 Neb. 174.

1022. (1884.) When a proposed bill of exceptions is not served upon the adverse party within forty days after the adjournment of the district court—that being the time allowed for such service—the judge of the district court has no authority to sign and allow such bill over the protest of the party against whom the bill is sought to be used, and such bill of exceptions will, on motion, be stricken from the files of the supreme court. Birdsall, Son & Co. v. Carter, 16 Neb. 422 (20 N. W. 287).

1023. (1889.) The decision of the district court was made March 9, 1889, the motion for a new trial being overruled on the same day. Court adjourned sine die on the 16th day of the same month without granting an extension of time within which to prepare and serve a bill of exceptions. On the 18th day of April, and more than fifteen days after the final adjournment of court, the bill of exceptions was served upon defendant in error, who refused to acknowledge service on account of the expiration of time. On the 22d day of May plaintiff in error notified defendant in error to appear forthwith before the judge of the district court before whom the case was tried and show cause against the allowance of the bill. On that day the judge refused "to correct the record" so as to make it appear that the additional time was granted, but signed the bill, giving as a reason therefor that the attorney for plaintiff in error was laboring under the wrong impression that an extension had been granted. It was held that the judge had no authority to sign the bill, and upon the motion of plaintiff in error the exceptions were quashed. Greenwood v. Craig, 27 Neb. 669 (43 N. W. 427).

1024. (1897.) A party seeking a bill of exceptions presented his proposed bill to the adverse party or his attorney for amendment subsequent to the expiration of the time fixed by law and the order of the trial judge, and objection to the allowance of the bill, on that ground, was distinctly made to the trial judge before the same was settled and allowed, which objection was renewed at the earliest opportunity in the appellate court, and prior to the briefing of the cause on the merits. Held, That the bill should be quashed. Horbach v. City of Omaha, 49 Neb 851, followed. Trumble v. Trumble, 50 Neb. 332 (69 N. W. 968).

Notice of presentment for allowance.

1025. (1893.) Where no amendments are proposed to a bill of exceptions, no notice of the presentation of the bill to the judge for allowance is required to be served on the adverse party. First Nat. Bank of Denver v. Lowrey, 36 Neb. 290 (54 N. W. 568); (1899) Hunter v. Union Life Ins. Co., 58 Neb. 198 (78 N. W. 516).

Stipulations as to allowance or settlement.

1026. (1878.) A stipulation of the attorneys in the cause, stating that the record is a correct transcript of the proceedings, may be sufficient to justify the judge in the court below in signing the bill as presented, but forms no basis for the supreme court to consider the matters embodied in the bill of exceptions. Credit Foncier of America v. Rogers, 8 Neb. 34.

1027. (1890.) A stipulation of the attorneys in a cause stating that the record is a correct transcript of the proceedings, or that the files annexed are the original files, and that the transcript may be accepted as the bill of exceptions, may be sufficient to justify the judge in the court below in signing the same as a bill of exceptions, but forms no sufficient basis for the supreme court to consider the same as a bill of exceptions, without having been settled and signed as such. (See Credit Foncier v. Rogers, 8 Neb. 34.) McCarn v. Cooley, 30 Neb. 552 (46 N. W. 715).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

1028. (1897.) A stipulation, "It is hereby agreed that the clerk of the district court sign this bill of exceptions, instead of the judge who presided at the trial of this case," held sufficient to authorize the clerk to sign and settle the bill. Behrends v. Beyschlag, 50 Neb. 304 (69 N. W. 835).

1029. (1901.) Where a proposed bill of exceptions is submitted to opposing attorneys for examination and suggestions of amendments, who, after examination, return the bills indorsed thereon "we consent this bill of exceptions to be allowed and signed," and afterwards enter into a stipulation that the clerk of the district court may settle and and allow the bill of exceptions in the case, in which stipulation it is agreed that no amendments will be suggested by the parties, seeking to have the proposed bill allowed, held, that the two stipulations, when construed together, are equivalent to an agreement that the bill of exceptions proposed was true and correct, and that the clerk was authorized to sign and allow the same under the provisions of section 311 of the code of civil procedure. Williams v. Miles, 62 Neb. 566 (87 N. W. 315).

Settlement.

1030. (1881.) The judge should not erase his name after bill of exceptions is filed. Deck v. Smith, 12 Neb. 205 (10 N. W. 705).

1031. (1883.) A bill of exceptions, though agreed to by the attorneys of both parties by stipulation, unless settled and signed by the judge or clerk, will be quashel on motion. McCathron v. McCathron, 15 Neb. 144 (17 N. W. 265).

1032. (1889.) A paper in the semblance of a bill of exceptions, but which has not been allowed and certified by the judge who tried the cause in the court below, nor by the clerk of such court, under the circumstances, or in the manner provided by statute, filed with the record in the supreme court will be stricken out on motion. Holloway v. Schooley, 27 Neb. 553 (43 N. W. 346).

1033. (1891.) A bill of exceptions must be authenticated in some of the modes provided by law to authorize a reviewing court to act upon it. Jewett v. Osborne, 33 Neb. 24 (49 N. W. 774).

1034. (1891.) Excuses for the failure of the judge, before whom a cause was tried, to sign a bill of exceptions which is not signed, cannot be considered as a reason for sustaining the bill. Jewett v. Osborne, 33 Neb. 24 (49 N. W. 774).

1035. (1894.) There is no authority of law for the settlement of a bill of exceptions embodying the evidence taken on the hearing of proceedings by supervisions to remove a county officer. Hopkins v. Scott, 38 Neb. 661 (57 N. W. 391).

1036. (1899.) The settlement and allowance are of the bill as a whole, inclusive of the statements of the heading and the body relative to what it contains; and where, from an inspection of the entire bill, it is obvious that the word "testimony" was used with reference to the evidence, and as synonymous with "evidence," it may be accorded such extended signification. Woolworth v. Parker, 57 Neb. 417 (77 N. W. 1090).

——— Loss of signature.

1037. (1890.) Where the signature to the bill of the trial judge is shown to have been lost, a copy of the same attached to the bill is sufficient. Warren v. Brown, 31 Neb. 8 (47 N. W. 633).

Authority to settle—Referee.

1038. (1881.) A referee has authority to sign a bill of exceptions which may contain all the evidence taken by him. Turner v. Turner, 12 Neb. 161 (10 N. W. 545).

1039. (1881.) A bill of exceptions of a cause before a referee is not to be signed by the judge but by the referee, and is not subject to the provisions of section 311 of the code for settling bills of exceptions. Turner v. Turner, 12 Neb. 161 (10 N. W. 545); (1890) State, ex rel. Dunterman, v. Gaslin, 30 Neb. 651 (46 N. W. 917); (1892) Whalen v. Brennan, 34 Neb. 129 (51 N. W. 759); (1892) Carlson v. Beckman, 35 Neb. 392 (53 N. W. 203).

1040. (1897.) In the course of a trial before a referee only the referee has the power to certify as to exceptions; and a bill of exceptions embodying only such matters, if settled and signed by the clerk of the district court alone, is entirely nugatory. Disbrow v. McNish, 52 Neb. 309 (72 N. W. 216).

Digitized by Google

——Chairman of county board.

1041. (1902.) A bill of exceptions of the evidence offered in a proceeding before the board of county commissioners must be signed, settled, and allowed by the chairman of such board. Union Stock Yards Nat. Bank v. Thurston County, 65 Neb. 408 (91 N. W. 286).

www.libtool.com.cn

——Judge of district court.

1042. (1894.) The judge of the district court, who passes upon a preliminary motion in a case, may properly settle a bill of exceptions preserving the evidence introduced upon the hearing of such motion, notwithstanding another judge presided at the trial of the case upon the merits. Schields v. Horbach, 40 Neb. 103 (58 N. W. 720).

——Trial judge whose term has expired.

1043. (1884.) "The judge who heard or tried a case" in the district court has authority to settle and allow a bill of exceptions in a case tried before him after the expiration of his term of office. State, ex rel. Cressman, v. Barnes, 16 Neb. 37; (19 N. W. 701); (1891) Quick v. Sachsse, 31 Neb. 312 (47 N. W. 935); (1896) Hanscom v. Lantry, 48 Neb. 665 (67 N. W. 762.)

——Clerk of court.

1044. (1877.) Under the provision of the act to amend sections 308 and 311 of the code (laws 1877, p. 12) the clerk of the court can settle and sign a bill of exceptions only in case of the death of the judge, and not in case of his resignation. Schaffroneck v. Martin, 9 Neb. 38 (2 N. W. 343).

1045. (1894.) A clerk of the district court has no authority to sign and allow a bill of exceptions under conditions other than those specified in section 311 of the code. Scott v. Spencer, 42 Neb. 632 (60 N. W. 892); (1895) Glass v. Zutavern, 43 Neb. 334 (61 N. W. 579; 47 Am. St. Rep. 763).

1046. (1894.) In order to authorize the clerk of the district court to settle a bill of exceptions it must appear that the conditions exist where under section 311 of the code of civil procedure permits the clerk to exercise such authority. Therefore, although the parties may have agreed in advance of the preparation of the bill that the clerk might settle the same, he is not authorized to do so when the proposed bill, instead of being agreed upon, is returned with proposed amendments and those are not complied with. Guthrie v. Brown, 42 Neb. 652 (60 N. W. 939).

1047. (1895.) In order to confer upon a clerk authority to sign a bill of exceptions it must appear that the judge is dead or prevented by sickness or absence from signing and allowing the bill, or the parties or their counsel must agree upon the bill and attach their written stipulation. Nelson v. Johnson, 44 Neb. 7 (62 N. W. 244).

1048. (1895.) In this case there are presented only questions of fact which cannot be examined upon what purports to be a bill of exceptions signed by the clerk of the district court wherein judgment was rendered, for the reason that there was no showing of the sickness or absence of the presiding judge from his district, and because the parties litigant did not agree upon such bill. Following Scott v. Spencer, 42 Neb. 632 (60 N. W. 892). Griggs v. Harmon, 45 Neb. 21 (63 N. W. 125).

1049. (1895.) Questions of fact will not be considered where the bill of exceptions was settled without authority by the clerk of the district court Mattis v. Connolly, 45 Neb. 628 (63 N. W. 918).

1050. (1896.) The clerk of the district court is clothed with the power to sign and allow a bill of exceptions, when it is made to appear by affidavit that the trial judge is absent from his district. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Hyatt, 48 Neb. 161 (67 N. W. 8).

1051. (1897.) The statute by which the clerk of the district court is allowed to settle and sign a bill of exceptions, instead of the judge who heard or tried the cause must be strictly construed, and the methods prescribed by statute, if any, for making the facts on which the clerk's authority to settle and sign a bill of exceptions apparent of record, should be followed; and where the statute requires a showing of the facts to be by affidavit, a statement by the clerk, in the certificate, that he has personal knowledge of the facts, will not be sufficient to take the place of the required affidavit. Scott v. Overall, 50 Neb. 144 (69 N. W. 777). [See Williams v. Miles, 62 Neb. 566.]

1052. (1898.) In cases where the clerk of the district court is authorized to settle bills of exceptions, the act may be performed by a deputy, it not being shown that the principal is absent. Brownell v. Fuller, 54 Neb. 586 (74 N. W. 1105).

——Stipulation authorizing clerk to settle.

1053. (1883.) By the seventh clause of section 311 of the code of civil procedure,

Digitized by Google

where the parties in an action agree upon a bill of exceptions by a written stipulation attached thereto, the clerk of the court is authorized to settle and allow it, independently of whether the judge is either disqualified or unable to do so. Great Western Mfg. Co. v. Hunter, 14 Neb. 452 (16 N. W. 474).

1054. (1894.) Settlement of a bill of exceptions by clerk upon stipulation must be agreed to by all the parties to the record or their attorneys and must be made within the time fixed by law or allowed by the court. Reynolds v. Dietz, 39 Neb. 180 (58 N. W. 89).

1055. (1894.) A clerk can settle a bill of exceptions upon agreement of parties only when the unanimous consent of all the parties interested is shown by a stipulation to that effect attached to the proposed bill of excepions, signed either by the parties themselves or their attorney of record in the case wherein the bill is proposed, or by an attorney or agent whose special authority to sign is affirmatively shown. Reynolds v. Dietz, 39 Neb. 180 (58 N. W. 89).

1056. (1894.) The mere stipulation of counsel in a case that the clerk of the court may sign and allow a bill of exceptions is not sufficient to confer authority upon him to do so. Scott v. Spencer, 42 Neb. 632 (60 N. W. 892); (1895) Yenney v. Central City Bank, 44 Neb. 402 (62 N. W. 872).

1057. (1895.) The mere stipulation of counsel in a case that the clerk of the court may sign and allow a bill of exceptions is not sufficient to confer authority upon him to do so. To confer authority upon the clerk of a district court to sign and allow a bill of exceptions it must appear that the judge is dead, or that he is prevented by sickness, or absence from his district, from signing and allowing the bill; or, the parties or their counsel must agree upon the bill of exceptions and attach thereto their written stipulation to that effect. Scott v. Spencer, 42 Neb. 632, followed. School District No. 49 v. Cooper, 44 Neb. 714 (62 N. W. 1084); (1895) Martin v. Fillmore County, 44 Neb. 719 (62 N. W. 863); (1895) Rice v. Winter, 45 Neb. 517 (63 N. W. 830).

1058. (1896.) A stipulation is sufficient to authorize the clerk to sign a bill of exceptions when, by its terms, it clearly shows that the particular bill of exceptions to which the stipulation is attached is agreed upon by the parties as a correct bill. Fire Ass'n of Philadelphia v. Ruby, 49 Neb. 584 (68 N. W. 939).

Time for allowance and settlement.

1059. (1876.) In vacation a judge has no authority to allow a bill of exceptions. And if the record disclose that it was so allowed, it will not be considered. Mewis v. Johnson Harvester Co., 5 Neb. 217. [Overruled. State v. Weaver, 11 Neb. 165.]

1060. (1894) A bill of exceptions to be settled by the clerk upon agreement of parties, must be acted upon by such clerk within the time fixed by statute, or within the time allowed by the court or judge for the settlement of such bill of exceptions. Reynolds v. Deitz, 39 Neb. 180 (58 N. W. 89).

1061. (1894.) Where amendments are proposed to a bill of exceptions, the draft of the bill, with the proposed amendments must be presented to the trial judge within ten days after the return of the same to the party seeking the allowance of the bill, upon five days' notice to the adverse party or his attorney of record of the time and place of such presentation. Schields v. Horbach, 40 Neb. 103 (58 N. W. 720). [Overruled. State v. Scott, 53 Neb. 571.]

——— Commencement of running of limitation.

1062. (1892.) When a cause is tried to the court without the intervention of a jury, at one term of the district court, and taken under advisement, and final decree rendered at a subsequent term of said court, the time for settling a bill of exceptions begins to run from the close of the term at which the decision was rendered. State, ex rel. Cochran, v. Hopewell, 35 Neb. 822 (53 N. W. 990).

1063. (1895.) By virtue of section 311 of the code of civil procedure and the order of the court, the plaintiff in error was required to present his proposed bill of exceptions to the trial judge for settlement within sixty days after the adjournment sine die of the term of court at which the motion for a new trial was overruled and judgment rendered. Conway v. Grimes, 46 Neb. 288 (64 N. W. 971).

1064. (1898.) Where forty days are given to prepare a bill of exceptions, the draft of the bill and proposed amendments are submitted to the trial judge in time if presented to him within sixty days after the final adjournment of the term at which the decision was rendered. State, ex rel. Medland, v. Scott, 53 Neb. 571 (74 N. W. 35).

Digitized by Google

1065. (1898.) Assuming, but not deciding, that the absence from the county of both trial judge and clerk during the period within which a proposed bill of exceptions should have been presented for settlement excused a failure to have it settled within that time, still the statutory time began to run, under that assumption, from the time of the judge's return, and he was not authorized to allow the bill when it was not presented for more than ten days after his return. Supreme Tent of the Knights of the Maccabees v. Kreig, 54 Neb. 588 (74 N. W. 1104).

1066. (1898.) The motion for a new trial mentioned in section 311 of the code of civil procedure, as amended in 1895, does not necessarily mean the motion immediately preceding the judgment. It means in every case the motion following the particular trial, the events of which it is sought to make authentic history. State, ex rel. Morton, v. Dickinson, 56 Neb. 251 (76 N. W. 543).

1067. (1899.) The time for settling a bill of exceptions containing the evidence on a hearing of an application for an interlocutory order, begins to run from the final adjournment of the term at which the order complained of is made. State, ex rel. Kendall, v. Dickinson, 58 Neb. 56 (78 N. W. 382).

——Excuses for delay.

1068. (1878.) When a bill of exceptions is properly presented to a judge for his signature within sixty days from the rising of the court, it is no cause for dismissing an action that the bill was signed after the expiration of sixty days from that time. Leighton & Brown v. Stuart, 8 Neb. 96.

1069. (1881.) Where the adverse party permits the bill of exception to lie in his office and makes no amendments, thus preventing its being filed within the proper time he cannot seek to have the same quashed for being filed out of time. Deck v. Smith, 12 Neb. 205 (10 N. W. 705).

1070. (1886.) Where a bill of exceptions with certain proposed amendments of the averse party was submitted to a judge for his signature, and held by him in an apparent effort to have the attorneys agree upon certain points, and was signed after more than six months had elapsed from the entering of the decree, the party was not thereby deprived of the right of appeal. Parker v. Kuhn, 19 Neb. 394 (27 N. W. 399).

1071. (1887.) The law relating to the time in which bills of exception are to be prepared is to be liberally construed, and where a court reporter is unable to prepare the bill within eighty days from the adjournment of the court sine die the fault not being that of the plaintiff in error, the bill should be signed and made a part of the record. Richards v. State, 22 Neb. 145 (34 N. W. 346). [Overruled. 49 Neb. 851; 53 Neb. 253; 1 Unof. 805]; (1891) State, ex rel. Downing, v. Gaslin, 32 Neb. 291 (49 N. W. 353).

1072. (1890.) A bill of exceptions was duly presented to the judge before whom the case was tried, and as no objections or amendments were offered thereto, and he was about to hold court in the county where the case had been tried, he carried the bill with him, and on arriving at the court room signed the same and left it on the lawyers' table therein, one end of which seemed to be occupied with papers and records. One of the appellant's attorneys coming into court, the judge stated to him that he had signed the bill and left it on the table. The attorney, however made oath that he did not understand the judge and did not know that the bill had been signed and returned. The bill was removed by some one and placed among the clerk's papers and was covered up and found months afterwards by him, after diligent search. On a motion being filed to dismiss the appeal because not taken in six months, held, that the time while the bill was thus mislaid would be deducted from the time intervening between the rendition of the judgment and the filing of the transcript in the supreme court. Allis v. Newman, 29 Neb. 207 (45 N. W. 621). [Overruled. Stull v. Cass County, 51 Neb. 760.]

1073. (1892.) Where a motion was made to quash the bill of exceptions because not presented to and signed by the judge within the time fixed by law, it appeared that the bill had been presented to one of the attorneys for the defendant in error within the time fixed by statute; that such attorney had retained the bill for a long time and that the delay in presenting the bill to the judge for his signature was caused by such attorney retaining the bill; held, that such default could not be assigned as a reason for quashing the bill and that the motion

Digitized by Google

would be overruled. Meyer & Raapke v. Fagan, 34 Neb. 184 (51 N. W. 753) 1074. (1898.) The fact that the defendant in error held the proposed bill longer than the law permitted did not excuse a subsequent default by the plaintiff in error. Supreme Tent of the Knights of the Maccabees v. Kreig, 54 Neb. 588 (74 N. W. 1104).

www.libool.com.cn

——— Presumption as to time.

1075. (1878.) When it does not appear at what time a bill of exceptions was presented to a judge for his signature, it will be presumed to have been presented within the period requird by the statute. Leighton & Brown v. Stuart, 8 Neb. 96.

1076. (1888.) A bill of exceptions will not be dismissed upon the ground that it was not presented to trial judge for his settlement and allowance within ten days from its return to the party seeking allowance of bill by opposite party, unless it shall appear that bill was not presented to such judge within fifteen days, or such additional time, not exceeding forty days from the adjournment of the court sine die, as might have been allowed by the court, and twenty days additional, making, in a case of full extension of the time allowed for the completion of the bill, sixty days in all. Sherwin v. O'Connor, 23 Neb. 221 (36 N. W. 491).

1077. (1890.) Where there is nothing in the record to show when the trial court adjourned, bill will be presumed to have been presented in time. Warren v. Brown, 31 Neb. 8 (47 N. W. 633).

——— Effect of delay.

1078. (1895.) A motion to quash the bill of exceptions because not presented to the trial judge for settlement within the time required by law should be sustained. Conway v. Grimes, 46 Neb. 288 (64 N. W. 971).

Compelling allowance or settlement.

1079. (1885.) Mandamus will lie to compel a judge to sign a bill of exceptions after he is out of office. State v. Guthrie, 17 Neb. 113 (22 N. W. 77).

1080. (1891.) If a judge refuses to settle and sign a bill of exceptions duly presented to him for that purpose, the court, in a proper case, will compel action on his part, and endeavor, as far as possible, to save the rights of the parties. Jewett v. Osborne, 33 Neb. 24 (49 N. W. 774).

1081. (1899.) A litigant has an absolute legal right to the allowance of a bill of exceptions embracing all the evidence considered on the hearing of an application for an interlocutory order. This right in a proper case, may be enforced by mandamus. State, ex rel. Kendall, v. Dickinson, 58 Neb. 56 (78 N. W. 382).

Consideration of quashed or defective bill.

1082. (1881.) Where a motion for a new trial is decided at a term subsequent to that at which it is made, and one of the grounds assigned therein is that the verdict is not sustained by the evidence, a bill of exceptions, containing all the testimony, signed at the term at which the motion is overruled, will be considered for the purpose of determining that question. Scott v. Waldeck, 11 Neb. 525 (10 N. W. 409). [Overruled. 42 Neb. 272; 46 Neb. 861; 47 Neb. 235.]

1083. (1890.) A bill of exceptions when signed by trial judge long after time fixed by law, will be considered by supreme court solely to determine sufficiency of evidence; alleged errors at trial will not be reviewed. City of Seward v. Klenck, 30 Neb. 775 (47 N. W. 85).

1084. (1894.) After a bill of exceptions has been quashed, it can be considered for no other purpose in the case in which it was originally filed. Jones v. Wolfe, 42 Neb. 272 (60 N. W. 563); (1895) Conway v. Grimes, 46 Neb. 288 (64 N. W. 971); (1896) City Nat. Bank of Hastings v. Thomas, 46 Neb. 861 (65 N. W. 895); (1896) Reed v. Rice, 48 Neb. 586 (67 N. W. 459).

1085. (1896.) Eleven months after overruling a motion for a new trial the court, on motion, entered judgment nunc pro tunc on the verdict. The motion was resisted and a bill of exceptions settled. The judge certified that the bill of exceptions consisted of fourteen pages, numbered from one to fourteen, both inclusive. He did not certify that it contained any of the evidence used on hearing of the motion. From the bill of exceptions brought here the first eight pages were missing. Held, (1) That such bill of exceptions would not be considered for any purpose; (2) that the supreme court would presume that the district court, on the hearing of said motion, had before it evidence showing that a judgment had in fact been rendered or ordered at the time the motion for a new trial was overruled. Van Etten v. Test, 49 Neb. 725 (68 N. W. 1023).

1086. (1899.) Where a bill of exceptions has been quashed the evidence cannot be considered by the supreme court. Johnson v. Klein, 58 Neb. 243 (78 N. W. 514).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

D. Abstracts of Record.

Contents.

1087. (1886.) The abstract of causes in the supreme court, provided for by the act of 1885, is to take the place of a bill of exceptions and should contain all that is required by such a bill. The court will not look beyond the abstract. Ballard v. Cheney, 19 Neb. 58 (26 N. W. 587).

1088. (1886.) The abstracts of cases in the supreme court, under the act of 1885, should set forth so much of the case as is necessary to a full understanding of all questions presented for decision, and is to take the place of the transcript and bill of exceptions. Alexander v. Irwin, 20 Neb. 204 (29 N. W. 385). (See 19 Neb. 58.)

1089. (1899.) Where a cause brought to this court on error is submitted under section 1 of rule 2, the printed abstract must include the petition in error, or an abstract of the assignments of error therein contained, and a failure in that regard will work an affirmance of the judgment. O'Neill v. Flood, 58 Neb. 218 (78 N. W. 497); (1899) Manning v. Freeman, 58 Neb. 485 (78 N. W. 924); (1900) Renard v. Wyckoff, 61 Neb. 19 (84 N. W. 410).

Effect as limitation of record.

1090. (1897.) In a case submitted on an agreed printed abstract under rule 2, the court will not look beyond the abstract, and unless error affirmatively appears therefrom the judgment below will be affirmed. Closson v. Rohman, 50 Neb. 323 (69 N. W. 760); (1897) Home Fire Ins. Co. v. Skoumal, 51 Neb. 655 (71 N. W. 290); (1897) Wheeler v. Barker, 51 Neb. 846 (71 N. W. 750); (1897) Zink v. Westervelt, 52 Neb. 90 (71 N. W. 960; (1899) O'Neill v. Flood, 58 Neb. 218 (78 N. W. 497); (1899) Manning v. Freeman, 58 Neb. 485 (78 N. W. 924); (1900) Renard v. Wyckoff, 61 Neb. 19 (84 N. W. 410).

1091. (1897.) In a case submitted on an abstract the court will not examine the transcript. North Platte Water-Works Co. v. City of North Platte, 50 Neb. 853 (70 N. W. 393).

1092. (1897.) In a case submitted on an agreed printed abstract under rule 2, the court will not look beyond the abstract, and if it appears from that abstract that evidence was introduced, the nature of which is not disclosed, it will be presumed to have been of such a character as to sustain the finding of the district court. Shewell v. City of Nebraska City, 52 Neb. 138 (71 N. W. 952).

1093. (1898.) Under section 1 of rule 2 of the supreme court (52 Neb. ix.) the agreed printed abstract must be complete in itself, without reference to the transcript, and, when error does not affirmatively appear from an examination of such abstract, the judgment sought to be reviewed will be affirmed. Grand Lodge A. O. U. W. v. Higgins, 55 Neb. 741 (76 N. W. 438).

E. Making, Form and Requisites of Transcript.

Necessity.

Dismissal for failure to file transcript, see post, §§ 1436-1444.

1094. (1894.) In order to effect an appeal to the supreme court from a judgment of the district court it is necessary to file with the clerk of the supreme court, within six months from the rendition of the judgment, a transcript of the proceedings, authenticated by the certificate of the clerk of the district court. Such requirement is jurisdictional and cannot be waived by the parties, and the filing of the original pleadings in the district court does not take the place of such certified transcript. Moore v. Waterman, 40 Neb. 498 (58 N. W. 940).

1095. (1897.) In absence of a transcript of the proceedings below, assignments of error may be overruled and the judgment affirmed. Smith v. People's Building, Loan & Savings Ass'n, 52 Neb. 445 (72 N. W. 486).

1096. (1901.) In order to supersede a judgment under sections 588 and 590, code of civil procedure, a transcript as well as a petition in error must be filed in the supreme court. Morton v. Western Seed & Irrigation Co., 2 Unof. 131 (96 N. W. 183).

——— By cross-appellant.

1097. (1892.) A transcript for the supreme court filed in time is available to both parties, and may be used by a cross-appellant, though he has not served notice of appeal, and though appellant has voluntarily dismissed his proceeding. Shickle H. & H. Iron Co. v. Kent, 34 Neb. 568 (52 N. W. 286).

1098. (1898.) One party having perfected an appeal by filing a transcript in this court, the other may maintain a cross-appeal on the same transcript. It is unnecessary for him to file a duplicate. McDonald v. Buckstaff, 56 Neb. 88 (76 N. W. 476).

Digitized by Google

Nature and form.

1099. (1872.) The form of transcripts to be filed in this court prescribed. Nuckolls v. Irwin, 2 Neb. 60.

www.libtool.com.cn

1100. (1902.) Requirements as to signing complete record are directory, and not essential to validity of court's action. Colony v. Billingsley, 2 Unof. 670 (89 N. W. 744).

1101. (1902.) In equitable actions this court acquires jurisdiction, on appeal, by the filing of a duly certified transcript within the statutory time; and when duly certified transcripts of the record in two or more cases are included under one cover, and filed in due time, jurisdiction attaches over each case. Hall v. Moore, 3 Unof. 574 (92 N. W. 294).

Contents.

1102. (1880.) In order to bring a case to the supreme court by appeal, the appellant must within six months from the date of the rendition of the judgment, file a transcript, containing the pleadings, the judgment or decree, and all the testimony and proofs offered in evidence on the hearing. Jefferson County v. Saxon, 10 Neb. 14 (4 N. W. 309). [Modified. Schuyler v. Hanna, 28 Neb. 601 (44 N. W. 731; 11 L. R. A. 32).]

1103. (1890.) In order to bring a cause into this court by appeal, the appellant must, within six months from the date of the rendition of the judgment, or decree, or making of the final order appealed from, file with the clerk of this court a certified transcript of the proceedings had in the cause in the court below. It is not essential to jurisdiction that such transcript should contain the depositions, testimony, or proofs offered in evidence in the lower court. Schuyler v. Hanna, 28 Neb. 601 (44 N. W. 731; 11 L. R. A. 321).

Substitutes.

1104. (1891.) Where a copy of an instruction is filed with a record in the supreme court, with a certificate of the clerk of the district court that the original is lost, and an undisputed affidavit that the copy is correct, it will not be eliminated from the files. Hitchcock v. Shager, 32 Neb. 477 (49 N. W. 374).

1105. (1903.) Upon petition in error to the supreme court, the proceedings of the district court can be shown only by a transcript of the records of that court duly certified. Affidavits can not be used to supply omissions in such transcript. Crancer & Curtice Co. v. McKinley Music Co., 69 Neb. 700 (96 N. W. 617).

——— Original papers.

1106. (1894.) The filing of the original pleadings in the district court does not take the place of the certified transcript. Moore v. Waterman, 40 Neb. 498 (58 N. W. 940); (1895) School District 49 v. Cooper, 44 Neb. 714 (62 N. W. 1084).

1107. (1895.) In section 586 of the code, relating to transcripts for review, the word "proceedings" includes duly certified copies of the pleadings on which an action was tried. School District 49 v. Cooper, 44 Neb. 714 (62 N. W. 1084).

1108. (1897.) The requirement that there shall be a transcript of the proceedings of the district court filed in the supreme court is not complied with by filing the original pleadings with a certified transcript of the record showing the entry of a judgment; and under such circumstances the judgment sought to be reversed, when found from the transcript to have been within the jurisdiction of district court, will be affirmed. Peck v. Nebraska Loan & Trust Co., 50 Neb. 227 (69 N. W. 777); (1897) Smith v. Beagle, 50 Neb. 445 (69 N. W. 936); (1905) Smith v. Delane, 74 Neb. 594 (104 N. W. 1054).

1109. (1898.) The words, "A transcript of the proceedings," as employed in section 586 of the code of civil procedure to designate what shall be filed with a petition in error, include within their meaning duly certified copies of the original papers and pleadings in the trial court, which it is sought to present to the attention of the appellate court. The filing of the original papers and pleadings is not contemplated, and will not fulfill the requirements of the statute. Royal Trust Co. v. Exchange Bank, 55 Neb. 663 (76 N. W. 425).

1110. (1902.) The original files and papers are not a transcript within the meaning of section 586, code of civil procedure, and can not take the place thereof nor supply defects therein. Brabham v. Custer County, 3 Unof. 801 (92 N. W. 989).

Effect of failure to make proper transcript.

1111. (1897.) A party or his attorney is justified in relying upon the stenographic reporter for a copy of the testimony. Holland v. Chicago, B & Q. R. Co., 52 Neb. 100 (71 N. W. 989).

1112. (1890.) Filing of transcript of pleadings and decree in lower court is sufficient to confer jurisdiction upon the supreme court, and having jurisdiction for one purpose, it exists for all others. Schuyler v.

Digitized by Google

Hanna, 28 Neb. 601 (44 N. W. 731; 11 L. R. A. 321).

F. Authentication and Certification.

Dismissal of petition in error for failure to authenticate transcript, see post, §§ 1436-1444.

Authentication by clerk.

1113. (1882.) A bill of exceptions must be authenticated as provided by law. Edwards v. Kearney, 13 Neb. 502 (14 N. W. 536).

1114. (1885.) A bill of exceptions not certified by the clerk of the trial court as being a part of the record in the said court, nor as being the original bill of exceptions in such case, and which appears never to have been filed by or presented for filing to the clerk of such court, will be quashed on motion. Flynn v. Jordan, 17 Neb. 518 (23 N. W. 519).

1115. (1885.) Where the original bill of exceptions in a cause tried in the district court is intended to be used in the supreme court, the clerk of the district court must attach his certificate to the same that it is the original bill. Hogan v. O'Neil, 17 Neb. 641 (24 N. W. 213); (1888) Yates v. Kinney, 23 Neb. 648 (37 N. W. 590).

1116. (1889.) Instructions given and refused cannot be considered unless certified in the transcript by the clerk of the district court. Chamberlain v. Brown, 25 Neb. 434 (41 N. W. 284).

1117. (1891.) There were five certificates of the clerk of the district court, four of them being dated August 5, 1889, and attached to separate stipulations in the district court; and one certificate dated August 24, 1889, to the record proper. Held, That the four certificates dated August 5, 1889, were entirely unnecessary and tended to cumber the record. Gibson v. Smith & Co., 31 Neb. 354 (47 N. W. 1052).

1118. (1894.) Where the transcript of a judgment is the only paper filed in the supreme court authenticated by the certificate of the clerk of the district court, and the judgment was one within the jurisdiction of the lower court, it will be affirmed. Moore v. Waterman, 40 Neb. 498 (58 N. W. 940).

1119. (1895.) A bill of exceptions will not be considered for any purpose unless properly authenticated. Nelson v Johnson, 44 Neb. 7 (62 N. W. 244); (1896) Felber v. Gooding, 47 Neb. 38 (66 N. W. 39); (1896) Derse v. Strause, 49 Neb. 665 (68 N. W. 1021); (1896) Spurck v. Dean, 49 Neb. 66 (68 N. W. 375); (1897) Costello v. Kottas, 52 Neb. 15 (71 N. W. 950); (1898) Coy v. Miller, 54 Neb. 499 (74 N. W. 958).

1120. (1896.) Where the bill of exceptions is not properly authenticated by the certificate of the clerk of the district court, as required by law, it need not be examined by the supreme court. Childerson v. Childerson, 47 Neb. 162 (66 N. W. 281); (1896) First Nat. Bank of Greenwood v. Cass County, 47 Neb. 172 (66 N. W. 300); (1896) Romberg v. Fokken, 47 Neb. 198 (66 N. W. 182); (1896) Union P. R. Co. v. Kinney, 47 Neb. 393 (66 N. W. 449); (1896) Andres v. Kridler, 47 Neb. 585 (66 N. W. 649); (1896) German Nat. Bank of Beatrice v. Terry, 48 Neb. 863 (67 N. W. 856); (1896) Royse v. State Nat. Bank of St. Joseph, 50 Neb. 16 (69 N. W. 301); (1897) Chicago Lumber Co. v. Benjamin, 50 Neb. 143 (69 N. W. 769); (1897) Behrends v. Beyschlag, 50 Neb. 304 (69 N. W. 835); (1897) Talcott v. Field, 50 Neb. 635 (70 N. W. 229); (1897) State, ex rel. Gray, v School District, 51 Neb. 236 (70 N. W. 948); (1897) Union P. R. Co. v. Thorne, 51 Neb. 472 (70 N. W. 1119). (1897) Hodgin v. Whitcomb, 51 Neb. 617 (71 N. W. 314); (1897) Hazelet v. Holt County, 51 Neb. 724 (71 N. W. 719); (1897) Gray v. Elbling, 51 Neb. 726 (71 N. W. 720); (1897) Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Ringo, 52 Neb. 163 (71 N. W. 1016); (1897) Hale v. Sheehan, 52 Neb. 184 (71 N. W. 1019); (1897) Kroeger v. Nieman, 52 Neb. 285 (72 N. W. 216); (1897) Brockman Commission Co. v. Sang, 52 Neb. 506 (72 N. W. 856); (1897) Winquest v. Schaefer, 52 Neb. 626 (72 N. W. 1058); (1898) Shaffer v. Vincent, 53 Neb. 449 (73 N. W. 932); (1898) Harris v. Barton, 53 Neb. 568 (74 N. W. 49); (1898) Henley v. Evans, 54 Neb. 187 (74 N. W. 578); (1898) Beatrice Savings Bank v. Beatrice Chautauqua, 54 Neb. 592 (74 N. W. 1065); (1898) Coad v. Barry, 57 Neb. 177 (77 N. W. 341); (1898) Gay v. Reynolds, 57 Neb. 194 (77 N. W. 661); (1899) Noble v. Neal, 57 Neb. 797 (78 N. W. 383); (1899) Murphey v. Illinois Trust & Savings Bank, 58 Neb. 428 (78 N. W. 714-715); (1901) Faust v. Deering, 63 Neb. 244 (88 N. W. 477); (1902) Palmer v. Mizner, 2 Unof. 903 (93 N. W. 1121); (1905) Miles v. State, 74 Neb. 684 (105 N. W. 301).

1121. (1896.) A paper purporting to be a motion for a new trial cannot be considered, unless certified to in the transcript by the clerk of the district court. Romberg v. Fokken, 47 Neb. 198 (66 N. W. 282); (1898)

Digitized by Google

Hake v. Woolner, 55 Neb. 471 (75 N. W. 1087).

1122. (1896.) Where there is no error sufficiently assigned in the petition in error to challenge the attention of the supreme court, except such as are claimed to have arisen upon the alleged giving or refusal to give instructions, an entire failure to authenticate these alleged instructions precludes the consideration of assignments of error with respect thereto. Burlington v. Baders, 47 Neb. 204 (66 N. W. 288).

1123. (1896.) A bill of exceptions in a cause tried in the district court must be filed with the clerk of that court, and if the original bill is to be used in the supreme court, it must be authenticated by the certificate of the clerk of the trial court. Wood Mowing & Reaping Machine Co. v. Gerhold, 47 Neb. 397 (66 N. W. 538).

1124. (1896.) A bill of exceptions will not be considered in the supreme court unless certified to be the original or a true copy. Sieberling & Co. v. Fletcher, 47 Neb. 847 (66 N. W. 839); (1897) Reuther v. Zimbleman, 50 Neb. 165 (69 N. W. 837); (1897) Groneweg v. Mathewson, 52 Neb. 591 (72 N. W. 844).

1125. (1896.) To authenticate a document attached to a transcript as the bill of exceptions settled in the case a certificate of the clerk, under the seal of the district court, identifying the document as the original, or a copy of the bill of exceptions, is essential. Merrill v. Equitable Farm & Stock Co., 49 Neb. 198 (68 N. W. 365).

1126. (1896.) A bill of exceptions must be certified by the clerk of the trial court as being a part of the record in said court, or as being the original bill of exceptions in the case, in order that the matters therein may be considered by the supreme court. Yankton, N. & S. W. R. Co. v. State, 49 Neb. 272 (68 N. W. 487).

1127. (1897). Where to an examination and settlement of questions argued to the supreme court, an inspection of the evidence contained in a bill of exceptions, is necessary, and such bill lacks the authentication of the clerk of the trial court, the points presented may be overruled. Chicago Lumber Co. v. Benjamin, 50 Neb. 143 (69 N. W. 769).

1128. (1897.) Where on appeal, the bill of exceptions is uncertified by the clerk, and the pleadings support the decree rendered, it will be affirmed. Berger v. Lincoln County, 50 Neb. 687 (70 N. W. 235, 248); (1901) Porter v. Detrick, 2 Unof. 29 (96 N. W. 271).

1129. (1897.) Where the judgment assailed has not been authenticated by the certificate of the clerk of the district court, the proceeding in the appellate court may be dismissed. First Nat. Bank of Pierce v. Noble, 52 Neb. 507 (72 N. W. 857).

1130. (1897.) To authenticate a document attached to a record as the original bill of exceptions or a copy thereof, a certificate of the clerk of the trial court to that effect is indispensable. Bryant v. Cunningham, 52 Neb. 717 (72 N. W. 1054).

1131. (1898.) A bill of exceptions, to be considered in reviewing the judgment of a district court, must be a part of the record of the case brought to the supreme court, and to make it such it must be settled as the bill of exceptions in the case under review in pursuance of the provisions of section 311, code of civil procedure. Murphy v. Warren & Co., 55 Neb. 220 (75 N. W. 575).

1132. (1903.) The supreme court will, on its own motion, refuse to consider a document appearing in the record and purporting to be a bill of exceptions but in no way authenticated as such by the certificate of the clerk of the lower court. Palmer v. Mizner, 70 Neb. 200 (97 N. W. 334).

1133. (1903.) A document accompanying a transcript will be disregarded unless authenticated by the certificate of the clerk of the district court. Village of Holstein v Klein, 4 Unof. 33 (93 N. W. 214).

1134. (1905.) A bill of exceptions will be quashed where it is not certified and identified in such manner that the supreme court may know that it is the identical bill allowed by the trial court, and the whole thereof. State v. Paxton, 75 Neb. 214 (106 N. W. 166).

1135. (1906.) A bill of exceptions must be filed with the clerk of the trial court, and if the original bill is to be used in the supreme court it must be authenticated by said clerk. A document attached to a transcript and purporting to be a bill of exceptions cannot be considered, unless it be authenticated as such by the certificate of the clerk. Duncan v. State, 75 Neb. 764 (106 N. W. 1014).

——— Sufficiency.

1136 (1880.) A mere certificate of the clerk of the district court that certain affidavits were used on the hearing in the court below is not such an authentication as is required by the statute. Aultman v. Howe, 10 Neb. 8 (4 N. W. 357).

Digitized by Google

1137. (1883.) A bill of exceptions in a cause tried in the district court must be filed in that court, and if the original bill is used in the supreme court, the clerk of the district court must attach his certificate to the same that it is the original bill. Aultman v. Patterson, 14 Neb. 57 (14 N. W. 804).

1138. (1883.) A transcript of a judgment of the district court, brought to the supreme court for review, certified by the clerk of the court under his official seal, is sufficiently authenticated without the signature of the judge. Polin v. State, 14 Neb. 540 (16 N. W. 898).

1139. (1895.) In order to authenticate a document attached to a record as the bill of exceptions settled in the district court there must be a certificate of the clerk to that effect. Yenney v. Central City Bank, 44 Neb. 402 (62 N. W. 872).

1140. (1895.) In order to authenticate a document attached to a record as the bill of exceptions settled in the district court there must be a certificate of the clerk of the court to that effect. Moore v Waterman, 40 Neb. 498, followed. Martin v. Fillmore County, 44 Neb. 719 (62 N. W. 863).

1141. (1898.) A certificate by the clerk of the district court merely stating that the original bill was filed in his office on a certain date is insufficient to identify a document contained in the transcript as being either such original bill or a copy. Shaffer v. Vincent, 53 Neb. 449 (73 N. W. 932).

1142. (1898.) Where there is expressly excepted from the certificate of a clerk of the district court authenticating a transcript the journal entry of that court on the motion for a new trial, such entry must be treated as though not appearing in the transcript. Geneva Nat. Bank v. Donovan, 53 Neb. 613 (74 N. W. 33).

1143. (1901.) Where the clerk's certificate to a transcript simply states that such transcript contains copies of certain enumerated papers and proceedings in the case, the transcript does not purport to be complete. Gooding v. Ransom, 63 Neb. 78 (88 N. W. 169).

1144. (1901.) Where a certificate of the clerk of the district court attached to the record certifies "that the above and foregoing is the original bill of exceptions, and also a true and perfect transcript of the record in the above-entitled cause, as the same is on file and of record in my office," it is a sufficient authentication. Vansyoc v. Freewater Cemetery Ass'n, 63 Neb. 143 (88 N. W. 162).

1145. (1903.) The certificate allowing a bill of exceptions should affirmatively show that the bill contains all the evidence given upon the trial; and, in the absence of such showing, the supreme court cannot review any finding of the trial court or jury where the sufficiency of the evidence to support such finding is questioned. Spence v. Lane, 70 Neb. 381 (97 N. W. 478).

1146. (1905.) The statute (587*a* of the code) provides that a bill of exceptions, where the original bill is used, shall be attached to the transcript of the record. Where the supreme court is presented with what purports to be a bill of exceptions contained in two separate and detached volumes, neither of which is certified by the clerk of the district court, and the contents of this volume show that there was other important and material evidence upon which the decision of the case must depend, and there is nothing in the clerk's certificate or in the record itself by which the supreme court can, with any certainty, determine whether the volume not certified or otherwise identified contains the omitted evidence, the bill will be quashed. State v. Paxton, 75 Neb. 214 (106 N. W. 166).

——— Alteration of certificate.

1147. (1895.) A transcript of the proceedings below may be stricken from the files and the appeal dismissed where it appears that the certificate of authentication has been materially altered with the intention of misleading the appellate court. Felber v. Boyd, 44 Neb. 700 (62 N. W. 1059).

——— Loss of authentication.

1148. (1897.) Where there is satisfactory evidence that there had been a proper authentication of a bill of exceptions attached thereto, which, by accident, had become detached and lost, such showing was neld sufficient secondary evidence to justify consideration of the bill of exceptions as such. Winters v. Means, 50 Neb. 209 (69 N. W. 753).

——— Stipulation as substitute.

1149. (1895.) A stipulation by the parties that a transcript for review contains all the proceedings below cannot be substituted for a certificate of the clerk of the district court. McDonald v. Grabow, 46 Neb. 406 (64 N. W. 1093).

Certificate as to contents by judge or referee.

1150. (1899.) In the absence of a stipulation waiving it, the certificate of the judge presiding at the trial as to what the testimony was is essential in its authentication for the supreme court. Hale v. Christy, 8 Neb. 264.

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

1151. (1888.) Where instructions were delivered orally and reduced to writing by the stenographic reporter and inserted in the bill of exceptions, but not certified by the judge, a motion to strike them out of a bill would be sustained. Yates v. Kinney, 23 Neb. 648 (37 N. W. 590); Brady v. Flint, 23 Neb. 785 (37 N. W. 647).

1152. (1894.) A bill of exceptions will not be considered in supreme court where the referee before whom the case was tried failed to certify that all the evidence adduced had been preserved. McClain v. Morse, 42 Neb. 52 (60 N. W. 334).

1153. (1899.) A bill of exceptions must be presented to the trial judge for settlement, and when settled it must be signed by him, and he must certify that it is allowed. Woolworth v. Parker, 57 Neb. 417 (77 N. W. 1090).

——— Sufficiency.

1154. (1881.) When objection is made that the finding of a referee is not supported by the evidence, his certificate to the bill of exceptions must show that the bill contains all the evidence. Turner v. Turner, 12 Neb. 161 (10 N. W. 545).

1155. (1877.) Where the presiding judge certifies only that the testimony set out in the bill of exceptions "is in substance all the evidence on the trial of this cause, and there was no other evidence material to the issue offered by either of the parties," the finding will not be interfered with. Faulkner v. Meyers, 6 Neb. 414.

1156. (1883.) The fact that the certificate of the judge does not show that the bill of exceptions contains all the testimony is not ground for quashing the bill. Cattle v. Haddox, 14 Neb. 59 (14 N. W. 803).

1157. (1883.) When the judge, in a bill of exceptions, certifies that the plaintiffs "introduced evidence tending to prove the allegations of the bill of particulars," this will be taken as showing, sufficiently for a proceeding in error, that there was evidence enough to submit to the jury, and to have warranted a finding in their favor upon the issues joined. Marsh v. Snyder, 14 Neb. 237 (15 N. W. 341).

1158. (1886.) Papers in a bill of exceptions marked by the initials of the judge, written by himself, will not be stricken out of the bill as not being identified. Morehead v. Adams, 18 Neb. 569 (26 N. W. 242).

1159. (1893.) Certificate of the trial judge attached to the bill in this case as follows "February 26, 1890. All evidence. True bill. Ordered part of record in this case," although informal, is sufficient. First Nat. Bank of Denver v. Lowrey, 36 Neb. 290 (54 N. W. 568).

1160. (1897.) A certificate "that the foregoing is all the evidence offered by either party on the trial of the cause" is not sufficient to embrace the voir dire examination of a juror, or the evidence adduced on the hearing of a challenge to the whole panel or array of jurors. Durfee v. State, 53 Neb. 214 (73 N. W. 676).

1161. (1898.) The use of the word "testimony" for "evidence" in the certificate of the trial judge in the allowance of a bill of exceptions, if the meaning is obvious, or it is clear that the latter is intended, will not render the document inoperative. Columbia Nat. Bank v. German Nat. Bank, 56 Neb. 803 (77 N. W. 346).

1162. (1899.) Where the certificate of the trial court attached to the record states "that the foregoing is a true and perfect transcript of the record in the above entitled cause, except the bill of exceptions, which original bill is thereto attached," it is a sufficient authentication of such bill. Herman v. Kneipp, 59 Neb. 208 (80 N. W. 816).

1163. (1901.) The certificate of the trial judge to a bill of exceptions "that the foregoing is all the evidence offered by either party on the trial of the cause," is not sufficient to embrace the voir dire examination of a juror. Durfee v. State, 53 Neb. 214, followed. Coil v. State, 62 Neb. 15 (86 N. W. 925).

1164. (1905.) The certificate of a trial judge, to a bill of exceptions, should show that the bill, consisting of a number of volumes, marked in a certain manner, contains all the testimony in the case. State v. Paxton, 75 Neb. 214 (106 N. W. 166).

1165. (1906.) The certificate of the presiding judge attached to a bill of exceptions, to the effect that the bill contains all the evidence offered by either party on the trial of the cause, is a sufficient certification that the bill contains all the evidence received or offered. Sheibley v. Huse, 75 Neb. 811 (106 N. W. 1028).

——— Effect of recitals.

1166. (1890.) Where no reply is filed below, a certificate of the trial judge, that the new matter set up in the answer was treated as denied by a reply, will not be considered by the supreme court, as it is neither an amendment of the record nor a supplement to the bill of exceptions. Ley v. Miller, 28 Neb. 822 (45 N. W. 174).

Digitized by Google

www.tptool.com.cn

G. Transmission and Filing.

Necessity.

1167. (1880.) In order to bring a case into this court by appeal the appellant must, within six months from the date of the rendition of the judgment appealed from, procure and file with the clerk of the supreme court a transcript of the proceedings in the court below, containing the pleadings, the judgment or decree, and all the testimony and proofs offered in evidence on the hearing of the cause in that court. Jefferson County v. Saxon, 10 Neb. 14 (4 N. W. 309). [Modified. Schuyler v. Hanna, 28 Neb. 601).

1168. (1883.) A bill of exceptions in a cause tried in the district court must be filed in that court. Aultman v. Patterson, 14 Neb. 57 (14 N. W. 804); (1898) Wood Mowing & Reaping Machine Co. v. Gerhold, 47 Neb. 397 (66 N. W. 538); (1905) Duncan v. State, 75 Neb. 764 (106 N. W. 1014).

1169. (1893.) A bill of exceptions must be filed in the district court of the proper county. First Nat. Bank of Denver v. Lowrey, 36 Neb. 290 (54 N. W. 568).

1170. (1894.) A transcript of the proceedings containing the final judgment sought to be reviewed must be filed with the petition in error, and prior to the issuing of the summons in error, in order to confer jurisdiction upon the supreme court. Garneau v. Omaha Printing Co., 42 Neb. 847 (61 N. W. 100).

1171. (1899.) The filing of a petition in error in the supreme court is alone insufficient to invest jurisdiction. It is indispensable to jurisdiction that there should be filed with the petition in error, and within the time fixed by statute, a transcript of the proceedings of the district court containing the final judgment sought to be reviewed. Slobodisky v. Curtis, 58 Neb. 211 (78 N. W. 522).

1172. (1899.) The appellate jurisdiction of the supreme court depends upon the filing with the clerk of a duly authenticated transcript of the proceedings of the district court containing the judgment or final order sought to be reversed. Snyder v. Lapp, 59 Neb. 243 (80 N. W. 806).

1172*a*. (1901.) In order to supersede a judgment under sections 588 and 590, code of civil procedure, a transcript as well as a petition in error must be filed in the supreme court. Morton v. Western Seed & Irrigation Co., 2 Unof. 131 (96 N. W. 183).

Withdrawal.

1173. (1895.) Appellee may withdraw from the supreme court a transcript which he filed with a motion to quash the supersedeas bond before appellant's appeal had been docketed. Kountze v. Erck, 45 Neb. 288 (63 N. W. 804).

H. Defects, Objections, Amendment and Correction.

Amendment of petition in error, see ante, §§ 653-655.

Effect of defects.

1174. (1882.) When a cause is submitted to this court on a record so imperfect as to render it impossible to tell therefrom whether the facts assigned for error exist or not, the judgment of the court below will be affirmed. Cunningham v. Tonnemaker, 13 Neb. 462 (14 N. W. 397).

1175. (1894.) Where, upon an inspection of the bill of exceptions, palpable omissions appear, and the bill is so ineligible and so unsystematically arranged that an intelligent examination is impracticable, the supreme court will upon review assume that there was evidence sufficient to sustain the findings of the trial court upon questions of fact. Badger Lumber Co. v. Mayes, 38 Neb. 822 (57 N. W. 519).

1176. (1903.) In case it appears from the transcript filed and a further transcript duly certified, that a party has wilfully filed an incomplete and incorrect transcript or has altered the transcript certified and furnished him, for the purpose of deceiving this court, the transcript will be stricken from the files. Keeley Institute v. Riggs, 70 Neb. 134 (96 N. W. 1010).

Clerical errors.

1177. (1886.) A clerical mistake of the clerk of a trial court in copying an instruction into the transcript will not be sufficient cause for reversing a judgment if it affirmatively appears by the phraseology of the instruction what its original language was, and that such instruction, being upon an immaterial matter, could work no prejudice to the party on trial if correctly copied. Ballard v. State, 19 Neb. 609 (28 N. W. 271).

Digitized by Google

Objections and motions to quash.

1178. (1874.) Motions to strike out part of the transcript of the court below, will not be entertained in the supreme court. Whatever objection is taken to the record, should be presented in the argument of the cause upon its merits. Hughes v. Kellogg, 3 Neb. 186.

1179. (1885.) A party who moves to quash a bill of exceptions must specifically point out in his motion the objections complained of. Smith v. Kaiser, 17 Neb. 184 (22 N. W. 368).

1180. (1885.) Where a motion supported by affidavit is filed to strike the bill of exception from the record, upon the grounds that it has been mutilated by adding certain words thereto since being signed, the motion will be overruled unless it is made to appear that the mutilation was made by the plaintiff in error or his attorney. Clark v. Gell, 17 Neb. 284 (22 N. W. 562).

1181. (1885.) An objection to a bill of exceptions, on the ground that the clerk has not certified that it is the original bill, may be taken either by motion to quash the exceptions, or on the final hearing. Hogan v. O'Neil, 17 Neb. 641 (24 N. W. 213).

1182. (1890.) Where a second motion to set aside a default and judgment in the district court was duly filed therein and overruled, no objections being made to it in that court, a motion to strike it from the record will not be entertained in the supreme court. Burke v. Pepper, 29 Neb. 320 (45 N. W. 466).

1183. (1891.) A motion to quash a bill of exceptions, being a technical objection, must itself be free from fault; therefore where the grounds assigned are "because the same (the bill) was not made and signed as required by law," the motion should be overruled, unless there is a total want of some material requirement—such as the signature of the judge. Walker v. Morse, 33 Neb. 650 (50 N. W. 1055). [Overruled. Moline, M & S. Co. v. Curtis, 38 Neb. 520.]

1184. (1898.) On motion to quash a bill of exceptions the supreme court may receive in evidence a certified copy of an affidavit not included in the record for review. Brownell v. Fuller, 54 Neb. 586 (74 N. W. 1105).

1185. (1900.) A motion to quash a bill of exceptions is of no avail where no bill has been settled. Rhea v. State, 61 Neb. 15 (84 N. W. 414).

1186. (1901.) Objections to a bill of exceptions cannot be heard from a party asking an affirmance of a judgment expressly based upon it. Armstrong v. Mayer, 1 Unof. 119 (95 N. W. 483).

Waiver of objections.

1187. (1882.) A motion to quash a bill of exceptions will not be entertained after a case, which has been reached in the regular order of business, is submitted. Dietrich v. Lincoln & N. R. Co, 13 Neb. 500 (14 N. W. 528).

1188. (1883.) Where an attorney of record, to whom a bill of exceptions is presented for examination, proposed amendments thereto without objection, he cannot afterwards be heard to complain that it was not presented to him within the statutory time. Omaha & N. R. Co. v. Redick, 14 Neb. 55 (14 N. W. 665); (1890) Warren v. Brown, 31 Neb. 8 (47 N. W. 633).

1189. (1883.) A trial was had before a referee, who made a report, and the testimony and exceptions taken before him were returned to the court, but not signed. Exceptions were filed to the report, which were overruled, and judgment entered on the report, and the judge signed the bill of exceptions taken before the referee. Held, That as no objection was made in the district court to the bill of exceptions because not signed by the referee, the objection will not be considered by the supreme court. Cattle v. Haddox, 14 Neb. 59 (14 N. W. 803).

1190. (1883.) If a party object to the bill for any reason other than that it is inaccurate, he must rely upon such objections and refuse to receive and retain the bill for examination. Cheney v. Cooper, 14 Neb. 413 (16 N. W. 433).

1191. (1883.) Where a bill of exception is returned by the attorneys for the adverse party, signed and approved by them after the expiration of the statutory time for filing the objection that it is filed out of time is thereby waived. Cheney v. Cooper, 14 Neb. 413 (16 N. W. 433).

1192. (1885.) Where a bill of exceptions was submitted to the adverse party for correction, and amendments made to the same and then duly signed, it is a waiver of all objections as to matters of form. Smith v. Kaiser, 17 Neb. 184 (22 N. W. 368).

1193. (1888.) Objections to matters of form in a bill of exceptions by which it is sought to quash the bill, must be made within a reasonable time after bill is filed in appellate court; and where not made for more than a year after filing of transcript, and after case is set for trial and plaintiff has prepared and printed briefs on the main issue, such objections will be deemed to be waived. Yates v. Kinney, 23 Neb. 648 (37 N. W. 590).

Digitized by Google

1194. (1888.) Where an original bill of exceptions is sent by the clerk of a district court to the supreme court, it is his duty to certify the same; but this objection may be waived by the parties, and will be deemed to be waived where the bill is treated by the adverse party as perfect, either by affirmative acts or long acquiescence. Yates v. Kinney, 23 Neb. 648 (37 N. W. 590). [Overruled as to waiver. 47 Neb. 198; 47 Neb. 393; 47 Neb. 397.]

1195. (1888.) A party seeking a bill of exceptions, who presents the proposed bill to the adverse party or his attorneys for amendment, within the time fixed by law or the order of the court, is entitled to have such bill examined by such adverse party, and amendments thereto proposed, if necessary; and if, instead of such proposed amendments, the bill is returned, on the alleged ground that the time in which to prepare the same had expired, it will be deemed a waiver of objections to the bill itself. State, ex rel. Covey, v. Gaslin, 25 Neb. 71 (40 N. W. 601).

1196. (1889.) Where a bill of exceptions is served after time, right of objection thereto on that ground is not waived by retaining the bill more than ten days. City of Seward v. Klenk, 27 Neb. 615 (43 N. W. 4107).

1197. (1891.) When a proposed bill of exceptions is served upon the adverse party, after the period has elapsed within which it should have been submitted and signed, and the bill is returned to the party seeking its allowance without proposing any amendments or making any objections as to the time he received it, the judge should allow the bill. State, ex rel. Downing, v. Gaslin, 32 Neb. 291 (49 N. W. 353).

1198. (1892.) Where a defendant fails to file a motion to quash a bill of exceptions until after briefs upon the merits have been made and served the court will consider the objection waived. Crane Bros. Mfg. Co. v. Keck, 35 Neb. 683 (53 N. W. 606).

1199. (1893.) Upon the consideration of a motion for a new trial where there were used several affidavits identified by the clerk of the court, and counsel for the respective parties having stipulated that the affidavits contained all the evidence offered on either side on said motion, and counsel, upon whom was served the proposed bill of exceptions, having returned the same without suggestion or amendment, and the said clerk having settled the proposed bill of exceptions, a motion to strike out said affidavits because not shown to have been used on the determination of said motion, or identified in the bill of exceptions, must be overruled. Wheeler v. Olson, 37 Neb. 562 (56 N. W. 309).

1200. (1894.) When the party suggesting amendments to a bill of exceptions appears before the judge and insists that his amendments be allowed, without making any objections as to the sufficiency of the notice, or that the bill was not submitted to the judge in time, he waived all objections as to the sufficiency of the notice, and as to the time the bill was presented to the judge for his approval and signature. Schields v. Horbach, 40 Neb. 103 (58 N. W. 720).

1201. (1896.) The omission of the clerk's certificate authenticating the bill is not waived by failure of the parties to object thereto on that ground. Romberg v. Fokken, 47 Neb. 198 (66 N. W. 282); Union P. R. Co. v. Kinney, 47 Neb. 393 (66 N. W. 449).

1202. (1897.) Where a bill is served upon the adverse party after the time therefor had expired, and the parties stipulated in writing that the trial judge should sign and allow the bill, it is a waiver of the objection that the bill was not presented within the time fixed by law or the order of the court. Thompson v. Missouri P. R. Co., 50 Neb. 329 (69 N. W. 1119).

1203. (1897.) A motion to quash a bill of exceptions which has been duly allowed by the trial judge and properly authenticated, the motion having been made more than a year after the filing of the bill and the transcript in the supreme court, and after the service of briefs in the case, comes too late. Thompson v. Missouri P. R. Co., 50 Neb. 330 (70 N. W. 385).

1204. (1898.) Objection to a bill of exceptions because it was not presented for examination and amendment in the statutory period, made for the first time in the appellate court nearly two years after filing transcript, and after service of briefs upon the merits by the party seeking the reversal, comes too late. Saunders v. Bates, 54 Neb. 209 (74 N. W. 578).

1205. (1898.) Defendant in error did not waive his right to move to quash the bill by appearing before the trial judge merely to object to its allowance, nor by failing to file the motion until after the time had expired within which the plaintiff in error was required to file his briefs to the merits, such briefs not having been filed. Supreme Tent of the Knights of the Maccabees v. Kreig, 54 Neb. 588 (74 N. W. 1104).

Digitized by Google

Amendment or correction in trial court.

1206. (1887.) Under the present system of practice if a court having jurisdiction finds itself powerless to do full justice for want of a full and perfect record, the order of the court in which the cause is pending upon appellate proceeding, on the court or tribunal below, takes the place of the more formal and expensive writ of certiorari on suggestion of diminution of the record. If after one order has issued and a return made thereto it appears that the record is still imperfect, other orders may issue on the suggestion of the some or the opposite party. Nebraska & C. R. Co. v. Storer, 22 Neb. 90 (34 N. W. 69).

1207. (1889.) When it is made to appear to the supreme court that there are errors and mistakes in the bill of exceptions, and that evidence is included therein which was not in the bill of exceptions at the time it was signed by the judge of the district court and that important evidence has been omitted in making up the bill, the supreme court will order the bill to be referred back to the judge before whom the case was tried, for examination and correction. Hoagland v. Van Etten, 27 Neb. 705 (43 N. W. 422).

1208. (1896.) Where documents have been omitted from a bill of exceptions through the fault of defendant in error, plaintiff in error may be permitted to withdraw it from the supreme court for the purpose of presenting to the trial judge an application for amendment. Macfarland v. West Side Improvement Ass'n, 47 Neb. 661 (66 N. W. 637).

1209. (1897.) A court of record has the inherent power to correct its own records, even after appeal, so that such amended record may show correctly the history of the proceedings before the appeal was taken. Andresen v. Lederer, 53 Neb. 128 (73 N. W. 664).

1210. (1897.) A trial court, after an appeal has been perfected therefrom, has no power to so correct its records, that, in fact, a modification of the judgment already appealed from shall be affected. Andresen v. Lederer, 53 Neb. 128 (73 N. W. 664).

1211. (1897.) Where a bill of exceptions filed in the supreme court has been remanded with permission to the lower court to rule on a motion to correct the bill, additional matter properly inserted by the trial judge and certified to the appellate court will not be eliminated on motion of defendant in error. Macfarland v. West Side Improvement Ass'n, 53 Neb. 417 (73 N. W. 736).

1212. (1898.) After an appeal perfected, an amendment of the record of the judgment appealed from to show certain facts and a subsequent amendment whereby such facts were eliminated from the record, held to have accomplished nothing by way of amendment. Andresen v. Carson, 54 Neb. 678 (74 N. W. 1072).

1213. (1898.) A district judge has authority, after the expiration of the time for settling a bill of exceptions, to make corrections therein, if it be found not to disclose what it was intended to at the time of settlement. Brennan-Love Co. v. McIntosh, 56 Neb. 140 (76 N. W. 461).

1214. (1898.) If it be disclosed, after the bill reaches this court, that it does not disclose what the trial judge intended at the time of settlement, it will be remanded to the district court for correction under his supervision. Brennan-Love Co. v. McIntosh, 56 Neb. 140 (76 N. W. 461).

1215. (1899.) Where a bill does not disclose what it was intended to at the time it was allowed, it may be corrected by the trial judge after the time for settlement has expired. McWaid v. Blair State Bank, 58 Neb. 618 (79 N. W. 620).

1216. (1900.) A bill of exceptions filed with the supreme court and not withdrawn by leave thereof and presented to the trial judge for correction, can not be corrected in a suit of mandamus against the trial judge. State, ex rel Waldron, v. Ramsey, 59 Neb. 518 (81 N. W. 439).

1217. (1902.) A party who complains that a trial judge has incorporated improper matter in a bill of exceptions has an adequate remedy at law, within the code of civil procedure, section 646, so that mandamus to correct the record will not be granted. State, ex rel. Cobb, v. Fawcett, 64 Neb. 496 (90 N. W. 250).

1218. (1902.) In case exceptions are filed which were not properly taken at the time the instructions were given, they have no place in the record, and the remedy is to correct the record in the district court by striking them therefrom, the same as where exceptions not seasonably taken are noted by counsel upon the written charge. City of Lincoln v. Sager, 2 Unof. 598 (89 N. W. 617).

Digitized by Google

Amendment or correction in appellate court.

www.libtool.com.cn

1219. (1876.) The date of filing indorsed on a transcript by the clerk in a cause brought to the supreme court, is merely prima facie evidence of the time at which it was received by him. The court will correct a mistake made in the date to the prejudice of either party, and affidavits will be received for the purpose of determining when the transcript was delivered to the clerk. Tootle v. White, 4 Neb. 401.

1220. (1887.) The affidavit of the clerk of the district court cannot be resorted to for the purpose of correcting a transcript of the record certified to by him. If a false or erroneous record is certified to by him, it should be corrected by a certified transcript of the record as it is. Haggerty v. Walker, 21 Neb. 596 (33 N. W. 244).

1221. (1892.) The supreme court will not require exhibits to be supplied which have never been made a part of the bill of exceptions. Bickel v. Dutcher, 35 Neb. 761 (53 N. W. 663).

1222. (1892.) Where exhibits are stricken out by the trial court upon objection of appellant that the same are not true copies of the original, and the bill of exceptions is allowed without them, the supreme court will not entertain a motion by the appellant to require the appellee to supply such exhibits. Bickel v. Dutcher, 35 Neb. 761 (53 N. W. 663).

1223. (1893.) The entries upon the journal of the district court are conclusive evidence of its proceedings. If the clerk has not made such entries in conformity with the facts or the rulings of the judge, the remedy is by a correction of the journal by order of the district court. The supreme court will not substitute a paper certified to be a memorandum of journal entry prepared by the judge for the journal entry itself, as it appears in the transcript filed in this court and certified to be a true transcript of the record. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Anderson, 38 Neb. 112 (56 N. W. 794). [No reference to this point in opinion.]

1224. (1896.) The supreme court will not, as a matter of course, permit a record to be withdrawn for the purpose of amending a bill of exceptions; and especially is this true where it appears that a failure to incorporate into the bill of exceptions all the evidence is due to the laches of the party seeking the amendment. Macfarland v. West Side Improvement Ass'n, 47 Neb. 661 (66 N. W. 637).

1225. (1896.) A motion to correct a bill of exceptions by supplying evidence omitted therefrom through inadvertence will not be entertained by the supreme court. Warner v. Hutchins, 48 Neb. 672 (67 N. W. 745).

1226. (1896.) An irregularity in a notice of the commencement of a cause in the district court, being shown by the amended transcript to have resulted from an error in transcribing the proceeding below, corrected. Scarborough v. Myrick, 49 Neb. 32 (68 N. W. 382).

1227. (1897.) The statutes neither command nor authorize the supreme court to amend the record of the trial court in a case brought up for review. Thompson & Sons Mfg. Co. v. Nicholls, 52 Neb. 312 (72 N. W. 217).

1228. (1898.) One seeking review by a proceeding in error must file a transcript and petition in error within a year after rendition of the judgment assailed, but amendments to the transcript may be filed afterward. Moss v. Robertson, 56 Neb. 774 (77 N. W. 403).

1229. (1903.) Affidavits addressed to the trial court after judgment on a motion to amend the reporter's notes of the evidence can not be considered by the appellate court, in the absence of a ruling by the trial court on such motion. Modern Brotherhood of America v. Cummings, 68 Neb. 256 (94 N. W. 144).

1230. (1905.) Where a party relies upon an order of the district court, which he alleges was made, but which the record of that court does not disclose, he must apply to that court for a correction of the record. This court can only consider the record of the proceedings of the district court as it appears in the transcript. Barker Co. v. Central West Investment Co., 75 Neb. 43 (105 N. W. 985).

1231. (1907.) Where, upon the final hearing of a case, the trial judge makes an order permitting the defendant to offer the testimony taken at a former trial, and afterwards includes the evidence so taken in the bill of exceptions, the same will not be stricken from the record in this court. Anthes v. Schroeder, 79 Neb. 355 (112 N. W. 593).

1231*a*. (1907.) Where appellant files a certified copy of a judgment, together with a præcipe and assignment of errors, and nine months thereafter files a motion to supply the record, a transcript, a bill of exceptions and a brief, but does not serve a notice of the motion, or present it to the court, he cannot three months later, when the case is called for hearing, suggest a diminution of the record, and obtain leave to file copies of the record. Cathers v. Glissman, 80 Neb. 384 (114 N. W. 1135).

Digitized by Google

Additional transcript.

1232. (1903.) If a transcript is incomplete or incorrect in some particular, the appropriate remedy is to procure an additional or corrected transcript duly certified, and the original record cannot be ordered brought up for inspection. Keeley Institute v. Riggs, 70 Neb. 134 (96 N. W. 1010).

Cost of including unnecessary papers.

1233. (1888.) Where no objection is made to the summons, or to the return of the officer thereon, such summons should be omitted from the transcript. So with journal entries not involved in the case, and the costs of such immaterial matter, if the proper motion is made, will be taxed to the party at fault. Winkler v. Roeder, 23 Neb. 706 (37 N. W. 607; 8 Am. St. Rep. 155).

1234. (1892.) Where unnecessary papers are included in the transcript, as the original petition where there is an amended one, the summons and return to the same, together with motions and demurrers to the petition where no point is made upon such pleadings or papers, the costs of the same will be taxed to the party at fault. Streitz v. Hartman, 35 Neb. 406 (53 N. W. 215).

I. Conclusiveness, Impeachment and Contradicting.

Conclusiveness of transcript or bill of exceptions.

1235. (1888.) The transcript of the trial court, duly certified by the clerk, imports absolute verity; and will alone be recognized by this court as to all matters which are properly of record in that court. Hoagland v. Van Etten, 23 Neb. 462 (36 N. W. 755); (1892) Worley v. Shong, 35 Neb. 311 (53 N. W. 72); (1894) Grand Island Savings & Loan Association v. Moore, 40 Neb. 686 (59 N. W. 115); (1895) Chadron Banking Co. v. Mahoney, 43 Neb. 214 (61 N. W. 594); (1895) Davis v. Snyder, 45 Neb. 415 (63 N. W. 789); (1896) School District No. 1 v. Bishop, 46 Neb. 850 (65 N. W. 902); (1896) Norwegian Plow Co. v. Bollman, 47 Neb. 186 (66 N. W. 292; 31 L. R. A. 747); (1896) Minick v. Minick, 49 Neb. 89 (68 N. W. 374); (1900) Fulton v. Ryan, 60 Neb. 9 (82 N. W. 105); (1901) Wentz v. Meyer, 2 Unof. 36 (96 N. W. 272); (1897) Seaver v. Hall, 50 Neb. 878 (70 N. W. 373).

1236. (1893.) A bill of exceptions duly allowed and certified by the trial judge imports absolute verity and its truthfulness cannot be assailed collaterally. Gregory v. Kaar, 36 Neb. 533 (54 N. W. 859).

1237. (1891.) Where the record which purports to contain all the evidence fails to show that a certain resolution on which the action is based was introduced in evidence, or its admission waived, the court in considering the case must be governed by the record. City of Seward v. Conroy, 33 Neb. 430 (50 N. W. 329).

1238. (1894.) A transcript of the record authenticated by the certificate of the clerk of the district court is conclusive evidence of the contents of the pleadings upon which the case was tried. Phenix Ins. Co. v. Rad Bila Hora Lodge, 41 Neb. 21 (59 N. W. 752).

1239. (1894.) The transcript of the record filed in the supreme court imports in this court absolute verity. If in fact incorrect, the district court, and not the supreme court, must make the correction. Weander v. Johnson, 42 Neb. 117 (60 N. W. 353); (1896) Omaha Loan & Trust Co. v. Hogeboom, 47 Neb. 7 (66 N. W. 14); (1897) Merchants Savings Bank v. Noll, 50 Neb. 615 (70 N. W. 247).

1240. (1896.) The authenticated transcript of the record of the trial court imports absolute verity on appeal, and cannot be impeached by mere statements of counsel in the brief filed. Lewis Investment Co. v Boyd, 48 Neb. 604 (67 N. W. 456).

1241. (1896.) In the record presented to the supreme court appeared a copy of a journal entry in which was set forth the overruling of a demurrer by the trial court and that the demurrant failed to plead or answer further, but elected to stand on the demurrer. Held, That such recitals must be taken by the supreme court as true statements of what occurred in the trial court. Church v. Callihan, 49 Neb. 542 (68 N. W. 932).

1242. (1897.) The appellate court will not draw an inference contradicting the record in order to sustain an assignment of error. Nebraska Land, Stock-Growing &

Digitized by Google

Investment Co. v. McKinley-Lanning Loan & Trust Co., 52 Neb. 410 (72 N. W. 357).

1243. (1898.) The mere fact that in a journal entry a motion sustained was described as "a motion to dismiss an appeal because not taken in time" held not sufficient to prevent the appellate court from considering whether or not the ruling on said motion was proper, in view of grounds urged therein, but not recited in said journal entry. Andresen v. Carson, 54 Neb. 678 (74 N. W. 1072).

1244. (1899.) An objection that no testimony was received below must be overruled where the record shows the hearing was in the nature of a trial, and that all the evidence offered was received. Broadwater v. Foxworthy, 57 Neb. 406 (77 N. W. 1103).

1245. (1901.) A recital in the transcript that the court instructed the jury to find for the plaintiff, is a mere conclusion, and in the absence of the instruction upon which it is based from the transcript and bill of exceptions, an assignment of error, predicated on such instruction, will not be considered. Startzer v. Clarke, 1 Unof. 91 (95 N. W. 509).

1246. (1901.) A bill of exceptions allowed and signed by the trial judge becomes a part of the record in the case, and its recitals cannot be impeached by affidavits filed for that purpose. Phœnix Ins. Co. v. Howe, 2 Unof. 20 (96 N. W. 73).

1247. (1902.) It is conclusively presumed in the supreme court that the duly certified transcript of the proceedings of the lower court contains everything that ought to be considered in determining the correctness of the ruling complained of. Bush v. Tecumseh Nat. Bank, 64 Neb. 451 (90 N. W. 236).

Conclusiveness of certificate.

1248. (1883.) Where from an inspection of a bill of exceptions it is apparent that material evidence has been omitted, the certificate that it contains all that was used on the trial will not be taken as conclusive on that point. Missouri P. R. Co. v Hays, 15 Neb. 224 (18 N. W. 51).

1249. (1896.) The supreme court will not weigh the evidence to see if it sustains the verdict, when the bill of exceptions, on its face, reveals that a deposition introduced and read upon the trial has been omitted therefrom, even though the trial judge has certified that the bill contains all the evidence offered or given upon the trial. Storz v. Finklestein, 48 Neb. 27 (66 N. W. 1020); (1898) Alling v. Fisher, 55 Neb. 239 (75 N. W. 536).

1250. (1896.) When it appears from statements in the bill of exceptions that it does not contain all the evidence introduced at the trial of the case, such must be taken to be the fact, in the absence of any other or further proof on the subject than the certificate to the bill to the effect that it contains all the evidence. Greene v. Greene, 49 Neb. 546 (68 N. W. 947; 59 Am. St. Rep. 560; 34 L. R. A. 110).

1251. (1901.) Where the record shows that there was an amendment of pleadings at the rial but its nature does not appear, the clerk's certificate that the transcript is full and complete creates a presumption that the pleadings as set forth contain the amendment. Schrandt v. Young, 62 Neb. 254 (86 N. W. 1085).

Conflict in record.

1252. (1893.) Where the copy of an affidavit appearing in the transcript differs from that in the bill of exceptions, only the latter will be considered. Lundgren v. Erik, 38 Neb. 363 (56 N. W. 992).

Impeachment or contradicting.

1253. (1893.) On proceedings by petition in error to review a judgment of the district court, the minutes of the judge on the trial docket will not be received to impeach the judgment as entered at large upon the journal and approved by the judge. Gage v. Bloomington Town Co., 37 Neb. 699 (56 N. W. 491).

1254. (1894.) Original evidence cannot be received in supreme court to contradict or alter the record of the district court. McDonald v. Bowman, 40 Neb. 269 (58 N. W. 704).

1255. (1894.) The supreme court cannot consider entries made upon the trial docket of the district court for the purpose of ascertaining what was decided in the court below. The approved journal entry of a judgment is indisputable evidence of what the judgment was. Brown v. Ritner, 41 Neb. 52 (59 N. W. 360).

——— Affidavits.

1256. (1889.) Where an affidavit of an attorney as to what took place at a trial, is contradicted by the recitals in the record, the latter must control. Barlass v. Braash, 27 Neb. 212 (42 N. W. 1028).

1257. (1895.) Where objection to the introduction of a written instrument was that it had been altered and the copy in the bill of exceptions did not show such alteration an affidavit not used on the hearing in the district court but attached to the record here is incompetent to show that the original instrument appeared to be altered. Chadron Banking Co. v. Mahoney, 43 Neb. 214 (61 N. W. 594).

Digitized by Google

1258. (1895.) An affidavit filed in the appellate court, stating when the terms of the lower court were held, is incompetent to contradict a contrary showing in the transcript. Woodward v. Baird, 43 Neb. 310 (61 N. W. 612).

1259. (1897.) On motion to dismiss appeal because the transcript was filed too late, an affidavit of appellee's attorney containing, inter alia, a statement that he searched the records after the time to appeal expired and did not find the transcript, held insufficient to contradict a record showing that the transcript was filed in time. Fenton v. American Jewelry Co., 51 Neb. 395 (70 N. W. 931).

1260. (1897.) Matters certified as part of a record cannot be controlled by statements contained in an affidavit. Security Nat. Bank v. Latimer, 51 Neb. 498 (71 N. W. 38).

J. Question Presented for Review.

Limitation by scope of record in general.

1261. (1882.) A question discussed in the brief of counsel, but not raised in the record, will not be considered. Dietrichs v. Lincoln & N. R. Co., 13 Neb 43 (13 N. W. 13); (1902) Moulthan v. Apking, 64 Neb. 378 (90 N. W. 1051).

1262. (1892.) When the transcript of the record in a civil case brought to the supreme court contains only the pleadings and record of the entry of judgment, which latter conforms to the pleadings, and in which no errors appear, the judgment will be affirmed. Fuller v. Ryan 33 Neb. 697 (50 N. W. 1044).

1263. (1900.) Questions not presented for review by the record before the court, will not be considered. Dufrene v. Johnson, 60 Neb. 18 (82 N. W. 107).

1264. (1901.) The supreme court is not authorized to look beyond the transcript and bill of exceptions for what transpired at the trial. Kuker v. Beindorff, 63 Neb. 91 (88 N. W. 190).

1265. (1902.) Where no part of the record prior to an alias order of sale on which property is sold is brought to the supreme court on an appeal from an order of confirmation, no irregularity or lack of authority to issue such alias order can be presumed. National Life Ins. Co. v. Crandall, 2 Unof. 335 (96 N. W. 624).

In absence of bill of exceptions.

1266. (1879.) When there is no bill of exceptions the supreme court can only notice such errors as appear on the face of the record proper. Miller v. Rolph, 8 Neb. 438; (1879) National Life Ins. Co. v. Robinson, 8 Neb. 452.

1267. (1883.) Where the only objection to the judgment is, that the verdict is not sustained by the evidence, and for any cause the bill of exceptions be quashed or stricken from the files, the judgment will be affirmed. McCathron v. McCathron, 15 Neb. 144 (17 N. W. 265).

1268. (1883.) The paper claimed to be a bill of exceptions being quashed, and there being no point raised, or question involved in the case, which can be considered without an examination of the testimony on which the judgment was rendered, the judgment must be affirmed. Roode v. Sherer, 15 Neb. 146 (17 N. W. 265).

1269. (1893.) Where a bill of exceptions has been quashed and the court below correctly applied the law to the facts found by a referee, that being the only question for review, the judgment will be affirmed. Brown v. Farmers & Merchants Banking Co., 36 Neb. 434 (54 N. W. 671).

1270. (1895.) The ruling upon a motion for a new trial will not be reviewed where the evidence considered upon the hearing has not been preserved by a bill of exceptions. Spotswood v. Nat. Bank of Commerce, 44 Neb. 1 (62 N. W. 245).

1271. (1896.) Assignments of a petition in error which can be reviewed only in connection with a bill of exceptions will be disregarded where no authentic bill is contained in the record. Wood Mowing & Reaping Machine Co. v. Garhold, 47 Neb. 397 (66 N. W. 538); (1898) German Nat. Bank v. Farmers & Merchants Bank, 54 Neb. 593 (74 N. W. 1086).

1272. (1897.) The alleged errors being wholly dependent upon the nature of the evidence admitted and excluded, are not available to plaintiffs in error, because of the bill of exceptions having been quashed on motion before the final submission. Rey- nolds v. McCandless, 50 Neb. 225 (69 N. W. 760).

Digitized by Google

1273. (1897.) If errors are assigned of a trial court's refusal to give requested instructions, and to determine the force of such assignments would necessitate an examination of the evidence introduced at the trial, the bill of exceptions containing the evidence having been quashed, the evidence is not before the supreme court, the errors, if any, do not affirmatively appear, and the assignments may be overruled. Sunday Creek Coal Co. v. Burnham, 52 Neb. 364 (72 N. W. 487).

1274. (1898.) In an appeal to the supreme court, in the absence of a bill of exceptions, if the petition or pleading on which the decree is predicated contains sufficient statements of a cause and proper prayer for the relief thereby afforded, questions which for decision necessitate a reference to the bill of exceptions will not be considered, and an affirmance of the decree is proper. Beatrice Savings Bank v. Beatrice Chautauqua, 54 Neb. 592 (74 N. W. 1065); (1903) Grove v. Dineen, 4 Unof. 722 (96 N. W. 253).

1275. (1898.) When a bill of exceptions has been quashed, no question will be considered, a determination of which necessarily involves an examination of the evidence adduced in the trial court. Home Fire Ins. Co. v. Weed, 55 Neb. 146 (75 N. W. 539); (1899) Johnson v. Klein, 58 Neb. 243 (78 N. W. 514); (1899) Walker v. Allen, 58 Neb. 537 (78 N. W. 1070); (1899) McGraw v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 59 Neb. 397 (81 N. W. 306).

1276. (1901.) In an equity case, where there is no bill of exceptions preserved, the only question presented by the record is whether the decree is supported by the pleadings. Pettibone v. Fitzgerald, 62 Neb. 869 (88 N. W. 143); (1902) Palmer v. Mizner, 2 Unof. 903 (93 N. W. 1121).

1277. (1902.) Where a bill of exceptions is quashed and the only assignments of error relate to the introduction of evidence, and a general assignment that the judgment is contrary to the law and the evidence, the reviewing court will only inquire whether the pleadings will support the judgment. Gonzales-Mandelbaum Co. v Broghamer, 64 Neb. 83 (89 N. W. 621).

1278. (1902.) Where an answer in an equity suit to modify a judgment pleads former adjudication, and the plaintiff puts such plea in issue by a denial, in the absence of a bill of exceptions, it will be presumed that the action of the trial court in not sustaining the plea is supported by sufficient evidence. Spargur v. Prentiss, 66 Neb. 222 (92 N. W. 300).

1279. (1903.) A plaintiff who has been defeated upon a trial in the court below by a general finding of issues of fact, upon petition, answer and reply, in favor of his adversary, and who prosecutes error without having preserved the evidence in a bill of exceptions, and without having obtained a ruling upon a motion for a new trial, can assign but one ground of error in the supreme court, viz., that the answer does not state facts constituting a defense to the petition. Bemis v. McCloud, 4 Unof. 729 (96 N. W. 214).

1280. (1903.) On an appeal from a decree of the district court where there is no bill of exceptions preserved and the record contains nothing but the clerk's transcript, the supreme court is only required to examine the record far enough to ascertain whether or not the pleadings are sufficient to sustain the decree. Grove v. Dineen, 4 Unof. 722 (96 N. W. 253).

1281. (1905.) Upon an appeal in an equity case in which there have been special findings of fact, but in which no bill of exceptions has been preserved, only such findings will be considered as are embraced within the issues; and the decree, if supported by the pleadings, will be upheld if, and in so far as, it is not in irreconcilable conflict with such findings. Kupke v. Polk, 73 Neb. 590 (103 N. W. 321).

1282. (1905.) When the trial court, in an action in equity, makes special findings of fact, and no general finding, and the evidence is not preserved, the sole question for the supreme court on appeal is whether the judgment is supported by the pleadings and the special findings. If in such case there is no finding upon a material issue, that issue must upon appeal be determined against the party on whom the burden of establishing such issue rested. Kupke v. Polk, 73 Neb. 590 (106 N. W. 495).

1283. (1905.) Where the evidence introduced on the trial of one charged with a constructive contempt of court for the violation of an order of injunction is not preserved and authenticated by a proper bill of exceptions, the only question which can be considered by the reviewing court is whether the pleadings contained in the transcript support the judgment, and, if they are found sufficient, the judgment will be affirmed. Miles v. State, 74 Neb. 684 (105 N. W. 301).

Digitized by Google

1284. (1907.) The rule to the effect that, in the absence of a bill of exceptions, it will be presumed that the instructions are based upon the evidence, has no application to instructions recalled before a verdict was reached. Hibner v. Westover, 78 Neb. 161 (110 N. W. 732).

www.libnob.com.cn

X. ASSIGNMENT OF ERRORS.

Assignment of errors in motion for new trial, see ante, §§ 533-579.

Specification of errors.

1285. (1878.) On proceeding in error, when the assignment is "that the finding of the said court is against the law and the evidence," and no specific error of law is pointed out in the motion for a new trial, and the judgment being clearly warranted, by the finding of all the issues in favor of the defendant, the only question raised is simply whether the verdict of the court, upon the facts, is supported by the evidence. Brunswick v. McClay, 7 Neb. 137. [Changed by statutes. Labaree v. Klosterman, 33 Neb. 150 (49 N. W. 1102).

1286. (1893.) Assignments of error which are so vague and indefinite as not to indicate the rulings complained of will be disregarded in the supreme court. Gregory v. Kaar, 36 Neb. 533 (54 N. W. 859).

1287. (1894.) In order to obtain a review of alleged errors the petition in error must assign the same with such particularity as to enable the court to determine the precise ruling complained of. Hanlon v. Union P. R. Co., 40 Neb. 52 (58 N. W. 590); (1894) Wiseman v. Ziegler, 41 Neb. 886 (60 N. W. 320); (1898) Allsman v. Richmond, 55 Neb. 540 (75 N. W. 1094); (1902) Ketelman v. Chicago Brush Co., 65 Neb. 429 (91 N. W. 282).

1288. (1894.) If a litigant is of opinion that a ruling of the district court was erroneous and prejudicial to him, he must set out in his petition in error the precise action of the district court which he claims was erroneous. Von Dorn v. Mengedoht, 41 Neb. 525 (59 N. W. 800); (1895) Quinn v. Moss, 45 Neb. 614 (63 N. W. 931).

1289. (1894.) Errors of law, to be available in the supreme court to the complaining party must be specifically assigned in the petition in error. Clark v. Carey, 41 Neb. 780 (60 N. W. 78); (1899) Bennett v. McDonald, 59 Neb. 234 (80 N. W. 826).

1290. (1895.) An assignment "irregularity in the proceedings of the jury" is too indefinite to be considered. Omaha Fire Ins. Co. v. Dierks & White, 43 Neb. 473 (61 N. W. 740).

1291. (1895.) An assignment "irregularity in the proceedings of the court and abuse of discretion, by which the defendant was prevented from having a fair trial," is too indefinite to be considered. Omaha Fire Ins. Co. v. Dierks & White, 43 Neb. 473 (61 N. W. 740); (1895) Houston v. City of Omaha, 44 Neb. 63 (62 N. W. 251); (1901) Rawlings v. Anheuser-Busch Brewing Ass'n, 1 Unof. 555 (95 N. W. 792).

1292. (1896.) To present for review errors alleged to have occurred during the trial of a cause the assignment should, in apt words, set forth some matter for which a motion for a new trial is authorized by the code of civil procedure. Beavers v. Missouri P. R. Co., 47 Neb. 761 (66 N. W. 821).

1293. (1896.) Plaintiff in error should specifically state in his petition the action, or the omission, of the court of which he complains, and an assignment of errors appearing upon the record at certain pages, is insufficient. Ætna Ins. Co. v. Simmons, 49 Neb. 811 (69 N. W. 125).

——— Errors of law occurring at trial.

1294. (1883.) Under the general assignment, "errors of law occurring at the trial," objections to the instructions given or refused cannot be considered. Such instructions must be pointed out in some way either by number or other means of identifying the same. Hastings & G. I. R. Co. v. Ingalls, 15 Neb. 123 (16 N. W. 762).

1295. (1894.) An assignment, "errors of law occurring at the trial of said cause, and duly excepted to," although sufficient in a motion for a new trial, is not specific enough, when contained in a petition in error, to secure a review of the rulings of the trial court on the admission or exclusion of testimony. Murphy v. Gould, 40 Neb. 728 (59 N. W. 383); (1896) Fremont, E. & M. V. R. Co. v. Root, 49 Neb. 900 (69 N. W. 397).

1296. (1894.) If a litigant is of opinion that a trial court erred in its ruling, and desires to review such error in the supreme court, he should specifically state in his petition in error here the identical action of the district court which he claims was erroneous and an assignment for "errors of law during the course of the trial" is not sufficient. Haskell v. Valley County 41 Neb. 234 (59 N. W. 680).

1297. (1895.) An assignment, "erors of law occurring at the trial," is sufficient, in a motion for a new trial, to enable the district court to determine whether it erred in admitting or rejecting evidence; but under such an assignment in a petition in error the supreme court cannot review anything. Risse v. Gasch, 43 Neb. 287 (61 N. W. 616); (1895) Houston v. City of Omaha, 44 Neb. 63 (62 N. W. 251).

Digitized by Google

1298. (1895.) An assignment, "errors of law occurring at the trial and excepted to," is too indefinite to be considered. Omaha Fire Ins. Co. v. Dierks & White, 43 Neb. 473 (61 N. W. 740); (1897) Boyd v. Mains, 52 Neb. 314 (72 N. W. 269); (1899) Hart v. Weber, 57 Neb. 442 (77 N. W. 1085); (1900) Missouri P. R. Co. v. Tipton, 61 Neb. 49 (84 N. W. 416); (1901) Parsons Band Cutter & Self-Feeder Co. v. Gadeke, 1 Unof. 605 (95 N. W. 850); (1905) Brooks v. Stanley, 74 Neb. 858 (105 N. W. 551).

1299. (1895.) An assignment in a petition in error, "errors of law occurring at the trial, excepted to at the time," is too indefinite to secure a review of the rulings of the trial court on the admission or exclusion of testimony. Mullen v. Morris, 43 Neb. 596 (62 N. W. 74); (1895) Schelly v. Schwank, 44 Neb. 504 (62 N. W. 1069); (1896) Imhoff v. Richards, 48 Neb. 590 (67 N. W. 483); (1898) Blodgett v. McMurtry, 54 Neb. 69 (74 N. W. 392); (1898) Jaeggi v. Galley, 54 Neb. 800 (75 N. W. 238).

——— Pleadings.

Effect of failure to assign error, see post, §§ 1363, 1364.

1300. (1886.) When the plaintiff in error fails to point out alleged defects in the sufficiency of a petition it will be held good. Pratt v. Smith, 20 Neb. 48 (28 N. W. 849).

1301. (1895.) Where a petition contains a number of causes of action not separately stated and numbered, an assignment of error to the admission of evidence on the ground that said causes of action did not constitute a cause of action, will not be considered. Exeter Nat. Bank v. Orchard, 43 Neb. 579 (61 N. W. 833).

1302. (1901.) Assignments of error that (1) the court erred in overruling a demurrer to the petition, and (2) in giving judgment in favor of the plaintiff call only for an inquiry as to whether the petition states a cause of action. Seven Valleys Bank v. Wise, 61 Neb. 880 (86 N. W. 923).

——— Admission or exclusion of evidence.

Effect of failure to assign error, see post, § 1365.

Single assignment against several rulings, see post, §§ 1352, 1353.

1303. (1879.) An assignment of error in these words, "because the court erred in admitting testimony in said case upon the trial of the same offered by the plaintiff," or "because the court erred in rejecting evidence offered by the defendants upon the trial of the cause," is too indefinite to be considered. Lyman v. McMillan, 8 Neb. 135; (1879) Burlington & M. R. R. Co. v. Harris, 8 Neb. 140; (1893) Farwell v. Cramer, 38 Neb. 61 (56 N. W. 716); (1894) Cortelyou v. Maben, 40 Neb. 512 (59 N. W. 94); (1894) Havens v. Grand Island Light & Fuel Co., 41 Neb. 153 (59 N. W. 681); (1895) Kearney Electric Co. v. Laughlin, 45 Neb. 390 (63 N. W. 941); (1895) Kearney Canal & Water Supply Co. v. Akeyson, 45 Neb. 635 (63 N. W. 921); (1896) City of Omaha v. Richards, 49 Neb. 244 (68 N. W. 528); (1896) Burke v. Brown, 49 Neb. 723 (68 N. W. 1026).

1304. (1879.) An assignment that the "court erred in admitting the evidence of H. and other witnesses to which said plaintiff objected," is bad for indefiniteness. Burlington & M. R. R. Co. v. Harris, 8 Neb. 140.

1305. (1880.) An assignment of error "that the court erred in admitting the testimony" of the witnesses (naming them), when objection was made to only a portion of such testimony, is too indefinite to be noticed. Graham v. Hartnett, 10 Neb. 517 (7 N. W. 280).

1306. (1881.) An assignment of error in permitting the introduction of testimony of certain witnesses "upon the question of value" of the land in controversy, is too general. Fremont, E. & M. V. R. Co. v. Whalen, 11 Neb. 585 (10 N. W. 491); Id. v. Ward 11 Neb. 597 (10 N. W. 524).

1307. (1886.) Errors assigned upon the admission of irrelevant evidence are not considered unless they point out specifically the evidence to which they severally refer. Cook v. Pickrel, 20 Neb. 433 (30 N. W. 421); (1894) Bloedel v. Zimmerman, 41 Neb. 695 (60 N. W. 6); (1894) Wonderlick v. Walker, 41 Neb. 806 (60 N. W. 103); (1897) Phœnix Ins. Co. of Hartford v. King, 52 Neb. 562 (72 N. W. 855).

1308. (1891.) An assignment of error in a petition in error in the following language: "Errors of law occurring during the trial in the admission and rejection of evidence which will more fully appear by reference to the bill of exceptions filed herewith," criticised and disapproved. Davis v. Getchell, 32 Neb. 792 (49 N. W. 776).

Digitized by Google

1309. (1891.) A petition in error must specifically point out the rulings of the trial court, on the admission of testimony, which are relied on for a reversal, or they will not be considered. Lowe v. City of Omaha, 33 Neb. 587 (50 N. W. 760); (1894) Kirkendall, Jones & Co. v. Davis, 41 Neb. 285 (59 N. W. 915); (1894) Wiseman v. Ziegler, 41 Neb. 886 (60 N. W. 320); (1894) Hedrick v. Strauss, 42 Neb. 485 (60 N. W. 928); (1895) City of Chadron v. Glover, 43 Neb. 732 (62 N. W. 62); (1895) Edney v. Baum, 44 Neb. 294 (62 N. W. 461); (1895) Smith v. Mason, 44 Neb. 610 (63 N. W. 41); (1895) Stoppert v. Nierle, 45 Neb. 105 (63 N. W. 382); (1895) Scroggin v. Johnston, 45 Neb. 714 (64 N. W. 236); (1895) Boyes v. Summers, 46 Neb. 308 (64 N. W. 1066); (1895) Redman v. Voss, 46 Neb. 512 (64 N. W. 1094); (1896) Coburn v. Watson, 48 Neb. 257 (67 N. W. 171); (1897) Woodbridge v. De Witt, 51 Neb. 98 (70 N. W. 506); (1897) Grand Island & W.C. R. Co. v. Swinbank, 51 Neb. 521 (71 N. W. 48); (1897) Morsch v. Besack, 52 Neb. 502 (72 N. W. 953); (1898) Phœnix Ins. Co. v. King, 54 Neb. 630 (74 N. W. 1103); (1898) Davis v. Otoe County, 55 Neb. 677 (76 N. W. 465); (1899) Churchill v. White, 58 Neb. 22 (78 N. W. 369; 76 Am. St. Rep. 64).

1310. (1892.) An assignment of error that the court erred in admitting the evidence of a witness for plaintiff, as shown by a certain page of the record furnished by the official reporter, and made a part of the bill of exceptions is sufficient for the purpose of reviewing the rulings of the trial court on the admission of the evidence on the page referred to. Darner v. Daggett, 35 Neb. 695 (53 N. W. 608). [Overruled. Phœnix Ins. Co. v. King, 54 Neb. 630.]

1311. (1893.) The supreme court will not review upon error the rulings of the district court excluding or admitting testimony, unless the error complained of is specifically assigned in the petition in error with such certainty as to enable the court, upon examinaton of the record, to ascertain the particular error complained of. Farwell v. Cramer, 38 Neb. 61 (56 N. W. 716).

1312. (1895.) Assignments of error that a verdict rendered is not supported by sufficient evidence, and the judgment pronounced thereon is contrary to the law of the case, cannot be sustained because certain evidence admitted without objection on the trial was irrelevant under the pleadings. Omaha Fire Ins. Co. v. Dierks, 43 Neb. 473, followed. Ins. Co of North America v. Bachler, 44 Neb. 549 (62 N. W. 911).

1313. (1897.) Under an assignment of error that the damages awarded are excessive, the supreme court will not review the action of the trial court in admitting in evidence items of damage. Roberts v. Hopper, 50 Neb. 681 (70 N. W. 244).

1314. (1898.) An assignment in a petition in error that the court erred in rejecting evidence, "as appears at record, pages 209, 209½, 210, 211, 212, 216, 216½, 217, 220, 223, 224, 230, 238, 239, 240, 241, 243," is too general for consideration. Phœnix Ins. Co. v. King, 54 Neb. 630 (74 N. W. 1103).

1315. (1898.) An assignment that evidence appearing on a certain page of the bill of exceptions was erroneously admitted may be disregarded, in absence of an objection on such page. Globe Oil Co. v. Powell, 56 Neb. 463 (76 N. W. 1081).

1316. (1899.) To review error in excluding a single answer on cross-examination, the assignment of error must be specific. Honaker v. Vesey, 57 Neb. 413 (77 N. W. 1100).

1317. (1899.) An assignment in a petition in error that the court erred in sustaining an objection to a question of a certain number, found on a page of a designated number, is sufficiently specific to present the ruling for review. Bennett v. McDonald 59 Neb. 234 (80 N. W. 826).

1318. (1899.) An assignment in a petition in error that "the court erred in overruling the objections of plaintiff in error to each of the following questions," giving the number of the question and the page of the record where found, is sufficiently specific to entitle the party to have the same reviewed. Bennett v. McDonald, 59 Neb. 234 (80 N. W. 826).

1319. (1899.) An assignment of error of the action of the trial court in refusing to strike out testimony should specifically designate the portion of the record to which it is sought to challenge attention. Palmer v. First Bank of Ulysses, 59 Neb. 412 (81 N. W. 303).

1320. (1901.) Upon an assignment of error in the supreme court that the trial court erred in overruling the motion for a new trial, the supreme court will not consider alleged errors of the trial court in excluding evidence. Mains v. Mains, 1 Unof. 679 (95 N. W. 776).

Digitized by Google

1321. (1903.) An assignment that "the court erred in excluding from the testimony proof as to the truth of the article and the charges made therein," is too general and indefinite to be entitled to consideration where a portion of the testimony offered upon the subjects mentioned was rightly excluded. Williams v. Fuller, 68 Neb. 354 (94 N. W. 118; 97 N. W. 246).

1322. (1907.) The supreme court will not consider an assignment that the trial court erred in receiving evidence over the objection of the party. Our attention must be called to the specific evidence against which the objection is urged. Tarpenning v. Knapp, 79 Neb. 62 (112 N. W. 290).

1322*a*. (1907.) An assignment of error that "the court erred in admission of incompetent evidence as to the measure of damages" is too vague to invoke the judgment of the supreme court. Smith v. Western Union Telegraph Co., 80 Neb. 395 (114 N. W. 288).

——— Sufficiency of evidence.

Effect of failure to assign error, see post, § 1366.

1323. (1895.) An assignment of error that the verdict is against the weight of evidence is not good. It should allege that the verdict is not sustained by sufficient evidence. Barmby v. Wolfe, 44 Neb. 77 (62 N. W. 318).

1324. (1896.) An assignment of error that "the verdict is contrary to the evidence and is so exceedingly small as to clearly appear to have been given under the influence of passion, prejudice, or undue means," does not raise the question of error in assessment of the amount of the recovery by the jury independently, or aside from the consideration of the influence of passion, prejudice, or undue means. Beavers v. Missouri P. R. Co., 47 Neb. 761 (66 N. W. 821).

1325. (1899.) An assignment in a petition in error that "the verdict of the jury is not sustained by sufficient evidence, and is not in accord with the evidence and instructions," is sufficiently definite and specific to require the appellate court to review the evidence preserved in the bill of exceptions to ascertain whether the same supports the finding and judgment. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Oyster, 58 Neb. 1 (78 N. W. 359).

——— Instructions.

Assignment to the giving of instructions en masse, see post, §§ 1349-1351.

Effect of failure to assign error, see post, §§ 1367-1369.

1326. (1879.) An assignment "that the court erred in the instructions given to the jury on the trial of said action" is bad for indefiniteness. Burlington & M. R. R. Co. v. Harris, 8 Neb. 140; (1881) Birdsall v. Carter, 11 Neb. 143 (7 N. W. 751).

1327. (1879.) An assignment "that the court erred in refusing to give said instructions, which the plaintiff prayed the said court to give," is bad for indefiniteness. Burlington & M. R. R. Co. v. Harris, 8 Neb. 140.

1328. (1894.) An assignment of error which does not specifically designate an instruction complained of will not be considered in the supreme court. Reference by affidavits not made part of the bill of exceptions is insufficient. Hewitt v. Commercial Banking Co., 40 Neb. 820 (59 N. W. 693).

1329. (1894.) The objection that the court failed to instruct the jury upon the law of the case is not raised by an assignment that there was error in giving instructions, the instructions being correct. Davis v. Hilbourn, 41 Neb. 35 (59 N. W. 379).

1330. (1894.) An assignment of error, which is directed generally by numbers merely, against three out of four instructions given at the request of the successful party is insufficient where none of said instructions are numbered, since it is too indefinite and uncertain as to the particular instructions intended. Reed v. Wood, 42 Neb. 496 (60 N. W. 909).

1331. (1896.) Assignments of error relating solely to the intelligibility of an instruction do not raise a question as to the correctness of a proposition properly stated in the instruction. Romberg v. Hediger, 47 Neb. 201 (66 N. W. 283).

1332. (1896.) An assignment that the verdict is contrary to law does not present for review alleged errors in the instructions. Such an assignment raises the question whether the verdict is contrary to the law as contained in the charge given by the court to the jury. Drexel v. Daniels, 49 Neb. 99 (68 N. W. 399).

1333. (1897.) Where the court has given instructions which, whether erroneous or not, cannot be regularly reviewed because of the lack of proper specific assignments of objections or exceptions thereto, their quality will not be examined or determined under an assignment which alleges a refusal of the general requests to charge the jury on the issues of law or to charge the jury on all material questions in the case. Hanover Fire Ins. Co. v. Stoddard, 52 Neb. 745 (73 N. W. 291).

Digitized by Google

1334. (1902.) Error in refusing instructions must be specifically pointed out. Trompen v. Yates, 66 Neb. 525 (92 N. W. 647).

1335. (1903.) Alleged errors in the giving of instructions must be specifically pointed out, or they cannot be considered by the supreme court. Cox v. Crow, 4 Unof. 434 (94 N. W. 524).

1335*a*. (1907.) When a trial court has instructed a jury generally upon the issues and law of a case, and there has been no request for different or additional instructions, an assignment of error in the supreme court that "the court erred in failing to instruct the jury as to the law of the case" is too vague to call for consideration. Smith v. Western Union Telegraph Co., 80 Neb. 395 (114 N. W. 288).

——— Misconduct of jury.

1336. (1895.) A petition in error alleging misconduct of the jury must state the conduct complained of. Houston v. City of Omaha, 44 Neb. 63 (62 N. W. 251).

——— Verdict.

Effect of failure to assign error, see post, § 1373.

1337. (1896.) An assignment that a verdict is "contrary to the instructions of the court" will be overruled if it appears that the verdict is in accordance with any one of the instructions. Ætna Ins. Co. v. Simmons, 49 Neb. 811 (69 N. W. 125).

1338. (1897.) Under an assignment that the verdict is not supported by sufficient evidence, an appellate court cannot deduct from the jury's award in favor of plaintiff the amount of a set-off not interposed as a defense. Sickel v. Bishop, 53 Neb. 141 (73 N. W. 455).

1339. (1897.) An assignment that the verdict is too large presents the question of error in allowing interest before six months from the date of the last item of an account. Garneau v. Omaha Printing Co., 52 Neb. 383 (72 N. W. 360).

1340. (1898.) Error in the assessment of the amount of recovery is not presented, in an action based on contract, by an assignment that the verdict is not sustained by the evidence. Nye & Schneider Co. v. Snyder, 56 Neb. 754 (77 N. W. 118).

1341. (1901.) The assignment that a verdict is contrary to law is not sufficiently specific to entitle it to consideration. Farmers Bank v. Garrow, 63 Neb. 64 (88 N. W. 131).

——— Judgment.

Effect of failure to assign error, see post, § 1374.

1342. (1878.) In proceedings in error, if the petition below set forth a good cause of action, in a matter within the jurisdiction of the court, in order to obtain a review of the judgment the particular ground upon which it is claimed to be erroneous must be specifically pointed out; otherwise it will be presumed that the judgment is right. Lowrie v. France, 7 Neb. 191.

1343. (1901.) In an action tried to the court, in which separate findings of fact and conclusions of law were made, an assignment in the petition in error that "the judgment is contrary to law and is not sustained by sufficient evidence" does not call for specific review of each of the several conclusions of law. Modern Woodmen of America v. Lane, 62 Neb. 89 (86 N. W. 943).

1344. (1901.) In an action tried to the court, in which separate findings of fact and conclusions of law were made, the assignment that the judgment is contraary to law, none of the separate conclusions of law being complained of, and some being clearly right, can only be considered so far as to ascertain whether such conclusions support the judgment. Modern Woodmen of America v. Lane, 62 Neb. 89 (86 N. W. 943).

1345. (1901.) A judgment entered in accordance with section 511 of the code is none the less a joint judgment. Hence an assignment of error that the "court erred in rendering a joint judgment against the defendants" does not raise the question whether the requirements of said section should have been complied with. Campbell v. Lane, 2 Unof. 63 (95 N. W. 1043).

1346. (1903.) An assignment of error that the judgment is contrary to law is too vague and indefinite to present any question for consideration in the supreme court. Bosserman v. Larson, 4 Unof. 107 (93 N. W. 411).

——— Ruling on motion for new trial.

Effect of failure to assign error, see post, §§ 1375-1380.

Digitized by Google

1347. (1894.) An assignment in a petition in error, that "the court erred in overruling the motion for a new trial," is too general where several distinct grounds are urged in the motion. Glaze v. Parcel, 40 Neb. 732 (59 N. W. 382); (1894) Wiseman v. Ziegler, 41 Neb. 886 (60 N. W. 320); (1895) City of Chadron v. Glover, 43 Neb. 732 (62 N. W. 62); (1895) Stein v. Vannice, 44 Neb. 132 (62 N. W. 464); (1895) Pearce v. McKay, 45 Neb. 296 (63 N. W. 851); (1895) Sigler v. McConnell, 45 Neb. 598 (63 N. W. 870); (1895) Moore v. Hubbard, 45 Neb. 612 (63 N. W. 847); (1896) Post v. Olmstead, 47 Neb. 893 (66 N. W. 828); (1897) McCord v. Hamel, 52 Neb. 286 (72 N. W. 220); (1897) Phœnix Ins. Co. of Hartford v. King, 52 Neb. 562 (72 N. W. 855); (1897) Brinckle v. Stitts, 53 Neb. 10 (73 N. W. 223); (1897) Otis v. Claussen, 53 Neb. 100 (73 N. W. 465); (1898) Jaeggi v. Galley, 54 Neb. 800 (75 N. W. 238); (1898) Allsman v. Richmond, 55 Neb. 540 (75 N. W. 1094); (1898) Bradley v. Slater, 55 Neb. 334 (75 N. W. 826); (1899) National Masonic Accident Ass'n v. Burr, 57 Neb. 437 (77 N. W. 1098); (1899) Hart v. Weber, 57 Neb. 442 (77 N. W. 1085); (1899) Walker v. Allen, 58 Neb. 537 (78 N. W. 1070).

Including several errors in one assignment.

1348. (1901.) An assignment of error in not dismissing an action "because neither said complaint nor said summons stated facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action" cannot be sustained if the complaint was sufficient. Armstrong v. Mayor, 1 Unof. 119 (95 N. W. 483).

——— Instructions.

Effect of failure to assign error, see post, §§ 1367-1369.

Sufficiency of assignment in general, see ante, §§ 1326-1335.

1349. (1880.) An assignment of error, "That the court erred in the instructions given to the jury on the trial of said action," is too indefinite to be considered unless the whole charge be bad. Tagg v. Miller, 10 Neb. 442 (6 N. W. 764).

1350. (1894.) An assignment of error as to the giving or refusal en masse of certain instructions will be considered no further than to ascertain that any one of such instructions was properly given or refused. Hiatt v. Kinkaid, 40 Neb. 178 (58 N. W. 700); (1894) McDonald v. Bowman, 40 Neb. 269 (58 N. W. 704); (1894) Jenkins v. Mitchell, 40 Neb. 664 (59 N. W. 90); (1894) Murphy v. Gould, 40 Neb. 728 (59 N. W. 383); (1894) Armann v. Buel, 40 Neb. 803 (59 N. W. 515); (1894) Hewett v. Commercial Banking Co., 40 Neb. 820 (59 N. W. 693); (1894) Meyer v. Union Bag & Paper Co., 41 Neb. 67 (59 N. W. 696); (1894) Havens v. Grand Island Light & Fuel Co., 41 Neb. 153 (59 N. W. 681); (1894) Rea v. Bishop, 41 Neb. 202 (59 N. W. 555); (1894) City of Beatrice v. Reid, 41 Neb. 214 (59 N. W. 770); (1894) Haskell v. Valley County, 41 Neb. 234 (59 N. W. 680); (1894) Wonderlick v. Walker, 41 Neb. 806 (60 N. W. 103); (1894) McEvony v. Rowland, 43 Neb. 97 (61 N. W. 124); (1895) Chaffee v. Atlas Lumber Co., 43 Neb. 224 (61 N. W. 637; 47 Am. St. Rep. 753); (1895) Glass v. Zutavern, 43 Neb. 334 (61 N. W. 579; 47 Am. St. Rep. 763); (1895) Omaha Fire Ins. Co. v. Dierks & White, 43 Neb. 473 (61 N. W. 740); (1895) Schelly v. Schwank, 44 Neb. 504 (62 N. W. 1069); (1895) Stoppert v. Nierle, 45 Neb. 105 (63 N. W. 382); (1895) Smith v. First Nat. Bank of Chadron, 45 Neb. 444 (63 N. W. 796); (1895) Diers v. Mallon, 46 Neb. 121 (64 N. W. 722; 50 Am. St. Rep. 598); (1896) Kaufmann v. Cooper, 46 Neb. 644 (65 N. W. 796); (1896) McCormal v. Redden, 46 Neb. 776 (65 N. W. 881); (1896) First Nat. Bank of Wilber v. Ridpath, 47 Neb. 96 (66 N. W. 37); (1896) Oltmanns v. Findlay, 47 Neb. 289 (66 N. W. 425); (1896) Fairfield v. Kern, 48 Neb. 254 (67 N. W. 166); (1896) Newman v. Ryne, 48 Neb. 362 (67 N. W. 189); (1896) Woodworth v. Parrott, 48 Neb. 675 (67 N. W. 761); (1896) Stough v. Ogden, 49 Neb. 291 (68 N. W. 516); (1896) Dempster Mill Mfg. Co. v. First Nat. Bank of Holdrege, 49 Neb. 321 (68 N. W. 477); (1896) Creighton v. Haythorn, 49 Neb. 526 (68 N. W. 934); (1896) Denise v. City of Omaha, 49 Neb. 750 (69 N. W. 119); (1896) Ætna Ins. Co. v. Simmons, 49 Neb. 811 (69 N. W. 125); (1897) Behrends v. Beyschlag, 50 Neb. 304 (69 N. W. 835); (1897) Town v. Missouri P. R. Co., 50 Neb. 768 (70 N. W. 402); (1897) Hodgin v. Whitcomb, 51 Neb. 617 (71 N. W. 314); (1897) Sloan v. Wherry Bros., 51 Neb. 703 (71 N. W. 744); (1897) Adams-Smith Co. v. Hayward, 52 Neb. 79 (71 N. W. 949); (1897) Atwood v. Marshall, 52 Neb. 173 (71 N. W. 1064); (1897) Hoefer v. Langhorst, 53 Neb. 364 (73 N. W. 692); (1898) Langhorst v. Coon, 53 Neb. 765 (74 N. W. 257); (1898) Unland v. McCormick Harvesting Machine Co., 54 Neb. 364 (74 N. W. 629); (1898) National Masonic

Digitized by Google

Accident Ass'n v. Day, 55 Neb. 127 (75 N. W. 576); (1898) Pease Piano Co. v. Cameron, 56 Neb. 561 (76 N. W. 1053); (1899) Spirk v. Chicago B. & Q. R. Co., 57 Neb. 565 (78 N. W. 272); (1899) Langdon v. Wintersteen, 58 Neb. 278 (78 N. W. 501); (1900) World Mutual Benefit Ass'n v. Worthing, 59 Neb. 587 (81 N. W. 620); (1900) Frenzer v. Richards, 60 Neb. 131 (82 N. W. 317); (1901) Green v. Tierney, 62 Neb. 561 (87 N. W. 331); (1902) Runquist v. Anderson, 64 Neb. 755 (90 N. W. 760); (1902) Axthelm v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 2 Unof. 444 (89 N. W. 313); (1902) Buck v. Hogeboom, 2 Unof. 853 (90 N. W. 635); (1902) Canon v. Farmers Bank, 3 Unof. 348 (91 N. W. 585); (1905) Mattern v. McCarthy, 73 Neb. 228 (102 N. W. 468); (1906) Skinner v. Wilson, 76 Neb. 445 (107 N. W. 771).

1351. (1897.) Errors in respect to giving or refusing instructions must be separately assigned. McCord v. Hamel, 52 Neb. 286 (72 N. W. 220); (1897) Hanover Fire Ins. Co. v. Stoddard, 52 Neb. 745 (73 N. W. 291); (1897) Peck v. Tingley, 53 Neb. 171 (73 N. W. 450); (1898) Langhorst v. Coon, 53 Neb. 765 (74 N. W. 257); (1898) McCormick Harvesting Machine Co. v. Courtright, 54 Neb. 18 (74 N. W. 418); (1899) Palmer v. First Bank of Ulysses, 59 Neb. 412 (81 N. W. 303).

——— Rulings on evidence.

Effect of failure to assign error, see post, § 1365.

Sufficiency of assignment in general, see ante, §§ 1303-1322.

1352. (1895.) An assignment of error in the supreme court that the district court erred in admitting the evidence of a certain witness will be overruled if any of the evidence given by the witness was competent. Eagle Fire Co. v. Globe Loan & Trust Co., 44 Neb. 380 (62 N. W. 895); (1895) Kearney Electric Co. v. Laughlin, 45 Neb. 390 (63 N. W. 941); Sigler v. McConnell, 45 Neb. 598 (63 N. W. 870); (1898) Allsman v. Richmond, 55 Neb. 540 (75 N. W. 1094); (1900) World Mutual Benefit Ass'n v. Worthing, 59 Neb. 587 (81 N. W. 620).

1353. (1898.) An assignment of error directed to a group of rulings on a certain class of evidence raises only the question of the admissibility of such evidence as a whole. It presents no question peculiar to one ruling of the group. Nye & Schneider Co. v. Snyder, 56 Neb. 754 (77 N. W. 118)

Joint assignments.

1354. (1894.) A joint assignment of error in a petition of error made by two or more persons which is not good as to all who joined therein will be overruled as to all. Gordon v. Little, 41 Neb. 250 (59 N. W. 783); (1895) Small v. Sandall, 45 Neb. 306 (63 N. W. 824); (1895) Harold v. Moline, Milburn and Stoddard Co., 45 Neb. 618 (63 N. W. 929); (1897) Minneapolis Threshing-Machine Co. v. Regier, 51 Neb. 402 (70 N. W. 934); (1897) Shabata v. Johnston, 53 Neb 12 (73 N. W. 278); (1898) Knight v. Darby, 55 Neb. 16 (75 N. W. 48); (1898) Wollam v. Brandt, 56 Neb. 527 (76 N. W. 1081); (1898) Brong v. Spence, 56 Neb. 638 (77 N. W. 54); (1899) Spencer v. Johnston, 58 Neb. 44 (78 N. W. 482); (1899) Hier v. Hutchings, 58 Neb. 334 (78 N. W. 638); (1902) Curtis v. Osborne, 63 Neb. 837 (89 N. W. 420); (1899) Levy v. South Omaha Savings Bank, 57 Neb. 312 (77 N. W. 769); (1899) American Bank of Beatrice v. Hand, 59 Neb. 273 (80 N. W. 908); (1900) Moseman v. State, 59 Neb. 629 (81 N. W. 853); (1900) Poska v. Stearns, 60 Neb. 708 (84 N. W. 80); (1901) Storm v. Holmes, 2 Unof. 16 (96 N. W. 73); (1903) Anderson v. Hall, 4 Unof. 494 (94 N. W. 981); (1904) City of Lincoln v. Bailey, 5 Unof. 619 (99 N. W. 830); (1904) Felsch v. Babb, 72 Neb. 736 (101 N. W. 1011); (1905) Kupke v. Polk, 73 Neb. 590 (103 N. W. 321).

Effect of failure to assign particular errors.

1355. (1879.) To enable the supreme court to examine and pass upon alleged errors occurring upon a trial to a jury, it is necessary that the attention of the trial court be specifically called to each alleged error in a motion for a new trial, and the same be also specifically pointed out to the supreme court in the petition in error. McCormick v. Drummett, 9 Neb. 384 (2 N. W. 729).

1356. (1879.) Where points made in the motion for a new trial are not contained in the petition in error they will be considered as abandoned. McCormick v. Drummett, 9 Neb. 384 (2 N. W. 729).

1357. (1894.) It is no part of the duty of the supreme court to search a record for the purpose of ascertaining if there is error in it. On the other hand, every reasonable presumption will be indulged in favor of the correctness of the judgment of a district court, and any ruling of that court, alleged to be erroneous, must be specifically pointed out to be reviewed here. Minick v. Huff, 41 Neb. 516 (59 N. W. 795).

Digitized by Google

1358. (1895.) Alleged errors not assigned in the petition in error will be disregarded. Erck v. Omaha Nat. Bank, 43 Neb. 613 (62 N. W. 67); (1899) Stuart v. Bank of Staplehurst, 57 Neb. 569 (78 N. W. 298); (1900) Schlageck v. Widhalm, 59 Neb. 541 (81 N. W. 448); (1901) Payne v. Pettibone & Nixon, 1 Unof. 789 (96 N. W. 117); (1902) Kennard v. Grossman, 2 Unof. 743 (89 N. W. 1025); (1903) Bosserman v. Larson, 4 Unof. 107 (93 N. W. 411).

1359. (1898.) While the supreme court will not reverse a case for errors not called to the attention of the district court and specifically assigned in the supreme court, nevertheless, when, in passing upon the assignments of error properly made, it is disclosed that they are not well taken because of an unassigned error, of which the defendant in error must avail himself to defeat the assignments made, and which the supreme court must pass upon to decide the case, such error will be corrected. Adams v. Nebraska Savings & Exchange Bank, 56 Neb. 121 (76 N. W. 421).

1360. (1900.) Where a cause is submitted under section 1 of rule 2, and the printed abstract contains no specifications of error, the judgment will be affirmed. Peoples Building, Loan & Savings Ass'n v. Pearlman, 61 Neb. 1 (84 N. W. 408).

1361. (1903.) To authorize the supreme court to review the rulings of the trial court on motions and other matters of precedure, the party complaining must except to such rulings, file a motion for a new trial, and present the questions by a petition in error. Danforth v. Fowler, 68 Neb. 452 (94 N. W. 637).

1362. (1897.) In an error proceeding a point not presented by an assignment of error will be disregarded, though argued in briefs of counsel. Clarke v. Nebraska Savings & Exchange Bank, 50 Neb. 669 (70 N. W. 237); (1897) Aitken v. Rawlings, 52 Neb. 539 (72 N. W. 858); (1898) Phœnix Ins. Co. v. King, 54 Neb. 630 (74 N. W. 1103).

——— Sufficiency of pleadings.

Sufficiency of assignment, see ante, §§ 1300-1302.

1363. (1894.) The supreme court on error or appeal may on its own motion look into the record to determine whether the petition below states a cause of action. Thomas v. Franklin, 42 Neb. 310 (60 N. W. 568).

1364. (1902.) Where a demurrer is sustained to defendant's answer and he refuses to plead further, the action of the trial court in sustaining such demurrer will not be reviewed here unless such action is specificially alleged against in the petition in error. Harris v. Nye & Schneider Co., 3 Unof. 169 (91 N. W. 250).

——— Rulings on evidence.

Sufficiency of assignment, see ante, §§ 1303-1322, 1352, 1353.

1365. (1892.) The ruling of the trial court on the admission and exclusion of testimony will not be reviewed by the supreme court, where the same are not pointed out in the petition in error. Kroll v. Ernst, 34 Neb. 482 (51 N. W. 1032); (1893) Vennum v. Huston, 38 Neb. 293 (56 N. W. 970); (1896) Graham v. Frazier, 49 Neb. 90 (68 N. W. 367); (1896) Denise v. City of Omaha, 49 Neb. 750 (69 N. W. 119; (1898) Smith v. Kennard, 54 Neb. 523 (74 N. W. 859); (1898) Burnet v. Cavanagh, 56 Neb. 190 (76 N. W. 578); (1898) Security Abstract Title Co. v. Longacre, 56 Neb. 469 (76 N. W. 1073); (1899) Vix v. Whyman, 58 Neb. 190 (78 N. W. 497); (1901) Johnson v. Carlson, 1 Unof. 368 (95 N. W. 788).

——— Sufficiency of evidence.

Sufficiency of assignment, see ante, §§ 1323-1325.

1366. (1894.) The supreme court will not review the evidence for the purpose of ascertaining whether it sustains the verdict, where the question is not specifically raised by the petition in error. Wiseman v. Ziegler, 41 Neb. 886 (60 N. W. 320); (1899) Humpert v. McGavock, 59 Neb. 346 (80 N. W. 1038).

——— Instructions.

Sufficiency of assignment, see ante, §§ 1326-1335, 1349-1351.

1367. (1893.) Error in the giving or refusal of instructions will not be considered unless specially assigned. Hewitt v. Eisenbart, 36 Neb. 794 (55 N. W. 252); (1893) Richardson & Boynton Co. v. Winter, 38 Neb. 288 (56 N. W. 886).

1368. (1894.) Instructions not pointed out in the motion for new trial or petition in error will be disregarded. Hedrick v. Strauss, 42 Neb. 485 (60 N. W. 928); (1897) Morsch v. Besack, 52 Neb. 502 (72 N. W. 953).

Digitized by Google

1369. (1900.) Where the error in the giving of instructions is not so assigned that it can be reviewed, a verdict in accord with such instructions must be permitted to stand. Frenzer v. Richards, 60 Neb. 131 (82 N. W. 317).

——— Assessment of damages.

1370. (1894.) Inadequacy of damages found by the jury cannot be considered upon review when not assigned as error in the petition. Oliver v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 40 Neb. 845 (59 N. W. 351).

1371. (1897.) The question as to whether there was error in the assessment of the amount of recovery will not be considered unless raised by a proper assignment of error. Montgomery v. Albion Nat. Bank, 50 Neb. 652 (70 N. W. 239).

1372. (1898.) Excess in the amount of recovery cannot be considered in the supreme court when not assigned as error in the petition in error. Hammond v. Edwards, 56 Neb. 631 (77 N. W. 76).

——— Verdict.

Sufficiency of assignment, see ante, §§ 1337-1341.

1373. (1899.) Alleged error in the verdict will not be considered on review when not raised either in the motion for a new trial or petition in error. Hart v. Weber, 57 Neb. 442 (77 N. W. 1085).

——— Form of judgment.

Sufficiency of assignment, see ante, §§ 1342-1346.

1374. (1894.) An objection that a judgment in replevin was not in the alternative, cannot be considered if not contained in the petition in error. Spaulding v. Overmire, 40 Neb. 21 (58 N. W. 736).

——— Rulings in motion for new trial.

Sufficiency of assignment, see ante, § 1347.

1375. (1894.) Where after a second trial defendant assigned as error the overruling of its motion for judgment on the special findings had at the first trial, and it is nowhere pointed out wherein the court erred in sustaining the motion for a new trial and there were assignments in such motion referring to matters not in the record, the supreme court must assume that the new trial was properly granted, and therefore that the motion for judgment was properly overruled. Omaha & R. V. R. Co. v. Chollette, 41 Neb. 578 (59 N. W. 921).

1376. (1897.) Where the grounds of a motion for a new trial are in substance those prescribed by section 314 of the code, and the assignments in the petition in error are based upon those grounds, the supreme court is not without jurisdiction to review a case on error simply because the petition in error does not specifically allege that the court below erred in overruling the motion for a new trial. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Cass County, 51 Neb. 369 (70 N. W. 955). [Overruled. James v. Higginbotham, 60 Neb. 203.]

1377. (1900.) A judgment will not be reversed for error of law occurring at the trial, unless it is alleged in the petition in error, and shown by the record, that the court erred in overruling the motion for a new trial. James v. Higginbotham, 60 Neb. 203 (82 N. W. 625); (1902) Gandy v. Cummins, 64 Neb. 312 (89 N. W. 777); (1902) Achenbach v. Pollock, 64 Neb. 436 (90 N. W. 304); (1902) Gregory v. Leavitt, 2 Unof. 637 (89 N. W. 764); (1902) Zimmerman v. Kearney County Bank, 3 Unof. 323 (91 N. W. 497); (1902) Orcutt v. McNair, 3 Unof. 608 (92 N. W. 200).

1377*a*. (1903.) Errors required to be assigned in a motion for a new trial, will be deemed waived, unless the ruling on such motion is assigned as error in the supreme court. Cole v. Adams County, 4 Unof. 226 (93 N. W. 701); (1905) Beckwith v. Dierks Lumber Co., 75 Neb. 349 (106 N. W. 442).

1378. (1902.) Where this question is raised by counsel the supreme court will adhere to the rule that a judgment will not be reversed for errors of law unless it is alleged in the petition in error that the court erred in overruling the motion for a new trial. Where it is not so raised the supreme court will consider the objection waived, and determine the case upon its merits. Orcutt v. McNair, 3 Unof. 608 (92 N. W. 200).

1379. (1903.) Objection that the evidence is insufficient will not be considered, where there is no assignment of error to the overruling of a motion for a new trial. Moores v. Jones, 4 Unof. 319 (93 N. W. 1016).

1380. (1903.) A judgment will not be reversed for errors which are required to be assigned on a motion for a new trial, unless it is alleged in the petition in error and shown by the record that the court erred in overruling such motion and the rule will be strictly adhered to where defendant calls the court's attention to the defect, both in his brief and on oral argument. Coxe Bros. & Co. v. Omaha Coal, Coke and Lime Co., 4 Unof. 412 (94 N. W. 519).

Digitized by Google

Defects and objection.

www.libtool.com.cn

1381. (1885.) Assignments of error which in any manner bring before the supreme court a question presented by the record will not be stricken out of the petition in error. Gregory v. Edgerly, 17 Neb. 373 (22 N. W. 243).

1381*a*. (1907.) Errors assigned by appellee in his printed brief filed after the date required by rule 35 will be considered when the appellant neither objects to the service and filing thereof, nor moves to strike it from the record as having been filed out of time. Hart v. Murdock, 80 Neb. 274 (114 N. W. 268).

Waiver of assignments.

1382. (1894.) An assignment of error not included in the points relied on for a reversal will be deemed waived. Hedrick v. Strauss, 42 Neb. 485 (60 N. W. 928).

Affidavits to support assignments.

1383. (1895.) An assignment in a petition in error, that the district court erred in not granting a new trial on account of "accident or surprise," must be sustained by affidavits showing the truth of the assignment. Omaha Fire Ins. Co. v. Dierks & White, 43 Neb. 473 (61 N. W. 740).

XI. BRIEFS.

Dismissal of appeal for failure to file brief, see post, §§ 1146, 1146*a*.

Waiver of errors not argued in brief, see post, §§ 2048-2052.

Specification of errors.

1384. (1891.) The several errors examined, and there being no brief pointing to the materiality or prejudicial character of the errors, which, in the absence of argument and authority, are not apparent, the several assignments are overruled. Townsend v. Case Threshing Machine Co., 31 Neb. 836 (48 N. W. 899).

1385. (1893.) To obtain a review of specific errors they must be pointed out in the brief of the party complaining. Phœnix Ins. Co. v. Reams, 37 Neb. 423 (55 N. W. 1074); Brown v. Dunn, 38 Neb. 52 (56 N. W. 703).

1386. (1896.) The rule of practice of the supreme court requires a litigant who brings a judgment here for review on error in his brief,—in addition to a concise statement of the facts of the case,—under appropriate headings, to allege what particular thing the district court did, or refused to do, which it is claimed was error, collating under such headings the arguments and citing the authorities which he deems sustain his contention. Ætna Ins. Co. v. Simmons, 49 Neb. 811 (69 N. W. 125).

1387. (1899.) A party desiring the court to pass upon the constitutionality of a statute should point out in his brief the section of the constitution which he claims the law infringes. Farmers & Merchants Ins. Co. v. Wiard, 59 Neb. 451 (81 N. W. 312).

1388. (1902.) On appeal the supreme court is not bound to pass upon questions not fairly raised in the briefs of counsel for appellant. Farmers Loan & Trust Co. v. Hastings, 2 Unof. 337 (96 N. W. 104); (1902) Russell v. Anderson, 3 Unof. 528 (92 N. W. 151).

——— Sufficiency.

1389. (1903.) The supreme court is not bound to examine questions not so raised in the briefs as to state specifically what is complained of, the reason and basis of the complaint, and the exact portions of the record material thereto. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co., 68 Neb. 624 (94 N. W. 822).

1390. (1903.) The supreme court is not bound to examine questions not raised in the briefs as to state fairly what is complained of, the reason and basis of the complaint, and the exact portion of the record material thereto. Livingston v. Moore, 2 Unof. 498 (89 N. W. 289).

1391. (1903.) A general statement in a brief that the court erred in sustaining objections to a certain line of testimony, without indicating where the rulings complained of are to be found in the record, or the nature of the evidence offered, the objections made, and the rulings thereon, is not sufficient to call for any examination of the matter by the supreme court. Merrill v. Garver, 4 Unof. 830 (96 N. W. 619).

Points and arguments.

1392. (1898.) Exception to an assignment of error against the admission in evidence of a group of documents offered together are not waived by confining the discussion in the briefs to a single document, the objection urged being good against all. Sloan v. Fist, 53 Neb. 691 (74 N. W. 45).

1393. (1898.) Quotations in briefs from a written opinion of the trial judge may be considered on review, though neither the original opinion nor a copy thereof is in the transcript. Abraham v. City of Fremont, 54 Neb. 391 (74 N. W. 834).

Digitized by Google

1394. (1902.) Where in an argument and brief, error is assigned for giving and refusing a group of instructions and no reason is pointed out, or authorities cited, by or from which the court can determine the several questions involved in the assignment, the matters should receive no consideration. Albion Milling Co. v. First Nat. Bank of Weeping Water, 64 Neb. 116 (89 N. W. 638).

1395. (1906.) The mere printing of an assignment of error in a brief without comment, and without statement attempting to show why or for what reason or in what respect the trial court erred, is not sufficient to require this court to discuss the errors complained of. Hoch v. Schlattan, 76 Neb. 522 (107 N. W. 759).

Improper recitals.

1396. (1892.) Where the character of the parties or the attorneys is not involved in the case, all imputations or insinuations against them in the briefs, are improper and prejudicial to the party making them. Nor will the supreme court sanction insinuations against the trial judge. Flannagan v. Elton, 34 Neb. 355 (51 N. W. 967).

1397. (1893.) Insinuations and imputations of unfairness and improper motives to the trial judge are highly improper and prejudicial to the party making them. Lau v. Grimes Dry Goods Co., 38 Neb. 215 (56 N. W. 954).

——Striking out brief.

1398. (1894.) It is conduct reprehensible in the highest degree for counsel in their briefs and arguments in the supreme court to indulge in reflections upon the integrity of the district judges. Briefs filed here containing such reflections will not be considered by the supreme court, but ordered stricken from the files. Ganzer v. Schiffbauer, 40 Neb. 633 (59 N. W. 98).

1399. (1900.) Briefs containing matter disrespectful to the court will be stricken from the files. State, ex rel. Smyth, v. Kennedy, 60 Neb. 300 (83 N. W. 87).

1400. (1904.) The court will, on its own motion, strike from the records a motion and brief which contain personal criticisms of a commissioner of the supreme court, and of his character and motives in the performance of his official duties. Krug Brewing Co. v. Healey, 71 Neb. 662 (101 N. W. 329).

Filing and service.

1401. (1887.) Where a habeas corpus case is brought on error from a district court the ordinary rules as to the time of filing briefs will not be adhered to, but the case will be heard as soon as practicable after the petitioner's brief is filed. Smith v. State, 21 Neb. 552 (32 N. W. 594).

1402. (1899.) A brief filed after a cause has been submitted will not be considered upon points not previously called to the attention of the court. State v. Omaha Nat. Bank, 59 Neb. 483 (81 N. W. 319).

1403. (1906.) In order to perfect his cross-appeal, the brief should be filed in due season. Meade Plumbing, Heating & Lighting Co. v. Irwin, 77 Neb. 385 (109 N. W. 391).

1404. (1906.) Briefs will be held to have been filed in due season where appellant neither objects to service and filing thereof, nor moves to have it stricken from the record as having been filed out of time. Meade Plumbing, Heating & Lighting Co. v. Irwin, 77 Neb. 391 (111 N. W. 636).

Failure to file or serve.

1405. (1889.) Where a cause is submitted without briefs pointing out objections to instructions, the latter will not be examined. Sanders v. Quick, 28 Neb. 162 (44 N. W. 88).

1406. (1901.) When a cause is submitted to the court without oral argument and upon the brief of the appellant or plaintiff in error alone, the record will not ordinarily be critically examined, but its contents will be presumed to be such as they are represented to be in the brief. Reynolds v. Phillips, 1 Unof. 114 (95 N. W. 491).

1407. (1905.) When a cause is submitted without oral argument upon a brief by the plaintiff in error alone, recitals of fact in the brief not obviously erroneous, and, of course, not contradicted, will be taken as true. Aria Cattle Co. v. Burk, 73 Neb. 39 (102 N. W. 74); (1902) Deering & Co. v. Walter, 2 Unof. 364 (96 N. W. 517).

1408. (1907.) Under section 1 of rule 2 of the supreme court, whenever a cause is reached and the brief of the party having the affirmative is not on file, the judgment will be affirmed or the proceeding dismissed. Larson v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 78 Neb. 434 (110 N W. 1015).

Digitized by Google

——Affirmance of judgment.

1409. (1883.) In a case brought to this court on error or appeal, and no brief is furnished or filed for the use of the court, as required by rule VII, or for cause shown, the operation of such rule be suspended as applicable to such case, the judgment or decree will be affirmed, unless there is error plainly apparent on the face of the record. Rawalt v. Brewer, 15 Neb. 56 (17 N. W. 266).

1410. (1890.) Where a cause is submitted to the supreme court without brief or oral argument, no error appears in the record, and verdict is not contrary to the evidence, the judgment will be affirmed. Cornell v. Barnum, 28 Neb. 862 (45 N. W. 173).

1411. (1892.) Judgments in causes submitted to supreme court without briefs or oral argument will ordinarily be affirmed without an investigation of the questions presented. Stabler v. Gund, 35 Neb. 648 (53 N. W. 570); (1894) Zimmerman Mfg. Co. v. Tower, 40 Neb. 306 (58 N. W. 931); (1894) Miller v. Lewis, 41 Neb. 692 (60 N. W. 11); (1894) Kilpatrick-Koch Dry Goods Co. v. Cook, 41 Neb. 737 (60 N. W. 83); (1894) Obert v. Wentz, 42 Neb. 104 (60 N. W. 353); (1895) Betz v. Martin, 45 Neb. 341 (63 N. W. 811).

1412. (1893.) When no briefs are filed by either party in the case brought into the supreme court on error the nourt will examine the pleadings and evidence, and if the judgment conforms thereto it will be affirmed. Phenix Ins. Co. v. Reams, 37 Neb. 423 (55 N. W. 1074); (1893) Brown v. City of Omaha, 38 Neb. 583 (57 N. W. 287); (1894) Norwegian Plow Co. v. Mower, 42 Neb. 659 (60 N. W. 915); (1894) Langdon v. Campbell & Deerson, 43 Neb. 67 (61 N. W. 84); (1895) Moore v. McCollum, 43 Neb. 617 (62 N. W. 41); (1895) Gaines v. Bonnell, 45 Neb. 260 (63 N. W. 790); (1895) Denney v. Denslow, 45 Neb. 613 (63 N. W. 917).

1413. (1899.) Where the appellant fails to file a brief in the supreme court, the judgment will be affirmed, when the cause is reached in its order, without an examination of the questions presented by the record. Edney v. Baum, 59 Neb. 147 (80 N. W. 502).

1414. (1900.) Where in a cause submitted under rule 2 upon a printed abstract of the record, neither party files briefs, the judgment will be affirmed. Brower v. Fass, 60 Neb. 6 (82 N. W. 98).

XII. DISMISSAL OR ABANDONMENT.

Dismissal in eminent domain proceedings, see Eminent Domain, §§ 245-249.

Taking writ of error on dismissal of appeal, see ante, §§ 53, 54.

Voluntary dismissal or withdrawal.

1415. (1898.) The fact that the parties to a suit have stipulated that an appeal of another case against the same appellee, involving the same facts, should operate as an appeal of their case and that the decision in such other case should operate as a decision in their case, will not prevent the appellant in such other case, who was not a party to such stipulation, from dismissing his appeal. Tuttle v. City of Omaha, 55 Neb. 55 (75 N. W. 50).

Dismissal on consent.

1416. (1895.) The appellee has the right to dismissal of appeal by appellant pursuant to a settlement with the latter in an acion to enforce specific performance of a contract for the purchase of realty, where the appellant's attorney claims a lien for fees and expenses and asks to intervene. Sheedy v. McMurtry, 44 Neb. 499 (63 N. W. 21).

Grounds for dismissal.

——Mistake in form of remedy.

1417. (1876.) Where the remedy should have been by petition in error, the motion to dismiss the appeal was sustained, but as the transcript was on file, leave was granted the plaintiff to file a petition in error. Stewart v. Carter, 4 Neb. 564.

——Want of final judgment.

1418. (1893.) Where it does not appear from the transcript that a final order has been rendered, the petition in error in such a case will be dismissed. Smith v. Johnson, 37 Neb. 675 (56 N. W. 323).

——Failure to preserve question for review.

1419. (1883.) A motion to dismiss proceedings in error will not be sustained on the ground that the motion for a new trial was not made within the time limited by the statute. Hollenbeck v. Tarkington, 14 Neb. 430 (16 N. W. 472).

1420. (1883.) The want of a motion for a new trial is not sufficient to warrant a summary dismissal of proceedings in error. Baldwin v. Foss, 14 Neb. 455 (16 N. W. 480); (1891) Gaughran v. Crosby, 33 Neb. 33 (49 N. W. 776); (1899) Slobodisky v. Curtis, 58 Neb. 211 (78 N. W. 522); (1900) Biart v. Myers, 59

Digitized by Google

Neb. 711 (82 N. W. 7); (1900) Rhea v. State, 61 Neb. 15 (84 N. W. 414).

1421. (1890.) Failure to except to the overruling of a motion for a new trial will not justify supreme court in dismissing case. Burke v. Pepper, 29 Neb. 320 (45 N. W. 466).

1422. (1890.) The failure to file a motion for a new trial in the court below, while it will prevent a review of the errors occurring at the trial, is no cause for striking the petition in error and transcript from the files. Cheney v. Wagner, 30 Neb. 262 (46 N. W. 427); (1892) Shickle H. & H. Iron Co. v. Kent, 34 Neb. 568 (52 N. W. 286).

1423. (1904.) A motion to dismiss a proceeding in error will not lie on the ground that no motion for a new trial was filed in the trial court by the plaintiff in error, because the supreme court will examine the record so far as is necessary to determine whether the pleadings sustain the judgment. Eccles v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 72 Neb. 439 (100 N. W. 942).

1424. (1905.) Failure to file a motion for a new trial is not fatal to the jurisdiction of an appellate court and will not support a motion to dismiss a petition in error. State, ex rel. Gardner, v. Shrader, 73 Neb. 618 (103 N. W. 276).

——— Defect of parties.

1425. (1890.) When all parties to a joint judgment have not been brought before a reviewing court in proceedings in error, as either plaintiff or defendant, and no excuse is given for not doing so, the defendant may have the case dismissed. Hendrickson v. Sullivan, 28 Neb. 790 (44 N. W. 1135).

1426. (1901.) A petition in error will be dismissed where it is prosecuted by one who has no interest in the controversy, and against whom no judgment has been entered. Large & Amsden Co. v. Nott & Son, 1 Unof. 147 (95 N. W. 484).

——— Failure to take proceedings in time.

1427. (1878.) Where it appears on the face of a petition in error that it was not filed in the time required by statute the defect may be taken advantage of by motion. French v. English, 7 Neb. 124.

1428. (1883.) A motion to dismiss proceedings in error will not be sustained on the ground that the bill of exceptions was not settled within the statutory time. Hollenbeck v. Tarkington, 14 Neb. 430 (16 N. W. 472); Baldwin v. Foss, 14 Neb. 455 (16 N. W. 480).

1429. (1887.) Where judgment was rendered November 5, 1885, and a petition in error was filed in the supreme court December 24, 1886, a motion to dismiss for want of jurisdiction was sustained, the petition in error being filed more than one year after the rendition of final judgment by the district court. Clark v. Morgan & Co., 21 Neb. 673 (33 N. W. 245).

1430. (1889.) Proceedings to reverse, vacate, or modify judgments of the district courts must be commenced in the supreme court within one year from the rendition of the final judgment (code, sec. 592), and if commenced after the period named, they may be dismissed on motion. Patterson v. Woodland, 28 Neb. 250 (44 N. W. 112).

1431. (1894.) A motion to dismiss an action brought to the supreme court on error must be sustained when the transcript containing the final judgment sought to be vacated was filed in the supreme court after the lapse of a year from the date of said judgment. Record v. Butters, 42 Neb. 786 (60 N. W. 1019); (1897) Stull v. Cass County, 51 Neb. 760 (71 N. W. 777).

1432. (1897.) An appeal to the supreme court not taken within six months from the date of the rendition of the decree or final order sought to be reviewed will be dismissed. Omaha Loan & Trust Co. Savings Bank v. Knight, 50 Neb. 342 (69 N. W. 933); Renard v. Thomas, 50 Neb. 398 (69 N. W. 932).

1433. (1903.) In case of a failure to return a bill of exceptions within the statutory time, proceedings in error may be commenced on the return of the bill of exceptions, and a motion to dismiss the case or quash the bill, made by the party whose fault or misconduct caused the delay, will be overruled. Saxton v. Harrington, 68 Neb. 446 (94 N. W. 605).

——— Defect in appeal bond.

1434. (1887.) Where a bond for an appeal filed, within the time required by law, has been duly approved by the proper officer, such appeal will not be dismissed although some of the formal requirements of the statute have not been complied with, if the defects can be cured by amendment or the filing of a new bond. Jacobs v. Morrow, 21 Neb. 233 (31 N. W. 739).

1435. (1902.) Where the sufficiency of an appeal bond is assailed, a peremptory dismissal without an opportunity to file a new bond is error. Gannon v. Phelan, 64 Neb. 220 (89 N. W. 1028).

Digitized by Google

——Defects relating to record.

1436. (1876.) A motion to strike a petition in error from the files on the ground that what purports to be a bill of exceptions cannot be so considered, will not be entertained. This objection must be taken either by a motion to quash the exceptions, or on the final hearing. Mewis v. Johnson Harvester Co., 5 Neb. 217.

1437. (1888.) The plaintiff in error filed a petition in error in the supreme court, upon which a summons in error was issued and served on the defendant, but failed to file a transcript of the proceedings of the trial court. The defendant afterwards filed a motion to dismiss for the failure to file a transcript, and served notice upon the plaintiff's attorney of the pendency of such motion. Held, That the motion must be sustained. Sturtevant v. Wineland, 22 Neb. 702 (36 N. W. 277).

1438. (1892.) A motion to dismiss an appeal will not be sustained on the ground that the bill of exceptions attached to the transcript filed in the supreme court was not properly signed. Objections to a bill of exceptions must be raised by motion to quash. Carlson v. Beckman, 35 Neb. 392 (53 N. W. 203).

1439. (1892.) It is the settled law of this state that an appeal will not be dismissed on the ground that no bill of exceptions has been settled and allowed. Hines v. Cochran, 35 Neb. 828 (53 N. W. 1118).

1440. (1893.) The failure to assign alleged errors as grounds for a new trail is not of itself sufficient reason for the dismissing of a petition in error by the supreme court, but whenever it appears, from an inspection of the record in any cause, that the petition in error presents no question of law or fact for review by the supreme court, such cause will be considered as submitted on its merits and the judgment or decree affirmed. Upton v. Cady, 38 Neb. 209 (56 N. W. 881); (1885) Erck v. Omaha Nat. Bank, 43 Neb. 613 (62 N. W. 67).

1441. (1895.) A petition in error will be dismissed out of the supreme court when founded upon a transcript not authenticated by the certificate of the clerk of the trial court. Otis v. Butters, 46 Neb. 492 (64 N. W. 1093); (1896) Einspahr v. Exchange Nat. Bank of Hastings, 49 Neb. 557 (68 N. W. 933); (1898) Bailey v. Eastman, 54 Neb. 416 (74 N. W. 959); (1899) Melcher v. Haley, 58 Neb. 729 (79 N. W. 707).

1442. (1899.) The jurisdiction of the supreme court in proceedings in error attaches upon the filing of a petition in error and transcript of the judgment, within the statutory time, and the issuing and service of process. If the transcript be so incomplete as not to affirmatively disclose error, the proper order is affirmance, and not dismissal. Hesser v. Johnson, 57 Neb. 155 (77 N. W. 406).

1443. (1899.) A petition in error will be dismissed in absence of an authenticated tarnscript of the judgment. Littell v. Cross, 58 Neb. 594 (79 N. W. 157); (1899); Burr v. Henry, 59 Neb. 301 (80 N. W. 900); (1901) Rooney v. Farrell, 62 Neb. 611 (87 N. W. 388).

1444. (1905.) A petition in error will not be dismissed on motion of the defendant in error because of a failure to settle and file a bill of exceptions, where the only question to be determined is one of law, and it is properly presented by a transcript of the record of the proceedings of the lower court. Johnson v. Emerick, 74 Neb. 303 (104 N. W. 169).

——Failure to prosecute proceedings.

1445. (1874.) A cause pending in the supreme court, plaintiff in error failing for two successive terms to appear and prosecute the same, will, on motion of defendant in error, be dismissed at costs of plaintiff in error. McCallum v. Brown, 3 Neb. 372.

1446. (1886.) An appeal will not be dismissed for the mere failure of the appellant to file an abstract and brief within the time required by statute, unless it is apparent that the neglect is wilful, or that the appeal was not taken in good faith. Steele v. Haynes, 20 Neb. 316 (30 N. W. 63).

1446*a*. (1887.) Plaintiff filed its petition in error on the 22d day of February, 1886, since which time it has not appeared in the case. No abstract or brief having been filed, and no reason being shown for the delay, defendant is entitled, under rule four, to a dismissal of the petition in error. School District v. O'Shea, 21 Neb. 449 (32 N. W. 210).

1447. (1888.) A plaintiff residing at a great distance from the capital of the state employed certain attorneys at the latter place to attend to his case pending in the supreme court, which they neglected to do, without the plaintiff's fault, and the case was dismissed for want of prosecution. Held, That the plaintiff was entitled to have the case reinstated. State, ex rel. Covey, v. Gaslin, 25 Neb. 71 (40 N. W. 601).

Digitized by Google

——— Review unnecessary or ineffectual.

1448. (1883.) The title to the land in controversy having been obtained by the plaintiff in error since the judgment, through a conveyance from the defendant, in whom it was found to be by the judgment sought to have reversed to the end that the litigation may cease, and each party left secure in his rights, it is ordered that the petition in error be dismissed at the costs of the plaintiff in error. Panko v. Irwin, 14 Neb. 419 (16 N. W. 436).

1449. (1894.) An appeal from an order dismissing a suit in the nature of an equitable garnishment, brought to restrain the defendant from paying money to an alleged debtor of the appellant during the pendency of his suit at law aginst such debtor, will be dismissed without an examination on its merits, when it appears that appellant failed in his suit at law in the court below to establish his claim, and the judgment in such case has been afirmed by the supreme court. Prentice Brownstone Co. v. King, 39 Neb. 816 (58 N. W. 277).

1450. (1896.) Where the judgment of the district court required a justice of the peace to exercise his functions within a designated precinct, and by error proceedings it is sought to review only this part of the said judgment, and it is conceded that the term of office of the plaintiff in error has expired, the petition in error is dismissed as presenting no question of an existing substantive right of the plaintiff in error. Edgerton v. State, ex rel. Strickler, 50 Neb. 72 (69 N. W. 302).

1451. (1898.) It is proper to dismiss an appeal from an order denying relief in a suit for a new trial of another case wherein the decree was reversed on appeal. Horbach v. Troup, 53 Neb. 811 (74 N. W. 1118; 68 Am. St. Rep. 637; 40 L. R. A. 408).

1452. (1899.) A motion for dismissal of a proceeding to reverse the adjudication in an action by creditors' bill, the decree which determined the amount due the creditor a judgment debt, and annulled conveyances of titles to land as fraudulent, will not be sustained, for the reason that the debt has, subsequent to the decree, been satisfied and released. Boldt v. First Nat. Bank of West Point, 59 Neb. 283 (80 N. W. 905).

——— Waiver of objections.

1453. (1889.) Motion to dismiss an appeal should be filed before the preparation and service of briefs in the case, otherwise they will be disregarded. Lloyd v. Reynolds, 26 Neb. 63 (41 N. W. 1072).

1454. (1889.) A motion to dismiss an appeal because the plaintiff in error failed to file a transcript within one year after judgment in the trial court, will be overruled when the case has been submitted to the supreme court on its merits. Sholes v. Kreamer, 26 Neb. 556 (42 N. W. 724).

1455. (1895.) A motion to dismiss a cause out of the supreme court for want of prosecution, in order to be of any avail, must be presented before the final submission of the case upon the merits. Moore v. McCollum, 43 Neb. 617 (62 N. W. 41).

1456. (1899.) The motion to dismiss an appeal, if based on occurrences subsequent thereto or on the ground that the process and proceedings of the court are being used to further corrupt practices or purposes, should be presented as soon as may be after the facts have become known to the mover, but will be entertained at any time during the proceedings before trail on the merits, and after, if the reasons for the motion were not discovered before; and any delay in the presentment of the motion before trial will not constitute its waiver, unless it appears that the delay was purposely or without excuse. Gage County v. King Bridge Co., 58 Neb. 827 (80 N. W. 56).

Motion to dismiss.

——— Notice.

1457 (1893.) A motion to dismiss a petition in error on the ground that the record shows the order sought to be reviewed was entered by consent of parties, will not be entertained by the supreme court, when notice of the motion has not been served prior to the expiration of the time fixed by rule 8 for serving briefs in the case. Omaha Fire Ins. Co. v. Maxwell, Sharpe & Ross Co., 38 Neb. 358 (56 N. W. 1028).

1458. (1894.) A motion filed in the supreme court to dismiss an appeal, on the ground that the appellant has drawn from the clerk of the district court the money awarded him by the decree sought to be reviewed, will be heard, notwithstanding notice of said motion was not served on the opposite party until after the expiration of the time prescribed by the rules of the supreme court for serving briefs in the case, when it appears appellee had no notice or knowledge of the facts upon which the motion was based before the briefs were due.

Digitized by Google

Harte v. Castetter, 38 Neb. 571 (57 N. W. 381).

——— Questions considered.

www.libtool.com.cn

1459. (1878.) On a motion to dismiss a cause out of the supreme court, the sufficiency of the assignments of error in the motion for a new trial will not be considered. Leighton & Brown v. Stuart, 8 Neb. 96.

1460. (1879.) On a mere motion to dismiss the appeal the supreme court will not examine the record to see whether it contains all the proceedings of the court below. If, however, on the submission of the cause, the supreme court finds the record so defective that the questions presented cannot be reviewed, it will make such order in the premises as may be just and proper. State Bank v. Green, 8 Neb. 297.

1461. (1892.) Supreme court will not consider the merits of a case upon motion to dismiss appeal, but will only inquire whether appeal lies, and whether it is properly taken and perfected. Hines v. Cochran, 35 Neb. 828 (53 N. W. 1118); (1900) Bower v. Cassels, 59 Neb. 620 (81 N. W. 622).

1462. (1897.) Where the report of sale is ambiguous as to the acceptance of the bid, but affords a fair basis for contention that a particular bid was accepted, that bidder may appeal from the order, and, on motion to dismiss the appeal, the court will not inquire whether the contention is well founded and the appellant entitled to a reversal. Penn Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Creighton Theatre Building Co., 51 Neb. 659 (71 N. W. 279).

1463. (1897.) On a motion to dismiss an appeal on the ground that the appellants are without an appealable interest, the question is not whether on the merits they are entitled to a reversal of the order appealed from, but it is whether the record shows that they are in the attitude of parties claiming a substantial right defeated by the order. Penn Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Creighton Theatre Building Co., 51 Neb. 659 (71 N. W. 279).

1463*a*. (1908.) Where the appeal of the original appellant, properly taken from a decree in equity, necessarily determines all the questions presented by the record and disposes of the case on its merits, a motion to dismiss as to other appellants will not be considered. Whedon v. Lancaster County, 80 Neb. 682 (114 N. W. 1102)

Abandonment.

1464. (1894.) A party who dockets an appeal in the supreme court will be held to have abandoned it where he subsequently files a petition in error within a year from judgment below. Burke v. Cunningham, 42 Neb. 645 (60 N. W. 903); (1899) Slobodisky v. Curtis, 58 Neb. 211 (78 N. W. 522).

1465. (1902.) Taking a second appeal in a case does not of itself constitute an abandonment of the first one. Drexel v. Reed, 65 Neb., 231 (91 N. W. 254); (1903) Drexel v. Reed, 69 Neb. 468 (95 N. W. 873).

XIII. DOCKETS AND CALENDARS.

Order of causes.

1466. (1878.) Ordinarily where cases pending in the supreme court are reached in their regular order on the docket, they will not be passed to the foot of the docket or continued, except by consent of both parties. Rich v. State National Bank, 7 Neb. 201 (29 Am. Rep. 382)

1467. (1901.) An application for a writ of mandamus by a private person for the enforcement of private rights will not be advanced, unless some good reason is made to appear why the application in the first instance was not made in the district court. Armstrong v. Mayer, 61 Neb. 355 (86 N. W. 489)

XIV. HEARING AND REHEARING.

In general.

1468. (1898.) The length of time devoted by the supreme court to an examination of a case is not the standard for testing the sufficiency of the court's consideration of questions presented for review. Bartley v. State, 55 Neb. 294 (75 N. W. 832).

Effect of failure to appear.

1469. (1882.) Ordinarily a defendant will not be required to appear in an action in the supreme court until the time to which the causes from the judicial district in which he resides are assigned. State, ex rel. Richardson, v. Fritz, 13 Neb 197 (13 N. W. 173).

1470. (1902.) When a general demurrer to a petition has been sustained, and a review of the ruling thereon sought by error proceedings, and the party interposing the demurrer fails to appear in the supreme court or point out the defects in the petition relied on to sustain the demurrer, a searching examination and critical analysis will not be made in order to find a defect in the petition rendering it vulnerable to such demurrer. Darr v. Berquist, 63 Neb. 713 (89 N. W. 256).

Digitized by Google

Arguments of counsel.

www.jbtool.com.cn

1471. (1898.) The constitutional provision that "the right to be heard in all civil cases in the court of last resort by appeal, error, or otherwise, shall not be denied," does not prevent the supreme court from prescribing such reasonable rules as are deemed essential to the prompt and orderly disposition of causes for review, nor is the refusal to permit oral arguments violative of the constitution. Schmidt v. Boyle, 54 Neb. 387 (74 N. W. 964).

Rehearing.

1472. (1881.) A rehearing will be denied when more than thirty days have elapsed from time of filing opinion. First Nat. Bank v. Yocum, 12 Neb. 208 (10 N. W. 706).

1473. (1897.) A rehearing will not be granted when it is clear that no other conclusion than that already reached is possible. Tecumseh Nat. Bank v. Saunders, 51 Neb. 801 (71 N. W. 779).

——— Motions.

1474. (1883.) A motion for a rehearing must distinctly specify the grounds upon which it is based. Spencer v. Thistle, 14 Neb. 21 (14 N. W. 550).

1475. (1893.) Motions for rehearing may be filed as in cases where the opinions have been prepared by the supreme court, and such motions will be considered by the supreme court. If there is probable error a rehearing will be granted. In re Supreme Court Commissioners, 37 Neb. 655 (56 N. W. 298).

1476. (1901.) A motion for a rehearing should concisely state the ground or grounds upon which the decision is assailed. Arguments or citations of authorities have no place in a motion for a rehearing. Crawford v. Hathaway, 61 Neb. 317 (85 N. W. 303).

——— Grounds.

1477. (1897.) Where the supreme court in remanding a cause directs the trial court to tax all costs to appellee, the latter may move for a rehearing or for a modification of the order as to costs. Oliver v. Lansing, 51 Neb. 818 (71 N. W. 735).

1478. (1898.) Where a consideration of questions presented for review results in a proper and just disposition thereof, a rehearing should not be granted on the ground that the court did not devote sufficient time to an examination of the record and to the preparation of an opinion. Bartley v. State, 55 Neb. 294 (75 N. W. 832).

1479. (1903.) A rehearing will not be allowed because of technical defects in the record, not urged by counsel upon the hearing, but when a rehearing has been allowed because of doubt of the correctness of the decision on the questions determined, the cause stands for hearing as though no former decision had been made, and the court will not consider papers appearing with the transcript but not authenticated as a part of the record. Palmer v. Mizner, 70 Neb. 200 (97 N. W. 334).

——— Hearing on application.

1480. (1877.) Upon an application for a rehearing the court cannot receive any affidavits in respect of matters entirely foreign to the record. Morrill v. Taylor, 6 Neb. 236.

——— Effect of application as stay of proceedings.

1481. (1904.) The pendency in the supreme court of a second motion for rehearing is no ground for the district court's disregarding a regular mandate to enforce a decree. Michigan Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Klatt, 5 Unof. 305 (98 N. W. 436)

1481*a*. (1907.) Rule 7 of the supreme court allowing 40 days from the filing of the opinion or rendition of the judgment in the case within which to file a motion for rehearing supersedes the general rule as to judgments becoming final at the expiration of the term at which they are rendered. This applied only to judgments and opinions by the court in its appellate jurisdiction. In the exercise of its original jurisdiction the provisions of section 602 et seq. of the code apply State, ex rel. Caldwell, v. Lincoln St. R. Co., 80 Neb. 352 (118 N. W. 326).

XV. REVIEW.

Effect of stipulation of facts on appeal, see Stipulation, §§ 9, 10.

A. Scope and Extent in General.

Questions considered in absence of motion for new trial, see ante, §§ 465-526.

Questions presented for review by record, see ante, §§ 1261-1284.

Review limited to issues presented to trial court, see ante, §§ 208-249.

Review limited to theory on which cause was tried below, see ante, §§ 209-225.

Digitized by Google

Matters considered in determining question.

1482. (1898.) In reviewing a case in which the trial court filed a written opinion, the supreme court will conclusively presume that the trial court considered all the competent evidence before it and decided all the material and necessary issues presented, though from the language of the written opinion the contrary should be made to appear. Phenix Ins. Co. v. Fuller, 53 Neb. 811 (74 N. W. 269; 68 Am. St. Rep. 637; 40 L. R. A. 408).

1482*a*. (1907.) When the evidence in the district court consists of oral testimony which is in sharp and irreconcilable conflict, and the conclusion derivable therefrom is dependent in part upon inferences from circumstances, some of which are in dispute, and in part upon the weight and credibility of testimony to be determined from the degree of competency of the witnesses, their opportunity for knowledge and the apparent clearness of their recollection, and the reasons therefor, the findings of the trial judge will be considered in determining the issues in the supreme court. Cooley v. Rafter, 80 Neb. 181 (113 N. W. 1003); Wetherell v. Adams, 80 Neb. 584 (114 N. W. 778).

1482*b*. (1907.) When an amended petition has been stricken from the files upon the ground that it states a different cause of action from that set forth in the original petition and one that is barred by the statute of limitations, the plaintiff is entitled on appeal to review the ruling of the court in striking the amended petition from the files. Johnson v. American Smelting & Refining Co., 80 Neb. 250 (114 N. W. 144).

Instruction not complained of as law of case.

1483. (1906.) In the consideration of the assignments—the verdict is not sustained by sufficient evidence, is excessive and is contrary to law—instructions not complained of in such a way as to be reviewable in the supreme court will be taken as the law of the case, and if when tested by such instructions the verdict is not vulnerable to the objections lodged against it the assignments will not be sustained. Skinner v. Wilson, 76 Neb. 445 (107 N. W. 771).

Questions considered in general.

1484. (1885.) Where, in an action on certain promissory notes the maker, as a defense, alleges false representations of the payee by which he was deceived and sustained damages, if the evidence fails to establish false representations, technical objections based thereon will not be considered. Milford v. La Rue, 17 Neb. 418 (23 N. W. 8).

——— Matters not necessary to decision.

1485. (1904.) Where there are numerous assignments of error, the reviewing court will consider and discuss such of them only as appear to be essential to a proper disposition of the cause under review, and to finally determine the matters involved in the litigation. The fact that all assignments of error are not noticed and commented upon in the opinion, does not imply that they have not been considered and given due weight in arriving at a decision. Horst v. Lewis, 71 Neb. 365 (103 N. W. 460).

——— Appeal by portion only of the parties.

1486. (1885.) In an action in equity appealed from the district to the supreme court, if the interests of the parties appealing are so united with the others as to require the taking up of the whole record, the entire case will be reviewed. McHugh v. Smiley, 17 Neb. 626 (24 N. W. 277).

Theory and grounds of decision of lower court.

1487. (1895.) Where by a bill in equity relief is sought on two separate and distinct grounds, and it is affirmatively shown by the record that the decree for the plaintiff rests upon one ground only, and that the court expressly reserved its decision on the other, the examination of the supreme court on appeal will be confined to the issue determined by the district court. Coombs v. MacDonald, 43 Neb. 632 (62 N. W. 41).

1488. (1895.) In appellate proceedings the examination of the reviewing court will be confined to questions determined by the trial court. Coombs v. MacDonald, 43 Neb. 632 (62 N. W. 41).

1488*a*. (1908.) While the verdict of a jury should be set aside if contrary to an erroneous instruction of the court, the supreme court is not bound by the theory of such erroneous instruction in determining whether the misconduct of a member of the jury constitutes prejudicial error. Albert v. Young, 80 Neb. 677 (114 N. W. 936).

1488*b*. (1908.) The supreme court will not consider on appeal facts not presented by the pleadings. Whedon v. Lancaster County, 80 Neb. 682 (114 N. W. 1102).

Digitized by Google

——— Questions arising subsequent to decision.

1489. (1901.) In reviewing rulings excluding evidence, the supreme court will only inquire whether the evidence was properly rejected at the time it was offered. Erickson v. Schmill, 62 Neb. 368 (87 N. W. 166).

Extent of review, dependent on mode of review.

Trial de novo on appeal, see post, §§ 1557-1559.

1490. (1893.) Where cases are brought into the supreme court by appeal, the rulings of the district court on the admission or rejection of evidence are not presented for review, the remedy therefor being by petition in error. Phœnix Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Brown, 37 Neb. 705 (56 N. W. 488); (1896) Walker v. Smith, 54 Neb. 31 (74 N. W. 390); (1898) Ainsworth v. Taylor, 53 Neb. 484 (73 N. W. 927); (1898) Alling v. Nelson, 55 Neb. 161 (75 N. W. 581); (1898) Village of Syracuse v. Mapes, 55 Neb. 738 (76 N. W. 458); (1899) Te Poel v. Shutt, 57 Neb. 592 (78 N. W. 288); (1899) Orr v. Bailey, 59 Neb. 128 (80 N. W. 495); (1900) McLain v. Maricle, 60 Neb. 353 (83 N. W. 85); (1901) State v. Bank of Commerce of Grand Island, 61 Neb. 181 (85 N. W. 43; 52 L. R. A. 858); (1901) Solt v. Anderson, 62 Neb. 153 (86 N. W. 1076); (1901) Battelle v. McIntosh, 62 Neb. 647 (87 N. W. 361); (1901) Smith v. Oster, 1 Unof. 222 (95 N. W. 335); (1901) Leavitt v. Bartholomew, 1 Unof. 756 (93 N. W. 856); (1901) Pettibone v. Yeiser, 2 Unof. 65 (96 N. W. 193); (1902) Stewart & Co. v. Allen, 2 Unof. 333 (96 N. W. 528); (1902) Cheston v. Wilson, 2 Unof. 674 (89 N. W. 764); (1902) Hillers v. Yeiser, 3 Unof. 394 (93 N. W. 989); (1902) Kinney v. Bittinger, 3 Unof. 817 (92 N. W. 1005); (1903) Farmers & Merchants Nat. Bank v. Mosher, 68 Neb. 13 (94 N. W. 1003); (1903) Flanagan v. Mathiesen, 70 Neb. 223 (97 N. W. 287); (1903) Guthrie v. Guthrie, 4 Unof. 365 (93 N. W. 1131); (1905) Kennell v. Randall, 73 Neb. 829 (103 N. W. 677).

1491. (1898.) A party who brings a case to the supreme court by appeal impliedly consents to submit the issue for decision upon the evidence actually in the record. Alling v. Nelson, 55 Neb. 161 (75 N. W. 581).

1492. (1899.) On appeal to the supreme court the only question to be considered is whether the judgment or final order responds to, and is warranted by, the pleadings and proofs. To reach errors in interlocutory orders a petition in eror should be filed with the record. National Life Ins. Co. v. Martin, 57 Neb. 350 (77 N. W. 769); Troup v. Horbach, 57 Neb. 644 (78 N. W. 286); (1899) Estep v. Schlesinger, 58 Neb. 62 (78 N. W. 383); (1899) Zimmerman v. Zimmerman, 59 Neb. 80 (80 N. W. 643); (1901) Nebraska Nat. Bank v. Hallowell, 63 Neb. 309 (88 N. W. 556); (1901) Pettibone v. Yeiser, 2 Unof. 65 (96 N. W. 193); (1902) McNaughton v. Burke, 63 Neb. 704 (89 N. W. 274); (1902) St. Andrew's Church v. Shaughnessy, 63 Neb. 792 (89 N. W. 261); (1902) Lau v. Blomberg, 3 Unof. 124 (91 N. W. 206); (1904) O'Neal v. Bellevue Improvement Co., 72 Neb. 899 (101 N. W. 1028).

1493. (1903.) In an equity cause brought to the supreme court on appeal, the ruling of the district court on a motion to strike an answer from the files can not be considered. Danforth v. Fowler, 68 Neb. 452 (94 N. W. 637).

1494. (1905.) Upon an appeal to the supreme court for a trial de novo of the issues tried in the district court, an error of that court in compelling the apellant plaintiff to elect upon which of two causes of action set forth in his petition he would proceed cannot be corrected. Webber v. Ingersoll, 74 Neb. 393 (104 N. W. 600).

Nature of decision appealed from.

1495. (1895.) A demurrer brings up for review not only the pleading demurred to, but all prior pleadings, and judgment on the demurrer must go against that party who is guilty of the first defect, and hence on appeal from an order overruling a demurrer to the answer, a decision reversing such order is in effect a decision that the petition is sufficient. City of Hastings v. Foxworthy, 45 Neb. 676 (63 N. W. 955; 34 L. R. A. 321).

1496. (1902.) An order denying a motion for a new trial and an order denying a petition for a new trial on the ground of newly-discovered evidence may both be reviewed in a single proceeding in error. German Nat. Bank of Beatrice v. Edwards, 63 Neb. 604 (88 N. W. 657).

——— Default judgment.

1497. (1899.) Alleged errors of law committed in the trial of a cause, or an objection that the evidence is not sufficient to support a finding and judgment, will not be reviewed either in error or on appeal to the supreme court, when the judgment was by default. American Bank of Beatrice v. Hand, 59 Neb. 273 (80 N. W. 908).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

B. Interlocutory, Collateral and Supplemental Proceedings.

Necessity for motion to retax costs to preserve question for review, see ante, §§ 374-377.

On appeal from final decision.

1498. Error in the taxation of costs must be raised by a motion in the lower court, to retax, followed if necessary by an appeal from the ruling on such motion, and cannot be reviewed on error from the judgment in the case. (1866) Whitall v. Cressman, 18 Neb. 508 (26 N. W. 245); (1892) Railsback, Mitchell & Co. v. Patton, 34 Neb. 490 (52 N. W. 277).

1499. (1888.) The decision of the district court in sustaining a motion for a new trial after a cause has been tried to a jury and verdict returned, is not a subject of review until after a final judgment is rendered in a cause. But where after verdict, and pending a ruling of the court upon a motion for a new trial, it is stipulated that the ruling of the court thereon may be reviewed by the supreme court, without reference to a subsequent trial, and that in case a new trial is refused upon review by the supreme court, the decision of the district court is affirmed, the cause shall be dismissed; or in case a new trial is granted, and upon review the order should be set aside and a judgment absolute rendered in the supreme court for the amount of the verdict, the supreme court will be governed by the stipulation, review the case, and render such judgment as the district court should have rendered. Johnson v. Parrotte, 23 Neb. 232 (36 N. W. 497).

1500. (1891.) The statute allows the defeated party against whom an attachment has been sustained to have the attachment proceedings reviewed on error after the final judgment in the case is rendered. Walker v. Morse, 33 Neb. 650 (50 N. W. 1055).

1501. (1898.) Section 275 of the code of civil procedure, authorizing an appeal from an interlocutory order, does not preclude a review of such an order upon a general appeal after final judgment in the case in which the order was made. Seeds Dry-Plate Co. v. Heyn Photo-Supply Co., 57 Neb. 214 (77 N. W. 660).

On appeal from order made after judgment.

1502. (1880.) On appeal from an order of the district court confirming a sale of mortgaged premises, the supreme court will not consider a question involving the merits of the original case. State Nat. Bank v. Scofield, 9 Neb. 499 (4 N. W. 71).

1503. (1898.) Questions of computation or elements of findings on which a decree foreclosing a mortgage, a mechanic's lien, or a contract of sale, is based, will not be reviewed on appeal from the order confirming the foreclosure sale. Hampton Lumber Co. v. Van Ness, 54 Neb. 185 (74 N. W. 587).

C. Parties Entitled to Allege Error.

Waiver of error in admitting testimony of customs, see Customs and Usage, § 13.

Persons entitled to review, see ante, §§ 171-186.

Appellee.

1504. (1905.) An appellee may, by complaint in the nature of a cross-appeal, be relieved from erroneous or unjust conditions imposed upon him by the decree appealed from. Kupke v. Polk, 73 Neb. 590 (103 N. W. 321).

Joint party not appealing.

1505. (1896.) When the interests of several defendants are inseparably connected, an appeal by one defendant brings up the entire case. Claflin v. American Nat. Bank of Omaha, 46 Neb. 884 (65 N. W. 1056).

Error affecting only co-party.

1506. (1898.) Where there is presented no question on appeal but the sufficiency of the evidence to sustain the judgment as to one of three defendants, and the rights of the sole appellant are dependent upon those of defendants who have not appealed, the judgment may be affirmed. Barnes v. George, 54 Neb. 504 (74 N. W. 854).

1507. (1902.) Where only one of two defendants was served, and the verdict was against "the defendant," if the action admits of a several judgment, the defendant who was served with process and appeared and tried the case may not complain that judgment was entered irregularly against the other defendant as well. Storey v. Kerr, 2 Unof. 568 (89 N. W. 601).

1508. (1906.) Where the only parties affected by alleged errors in a decree are satisfied, others will not be heard to complain. Nealon v. McGargill, 77 Neb. 109 (108 N. W. 170).

Digitized by Google

Estoppel to allege error.

www.libtool.com.cn

Estoppel to appeal or bring writ of error, see ante, §§ 187-201.

1509. (1901.) A party failing to plead to a cross-petition, the court having jurisdiction of his person, will not be heard to say that an adverse finding thereon is not sustained by sufficient evidence. Smith v. Allen, 63 Neb. 74 (88 N. W. 155).

——— Error committed or invited by party complaining.

1510. (1887.) Where a cause was transferred to a justice of the peace upon a change of venue, and he being unable, by reason of bias and prejudice, to try the case, the defendant filed a motion to dismiss for said cause, which motion being overruled, he filed a motion supported by affidavit for a second change of venue, which motion was sustained, he could not predicate error upon the sustaining of his own motion. Hitchcock v. McKinister, 21 Neb. 148 (31 N. W. 507).

1511. (1888.) Where both plaintiff and defendant call witnesses to establish usage, neither can assign error in the admission of such testimony. Howell, Jewett & Co. v. Graff, Murray & Co., 25 Neb. 130 (41 N. W. 142).

1512. (1889.) Where instructions are given at the request of a party, he cannot predicate error thereon. Fremont, E. & M. V. R. Co. v. Meeker, 28 Neb. 94 (44 N. W. 79); (1893) Dawson v. Williams, 37 Neb. 1 (55 N. W. 284); (1894) Jonasen v. Kennedy, 39 Neb. 313 (58 N. W. 122); (1894) Omaha Fair & Exposition Ass'n v. Missouri P. R. Co., 42 Neb. 105 (60 N. W. 330); (1894) Richards v. Borowsky, 39 Neb. 774 (58 N. W. 277); (1896) City of Omaha v. Richards, 49 Neb. 244 (68 N. W. 528); (1899) Shiverick v. Gunning, 58 Neb. 29 (78 N. W. 460) [rehearing, 59 Neb. 73]; (1902) Union P. R. Co. v. Lotway, 2 Unof. 348 (96 N. W. 527); (1902) Buck v. Hogeboom, 2 Unof. 853 (90 N. W. 635); (1903) Chicago, B. & Q R. Co. v. Troyer, 70 Neb. 293 (103 N. W. 680).

1513. (1890.) A party who alleges error by reason of a technical defeat in the proceedings must himself be free from a like fault when he invokes the action of the court to correct the error. Brown v. Goodyear, 29 Neb. 376 (45 N. W. 618).

1514. (1890.) Where one party has introduced certain evidence, he cannot complain of similar evidence introduced by the other party. Meharry v. Halligan, 29 Neb. 565 (45 N. W. 927).

1515. (1891.) Where the assignee of a note, in an action thereon, introduces a stipulation that a certain party if present would testify that the note was usurious, he cannot on review predicate error upon the admission of such evidence. Richardson v. Stone, 32 Neb. 617 (49 N. W. 763).

1516. (1895.) Argument of counsel based on facts not in evidence is not reversible error if made in reply to similar argument of the adverse party. Stratton v. Dole, 45 Neb. 472 (63 N. W. 875).

1517. (1895.) A party who asks his adversary to offer in evidence a written instrument of doubtful competency cannot be heard to urge in the supreme court, when the instrument was immediately offered, that it should have been excluded as incompetent. Smith v. Brown, 46 Neb. 230 (64 N. W. 714).

1518. (1896.) A party cannot predicate error upon an order which he procured to be made. Norwegian Plow Co. v. Bollman, 47 Neb. 186 (66 N. W. 292; 31 L. R. A. 747); (1900) Missouri P. R. Co. v. Fox, 60 Neb. 531 (83 N. W. 744); (1901) Storm v. Holmes, 2 Unof. 16 (96 N. W. 73); (1902) Holway v. American Exchange Nat. Bank, 64 Neb. 67 (89 N. W. 382); (1904) Holmes v. Seaman, 72 Neb. 300 (100 N. W. 417); (1907) Malcolm Savings Bank v. Cronin, 80 Neb. 231 (116 N. W. 150).

1519. (1898.) A party tendering an immaterial issue which the court refuses to strike from the pleadings on motion of the other party, cannot be heard to object to evidence relating to that issue on the ground that it is immaterial. Smith v. Meyers, 54 Neb. 1 (74 N. W. 277).

1520. (1898.) A party who has induced the court to permit him to open and close the trial by representing that there was only one issue of fact for decision, cannot, after an adverse verdict recede from his position and obtain a new trial on the ground that there were other questions of fact which should have been submitted to the jury. Home Fire Ins. Co. v. Decker, 55 Neb. 346 (75 N. W. 841).

1521. (1898.) Error cannot be predicated upon the refusal to eliminate from the record the testimony which the party complaining himself introduced. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Buel, 56 Neb. 205 (76 N. W. 571).

Digitized by Google

1522. (1898.) A party cannot obtain a reversal on account of the admission of incompetent evidence which he brought out on the cross-examination of the witness of his adversary. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Buel, 56 Neb. 205 (76 N. W. 571).

1523. (1898.) One who tenders an instruction which is given, which assumes the existence of evidence to establish an issuable fact in the case, cannot afterwards be heard to assert that there was no evidence received tending to prove such fact. American Fire Ins. Co. v. Landfare, 56 Neb. 482 (76 N. W. 1068).

1524. (1898.) A party cannot complain of the giving of an instruction in harmony with one which he requested. American Fire Ins. Co. v. Landfare, 56 Neb. 482 (76 N. W. 1068); (1901) Farmers Bank v. Garrow, 63 Neb. 64 (88 N. W. 131); (1903) Farmers Mutual Ins. Co. v. Cole, 4 Unof. 130 (93 N. W. 730).

1525. (1900.) Argument of counsel based on matters not in evidence will not be reviewed if made in reply to similar argument of adverse counsel. Nebraska Savings & Exchange Bank v. Brewster, 59 Neb. 535 (81 N. W. 441).

1526. (1900.) Where a party requests instructions which are contradictory, he cannot complain if the court makes a wrong selection. Missouri P. R. Co. v. Fox, 60 Neb. 531 (83 N. W. 744).

1527. (1901.) A party who requests instructions on a certain theory cannot complain that the court gave other instructions proceeding on the same theory. Schrandt v. Young, 62 Neb. 254 (86 N. W. 1085).

1528. (1901.) Parties who invite oral instructions do so with the probability of the defect, and when such instructions are given, and, taken as a whole, they fairly present the issues, the court will not examine the charge for fly specks on the phrases and sentences. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Andreesen, 62 Neb. 456 (87 N. W. 167).

1529. (1901.) A party who requests instructions which were given to the jury, cannot afterwards object that the issue so presented was not raised by the pleadings. Swigart v. Gentert, 63 Neb. 157 (88 N. W. 159).

1530. (1901.) Where a question is submitted to the jury, after the request of a party for its submission, such party will not be heard to say that a finding thereon adverse to him is not sustained by sufficient evidence. Iowa Savings Bank v. Frink, 1 Unof. 26 (92 N. W. 916); (1901) Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Johnston, 1 Unof. 314 (95 N. W. 614). (1901) Farmers Bank v. Garrow, 63 Neb. 64 (88 N. W. 131); (1902) Missouri P. R. Co. v. Hemingway, 63 Neb. 610 (88 N. W. 673).

1531. (1901.) A party will not be heard to complain of an instruction on the ground that it submits issues not presented by the pleading, nor supported by the evidence, when an instruction given at his request submits the same issues. Collier v. Gavin, 1 Unof. 712 (95 N. W. 842).

1532. (1901.) A party is estopped to urge an objection that there is no evidence in support of a proposition contained in an instruction when he, himself, has asked for an instruction based on the same theory. Collier v. Gavin, 1 Unof. 712 (95 N. W. 842).

1533. (1902.) Where a party to a suit requests the submission of a question to the jury by the tender of an instruction which is refused, he cannot complain of an instruction, given by the court on its own motion, submitting the same question. Kennard v. Grossman, 2 Unof. 743 (89 N. W. 1025).

1534. (1903.) A party who objects to evidence and causes it to be excluded cannot obtain a reversal of the judgment as unsupported for want of the evidence so excluded. Knudson v. Parker, 70 Neb. 21 (96 N. W. 1010).

1535. (1903.) Where in an action on the official bond of a sheriff to recover damages for his neglect to file a deed of assignment under the provisions of Compiled Statutes, 1899, chapter 7, section 7, the defendants object to the introduction of the only evidence offered which would tend to mitigate the damages and reduce the amount of the plaintiff's recovery thus causing its exclusion, they are not in a position to complain of the judgment as excessive. Huddleson v. Polk, 70 Neb. 489 (100 N. W. 802).

1536. (1905.) Where, in an action for personal injuries, counsel for plaintiff invites the jury to return a verdict for the defendant if they find that the plaintiff is only entitled to nominal damages, and such verdict is returned, plaintiff cannot complain if the evidence would support a verdict for such damages. Langdon v. Clarke, 73 Neb. 516 (103 N. W. 62).

Digitized by Google

1537. (1906.) Where evidence necessary to sustain a verdict has been erroneously excluded upon a general objection, the party at whose instance the evidence was excluded will not be heard to complain that the verdict, for want of such evidence, is not sufficiently sustained. Lincoln County v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 77 Neb. 99 (108 N. W. 178).

www.libtool.com.cn

——— Assent to proceedings.

1538. (1889.) Error cannot be assigned upon a ruling or action of the district court made or taken with the consent of the complaining party. Chamberlain v. Brown, 25 Neb. 434 (41 N. W. 284).

1539. (1890.) Error cannot be predicated upon the admission of testimony which was introduced under an agreement of the parties. Elsanger v. Grovijohn, 29 Neb. 139 (45 N. W. 273).

1540. (1893.) A party cannot predicate error upon the overruling of a motion for a new trial by the district court, where such order was made in pursuance of the written stipulation of all the parties, although such stipulation was made for the purpose of the sooner getting the case into the supreme court. Omaha Fire Ins. Co. v. Maxwell, Sharp & Ross Co., 38 Neb. 358 (56 N. W. 1028).

1541. (1894.) A party cannot be heard to urge error in the proceedings leading to a judgment which was entered by his own consent. Weander v. Johnson, 42 Neb. 117 (60 N. W. 353).

1542. (1895.) A party who has consented to a decree of foreclosure and a sale thereunder cannot be heard on appeal to question the correctness of the decree in so far as it was authorized by his own stipulation. Hayden v. Lincoln City Electric R. Co., 43 Neb. 680 (62 N. W. 73).

1543. (1897.) The rule that parties who voluntarily submit to the introduction of irrelevant testimony and accept a verdict thereon, are precluded from thereafter urging that the evidence was irrelevant, does not apply to a case where the pleadings and the instructions of the court confined the jury to a consideration of one issue when there was no evidence to support the verdict on that issue, although there was evidence which might have sustained a similar verdict had other questions or different issues been submitted to the jury. Esterly Harvesting Machine Co. v. Berg, 52 Neb. 147 (71 N. W. 952).

1544. (1901.) A party will not be heard to complain in this court of the action of the lower court in the trial of a civil cause if the action of the court was by the "mutual agreement" of the parties to the suit. Union Nat. Bank of Chicago v. Touzalin Improvement Co., 1 Unof. 116 (95 N. W. 489).

1545. (1903.) Where the record discloses that a defendant has raised the question and insisted in the district court that there was not sufficient evidence to warrant the submission of a material issue to the jury, and the court nevertheless insists on submitting the issue, the defendant is not estopped on appeal to raise the same question here, because he requested and obtained an instruction defining the law relative to the issue as he understands it to be. Haslam v. Barge, 69 Neb. 644 (96 N. W. 245)

1546. (1907.) Where a party objects to opinion evidence as to testamentary capacity, and preserves his exception, he does not waive the error by subsequently introducing similar evidence for the purpose of meeting his adversary's case, rebutting the evidence to which he excepted, but without any intention of abandoning his exceptions. In re Estate of Cheney, 78 Neb. 274 (110 N. W. 731).

——— Recognition of validity of proceedings.

1547. (1872.) A party having appealed from a judgment of the district court to the supreme court, has so recognized it as to be estopped from assailing it as having been irregularly entered. Irwin v. Nuckolls 3 Neb. 441. [Overruled. Cahill v. Cantwell, 31 Neb. 159.]

1548. (1887.) Alleged error in the admission of parts of certain documents in evidence, is cured where the objecting party afterwards introduces the documents. Singer Mfg. Co. v. McAllister Bros., 22 Neb. 359 (35 N. W. 181).

1549. (1889.) A party cannot complain of the admission of evidence where he afterward introduces the same or similar evidence. Chicago, K. & N. R. Co. v. Wiebe, 25 Neb. 542 (41 N. W. 297).

1550. (1889.) To obtain the review of a decision sustaining or overruling a demurrer, the party must suffer a judgment in chief to be rendered on the demurrer; if he answers over and goes to trial upon the merits, he waives the demurrer and cannot assign the judgment upon the de-murrer as error. Buck & Greenwood v. Reed, 27 Neb. 67 (42 N. W. 894).

Digitized by Google

1551. (1901.) Where the trial court rejects certain evidence upon the express ground that it is not admissible under the answer, acquiescence in such rulings by obtaining leave to amend and amending the answer is a waiver of any error in the rulings based on the pleading prior to amendment. Winterringer v. Warder, Bushnell & Glessner Co., 1 Unof. 414 (95 N. W. 619).

www.libtool.com.cn

D. Amendments, Additional Proofs and Trial de Novo.

Amendment of proceedings of lower court.

1552. (1886.) Where an action is brought upon a contract instead of a quantum meruit, and all the proof introduced without objection, showing the right of the plaintiff to recover, the supreme court will, if necessary, permit an amendment of the petition to conform to the proof, or remand the cause to the district court for such amendment. Homan v. Steele, Johnson & Co., 18 Neb. 652 (26 N. W. 472).

1553. (1905.) In an appeal in equity in the supreme court an amended petition may be filed in conformity with the facts proved in the record. Raley v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co., 73 Neb. 496 (103 N. W. 57).

Further pleadings.

1554. (1897.) In a proceeding in error it is proper for defendant, by way of answer, to set up such facts subsequent to the judgment as are claimed to have the effect to waive the error complained of. Shreck v. Gilbert, 52 Neb. 813 (73 N. W. 276).

Additional proofs.

1555. (1893.) If it is within the discretion of the supreme court to receive original evidence in appeal cases, the exercise of such a discretion can be justified only in extreme and exceptional cases, where the injured party is without fault, and would be otherwise without a remedy. Phœnix Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Brown, 37 Neb. 705 (56 N. W. 488).

——— Reference.

1556. (1886.) In proceedings in error to review a judgment of the district court, whereby the value of improvements, rents, and profits, and of the real estate, was found upon appraisement, the supreme court has no authority to order a reference for the purpose of ascertaining the value of rents and profits accruing after the verdict or assessment of the appraisers and during the pendency of the proceedings in the supreme court. Burlington & M. R. R. Co. v. Dobson, 19 Neb. 451 (27 N. W. 442).

Trial de novo.

1557. (1876.) An appeal is not a remedy to correct errors of law only, but brings the case to the appellate court for a trial de novo. Wilcox v. Saunders, 4 Neb. 539; (1901) Troup v. Horbach, 62 Neb. 564 (87 N. W. 316).

1558. (1904.) Upon an appeal in equity the supreme court will try the issue de novo, and will not be influenced in its decision by the findings of the trial court based upon depositions or other written evidence. The conclusions of the trial court, derived from the consideration of the evidence of witnesses examined in the presence of the court, will not be regarded unless, upon the whole record, in view of the position of the trial court in weighing such evidence, they appear to be right. Grandin v. First Nat. Bank of Chicago, 70 Neb. 730 (98 N. W. 70); (1904) Naudain v. Fullenwider, 72 Neb. 221 (100 N. W. 296).

1559. (1906.) Sections 138, 139 and 144 of the code, relative to variances and amendments, are applicable to the trial de novo in the supreme court of suits in equity on appeal. Lichty v. Beale, 75 Neb. 770 (106 N. W. 1018).

E. Presumptions.

Presumption as to abuse of discretion, see post, §§ 1660, 1661.

Presumption as to effect of error, see post, § 1874.

Proceedings of trial court in general.

1560. (1877.) To obtain a review in the supreme court, error must affirmatively appear in the record. The rule is, that whenever the facts stated in the record are consistent with the duty of the court, and nothing is shown to establish a contrary theory, it will be presumed that the court acted properly and all things were rightly done. Fillion v. State, 5 Neb. 351; (1896) American Investment Co. v. McGregor, 48 Neb. 779 (67 N. W. 785).

1561. (1878.) In a proceeding in error every presumption must be in favor of the correctness of the judgment of the court below. It is only "for errors appearing on the record" that the judgment of a district court can be properly reversed. Frey v.

Digitized by Google

Drahos, 7 Neb. 194; (1884) Thesing v. School District No. 57, 16 Neb. 134 (19 N. W. 625).

1562. (1886.) All presumptions are in favor of the regularity of the proceedings of the district court. Error is never presumed. Alexander v. Irwin, 20 Neb. 204 (29 N. W. 385); (1888) McBride v. Lathrop, 24 Neb. 93 (38 N. W. 32); (1901) Citizens Bank of Humphrey v. Stockslager, 1 Unof. 799 (96 N. W. 591).

1563. (1898.) In the supreme court, in reviewing cases, the transcript being silent as to matters before the district court, it will be presumed taht the facts there disclosed were of such character as to warrant the judgment rendered. Alling v. Fisher, 55 Neb. 239 (75 N. W. 536).

1564. (1898.) Where the journal entry of a ruling recites that a party noted an exception to the order, it will be presumed that he was present in person or by counsel. Royal Trust Co. v. Exchange Bank, 55 Neb. 663 (76 N. W. 425).

1565. (1903.) If the record presented to the supreme court is not complete, and if, because of such incompleteness, it is impossible to determine whether the judgment of the district court is right or wrong, it will be presumed to be right. Stedry v. Beck, 4 Unof. 390 (94 N. W. 513).

1566. (1903.) Where there is no bill of exceptions preserved, and the record contains nothing but the clerk's transcript, the general presumption exists that every proceeding essential to the legality and validity of the judgment was validly taken. And where on any contingency supposable in the state of the record, the decision below might have been valid, such contingency will be so presumed. Grove v. Dineen, 4 Unof. 722 (96 N. W. 253).

1567. (1906.) The presumptions in favor of the regularity of the proceedings of superior courts are of no avail against facts shown by the record itself. First Nat. Bank of Sutton v. Sutton Mercantile Co., 77 Neb. 596 (110 N. W. 306).

Burden of showing error.

1568. (1877.) Under the constitution and statute relating to proceedings in error the supreme court can only reverse, vacate, or modify a judgment rendered by the district court for errors appearing on the record. Morrill v. Taylor, 6 Neb. 236; (1898) Maginn v. Pickard, 57 Neb. 642 (78 N. W. 295); (1890) Stark v. Bellamy, 29 Neb. 608 (46 N. W. 85).

1569. (1877.) In order to review a refusal of the trial court to issue an attachment on a claim not due, the record must show such facts and circumstances as will fairly indicate an intent of defendant to defraud his creditors. Seidentopf v. Annabil, 6 Neb. 524.

1570. (1880.) It is a settled rule of law that every presumption is in favor of the correctness of the judgment of a court of general jurisdiction, until the contrary is made affirmatively to appear. Credit Foncier v. Rogers, 10 Neb. 184 (4 N. W. 1012); (1887) Aspinwall v. Sabin, 22 Neb. 73 (34 N. W. 72; 3 Am. St. Rep. 258); (1903) Stansbury v. Storer, 70 Neb. 603 (97 N. W. 805).

1571. (1884.) When the finding and judgment of the trial court are supported by sufficient evidence a new trial will not be ordered unless prejudicial error affirmatively appears. Snyder v. Jennings, 15 Neb. 372 (19 N. W. 501).

1572. (1884.) Error cannot be presumed. It must appear affirmatively in order to reverse a judgment. Parody v. School District, 15 Neb. 514 (19 N. W. 633); Singer Mfg. Co. v. Doggett, 16 Neb. 609 (21 N. W. 468); (1884) Roehl v. Roehl, 15 Neb. 655 (19 N. W. 632); (1884) Birdsall, Son & Co. v. Carter, 16 Neb. 422 (20 N. W. 287); (1885) Bedford v. Ruby, 17 Neb. 97 (22 N. W. 76); (1886) Weir v. B. & M. R. R. Co., 19 Neb. 212 (26 N. W. 627); (1887) McClure v. Lavender, 21 Neb. 181 (31 N. W. 672); (1888) Welborn v. Eskey, 25 Neb. 193 (40 N. W. 959); (1894) Weeks v. Wheeler, 41 Neb. 200 (59 N. W. 554); (1896) Union P. R. Co. v. Kinney, 47 Neb. 393 (66 N. W. 449); (1898) Andrews v. Kerr, 54 Neb. 618 (74 N. W. 1071); (1899) Union P. R. Co. v. Vincent, 58 Neb. 171 (78 N. W. 457); (1899) Mercantile Trust Co. v. O'Hanlon, 58 Neb. 482 (78 N. W. 925); (1899) First Nat. Bank of Broken Bow v. Stockham, 59 Neb. 304 (80 N. W. 899); (1900) Ashpole v. Hallgren, 60 Neb. 196 (82 N. W. 623); (1901) Gooding v. Ransom, 63 Neb. 78 (88 N. W. 169); (1902) Hobbs v. Warman, 63 Neb. 703 (89 N. W. 255); (1902) Falstrom v. Banning, 64 Neb. 339 (89 N. W. 1133); (1902) Shelby v. Creighton, 2 Unof. 264 (96 N. W. 382); (1903) Modern Brotherhood of America v. Cummings, 68 Neb. 256 (94 N. W. 144).

1573. (1895.) All presumptions exist in favor of the regularity of the judgments of courts of general jurisdiction, and he who asserts the contrary is required to establish the alleged error by an exhibition of the record. Wright v. State, 45 Neb. 44 (63 N. W. 147).

Digitized by Google

1574. (1896.) Every judgment brought to the supreme court for review comes surrounded with the presumption of correctness, and the supreme court will not search a record for the purpose of ascertaining if it contains error. The burden is upon the party complaining of the action of the district court to specifically point out what is complained of and show that it was probably erroneous. Ætna Ins. Co. v. Simmons, 49 Neb. 811 (69 N. W. 125).

1575. (1898.) Upon a record presenting no question of law a judgment sustained by the evidence will be affirmed. Mains v. Boyd, 54 Neb. 170 (74 N. W. 392).

1576. (1901.) The burden of proof is upon the one asserting error, and until the error is made to appear from the record the judgment complained of will not be disturbed. State v. Nebraska Savings & Exchange Bank, 61 Neb. 496 (85 N. W. 391).

1577. (1902.) It is the duty of the plaintiff in error, in all cases, to point out the errors by reason of which he claims the judgment should be reversed, and unless the error is affirmatively established by the record, the judgment will be affirmed. Nothdurft v. City of Lincoln, 66 Neb. 430 (96 N. W. 163).

1578. (1902.) It is the duty of a plaintiff in error to bring to the supreme court a sufficient transcript of the record to show error affirmatively; if there is not enough upon the face of the transcript to cause the judgment to appear necessarily erroneous, the proceedings in error must fail. Stewart v. Rosengren, 66 Neb. 445 (92 N. W. 586).

Court where case originated.

1579. (1897.) From the mere fact that there was filed in the district court a copy of a petition and an answer entitled "In the County Court," and indorsed as therein filed, it will not be assumed that there was a judgment in, or an appeal from, the county court. Walton v. Campbell, 51 Neb. 788 (71 N. W. 737).

Jurisdiction of lower court.

1580. (1883.) When a record, brought to the supreme court on error, speaks of an order of attachment issued by a county judge, but fails to state in what amount it was issued, or to otherwise describe it, it will be presumed to have been issued in a case in which the county court had jurisdiction concurrently with the district court. Schell v. Husenstine, 15 Neb. 9 (16 N. W. 758).

1581. (1900.) In courts of general jurisdiction the rule is that the proceedings taken, including questions of jurisdiction, are presumed to be regular and in conformity with law. Where, however, the record discloses the jurisdictional steps taken, and it is made to appear that no jurisdiction was acquired over the defendant, the rule invoked is rendered unavailing. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. County of Hitchcock, 60 Neb. 722 (84 N. W. 97).

1582. (1901.) Jurisdictional facts will not be presumed in order to sustain the judgments of inferior courts, but when it appears that jurisdiction has once attached the presumption that the subsequent proceedings were regular will be indulged until the contrary is shown. Kuker v. Beindorff, 63 Neb. 91 (88 N. W. 190).

1583. (1902.) In the absence of an affirmative showing in the record a court of general jurisdiction will be conclusively presumed to have jurisdiction of the parties to the action. Nehawka Bank v. Ingersoll, 2 Unof. 617 (89 N. W. 618).

On appeal from intermediate court.

1584. (1879.) The supreme court will presume the docket entry and the certificate of a justice of the peace to have been made at the time they purport to be. Dole v. Doddridge, 9 Neb. 138 (1 N. W. 999).

1585. (1884.) Where the transcript of a justice's docket shows that the parties were present at the trial, the supreme court will not presume that judgment was rendered by default. Rawalt v. Brewer, 16 Neb. 444 (20 N. W. 391).

1586. (1887.) On an appeal from a judgment of a probate court in matters relating to an estate, where the judge aproves the bond for such appeal, it will be presumed the bond conforms to the orders of such court, although they do not appear in the record. Jacobs v. Morrow, 21 Neb. 233 (31 N. W. 739).

1587. (1887.) In a case brought on error to a district court, to reverse a judgment of that court reversing a judgment of a justice of the peace, and upon examining the petition in error to said justice of the peace and the record certified by him, it appears that there is reversible error assigned, it will be presumed by the supreme court that it was upon such errors that the judgment of the justice was reversed, and not upon other errors assigned, which are believed not to be reversible. Stanton & Co. v. Spence, 22 Neb. 191 (34 N. W. 359).

Digitized by Google

1588. (1888.) Judgment in the county court, upon which execution on which the levy was made was issued, having been for $490.43, and costs, the amount of costs not being shown in the record, nor the interest on the judgment computed, the finding of $539.20 is presumed to be correct. Towne v. Sparks, 23 Neb. 142 (36 N. W. 375).

1589. (1890.) A judgment of a justice of the peace, affirmed on error to the district court, and thence taken on error to the supreme court, no error appearing from the transcript of the justice, which is the only evidence before the higher courts, will be affirmed as of course. McKeighan v. Graves, 28 Neb. 801 (44 N. W. 1135).

1590. (1890.) Findings of a city council as to jurisdictional facts, in granting an application for a liquor license, presumed by supreme court to be supported by the evidence. Lambert v. Stevens, 29 Neb. 283 (45 N. W. 457).

1591. (1891.) Where the transcript of a judgment rendered by a justice of the peace on the veridct of a jury gives the names of the jurors and shows that no objection was made to the manner of selecting the jury, it will be presumed that the jury was selected in the mode pointed out in the statute. Gapen v. Bretternitz, 31 Neb. 302 (47 N. W. 918).

1592. (1903.) To warrant a reversal of a judgment of the district court, reversing an order of the county court, error must affirmatively appear. Stedry v. Beck, 4 Unof. 390 (94 N. W. 513).

Preliminary and interlocutory proceedings.

1593. (1876.) Where the record shows that a written order adjourning the district court is entered on the journal by the clerk, but it does not appear that the clerk formally adjourned the court, it will be presumed that he performed that duty. Smith v. State, 4 Neb. 277.

1594. (1894.) It is the duty of the district court to afford to defendants a full opportunity to present their defense, but it is also its duty to prevent unnecessary delays and discourage frivolous proceedings. In reviewing orders affecting the procedure in a case the supreme court will presume, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that the district courts have acted with due regard to both principles. Lichtenberger v. Worm, 41 Neb. 836 (60 N. W. 93).

1595. (1894.) It will be presumed by the appellate court, in the absence of any showing upon the subject, that calendar for the county court was prepared and the causes set down for trial in strict compliance with the terms of the statute. Bond v. Wyckoff, 42 Neb. 214 (60 N. W. 564).

1596. (1896.) The supreme court will not presume the adjournment of a term of the district court from the fact that twenty-three days have intervened since a given day thereof. Hyde v. Kent, 47 Neb. 26 (66 N. W. 39).

1597. (1899.) Where the record shows an order adjourning to a future day in the term, and judicial proceedings carried on in the interval, it will be presumed, in favor of regularity, that there has been a reconvention and an express or implied vacation of the order of adjournment. Greene v. Morse, 57 Neb. 391 (77 N. W. 925; 73 Am. St. Rep. 761).

1598. (1901.) The statute not requiring a justice of the peace to enter upon his docket the hour when an order of adjournment is made, where jurisdiction has attached it will be presumed that such order was made at the proper time. Kuker v. Beindorff, 63 Neb. 91 (88 N. W. 190).

1599. (1901.) It is necessary that the affidavit for service by publication be filed in the proper office before publication of notice, but when a copy of the affidavit, in due form, is found in the bill of exceptions but without filing marks thereon, it will be presumed, in the absence of specific objections on the trial and any explanatory evidence, that the omission is but a clerical error on the part of the officer in making up the record. Foley v. Doyle, 1 Unof. 643 (95 N. W. 1067).

——— Special appearance.

1600. (1898.) A special appearance must be assumed to have been properly overruled when the affidavit upon which it was founded does not appear in the record in the supreme court. Life Ins. Clearing Co. v. Altschuler, 53 Neb. 481 (73 N. W. 942).

Digitized by Google

Process.

1601. (1902.) When the evidence upon which the trial court acted in refusing to quash the service of a summons is not preserved in a bill of exceptions, the supreme court will presume that it was sufficient to warrant the decision. Haskell v. Dutton, 65 Neb. 274 (91 N. W. 395).

www.lbtool.com.cn

Parties.

1602. (1889.) In an action on a note, where the record shows that a note was introduced in evidence, it will be presumed, in the absence of a showing to the contrary, that it was in a form authorizing plaintiff to sue on it. Bair v. People's Bank, 27 Neb. 577 (43 N. W. 347).

Pleadings.

1603. (1884.) Where the trial court permits an amendment to be made to a pleading during trial it will be presumed to be made to be "in furtherance of justice," unless the contrary appears from the record. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Doggett, 16 Neb. 609 (21 N. W. 468).

1604. (1886.) Where amended pleadings are filed in the district court and properly certified to the supreme court as a part of the transcript, it will be presumed that such pleadings were filed regularly and with the knowledge or permission of the district court, and they will be treated as properly in the record. Johnson v. Missouri P. R. Co., 18 Neb. 690 (26 N. W. 347).

1605. (1893.) When it is sought to review a decree in equity by error proceedings, and the only error alleged is that the pleadings do not support the decree, every reasonable presumption must be indulged in support of the correctness of the decree; and unless it certainly appears that no such decree as rendered could lawfully be pronounced on the pleadings, it will not be disturbed. Fitzgerald v. Brandt, 36 Neb. 683 (54 N. W. 992).

1606. (1894.) Where an answer traverses the allegations of the petition by references to numbers of lines therein, and such numbering is not preserved in the transcript, it will be presumed that all material allegations were denied. Bellevue Improvement Co. v. Village of Bellevue, 39 Neb. 876 (58 N. W. 446).

1607. (1899.) The supreme court will not assume there was error in the overruling of a motion to require a party to make his pleading in the district court comply with a former pleading in the county court, where the record for review fails to show what pleading was filed in the county court. Krebbs v. Holway, 58 Neb. 65 (78 N. W. 397).

1608. (1901.) Where no reply appears in the record and there are other issues on which the cause was properly triable, it will not be presumed that the cause was tried on matters admitted by the pleadings. Ames v. Parrott, 61 Neb. 847 (86 N. W. 503; 87 Am. St. Rep. 536).

1609. (1902.) Where a cause is tried to the court and there is a general finding for the plaintiff, if any cause of action is stated and there is evidence thereon sufficient to sustain the finding, it will be presumed that the court proceeded thereon and the judgment will be affirmed, although the petition attempts also to state a cause of action of a different nature which would not sustain a recovery. Omaha Brewing Ass'n v. Tillenburg, 2 Unof. 277 (96 N. W. 107).

Qualifications of judge.

1610. (1896.) Where the record discloses an order of the district court sufficient in form but omitting the name of the judge by whom it was made, the fact that the sole judge of the district named was at the date thereof disqualified to act in such proceeding by reason of having been attorney for one of the parties raises no presumption against the validity of such order in view of the statute authorizing judges to interchange and hold court for each other. Link v. Connell, 48 Neb. 574 (67 N. W. 475).

Admissibility of evidence.

1611. (1895.) Error does not appear as to the introduction in evidence of a written instrument on the ground of material alteration where the copy in the bill of exceptions and other evidence fail to disclose such alteration. Chadron Banking Co. v. Mahoney, 43 Neb. 214 (61 N. W. 594).

1612. (1898.) The supreme court cannot assume that the rejection of written evidence was prejudicially erroneous when there is in the record before it no showing as to the nature of the evidence rejected. Modern Woodman Accident Ass'n v. Shryock, 54 Neb. 250 (74 N. W. 607; 39 L. R. A. 826).

Depositions.

1613. (1898.) Depositions filed in a lower court are presumed, in the absence of proof to the contrary, to have been transmitted to the district court within the time limited by the statute for that purpose. Thomas v. Nebraska Moline Plow Co., 56 Neb. 383 (76 N. W. 876).

Digitized by Google

Sufficiency of evidence.

www.libtool.com.cn

1614. (1877.) When the record does not contain all the evidence, or show that no evidence was introduced or offered relative to issues of fact in a trial before the court, it will be presumed that the findings of the court are based on sufficient proof of the facts. Hendrix v. Rieman, 6 Neb. 516.

1615. (1880.) Where nothing whatever is shown, if evidence were necessary to have authorized the particular decision complained of, it will be presumed that the evidence was before the court. Credit Foncier v. Rogers, 10 Neb. 184 (4 N. W. 1012).

1616. (1884.) In the absence of a bill of exceptions it will be presumed that the necessary proof was produced at the trial. Vindquest v. Perky, 16 Neb. 284 (20 N. W. 301); (1896) Van Etten v. Test, 49 Neb. 725 (68 N. W. 1023); (1900) Sutton v. Sutton, 60 Neb. 400 (83 N. W. 200); (1900) Fisk v. Thorp, 60 Neb. 713 (84 N. W. 79); (1901) Lexington Bank v. Marsh, 1 Unof. 210 (95 N. W. 341); (1902) Spargur v. Prentiss, 66 Neb. 222 (92 N. W. 300); (1902) Shelby v. Creighton, 2 Unof. 267 (96 N. W. 382).

1617. (1888.) All presumptions are in favor of the regularity of the proceedings of courts of record when collaterally assailed, and where a decree contains the finding of a fact specially, which is pleaded in the petition, it must be presumed that sufficient evidence was submitted to the court to justify such finding. Hilton v. Bachman, 24 Neb. 490 (39 N. W. 419).

1618. (1893.) Exhibits, which the record shows were offered in evidence, will not be presumed to have been withheld from the consideration of the jury, in support of a contention that the verdict was unsupported by the evidence. Dawson v. Williams, 37 Neb. 1 (55 N. W. 284).

1619. (1895.) There being no bill of exceptions the supreme court will assume all facts well pleaded in the petition was established, and also, a failure to prove all affirmative propositions contained in the appellants pleadings. City of Omaha v. Megeath, 46 Neb. 502 (64 N. W. 1091).

1620. (1896.) In absence of a properly authenticated bill of exceptions, it will be presumed that every essential averment of the petition not negatived by the verdict was proved, and that the instructions refused should not have been given. Romberg v. Hediger, 47 Neb. 201 (66 N. W. 283).

1621. (1897.) In absence of a bill of exceptions it will be assumed that the district court was fully justified by the proofs in so ruling on various motions as to require the enforcement of its judgment which previously had been affirmed by the appellate court. Tolerton & Stetson Co. v. German-American Savings Bank, 52 Neb. 194 (71 N. W. 1013).

1622. (1898.) In an action to enjoin the issuance of bonds given in aid of internal improvements, the chief question being whether or not two signers on the petition were qualified freeholders, the record must be considered here on appeal as presented, and, in the absence of proof to sustain the allegations of the petition that these two persons were not freeholders, it must be presumed that they were, and they must be so considered in determining as to the number of proper signers of the petition. Cummings v. Hyatt, 54 Neb. 35 (74 N. W. 411).

1623. (1900.) Where, on appeal it was decided that on a certain point in the case the evidence was insufficient to prove a cause of action and the case was reversed, and a second trial had; the trial court submitting to the jury the question thus decided in the former appeal, in the absence of a record to the contray, it will be presumed in the trial court, having the evidence in both trials before it, found a material difference existing, from which it was determined that the decision in the case on appeal did not apply to the evidence as submitted in the second trial. Missouri P. R. Co. v. Fox, 60 Neb. 531 (83 N. W. 744).

1624. (1900.) Where a trial court makes a finding of fact it is not unreasonable to hold that there exists some testimony relating to the subject, even though it be claimed the evidence does not support the conclusion reached. Blue Valley Lumber Co. v. Conro, 61 Neb. 39 (84 N. W. 402).

1625. (1901.) Nothing appearing to the contrary it will be presumed that the judgment appealed from was within the pleadings and justified by proof. Carter v. Gibson, 61 Neb. 207 (85 N. W. 45; 52 L. R. A. 468).

1626. (1901.) In the absence of a bill of exceptions, it will be presumed that there was evidence sufficient to support an order approving the report of a receiver. State v.

Digitized by Google

Nebraska Savings & Exchange Bank, 61 Neb. 496 (85 N. W. 391).

1627. (1902.) Where affidavits in support of and against the issuance of a temporary order of injunction are not preserved in a bill of exceptions, the supreme court will presume that they were sufficient to support the allegations of the petition and warrant the issuance of the order. State, ex rel. Cohn, v. Jessen, 66 Neb. 515 (92 N. W. 584).

www.ibtoot.com.cn

Instructions given or refused.

1628. (1871.) If the record does not show that it contains all the testimony, it will be presumed that there was evidence which would justify a charge of the court, although it does not appear at large. Homan v. Laboo, 1 Neb. 204.

1629. (1877.) Where the jury were told to disregard "all evidence in relation to bills upon which the witnesses were examined," but it not appearing what these "bills" were, nor what the testimony respecting them was, no error in this particular is apparent, and the propriety of the instruction will be presumed. Faulkner v. Meyers, 6 Neb. 414.

1630. (1891.) Where the instructions given by the court are not set out in the record, error cannot be predicated upon the refusal of the court to give certain instructions which were asked, the presumption being that the court did its duty and gave proper instructions. Malcom v. Hanson, 32 Neb. 50 (48 N. W. 883).

1631. (1895.) An instruction stating a correct rule of law applicable to a certain class of testimony will be presumed upon review to be without error in the absence of a bill of exceptions. Nelson v. Johnson, 44 Neb. 7 (62 N. W. 244).

1632. (1896.) In absence of a bill of exceptions, it will be presumed that instructions containing correct statements of law proper under the pleadings were applicable to the evidence. Oltmans v. Findlay, 47 Neb. 289 (66 N. W. 425); (1898) Home Fire Ins. Co. v. Weed, 55 Neb. 146 (75 N. W. 539); (1898) Hudelson v. First Nat. Bank of Tobias, 56 Neb. 247 (76 N. W. 570); (1899) McGraw v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 59 Neb. 397 (81 N. W. 306); (1902) Meyers v. Menter, 63 Neb. 427 (88 N. W. 662).

1633. (1900.) Where there is a defect in the record an instruction given will be presumed to have been warranted by material evidence not appearing of record. Brownell v. Fuller, 60 Neb. 558 (83 N. W. 669).

Or. direction of verdict.

1634. (1899.) In reviewing a judgment rendered on a verdict, given in obedience to a peremptory instruction, it is the duty of the reviewing court to assume the existence of every material fact which the evidence for the complaining party establishes or tends to prove. Paxton v. State, 59 Neb. 460 (81 N. W. 383; 80 Am. St. Rep. 689).

1635. (1902.) In a case where a verdict has been directed by the trial court, the reviewing court will assume the existence of every material fact which the evidence of the complaining party establishes, or tends to prove. Nothdurft v. City of Lincoln, 66 Neb. 430 (96 N. W. 163).

1636. (1903.) In reviewing the action of a trial court in directing a verdict, the supreme court will regard as conclusively established every fact favorable to the unsuccessful party which the evidence proves or tends to establish. Preston v. Stover, 70 Neb. 632 (97 N. W. 812).

1636*a*. (1907.) It is not only within the power, but it is the duty, of a trial court, in a proper case, to direct a verdict; and, when it does, and the pleadings warrant the verdict, and the evidence is not preserved, it will be presumed that such power was properly exercised. Hibner v. Westover, 78 Neb. 161 (110 N. W. 732).

Conduct of counsel.

1637. (1898.) A comment made by counsel in argument to the jury, with reference to a matter of evidence, will be presumed to have been made for a proper purpose and within the limits of legitimate argument, the contrary not appearing. People's Nat. Bank v. Geisthardt, 55 Neb. 232 (75 N. W. 582).

Verdict.

1638. (1900.) It is presumed that the jury followed the instructions of the court. Missouri P. R. Co. v. Fox, 60 Neb. 531 (83 N. W. 744).

Ruling on application for receiver.

1639. (1896.) The refusal of the district court to appoint a receiver must be affirmed when, neither by the petition nor by the proofs adduced, was there a showing that such refusal was erroneous. Brown v. Fitzpatrick, 49 Neb. 575 (68 N. W. 937).

Digitized by Google

Special findings of jury.

1640. (1895.) A special finding will not be assumed to be in conflict with the general verdict of a jury, unless clearly so made to appear. Citizens Nat. Bank of Grand Island v. Wedgwood, 45 Neb. 143 (63 N. W. 375).

www.uptool.com.cn

Findings of court or referee.

1641. (1888.) Where the findings of fact, found specially by a trial court, were not excepted to and are in favor of the party appealing, they will be taken as correct and will not be questioned by the supreme court. Harrington v. Latta, 23 Neb. 84 (36 N. W. 364).

1642. (1892.) Where a referee is appointed by the court to hear the evidence and report his findings of fact and conclusions of law, within a given time, and the time for filing his report is subsequently extended by the court, upon stipulation of the parties until the first day of the next term of court, and the date when the next term convened not appearing from the record, it will be presumed that such report was made within the time designated by the court. Brown v. Williams, 34 Neb. 376 (51 N. W. 851).

1643. (1892.) In the supreme court the presumption is in favor of the correctness of the finding of fact by the trial court, and such finding will not be reversed unless clearly wrong. Bickel v. McAleer, 35 Neb. 515 (53 N. W. 374).

1644. (1903.) In a suit in equity, where the court makes special findings, and omits therefrom some fact conclusively established by the evidence essential to the decree, such fact, on appeal to the supreme court, will be treated as though found by the court. Lynch v. Egan, 67 Neb. 541 (93 N. W. 775).

1645. (1903.) The usual presumptions in favor of a finding of the trial do not obtain on appeal in an equity case. Michigan Trust Co. v. City of Red Cloud, 69 Neb. 585 (96 N. W. 140).

Judgment.

1646. (1880.) It is a settled rule of law that every presumption is in favor of the correctness of the judgment of a court of general jurisdiction, until the contrary is made affirmatively to appear. Credit Foncier v. Rogers, 10 Neb. 184 (4 N. W. 1012).

1647. (1903.) On a showing of time and opportunity to do so the presumption obtains that a district court has performed its duty in entering such judgment as is required by the terms of a mandate from the supreme court. Abbott v. Lane, 4 Unof. 629 (95 N. W. 599).

——— Default.

1648. (1903.) Where it appears that a default was entered by the district court in an action upon the same day on which defendant filed a general demurrer and it does not appear that the demurrer was on file at the time the default was entered, and further that defendant did not call the attention of the district court to the fact, if it was such, that a demurrer was on file, it will be presumed on error that the trial court acted regularly, and that the default was entered before the filing of the demurrer. Grant v. Commercial Nat. Bank, 67 Neb. 219 (93 N. W. 185).

Proceedings in enforcement of judgment or decree.

1649. (1898.) If it had been necessary or required that the person designated to conduct the foreclosure sale, should take and file an oath, in the absence of proof in the record to the contrary the presumption would prevail that there had been a compliance with such requirement. Wright v. Stevens, 55 Neb. 676 (76 N. W. 441).

1650. (1899.) If in the record presented in an appeal from an order of confirmation of a sale of real estate under decree of foreclosure there is no evidence that the property sold consisted of separate tracts or lots, it will be presumed that the officer who conducted the sale did his duty in a lawful manner and that his offer and sale of it as a whole or one piece of property was proper. Michigan Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Richter, 58 Neb. 463 (78 N. W. 932).

1651. (1901.) Where the record is silent as to the filing of a copy of appraisement on foreclosure, it will be presumed it was duly filed. Bostwick v. Keller, 62 Neb. 815 (87 N. W. 1060).

1652. (1902.) Where the record is silent as to the time of filing copies of the certificates of liens, it will be presumed that they were duly and regularly filed. Clark v. Wolf, 2 Unof. 290 (96 N. W. 495).

1653. (1902.) Regularity of the trial court in passing upon a motion to confirm a sale will be presumed until overcome by affirmative proof in the record. Jones v. Cleary, 2 Unof. 541 (89 N. W. 386).

1654. (1902.) The presumption is that orders entered by the district court to enforce its decrees are regular and made upon proper notice. One who objects to them, for want of notice, where the record does not show such fact affirmatively, must sustain his objection by some proof in order to overcome such presumption. Jones v. Miller, 2 Unof. 582 (92 N. W. 201).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

Order granting or refusing new trial.

1655. (1898.) A judgment of the district court was vacated during the term at which it was rendered in response to a motion assigning as grounds therefor, (1) accident and surprise, (2) irregularity in the proceeding, (3) misconduct of the prevailing party, and (4) insufficiency of the evidence. The moving party failed to establish the existence of any of the first three grounds assigned in his motion. The evidence taken on the trial was not preserved in a bill of exceptions. Held, That the reason for the court's action not appearing, it will be presumed the evidence was insufficient to support the judgment and that the motion was sustained for that reason. Bradley v. Slater, 55 Neb. 334 (75 N. W. 826).

1656. (1903.) Where a plaintiff's allegations in a petition to open up a judgment for fraud of the successful party in obtaining it, filed under section 602 of the code, are sufficient, and the evidence taken at the hearing is not preserved, the action of the trial court in setting aside the judgment and granting a new trial will be presumed to have been on sufficient evidence. Grand Lodge, A. O. U. W., v. Scott, 3 Unof. 845 (93 N. W. 190).

1657. (1905.) On proceedings in error from an order granting a new trial, the grounds for the sustaining of the motion not appearing in the record, it will be presumed that the action of the trial court was correct; and the plaintiff in error must show affirmatively that none of the grounds alleged in the motion for new trial was valid and sufficient to justify the order before the supreme court will interfere. City of Omaha v. Crocker, 73 Neb. 240 (102 N. W. 459).

Presentation of question for review.

1658. (1902.) Where exceptions to instructions appear in the transcript immediately after the charge and before the record of submission to the jury and of the verdict, with an entry showing them to have been filed at the same time with the instructions, and are certified to by the clerk as part of the record of the district court, the same presumption arises as in case of notation by counsel upon the instructions themselves. City of Lincoln v. Sager, 2 Unof. 598 (89 N. W. 617).

1659. (1902.) Where the record merely shows a date of filing an instruction that it was given and was excepted to, the giving and exception will be presumed to be contemporaneous. Skow v. Locke, 3 Unof. 176 (91 N. W. 204).

F. Discretion of Lower Court.

Necessity for exception to present question of abuse of discretion for review, see ante, § 401.

Burden of showing abuse of discretion.

1660. (1884.) In a matter of discretion it will be presumed that it was properly exercised until the contrary is shown. Vindquest v. Perky, 16 Neb. 284 (20 N. W. 301); (1900) Waldron v. First Nat. Bank of Greenwood, 60 Neb. 245 (82 N. W. 856).

1661. (1906.) Every presumption is in favor of the correctness of the order of the district court, and, in the absence of evidence showing that its discretion was abused, the presumption that it was properly exercised in this instance will prevail. Jordan v. Jackson, 76 Neb. 15 (106 N. W. 999; 107 N. W. 1047).

Ruling on motion for continuance or change of venue.

1662. (1871.) Whether the refusal to grant a continuance can be assigned for error, quære? Jameson v. Butler, 1 Neb. 115.

1663. (1876.) Under the statute authorizing a district judge to adjourn court "if sick or for any other sufficient cause unable to attend," the reasons for such an adjournment are not subject to review by the supreme court. Smith v. State, 4 Neb. 277.

1664. (1881.) While an application for a continuance is addressed to the discretion of the court, yet where a party has been diligent, and it appears that there has been an abuse of discretion, operating to his prejudice in the final determination of the case, a new trial will be granted. Johnson v. Dinsmore, 11 Neb. 391 (9 N. W. 558).

1665. (1891.) An application for the postponement of a trial to a later day in the term, or for the continuance of a cause, is addressed to the sound legal discretion of the court, and the ruling thereon will not be disturbed, in the absence of a showing that there has been an abuse of discretion.

Digitized by Google

Billings v. McCoy Brothers, 5 Neb. 187; (1891) McDonald v. McAllister, 32 Neb. 514 (49 N. W. 377); (1894) Nebraska Loan & Trust Co. v. Hamer, 40 Neb. 281 (58 N. W. 695); (1895) Stration v. Dole, 45 Neb. 472 (63 N. W. 875); (1896) Storz v. Finklestein, 48 Neb. 27 (66 N. W. 1020); (1902) Missouri P. R. Co. v. Hemingway, 63 Neb. 610 (88 N. W. 673); (1903) Harker v. Burbank, 68 Neb. 85 (93 N. W. 949); (1903) Miles v. Ballantine, 4 Unof. 171 (93 N. W. 708); (1883) Ingalls v. Nobles, 14 Neb. 272 (15 N. W. 351); (1889) Singer Mfg. Co. v. McAllister Bros., 22 Neb. 359 (35 N. W. 181); (1905) City of Lincoln v. Lincoln St. R. Co., 75 Neb. 523 (106 N. W. 317); (1894) Home Fire Ins. Co. v. Murray, 40 Neb. 597 (59 N. W. 102); (1894) Clark v. Carey, 41 Neb. 780 (60 N. W. 78); (1896) Burris v. Court, 48 Neb. 179 (66 N. W. 1131); (1896) Keens v. Robertson, 46 Neb. 837 (65 N. W. 897).

1666. (1894.) The ruling of a district court on a motion for a continuance will not be disturbed unless it is manifest the court abused its discretion, and the litigant, himself guiltless of negligence or laches, was thereby deprived of an opportunity to make his case or defense. Kansas City, W. & N. W. R. Co. v. Conlee, 43 Neb. 121 (61 N. W. 111).

1667. (1895.) Motions for change of venue and for continuance are addressed to the sound discretion of the trial court, and unless it appears that there has been an abuse of such discretion, its rulings thereon will not be disturbed. Stoppert v. Nierle, 45 Neb. 105 (63 N. W. 382).

1667*a*. (1907.) In the absence of any showing on the part of defendants that they were unprepared to meet, or were surprised by, the allegations in an amendment to the petition allowed at the close of the trial, the decision of the district court refusing a continuance on account of the granting of such amendment will not be reviewed. Bliss v. Beck, 80 Neb. 290 (114 N. W. 162).

Ruling on petition to reinstate cause.

1668. (1872.) An order on a petition to reinstate a cause previously dismissed for want of prosecution is not an exercise of discretion merely, but is subject to review in the supreme court. Smith v. Pinney, 2 Neb. 139.

Rulings as to pleadings.

1669. (1897.) Permitting a defendant in default to file an answer is a matter resting largely in the discretion of the trial court, and a judgment will not be reversed because the defendant was permitted to answer out of time unless the record affirmatively discloses an abuse of discretion. Grand Island & W. C. R. Co. v. Swinbank, 51 Neb. 521 (71 N. W. 48).

——— Amendments.

1670. (1890.) The district court may grant an amendment of a pleading before or at the trial, upon such terms as to payment of costs as may be just, and error will not lie unless there has been an abuse of its discretion. Omaha & R. V. R. Co. v. Brown, 29 Neb. 492 (46 Neb. 39).

1671. (1895.) An order allowing an amendment will not be interfered with on review, except for an abuse of discretion on part of the lower court. Kleckner v. Turk, 45 Neb. 176 (63 N. W. 469); (1902) Hubenka v. Vach, 64 Neb. 170 (89 N. W. 789).

1672. (1896.) The propriety of granting or withholding leave to amend pleadings, to agree with the evidence in a case, is within the sound discretion of the trial judge, and unless there appears to have been an abuse of such discretion, no available error is presented. Imhoff v. Richards, 48 Neb. 590 (67 N. W. 483).

1673. (1897.) Whether an amendment to a pleading shall be allowed after issues have been joined and trial thereof commenced is within the discretion of the trial judge. The discretion is, however, a judicial one and subject to review to ascertain whether there has been an abuse thereof. Harrington v. Connor, 51 Neb. 214 (70 N. W. 911).

1674. (1898.) Amendments to pleadings should always be permitted when in furtherance of justice, and the rulings of the trial court refusing such privilege, will be reversed when the record presents a clear abuse of discretion. Perkins County v. Miller, 55 Neb. 141 (75 N. W. 577).

1675. (1902.) The question of the right to file amended pleadings during the trial is one which is confided to the discretion of the trial court, and unless the record clearly shows an abuse of discretion, the rulings thereon will be sustained. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Martelle, 65 Neb. 540 (91 N. W. 364); (1904) Nebraska Land & Feeding Co. v. Trauerman, 70 Neb. 795 (98 N. W. 37).

Rulings as to stipulations.

1676. (1902.) The right of a party to withdraw or amend a stipulation of facts

Digitized by Google

filed in a case is within the sound discretion of the trial court, and the ruling of the trial court with regard thereto will not be disturbed in the absence of abuse. State Ins. Co. v. Farmers' Mutual Ins. Co., 65 Neb. 34 (90 N. W. 997).

Rulings on examination of jurors.

1677. (1876.) Where there is no abuse of the discretion vested in the district court, in excusing persons from serving on juries, its action in that regard will not be reviewed in the supreme court. Dodge v. State, 4 Neb. 220.

1678. (1893.) In superintending the impaneling of a jury some discretion is necessarily confided to the court, and the excusing of a juror for cause will not be held ground for reversal, unless there appears to have been an abuse of discretion. Omaha St. R. Co. v. Beeson, 36 Neb. 361 (54 N. W. 557).

1679. (1895.) Prejudicial error will not be found in the rulings of the trial court during the voir dire examination of a veniremen unless an abuse of discretion is shown. Basye v. State, 45 Neb. 261 (63 N. W. 811).

1680. (1897.) In examining a juror to ascertain whether a ground for challenge for cause exists, what questions may be asked, or what scope the examination may take, rests in the discretion of the trial court, and its rulings will not be disturbed unless there has been an abuse of discretion prejudicial to the party complaining. Van Skike v. Potter, 53 Neb. 28 (73 N. W. 295).

1681. (1898.) Retention or rejection of a juror, during the impaneling of a jury, to whom an objection has been interposed, is a matter within the discretion of the trial judge, and in the absence of an abuse of such discretion will furnish no available error. State v. Bartley, 56 Neb. 810 (77 N. W. 438).

1682. (1904.) A trial court has a large discretion in sustaining challenges for cause of persons drawn as talesmen to serve as jurors, and its exclusion of such a person cannot be successfully assigned for error when it is not shown by the party objecting that by reason thereof an incompetent juror has been included in the panel, and it does not appear that the court has committed an abuse of discretion. Felsch v. Babb, 72 Neb. 736 (101 N. W. 1011).

Conduct of trial in general.

1682*a*. (1908.) Unless an abuse of discretion is shown, the supreme court will not reverse a judgment of the district court because of the refusal of the court to permit the jury to view the premises. Beck v. Staats, 80 Neb. 482 (114 N. W. 633).

Rulings on evidence.

1683. (1897.) Some discretion is conferred upon the trial court in receiving evidence of experiments for the purpose of contradicting or corroborating other witnesses, and in order to authorize the reversal of a judgment on account of the admission or rejection of such evidence there must have been a clear abuse of discretion. City of Ord v. Nash, 50 Neb. 335 (69 N. W. 964).

1684. (1898.) Where testimony is received without objection, and a motion is made to strike it out on the ground of its incompetency, what disposition shall be made of the motion is a matter discretionary with the court. McClellan v. Hein, 56 Neb. 600 (77 N. W. 120).

1685. (1899.) A ruling on motion to strike out testimony, when within the discretion of the trial judge, will not be reversed except for an abuse of discretion. Clark v. Douglas, 58 Neb. 571 (79 N. W. 158).

1686. (1901.) If incompetent evidence is given without objection a subsequent motion to strike out is addressed to the sound discretion of the trial court and overruling of such motion is not ground for reversal. McCormick Harvesting Machine Co. v. Carpenter, 1 Unof. 273 (95 N. W. 617).

1687. (1903.) The admission or exclusion of declarations rests largely in the discretion of the trial court; such discretion is not an absolute discretion to be exercised arbitrarily but a legal discretion, the abuse of which constitutes reversible error. Pledger v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 69 Neb. 456 (95 N. W. 1057).

——— Competency of witnesses.

1688. (1899.) The decision of preliminary issues touching the competency of witnesses, or admissibility of evidence, is for the trial judge. Phenix Ins. Co. of Brooklyn v. Holcombe, 57 Neb. 622 (78 N. W. 300; 73 Am. St. Rep. 532).

1689. (1901.) The determination of the competency of witnesses to testify as to their opinion of the value of real estate, which is the subject of controversy, rests largely in the discretion of the trial court, and a ruling thereon will not be disturbed on review except when clearly erroneous as a matter of law. Omaha Loan & Trust Co. v. Douglas County, 62 Neb. 1 (86 N. W. 936).

Digitized by Google

1690. (1901.) The competency of opinion evidence is largely in the discretion of the trial judge, and unless it is clearly inadmissible the ruling will not be disturbed. Jerabek v. Kennedy, 61 Neb. 349 (85 N. W. 279).

1691. (1901.) The competency of expert witnesses is a question largely within the discretion of the trial court, and its rulings thereon will not be reversed unless clearly erroneous as a matter of law. Schmuck v. Hill, 2 Unof. 79 (96 N. W. 158).

Order of proof.

1692. (1880.) The order of introducing evidence is discretionary with the trial court, especially when the trial is to the court without a jury, there being no abuse of such discretion. Goodman v. Kennedy, 10 Neb. 270 (4 N. W. 987).

1693. (1886.) The order of introducing evidence is discretionary with the trial court and its ruling is no cause for reversal where no abuse of discretion is shown. Village of Ponca v. Crawford, 18 Neb. 551 (26 N. W. 365); (1888) Village of Ponca v. Crawford, 23 Neb. 662 (37 N. W. 609); (1892) McCleneghan v. Reid, 34 Neb. 472 (51 N. W. 1037); (1892) Consaul v. Sheldon, 35 Neb. 247 (52 N. W. 1104); (1899) Pennsylvania Co. v. Kennard Glass & Paint Co., 59 Neb. 435 (81 N. W. 372); (1902) McDermott v. Manley, 65 Neb. 194 (90 N. W. 1119).

Exclusion of witnesses.

1694. (1896.) An application to have the witnesses excluded from the court room during the progress of the trial of the cause in which they are to be examined is addressed to the sound discretion of the trial judge. Where a request for such action is refused and no abuse of the discretion is apparent, there is no available error. Halbert v. Rosenbalm, 49 Neb. 498 (68 N. W. 622).

Examination of witnesses.

1695. (1896.) In absence of an abuse of discretion, the action of the trial court in limiting the cross-examination of a witness will not be reviewed in the supreme court. Stough v. Ogden, 49 Neb. 291 (68 N. W. 516).

1696. (1897.) A judgment will not be reversed because the cross-examination of a witness was restricted unless there was an abuse of discretion on part of the trial court, prejudicial to the party complaining. Atwood v. Marshall, 52 Neb. 173 (71 N. W. 1064).

1697. (1901.) No error to refuse permission to go into new matter on cross-examination. Black v. Webber, 1 Unof. 468 (96 N. W. 606).

1698. (1902.) As the trial court is in a better position to pass on the question how far a party has been at fault in case of violation of an order separating witnesses, the supreme court will not interfere with its determination if it may be sustained by any inference reasonably deducible from the evidence. Murray v. Allerton, 3 Unof. 291 (91 N. W. 518).

——— Leading questions.

1699. (1892.) As a general rule, the allowing of a leading question is a matter within the discretion of the trial court, and a judgment should not be reversed on that ground unless it is apparent that there has been a clear abuse of discretion. St. Paul & Marine Ins. Co. v. Gotthelf, 35 Neb. 351 (53 N. W. 137); (1896) Baum Iron Co. v. Burg, 47 Neb. 21 (66 N. W. 8); (1897) Perry v. German-American Bank, 53 Neb. 89 (73 N. W. 538; 68 Am. St. Rep. 593); (1899) Schmelling v. State, 57 Neb. 562 (78 N. W. 279); (1901) Hiersche v. Scott, 1 Unof. 48 (95 N. W. 494); (1903) Campion v. Lattimer, 70 Neb. 245 (97 N. W. 290).

1700. (1903.) How far, if at all, a party shall be permitted to cross-examine, or put leading questions to his own witnesses, where they appear to be hostile or unwilling, is in the discretion of the trial court, and its rulings in such matters will not be disturbed except for manifest abuse of discretion. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co., 68 Neb. 624 (94 N. W. 822).

Reopening case for further testimony.

1701. (1896.) The granting or overruling of an application by a party to a suit who has rested his case, to withdraw the rest and offer or introduce further testimony, is a matter within the discretion of the trial judge, and where such an application has been allowed for the purpose of affording a party an opportunity to offer or introduce testimony on certain subjects specified in the motion and allowance, and the party seeks to extend the privilege accorded, further so as to include other and entirely different subjects, it is within the discretion of the trial court to grant or refuse such refusal so to do, it will not be error or cause for reversal of the judgment. Omaha Real Estate & Trust Co. v. Kragscow, 47 Neb. 592 (66 N. W. 658).

Digitized by Google

www.libool.com.cn

1702. (1898.) The request of the plaintiff, who has closed the evidence in chief after the introduction of rebuttal evidence has been reached and is in progress, to be allowed to return to the evidence in chief, open that branch of the trial, and adduce further evidence therein, is within discretion of the trial court, and unless its ruling thereon is accompanied by an abuse of such discretion, it can furnish no reason for a reversal of the judgment. McClellan v. Heim, 56 Neb. 600 (77 N. W. 120).

Rulings on requests for special findings.

1703. Interrogatories for special findings may be submitted to the jury or refused in the discretion of the trial court, and unless there has been an abuse of discretion in that regard, the ruling will not be disturbed. (1888) Floaten v. Ferrell, 24 Neb. 347 (38 N. W. 732); (1894) Murphy v. Gould, 40 Neb. 728 (59 N. W. 383); (1894) Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Lawlor, 40 Neb. 356 (58 N. W. 968); (1894) Hedrick v. Strauss, 42 Neb. 485 (60 N. W. 928); (1897) Phœnix Ins. Co. v. King, 52 Neb. 562 (72 N. W. 855); (1898) Omaha & R. V. R. Co. v. Crow, 54 Neb. 747 (74 N. W. 1066; 69 Am. St. Rep. 741); (1898) American Fire Ins. Co. v. Landfare, 56 Neb. 482 (76 N. W. 1068); (1901) Huber Mfg. Co. v. Gottchall, 1 Unof. 548 (96 N. W. 611); (1894) Union P. R. Co. v. Cobb, 41 Neb. 120 (59 N. W. 355); (1894) Reed v. McRill, 41 Neb. 206 (59 N. W. 775); (1902) Chicago, St. P., M. & O. R. Co. v. Lagerkrans, 65 Neb. 566 (91 N. W. 358; 95 N. W. 2); (1902) City of Crete v. Hendricks, 2 Unof. 847 (90 N. W. 215); (1904) Johnson v. Heath, 5 Unof. 369 (98 N. W. 832).

Arguments of counsel.

1704. (1895.) Although the practice of reading to the jury from reported decisions should not be encouraged, the subject is one within the discretion of the trial court and presents no grounds for interference by the supreme court in the absence of an abuse of discretion. Stratton v. Dole, 45 Neb. 472 (63 N. W. 875).

1705. (1895.) Considerable discretion is vested in the trial judge in controlling and managing the routine proceedings at the trial, and this applies to the opening statements of counsel as well as to other incidents of the trial. The discretion must be a reasonable one, and it is only where there has been a clear abuse of discretion that the error will be corrected by a reviewing court. Stratton v. Nye, 45 Neb. 619 (63 N. W. 928).

1706. (1902.) It is within the discretion of the trial court to limit the time for arguments to the jury, and an order so limiting time presents no question for review, unless it is made to appear that the arguments were thereby unduly restricted and that the time allotted to the complaining party was consumed. Dixon v. State, 46 Neb. 298 (64 N. W. 956); Schrandt v. Young, 2 Unof. 546 (89 N. W. 607).

Vacating or modifying judgments.

1707. (1879.) A modification or correction of an imperfect judgment, during the same term is discretionary with the court, and not reviewable on error. Wise v. Frey, 9 Neb. 217 (2 N. W. 375).

1708. (1894.) Rulings of trial courts in vacating judgments at the same term at which they were rendered are discretionary, and will not be reversed where there has been no abuse of discretion. Bigler v. Baker, 40 Neb. 325 (58 N. W. 1026; 24 L. R. A. 255).

1709. (1894.) In reviewing a ruling on a motion to vacate a judgment by default a stronger showing of abuse of discretion is required to justify reversal where the motion is sustained than where it is overruled. Bigler v. Baker, 40 Neb. 325 (58 N. W. 1026; 24 L. R. A. 255).

1710. (1902.) The district court has power to set aside, change or modify its judgments during the term at which they are rendered. An application to set aside a decree and allow the introduction of evidence upon a technical point, is addressed to the discretion of the court, and error cannot be predicated upon the ruling thereon. Enyart v. Moran, 64 Neb. 401 (89 N. W. 1045).

New trials.

1711. (1886.) Motions for a new trial are addressed to the sound discretion of the court, and in such cases a decision of the district court in granting a new trial will not be reversed unless there has been an abuse of such discretion. Sang v. Beers, 20 Neb. 365 (30 N. W. 258); (1904) Kleutsch v. Security Mutual Life Ins. Co., 72 Neb. 75 (100 N. W. 139).

Digitized by Google

1712. (1888.) Where pending decision on a motion for a new trial, it is stipulated that the ruling thereon may be reviewed by the supreme court, without reference to a subsequent trial, and providing for the disposition of the case upon the ruling of the supreme court, the recognized rule, that in deciding a motion for new trial, the ruling of the district court will not be molested, unless there is an abuse of discretion, does not apply with its usual force, and the supreme court will examine the case, in the exercise of the jurisdiction conferred by the stipulation, without reference to such rule, but the rule that the jury must be the sole judges of questions of fact where the testimony is contradictory will be adhered to. Johnson v. Parrotte, 23 Neb. 232 (36 N. W. 497).

1713. (1896.) A stronger showing is required to reverse an order allowing a new trial than to reverse one denying it. School District No. 1 v. Bishop, 46 Neb. 850 (65 N. W. 902).

1714. (1900.) A motion for a new trial on the ground of accident or surprise is addressed to the sound discretion of the trial court. Zimmerer v. Fremont Nat. Bank, 59 Neb. 661 (81 N. W. 849).

1715. (1906.) The ruling on a motion for a new trial on the ground that the court proceed with the trial in the absence of defendant or his counsel will not be disturbed unless abuse of discretion is shown. Simeral v. Rosewater, 77 Neb. 854 (110 N. W. 546).

Directions to receiver.

1716. (1899.) An order of the court giving directions or instructions to a receiver in the performance of his trust will not be disturbed on review where no abuse of discretion is shown. State v. Bank of Rushville, 57 Neb. 608 (78 N. W. 281).

Taxation of costs.

1717. (1890.) The awarding of costs on the granting of a continuance is discretionary with the trial court. Coombs v. Brenklander, 29 Neb. 586 (45 N. W. 929).

1718. (1895.) The awarding and taxation of costs rests in the discretion of the trial court, where no statutory provision controls. Woodward v. Baird, 43 Neb. 310 (61 N. W. 612).

1719. (1901.) In other actions than those in which costs follow of course, the discretion of the trial court in awarding costs will not be interfered with, except where facts regularly brought before the supreme court show abuse of such discretion. Porter v. Trompen, 2 Unof. 76 (96 N. W. 226).

G. Questions of Fact, Verdicts and Findings.

Credibility of witnesses.

1720. (1882.) Where the testimony is conflicting, the quetsion of the credibility of the witnesses is to be determined by the jury. Case v. Frederick, 13 Neb. 423 (14 N. W. 169).

1721. (1894.) The supreme court will not weigh conflicting evidence nor pass upon the credibility of witnesses. Omaha St. R. Co. v. Craig, 39 Neb. 601 (58 N. W. 209).

1722. (1897.) The rule that the credibility of a witness is a matter for the determination of triers of fact does not require the supreme court, on appeal, to accept the statement of a witness, where it is demonstrated to be false. Linton v. Cooper, 53 Neb. 400 (73 N. W. 731).

1723. (1901.) The weight to be attached to the testimony of different witnesses is peculiarly and especially a question for the jury. They are the triers of fact, and their judgment, based on the consideration and weighing of conflicting evidence, should not be overturned, unless it can be said the verdict is clearly wrong and under no rational view of the case can the conclusion reached be justified. Lammers v. Boehmer, 62 Neb. 159 (86 N. W. 1067).

Verdicts.

1724. (1876.) Where a verdict or finding is clearly wrong it should be set aside; but if there is only doubt as to its correctness it will not be disturbed. Seymour v. Street, 5 Neb. 85.

1725. (1879.) Where the finding or verdict is clearly wrong, it should be set aside. In no other way can the rights of parties be protected. Roberts v. Swearingen, 8 Neb. 363.

1726. (1884.) In an action against a municipal corporation for negligence, where the question of the contributory negligence of the plaintiff is submitted to the jury and found against the city, the verdict will not be set aside clearly wrong. City of Omaha v. Cane, 15 Neb. 657 (20 N. W. 101).

Digitized by Google

1727. (1884.) The verdict of a jury upon questions of fact submitted to them is final, unless such verdict is manifestly wrong. Rolfe v. Pilloud, 16 Neb. 21 (19 N. W. 615, 970); (1886) Lane v. Starkey, 20 Neb. 586 (31 N. W. 238); (1887) Manning v. Cunningham, 21 Neb. 288 (31 N. W. 933).

1728. (1889.) Questions relating to damages for right of way are peculiarly of a local nature, and where the jury have been permitted to view the premises affected, and rendered a verdict, the verdict will not be set aside unless it is clearly wrong. Fremont, E. & M. V. R. Co. v. Meeker, 28 Neb. 94 (44 N. W. 79).

1729. (1893.) Where incompetent evidence is admitted against objections, but the admission of such evidence is not specifically assigned as error, the supreme court will nevertheless disregard such incompetent evidence in considering the question whether the verdict is sustained by the evidence. Commercial Nat. Bank of St. Paul v. Brill, 37 Neb. 626 (56 N. W. 382).

——In equitable actions.

1730. (1902.) As the findings of fact by the jury in equity cases are advistory only, if the court, having heard the testimony, adopts them and there is sufficient competent evidence to sustain them, errors in the admission of evidence are without prejudice. Welch v. Tippery, 66 Neb. 604 (92 N. W. 582).

1731. (1907.) The act of 1903 (laws 1903, ch. 125), section 681*a* of the code, relative to the mode of review in the supreme court of judgments in suits of equity, does not disturb the conclusiveness of decisions of fact by juries, or by trial judges sitting in their stead, in law cases. First Nat. Bank of West Point v. Crawford, 78 Neb. 665 (111 N. W. 587).

——Sufficiency of evidence to support.

1732. (1871.) The appellate court will presume the verdict of the jury sustained by the evidence, unless the contrary fully appear. Midland P. R. Co. v. McCartney, 1 Neb. 398.

1733. (1876.) A judgment will not be reversed on the ground that the finding or verdict is contrary to the evidence, unless it manifestly is so; and the reviewing court will always hesitate to reverse when doubts as to its propriety arise out of a conflict in oral evidence. Atchison & N. R. Co. v. Washburn, 5 Neb. 117; (1878) Cook v. Powell, 7 Neb. 284; (1880) Townley v. Cody, 10 Neb. 383 (6 N. W. 464); (1882) Travis v. Cooley, 12 Neb. 482 (11 N. W. 740); (1882) Gibson v. Cleveland Paper Co., 13 Neb. 277 (13 N. W. 403); (1882) Potvin v. Curran, 13 Neb. 302 (14 N. W. 400); (1894) American B. & L. Ass'n v. Mordock, 39 Neb. 413 (58 N. W. 107); (1901) Becker v. Vollmer, 1 Unof. 308 (95 N. W. 482); (1905) Union P. R. Co. v. Fickenscher, 74 Neb. 497 (105 N. W. 39).

1734. (1876.) A mere difference of opinion as to the weight of evidence between a reviewing court and the court which tried the cause is not sufficient to reverse a judgment. To do so the preponderance of evidence must be clear, obvious, and decided, or so great as to indicate prejudice, partiality, or corruption. Atchison & N. R. Co. v. Washburn, 5 Neb. 117.

1735. (1876.) It is not the number of witnesses produced by a party, nor their language alone, that should be looked to in determining whether a new trial should be granted, but all the surrounding circumstances should be taken into the account and given due weight. Blackburn v. Ostrander, 5 Neb. 219.

1736. (1877.) Where a verdict is clearly wrong it should be set aside; but a mere difference of opinion between the court and jury will not warrant the former in setting aside the verdict of the latter. Storms v. Eaton, 5 Neb. 453; (1877) Milton v. State, 6 Neb. 136; (1877) Hedman v. Anderson, 6 Neb. 392; (1878) Lea v. McLennan, 7 Neb. 143; (1879) Fisk v. State, 9 Neb. 62 (2 N. W. 381); (1882) Prescott v. Jones, 13 Neb. 534 (14 N. W. 536); (1885) Savage v. Pelton, 17 Neb. 144 (22 N. W. 351); (1885) Filley v. Norton, 17 Neb. 472 (23 N. W. 347); (1889) Durrell v. Hart, 25 Neb. 610 (41 N. W. 551); (1895) Risse v. Gasch, 43 Neb. 287 (61 N. W. 616); (1895) Spears v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 43 Neb. 720 (62 N. W. 68); (1898) Missouri P. R. Co. v. Palmer, 55 Neb. 559 (76 N. W. 169); (1899) German-American Bank of Milwaukee v. Stickle, 59 Neb. 321 (80 N. W. 910); (1905) Davey v. Davey, 73 Neb. 726 (103 N. W. 282); (1907) Northwest Thresher Co. v. Eddyville State Bank, 80 Neb. 377 (114 N. W. 291).

1737. (1879.) When there is not sufficient testimony to sustain a verdict, it will be set aside. Fisk v. State, 9 Neb. 62 (2

Digitized by Google

N. W. 381); (1882) Dunbar v. Briggs, 13 Neb. 332 (14 N. W. 414); (1889) Reid v. Colby, 26 Neb. 469 (42 N. W. 485); (1890) Hiatt v. Kinkaid, 28 Neb. 721 (45 N. W. 236); (1893) Wood River Bank v. Dodge, 36 Neb. 708 (55 N. W. 234); (1896) Anheuser-Busch Brewing A'ssn v. Murray, 47 Neb. 627 (66 N. W. 635); (1897) Esterly Harvesting Machine Co. v. Berg, 52 Neb. 147 (71 N. W. 952); (1900) Bradford v. Anderson, 60 Neb. 368 (83 N. W. 173).

www.nbtool.com.cn

1738. (1879.) Where there is a substantial support to the verdict by the evidence the finding of the jury will not be disturbed. Atchison & N. R. Co. v. Jones, 9 Neb. 67 (2 N. W. 363); (1888) Riley v. Melquist, 23 Neb. 474 (36 N. W. 657); (1888) Sherwin v. O'Conner, 24 Neb. 603 (39 N. W. 620); (1889) Dickenson v. Pelton, 27 Neb. 76 (42 N. W. 891); (1889) City of Fremont v. Brenner, 27 Neb. 405 (43 N. W. 177); (1893) Hodgman v. Thomas, 37 Neb. 568 (56 N. W. 199); (1893) Schrider v. Tighe, 38 Neb. 394 (56 N. W. 994); (1903) Cozad Irrigation Co. v. Barnes, 4 Unof. 418 (94 N. W. 603).

1739. (1883.) To warrant the setting aside of a verdict for want of evidence to support it, it is not enough that the court would have found differently from the jury upon it, but there must be no reasonable doubt of its insufficiency. Converse v. Meyer, 14 Neb. 190 (15 N. W. 340).

1740. (1884.) Except in very extraordinary cases the supreme court will only look into questions of fact sufficiently to ascertain that the jury, or court setting without a jury, had sufficient facts before it upon which to find its verdict or decision. And only in such cases will it consider the weight of testimony. Poessenecker v. Weatherby, 16 Neb. 94 (19 N. W. 599).

1741. (1884.) A judgment for damages will not be set aside simply because the damages allowed appear to be high, if there is any evidence to support the finding of the jury. Especially so when the verdict does not appear to have been the result of passion or prejudice. Waters v. Reuber, 16 Neb. 99 (19 N. W. 687; 49 Am. Rep. 710); (1902) Village of Plainview v. Mendelson, 65 Neb. 85 (90 N. W. 956).

1742. (1887.) A verdict so clearly wrong as to induce the belief on the part of the reviewing court that it must have been found through mistake, or some means not apparent in the record, will be set aside and a new trial awarded. Sandwich Mfg. Co. v. Feary, 22 Neb. 53 (33 N. W. 485).

1743. (1890.) If the evidence on behalf of one party, when considered without reference to the evidence introduced by the other party, sustains the verdict, the verdict will not be set aside by a reviewing court on the ground that it was not supported by the evidence. Elsanger v. Grovijohn, 29 Neb. 139 (45 N. W. 273).

1744. (1891.) That a verdict is excessive, and was rendered under the influence of passion and prejudice, assigned as an error in a civil action for review; held, that there must be some testimony or fact of record to support the conclusion. Nowotny v. Blair, 32 Neb. 175 (49 N. W. 357).

1745. (1893.) Where the burden of proof is upon the plaintiff to establish the bona fides of a chattel mortgage whereunder he claims, a verdict in favor of defendant will not be set aside on the ground that the verdict is not sustained by the evidence, unless the evidence offered by plaintiff is of a clear and convincing character. Fitzgerald v. Meyer, 37 Neb. 50 (55 N. W. 296).

1746. (1894.) It is a settled rule of the supreme court that the finding of fact made by a jury or trial judge will not be disturbed if supported by competent evidence. Upton v. Levy, 39 Neb. 331 (58 N. W. 95); (1895) Schelly v. Schwank, 44 Neb. 504 (62 N. W. 1069); (1895) Shafer v. Briggs, 46 Neb. 445 (64 N. W. 1079); (1896) Kaufmann v. Cooper, 46 Neb. 644 (65 N. W. 796); (1896) Hay v. Miller, 48 Neb. 156 (66 N. W. 1115); (1897) Klose v. Bogue, 52 Neb. 427 (72 N. W. 581); (1898) Shafer v. Whiting, 55 Neb. 756 (76 N. W. 446).

1747. (1894.) When the existence of a fraudulent motive was the question of fact submitted to a jury, its verdict will not be disturbed if sustained by competent evidence. Melick v. Varney, 41 Neb. 105 (59 N. W. 521).

1748. (1895.) A verdict will not be set aside because of the inadequacy of the damages awarded, when on one issue, if found for the plaintiff, they would be inadequate, but when the verdict may have been based on other issues calling for a smaller recovery. Edney v. Baum, 44 Neb. 294 (62 N. W. 461).

1749. (1896.) The fact that the testimony of a witness is unintelligible to the official stenographer of itself affords no ground for the reversal of a judgment. Blomgren v. Holmquest, 49 Neb. 49 (68 N. W. 382).

Digitized by Google

1750. (1900.) A verdict based upon evidence sufficient to establish a holding of possession of property adversely, openly, notoriously, exclusively and continuously for a period exceeding ten years prior to the commencement of an action, under a claim of right, will not be disturbed, although the evidence introduced to establish such fact may not be inconsistent with a holding under a claim other than that of title. Murray v. Romine, 60 Neb. 94 (82 N. W. 318).

1751. (1901.) The finding of a jury that a deed was made as an absolute conveyance of the title, and not as a mortgage to secure a debt due the grantee, will not be disturbed where there is evidence sufficient to support such finding. Farmers & Merchants Ins. Co. v. Hahn, 1 Unof. 510 (96 N. W. 255).

1752. (1905.) The supreme court will not set aside the verdict of a jury for want of evidence to support it, if there is sufficient evidence in the record, taken by itself, to have supported a judgment by default, unless the preponderance of the evidence against the verdict is so strong as to indicate that the verdict must have been predicated upon something other than the evidence. Union P. R. Co. v. Fickenscher, 74 Neb. 507 (110 N. W. 561).

1753. (1906.) When the amount of damages awarded by a jury cannot be ascertained from the facts proved, the verdict should be set aside. Poels v. Wilson, 77 Neb. 73 (108 N. W. 153); (1907) Poels v. Brown, 78 Neb. 783 (111 N. W. 798).

——Conflicting evidence.

1754. (1874.) A verdict will not be set aside merely because there is an apparent conflict in the testimony, or where the court is inclined to differ with the jury upon the weight of the evidence; but it should appear to a reasonable certainty, that injustice has been done to the party complaining, by the failure of the jury to give to the whole testimony its proper weight in determining the question submitted to them. Brown v. Hurst, 3 Neb. 353; (1877) McCune v. Thomas, 6 Neb. 488.

1755. (1877.) The verdict of a jury rendered on conflicting evidence, will not be disturbed unless it is clearly wrong. High v. Merchants Bank, 6 Neb. 155; (1878) McCann v. McDonald & Co., 7 Neb. 305; (1881) Huff v. Nims, 11 Neb. 363 (9 N. W. 548); (1881) O'Leary v. Iskey, 12 Neb. 136 (10 N. W. 576); (1884) Everett v. Hobleman, 15 Neb. 376 (19 N. W. 452); (1884) Coleman v. Ririe, 15 Neb. 407 (19 N. W. 486); (1884) Donovan v. Yard, 16 Neb. 33 (19 N. W. 637); (1884) McCormick v. Laughran, 16 Neb. 87 (20 N. W. 107); (1884) Faulkner v. Klamp, 16 Neb. 174 (20 N. W. 220); (1884) O'Dea v. State, 16 Neb. 241 (20 N. W. 299); (1884) Fitzgerald v. Fitzgerald, 16 Neb. 413 (20 N. W. 269); (1884) Sycamore Marsh Harvester Co. v. Grundrad, 16 Neb. 529 (20 N. W. 832); (1885) Warrick v. Rounds, 17 Neb. 411 (22 N. W. 785); (1885) Young v. Roberts, 17 Neb. 426 (22 N. W. 792); (1885) Nelson v. Johnansen, 18 Neb. 180 (24 N. W. 730; 54 Am. Rep. 806); (1885) Casebeer v. Rice, 18 Neb. 203 (24 N. W. 693); (1885) Parmele v. Conn, 18 Neb. 288 (25 N. W. 93); (1886) Gibson v. Sullivan, 18 Neb. 558 (26 N. W. 368); (1886) Romberg v. Hughes, 18 Neb. 579 (26 N. W. 351); (1886) Hutchinson v. State, 19 Neb. 262 (27 N. W. 132); (1886) White Lake Lumber Co. v. Stone, 19 Neb. 402 (27 N. W. 395); (1886) Meyer v. Wilkie, 19 Neb. 509 (27 N. W. 727); (1886) Morrill v. Tegarden, 19 Neb. 534 (26 N. W. 202); (1886) Dodge v. Runels, 20 Neb. 33 (28 N. W. 849); (1886) Nyce v. Shaffer, 20 Neb. 507 (30 N. W. 943); (1887) Rathman v. Norenberg, 21 Neb. 467 (32 N. W. 305); (1887) Driscoll v. Troughton, 22 Neb. 260 (34 N. W. 497); (1887) Stewart v. Schneider, 22 Neb. 286 (34 N. W. 640); (1887) Forbes v. Thomas, 22 Neb. 541 (35 N. W. 411); (1888) Colton & Co. v. Shafer, 23 Neb. 724 (37 N. W. 615); (1888) Camp & Compton v. Sadler, 22 Neb. 732 (36 N. W. 144); (1889) Klosterman v. Olcott, 25 Neb. 382 (41 N. W. 250); (1889) Youngson v. Pollock, 25 Neb. 431 (41 N. W. 279); (1889) Lowrey v. Shaffer, 25 Neb. 832 (41 N. W. 796); (1889) Sanders v. Quick, 28 Neb. 162 (44 N. W. 88); (1889) Feder, Nusbaum & Co. v. Solomon, 26 Neb. 266 (42 N. W. 1); (1890) Phœnix Ins. Co. v. Readinger, 28 Neb. 587 (44 N. W. 864); (1890) Wallace v. Thresher, 28 Neb. 806 (44 N. W. 1135); (1890) Curry v. Metcalf, 30 Neb. 256 (46 N. W. 490); (1891) Hunter v. Bell, 33 Neb. 249 (49 N. W. 1132); (1892) Roach v. Hawkinson, 34 Neb. 658 (52 N. W. 373); (1894) Howell Lumber Co. v. Campbell, 38 Neb. 567 (57 N. W. 383); (1894) Omaha St. R. Co. v. Clair 39 Neb. 454 (58 N. W. 98); (1894) Fremont, E. & M. V. R. Co. v. Leslie, 41 Neb.

Digitized by Google

159 (59 N. W. 559); (1894) Kirkendall, Jones & Co. v. Davis, 41 Neb. 285 (59 N. W. 915); (1894) Peaks v. Lord, 42 Neb. 15 (60 N. W. 349); (1894) Barr v. City of Omaha, 42 Neb. 341 (60 N. W. 591); (1894) Fabens v. Atchison & N. R. Co., 43 Neb. 74 (61 N. W. 99); (1895) Prewitt v. York County, 43 Neb. 267 (61 N. W. 581); (1895) Ripley v. Larsen, 43 Neb. 687 (62 N. W. 39); (1895) Brown v. Cleveland, 44 Neb. 239 (62 N. W. 463); (1895) B'Nai Israel v. Garneau, 45 Neb. 592 (63 N. W. 828); (1896) Haubrock v. Loeb, 46 Neb. 868 (65 N. W. 1057); (1896) Nelson v. Mills, 47 Neb. 824 (66 N. W. 854); (1896) Smith v. Smith, 48 Neb. 21 (66 N. W. 1016); (1896 Louis v. Union P. R. Co., 48 Neb. 151 (66 N. W. 1133); (1896) Fremont, E. & M. V. R. Co. v. French, 48 Neb. 638 (67 N. W. 472); (1896) Spurck v. Dean, 49 Neb. 66 (68 N. W. 375); (1896) Graham v. Frazier, 49 Neb. 90 (68 N. W. 367); (1896) McCormick Harvesting Machine Co. v. Seeman, 49 Neb. 312 (68 N. W. 482); (1896) Halbert v. Rosenbalm, 49 Neb. 498 (68 N. W. 622); (1896) O'Brien v. Parsons, 49 Neb. 729 (68 N. W. 1020); (1897) Garneau v. Omaha Printing Co., 52 Neb. 383 (72 N. W. 360); (1897) Patrick v. Commercial Nat. Bank of Fremont, 52 Neb. 416 (72 N. W. 589); (1897) Morsch v. Besack, 52 Neb. 502 (72 N. W. 953); (1898) Wurdeman v. Schultz, 54 Neb. 404 (74 N. W. 951); (1898) Herzke v. Blake, 54 Neb. 465 (74 N. W. 959); (1898) Union Life Ins. Co. v. Haman, 54 Neb. 599 (74 N. W. 1090); (1898) Stevens v. Kirk, 54 Neb. 669 (74 N. W. 1066); (1898) Jaeggi v. Galley, 54 Neb. 800 (75 N. W. 238); (1898) Bartlett v. Scott, 55 Neb. 477 (75 N. W. 1102); (1898) Allsman v. Richmond, 55 Neb. 540 (75 N. W. 1094); (1898) Emory v. State, ex rel. Morris, 56 Neb. 550 (76 N. W. 1080); (1898) Lydick v. Gill, 57 Neb. 89 (77 N. W. 340); (1898) Parlin, Orendorf & Martin Co. v. Albrecht, 57 Neb. 99 (77 N. W. 355); (1899) Winchester v. Roys, 58 Neb. 182 (78 N. W. 1118); (1899) Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co. v. Johnston, 58 Neb. 236 (78 N. W. 499); (1901) Kuhn v. Nelson, 61 Neb. 224 (85 N. W. 56); (1901) Seymour v. Phillips, 61 Neb. 282 (85 N. W. 72); (1901) Modern Woodmen of America v. Kozak, 63 Neb. 146 (88 N. W. 248); (1901) Fischer v. Kram, 63 Neb. 241 (88 N. W. 478); (1901) McCormick Harvesting Machine Co. v. Johnson, 1 Unof. 310 (95 N. W. 612); (1901) Hefferman v. O'Neill, 1 Unof. 363 (96 N. W. 244); (1901) Pardee v. Nelson, 1 Unof. 708 (96 N. W. 630); (1901) Darrah v. Juel, 1 Unof. 834 (96 N. W. 166 (1902) Schaff v. Hamilton, 2 Unof. 577 (N. W. 614); (1903) Chicago, B. & Q. R. v. Winfrey, 67 Neb. 13 (93 N. W. 52 (1903) Cinfel v. Malena, 67 Neb. 95 N. W. 165); (1903) Bankers' Union of World v. Schwerin, 67 Neb. 303 (92 N. 158); (1904) Anderson v. Kannow, 72 N 32 (99 N. W. 824); (1904) Local Grain v. Maschmeier, 5 Unof. 503 (98 N. W. 103 (1905) Davey v. Davey, 73 Neb. 726 (N. W. 282); (1906) Flanagan v. Fabens, Neb. 705 (110 N. W. 655); (1907) City Wayne v. Dixon, 78 Neb. 270 (110 N. 1135); (1907) Hudson v. Truman, 78 N 840 (112 N. W. 325); (1908) Parker v. L don, 80 Neb. 647 (114 N. W. 933).

1755*a*. (1877.) When conflicting te mony is fairly submitted to a jury, the co has no right to interfere with their findi on the ground of a mere difference of op ion as to its weight. High v. Mercha Bank, 6 Neb. 155.

1756. (1887.) Where a cause is subm ted to a jury upon conflicting testimo there being no objection to the instructi of the court, and the verdict is consist with the line of testimony presented by of the parties to the suit, an appellate co will presume that the jury adopted the of testimony with which their verdict co sponds. Cooper & Co. v. Hall, 22 Neb. (34 N. W. 349).

1757. (1888.) In an action for bala due upon an account the defense presen by the answer was that of payment. testimony was conflicting. This questio fact was decided by the jury in favor defendant, upon evidence which was sufficient to sustain the verdict. The ju ment, therefore, was not molested. Co & Co. v. Shaffer, 23 Neb. 724 (37 N. W. 6

1758. (1889.) There was a conflict evidence as to the ownership of a part the property replevied, two witnesses te fying to one state of facts, and one witn testifying to another and different state facts. Held, That the question raised this conflicting evidence was for the ju and not for the court of review. Angle Bilby, 25 Neb. 595 (41 N. W. 397).

1759. (1889.) A finding of a jury on question of negligence and contributory n ligence based on conflicting evidence, is c clusive. Union P. R. Co. v. Rassmussen, Neb. 810 (41 N. W. 778; 13 Am. St. R 527).

www.libtool.com.cn
Digitized by Google

1760. (1889.) Where the oral evidence as to the amount of damage to real estate from the construction of a railroad thereon is conflicting, and the jury examines the premises, the verdict will not be disturbed, though one for a much larger amount would have been sustained. Fink v. Republican V. R. Co., 27 Neb. 660 (43 N. W. 418).

1761. (1890.) Both the district and supreme court in a proper case is clothed by the code with power to review the findings of a jury and where the verdict is clearly wrong set it aside, but this power will not be exercised merely because a greater number of witnesses testify against a given state of facts than those that testify in favor thereof. In such case it is the duty of the jury to scrutinize the testimony of each witness and ascertain from the evidence what his means of knowledge were, together with his apparent truthfulness and impartiality, and the verdict will not be disturbed unless it is clearly apparent that the jury committed an error. Omaha & Republican V. R. Co. v. Brown, 29 Neb. 492 (46 N. W. 39).

1762. (1894.) In an action on a note, where the answer set off a counter-claim for damages for the breach of a contract whereby defendant was appointed the exclusive agent for the sale of plaintiff's implements in Hays county, the evidence being conflicting, a verdict for defendant will not be set aside. Sandwich Enterprise Co. v. West, 42 Neb. 722 (60 N. W. 1012).

1763. (1901.) It cannot, at this late day, be anticipated that the supreme court will recede from the rule that the verdict of a jury will not be set aside solely because it is not supported by a mere preponderence of the evidence. Evidence is conflicting within the meaning of this rule as well when the testimony of a single witness is contradicted by circumstances and by statements elicited from him on cross-examination, as when it is disclosed by the conflicting testimony of several witnesses. Teske v. Teske, 1 Unof. 365 (95 N. W. 685).

1764. (1902.) Where the evidence is conflicting, and the court, upon a careful examination of it, is unable to say that a verdict based thereon is clearly and manifestly wrong, the presumption is that the jury, in their deliberations, were uninfluenced by passion or prejudice, and that they acted from proper motives, and unless there is some proof in the record to the contrary, the verdict will not be disturbed. Sutton Exchange Bank v. Grosshans, 3 Unof. 5 (90 N. W. 640).

1765. (1905.) A verdict upon conflicting evidence will not be disturbed except for specific error occurring at the trial. Douglas v. Smith, 75 Neb. 169 (106 N. W. 173).

1766. (1907.) Where the facts are disputed, it is solely the province of the jury to determine the same; and, whether the facts be disputed or undisputed, if different minds might honestly draw different conclusions from them, the case is properly left to the jury. Ogden v. Sovereign Camp, Woodmen of the World, 78 Neb. 804 (113 N. W. 524).

1767. (1907.) A judgment will not be reversed where the evidence relating to the amount of damages is conflicting, and where the rule of damages to be allowed is submitted to the jury under proper instructions. Shepherd v. Lincoln Traction Co., 79 Neb. 834 (113 N. W. 627).

1767*a*. (1908.) When a verdict of a jury is found from conflicting testimony, the supreme court will not inquire into the preponderance of the evidence. Cady Lumber Co. v. Wilson Steam Boiler Co., 80 Neb. 607 (114 N. W. 774).

——— Against weight of evidence.

1768. (1876.) The verdict of a jury should not be set aside on the ground of its being against the weight of evidence unless it is clearly so. And more especially ought this rule to be observed by reviewing courts. Kittle v. De Lamater, 4 Neb. 426; (1883) New England Mortgage Security Co. v. Teller, 14 Neb. 335 (15 N. W. 726); (1884) Price v. Buck & Greenwood, 16 Neb. 108 (20 N. W. 23); (1884) Newman v. Mueller, 16 Neb. 523 (20 N. W. 843); (1893) Clapham v. Storm, 36 Neb. 499 (54 N. W. 827); (1893) Sun Fire Office v. Ayerst, 37 Neb. 184 (55 N. W. 635); (1893) Lee v. Brugmann, 37 Neb. 232 (55 N. W. 1053); (1902) City of Omaha v. Doty, 2 Unof. 726 (89 N. W. 992).

1769. Mere preponderance of testimony against the verdict is not enough to warrant the court in disturbing it. It is not usual for courts to set it aside when there is any evidence to support it. (1871) Jones v. Edwards, 1 Neb. 170; (1876) Blackburn v. Ostrander, 5 Neb. 219; (1892) Conner v. Draper, 34 Neb. 870 (52 N. W. 720); (1894) Storz v. Riley, 41 Neb. 822 (60 N. W. 96).

1770. (1877.) To justify an interference with the finding of a court or jury, the preponderance of evidence must be clear, obvious and decided; but when the preponderance is so great, it is the duty of the reviewing court to correct the mistake. Fried v. Remington, 5 Neb. 525.

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

1771. (1877.) When the verdict is against the clear weight of the evidence a new trial will be granted. Mathewson v. Burr, 6 Neb. 312; (1879) Trego v. Lowrey, 8. Neb. 238; (1882) Bennett v. Rogers, 12 Neb. 382 (11 N. W. 314); (1882) Jennings v. Simpson, 12 Neb. 558 (11 N. W. 880); (1882) Victor Sewing Machine Co. v. Day, 13 Neb. 408 (14 N. W. 169); (1883) Gandy v. Pool, 14 Neb. 98 (15 N. W. 223); (1883) Kuhns v. Bankes, 15 Neb. 92 (17 N. W. 356); (1885) Clark v. Gell, 17 Neb. 284 (22 N. W. 562); (1886) Cummings v. Winters, 19 Neb. 719 (28 N. W. 302); (1889) Brown v. Smith, 26 Neb. 376 (42 N. W. 90); (1890) State Bank v. Smith, 29 Neb. 434 (45 N. W. 691); (1891) Conway v. St. Joseph Iron Co. 33 Neb. 454 (50 N. W. 326); (1892) Aultman, Miller & Co. v. Scheele & Fisher, 34 Neb. 819 (52 N. W. 817); (1903) Sovereign Camp, Woodmen of the World, v. Hruby, 70 Neb. 5 (96 N. W. 998); (1907) Berard v. Atchison & N. R. Co., 79 Neb. 830 (113 N. W. 537).

1772. (1882.) When it is clear that material testimony has been disregarded by the jury, and which if considered and given due weight, would require a different verdict from that returned, a new trial will be granted. Dunbier v. Day, 12 Neb. 596 (12 N. W. 109).

1773. (1882.) When the verdict is so clearly against the weight of evidence as to lead to the conviction that it was the result of passion, prejudice, or inadvertence on the part of the jury, it will be set aside and a new trial granted. Holland v. Griffith, 13 Neb. 472 (14 N. W. 387).

1774. (1886.) Where, in an action to recover damages for injury to property, the cause of the injury is a matter of conjecture, a verdict in favor of the plaintiff will not be set aside at his instance because the verdict is not as large as it probably would have been had the cause of the injury been fully proved. Benzon v. Burlington & M. R. Co., 18 Neb. 659 (26 N. W. 467).

1775. (1893.) A new trial should be allowed when it is clear that material uncontradicted evidence has been disregarded by the jury, and which, if considered and given due weight, would have required a different verdict from that returned. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Landauer, 36 Neb. 642 (54 N. W. 976).

1776. (1894.) Where there is sufficient evidence to justify a verdict it will not be disturbed merely because of the comparative number of witnesses on each side, or on account of mere probabilities as to the comparative weight of the testimony considered alone on the record in the supreme court. Rector v. Canfield, 40 Neb. 595 (58 N. W. 1131).

——— Approval of trial court.

1777. (1898.) A verdict on conflicting evidence, approved by the trial court, will not be disturbed in the appellate court. Hammond v. Edwards, 56 Neb. 631 (77 N. W. 75); (1898) Brong v. Spence, 56 N. W. 638 (77 N. W. 54).

1778. (1893.) When a jury has decided a question of fact properly submitted, and the trial judge has overruled a motion for a new trial, then, if the record discloses competent evidence on which the finding may have been based, such finding cannot be disturbed by the supreme court. Sonnenschein v. Bartels, 37 Neb. 592 (56 N W. 210).

——— Successive verdicts.

1779. (1885.) When a case has been tried three times, the verdict of the jury each time being in favor of the plaintiff, the court will not set aside the third verdict as being against the weight of evidence, unless it is clearly wrong. Dunbar v. Briggs, 18 Neb. 94 (24 N. W. 449).

1780. (1900.) Where different trials have been had, resulting in verdicts for plaintiff, and new trials have been denied by the trial court, the verdict and judgment in the last trial will not be overruled and set aside, unless the evidence is clearly insufficient to support them. Missouri P. R. Co. v. Fox, 60 Neb. 531 (83 N. W. 744).

1781. (1900.) Where a case has been tried different times, resulting in a verdict in favor of one and then the other of the parties to the litigation, the verdict of the jury in the last trial should not be disturbed unless there is a clear lack of sufficient evidence to support it. Brownell v. Fuller, 60 Neb. 558 (83 N. W. 669).

1782. (1903.) A much stronger case is necessary to warrant the supreme court in interfering with a second verdict and judgment on the merits by reason of alleged error in setting aside a prior verdict and granting a new trial, than where a motion for a new trial has been denied. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co., 68 Neb. 624 (94 N. W. 822).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

Ruling on motion.

1783. (1885.) When a motion to discharge an attachment for the reason that the facts stated in the affidavit are untrue, has been heard on affidavits in support as well as in resistance, decided thereon by the trial court, brought to the supreme court on error, and it appears from an examination of such affidavits that there is a conflict of evidence, the order of the trial court will not be disturbed unless the preponderance of evidence against it is clear and decisive. Mayer & Schurman v. Zingre, 18 Neb. 458 (25 N. W. 727).

1784. (1892.) In reviewing an order discharging an attachment, the evidence being conflicting, the same presumption prevails in favor of the correctness of the ruling complained of, as in cases of finding and judgment upon a formal trial. Smith v. Boyer, 35 Neb. 46 (52 N. W. 581).

1785. (1893.) When a motion to discharge an attachment on the ground that the facts stated in the affidavit are untrue is heard upon conflicting affidavits, the decision of the trial court on the motion will not be disturbed unless it is clearly against the weight of the evidence. Whipple v. Hill, 36 Neb. 720 (55 N. W. 227; 38 Am. St. Rep. 742; 20 L. R. A. 313).

1786. (1896.) Where a motion to discharge an attachment, because plaintiff's affidavits are untrue, is heard on conflicting evidence, the ruling on the motion will not be disturbed unless it is clearly against the weight of evidence. Nebraska Moline Plow Co. v. Klingman, 48 Neb. 204 (66 N. W. 1101).

1787. (1896.) Where the evidence on a motion is so confusing that is cannot be determined whether there was error in overruling it, the ruling will be sustained. Haley v. McCarty, 48 Neb. 883 (67 N. W. 857).

1788. (1901.) On a motion to dissolve an attachment, the supreme court will not interfere with the action of the lower court, if, in sustaining the attachment, the affidavits offered in support thereof state facts which under our statute authorize the writ. Landis v. Newton, 1 Unof. 561 (95 N. W. 791).

1789. (1903.) On disputed questions of fact tried on ex-parte affidavits in support of a motion to dissolve an attachment, the findings of the trial court will not be disturbed unless clearly against the weight of the evidence. Fremont Brewing Co. v. Pekarek, 4 Unof. 531 (95 N. W. 12).

Findings of court.

1790. (1876.) The findings of a court, when substituted for a jury, are entitled to the same weight as the verdict of the latter. Seymour v. Street, 5 Neb. 85; (1879) Graham v. Kibble, 9 Neb. 182 (2 N. W. 455); (1904) Wantz v. Squires, 5 Unof. 248 (97 N. W. 1058).

1791. (1878.) In order to justify a reversal of the finding of the court below, on a question of fact, such finding must be shown to be clearly wrong. Callahan v. Callahan, 7 Neb. 38; (1888) Bookwalter v. Lansing, 23 Neb. 291 (36 N. W. 549); (1902) Hare v. Winterer, 64 Neb. 551 (90 N. W. 544); (1902) Franklin County Bank v. Everett, 3 Unof. 379 (91 N. W. 495); (1903) Stocker v. Coddington, 4 Unof. 229 (93 N. W. 680).

1792. (1879.) In cases tried to the court without a jury, the finding on questions of fact is entitled to the same respect in the supreme court, on appeal, as would be accorded to the verdict of a jury under like circumstances. Cheney v. Eberhardt, 8 Neb. 423; (1884) Hartley v. Dorr & Co., 15 Neb. 451 (19 N. W. 632); (1885) McLaughlin v. Sandusky, 17 Neb. 110 (22 N. W. 241); (1885) Bank of Cass County v. Morrison, 17 Neb. 341 (22 N. W. 782; 52 Am. Rep. 417); (1886) Roggencamp v. Seeley, 19 Neb. 170 (26 N. W. 625); (1894) Burlingim v. Warner, 39 Neb. 493 (58 N. W. 132); (1901) Booth v. Kessler, 62 Neb. 704 (87 N. W. 532); (1904) Gaffey v. Northwestern Mutual Life Ins. Co., 71 Neb. 304 (98 N. W. 826).

1793. (1880.) To justify a reversal of the finding and judgment of a trial court upon questions of fact the plaintiff in error must at least show a clear preponderance of testimony against such finding and judgment. Young v. Pritchett, 10 Neb. 352 (6 N. W. 414); (1902) Buck v. Hogeboom, 2 Unof. 853 (90 N. W. 635).

1794. (1880.) Where a question of fraud in fact is brought up for review, the supreme court is decidedly adverse to interfering with the decision below, whether made by the court or by a jury; nor will it do so unless clearly satisfied that injustice has been done. Weinland v. Cochran, 9 Neb. 480 (4 N. W. 67).

Digitized by Google

1795. (1893.) The supreme court, though trying a case de novo on appeal, will not disturb the finding of the district court unless the finding and decree cannot be reconciled with any reasonable construction of the testimony. Gadsden v. Phelps, 37 Neb. 590 (56 N. W. 314); (1894) Swartz v. Duncan, 38 Neb. 782 (57 N. W. 543); (1902) Druse v. Davey, 3 Unof. 16 (90 N. W. 644).

www.libtool.com.cn

1796. (1895.) Where the right of plaintiff to recover was not affirmatively established by the proofs in the district court, its judgment in favor of the defendant will not be disturbed in the supreme court. Windsor v. Thompson, 44 Neb. 228 (62 N. W. 460).

1797. (1895.) The finding of the trial court in deciding a challenge to a juror for cause will not be set aside by the supreme court unless it is clearly wrong. Bayse v. State, 45 Neb. 261 (63 N. W. 811).

1798. (1906.) Under the present statute, and our rules governing appeals in equity cases, the supreme court is in no manner bound by the view of the trial court as to the sufficiency or the weight of the evidence, where it consists wholly of affidavits, depositions, and other written testimony. Omaha Loan & Bldg. Ass'n v. Hendee, 77 Neb. 12 (108 N. W. 190).

1799. (1906.) The findings of a court in a case tried to the court without the intervention of a jury are entitled to the same weight as the verdict of a jury, and will not be set aside when there is evidence to support them. Citizens Ins. Co. v. Herpolsheimer, 77 Neb. 232 (109 N. W. 160).

1800. (1906.) To overrule the action of a trial judge denying an application for a change of venue on the grounds of bias and prejudice of the trial judge against a litigant, the evidence offered in support of the fact of such prejudice must be clear and convincing, and strong enough to overthrow the presumption of the impartiality of the court. State v. Smith, 77 Neb. 824 (110 N. W. 557).

——— Sufficiency of evidence.

1801. (1876.) The findings and judgments of a court of record will always be presumed to rest upon sufficient evidence, unless the contrary be clearly shown by the record. Singleton v. Boyle, 4 Neb. 414.

1802. (1877.) A mere difference of opinion between the reviewing court and the court below, as to the weight of evidence, ought never be deemed sufficient to reverse a judgment. Young v. Hibbs, 5 Neb. 433; (1889) Morse v. Raben, 27 Neb. 145 (42 N. W. 901); (1896) City of Harvard v. Crouch, 47 Neb. 133 (66 N. W. 276).

1803. (1877.) Where the finding of the court is clearly against the weight of evidence, the judgment will be set aside. Roberts v. City of Lincoln, 6 Neb. 352; (1897) Southard v. Behrns, 52 Neb. 486 (72 N. W. 860); (1897) American Fire Ins. Co. v. Buckstaff Bros. Mfg. Co., 52 Neb. 676 (72 N. W. 1047); (1898) Kokes v. State, ex rel. Koupal, 55 Neb. 691 (76 N. W. 467); (1899) Symns Grocery Co. v. Snow, 58 Neb. 516 (78 N. W. 1066); (1900) Ackerman v. Ackerman, 61 Neb. 72 (84 N. W. 598); (1902) Frerking v. Thomas, 64 Neb. 193 (89 N. W. 1005).

1804. (1879.) Findings of inferior tribunals upon questions of fact will not be interfered with unless found to be clearly against the weight of evidence. And this rule applies to all cases, whether they come here by petition in error or on appeal. Armstrong v. Freeman, 9 Neb. 11 (2 N. W. 353).

1805. (1880.) Where the case made is one of fact only, in order to justify the reversal of the finding of the court below, the supreme court must find the testimony to be clearly against the finding. Hellwig v. Mortgage Security Co., 10 Neb. 611 (7 N. W. 275).

1806. (1881.) The findings of trial courts upon questions of fact will not be interfered with, unless clearly unsupported by the evidence. Courtnay v. Price, 12 Neb. 188 (10 N. W. 698); (1883) Charles v. Ashby, 14 Neb. 251 (15 N. W. 222); (1884) Hartley v. Dorr & Co., 15 Neb. 451 (19 N. W. 632); (1885) McLaughlin v. Sandusky, 17 Neb. 110 (22 N. W. 241); (1893) Flannagan v. Edwards, 36 Neb. 359 (54 N. W. 565); (1894) Davis v. Hilbourn, 41 Neb. 35 (59 N. W. 379); (1895) Citizens State Bank of Chadron v. Bellangee, 45 Neb. 203 (63 N. W. 363); (1899) Plattsmouth Water Co. v. Smith, 51 Neb. 579 (78 N. W. 275); (1901) State, ex rel. Gieseke, v. Moores, 63 Neb. 301 (88 N. W. 490); (1901) Buck v. Oeldeman, 1 Unof. 798 (96 N. W. 117); (1902) Payne v. Liebee, 3 Unof. 448 (91 N. W. 851); (1903) Thomas v. Janesofsky, 5 Unof. 101 (97 N. W. 332).

1807. (1883.) Even in equity cases the supreme court will not disturb a finding of fact, unless it is found to be clearly against the weight of evidence. Aultman v. Patterson, 14 Neb. 58 (15 N. W. 350).

Digitized by Google

1808. (1884.) Where a jury is waived the finding of a court will not be set aside as being against the weight of evidence unless it is clearly wrong. Evans v. De Roe, 15 Neb. 630 (20 N. W. 99).

1809. (1890.) Rule that a finding will not be disturbed which has sufficient evidence to sustain it, has not the usual application in a case tried upon depositions. Delorac v. Conna, 29 Neb. 791 (46 N. W. 255).

1810. (1893.) In determining whether a finding of fact is sustained by the evidence, the court may disregard incompetent testimony which was admitted in evidence. McConnell v. First Nat. Bank of Lincoln, 38 Neb. 252 (56 N. W. 1013).

1811. (1901.) On an appeal to the supreme court in an equitable action, the judgment will be reversed if essential findings of fact are wholly unsupported by the evidence. It will also be reversed, if essential special findings are in conflict with a general finding and the former are sufficiently supported by the evidence. Carpenter Paper Co. v. News Pub. Co., 63 Neb. 59 (87 N. W. 1050).

1812. (1901.) The rule that findings of the district court will not be disturbed upon appeal if there is evidence to sustain them does not apply with the same force to a case heard almost entirely upon depositions which involve transactions in another state, so that the trial judge could have had no advantage from general local knowledge of the parties, the witnesses and the subjects of controversy. Gibson v. Hammang, 63 Neb. 349 (88 N. W. 500).

1813. (1901.) On an appeal to the supreme court, in a case in which an important question is that of value, and in which there is not sufficient evidence in the record to permit of its adjudication, the judgment of the district court will be reversed and a new trial awarded. Merchants Nat. Bank of Omaha v. McDonald, 63 Neb. 363 (88 N. W. 492; 89 N. W. 770).

1814. (1902.) Where any matter of which a trial court took judicial notice is incompetent or improper to be considered, the supreme court will reject it on appeal in determining whether the order complained of is sustained by sufficient evidence. State v. Faucett, 64 Neb. 496 (90 N. W. 250).

1815. (1902.) An order of the district court based upon written evidence, and also the evidence of a witness upon oral examination in the presence of the court, will not be reversed if the evidence of such witness, if believed, will support the order, unless such evidence is clearly inconsistent with the established facts in the case. Male v. Dahlgrin, 66 Neb. 524 (92 N. W. 632).

1816. (1902.) The supreme court may, on appeal pass upon the competency of evidence admitted, in determining whether the decree is supported by sufficient evidence. Cheston v. Wilson, 2 Unof. 674 (89 N. W. 764).

1817. (1903.) Where a finding is based largely upon depositions or written testimony, as to which the trial judge has no special advantage over the reviewing court, the rule that his findings will be adhered to unless clearly wrong does not apply with the same force. Faulkner v. Simms, 68 Neb. 299 (94 N. W. 113).

1818. (1906.) In appeals in equity cases, the supreme court will examine the evidence and arrive at an opinion of the facts established, uninfluenced by the conclusion arrived at by the trial court, except in so far as a presumption in support of such conclusions is derived from the opportunity which the trial judge has of seeing and hearing the witnesses, and of judging their candor, their knowledge of the facts, their intelligence, and bias, or partiality, if any is exhibited. Roe v. Howard County, 75 Neb. 448 (106 N. W. 587).

Conflicting evidence.

1819. (1878.) In a case brought to the supreme court on appeal, where no question of law is involved, and the testimony is conflicting and pretty evenly balanced, the finding of the court will not be disturbed. Callahan v. Callahan, 7 Neb. 38.

1820. (1879.) Where there is conflicting testimony, the supreme court will not disturb a finding or decree, if there is evidence to sustain it on each material point. Burt v. Baldwin, 8 Neb. 487; (1882) Bell v. Sherer, 12 Neb. 409 (11 N. W. 861); (1883) Galley v. Galley, 14 Neb. 174 (15 N. W. 318); (1884) Smith v. Dean, 15 Neb. 432 (19 N. W. 642); (1885) Bond v. Dolby, 17 Neb. 491 (23 N. W. 351); (1885) Doolittle v. Wheeler, 18 Neb. 136 (24 N. W. 451); (1885) Sapp v. Roberts, 18 Neb. 299 (25 N. W. 96); (1886) Traphagen v. Sheldon, 19 Neb. 75 (26 N. W. 928); (1886) Kuder v. Twidale, 20 Neb. 390

Digitized by Google

(30 N. W. 263); (1886) Powers v. Powers, 20 Neb. 529 (31 N. W. 1); (1887) McConahey v. McConahey, 21 Neb. 463 (32 N. W. 300); (1887) Uecker v. Koehn, 21 Neb. 559 (32 N. W. 583; 60 Am. Rep. 849); (1887) Holmes v. Shimer, 22 Neb. 207 (34 N. W. 371); (1888) Smith v. Mesarvey, 22 Neb. 756 (36 N. W. 137); (1888) Witter v. Hoover, 24 Neb. 605 (39 N. W. 619); (1889) Schroeder v. Baker Mfg. Co., 27 Neb. 45 (42 N. W. 761); (1890) Mordhorst v. Nebraska Telephone Co., 28 Neb. 610 (44 N. W. 649); (1891) Hoagland v. Van Etten, 31 Neb. 292 (47 N. W. 920); (1891) First Nat. Bank v. Hollerin, 31 Neb. 558 (48 N. W. 392); (1891) Worthington v. Worthington, 32 Neb. 334 (49 N. W. 354); (1892) Blodgett v. McMurtry, 34 Neb. 782 (52 N. W. 706); (1892) Oleson v. City of Plattsmouth, 35 Neb. 153 (52 N. W. 848); (1892) Rudolph v. Davis, 35 Neb. 157 (52 N. W. 841); (1893) Metropolitan B. & L. Ass'n v. Van Pelt Bros., 36 Neb. 3 (53 N. W. 1031); (1893) Westover v. Lewis, 36 Neb. 692 (54 N. W. 961); (1893) McConnell v. McConnell, 37 Neb. 57 (55 N. W. 292); (1893) Filley v. Scollard, 37 Neb. 749 (56 N. W. 615); (1893) Huebner v. Sesseman, 38 Neb. 78 (56 N. W. 697); (1893) McConnell v. First Nat. Bank of Lincoln, 38 Neb. 252 (56 N. W. 1013); (1894) Zarrs v. Keck, 40 Neb. 456 (58 N. W. 933); (1894) Sloman v. Spellman, 42 Neb. 165 (60 N. W. 387); (1894) Leighton v. Clarke, 42 Neb. 427 (60 N. W. 875); (1894) Howell v. Schlotfelt, 42 Neb. 448 (60 N. W. 884); (1895) Wells v. David City Improvement Co., 43 Neb. 366 (61 N. W. 623); (1895) Lihs v. Lihs, 44 Neb. 143 (62 N. W. 457); (1895) Steinkraus v. Korth, 44 Neb. 777 (62 N. W. 1110); (1895) Hooper v. Castetter, 45 Neb. 67 (63 N. W. 135); (1895) Thompson v. Field, 45 Neb. 146 (63 N. W. 364); (1895) Carstens v. Eller, 45 Neb. 515 (63 N. W. 839); (1895) Thompson v. Luke, 45 Neb. 561 (63 N. W. 828); (1895) Hough v. Stover, 46 Neb. 588 (65 N. W. 189); (1896) Wakefield v. Connor, 47 Neb. 225 (66 N. W. 286); (1896) State, ex rel. Cooley, v. Spirk, 47 Neb. 337 (66 N. W. 404); (1896) Buffalo County Nat. Bank v. Gilcrest, 47 Neb. 897 (66 N. W. 850); (1896) Baylis v. Parmele, 48 Neb. 619 (67 N. W. 449); (1896) Davidson v. Crosby, 49 Neb. 60 (68 N. W. 338); (1896) Council Bluffs Canning Co. v. Omaha Tinware Mfg. Co., 49 Neb. 537 (68 N. W. 929); (1896) King v. Murphy, 49 Neb. 670 (68 N. W. 1029); (1896) Greer v. Winter, 49 Neb. 705 (68 N. W. 1021); (1897) McGinnis v. Kyd, 51 Neb. 282 (70 N. W. 910); (1897) Central Neb. Nat. Bank v. Cline, 51 Neb. 63 (70 N. W. 512); (1897) Commercial Bank of St. Louis v. Eastern Banking Co., 51 Neb. 766 (71 N. W. 1024); (1897) Griswold v. Hazels, 52 Neb. 64 (71 N. W. 972); (1897) Western Cornice Mfg. Works v. Leavenworth, 52 Neb. 418 (72 N. W. 592); (1898) Amoskeag Savings Bank v. Robbins, 53 Neb. 776 (74 N. W. 261); (1898) Walker v. Smith, 54 Neb. 31 (74 N. W. 390); (1898) Abraham v. City of Fremont, 54 Neb. 391 (74 N. W. 834); (1898) Combination Gas-Machine Co. v. King, 56 Neb. 179 (76 N. W. 547); (1898) First Nat. Bank v. Hahn, 56 Neb. 679 (77 N. W. 50); (1898) Gates v. Johnson, 56 Neb. 808 (77 N. W. 407); (1897) Renland v. Waugh, 52 Neb. 358 (72 N. W. 481); (1899) Des Moines Ins. Co. v. Davis, 57 Neb. 372 (77 N. W. 778); (1899) Holbert v. Chilvers, 58 Neb. 665 (79 N. W. 623); (1900) Burwel Irrigation Co. v. Lashmett, 59 Neb. 605 (81 N. W. 617); (1900) Blue Valley Lumber Co. v. Conro, 61 Neb. 39 (84 N. W. 402); (1900) Buck v. Stuben, 61 Neb. 70 (84 N. W. 595); (1900) Ross v. McManigal, 61 Neb. 90 (84 N. W. 610); (1901) Orient Ins. Co. v. Hayes, 61 Neb. 173 (85 N. W. 57); (1901) Watson v. Cowles, 61 Neb. 216 (85 N. W. 35); (1901) Meisner v. Moore, 61 Neb. 405 (85 N. W. 395); (1901) Gurske v. Kelpin, 61 Neb. 517 (85 N. W. 557); (1901) McCullough v. Dovey, 61 Neb. 675 (85 N. W. 893); (1901) Boyd v. Mulvihill, 61 Neb. 878 (86 N. W. 922); (1902) Snyder v. Rogers, 63 Neb. 436 (88 N. W. 681); (1902) Smith Premier Typewriter Co. v. Mayhew, 65 Neb. 65 (90 N. W. 939); (1903) German Ins. Co. v. Shader, 68 Neb. 1 (93 N. W. 972; 60 L. R. A. 918); (1903) Faulkner v. Simms, 68 Neb. 299 (94 N. W. 113); (1903) Saxton v. Harrington, 68 Neb. 446 (94 N. W. 605).

1821. (1894.) The decision of a district court, made on conflicting evidence, that a fair and impartial trial of a case cannot be had in the county where brought because of the bias and prejudice existing in such county against one of the parties to such suit, will not be disturbed by the supreme court, if supported by competent evidence. Omaha So. R. Co. v. Todd, 39 Neb. 818 (58 N. W. 289).

1822. (1894.) The finding of the district court, as to the actual place of residence of a defendant served with summons by leaving a copy thereof at his usual place of residence, will not be disturbed when such finding has been made on consideration of conflicting evidence. Heaton v. Thayer, 42 Neb. 47 (60 N. W. 318).

Digitized by Google

1823. (1897.) The rule that the appellate court will not disturb the finding of a trial court made upon conflicting testimony applies to orders confirming judicial sales. Creighton University v. Riley, 50 Neb. 341 (69 N. W. 943).

1824. (1901.) Where in a controversy over an application for the appointment of a receiver a question of fact on conflicting evidence arises, and is determined by the trial court, its finding thereon, when warranted by the evidence, will be followed in reviewing the case on appeal. Buck v. Stuben, 63 Neb. 273 (88 N. W. 483).

1825. (1903.) The statements that the reviewing court will not "weigh conflicting evidence," that it "will not review findings on conflicting evidence," and that "findings on conflicting evidence are conclusive," as announced obiter in several prior decisions, disapproved. Faulkner v. Simms, 68 Neb. 299 (94 N. W. 113).

1826. (1903.) In passing on findings of fact upon appeal, the reviewing court should go over all the evidence and reach its own conclusion thereon, giving such weight to the determination of the trial court as to credibility of witnesses and its finding on conflicting evidence as, under all the circumstances of the case, the nature of the evidence before the trial court, and that court's special opportunities, if any, for reaching a correct solution, such finding may be entitled to. Faulkner v. Simms, 68 Neb. 299 (94 N. W. 113).

1827. (1903.) If the evidence before the trial court is entirely written and relates to matters as to which the trial judge is in no better position to reach a correct solution than the supreme court, the rule that a finding on conflicting evidence will not be disturbed, has no application, and the supreme court should be governed by its own conclusion as to the weight of the evidence. Faulkner v. Simms, 68 Neb. 299 (94 N. W. 113).

1828. (1903.) A finding on conflicting evidence, if clearly wrong, will be set aside, notwithstanding there may be some competent evidence in support thereof. Faulkner v. Simms, 68 Neb. 299 (94 N. W. 113).

1829. (1903.) Where, in an action before a justice of the peace, the evidence was conflicting and it cannot be said that his judgment was clearly wrong, the order of the district court, on a proceeding in error, sustaining such judgment, will be affirmed. Bullard v. Laughlin, 4 Unof. 697 (96 N. W. 159).

1830. (1906.) The findings of the trial court on conflicting evidence in an action at law will not be disturbed on appeal unless manifestly wrong. Rownd v. Hollenbeck, 77 Neb. 120 (108 N. W. 259).

——— Decision on motion for new trial.

1831. (1876.) An order of the court below overruling a motion for a new trial for the reason that the verdict of the jury was against the weight of evidence, will not be disturbed, unless it be very clearly so. Blackburn v. Ostrander, 5 Neb. 219; (1895) Central City Bank v. Rice, 44 Neb. 594 (63 N. W. 60).

1832. (1883.) When the conduct or appearance of a juror during the trial is relied on to show prejudice, its effect must necessarily be left almost exclusively to the judgment of the presiding judge. Republican V. R. Co. v. Boyse, 14 Neb. 130 (15 N. W. 364).

1833. (1886.) Upon a motion to set aside the verdict of a jury in which questions of fact are involved, the court hearing the motion becomes the judge of such questions of fact and his decision thereon must be final unless clearly and manifestly wrong. Sang v. Beers, 20 Neb. 365 (30 N. W. 258).

1834. (1888.) Where the county court, in a proceeding instituted under the provisions of section 602 of the civil code, upon sufficient evidence, sets aside a judgment rendered thereon, as having been obtained by fraud, and its decision is sustained by the district court upon proceedings in error, the findings of such courts will not be molested upon questions of fact. Mordhorst v. Reynolds, 23 Neb. 485 (37 N. W. 80).

1835. (1888.) Where an affidavit is filed that affiant had conversation with a juror during progress of a trial, which is denied by the juror named, and court below finds there was no misconduct of juror, supreme court will not set aside verdict. Everton v. Esgate, 24 Neb. 235 (38 N. W. 794).

1836. (1894.) Where a new trial is asked for on the ground of misconduct of a juror or of the prevailing party, the finding of the trial court in support of the verdict will not be set aside unless the evidence of misconduct is of a clear and convincing character. Omaha Fair & Exposition Ass'n

Digitized by Google

v. Missouri P. R. Co., 42 Neb. 105 (60 N. W. 330).

1837. (1895.) The findings of a trial court as expressed by its rulings upon a motion for new trial, when based upon conflicting evidence contained in affidavits filed in support of the motion, will not be disturbed unless clearly and manifestly wrong. Kent v. Green, 43 Neb. 673 (62 N. W. 71).

1838. (1894.) A stronger case will be required for interference by the supreme court on account of an order setting aside a verdict resulting in a second trial on the merits of a cause than where the motion therefor is denied. Bigler v. Baker, 40 Neb. 325 (58 N. W. 1026); (1895) Webber v. Kirkendall, 44 Neb. 766 (63 N. W. 35).

1839. (1903.) Where a new trial is asked for on the ground of misconduct of the jury, the finding of the trial court on that question, based on conflicting evidence, will not be disturbed by a court of review. Matoushek v. Dutcher, 67 Neb. 627 (93 N. W. 1049).

1840. (1904.) Where there is a conflict in the evidence before the trial court, on an application for a new trial on the ground of fraud, newly discovered evidence, and the like, the supreme court will not disturb the findings of the trial court thereon unless such findings are manifestly wrong. Edge v. Edge, 5 Unof. 589 (99 N. W. 644).

Findings of referee.

1841. (1892.) The report of a referee upon questions of fact has the same effect as the verdict of a jury, and will not be set aside as being against the weight of evidence unless it is clearly wrong. State, ex rel. Wilcox, v. Crabtree, 35 Neb. 106 (52 N. W. 842).

1842. (1893.) The findings of fact in the report of a referee will not be disturbed, unless manifestly contrary to the weight of the evidence. State v. Commercial & Savings Bank, 37 Neb. 174 (55 N. W. 640).

1843. (1896.) Findings of fact reported by a referee stand in the same position as the verdict of a jury; and in reviewing the action of a district court in setting aside such a report, the same rules will be observed as in reviewing an order setting aside a verdict. School District No. 1 v. Bishop, 46 Neb. 850 (65 N. W. 902).

1844. (1902.) The findings of fact of a referee, on conflicting evidence, confirmed by the district court after hearing on exceptions thereto, will not be disturbed on appeal. Creedon v. Patrick, 3 Unof. 459 (91 N. W. 872).

H. Harmless Error.

Failure to award nominal damages not error, see Damages, § 5.

Right of party not prejudiced to review, see ante, §§ 178, 179.

Prejudice as grounds of review in general.

1845. (1877.) It is not every error that calls for a reversal of a judgment. To have this effect the error must appear to have been prejudicial to the party seeking to take advantage of it. Dillon v. Russell & Holmes, 5 Neb. 484; (1877) Mercer v. James, 6 Neb. 406; (1884) Everett v. Hobleman, 15 Neb. 376 (19 N. W. 452); (1884) Burlington & M. R. R. Co. v. Chicago Lumber Co., 15 Neb. 390 (19 N. W. 451); (1886) Village of Ponca v. Crawford, 18 Neb. 551 (26 N. W. 365); (1886) Gibson v. Sullivan, 18 Neb. 558 (26 N. W. 368); (1886) Hutchinson v. State, 19 Neb. 262 (27 N. W. 113); (1886) Clay v. Tyson, 19 Neb. 530 (26 N. W. 240); (1886) Western Horse Ins. Co. v. Putnam, 20 Neb. 331 (30 N. W. 246); (1887) Pollard v. Turner, 22 Neb. 366 (35 N. W. 192); (1887) Forbes v. Thomas, 22 Neb. 541 (35 N. W. 411); (1888) Hamilton v. Ross, 23 Neb. 630 (37 N. W. 467); (1888) Mulligan & Co. v. Butcher, 23 Neb. 683 (37 N. W. 596); (1889) Chamberlain v. Brown, 25 Neb. 434 (41 N. W. 284); (1891) Cowles v. Thompson, 31 Neb. 479 (48 N. W. 145); (1891) Ackerman v. Bogan, 33 Neb. 515 (50 N. W. 435); (1892) First Nat. Bank of North Bend v. Miltonberger, 33 Neb. 847 (51 N. W. 232); (1892) St. Paul Fire Ins. Co. v. Gotthelf, 35 Neb. 351 (53 N. W. 137); (1892) Rosenbaum v. Russell, 35 Neb. 513 (53 N. W. 384); (1893) Lau v. Grimes Dry Goods Co., 38 Neb. 215 (56 N. W. 954); (1897) Merchants Savings Bank v. Noll, 50 Neb. 615 (70 N. W. 247); (1898) Union Life Ins. Co. v. Haman, 54 Neb. 599 (74 N. W. 1090); (1899) Davidson v. Gretna State Bank, 59 Neb. 63 (80 N. W. 256); (1900) Buck v. Stuben, 61 Neb. 70 (84 N. W. 595); (1900) State v. German Savings Bank, 61 Neb. 87 (84 N. W. 599); (1901) First Nat. Bank of Sutton v. Grosshans, 61 Neb. 575 (85 N. W. 542); (1901) Ulrich v. McConaughey, 63 Neb. 10 (88 N. W. 150); (1901) Treat v. Hughes, 1 Unof. 158 (95 N. W. 351); (1901) Ledwith v. Campbell, 1 Unof. 695 (95 N. W. 838); (1902) Kelley v. Wehn, 63 Neb. 410 (88 N. W. 682); (1902) Clark v. Wolf, 2 Unof. 290 (96 N. W. 495); (1902) Baldwin v. Burt, 2

Digitized by Google

Unof. 377 (96 N. W. 401); (1902) City of South Omaha v. Meyers, 3 Unof. 699 (92 N. W. 743); (1904) Richards v. Enlow Cattle Co., 5 Unof. 327 (98 N. W. 659).

www.libtool.com.cn

Errors not affecting substantial right.

1846. (1891.) A judgment will not be reversed for errors committed on the trial which do not affect the substantial rights of the party complaining. Trester v. Missouri P. R. Co., 33 Neb. 171 (49 N. W. 1110); (1900) Lancashire Ins. Co. v. Bush, 60 Neb. 116 (82 N. W. 313).

1847. (1893.) A decree granting appellant the relief sought by him below will be affirmed regardless of its merits. Hoops v. McNichols, 38 Neb. 76 (56 N. W. 721).

1848. (1894.) The mere refusal of the court to require the service of a stenographic reporter for the trial of a cause is not reversible error, although it may become such if thereby prejudice is shown to have resulted to the party whose request in this regard has been denied. Home Fire Ins. Co. v. Johnson, 43 Neb. 71 (61 N. W. 84).

1849. (1900.) The failure to award nominal damages is not reversible error, where it does not affect a substantial right or entitle the plaintiff to costs. Heater v. Pearce, 59 Neb. 583 (81 N. W. 615).

1850. (1901.) An order confirming a sale will not be reversed for technical irregularities which could not have been prejudicial to substantial rights of any of the parties. Gray v. Eurich, 2 Unof. 194 (96 N. W. 343); (1901) Gray v. Naiman, 2 Unof. 196 (96 N. W. 343).

1851. (1902.) A judgment will not be reversed in order to permit recovery of nominal damages, unless recovery of such damages will establish or preserve some right or entitle the plaintiff to costs. School District v. Burress, 2 Unof. 554 (89 N. W. 609).

1852. (1904.) The sustaining of an objection to jurisdiction in the appellate court on appeal from a justice of the peace, on the ground that the appeal bond is defective, is harmless error, where the objection was pending for at least twelve days, and appellants made no offer or application to be allowed to furnish a sufficient bond. State Savings & Loan Ass'n v. Johnson, 70 Neb. 753 (98 N. W. 32).

1853. (1904.) Error will not lie from an order discharging an attachment when there is nothing in the record to show that any action was ever taken under the writ. Sand Hills Commercial Co. v. Phillips Bros. & Rennau, 5 Unof. 330 (98 N. W. 718).

1854. (1906.) Where the court, instead of taxing the fees, enters a judgment therfor in favor of the attorneys by name, it is a mere error of form and not of substance, and does not constitute reversible error. Chambers v. Chambers, 75 Neb. 850 (106 N. W. 993).

1855. (1906.) When the evidence is insufficient to suport an alleged counterclaim, the defendant cannot complain of errors in the giving or refusing of instructions having reference to it. Cuatt v. Ross, 76 Neb. 57 (106 N. W. 1044).

1856. (1907.) A complaint that the instructions covering a particular theory of one of the defendants are erroneous will not be considered where the record shows that the result of the trial would have been the same whatever the finding as to that particular theory. Home Savings Bank v. Stewart, 78 Neb. 624 (110 N. W. 947).

1857. (1907.) In an application for a vacation of certain judgments, under the provisions of section 602 of the code, several defenses were interposed; a demurrer to one of these defenses was overruled, but such ruling in nowise interfered with a full and complete hearing on the merits; the evidence adduced would have necessitated a denial of the application, had the demurrer been sustained; the court denied the application. Held, That the error, if any, in overruling the demurrer was error without prejudice. Citizens Ins. Co. v. Herpolsheimer Implement Co., 78 Neb. 707 (111 N. W. 606).

1858. (1907.) The decree of the district court dismissing plaintiff's cause of action will be affirmed, where the record discloses that the only relief sought would have been against a nominal defendant who did not appear in the action and upon whom the record fails to show service of process. Elmore v. McMillen, 79 Neb. 621 (113 N. W. 165).

Errors not affecting result.

1859. (1887.) A new trial will not be granted where it appears as matter of law that upon the conceded facts the result must be the same. Mann v. Welton, 21 Neb. 541 (32 N. W. 599).

1860. (1888.) Where a petition for intervention states no fact entitling the proposed intervenor to become a party, failure of the court to rule upon such petition, although erroneous, will not justify reversal of judgment. Welborn v. Eskey, 25 Neb. 193 (40 N. W. 959).

Digitized by Google

1861. (1901.) A party who pleads an estoppel is not prejudiced by any ruling of the court in relation thereto if the facts sought to be suppressed are not asserted at the trial or permitted to influence in any way the decision assigned as error. Plummer, Perry & Co. v. Rohman, 62 Neb. 145 (87 N. W. 11).

1862. (1904.) A plaintiff in error is not entitled to have a judgment of the district court reversed because the rights of a part of the defendants are not adjudicated, when no right of recovery exists in his favor against any of them. Emanuel v. Barnard, 71 Neb. 756 (99 N. W. 666).

Errors in cases of decisions correct on merits.

1863. (1893.) Where counter affidavits are used, and the application for a continuance is denied, the judgment will not be reversed for that reason, where the showing of the party making the application, when considered alone, is insufficient to entitle him to a continuance. Barton v. McKay, 36 Neb. 632 (54 N. W. 968).

1864. (1893.) A judgment containing a finding that a temporary injunction was properly allowed will not be reversed where such finding does not prejudicially affect the rights of the party complaining, and the judgment is otherwise correct. Westover v. Lewis, 36 Neb. 692 (54 N. W. 961).

1865. (1895.) Where the evidence shows that plaintiff has no interest in the land, questions of law suggested by him on error from a judgment in favor of defendant will not be examined. Wildman v. Shambaugh, 43 Neb. 371 (61 N. W. 578).

1866. (1895.) The court will not review a judgment of the district court upon allegations of error where the successful party is clearly entitled to judgment on the pleadings and evidence. Orgall v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 46 Neb. 4 (64 N. W. 450); (1897) Manning v. Connell, 52 Neb. 315 (72 N. W. 270); (1898) United States School-Furniture Co. v. School District No. 87, 56 Neb. 645 (77 N. W. 62); (1899) First Nat. Bank of Crete v. Smith, 57 Neb. 454 (77 N. W. 1033); (1899) Vernon v. Union Life Ins. Co. 58 Neb. 494 (78 N. W. 929); (1901) Sloan v. Citizens' Nat. Bank of Des Moines, 1 Unof. 295 (95 N. W. 480); (1902) Albion Milling Co. v. First Nat. Bank of Weeping Water, 64 Neb. 116 (89 N. W. 638); (1903) Carlson v. Jordan, 4 Unof. 359 (93 N. W. 1130); (1904) Hawke v. Kerr, 72 Neb. 848 (101 N. W. 1023); (1905) First Nat. Bank of Omaha v. Dye, 73 Neb. 300 (102 N. W. 614); (1905) In re Estate of Nelson, 75 Neb. 298 (106 N. W. 326).

1867. (1898.) Where it appears from the record that a case was dismissed for want of jurisdiction, that question will be examined, though the record would on the merits sustain a general finding for defendant. Hesser v. Johnson, 57 Neb. 155 (77 N. W. 406).

1868. (1899.) Where a petition fails to state a cause of action and a trial results in a verdict and judgment in favor of the defendant, no error committed by the court in submitting the issues to the jury will warrant a reversal. Chapel v. Franklin County, 58 Neb. 544 (78 N. W. 1062).

1869. (1902.) When a writ of error is taken from the order of a justice of the peace requiring a garnishee after judgment to pay money into court, and the district court reverses the judgment of the justice because the answer of the garnishee would not support the same, and thereupon enters an order discharging the garnishee, such order will not be reversed upon petition in error in the supreme court on the ground that the district court should have held the case for trial, since no other judgment could be rendered by the district court against the garnishee, and if it was error to enter such judgment without setting the case down for trial it was error without prejudice. Rider v. Lawritson, 65 Neb. 1 (90 N. W. 951).

1870. (1905.) When the answer fails to state a defense, but admits the plaintiff's cause of action, and the verdict and judgment are supported by the petition, errors occurring at the trial and in the giving and refusal of instructions are without prejudice. Miller v. Loverene & Browne Co., 74 Neb. 557 (105 N. W. 84).

1871. (1906.) Where an examination of the pleadings filed and the evidence offered in support thereof shows that the party complaining procured a judgment more favorable to him than the law and the evidence warranted, alleged errors of the trial court in receiving testimony and in giving and refusing instructions will not be examied. Taylor v. Hunter, 76 Neb. 304 (107 N. W. 571).

Digitized by Google

1872. (1906.) When the verdict returned by the jury is the only one justified by the evidence, errors in the giving and refusing of instructions are not prejudicial. Ramold v. Clayton, 77 Neb. 178 (108 N. W. 980).

1873. (1906.) Where the verdict returned is the only one which could be sustained under the evidence, errors assigned in giving or refusing instructions will not be discussed. Morrow v. Laverty, 77 Neb. 245 (109 N. W. 150).

1873*a*. (1907.) Where a general demurrer is sustained to an answer and judgment by default entered on the allegations of the petition for want of further plea by defendant, error in sustaining the demurrer should be held to be without prejudice, if, on the pleadings as they stood with the answer on file, plaintiff was entitled to judgment for a sum not less than that for which judgment was taken. United States Supply Co. v. Vlasnik, 80 Neb. 53 (113 N. W. 813).

1873*b*. (1908.) The verdict of the jury should not be set aside as being contrary to the instructions of the court, where the evidence does not establish the fact submitted so clearly that it should have been determined by the court as a matter of law. Albert v. Young, 80 Neb. 677 (114 N. W. 936).

Presumption as to effect of error.

1874. (1894.) When a party litigant has, by an evasion of the adverse ruling of the court, intentionally and wilfully introduced evidence of facts improper for consideration by the jury, it must be presumed that such improper evidence has had a prejudicial effect, and the verdict should accordingly be set aside. Bank of Commerce v. Goos, 39 Neb. 437 (58 N. W. 84; 23 L. R. A. 190).

Burden to show prejudice from error.

1875. (1893.) Where an amendment has been permitted by which the given name of the plaintiff is changed, no prejudice will be presumed from the mere fact of the change. Resulting prejudice, if any there was, must be made affirmatively to appear. Manning v. Viers, 38 Neb. 32 (56 N. W. 719).

1876. (1899.) To warrant the reversal of a judgment it must affirmatively appear from the record that the ruling with respect to which error is alleged was prejudicial to the rights of the party complaining. Dobry v. Western Mfg. Co., 58 Neb. 667 (79 N. W. 559).

Error favorable to party complaining.

1877. (1884.) Probable errors, but which are altogether favorable to the plaintiff in error, will not be considered. Vindquest v. Perky, 16 Neb. 284 (20 N. W. 301); (1886) Stough v. Stefani, 19 Neb. 468 (27 N. W. 445).

1878. (1884.) A discrepancy between the amount sworn to in the affidavit, and the amount of plaintiff's claim named in the order of attachment which is favorable to the defendant cannot be assigned for error by him. Tessier v. Crowley, 16 Neb. 369 (20 N. W. 264).

1879. (1889.) Where a district court remanded a cause tried in the county court and taken on error to the district court, to the county court to certify in the judgment that a certain party was surety, Held, That while the district court had authority to modify the judgment in that regard, the surety in whose favor the judgment was modified could not complain of the procedure. Kiewit v. Carter, 25 Neb. 460 (41 N. W. 286).

1880. (1889.) An instruction in a party's favor not ground for reversing judgment against him. Chicago, K. & N. Ry. Co. v. Wiebe, 25 Neb. 542 (41 N. W. 297); (1897) Hanover Fire Ins. Co. v. Stoddard, 52 Neb. 745 (73 N. W. 291); (1895) McClary v. Stull, 44 Neb. 175 (62 N. W. 501).

1881. (1889.) Defendant cannot object that the judgment in favor of plaintiff is not as favorable as it should be. Noolkamper v. Wyatt, 27 Neb. 565 (43 N. W. 357).

1882. (1891.) Where a verdict is returned for the plaintiff in an action upon contract, the defendant cannot complain that the verdict is not justified by the evidence because, under the contract, plaintiff should have recovered a larger sum, or nothing. Ackermann v. Bryan, 33 Neb. 515 (50 N. W. 435).

1883. (1893.) A judgment will not be disturbed because of an instruction submitting to the jury an issue not within the pleadings, where the only effect of such an instruction must have been in favor of the party complaining. Fitzgerald v. Meyer, 37 Neb. 50 (55 N. W. 296).

1884. (1893.) Conflicting charges, one of which misstates the law to the prejudice of the successful party, cannot be availed of as error by the defeated one. Farwell v. Cramer, 38 Neb. 61 (56 N. W. 716).

1884*a*. (1895.) The charge of the court should be confined to questions in issue, although a judgment will not be reversed on account of an instruction directed to a matter foreign to the issues which merely imposes upon the successful party an additional and unnecessary burden, and in no wise prejudicial to the party complaining. McClary v. Stull, 44 Neb. 175 (62 N. W. 501).

Digitized by Google

1885. (1896.) A defendant against whom judgment has been rendered cannot complain because the court instructed the jury to deduct from the damages recoverable by plaintiff the amount of a set-off not pleaded by defendant. Butler v. Greene, 49 Neb. 280 (68 N. W. 496).

1886. (1899.) Where the evidence would have sustained a verdict for the entire amount claimed by plaintiff, the allowance of a counter-claim, if error, held not an error of which defendant could complain. Blue Valley Lumber Co. v. Neuman, 58 Neb. 80 (78 N. W. 374).

1887. (1900.) Where an instruction on contributory negligence is given, which requires a greater degree of care and caution to be exercised than is necessary under the true rule, the giving thereof is not prejudicial to the party alleging contributory negligence. Missouri P. R. Co. v. Fox, 60 Neb. 531 (83 N. W. 744).

1888. (1903.) An instruction whose effect, as claimed by plaintiff, was to withdraw one of two defenses from the jury, could not prejudice the plaintiff nor, upon a general verdict for defendant on both defenses, does it enable the reviewing court to say the verdict is contrary to instructions. Williams v. Shepherdson, 4 Unof. 608 (95 N. W. 827).

1889. (1905.) A party cannot complain of an instruction that is more favorable to him than he deserves, although it is technically erroneous under the issues. Darr v. Donovan, 73 Neb. 424 (102 N. W. 1012).

1890. (1905.) Where in an action upon a promissory note the defendant denies liability and also sets up a counter-claim the fact that the jury finds for him on his defense to the note, but fails to allow his counter-claim, affords no reason for setting aside the verdict at the plaintiff's request, since as to him this is error without prejudice. Harwood v. Breese, 73 Neb. 521 (103 N. W. 55).

Pleadings.

1891. (1897.) Error in requiring plaintiff to elect between two counts is harmless, where the evidence discloses that the count abandoned could not lead to a recovery. Boyer v. Richardson, 52 Neb. 156 (71 N. W. 981).

1892. (1899.) One cannot predicate error on the refusal to require the pleading of the opposite party to be made more definite and certain where prejudice has not resulted from the ruling. Chicago, B. & Q. R Co. v. Oyster, 58 Neb. 1 (78 N. W. 359).

1893. (1899.) It is not prejudicial error to deny plaintiff permission to file a supplemental petition, where he subsequently obtains the benefit of all matters therein pleaded. Bourgeois v. Gapen, 58 Neb. 364 (78 N. W. 639).

1894. (1901.) When different defenses are pleaded, one of which is inconsistent with the other, and by an instruction one of the inconsistent defenses is eliminated from the case, the plaintiff cannot predicate error because of the inconsistent pleading. Green v. Tierney, 62 Neb. 561 (87 N. W. 331).

1895. (1903.) Where a motion to strike out matter introduced as an offset on the part of the plaintiff has been overruled by the court and exceptions taken to such action, the subsequent sustaining of a demurrer to the same matter on the ground that it does not constitute a defense, is not prejudicial error. White v. Whitney, 68 Neb. 739 (94 N. W. 1012).

1896. (1903.) Where the ruling of the trial court upon a motion to require a more specific statement in a pleading does not appear to have resulted in prejudice to the complaining party, such ruling will afford no ground of complaint. Childs v. Ferguson, 4 Unof. 65 (93 N. W. 409).

1897. (1904.) An erroneous ruling overruling a demurrer is error without prejudice, where the pleading assailed is afterwards amended, and the cause submitted and determined on the amended pleading. Brown v. Brown, 71 Neb. 200 (98 N. W. 718; 115 Am. St. Rep. 568).

1898. (1906.) A plea in abatement was stricken on plaintiff's motion. The defendants then incorporated the same matter, with a plea to the merits, in the answer and fully litigated such matter. Held, That they were not prejudiced by the ruling on the motion to strike. Simmons v. Kelsey, 76 Neb. 124 (107 N. W. 122).

Digitized by Google

——Amendments.

1899. (1900.) It is not reversible error to refuse a request to amend a pleading, when the undisputed evidence would not sustain a verdict upon the amended pleading. Schlageck v. Widhalm, 59 Neb. 541 (81 N. W. 448).

——Striking out.

1900. (1880.) Although error may be commited by the trial court in refusing to strike out of a pleading irrelevant or redundant matter, yet the judgment will not be reversed where it is apparent, upon a general review of the whole case, that no material injury has resulted from such error. Harral v. Gray, 10 Neb. 186 (4 N. W. 1040); (1895) Omaha Fire Ins. Co. v. Berg, 44 Neb. 522 (62 N. W. 862); (1898) Lincoln Mortgage & Trust Co. v. Hutchins, 55 Neb. 158 (75 N. W. 538).

1901. (1897.) On appeal from an order striking an amended petition from the files, on the ground that it is the same as the original, the court will first examine the amended petition to ascertain if it was substantially the same as the original. If not, it was error to strike it from the files. It will next ascertain whether the amended petition stated a cause of action. If so, the error was prejudicial to the plaintiff. Wheeler v. Barker, 51 Neb. 846 (71 N. W. 750).

1902. (1898.) An action was brought on a foreign judgment. The defendant pleaded matter by way of set-off or counter-claim, which was on motion stricken from the answer, and the court refused leave to file an amended answer containing the same matter. The transcript of the proceedings leading to the judgment sued on was on the trial introduced in evidence and disclosed an adjudication adverse to the defendant of all the matters so stricken out. Held, That the rulings on the pleadings whereby the defendant was prevented from alleging such matters, if erroneous, were not prejudicial to the defendant. Lonergan v. Lonergan, 55 Neb. 641 (76 N. W. 16).

——Variance.

1903. (1897.) Immaterial variance between pleading and proof is not ground for reversal. Lubker v. Grand Detour Plow Co., 53 Neb. 111 (73 N. W. 457); (1899) Vix v. Whyman, 58 Neb. 190 (78 N. W. 497); (1899) Knight v. Finney, 59 Neb. 274 (80 N. W. 912).

1904. (1903.) A variance between allegata et probata will not be held to be prejudicial, requiring a reversal of the judgment, where it appears that the party complaining was not actually misled or surprised to his disadvantage. Ittner Brick Co. v. Killian, 67 Neb. 589 (93 N. W. 951).

——Error cured by instructions.

1905. (1906.) Assignments based on rulings upon objections to an amendment to the reply and motions directed against the amended reply examined, and held that the errors, if any, in such rulings were cured by the charge to the jury. Fike v. Ott, 76 Neb. 439 (107 N. W. 774).

Ruling on motion for security for costs.

1906. (1895.) Prejudice does not result from an order overruling a motion to require plaintiff to give additional security, where a valid judgment including costs goes against defendant. Watson v. Roode, 43 Neb. 348 (61 N. W. 625).

1907. (1897.) Refusal to require a nonresident plaintiff to give security for costs is not reversible error where, on final hearing, the costs are properly taxed to defendant. Hard v. Hard, 51 Neb. 412 (70 N. W. 1122).

1908. (1898.) After judgment had been entered for defendant an order requiring plaintiff, on a motion filed before trial, to give security for costs, held not prejudicial error where plaintiff did not comply with the order. Elliott v. Carter White-Lead Co., 53 Neb. 458 (73 N. W. 948).

Ruling on application for continuance.

1909. (1891.) Where the trial does not take place until the time specified in a motion to continue until that time, the error, if any in overruling the motion is cured. Baldwin v. Rhea, 33 Neb. 319 (50 N. W. 1).

1910. (1896.) Prejudicial error will not result from denying a continuance where the application was based on the absence of a witness who appeared and testified. Imhoff v. Richards, 48 Neb. 590 (67 N. W. 483).

1911. (1897.) The overruling of an application for continuance of a cause, based on the absence of a witness, is without prejudice when the person whose presence was desired was in court during the trial, placed on the witness stand, and was examined by the parties. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Corey, 53 Neb. 209 (73 N. W. 674).

Digitized by Google

Selection and impaneling of jury.

1912. (1884.) If a challenge to an incompetent juror is overruled, and he is afterwards peremptorily challenged and excluded, and the record fails to show that the party exhausted his peremptory challenges, the error in overruling the challenge for cause will be without prejudice. Burnett v. Burlington & M. R. R. Co., 16 Neb. 332 (20 N. W. 280); (1891) Nowotony v. Blair, 32 Neb. 175 (49 N. W. 357).

1913. (1887.) Where objections are made to certain jurors, and the record fails to show that the party exhausted his peremptory challenges, the objections will be unavailing in the supreme court. Curran v. Percival, 21 Neb. 434 (32 N. W. 213); (1894) Jenkins v. Mitchell, 40 Neb. 664 (59 N. W. 90; (1895) Brumback v. German Nat. Bank of Beatrice, 46 Neb. 540 (65 N. W. 198); (1904) Chicago, B. & Q. R. R. Co. v. Krayenbuhl, 70 Neb. 766 (98 N. W. 44).

1914. (1897.) Improper excusing of a juror for cause will not justify a reversal of a judgment, where the party complaining did not exhaust his peremptory challenges. Smith v. Meyers, 52 Neb. 70 (71 N. W. 1006).

1915. (1904.) The mere fact that a talesman who served as a juror was summoned by a bailiff who was afterwards called and testified as a witness for the successful party is not assignable for error. Felsch v. Babb, 72 Neb. 736 (101 N. W. 1011).

Admission of evidence.

1916. (1879.) Where the strict rules of cross examination of a witness are violated, but it is evident that no injury resulted therefrom, it is a non-prejudicial error, and the judgment will not be disturbed. Cropsey v. Averill, 8 Neb. 151.

1917. (1879.) The admission of immaterial evidence against objection, where the court can clearly see that it could not have prejudiced the party, is not a ground for granting a new trial. Eiseley v. Milchow, 9 Neb. 174 (2 N. W. 372).

1918. (1888.) Error cannot be predicated upon the ruling of a trial court admitting or excluding immaterial testimony, when it is apparent that no prejudice could result to either party, whatever the ruling might be. Brooks v. Dutcher, 22 Neb. 644 (36 N. W. 128); (1891) Bartlett v. Cheesebrough, 32 Neb. 339 (49 N. W. 360); (1891) Daly v. Melendy, 32 Neb. 852 (49 N. W. 926); (1895) Peoria Mfg. Co. v. Huff, 45 Neb. 7 (63 N. W. 121); (1896) Graham v. Frazier, 49 Neb. 90 (68 N. W. 367); (1897) Hanover Fire In Co. v. Stoddard, 52 Neb. 745 (73 N. W. 291 (1898) Atkins v. Seeley, 54 Neb. 688 (74 W. 1100); (1898) Burnet v. Cavanagh, Neb. 190 (76 N. W. 578); (1898) Omaha N Bank v. Robinson, 56 Neb. 590 (77 N. 73); (1898) McClellan v. Hein, 56 Neb. 6 (77 N. W. 120); (1899) Albright v. Pete 58 Neb. 534 (78 N. W. 1063); (1899) Housen v. Broehl, 59 Neb. 48 (80 N. 264); (1900) Nebraska Telephone Co. Jones, 60 Neb. 396 (83 N. W. 197); (190 Missouri P. R. R. Co. v. Fox, 60 Neb. 531 N. W. 744); (1900) Wittenberg v. Mol neaux, 60 Neb. 583 (83 N. W. 842); (190 McCormick Harvesting Machine Co. v. Joh son, 1 Unof. 310 (95 N. W. 612); (190 Lindell v. Deere, Wells & Co., 66 Neb. (92 N. W. 164); (1903) Draper v. Tucke 69 Neb. 434 (95 N. W. 1026).

1919. (1893.) A judgment will not set aside because an expert witness w permitted to answer a hypothetical que tion assuming a fact unsupported by t evidence, where such fact was the on hypothesis of the question, not combin with others based upon evidence, and t answer could not mislead the jury. Hew v. Eisenbart, 36 Neb. 794 (55 N. W. 252).

1920. (1894.) An answer of a witne which should have been stricken out as n responsive is not prejudicial where it is n calculated to mislead the jury and is n harmful to the rights of the party w moved to strike it out. Peaks v. Lord, Neb. 15 (60 N. W. 349).

1921. (1897.) A judgment should not reversed for the erroneous admission evidence upon a proposition not controvert in the supreme court. Sloan v. Wherry, Neb. 703 (71 N. W. 744).

1922. (1900.) A reversal can not based upon the permitting of a witness answer an improper question where t answer was not unfavorable to the co plaining party. Peterson v. Martin, 60 N 577 (83 N. W. 831).

1923. (1901.) When incompetent e dence is admitted to prove a fact not oth wise conclusively established, and it do not affirmatively appear from the reco that the incompetent evidence did not affe unfavorably to the objecting party, the v dict returned by the jury, the error in mitting such evidence will be deemed pre dicial and the judgment reversed. Publishing Co. v. World Publishing Co., Neb. 732 (87 N. W. 945).

www.libpool.com.cn
Digitized by Google

——Evidence not affecting result.

1924. (1894.) The court will not reverse a judgment for personal injuries because of improper hypothetical questions put to medical experts for the sole purpose of proving the permanency of the injuries where the verdict is so small as to render it evident that the jury had not found the injuries to be permanent. Lincoln Pressed Brick Co. v. Buuckner, 39 Neb 83 (57 N. W. 749).

1925. (1895.) The erroneous admission of immaterial testimony will not be ground for reversal where it is clear from the whole record that the verdict must have been the same had the objectionable evidence been excluded. Terry v. Beatrice Starch Co., 43 Neb. 866 (62 N. W. 255); (1896) Farmers Loan & Trust Co. v. Memminger, 48 Neb. 17 (66 N. W. 1014); (1900) Bennett v. McDonald, 60 Neb. 47 (82 N. W. 110); (1900) Walsh v. Peterson, 59 Neb. 645 (81 N. W. 853).

1926. (1895.) The admission of evidence which, though not competent, is immaterial affords no grounds for the reversal of a decree in equity. Blazer v. Rogner, 45 Neb. 588 (63 N. W. 846).

1927. (1901.) Where a verdict is directed in favor of one of the parties to an action and no issue is submitted to the jury, the admission of evidence in the progress of the trial will not be reviewed on appeal. Simons v. Fagan, 62 Neb. 287 (87 N. W. 21).

1927*a*. (1907.) Incompetent testimony concerning a matter about which there is no dispute is not ground for reversal. Jacobsen v. City of Omaha, 80 Neb. 56 (113 N. W. 792).

——In cases tried without jury.

1928. (1882.) When a trial is to the court without a jury, alleged error for wrongful admission of evidence cannot be considered in error proceeding. Anderson v. Buchanan, 20 Neb. 272 (29 N. W. 935); (1888) Willard v. Foster, 24 Neb. 205 (38 N. W. 786); (1888) Richardson v. Doty, 25 Neb. 424 (41 N. W. 282); (1890) Ward v. Parlin, 30 Neb. 376 (46 N. W. 529); (1892) Stabler v. Gund, 35 Neb. 648 (53 N. W. 570); (1893) Liverpool & London & Globe Ins. Co. v. Buckstaff, 38 Neb. 146 (56 N. W. 695; 41 Am. St. Rep. 724); (1894) Whipple v. Fowler, 41 Neb. 675 (60 N. W. 15); (1895) Chadron Banking Co. v. Mahoney, 43 Neb. 214 (61 N. W. 594); (1895) Sharmer v. McIntosh, 43 Neb. 409 (61 N. W. 727); (1895) Pearce v. McKay, 45 Neb. 296 (63 N. W. 851); (1895) Tolerton v. McClure, 45 Neb. 368 (63 N. W. 791); (1895) Scroggin v. Johnson, 45 Neb. 714 (64 N. W. 236); (1896) Stover v. Hough, 47 Neb. 789 (66 N. W. 825); (1896) King v. Murphy, 49 Neb. 670 (68 N. W. 1029); (1897) Phœnix Ins. Co. v. Walter, 51 Neb. 182 (70 N. W. 938); (1898) Bell v. Walker, 54 Neb. 222 (74 N. W. 617); (1898) Alling v. Nelson, 55 Neb. 161 (75 N. W. 581); (1898) Lunney v. Healey, 56 Neb. 313 (76 N. W. 558; 44 L. R. A. 593); (1899) National Masonic Accident Ass'n v. Burr, 57 Neb. 437 (77 N. W. 1098); (1899) Schmelling v. State, 57 Neb. 562 (78 N. W. 279); (1900) Omaha Nat. Bank v. Kiper, 60 Neb. 33 (82 N. W. 102); (1901) Sheibley v. Dixson County, 61 Neb. 409 (85 N. W. 399); (1901) Metcalf v. Bockoven, 1 Unof. 822 (96 N. W. 406); (1902) Smith Premier Typewriter Co. v. Mayhew, 65 Neb. 65 (90 N. W. 939).

1929. (1885.) The question of the admissibility of evidence on the ground of relevancy cannot be raised in a cause tried to a court without a jury. Enyeart v. Davis, 17 Neb. 228 (22 N. W. 449).

1930. (1887.) In an action for divorce, tried to the district court without a jury, the fact that incompetent evidence was admitted over the objection of the party complaining, will not of itself require a reversal of the decree, if upon the whole case there was sufficient competent evidence admitted to sustain it. McConahey v. McConahey, 21 Neb. 463 (32 N. W. 300).

1931. (1889.) When a cause is tried to the court without the intervention of a jury, the judgment will not be reversed on the ground of the admission of immaterial or incompetent evidence, if sufficient material and competent evidence was introduced and admitted to sustain the finding of the court. Richardson v. Doty, 25 Neb. 420 (41 N. W. 282); (1893) Dewey v. Allgire, 37 Neb. 6 (55 N. W. 276; 40 Am. St. Rep. 468); (1895) Lihs v. Lihs, 44 Neb. 143 (62 N. W. 457); (1895) Monroe v. Reid, 46 Neb. 316 (64 N. W. 983); (1898) Wager v. Wagoner, 53 Neb. 511 (73 N. W. 937); (1898) Stenger Benevolent Ass'n v. Stenger, 54 Neb. 427 (74 N. W. 846); (1898) Harvey v. First Nat. Bank of Omaha, 56 Neb. 320 (76 N. W. 870); (1899) New Hampshire Trust Co. v. Korsmeyer Plumbing & Heating Co., 57 Neb. 784 (78 N. W. 303); (1900) Bolin v. Fines, 60 Neb. 443 (83 N. W. 740); (1900) Duffy v. State, ex rel. Edson, 60 Neb. 812 (84 N.

Digitized by Google

W. 264); (1901) Armstrong v. Mayer, 1 Unof. 119 (95 N. W. 483); (1902) Bowman v. Wright, 65 Neb. 661 (92 N. W. 580); (1903) O'Brien v. Kluever, 4 Unof. 571 (95 N. W. 595); (1907) Palmer v. McFarlane, 78 Neb. 788 (111 N. W. 794).

www.libtool.com.cn

1932. (1890.) Where a jury is waived and the cause tried to the court, the objections to evidence will not be ground for the reversal of the judgment, provided the judgment is based on lawful and proper evidence. Bilby v. Townsend, 29 Neb. 220 (45 N. W. 619).

1933. (1895.) Where incompetent testimony is given on the trial of an equity case the supreme court, in reviewing such case on appeal, will presume that such testimony was not considered by the district court. Buckingham v. Roar, 45 Neb. 244 (63 N. W. 398); (1897) McKee v. Bainter, 52 Neb. 604 (72 N. W. 1044); (1897) Smith v. Perry, 52 Neb. 738 (73 N. W. 282); (1898) Portsmouth Savings Bank v. Riley, 54 Neb. 531 (74 N. W. 838); (1898) Knight v. Darby, 55 Neb. 16 (75 N. W. 48); (1898) Thomas v. Nebraska Moline Plow Co., 56 Neb. 383 (76 N. W. 876); (1899) Schmelling v. State, 57 Neb. 562 (78 N. W. 279); (1899) Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. First Nat. Bank of Omaha, 58 Neb. 548 (78 N. W. 1064); (1902) Triska v. Miller, 3 Unof. 463 (91 N. W. 870); (1903) Dewey v. Allgire, 37 Neb. 6 (55 N. W. 276); Arabian Horse Co. v. Bivens, 4 Unof. 823 (96 N. W. 621); (1906) Citizens Ins. Co. v. Herpolsheimer, 77 Neb. 232 (109 N. W. 160); (1907) Palmer v. McFarlane, 78 Neb. 788 (111 N. W. 794).

1934. (1900.) On the hearing of a motion to dissolve an attachment, error cannot be predicated upon the admission of improper evidence. It is presumed that the trial judge, in arriving at a conclusion, considered only proper and competent evidence, and disregarded that which was improper. Merrifield v. Farmers Nat. Bank, 59 Neb. 602 (81 N. W. 611).

1935. (1901.) It is a settled rule of the supreme court that a judgment will not be reversed simply because the trial court, sitting without a jury, erred in admitting incompetent or immaterial evidence; but this rule has no application in a case in which it appears that such evidence is the sole basis of the findings and judgment assailed. Merchants Nat. Bank v. McDonald, 63 Neb. 363 (88 N. W. 492; 89 N. W. 770).

1936. (1903.) When trial has been by the court without a jury reversible er cannot be predicated on the admission evidence, in the absence of an adequ showing by bill of exceptions that impro evidence was actually considered by court as the basis of its findings, nor u an exercise of the court's discretion allowing proper evidence in the case to brought out on the redirect examination a witness. Byrnes v. Eley, 70 Neb. 283 N. W. 298).

1936*a*. (1908.) In a case tried to a co without a jury, the admission of impro evidence is not in itself ground for revers and, where the supreme court finds it necessary to consider the evidence to wh objection is made, it will not review question raised by the objection to s evidence. Blondel v. Bolander, 80 Neb. (114 N. W. 574).

——— Defects supplied or objection moved subsequently.

1937. (1893.) Error committed in admission in evidence of a written ins ment, without proof of its execution, cured where such proof is afterwards m before the party offering the instrument rested his case. Jones v. Loree 37 Neb. (56 N. W. 390).

1938. (1896.) Where an instrument admitted without sufficient proof of its ecution, subsequent proof may cure error. Houck v. Linn, 48 Neb. 227 (66 W. 1103).

1939. (1896.) Error in receiving the timony of a witness who has not been sho to possess the requisite knowledge of subject involved, is cured when by me of the cross-examination a sufficient foun tion is laid for such testimony. Chic B. & Q. R. Co. v. Shafer, 49 Neb. 25 (68 W. 342).

——— Facts otherwise established.

1940. (1880.) Where the record o mortgage on land in this state executed another state without the necessary cer cate is erroneously admitted in evidence actual notice of the mortgage by the p chaser be shown, the judgment will not reversed. Irwin v. Welch, 10 Neb. 479 N. W. 753).

1941. (1881.) Where a letter-press c of a writing is erroneously admitted in dence, if without it the undisputed evide is ample to support the verdict, it is er without prejudice, and not a suffici ground for the reversal of a judgment.

Digitized by Google

laney v. Errickson, 11 Neb. 533 (10 N. W. 451).

1942. (1882.) Where testimony proving the facts complained of was introduced without objection, error cannot be predicated upon objections to the same testimony afterwards introduced. Republican V. R. Co. v. Hayes, 13 Neb. 489 (14 N. W. 521).

1943. (1895.) Prejudicial error does not result from introducing in evidence a petition verified by oath of plaintiff where he testified to the same statements during the trial and was cross-examined. Burgess v. Burgess, 44 Neb. 16 (62 N. W. 242).

1944. (1896.) Error cannot be predicated on the admission of evidence, where ample evidence of the same nature was admitted without objection. Hickman v. Layne, 47 Neb. 177 (66 N. W. 298); (1897) Learn v. Upstill, 52 Neb. 271 (72 N. W. 213); (1897) Hanover Fire Ins. Co. v. Stoddard, 52 Neb. 745 (73 N. W. 291); (1898) Barr v. Post, 56 Neb. 698 (77 N. W. 123); (1900) Scott v. Flowers, 60 Neb. 675 (84 N. W. 81.) [Overruled on rehearing. 61 Neb. 620]; (1900) Bee Publishing Co. v. World Publishing Co, 59 Neb. 713 (82 N. W. 28); (1902) Jones v. Wattles, 66 Neb. 533 (92 N. W. 765).

1945. (1897.) Error, if any, in admitting writings in evidence without a proper foundation, held harmless, where their contents were properly proved by parol testimony. Meyer v. Shamp, 51 Neb. 424 (71 N. W. 57).

1946. (1899.) In the trial of a case without a jury the admission of incompetent evidence is not ground for reversal of a judgment supported by sufficient competent evidence. Gage County v. King Bridge Co., 58 Neb. 827 (80 N. W. 56); (1905) Sweet v. State, 75 Neb. 263 (106 N. W. 31).

1947. (1901.) Where a contract is conclusively established by competent evidence, which is undisputed, the admission of incompetent evidence to establish such contract is error without prejudice. Standard Oil Co. v. Goodman Drug Co., 1 Unof. 443 (95 N. W. 667).

1948. (1903.) Where the facts upon which the opinion of an expert witness is based, are stated, and the conclusion is one which must necessarily be drawn from such facts, error in permitting an opinion upon theultimate fact to be determined by the jury to be given in evidence is without prejudice. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Holmes, 68 Neb. 826 (94 N. W. 1007).

1949. (1904.) In determining whether the evidence before the court below was sufficient to support the judgment, the supreme court will not regard errors of the trial court in admitting incompetent evidence if it appear from the whole record that, upon the evidence conceded to be competent, no other conclusion could be reached than the one reached by the trial court. Dennison v. Christian, 72 Neb. 703 (101 N. W. 1045; 117 Am. St. Rep. 817).

1950. (1906.) The reception of incompetent evidence tending to establish a certain fact is not prejudicial error when the same fact is conclusively established by competent evidence. Fike v. Ott, 76 Neb. 439 (107 N. W. 774).

1951. (1906.) Where both competent and incompetent evidence is received as to the value of property, the latter placing the valuation no higher than the former, and neither is contradicted, and the value as found by the jury is less than that warranted by the competent testimony, the admission of the incompetent evidence is harmless error. Pullman Palace Car Co. v. Woods, 76 Neb. 694 (107 N. W. 858).

1951*a*. (1907.) Where, after the introduction in evidence of an abstract of title under section 66, ch. 73, Comp. St. 1905, the original records referred to in such abstract are received and show the same facts, no error in the introduction of the abstract can be assigned. Munger v. Yeiser, 80 Neb. 285 (114 N. W. 166).

——— Facts admitted or assumed.

1952. (1892.) The admission of testimony to prove a fact admitted by the pleadings is error without prejudice, for which a judgment will not be reversed. Consaul v. Sheldon, 35 Neb. 247 (52 N. W. 1104); (1895) Chadron Banking Co. v. Mahoney, 43 Neb. 214 (61 N. W. 594); (1900) Wittenberg v. Mollyneaux, 60 Neb. 583 (83 N. W. 842).

1953. (1896.) In the trial of an action for personal injuries a hypothetical question containing inquiries relating to facts expressly assumed was held not prejudicial to defendant. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Archer, 46 Neb. 907 (65 N. W. 1043).

1954. (1898.) In a suit on the official bond of a coroner the introduction in evidence of a copy of such bond is not prejudicial error, where the execution, delivery, and approval of said bond are admitted by the answer. Maul v. Drexel, 55 Neb. 446 (76 N. W. 163).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

——— Error cured by withdrawal, striking out or instructions to jury.

1955. (1894.) Admission of improper evidence is cured by an instruction withdrawing it from the jury. American B. & L. Ass'n v. Mordock, 39 Neb. 413 (58 N. W. 107); (1894) Nelson v. Jenkins, 42 Neb. 133 (60 N. W. 311); (1899) Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. O'Neill, 58 Neb. 239 (78 N. W. 521); (1900) Missouri P. R. Co. v. Fox, 60 Neb. 531 (83 N. W. 744); (1900) Scott v. Flowers, 60 Neb. 675 (84 N. W. 81).

1956. (1898.) Error cannot be predicated upon admission of evidence in support of an issue withdrawn from the jury by an instruction. American Fire Ins. Co. v. Landfare, 56 Neb. 482 (76 N. W. 1068); (1901) Faulkner v. Gilbert, 62 Neb. 126 (86 N. W. 1074).

1957. (1901.) Where testimony as to immaterial matters is closely connected with, and not easily separated from, that of the same witness going to material and important issues, any error in admitting such testimony is cured by an instruction which clearly and explicitly directs the jury to ignore it and properly defines the issue to be tried. Schrandt v. Young, 62 Neb. 254 (86 N. W. 1085).

1958. (1905.) An error of the trial court in the admission of evidence, which is insufficient to support an allegation of the petition, may ordinarily be cured by striking the testimony from the record and especially withdrawing it from the consideration of the jury by an instruction. McKibben v. Day, 74 Neb. 424 (104 N. W. 752).

Exclusion of evidence.

1959. (1899.) The exclusion of evidence, if not prejudicial to the complaining party, furnishes no ground for the reversal of a judgment. Spirk v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 57 Neb. 565 (78 N. W. 272).

——— Ineffective evidence.

1960. (1884.) In an equity case, brought to the supreme court on error, where there were two defenses sought to be set up in the answer, one of them so badly pleaded, that no finding, or judgment thereon, for the defendant could be sustained, but the other defense being sufficiently set up in the answer and sustained by the evidence, and there being a general finding and judgment for defendants, held, that the judgment would not be reversed for the erroneous exclusion of testimony offered by the plaintiff upon and applicable only to the defense so, badly and insufficiently, set up in the answer, although such testimony ought to have been admitted. Union Nat. Bank v. Harrison, 16 Neb. 635 (21 N. W. 446).

1961. (1892.) No defense having been shown against the account, error of the court in restricting the cross-examination of certain witnesses as to the consideration for the assignment held not prejudicial. Barnett v. Ellis, 34 Neb. 539 (52 N. W. 368).

1962. (1894.) No question for review arises upon a ruling sustaining an objection to an answer immaterial to the issues on trial. Dunphy v. Bartenbach, 40 Neb. 143 (58 N. W. 856); (1901) Brown v. Silver, 2 Unof. 164 (96 N. W. 281).

1963. (1897.) It is not reversible error for a court to reject an offer of competent and relevant evidence if the evidence rejected, when considered with all other evidence bearing on the issue to which it was directed, would not support the conclusion sought to be established by the rejected evidence. Whitney v. Gretna State Bank, 50 Neb. 438 (69 N. W. 933).

1964. (1898.) The exclusion of testimony which does not tend to establish either a cause of action or defense is not ground for reversal. Blodgett v. McMurtry, 54 Neb. 69 (74 N. W. 392).

1965. (1902.) Error in holding witness incompetent and refusing all her testimony is immaterial, if the testimony offered, together with the proofs received, shows no right of action. Thomas v. Thomas, 64 Neb. 581 (90 N. W. 630).

——— Exclusion under wrong objection.

1966. (1891.) Rejection upon untenable ground, of testimony otherwise inadmissible, is error without prejudice. Daly v. Melendy, 32 Neb. 852 (49 N. W. 926).

1967. (1896.) Where evidence excluded under a general objection was for any reason properly excluded, the ruling will not be reversed because the objection was too general. Imhoff v. Richards, 48 Neb. 590 (67 N. W. 483).

——— Facts otherwise established.

1968. (1894.) The exclusion of evidence of a fact fully established by other competent and uncontradicted evidence is not reversible error. Barr v. City of Omaha, 42 Neb. 341 (60 N. W. 591); (1898) Barr v. Post, 56 Neb. 698 (77 N. W. 123); (1901) Schrandt v. Young, 62 Neb. 254 (86 N. W. 1085).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

1969. (1896.) In an action on a note which was claimed to have been wrongfully withheld from the intervening defendant the rejection of testimony offered by plaintiff to show that the note was executed in the name of the wife to keep the husband's creditors from attacking it is not reversible error where evidence of a like character and to the same effect of that excluded was admitted, both prior or subsequent to the time of such exclusion. Halbert v. Rosenbalm, 49 Neb. 498 (68 N. W. 622).

1969a. (1897.) It is not error to exclude from evidence a written instrument, the making and contents whereof are admitted by the pleadings. Holt County v. Scott, 53 Neb. 176 (73 N. W. 681).

1970. (1899.) It is not reversible error to exclude documentary evidence which has already been introduced. Shull v. Barton, 58 Neb. 741 (79 N. W. 732).

1971. (1900.) Where questions on cross-examination are asked for the purpose of eleciting certain information in the nature of a contradiction of the testimony in chief, and ruled out on objections, and the evidence sought is afterwards established by other uncontradicted evidence, error cannot be predicated on the ruling of the court regarding such cross-examination. Missouri P R. Co. v. Fox, 60 Neb. 531 (83 N. W. 744).

1971a. (1904.) It is not prejudicial error to exclude from evidence a paper copied into the pleadings by one party and admitted by the other. Epley v. Lovell, 5 Unof. 251 (97 N. W. 1027).

——Error cured by subsequent admission or instruction to jury.

1972. (1882.) When the evidence of a witness is erroneously excluded, if it be subsequently admitted, the error is not a ground for reversing the judgment. Dietrichs v. Lincoln & N. W. R. Co., 13 Neb. 361 (13 N. W. 624); (1891) Hammond v. City of Harvard, 31 Neb. 635 (48 N. W. 462); (1891) Larabee v. Klostermann, 33 Neb. 150 (49 N. W. 1102); (1894) Home Fire Ins Co. v. Johnson, 43 Neb. 71 (61 N. W. 84); (1895) Farmers & Merchants Ins. Co. v. Malone, 45 Neb. 302 (63 N. W. 802); (1896) Columbia Nat. Bank v. Rice & Co., 48 Neb. 428 (67 N. W. 165); (1896) Denise v. City of Omaha, 49 Neb. 750 (69 N. W. 119); (1897) Union P. R. Co. v. Evans, 52 Neb. 50 (71 N. W. 1062); (1897) Atwood v. Marshall, 52 Neb. 173 (71 N. W. 1064); (1901) Union State Bank v. Hutton, 1 Unof. 795 (95 N. W. 1061).

1973. (1889.) Where, upon the examination in chief of a defendant, a question is propounded to him the answer to which is excluded upon objection of the plaintiff, a reviewing court will not inquire whether the trial court erred in excluding the evidence if it appears that the witness was afterwards interrogated, and testified fully upon the subject upon which he was interrogated. Musselman v. Barker, 26 Neb. 737 (42 N. W. 759).

1974. (1890.) At the trial certain interrogatories in the cross-examination of defendant's witnesses were overruled by the court, which evidence was subsequently presented to the jury in other forms without an offer of proof having been made to the court indicating the substance of the evidence to be offered and its relevancy to the issues; held, not error to the plaintiff's prejudice. Smith v. Crete, M. & W. R. Co., 29 Neb. 142 (45 N. W. 287).

1975. (1894.) Improper exclusion of examination of witness is cured by subsequently admitting what is substantially the same. Jonasen v. Kennedy, 39 Neb. 313 (58 N. W. 122).

1976. (1894.) Error in sustaining objections to questions as leading is cured, where the evidence sought to be elicited is given by the same witness in response to other questions. Houck v. Linn, 48 Neb. 227 (66 N. W. 1103).

1977. (1900.) Where a witness is asked on cross-examination concerning a certain matter, to which objection is made, and the objection sustained, and the witness is afterwards called as a witness in chief by the party cross-examining, and the same questions asked and answered, no error can be predicated on the ruling in the cross-examination of such witness. Missouri P. R. Co. v. Fox, 60 Neb. 531 (83 N. W. 744).

1978. (1906.) Where a litigant relies upon the common law of a sister state, he is not prejudiced by the rejection of evidence to prove such law, where the court embodies such law in an instruction to the jury as a part of the law of the case. Pull- man Palace Car Co. v. Woods, 76 Neb. 694 (107 N. W. 858).

Digitized by Google

1979. (1906.) Where the entire answer of a witness to a question is excluded, but substantially the same matter, so far as competent, is received in answer to a subsequent question, the error in excluding the former answer, if any, is cured, Union P. R. Co. v. Connolly, 77 Neb. 254 (109 N. W. 368).

Dismissal, nonsuit, or direction of verdict.

1980. (1896.) Where a trial court has entered an involuntary nonsuit and judgment of dismissal, for want of evidence by plaintiff there, it is error without prejudice, and not reversible where, by the evidence, defendant was entitled to have a verdict. Zittle v. Schlesinger, 46 Neb. 844 (65 N. W. 892).

1981. (1897.) Where the evidence justifies the court in directing a verdict for defendant, the entry of a nonsuit is error without prejudice to plaintiff. Thompson v. Missouri P. R. Co., 51 Neb. 527 (71 N. W. 61).

Instructions.

See, also, Trial, VII.

1982. (1883.) An error in an instruction to the jury which could not have prejudiced the party complaining of it is not a ground for a new trial. Converse v. Meyer, 14 Neb. 190 (15 N. W. 340).

1983. (1883.) Although a verdict supported by proof will not be disturbed because of an erroneous instruction on an abstract proposition of law on a point not in the case, yet where the evidence is conflicting and evenly balanced, and there is testimony on the other side entitled to equal consideration, the verdict will be set aside and a new trial granted. Harrison v. Baker, 15 Neb. 43 (14 N. W. 541).

1984. A verdict will not be set aside for the giving of an instruction uncalled for by the evidence, if not prejudicial to the rights of the party complaining. (1883) O'Hara v. Wells, 14 Neb. 403 (15 N. W. 722); (1886) Brown v. Rogers, 20 Neb. 547 (31 N. W. 75); (1891) Labaree v. Klostermann, 33 Neb. 150 (49 N. W. 1102); (1894) Hurlburt v. Hall, 39 Neb. 889 (58 N. W. 538); (1896) Burlington & M. R. R. Co. v. Gorsuch, 47 Neb. 767 (66 N. W. 831); (1898) McClellan v. Heim, 56 Neb. 600 (77 N. W. 120); (1902) Canon v. Farmers Bank, 3 Unof. 348 (91 N. W. 585).

1985. (1892.) An oral instruction directing the jury to "disregard this testimony entirely on this point" where no testimony had been given was not prejudicial error. Consaul v. Sheldon, 35 Neb. 247 (52 N. W. 1104).

1986. (1893.) A judgment will not be reversed for the giving of erroneous instructions, where it appears that the party complaining was not prejudiced thereby. Powder River Live Stock Co. v. Lamb, 38 Neb. 339 (56 N. W. 1019); (1894) Carstens v. McDonald, 38 Neb. 858 (57 N. W. 757); (1894) Roggencamp v. Hargreaves, 39 Neb. 540 (58 N. W. 162); (1894) Violet v. Rose, 39 Neb. 660 (58 N. W. 216); (1894) Roberts v. Drehmer, 41 Neb. 306 (59 N. W. 911); (1894) Liberty Ins. Co. v. Ehrlich, 42 Neb. 553 (60 N. W. 940); (1895) Stein v. Vannice, 44 Neb. 132 (62 N. W. 464); (1896) Kaufmann v. Cooper, 46 Neb. 644 (65 N. W. 796); (1896) Beavers v. Missouri P. R. Co., 47 Neb. 761 (66 N. W. 821); (1896) Burlington & M. R. R. Co. v. Gorsuch, 47 Neb. 767 (66 N. W. 831); (1897) Storz v. Finklestein, 50 Neb. 177 (69 Neb. 856); (1898) Flower v. Nichols, 55 Neb. 314 (75 N. W. 864); (1898) Maul v. Drexel, 55 Neb. 446 (76 N. W. 163); (1899) Van Housen v. Broehl, 59 Neb. 48 (80 N. W. 264); (1899) Pennsylvania Co. v. Kennard Glass & Paint Co., 59 Neb. 435 (81 N. W. 372); (1902) Deering & Co. v. Walter, 2 Unof. 364 (96 N. W. 517); (1903) Leidigh v. Keever, 5 Unof. 207 (97 N. W. 801).

1987. (1894.) Where a jury has been fully instructed on a given point, it is wholly unnecessary to give another instruction covering the subject, and to do so may be sufficient cause for reversal; but it will not have that effect where it is clear that the jury were not thereby misled. Carstens v. McDonald, 38 Neb. 858 (57 N. W. 757).

1988. (1894.) A judgment will not be reversed because of conflicting instructions when that instruction least favorable to the party complaining was more favorable than the law warrants. In such case the conflict in the instructions and the error therein are not prejudicial. Luce v. Foster, 42 Neb. 818 (60 N. W. 1027).

1989. (1895.) Where plaintiff fails to recover on his cause of action, his objections to instructions relating to the measure of damages will not be considered. Olsen v. Meyer, 46 Neb. 240 (64 N. W. 954).

1990. (1898.) Instructions relating to the right to recover, and having no bearing on the quantum of damages, cannot be complained of by the plaintiff when the verdict was in his favor, and unsatisfactory only in its amount. Hankins v. Majors, 56 Neb. 299 (76 N. W. 544).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

1991. (1901.) An instruction as to the measurement by which recovery may be had, even though incorrect, is harmless error, if upon that issue the jury found against any recovery whatever. Bank of Stockham v. Alter, 61 Neb. 359 (85 N. W. 300).

1992. (1902.) The giving of an instruction which is fairly within the issues raised by the pleadings and the evidence produced on the trial, and which the record shows did not mislead the jury, though not technically correct, is error without prejudice. Allen v. Hall, 64 Neb. 256 (89 N. W. 803).

1993. (1902.) Where it appears from the nature of a verdict that the jury must have found in favor of one party on a certain point, ordinarily an erroneous instruction as to such point, is error without prejudice, as to such party; but where the case is submitted on an erroneous theory, and matters are submitted to the jury which are exclusively for the court, and the verdict does not necessarily imply a finding on such point for such party, an erroneous instruction thereon will be held to be prejudicial error. Hinman v. Austin Mfg. Co., 65 Neb. 187 (90 N. W. 934).

1994. (1902.) Where the charge to the jury, given on the court's own motion, contains a misstatement of the law, the question on review will be whether such misstatement misled the jury, and if it probably did, the judgment will be reversed. Royal Neighbors of America v. Wallace, 66 Neb. 543 (92 N. W. 897).

1995. (1902.) Where the jury has specially found there was no damage caused, it is immaterial whether instructions as to a justification of the alleged injury are supported by the pleadings. Axthelm v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 2 Unof. 444 (89 N. W. 313).

1996. (1903.) Erroneous instructions upon the subject of contributory negligence are without prejudice if the plaintiff's evidence does not disclose contributory negligence and no evidence sufficient to establish it was adduced by the defendant. City of South Omaha v. Fennell, 4 Unof. 427 (94 N. W. 632).

——Failure to mark as given or refused.

1997. (1895.) Where there is no difficulty in determining from the record what instructions were in fact given, the supreme court will treat them as though marked as required by statute. Shafer v. Briggs, 46 Neb. 445 (64 N. W. 1079).

1998. (1897.) A judgment should not be reversed for the court's failure to mark an instruction given or refused, where the party complaining noted his exception on the margin, though it was accompanied by a special exception of the failure of the court to mark the instruction given or refused. Eickhoff v. Eikenbary, 52 Neb. 332 (72 N. W. 308).

1999. (1898.) The failure to write the word "given" on an instruction read to the jury is not sufficient grounds for reversing a judgment when such failure was not prejudicial to the losing party. Home Fire Ins. Co. v. Decker, 55 Neb. 346 (75 N. W. 841).

——Verdict correct on the merits.

2000. (1883.) It is the duty of a court to instruct the jury in the law of the case, whether requested to do so by counsel or not, and when it fails to do so, and the jury find a verdict which, upon a view of the whole case, is clearly wrong, such verdict will be set aside and a new trial ordered. But otherwise when, upon a general view of the case, the verdict seems to be right. Sandwich Mfg. Co. v. Shiley, 15 Neb. 109 (17 N. W. 267).

2001. (1886.) Where verdict is the only one that should have been returned under the evidence it will not be set aside even though the court may have given an instruction upon a matter not in issue in the case. Knowlton v. Mandeville, 20 Neb. 59 (29 N. W. 248).

2002. (1891.) Where the proof fails to show that the party is entitled to recover damages, a failure of the court to instruct as to the proper measure of damages is not an error for which the case will be reversed. Burcham v. Griffeth, 31 Neb. 778 (48 N. W. 824).

2003. A judgment will not be reversed for error committed in the giving of an instruction when the verdict is the only one that should have been returned under the evidence. (1871) Meredith v. Kennard, 1 Neb. 312; (1883) Lamb v. Hotchkiss, 14 Neb. 102 (15 N. W. 324); (1891) Western Union Tel. Co. v. Lowrey, 32 Neb. 732 (49 N. W. 707); (1893) First Nat. Bank of Denver v. Scott, 36 Neb. 607 (54 N. W. 987); (1893) Jansen v. Williams, 36 Neb. 869 (55 N. W. 279; 20 L. R. A. 207); (1894) Jefferies v. Cashman, 42 Neb. 594 (60 N. W. 895);

Digitized by Google

(1895) Stratton v. Dole, 45 Neb. 472 (63 N. W. 875); (1896) State v. Hill, 47 Neb. 456 (66 N. W. 541); (1898) Locke v. Shreck, 54 Neb. 472 (74 N. W. 970); (1899) Booknau v. Clark, 58 Neb. 610 (79 N. W. 159); (1901) Dodds v. McCormick Harvesting Machine Co., 62 Neb. 759 (87 N. W. 911); (1901) Tootle, Hosea & Co. v. Otis, 1 Unof. 360 (95 N. W. 681); (1901) Stull v. Stull, 1 Unof. 399 (96 N. W. 193); (1902) Columbus State Bank v. Carrig, 3 Unof. 592 (92 N. W. 324); (1902) Beer v. Dalton, 3 Unof. 694 (92 N. W. 593); (1903) Gatzemeyer v. Peterson, 68 Neb. 832 (94 N. W. 974); (1903) Kielbeck v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 70 Neb. 571 (97 N. W. 750); (1903) U. P. Steam Baking Co. v. Omaha St. R. Co., 4 Unof. 396 (94 N. W. 533); (1903) City of South Omaha v. Fennell, 4 Unof. 427 (94 N. W. 632); (1903) American Order of Protection v. Stanley, 5 Unof. 132 (97 N. W. 467); (1904) Henry v. Dussell 71 Neb. 691 (99 N. W. 484).

2004. (1901.) Where, in an action for damages, under the undisputed facts, a verdict for a less amount than that actually found would be unwarranted, error in the instructions relative to the assessment of damages, as to the defendant, is error without prejudice. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Sizer, 1 Unof. 32 (95 N. W. 498).

2005. (1901.) Where the evidence is undisputed on a given point, a finding thereon in accordance with such evidence will not be disturbed because of any error in the giving or refusing to give instructions on such point. Standard Oil Co. v. Goodman Drug Co., 1 Unof. 443 (95 N. W. 667).

2006. (1902.) Where, from the nature of the verdict, it is apparent that the jury found there was no breach of contract, whatever error there may be in an instruction as to the measure of damages for a breach of such contract, is error without prejudice, as to the party claiming such damages. Lomax v. Holbine, 65 Neb. 270 (90 N. W. 1122).

2007. (1902.) Where an instruction assumes to define the whole law of the case, and omits a material element from the definition given, it is reversible error, which may be relied upon, although no proper instruction has been requested by the party seeking to take advantage of the defect, unless such instruction is justified because the evidence requires a finding adverse to the defendant upon the issue as to such fact. City of South Omaha v. Hager, 66 Neb. 803 (95 N. W. 13).

——— Refusal of requests.

See, also, Trial, §§ 597-606.

2008. (1880.) The refusal of the court to give the jury a suitable instruction, when it is clear that such refusal could not possibly have prejudiced the party tendering it, is no cause for reversing the judgment. Ryan v. State Bank, 10 Neb. 524 (7 N. W. 276); (1891) Gamble v. Wilson, 33 Neb. 270 (50 N. W. 3).

2009. (1895.) The refusal to give a correct instruction relating solely to the measure of damages is not prejudicial error, where the jury by a verdict for the defendant has shown that it was not brought to a consideration of the measure of damages. Montgomery v. Willis, 45 Neb. 434 (63 N. W. 794); (1902) Gullion v. Traver, 64 Neb. 51 (89 N. W. 404).

2010. (1896.) It is no sufficient ground for the reversal of a judgment that an immaterial instruction asked by the plaintiff in error was refused. Newman v. Ryne, 48 Neb. 362 (67 N. W. 189).

2011. (1898.) A cause will not be reversed for the refusal of a proper instruction where an instruction fully as favorable to the complaining party covering the same point has been given by the court on its own motion. Howard v. Board of Supervisors of Clay County, 54 Neb. 443 (74 N. W. 953).

2012. (1907.) Error cannot be assigned for the refusal of an instruction, the substance of which is contained in instructions given by the court of his own motion. Hudson v. Truman, 78 Neb. 840 (112 N. W. 325).

——— Cure by other instruction.

See, also, Trial, §§ 607-612, 670, 671.

2013. (1882.) If one of the paragraphs misstate the law upon a material point, such error will not be cured by another paragraph which states the law correctly, because the jury would be left in doubt as to which paragraph was correct. Wasson v. Palmer, 13 Neb. 376 (14 N. W. 171); (1888) Fitzgerald v. Meyer, 25 Neb. 77 (41 N. W. 123); (1891) School District v. Foster, 31 Neb. 501 (48 N. W. 267); (1893) First Nat. Bank of Denver v. Lowrey, 36 Neb. 290 (54 N. W. 568); (1895) Richardson v. Halstead, 44 Neb. 606 (62 N. W. 1077); (1895) Burlington v. Baders, 45 Neb. 673 (63 N. W. 919); (1898) Missouri P. R. Co. v. Fox, 56 Neb. 746 (77 N. W. 130).

2014. (1893.) Error in conflicting and misleading instructions is not rendered harmless by the fact that the general tenor of the charge is more favorable to the defeated party. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Anderson, 38 Neb. 112 (56 N. W. 794); (1894) Carson v. Stevens, 40 Neb. 112 (58 N. W. 845; 42 Am. St. Rep. 661); (1901) Town of Denver v. Meyers, 63 Neb. 107 (88 N. W. 191); (1901) Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Johnston, 1 Unof. 314 (95 N. W. 614); (1902) Knight v. Denman, 64 Neb. 814 (90 N. W. 863); (1903) Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Sporer, 69 Neb. 8 (94 N. W. 991); (1903) Parkins v. Missouri P. R. Co., 4 Unof. 13 (96 N. W. 683).

Digitized by Google

2015. (1898.) If in a paragraph of a charge of a court to a jury there is contained a misstatement of the law upon a material point of the issue, the error is not cured by a correct statement thereof in another or other paragraphs. Crosby v. Ritchey, 56 Neb. 336 (76 N. W. 895); (1899) Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Oyster, 58 Neb. 1 (78 N. W. 359).

2015*a*. (1899.) An erroneous instruction is not cured by merely giving another instruction on the same subject stating the rule correctly. Williams v. McConaughey, 58 Neb. 656 (79 N. W. 549).

2016. (1899.) Where a court has given an instruction in which there is expressed the existence of certain facts, or its opinion that they do exist, in a case wherein there is a conflict in the evidence relative to said facts, the error is not cured by submitting special interrogatories of their establishment, or the contrary, and the further instruction that the jury is not to be influenced in the determination of the special queries by the fact that the court has given the former instruction which embodied its opinion on the subject. Morton v. Harvey, 57 Neb. 304 (77 N. W. 808).

2017. (1900.) Instructions are to be considered together, to the end that they may be properly understood, and when so construed, if, as a whole, they fairly state the law applicable to the evidence, error cannot be predicated upon the giving of the same. Hoffine v. Ewings, 60 Neb. 729 (84 N. W. 93).

2018. (1902.) The giving of correct instructions will not cure the error of one which invades the province of the jury as to determining the weight of evidence. Skow v. Locke, 3 Unof. 176 (91 N. W. 204).

2019. (1902.) Where the correct amount sued for is repeatedly stated in a lengthy set of instructions, one that the jury should under certain circumstances find for the plaintiff in "the full amount sued for, to wit: $2,969.20 with interest," etc., is not prejudicial error, though the full amount sued for was only $1,384.20 and interest, where the verdict is expressly for the latter amount and certain interest which is expressly computed and stated in the verdict. Doe v. United States of America, 3 Unof. 405 (91 N. W. 519).

——— Cure by remittitur.

2020. (1901.) Where alleged errors in rulings at the trial all go to the amount of certain damages assessed, and a remittitur of such damages is required for other reasons, such errors are no ground for reversal of the judgment. Herpolsheimer v. Funke, 1 Unof. 471 (95 N. W. 688).

2021. (1901.) Error in instructing the jury to include interest in their verdict, there being no prayer therefor in the petition, may be cured by remittitur. Rawlings v. Anheuser-Busch Brewing Ass'n, 1 Unof. 555 (95 N. W. 792).

Submission of issues or questions to jury.

2022. (1897.) Where an answer to a question for a special finding would be immaterial, it is not prejudicial error to render judgment on the general verdict without first requiring a special finding in answer to the question. Doane v. Smith Bros. Loan & Trust Co., 51 Neb. 280 (70 N. W. 909).

Misconduct of counsel.

2023. (1891.) To authorize the appellate court to set aside a verdict and grant a new trial on account of statements made in summing up by counsel for the prevailing party, or the refusal of the court to strike out such statements and instruct counsel not to repeat them, the statements must have been of such a character as may reasonably be supposed to have influenced the jury. Daly v. Melendy, 32 Neb. 852 (49 N. W. 926).

2024. (1897.) Generally a judgment will not be reversed for improper remarks of counsel, where the jury is directed to disregard the statements, and the misconduct is not repeated. Golder v. Lund, 50 Neb. 867 (70 N. W. 379).

2025. (1900.) Where there is reason to believe that the jury may have been influenced in any degree in favor of the prevailing party by the misconduct of his counsel in arguing the cause, the verdict should be set aside, and a new trial awarded; otherwise, where it is not prejudicial. Ashland Land & Live Stock Co. v. May, 59 Neb. 735 (82 N. W. 10).

Digitized by Google

2026. (1901.) When counsel, in their overzeal in the argument of a case to a jury, depart from the record, a sharp and prompt rebuke from the trial judge will ordinarily cure the error. Brown v. Silver, 2 Unof. 164 (96 N. W. 281).

www.lhtool.com.cn

Misconduct of court.

2027. (1899.) Error of the trial judge in examining witnesses and in making remarks held cured by an admonition to the jury to disregard such conduct. Omaha Brewing Ass'n v. Bullnheimer, 58 Neb. 387 (78 N. W. 728).

2028. (1901.) Remarks of the trial judge with respect to an issue as to which a verdict was directed, having no apparent connection with the only issue left to the jury, are not ground for reversal of a judgment. Hillebrand v. Nelson, 1 Unof. 783 (95 N. W. 1068).

Conduct and deliberations of jury.

2029. (1895.) Misconduct of a juror, not prejudicial to the party complaining, is not available error on review. Vaughn v. Crites, 44 Neb. 812 (62 N. W. 1098).

2030. (1899.) In an action against a railroad company for wrongfully causing the death of plaintiff's intestate misconduct of jurors in visiting and examining the locality of the accident, without permission of the court or knowledge of the parties, is not ground for setting aside the verdict, where it is disclosed that such view did not influence the finding. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Oyster, 58 Neb. 1 (78 N. W. 359).

2031. (1899.) That the jury ignored irrelevant proof, held not ground for reversing a judgment based on the verdict. Blue Valley Lumber Co. v. Neuman, 58 Neb. 80 (78 N. W. 374).

Verdict.

See, also, Trial, IX.

Cure of excessive verdict by remittitur, see post, §§ 2103-2113.

2032. (1897.) When a verdict is sufficient to authorize a judgment, and there is no substantial variance between it and the judgment, the case will not be reversed for an informality in the verdict. Baum Iron Co. v. Union Savings Bank, 50 Neb. 387 (69 N. W. 939).

2033. (1898.) Although a verdict is rendered in plain disregard of instructions, the judgment will not be reversed where the instructions were erroneous, and the verdict the only one which could properly be returned under the evidence. Dern v. Kellogg, 54 Neb. 560 (74 N. W. 844).

2034. (1903.) Informality in a verdict rendered in obedience to a peremptory instruction, is not prejudicial if the judgment is such as would properly have been rendered if the error had not been committed. Heagney v. Case Threshing Machine Co., 4 Unof. 753 (99 N. W. 260).

——— Special findings.

2035. (1889.) When upon a trial to a jury immaterial or improper questions for special findings are submitted to a jury at the request of a party afterward complaining, and the jury is discharged without answering such questions, held error without prejudice. Missouri P. R. Co. v. Vandeventer, 26 Neb. 222 (41 N. W. 998; 3 L. R. A. 129).

2036. (1895.) A special finding, though clearly unsustained by the evidence, must be disregarded when the fact established by it is clearly irrelevant to the issues on trial. Citizens Nat. Bank of Grand Island v. Wedgwood, 45 Neb. 143 (63 N. W. 375).

Judgment.

2037. (1898.) On review a judgment against two defendants, where a several judgment might have been proper, may be affirmed as to one defendant though the court had no jurisdiction of the other. Bates-Smith Investment Co. v. Scott, 56 Neb. 475 (76 N. W. 1063).

2038. (1901.) Where the evidence sustains the findings, and the findings sustain a formal judgment rendered thereon, such judgment will not be reversed because of an erroneous conclusion of law deducted from the findings of fact, such conclusion being merely an expression of opinion by the trial court. Rosso v. Milwaukee Harvester Co., 2 Unof. 212 (96 N. W. 213).

2039. (1903.) A decree will not be reversed because it fails to conform to evidence appearing in the record but not admissible under the pleadings. Omaha Oil & Paint Co. v. Greater America Exposition, 4 Unof. 275 (93 N. W. 963).

——— Wrong reason for correct decision.

2040. (1898.) A judgment should not be reversed for a correct ruling, though an erroneous reason was given. Pease Piano Co. v. Cameron, 56 Neb. 561 (76 N. W. 1053); (1900) State, ex rel. Emerson, v. Dickinson, 59 Neb. 753 (82 N. W. 16);

Digitized by Google

(1900) Crawford Co. v. Hathaway, 60 Neb. 754 (84 N. W. 271); (1902) Kelley v. Wehn, 63 Neb. 410 (88 N. W. 682); (1903) School District of Omaha v. McDonald, 68 Neb. 623 (97 N. W. 584).

www.libtool.com.cn

2041. (1903.) Unless there is material error in the record brought to the supreme court for review, the judgment of the trial court will be affirmed regardless of the theory upon which it was defended. Woodmen Accident Ass'n v. Hamilton, 70 Neb. 30 (97 N. W. 1017).

2042. (1907.) The action of a trial court in withdrawing a cause of action from the consideration of the jury will not be held erroneous on account of the reason given therefor by the court, if the withdrawal is proper for any reason. Kohler v. Hughbanks, 79 Neb. 320 (112 N. W. 577).

Decision on motion for new trial.

2043. (1887.) Where a cause is tried to a jury and their verdict is set aside and a new trial granted, and the second trial results in substantially the same verdict, upon which a judgment is rendered by the trial court, and for the reversal of which proceedings in error are prosecuted in the supreme court, a petition in error being also filed by defendant in error, by which he seeks to have judgment rendered on the first verdict, the action of the district court will not be disturbed, it being apparent that the last verdict was sufficient to cover the damage proven on either trial. Omaha, N. & B. H. R. Co. v. O'Donnell, 22 Neb. 475 (35 N. W. 235).

2044. (1904.) Where a second trial results in the same or a like verdict as the first one, error cannot be predicated on the order granting the new trial, because the party complaining cannot be said to have been injured thereby. Kleutsch v. Security Mutual Life Ins. Co., 72 Neb. 75 (100 N. W. 139).

I. Error Waived in Appellate Court.

Failure to appear.

2045. (1882.) Where the appellant fails to appear and point out any error in the judgment appealed from, and no error is apparent, the judgment will be affirmed. Leech v. Philpott, 12 Neb. 577 (12 N. W. 116).

Delay in urging objections.

2046. (1882.) After a cause is submitted to the supreme court on the merits, it is too late to raise the objection that the bill of exceptions was not presented to the adverse party for correction and amendment before being signed by the judge. Aitkins v. Aitkins, 13 Neb. 271 (13 N. W. 285).

2047. (1902.) The objection that there is a defect of parties, in the supreme court, must be made before the case is finally submitted on its merits or it will be considered waived. Bianki v. Greater America Exposition, 3 Unof. 656 (92 N. W. 615)

Failure to urge objections in brief or argument.

2048. (1888.) An assignment of error not insisted on at the argument, nor in the brief, will not be considered. Towne v. Sparks, 23 Neb. 142 (36 N. W. 375); (1891) Scott v. Chope, 33 Neb. 41 (49 N. W. 940); (1894) Gill v. Lydick, 40 Neb. 508 (59 N. W. 104); (1894) Glaze v. Parcel, 40 Neb. 732 (59 N. W. 382); (1894) Gulick v. Webb, 41 Neb. 706 (60 N. W. 13; 43 Am. St. Rep. 720); (1894) Peaks v. Lord, 42 Neb. 15 (60 N. W. 349); (1894) Reed v. Wood, 42 Neb. 496 (60 N. W. 909); (1895) Erck v. Omaha Nat. Bank, 43 Neb. 613 (62 N. W. 67); (1895) Burgess v. Burgess, 44 Neb. 16 (62 N. W. 242); (1895) Madsen v. State, 44 Neb. 631 62 N. W. 1081); (1896) Kaufmann v. Cooper, 46 Neb. 644 (65 N. W. 796); (1896) Johnson v. Gulick, 46 Neb. 817 (65 N. W. 883; 50 Am. St. Rep. 629); (1896) City of Kearney v. Smith, 47 Neb. 408 (66 N. W. 538); (1897) Hamer v. McFeggan, 51 Neb. 227 (70 N. W. 937); (1897) Adams-Smith Co. v. Hayward, 52 Neb. 79 (71 N. W. 949); (1897) McCord v. Hamel, 52 Neb. 286 (72 N. W. 220); (1898) Blodgett v. McMurtry, 54 Neb. 69 (74 N. W. 392); (1898) Herzke v. Blake, 54 Neb. 465 (74 N. W. 959); (1899) Humpert v. McGavock, 59 Neb. 346 (80 N. W. 1038); (1900) Mandell v. Weldin, 59 Neb. 699 (82 N. W. 6); (1901) Elkhorn Valley Bank v. Marley, 61 Neb. 583 (85 N. W. 846); (1901) Martin v. Kearney County, 62 Neb. 538 (87 N. W. 351); (1901) Brown v. Collins, 2 Unof. 149 (96 N. W. 173); (1902) Moore v. Jacobs, 64 Neb. 72 (89 N. W. 1134); (1902) Mayhew v. Knittle, 64 Neb. 395 (89 N. W. 1037); (1902) Brown v. Houghton, 2 Unof. 425 (89 N. W. 251); (1902) Western Union Tel. Co. v. Church, 3 Unof. 22 (90 N. W. 878); (1902) Zimmerman v. Kearney County Bank, 3 Unof. 323 (91 N. W. 497); (1903) Portsmouth Savings Bank v. City of Omaha, 67 Neb. 50 (93 N. W. 231); (1903) Bemis v. McCloud, 4 Unof. 729 (96 N. W. 214); (1903)

Digitized by Google

Harnett v. Holdrege, 5 Unof. 114 (97 N. W. 443); (1904) Nelson v. Brisbin, 5 Unof. 496 (98 N. W. 1057); (1905) Sweet v. State, 75 Neb. 263 (106 N. W. 31).

www.liptool.com.cn

2049. (1890.) An assignment of error based upon the overruling of objections to twenty-two questions, no ground of objection being suggested in brief or argument, and the errors not being apparent of themselves, was overruled by the supreme court pro forma. Filley v. Walker, 28 Neb. 506 (44 N. W. 737).

2050. (1894.) Assignments of error not specifically called to the attention of the court by brief or argument will be deemed waived, although a party in his brief states generally that he does not desire to waive any assignment. Bishop v. Middleton, 43 Neb. 10 (61 N. W. 129; 26 L. R. A. 445).

2051. (1902.) Where there are several findings, made by the trial court, which appear to be sustained by the evidence, each of which will sustain the decree and the plaintiff in error in his brief and argument in the supreme court complains of but one of them, the decree will be affirmed without passing upon the findings complained of. Mayhew v. Knittle, 64 Neb. 395 (89 N. W. 1037).

2052. (1903.) An appellant should present in his briefs all the grounds upon which he seeks a reversal or modification of the decree appealed from; he will not be permitted to seek a modification as to matters not challenged in his briefs, when defeated in an attempt to secure reversal of the entire decree. Batty v. City of Hastings, 69 Neb. 511 (95 N. W. 866).

2052*a*. (1907.) Points not presented in the supreme court will be deemed to be waived. Northwest Thresher Co. v. Eddyville State Bank, 80 Neb. 377 (114 N. W. 291).

J. Decisions of Intermediate Courts.

In general.

2053. (1894.) Where an appeal from the county board has been tried in the district court without pleadings the supreme court will not examine the evidence on error to ascertain what issues were litigated. Haskell v. Valley County, 41 Neb. 234 (59 N. W. 680).

K. Subsequent appeals.

Opinions and decisions as res adjudicata, see Courts, §§ 72-114.

Scope and extent to review.

2054. (1802.) Where the issues have been fully presented in a former case and a decision had upon the merits, and the cause remanded with directions in what manner to render judgment, and there has been a substantial compliance therewith, the judgment will be sustained. School District No. 6 v. School District No. 9, 13 Neb. 166 (12 N. W. 921).

2055. (1901.) Where a decree in equity is reversed and remanded for want of sufficient evidence and on a second trial de novo additional evidence is introduced, a second appeal will be considered on the record then presented. First Nat. Bank of Sutton v. Grosshans, 61 Neb. 575 (85 N. W. 542).

2056. (1902.) Where no new question is presented on a second appeal, the decree will be affirmed. Gadsden v. Thrush, 63 Neb. 881 (89 N. W. 403). [Reversed on additional point. 191 U. S. 451.]

2057. (1904.) Where, on a new trial in the district court, the parties have introduced new evidence, together with that taken on the former trial, the supreme court, on a second appeal will examine the record and evidence in order to determine controverted questions of fact. Hamilton Nat. Bank v. American Loan & Trust Co., 72 Neb. 81 (100 N. W. 202).

2058. (1905.) Where a case has been reversed and remanded, with directions to the trial court to submit certain issues to the jury, and the case is tried a second time on the same issues made by the pleadings on the first trial, the supreme court, on a second appeal, will examine and pass upon the correctness of the instructions of the trial court in submitting to the jury the issues which the court was directed to try and determine, notwithstanding a claim made on behalf of the defendant in error that error in such instruction is without prejudice to the plaintiff in error because of a former adjudication of such issues asserted by the defendant in error. Morrill v. McNeill, 74 Neb. 291 (104 N. W. 195).

2059. (1906.) The supreme court, on a second appeal of the same case, will not reexamine questions of law presented and determined on the first appeal unless the opinion first expressed is manifestly erroneous. Brewster v. Meng, 76 Neb. 560 (107 N. W. 751).

Former decision as law of the case in general.

2060. (1885.) A previous ruling by the appellate court, upon a point distinctly made, may be only authority in other cases,

Digitized by Google

to be followed or affirmed, or to be modified or overruled, according to its intrinsic merits, but in the case in which it is made it is more than authority; it is a final adjudication, from the consequences of which the court cannot depart, nor the parties relieve themselves. Hiatt v. Brooks, 17 Neb. 33 (22 N. W. 73); (1885) O'Donahue v. Hendrix, 17 Neb. 287 (22 N. W. 548); (1886) Leighton v. Stuart, 19 Neb. 546 (26 N. W. 198); (1886) Nelson v. Bevins, 19 Neb. 715 (28 N. W. 331); (1888) Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Hull, 24 Neb. 740 (40 N. W. 280); (1888) O'Brien v. Gaslin, 24 Neb 559 (39 N. W. 449); (1897) Meyer v. Shamp, 51 Neb. 424 (71 N. W. 57); (1898) Omaha Life Ass'n v. Kettenbach, 55 Neb. 330 (75 N. W. 827); (1900) School District v. Fiske, 61 Neb. 3 (84 N. W. 401); (1903) Edney v. Baum, 70 Neb. 159 (97 N. W. 252); (1904) Supreme Court of Honor v. Tracy, 72 Neb. 742 (101 N. W. 1021); (1905) Porter v. State, 73 Neb. 792 (103 N. W. 669); (1905) First Nat. Bank of Plattsmouth v. Gibson, 74 Neb. 236 (105 N. W. 1081); (1905) Lowe v. Prospect Hill Cemetery Ass'n, 75 Neb. 85 (106 N. W. 429); (1906) Topping v. Cohn, 77 Neb. 310 (109 N. W. 151). [Modified. City of Hastings v. Foxworthy, 45 Neb. 676.]

2061. (1886.) Matters that have been adjudicated in a former suit will not be considered in a second action. Nelson v. Bevins, 19 Neb. 715 (28 N. W. 331).

2062. (1889.) A judgment or ruling of the supreme court in a case or point distinctly and finally made will be held to be the law of the case in which made throughout its course of litigation; without regard to the number of times it may be brought before the court, or to the intrinsic merits of such judgment or ruling. Meyer v. Shamp, 26 Neb. 729 (42 N. W. 757).

2063. (1895.) Where a judgment has been reversed on appeal and the case remanded generaly and the same questions are presented on retrial, the appellate court on a second appeal may re-examine and reverse its former rulings. City of Hastings v. Foxworthy, 45 Neb. 676 (63 N. W. 955; 34 L. R. A. 321). [Modified. 52 Neb. 624; 55 Neb. 330; 59 Neb. 349.]

2064. The determination of questions presented to the supreme court, in an appellate proceeding, becomes the law of the case, and, ordinarily, will not be re-examined when the cause is again brought up for review. (1896) Fuller v. Cunningham, 48 Neb. 857 (67 N. W. 879); (1895) Ripp v. Hale, 45 Neb. 567 (64 N. W. 454); (1896) Coburn v. Watson, 48 Neb. 257 (67 N. W. 171); (1899) Richardson Drug Co. v. Teasdall, 59 Neb. 150 (80 N. W. 488); (1899) Wittenberg v. Mollyneaux, 59 Neb. 203 (80 N. W. 824); (1899) Home Fire Ins. Co. v. Johansen, 59 Neb. 343 (80 N. W. 1047); (1899) Hayden v. Frederickson, 59 Neb. 141 (80 N. W. 494); (1900) Leavitt v. Bell, 59 Neb. 595 (81 N. W. 614); (1900) Motley v. Motley, 60 Neb. 593 (83 N. W. 830); (1900) Nebraska Savings & Exchange Bank v. Brewster, 59 Neb. 535 (81 N. W. 441); (1900) Todd v. Houghton, 59 Neb. 538 (81 N. W. 508); (1900) Barker v. Wheeler, 60 Neb. 470 (83 N. W. 678; 83 Am. St. Rep. 541); (1900) School District v. Fiske, 61 Neb. 3 (84 N. W. 401); (1901) Barton v. Shull, 62 Neb. 570 (87 N. W. 322); (1901) City of Omaha v. Bowman, 63 Neb. 333 (88 N. W. 521); (1901) Holt v. Schneider, 61 Neb. 370 (85 N. W. 280); (1901) Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Yost, 61 Neb. 530 (85 N. W. 561); (1902) Gadsden v. Thrush, 63 Neb. 881 (89 N. W. 403); (1903) Connecticut Trust & Safe Deposit Co. v. Fletcher, 5 Unof. 1 (96 N. W. 988); (1903) Merrill v. Van Camp, 4 Unof. 794 (96 N. W. 617); (1904) Hamilton Nat. Bank v. American Loan & Trust Co., 72 Neb. 81 (100 N. W. 202); (1905) Ridgley v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 73 Neb. 874 (103 N. W. 669); (1905) First Nat. Bank of Plattsmouth v. Gibson, 74 Neb. 236 (105 N. W. 1081); (1905) New Omaha Thomson-Houston Electric Light Co. v. Rombold, 73 Neb. 259 (102 N. W. 475; 106 N. W. 213).

2065. (1899.) When the evidence is substantially the same as on a former appeal, the weight and effect to be given such evidence must be considered as foreclosed by the former decision on that point. Mead v. Tzschuck, 57 Neb. 615 (78 N. W. 262).

2066. (1900.) It is not permissible for an appellate court, on a subsequent appeal of a cause, to reconsider and correct an erroneous decision made by it in the same case on a former appeal. Wittenberg v. Mollyneaux, 60 Neb. 583 (83 N. W. 842).

2067. (1901.) Decisions on review become the law of the case and settle conclusively the points adjudicated. Anheuser-Busch Brewing Ass'n v. Hier, 61 Neb. 582 (85 N. W. 832).

2068. (1901.) The decision of questions presented to the supreme court in reviewing the proceedings of the district court becomes the law of the case and, for the purposes of the litigation, settles conclusively the points adjudicated. Smith v. Neufeld, 61 Neb. 699 (85 N. W. 898).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

2069. (1905.) When a question in controversy has been once finally decided, it becomes the law of the case, and is binding on the parties and those claiming under or through them in all subsequent stages of the litigation. Lowe v. Prospect Hill Cemetery Ass'n. 75 Neb. 85 (106 N. W. 429).

2070. (1906.) An appellate court, on a second appeal of a case, will not ordinarily re-examine questions of law presented by the first appeal, but where the case was on the first appeal remanded generally for a new trial and the same questions are presented on the second trial, the appellate court is not bound to follow opinions on questions of law presented on the first appeal and may re-examine and reverse its rulings on such questions, and should do so when the opinion first expressed is manifestly incorrect. Eccles v. Walker, 75 Neb. 722 (106 N. W. 977).

2071. (1906.) The determination of questions presented to the supreme court in its review of the proceedings of an inferior tribunal become the law of the case, and ordinarily will not be re-examined in a subsequent review of the proceedings of the inferior tribunal on a second trial or hearing of the cause. Hargadine v. Omaha B. & T. R. Co., 76 Neb. 729 (107 N. W. 864).

2071*a*. (1908.) The decision of the supreme court upon a former hearing of the same case is controlling only as to the actual point then determined. Schwanenfeldt v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 80 Neb. 790 (115 N. W. 285).

Questions concluded.

2072. (1886.) The rule that a previous ruling by an appellate court upon a point distinctly made is a final adjudication, from the consequences of which the court cannot part nor the parties relieve themselves, is applicable only to legal principles enunciated and rules laid down for the government of the inferior court upon the second trial. It has no reference to decisions on questions of fact solely where the evidence upon the second trial is materially different from that on the first. Lane v. Starkey, 20 Neb. 586 (31 N. W. 238); (1900) Missouri P. R. Co. v. Fox, 60 Neb. 531 (83 N. W. 744); (1900) State, ex rel. Seth Thomas Clock Co., v. County Commissioners of Cass County, 60 Neb. 566 (83 N. W. 733).

2073. (1899.) Decision on former appeal as to ownership of property held conclusive upon the parties and their privies. Klamp v. Klamp, 58 Neb. 748 (79 N. W. 735).

2074. (1900.) A question once decided by the supreme court in the trial of a case will be held to be the law of the case during its future course of procedure, and will not be overturned unless manifestly incorrect. This rule applies, not only to points expressly decided, but to all questions presented in the record and necessarily involved in the decision rendered. State, ex rel. Seth Thomas Clock Co., v. County Commissioners of Cass County, 60 Neb. 566 (83 N. W. 733); (1901) Oldig v. Fisk, 1 Unof. 124 (95 N. W. 492); (1903) Edney v. Baum, 70 Neb. 159 (97 N. W. 252).

2075. (1900.) The rulings upon the first appeal settle definitely, for the purposes of litigation, all questions adjudicated; but mere expressions of opinion respecting matters not actually involved in the decision have no binding force. Wittenberg v. Mollyneaux, 60 Neb. 583 (83 N. W. 842).

2076. (1900.) When after a deed is held on appeal to be testamentary in character and the case remanded, the pleadings are amended and a reformation of the deed prayed for, the opinion will not be deemed res adjudicata as to the alleged mistake in the deed. Pinkham v. Pinkham, 60 Neb. 600 (83 N. W. 837).

2077. (1901.) Where on review in error proceeding in the supreme court it is held that the evidence on the trial of the case is insufficient to support an allegation in the pleadings, and on retrial of the case the evidence in support of such allegation is substantially the same as in the first trial, the former ruling will be adhered to and followed as the law of the case as to the sufficiency of such evidence. Bank of Stockham v. Alter, 61 Neb. 359 (85 N. W. 300).

2078. (1901.) Where it has been held on error proceedings in the supreme court that a petition states a good cause of action, evidence sustaining the allegations of such petition is sufficient to support a verdict and judgment in favor of the plaintiff. City of Omaha v. Bowman, 63 Neb. 333 (88 N. W. 521).

2079. (1901.) The law of the case is a rule of expediency which should not be lightly disregarded, but it should be restricted to such questions as have been presented to, and decided by, the supreme court at the former hearing of the same case and those necessarily involved in such decision and should not apply to a mere expression of opinion in regard to matters not actually involved in the decision, nor should it apply to questions referred to by intimation only and not determined. First Nat. Bank of Hastings v. Farmers & Merchants Bank, 2 Unof. 104 (95 N. W. 1062).

Digitized by Google

2080. (1902.) The rule that a decision of this court is the law of the case, not only as to the points expressly considered in the opinion but as all matters necessarily involved in the judgment rendered, has not the same application where the evidence at successive trials of the same cause is so materially different as to affect the conclusions reached. State v. Paxton, 65 Neb. 110 (90 N. W. 983).

2081. (1902.) Where the evidence at a new trial is, or may be presumed to be, materially different from that at a trial already reviewed by the supreme court, in a subsequent review it will investigate the record uninfluenced by the former decision, except so far as questions of law were there adjudicated, which apply equally to the evidence at each trial State v. Paxton, 65 Neb. 110 (90 N. W. 983).

2082. (1902.) The rule of the "law of the case," does not apply to questions of fact determined by the supreme court between the same litigants in the same cause of action, when there is a material and substantial change in the testimony reviewed at the different hearings. Phelps County Farmers Mutual Ins. Co. v. Johnston, 66 Neb. 590 (92 N. W. 576).

2083. (1902.) As it is the settled practice of the supreme court that a judgment will not be reversed for errors not argued in the briefs of counsel, a decision affirming a judgment does not become a precedent as to any question not argued or expressly presented to the court, and left unnoticed in the opinion, although it might have been raised, and, if raised, have been decisive of the case. Larson v. First Nat. Bank of Pender, 66 Neb. 595 (92 N. W. 729).

2084. (1902.) The rule that a prior decision of the supreme court in a given cause is the law of the case in all subsequent proceedings as to matters passed upon or involved in the decision, does not apply to propositions of law upon which the members of the court taking part therein were equally divided. Baldwin v. Burt, 2 Unof. 377 (96 N. W. 401).

2085. (1902.) Where the defendants appeal from a decree in favor of the plaintiff, allowing an injunction, which is contingent on the doing of certain acts by the plaintiff, and the decree is affirmed, such decree is conclusive on the parties as to all matters thereby adjudicated, on an appeal from a subsequent order in the same case. Commercial State Bank of Crawford v. Ketcham, 3 Unof. 839 (92 N. W. 998).

2086. (1903.) On an appeal in equity the appellee is not concluded as to any matter directly involved in the questions raised by the appellant. As to matters not necessarily involved in the appeal an appellee who enters no cross-appeal should be held concluded. Clark v. County of Lancaster, 69 Neb. 717 (96 N. W. 593).

2087. (1905.) The decision of a law question by the supreme court upon the first appeal of a cause will ordinarily be adhered to upon a second appeal as the law of the case. No exception to this rule will be made when the question so determined is one of practice, and the parties have been guided by such decision in the second trial of the case. Williams v. Miles, 73 Neb. 193 (102 N. W. 482; 105 N. W. 181; 106 N. W. 769).

2088. (1905.) An amended answer, in an action to recover for injuries from an electric light company by a lineman who alleged negligence in uninsulated wires, on rehearing after a reversal wherein it is admitted such wires were not insulated, it being denied in the original answer, does not put in issue new facts so as to overthrow the law of the case on the former hearing. New Omaha Thomson-Houston Electric Light Co. v. Rombold, 73 Neb. 259 (102 N. W. 475; 106 N. W. 213).

2089. (1905.) Where the supreme court has in a proper proceeding declared as a matter of law that a judgment of the district court is valid and cannot be collaterally attacked, such holding will ordinarily be treated as the law of the case in all subsequent proceedings involving the determination of that question. Parrotte v. Dryden, 73 Neb. 291 (102 N. W. 610).

2090. (1905.) A point necessarily determined by the supreme court upon appeal becomes the law of the case, and, ordinarily, will not be departed from in the further course of the litigation, unless clearly wrong, so that it cannot be supported upon reason or authority. First Nat. Bank of Plattsmouth v. Gibson, 74 Neb. 236 (105 N. W. 1081).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

2091. (1905.) When a petition is held by the supreme court to state a cause of action as against a general demurrer, this ruling becomes the law of the case, and will be adhered to upon a second appeal if the cause has been tried in the district court without specific objection to the sufficiency of the petition. First Nat. Bank of Plattsmouth v. Gibson, 74 Neb. 236 (105 N. W. 1081).

XVI. DETERMINATION AND DISPOSITION OF CAUSE.

Effect of reversal after writ of restitution in forcible entry and detainer, see Forcible Entry and Detainer, § 89.

Liability on supersedeas bond in attachment, see Attachment, §§ 364-366.

A. Decision in General.

Remand without decision.

2092. (1888.) Where the issues, after amendment and supplemental petitions are filed, are so confused as to make it uncertain just what the issues are, the case will be sent back to the trial court with leave to replead and a new trial had upon the merits. Lancaster County Bank v. Gregory, 24 Neb. 656 (39 N. W. 835).

2093. (1890.) When it appears that all the parties necessary to a proper and complete determination of an equity cause were not before the district court, the supreme court may remand the cause for the purpose of having such parties brought in. Smith v. Shaffer, 29 Neb. 656 (45 N. W. 936).

Effect of lack of jurisdiction.

2094. (1894.) Where the supreme court has not acquired jurisdiction of a cause, the only judgment which can be rendered is one dismissing the proceeding. Garneau v. Omaha Printing Co., 42 Neb. 847 (61 N. W. 100).

Consolidated causes.

2095. (1894.) Where several cases with different plaintiffs, presenting different states of fact, were, by agreement, tried together, and by stipulation all the plaintiffs joined in one motion for a new trial and in one petition in error, the proceedigs were indivisible, and the judgment must be affirmed as to all if free from error as to one. Omaha Fair & Exposition Ass'n v. Missouri P. R. Co., 42 Neb. 103 (60 N. W. 330).

Scope of decision.

2096. (1901.) A decision of the supreme court holding that a petition states a cause of action is an adjudication that the facts pleaded will, if admitted or proved, entitle the plaintiff to the relief demanded. Smith v. Neufeld, 61 Neb. 699 (85 N. W. 898).

Scope and extent of relief.

2097. (1906.) In case issues of fact, necessary to the determination of a cause, are not passed upon by the court below, but the testimony thereon is full and convincing, the supreme court will find the facts and direct such decree as its determination thereof may require. Sanely v. Crapenhoft, 1 Unof. 8 (95 N. W. 352).

2098. (1904.) The supreme court has power to make such orders and disposition of a cause before it as will render a judgment effective. McCormick v. State, 71 Neb. 505 (99 N. W. 237).

——— Persons entitled.

2099. (1886.) An appellee who has taken no steps to have a decree reviewed will not on the affirmance of the judgment in the supreme court be entitled to any greater relief than was awarded to him in the court below, unless his rights are so interwoven with those of the appellant that the court in adjudicating the appellant's rights must necessarily grant the appellee additional relief. Hamilton v. Whitney, Clark & Co., 19 Neb. 303 (27 N. W. 125).

2100. (1896.) On appeal, relief can only be obtained by such parties are are appellants. Rogers v. Central Loan & Trust Co., 49 Neb. 676 (68 N. W. 1048).

B. Affirmance.

Error not shown.

2101. (1896.) Where the bill of exceptions has been quashed and the petition in error fails to present a question for review, the judgment below may be affirmed. Sweeney v. Ramge, 46 Neb. 919 (66 N. W. 9).

Reversal ineffectual or not beneficial.

2102. (1902.) Where an order appointing a receiver is erroneously made, but is not reviewed until the main case in which the receiver was appointed has been heard on appeal in the supreme court, and on such appeal it is determined that the party applying for the receiver is entitled to the rents and profits of which the receiver took possession, the order will not be reversed or set aside, as such action could not benefit either party to the action and would probably result in further litigation and costs. Sheldon v. Parker, 66 Neb. 634 (95 N. W. 1015).

Digitized by Google

Remission of part of recovery.

2103. (1882.) In a proceeding to reverse judgment of an inferior court, where the only error is that costs of protest of note on which suit was brought were included in excess of endorsement on summons, and same is remitted, judgment should be affirmed as to residue, but without costs. McKay v. Hinman, 13 Neb. 33 (13 N. W. 15).

2104. (1889.) The verdict of the jury being for too great an amount in favor of the defendant in error, he is required to remit the excess as a condition to the affirmance of the judgment. Boston Tea Co. v. Prubaker, 26 Neb. 409 (42 N. W. 399).

2105. (1893.) Where a jury includes in a verdict for a plaintiff a sum for attorney's fees for which defendant should not be held liable, a judgment entered thereon will be reversed upon review in the supreme court unless the plaintiff files a remittitur for said sum. Jones Nat. Bank v. Price, 37 Neb. 291 (55 N. W. 1045).

2106. (1894.) Where a verdict is too large and the amount of excess definitely appears from the record for review in supreme court, the party in whose favor the verdict was rendered, in absence of other error, may be permitted to remit the excess and have judgment for balance affirmed. Omaha & R. V. R. Co. v. Ryburn, 40 Neb. 87 (58 N. W. 541); (1894) Haas v. Bank of Commerce, 41 Neb. 754 (60 N. W. 85); (1895) Creighton v. Finlayson, 46 Neb. 457 (64 N. W. 1103); (1897) School District of Beatrice v. Thomas, 51 Neb. 740 (71 N. W. 731).

2107. (1896.) Where a judgment was excessive to the amount of eighteen cents, a remittitur for that sum was required as a condition of affirmance. Andres v. Kridler, 47 Neb. 585 (66 N. W. 649).

2108. (1896.) Where excess in the amount of recovery is the only error in a record for review, the judgment may be affirmed upon the filing of a remittitur for the proper sum. Regier v. Shreck, 47 Neb. 667 (66 N. W. 618); (1904) Davis v. Hall, 70 Neb. 678 (97 N. W. 1023).

2109. (1897.) In an action for liquidated damages, where the verdict is excessive, and it is evident that the error in assessing the damages arose from a misconception of the evidence, which probably affected the determination of the other issues, a new trial will be awarded, instead of permitting a remittitur of the excess. Lenzen v. Miller, 51 Neb. 855 (71 N. W. 715).

2110. (1897.) An excessive verdict in an action ex contractu may be cured by a remittitur, it not appearing that the verdict is the result of the jury's passion or prejudice. Wainwright v. Satterfield, 52 Neb. 403 (72 N. W. 359).

2111. (1897.) The statute has not changed the common law rule that an excessive verdict might be cured by a remittitur, except in so far as to entirely vitiate such a verdict, when it is made to appear that it is the result of the jury's passion or prejudice. Wainwright v. Satterfield, 52 Neb. 403 (72 N. W. 359).

2112. (1900.) Where it appears that a judgment is based on a verdict which is excessive, though not given under the influence of passion or prejudice, it may be permitted to stand, even in actions ex delicto, on condition that the excess be remitted. Bee Publishing Co. v. World Publishing Co., 59 Neb. 713 (82 N. W. 28); (1904) Chicago B. & Q. R. Co. v. Krayenbuhl, 70 Neb. 766 (98 N. W. 44).

2113. (1900.) The evidence as to the amount of attorney's fees, improperly allowed as an element of damages being without conflict, uncontradicted, and for one specified sum, held, that a remittitur of such excessive sum might properly be allowed. Trester v. Pike, 60 Neb. 510 (83 N. W. 676).

——— Reference to determine amount of deduction.

2114. (1881.) In an action of ejectment where the plaintiff in his reply pleaded a tender of the amount paid by the defendant for taxes due on the premises, but the court on the trial excluded proof of the amount held, that the judgment in ejectment being right, the supreme court, will order a reference to ascertain the amount due for taxes, and require the payment of the same as a condition of affirming the judgment. Howard v. Lamaster, 11 Neb. 582 (10 N. W. 497).

2115. (1888.) One A, being about sixteen years of age, went to reside with B, his brother, and to continue in his service until he was twenty-one years old, when B was to give him a span of horses, wagon and harness. A continued in the service of B until about seven months before reaching his majority, when he left his service. In an action by A against B to recover for the value of his services, verdict having been rendered in favor of A for the value of a span of horses, harness, and wagon, held, that as A had not remained in the employment of B until he was twenty-one years of age, he could not recover the entire amount agreed upon, but the matter being susceptible of computation, a reference would be ordered to determine the amount of deduction to be made. Burkholder v. Burkholder, 25 Neb. 270 (41 N. W. 145).

Digitized by Google

www.fbtool.com.cn

C. Modification.

Correction of errors.

2116. (1889.) Where an action was against two or more defendants jointly, and the verdict of the trial jury was in favor of the plaintiff but against one defendant only, and the court by mistake or oversight rendered judgment against both, the mistake being conceded, in the supreme court upon proceedings in error the mistake in the judgment will be corrected without remanding the cause for a new trial. Youngson v. Pollock, 25 Neb. 431 (41 N. W. 279).

2117. (1893.) In an action by a partner for an accounting, an error in computation in findings or decree, in other respects correct, will be corrected in the supreme court upon appeal. Gerber v. Jones, 36 Neb. 126 (54 N. W. 81).

2118. (1898.) Judgment of affirmance will be modified so as to correct an erroneous computation of the trial court. Lewis v. Holdrege, 57 Neb. 219 (77 N. W. 656).

Rendering judgment which lower court should have rendered.

2119. (1872.) If a new trial cannot be awarded, the supreme court will render such judgment as the district court should have rendered, and not remand the cause for judgment. McCann v. McLennan, 2 Neb. 286.

2120 (1891.) The supreme court, in reviewing a case on appeal, when the judgment of the district court is for a less sum than the undisputed evidence shows the successful party was entitled to, will enter such a judgment as under the evidence should have been rendered in the court below. Spence v. Damrow, 32 Neb. 112 (48 N. W. 880).

2121. (1893.) Upon appeal from a decree the findings of fact which are wholly unsustained by the evidence will be set aside, and thereupon such decree directed or entered as the facts proved clearly warrant. Furbush v. Barker, 38 Neb. 1 (56 N. W. 996).

2122. (1900.) Where a decree brought here for review is found to be erroneously computed, the mistake will be corrected here, or the cause will be remanded with directions to the trial court to render the proper judgment. Leavitt v. Bell, 59 Neb. 595 (81 N. W. 614).

2123. (1902.) An intervener whose petition does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, and who does not pray for any judgment which the court has jurisdiction to render, should be dismissed from the action; and if he obtains a judgment with which he is not satisfied, and appeals therefrom, the supreme court will render the judgment of dismissal which ought to have been rendered below. Iodence v. Peters, 64 Neb. 425. (89 N. W. 1041).

2124. (1902.) In a suit in equity brought to the supreme court on appeal, that court has full power to render such a decree as it shall find the district court ought to have rendered. Upon a settlement of the matters in controversy by the parties to such action, with the consent of the court, such decree may be rendered as they may agree upon. Riley Bros. Co. v. Melia, 3 Unof. 666 (92 N. W. 913).

Granting relief not prayed for in lower court.

2125. (1889.) A brought an action against B for the cancellation of certain notes and to enjoin the transfer of the same upon the ground that they were tainted with usury. On the trial the court found usury in the contract and ordered the cancellation of two of said notes and enjoined the transfer thereof. This decree was afterwards affirmed by the supreme court. Afterwards the mortgagee applied to the court to so modify the decree as to require the mortgagor as a condition of relief to pay the amount which was found to be due. Held, That as the granting of such relief had not been sought in the original action and would require a reconstruction of the pleadings, it would be denied. Wilhelmson v. Bentley, 27 Neb. 658 (43 N. W. 397).

D. Reversal.

Error as to grounds of decision.

2126. (1898.) A judgment based on an immaterial fact or an erroneous construction of a pleading will be reversed, unless the correctness of such judgment is otherwise affirmatively shown. McConniff v. Van Dusen, 57 Neb. 49. (77 N. W. 348).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

Error complained of by both parties.

2127. (1904.) Where immaterial evidence containing matters liable to mislead a jury is admitted on behalf of each party, and both bring error petitions into the supreme court, the judgment must be reversed. Kuhlman v. Cole, 5 Unof. 302 (98 N. W. 419).

Reversal as to one or more coparties.

2128. (1884.) In an action against two or more, charging them jointly with the commission of a tort or wrong, if the evidence sustains the charge against one, but not against the other, the verdict, as against the latter, will, upon his application, be set aside, and the judgment be permitted to stand as against the party proven guilty of the wrong which caused the damage. Hayden v. Woods, 16 Neb. 306 (20 N. W. 345).

2129. (1889.) Where a joint verdict has been rendered against a principal and his agent, and the testimony fails to show the liability of such agent, the verdict may be set aside as to him and permitted to stand as to the principal. Durrell v. Hart, 25 Neb. 610 (41 N. W. 551).

2130. (1897.) In an appeal, that the final adjudication may affirm the decree of the trial court in some particular or particulars, as to the rights of one appellant, does not necessitate the affirmance of the decree as an entirety and against all appellants. Western Cornice & Mfg. Works v. Leavenworth, 52 Neb. 418 (72 N. W. 592).

Directing further proceedings in lower court.

2131. (1894.) The plaintiff below brought the case to the supreme court on error, complaining of error in the assessment of the amount of recovery. The defendants filed a cross-petition in error, assigning many errors. The defendants having joined in the motion for a new trial, and the verdict being clearly right in its direction against one of the defendants, the court was precluded from examining the questions sought to be presented affecting only the rights of the others; but the plaintiff being entitled to a reversal of the judgment against that one defendant because of error in the assessment of the amount of recovery, the court refused to remand the case for a reassessment of damages only and awarded a new trial of the action. Porter v. Sherman County Banking Co., 40 Neb. 274 (58 N. W. 721).

2132. (1894.) In reversing a decree in favor of plaintiff in an action to rescind a contract, where it is decided upon review that plaintiff is estopped to rescind, the cause may be remanded with leave to him to amend his petition and pray for damages. Foley v. Holtry, 41 Neb. 563 (59 N. W. 781).

2133. (1898.) Where there are controverted facts which should be determined by the trial court or by a jury, the cause, upon reversal of the judgment, should be remanded for further proceedings. Widemair v. Woolsey, 53 Neb. 468 (73 N. W. 947).

2134. (1899.) Where a plaintiff has mistaken his remedy, but is apparently entitled to some relief, the cause may be remanded with direction to the trial court to permit a reformation of the issues. Moseley v. Chicago, B & Q. R. Co., 57 Neb. 636 (78 N. W. 293).

2135. (1903.) In furtherance of justice, where a finding is set aside on appeal and the former trial was unsatisfactory, instead of entering or directing a new decree, the supreme court will remand the case for further proceedings. Faulkner v. Simms, 68 Neb. 299 (94 N. W. 113); (1903) McCook Irrigation & Water Power Co. v. Crews, 70 Neb. 109 (96 N. W. 996).

2136. (1904). It is the duty of an appellate court, upon reversing a judgment of an inferior court, to determine whether the circumstances and condition of the case require that the litigation shall be ended, or the case shall be remanded for another trial, with directions as to the further proceedings to be taken, or shall be remanded for the exercise of the discretion of the lower court. Gadsden v. Thrush, 72 Neb. 1. (99 N. W. 835).

2137. (1905.) It is not the practice of the supreme court to dismiss a law action upon reversing a judgment of the district court for want of evidence to sustain it. The cause is remanded to the district court for further proceedings. Chicago, St. P., M. & O. R. Co. v. McManigal, 73 Neb. 585 (107 N. W. 243).

Rendering final judgment.

2138. (1883.) When upon the trial of a cause in the nature of a suit in equity in the district court, a judgment is rendered against the plaintiff in the nature of a nonsuit, and upon appeal to the supreme court it shall appear that the plaintiff had offered competent testimony sufficient to entitle him to a decree prima facie, the supreme court will render or order a decree in his favor accordingly. Great Western Mfg. Co. v. Hunter Bros., 15 Neb. 32 (16 N. W. 759).

Digitized by Google

2139. (1894.) Except where the decision of an appellate tribunal necessitates a trial of an issue for which the constitution guarantees a trial by jury, it rests in the discretion of the appellate tribunal, upon the reversal of a judgment, to enter in the appellate court a proper judgment or to remand the case to the court from which it was appealed, either with directions to enter a specific judgment, for a retrial of particular issues, or for a new trial of the whole case. Such discretion should be exercised in such manner as to best and most surely accomplish the ends of justice. Porter v. Sherman County Banking Co., 40 Neb. 274 (58 N. W. 721).

2140. (1901.) An opinion filed on appeal on consideration of a motion, having fully disposed of the merits of the controversy, and determined the final judgment to be rendered, the final judgment, already determined, will be entered. Armstrong v. Mayer, 61 Neb. 355 (86 N. W. 489).

2141. (1901.) On reversing a cause, it is within the discretion of the appellate court to either render such judgment as should have been rendered by the lower court, or to remand the cause for a new trial, or with instructions to enter judgment without a second trial. Chicago, B & Q. R. Co. v. Yost, 61 Neb. 530 (85 N. W. 561).

Reinstatement of former verdict.

2142. (1898.) When a verdict in favor of one party is set aside by the district court in the exercise of a sound legal discretion, and a second trial results in favor of the other party, the first verdict will not be reinstated upon a reversal by the supreme court of a judgment based on the second verdict. Zobel v. Bauersachs, 55 Neb. 20 (75 N. W. 43).

Stipulation as to disposition of case.

2143. (1898.) The supreme court may remand a cause for further proceedings in disregard of a stipulation fixing the amount for which judgment should be rendered in case of reversal, where subsequent proceedings may have avoided the stipulation in whole or in part. Kendall v. Garneau, 55 Neb. 403 (75 N. W. 852).

Scope and effect of reversal.

2144. (1900.) A case which is reversed and remanded with directions to proceed according to law is reversed generally. Pinkham v. Pinkham, 60 Neb. 600 (83 N. W. 837).

2145. (1901.) Where a decree was rendered denying one of the litigants any relief and taxing him with half the costs, and it was reversed, it also reversed the decree as to costs. Olson v. Lamb, 61 Neb. 484 (85 N. W. 397).

Right of appellant to restitution.

2146. (1900.) When a judgment is vacated by appeal, after having been carried into execution, the appellant is entitled to have restitution. Jenkins v. State, 60 Neb. 205 (82 N. W. 622).

2147. (1901.) Where a party has obtained property by a judgment afterward reversed, restitution is a matter of right. Horton v. State, ex rel. Hayden, 63 Neb. 34 (88 N. W. 146).

2148. (1903.) It is a general rule that, "upon reversal of a judgment which has been executed, it is the duty of the court to compel restitution," but restitution is not, in all cases, a matter of absolute right; it rests in the sound discretion of the court. State, ex rel. Hayden, v. Horton, 70 Neb. 334 (97 N. W. 434).

2149. (1903.) A corporation neglected to issue stock to a subscriber therefor and, by its proper officers, ordered the money which had been paid upon subscription, returned to the subscriber. The subscriber procured a peremptory writ of mandamus, compelling subordinate officers of the corporation to execute papers deemed necessary to secure a return of the money. The order allowing the writ was afterwards reversed. The corporation having gone into bankruptcy is not entitled to an order requiring the relator to return the money, so obtained, to the trustee in bankruptcy. State, ex rel. Hayden, v. Horton, 70 Neb. 334 (97 N. W. 434).

——— Compelling restitution.

2150. (1900.) A party who, after vacation of judgment, wilfully fails to comply with a lawful order for restitution, may be proceeded against as for a criminal contempt. Jenkins v. State, 60 Neb. 205 (82 N. W. 622).

Digitized by Google

2151. (1900.) Upon the reversal of a judgment which has been executed it is the duty of the court to compel restitution. Hier v. Anheuser-Busch Brewing Ass'n, 60 Neb. 320 (83 N. W. 77).

2152. (1901.) Where a party to a cause has obtained money or property under or by virtue of a judgment which is afterwards reversed, the court has power to compel restitution by summary proceedings in that cause. Horton v. State, ex rel. Hayden, 63 Neb. 34 (88 N. W. 146).

2153. (1901.) Where the record shows that money has been collected or obtained under and by virtue of the judgment afterwards reversed, restitution should be awarded as of course. Where such fact does not clearly appear upon the record, but is made to appear aliunde, the proper procedure is by order to show cause why restitution should not be made. Horton v. State, ex rel. Hayden, 63 Neb. 34 (88 N. W. 146).

2154. (1903.) Ordinarily an order of restitution will not be made against a solvent party where the result will be to deprive him of an opportunity to be heard in the courts of this state as to the merits of his claim. State, ex rel. Hayden, v. Horton, 70 Neb. 334 (97 N. W. 434).

2155. (1905.) In an action to recover money that has been paid to defendant pursuant to a judgment in mandamus which was afterwards reversed, a petition which alleges only the payment of the money in obedience to the writ, and the subsequent reversal of the judgment in mandamus, without allegations of fact showing that the plaintiff is justly entitled to the money in controversy, does not state a cause of action. Horton v. Hayden, 74 Neb. 339 (104 N. W. 757.

E. Rendition, Form and Entry of Judgment.

Modification.

2156. (1901.) The jurisdiction of the supreme court to alter or modify its judgments continues during the whole of the term at which its final judgment is rendered unless its mandate is acted upon in the district court. Horton v. State, ex rel. Hayden, 63 Neb. 34 (88 N. W. 146).

2157. (1903.) A formal judgment entered in the supreme court upon an attempted voluntary appearance, which gave the supreme court no jurisdiction, is void, and will be so declared, when, at the same term at which the judgment was entered, the facts are brought to the knowledge of the court. Ritchey v. Seeley, 68 Neb. 127 (97 N. W. 818).

F. Mandate and Proceedings in Lower Court.

Mandate.

——— Necessity.

2158. (1901.) When the judgment of a district court is reversed, a mandate is the proper and legal mode of communicating the judgment and directions of the supreme court to such district court. Horton v. State, ex rel. Hayden, 63 Neb. 34 (88 N. W. 146).

——— Correction in lower court.

2159. (1886.) A mandate to the district court is not an adjudication that can be corrected only by rehearing; when incorrect the district court may and should correct it when the mistake is discovered. Merriam v. Gordon, 20 Neb. 405 (30 N. W. 410).

Powers and duties of lower court.

——— Further proceedings in general.

2160. (1899.) When a cause is remanded with directions as to further proceedings, the court below has no power to do anything but carry out the directions thus given it. Farmers & Merchants Bank of Holstein v. German Nat. Bank of Lincoln, 59 Neb. 229 (80 N. W. 820); (1904) Story v. Robertson, 5 Unof. 404 (98 N. W. 825).

2161. (1901.) In order to prevent conflict, a district court whose judgment has been reversed should defer action until the mandate of the supreme court is before it, although, where both parties proceed without objection, the irregularity in so doing without a mandate on file may not be taken advantage of thereafter. Horton v. State, ex rel. Hayden, 63 Neb. 34 (88 N. W. 146).

2162. (1902.) Where upon appeal the judgment of the trial court is reversed, and the cause remanded for further proceedings, the trial court has authority to take such further action in the interest of justice as the law will sanction and a sound discretion dictate or approve. State v. District Court for Johnson County, 2 Unof. 385 (96 N. W. 121).

2163. (1904.) Where judgment of the district court in an equity case is reversed on appeal and remanded without direction, the trial court is reinvested with discretion to proceed, and its action will be sustained unless there is an abuse of discretion. Hoagland v. Stewart, 71 Neb. 102 (98 N. W. 428).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

2164. (1904.) The rule of the supreme court is that, when a case is reversed and remanded generally, the district court is to exercise its discretion in the further proceedings in the cause, unless otherwise specially directed by this court. Gadsden v. Thrush, 72 Neb. 1 (99 N. W. 835).

2165. (1907.) A judgment was reversed because of an erroneous conclusion of law drawn from the facts found, and the cause remanded without specific directions. After it was remanded the trial court overruled a motion for judgment on the findings and proceeded to try the case de novo, and additional testimony was adduced by either party bearing on one of the vital issues in the case. The trial court, without passing on the evidence adduced at the second trial, adopted the findings made at the first trial and entered a decree thereon. Held, Error; the court having proceeded to a trial de novo should have found on the evidence adduced at such trial. Colby v. Foxworthy, 78 Neb. 288 (110 N. W. 857).

——— Amendment of pleadings.

2166. (1890.) The plaintiff, having died after the cause was submitted to the court, but before judgment, and it being apparent that the defendant had rights in the premises, the cause is remanded to the district court, with leave to the parties to file supplemental pleadings and take further testimony, and for the court to settle the ultimate rights of the parties. Thompson v. Thompson, 30 Neb. 489 (46 N. W. 638).

2167. (1899.) Where a judgment in an equitable action is reversed and the cause remanded for further proceedings not inconsistent with the opinion there is no strict and absolute right to file new pleadings in such case. The matter is committed to the sound discretion of the court, and its action in the premises will not be reversible error unless it amounts to an obvious abuse of discretion. Troup v. Horbach, 57 Neb. 644 (78 N. W. 286).

2168. (1900.) After reversal for error occurring subsequent to the trial, where the finding or verdict is not disturbed, it is not error, on the cause being remanded, to refuse to permit amended pleadings to be filed. Missouri, Kansas & Texas Trust Co. v. Clark, 60 Neb. 406 (83 N. W. 202).

2169. (1900.) Where, in an equitable action, the decree of the trial court is reversed and the case remanded generally, the situation of the parties is the same as at the beginning of the trial, and, in the exercise of a sound discretion vested in the trial court, amendments of the pleadings may be made, not inconsistent with the opinion of the appellate court. Pinkham v. Pinkham, 60 Neb. 600 (83 N. W. 837).

2170. (1900.) In a controversy over the title to real estate, appellants claimed as heirs, and appellee as grantee, under a deed of conveyance from the same party. On appeal to the supreme court, the instrument under which appellee claimed was construed to be testamentary in character, passing no present estate. Held, After the action was remanded for further proceedings, with directions to proceed according to law, the appellee might properly amend his answer by pleading a mistake in the drafting of the instrument, in that it was stated "this deed is to take effect and be in full force from and after my death," when the true intention and desire of the parties thereto was to reserve to the grantor only a life estate in said premises, and asking for a reformation accordingly. Pinkham v. Pinkham, 60 Neb. 600 (83 N. W. 837).

2171. (1904.) Where a cause is remanded, on appeal a plaintiff may amend his petition by alleging any facts that would show any lawful right he claims touching the controversy. Johnson v. Sherman County Irrigation, Water Power & Improvement Co., 71 Neb. 452 (98 N. W. 1096).

2172. (1904.) When the merits of a case have been decided by the supreme court pursuant to the mandate of the supreme court of the United States, amendments of the answer, by introducing new defenses independent of the issues upon which the case has been determined, will not ordinarily be permitted. It is not necessary in this case to determine whether this court has jurisdiction to permit such amendments. Gadsden v. Thrush, 72 Neb. 1 (99 N. W. 835).

2173. (1906.) A party cannot try his case by piecemeal; and where a case has been tried and appealed to the supreme court and remanded to the district court, with directions to enter a specified decree, the defendant will not be allowed to amend his answer by alleging facts which existed and of which he had knowledge prior to the trial first had. Brewster v. Meng, 76 Neb. 560 (107 N. W. 751).

Digitized by Google

——Compliance with mandate.

2174. (1897.) When a judgment of a district court is reversed and the case remanded with instructions to enter a decree in conformity with the opinion, the former decree is not in existence, and hence the district court must enter a new decree and cannot merely modify the former one. Oliver v. Lansing, 51 Neb. 818 (71 N. W. 735).

2175. (1901.) Where on an appeal from a decree or findings as to priorities of mortgagees the cause is remanded with specific instructions to ascertain the amount due one claimant after deducting an amount paid to his agent, a finding of such sum and dismissal of the cause by the trial court was proper. Holt v. Schneider, 61 Neb. 370 (85 N. W. 280).

2176. (1901.) Where a finding in favor of one of the litigants does not include interest, the trial court does not, by refusing to render judgment for interest, disobey the mandate of the supreme court directing it to render judgment for the amount found due. State, ex rel. Bullard, v. Norris, 61 Neb. 461 (85 N. W. 435).

——Enforcement of compliance by mandamus.

2177. (1900.) If the district court mistakes or misconstrues the mandate of the supreme court, its obedience may be enforced by mandamus. State v. Omaha Nat. Bank, 60 Neb. 232 (82 N. W. 850); (1901) State, ex rel. Bullard, v. Norris, 61 Neb. 461 (85 N. W. 435); (1902) State, ex rel. Horton, v. Dickinson, 63 Neb. 869 (89 N. W. 431).

2178. (1903.) The district court should proceed in a case as directed by the mandate of the supreme court. In an action to foreclose a mortgage, the mandate directed the district court to enter a decree in favor of the plaintiff for the amount due on the mortgage. On the case being remanded, certain parties claiming to have acquired an interest in the mortgaged premises pending the appeal were allowed to intervene in the case, and the court refused to enter a decree in favor of the plaintiff, as directed by the mandate, until the rights of the interveners had been heard and determined. Held, That the plaintiff was entitled to a mandamus, commanding the district court to proceed in the case as required by the mandate of the supreme court. State, ex rel. Bradbury, v. Thomson, 69 Neb. 157 (95 N. W. 47).

New trial.

2179. (1898.) Where a decree in favor of plaintiff foreclosing a mechanic's lien is reversed on an appeal by defendants, and the cause remanded for further proceedings, the situation of plaintiff is the same as if his rights had never been tried. Badger Lumber Co. v. Holmes, 55 Neb. 473 (76 N. W. 174).

2180. (1900.) When the reversal of a judgment is grounded on error in the trial occurring anterior to the verdict, the verdict is nullified and the cause, when remanded, stands for trial de novo. State v. Omaha Nat. Bank, 60 Neb. 232 (82 N. W. 850).

2181. (1900.) When, in an error proceeding, a judgment is reversed for error occurring at the trial, the cause, when remanded, must necessarily be tried de novo. Missouri, Kansas & Texas Trust Co. v. Clark, 60 Neb. 406 (83 N. W. 202).

2182. (1900.) A trial de novo may be had in an equitable action where a case has been reversed and remanded generally. Pinkham v. Pinkham, 60 Neb. 600 (83 N. W. 837).

——Scope of issues.

2183. (1897.) On a former appeal of this case the supreme court determined all the issues involved, except the value of a certain block of real estate, reversed the decree appealed from and remanded the case with instructions to the district court to ascertain the value of said block and enter a decree in conformity with the opinion, taxing all the costs to the appellee. Held, That the case was not remanded generally for a new trial of all the issues made by the pleadings therein, and the district court did not err in refusing to permit witnesses to be called and examined as to the value of said block, but might ascertain such value from the evidence embraced in the bill of exceptions and made a part of the record of the case on its first trial. Oliver v. Lansing, 51 Neb. 818 (71 N. W. 735).

2184. (1899.) Where a decree in equity is reversed and the cause remanded for further proceedings not inconsistent with the opinion filed by the supreme court, the district court, if consistent with such opinion, may permit a reformation of the issues and a trial de novo. Troup v. Horbach, 57 Neb. 644 (78 N. W. 286).

2185. (1900.) When, in an error proceeding, the judgment of a trial court has been reversed, that court should retrace its steps to the point where the first material error occurred; from that point the trial should progress anew. Missouri, Kansas & Texas Trust Co. v. Clark, 60 Neb. 406 (83 N. W. 202).

Digitized by Google

2186. (1904.) Under the practice in the federal courts, the rule seems to be that, when the merits of the case have been once decided by the supreme court upon appeal, the circuit court has no authority, without express leave of the supreme court, to permit new defenses on the merits to be introduced by amendment to the answer. Gadsden v. Thrush, 72 Neb. 1 (99 N. W. 835).

2187. (1904.) The rule of the supreme court is that, when a decree in equity is reversed and remanded generally without specific instructions, the lower court is to exercise its discretion in the further disposition of the case, in accordance with the judgment of the supreme court and the law of the case as expressed in the opinion. Hoagland v. Stewart, 71 Neb. 106 (100 N. W. 133).

2188. (1904.) Where, upon appeal of a suit in equity, the decree of the trial court in favor of the plaintiff is reversed and the cause remanded for further proceedings upon amended pleadings, nothing has become res judicata, or the "law of the case" binding on the trial court, except that the pleadings and evidence on the first appeal did not authorize the decree. Johnson v. Sherman County Irrigation, Water Power & Improvement Co., 71 Neb. 452 (98 N. W. 1096).

2189. (1904.) The precise question decided by the supreme court upon appeal or error cannot be relitigated upon a retrial of the same case in the district court. Supreme Court of Honor v. Tracy, 72 Neb. 742 (101 N. W. 1021); (1904) McBride v. Whitaker, 5 Unof. 399 (98 N. W. 847); (1905) Curtis v. Zutavern, 73 Neb. 45 (102 N. W. 77, 103 N. W. 432).

2190. (1904.) Where a cause is remanded with directions to enter a particular decree the correctness of the decision of the supreme court is not open to inquiry in further proceedings in the cause in the district court. McBride v. Whitaker, 5 Unof. 399 (98 N. W. 847).

2191. (1907.) Ordinarily, where the judgment of a trial court is reversed on error and the cause remanded without specific directions, the trial court should retrace its steps to the point where the first material error occurred, and from that point the trial should progress anew, unless from the nature of the error or the connection in which it occurred a trial de novo is necessary to correct it. But the foregoing rule is not inflexible, and whether to proceed from the point where the first material error occurred or award a trial de novo is within the sound discretion of the trial court, and in the absence of an abuse of such discretion its decision will not be disturbed. Colby v. Foxworthy, 78 Neb. 288 (110 N. W. 857).

2191*a*. (1907.) Where the supreme court has determined the questions of fact and fixed the liabilities of the parties in a suit, and remanded the case to the district court, with specific directions to that court to enter its judgment in accordance with the findings and judgment of the supreme court, as set out in its opinion, it is then too late to bring in new parties or to raise new or different issues. Gund v. Ballard, 80 Neb. 385 (114 N. W. 420).

G. Jurisdiction and Proceedings of Appellate Court After Remand.

Modification of judgment.

2192. (1900.) The jurisdiction of the supreme court to alter or modify its judgments continues during the whole of the term at which its final judgment is rendered, unless its mandate is acted upon in the district court. But when the mandate of the supreme court is acted upon and carried into effect by the district court the power of the supreme court over its judgment is at an end. Horton v. State, ex rel. Hayden, 63 Neb. 34 (88 N. W. 146).

XVII. LIABILITIES ON BONDS AND UNDERTAKINGS.

Nature, construction and validity of obligation.

2193. (1883.) A supersedeas bond is to be construed by the same rules as other written contracts. Harbach v. Miller, 14 Neb. 9 (14 N. W. 545).

2194. (1895.) The liability of the signers of an appeal bond, as between them and the judgment creditor, is that of principal debtors. Flannagan v. Cleveland, 44 Neb. 58 (62 N. W. 297).

2195. (1896.) Judgment was recovered before a justice of the peace against two makers of a promissory note, who jointly appealed to the district court. The undertaking of the surety on an appeal bond was to pay any judgment rendered against the appellants. Held, That the surety is liable, notwithstanding judgment in the appellate court was only against one of the appellants. Johnson v. Reed, 47 Neb. 322 (66 N. W. 405).

Digitized by Google

2195*a*. (1901.) The provisions of a supersedeas bond must be construed so as not to extend the obligation of a surety to any other person, to any other subject, or to any other period of time than is expressed or necessarily included in the terms of his undertaking; otherwise the contract is subject to the ordinary rules of construction. Griswold v. Hazels, 62 Neb. 888 (87 N. W. 1047).

2196. (1903.) In an action on a bond executed after judgment and pending the transfer of the cause to the supreme court by proceedings in error, conditioned that the obligors "shall pay whatever judgment may be rendered by the court upon dismissal or trial of said appeal," a petition, which merely alleges that the original judgment of the lower court was affirmed and is unpaid, fails to state a breach of the bond. German Nat. Bank of Beatrice v. Beatrice Rapid Transit & Power Co., 69 Neb. 115 (95 N. W. 49).

2197. (1904.) An appeal bond in an action for the foreclosure of a mechanic's lien, in which a personal judgment has been rendered against the obligors, which is conditioned that the appellants will pay all condemnation money, judgment and costs which may be found against him or them on the final determination of the cause in the supreme court, complies with the first subdivision of section 677 of the code, is based upon a sufficient consideration, and is valid. Maloney v. Johnson-McLean Co., 72 Neb. 340 (100 N. W. 423).

Insufficient, void or defective bond.

2198. (1884.) A bond for an appeal from an order of the board of county commissioners disallowing an account is not invalid because signed immediately beneath the penal portion of the bond. Gage County v. Fulton, 16 Neb. 5 (19 N. W. 781).

2199. (1902.) An appeal undertaking given under section 1007 of the code of civil procedure is valid and effective, although the only surety by whom it was executed is a non-resident of the county in which the action is pending. Leidigh v. Pribble, 64 Neb. 860 (90 N. W. 950).

2200. (1903.) A bond executed in pursuance of a statute is not necessarily rendered void because the statute is afterward pronounced unconstitutional. Stevenson v. Morgan, 67 Neb. 207 (93 N. W. 180; 108 Am. St. Rep. 629).

2201. (1903.) The test of the enforceability of an appeal bond, executed under an unconstitutional statute, is whether a consideration exists independent of the statute; if so, and the bond has the other essentials of a common-law contract, it may be enforced. Stevenson v. Morgan, 67 Neb. 207 (93 N. W. 180; 108 Am. St. Rep. 629).

2202. (1903.) The principal and sureties upon an undertaking in an appeal, prosecuted, under a void statute, to a court to which in fact no lawful appeal lies, are liable on the instrument, if the court without objection entertains the appeal, and upon a retrial of the issues renders a judgment adverse to the appellant. McVey v. Peddie, 69 Neb. 525 (96 N. W. 166).

2203. (1903.) A bond, given in an attempted appeal in an action of forcible entry and detention, conditioned for the payment of rent, is valid as a contract, if the obligor has by reason of the bond retained possession of the premises, though the statute authorizing such appeal is afterwards held unconstitutional. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Ettenheimer, 70 Neb. 147 (99 N. W. 652); (1905) Escritt v. Michaelson, 73 Neb. 634 (103 N. W. 300).

2204. (1906.) An objection in an action on an appeal bond that it is not a statutory bond is unavailing because the obligation would be good at common law. Locke v. Skow, 76 Neb. 39 (106 N. W. 1013).

Discharge of sureties.

2205. (1893.) A bank brought an action in a county court on two promissory notes held by it as collateral security, and recovered judgment thereon against the maker. The defendant took an appeal to the district court, the usual statutory bond being executed. While the cause was pending in the appellate court the indebtedness due the bank by the pledgor of the notes was paid, after which one H., to whom the said notes, prior to the bringing of the suit, had also been pledged as collateral security for a debt due him, subject to the claim of the bank, was substituted in place of the bank as plaintiff, who recovered judgment against the maker of the notes. Held, That the surety in the appeal bond or undertaking was not released by the substitution of H. as plaintiff. Howell v. Alma Milling Co., 36 Neb. 80 (54 N. W. 126; 38 Am. St. Rep. 694).

Digitized by Google

——— Stipulation for judgment.

2206. (1893.) By an agreement between the parties to an appeal pending in the district court, a judgment was rendered therein against the party appealing, without the knowledge or consent of the surety on the appeal bond. Held, In the absence of proof of fraud or collusion between the principal and the creditor, that the stipulation for judgment did not release the surety from liability on the appeal bond. Howell v. Alma Milling Co., 36 Neb. 80 (54 N. W. 126; 38 Am. St. Rep. 694).

www.libtool.com.cn

——— Continuance of cause.

2207. (1893.) The mere continuance of a cause in an appellate court by stipulation of the parties, wthout the consent of the surety in the appeal bond will not operate to discharge such surety. Howell v. Alma Milling Co., 36 Neb. 80 (54 N. W. 126; 38 Am. St. Rep. 694); (1896). Johnson v. Reed, 47 Neb. 322 (66 N. W. 405).

——— Alteration of undertaking.

2208. (1895.) Where, after an appeal undertaking had been approved by the justice, some of the sureties erased their names therefrom, this did not release them from liability, and consequently did not release their co-sureties, the obligee not knowing of or consenting to the change. The fact that the justice knew of the erasure was not material. It was beyond his power after approving the bond to deprive the obligee of his security. Bingham v. Shadle, 45 Neb. 82 (63 N. W. 143).

2209. (1900.) Where an appeal undertaking is changed before its approval by increasing the amount of the penalty therein, without the knowledge or consent of the surety thereon, he is released from liability, if the approving officer had notice of such alteration before the approval. Schlageck v. Widhalm, 59 Neb. 541 (81 N. W. 448).

——— Death of principal.

2210. (1898.) The death of the principal in a supersedeas bond, while the cause is pending in the appellate court, does not release the surety from liability, nor is he discharged by the failure to have the action revived. Bell v. Walker, 54 Neb. 222 (74 N. W. 617).

2211. (1898.) The liability of a surety in a supersedeas bond is not affected by the failure to present a claim against the estate of his principal. Bell v. Walker, 54 Neb. 222 (74 N. W. 617).

2212. (1902.) The rights of a judgment creditor are in nowise changed or modified by reason of the death of the judgment debtor and the sureties on his supersedeas bond can not escape the obligation, or delay its enforcement, because of the death. Palmer v. Caywood, 64 Neb. 372 (89 N. W. 1034).

Extent of liability.

2213. (1906.) A surety on a waste bond given to supersede an order of confirmation of a sale in a foreclosure proceeding is not liable to the mortgagee, nor to the purchaser at the sale, for taxes assessed against the property pending the final confirmation of the sale in the supreme court. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Rieck, 76 Neb. 300 (107 N. W. 389).

2214. (1906.) In the absence of fraud or mistake, or of some circumstances working an estoppel, a surety upon a supersedeas bond can be held only for consequences of the proceeding in which the instrument was given. American Bonding Co. v. Heye, 76 Neb. 511 (107 N. W. 591).

Accrual or release of liability.

——— Failure to perfect appeal.

2215. (1895.) The failure to perfect an appeal operates as an affirmance of the judgment as against the signers of an appeal bond. Flannagan v. Cleveland, 44 Neb. 58 (62 N. W. 297).

——— Dismissal of appeal.

Effect on liability on appeal bond, see post, §§ 2033-2039.

2216. (1883.) By the dismissal of an appeal, either by the court, or by act of the appellant, the appellee is the successful party. Gudtner v. Kilpatrick, 14 Neb. 347 (15 N. W. 708).

2217. (1886.) The surety on a bond given for an appeal from a judgment of a justice of the peace is estopped to deny that an appeal had been taken in the case, in contradiction of his undertaking, although the same was filed after the expiration of the time limited for that purpose, and the appeal was dismissed for the reason that the bond was filed out of time. Adams v. Thompson, 18 Neb. 541 (26 N. W. 316).

2218. (1888.) Where an appeal by defendant in replevin was dismissed for the reason that no judgment was rendered upon the finding that "the right of property and the possession of said property" was in plaintiff, no action can be maintained on the appeal bond, since, there being no judgment, both the attempted appeal, and the bond were void. Brounty v. Daniels, 23 Neb. 162 (36 N. W. 463).

Digitized by Google

2219. (1894.) For the purpose of enabling his principal to prosecute proceedings in error in the supreme court for the reversal of a judgment rendered against him, a surety executed a supersedease bond, conditioned that he would "pay the condemnation money and costs in case such judgment should be affirmed in whole or in part." The surety's principal neglected for more than one year after the rendition of the judgment to institute any proceedings whatever in the supreme court for its reversal. Held, That such failure operated as an affirmance of the judgment. Dunterman v. Storey, 40 Neb. 447 (58 N. W. 949).

2220. (1898.) The dismissal of a petition in error from an appellate court, without an examination of the merits of the assignments, operates as an affirmance of the judgment sought to be reviewed. Bell v. Walker, 54 Neb. 222 (74 N. W. 617).

2221. (1902.) A party who obtains a dismissal of an appeal on the ground that his adversary failed to comply with an order requiring him to furnish a resident surety on an appeal undertaking is not, in an action upon such undertaking, estopped from asserting that the bond is valid and binding upon the non-resident surety by whom it was executed. Leidigh v. Pribble, 64 Neb. 860 (90 N. W. 950).

2222. (1903.) Where appellee procured a dismissal of the appeal on the ground that the undertaking was void, he is estopped to afterwards maintain a suit on such undertaking. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Ettenheimer, 70 Neb. 144 (97 N. W. 227; 113 Am. St. Rep. 783).

Actions.

——Right of action.

2223. (1898.) A party who, upon a consideration acknowledged therein, had caused to be prepared and had subscribed a written instrument assigning all his interest in a judgment which he held and which had been appealed from, and had caused such assignment to be filed in the action wherein the appeal had been taken, cannot be heard to urge in argument, to sustain his own right of recovery on the appeal bond in another action, that the assignment was incomplete for the reason that, affirmatively, no acceptance by the assignee of the assignment had been proven. Crum v. Stanley, 55 Neb. 351 (75 N. W. 851).

2224. (1904.) The "condemnation money" mentioned in the conditions of a bond given under the first subdivision of section 677 of the code is "found against the defendant" when the judgment of the district court appealed from is affirmed by the supreme court. Maloney v. Johnson-McLean Co., 72 Neb. 340 (100 N. W. 423).

——Conditions precedent.

2225. (1895.) The fact that the judgment debtor has property out of which the judgment could be satisfied is no defense in an action against the signer of an appeal bond. Flannagan v. Cleveland, 44 Neb. 58 (62 N. W. 297).

2226. (1895.) The issuing of an execution and its return unsatisfied is not a condition precedent to the right of a judgment creditor to maintain an action against the signer of an appeal undertaking executed to enable the judgment debtor to appeal. Flannagan v. Cleveland, 44 Neb. 58 (62 N. W. 297); (1896) Johnson v. Reed, 47 Neb. 322 (66 N. W. 405); (1899) Ayres v. Duggan, 57 Neb. 750 (78 N. W. 296); (1902) Palmer v. Caywood, 64 Neb. 372 (89 N. W. 1034).

2227. (1895.) The provsions of section 511 of the code of civil procedure are not applicable to a judgment rendered against the signers of an undertaking on appeal. Flannagan v. Cleveland, 44 Neb. 58 (62 N. W. 297).

2228. (1902.) Where the judgment debtor has died pending review, the judgment creditor can not be required to look to the estate of the deceased, although solvent, for satisfaction of the judgment, before maintaining a suit on the supersedeas bond. Palmer v. Caywood, 64 Neb. 372 (89 N. W. 1034).

2229. (1902.) It is not required that the judgment creditor shall, on affirmance of the judgment, exhaust the property of the judgment debtor, before bringing suit on the bond given to operate as a supersedeas pending the review of the proceedings resulting in the judgment by the appellate court. Palmer v. Caywood, 64 Neb. 372 (89 N. W. 1034).

——Defenses.

2230. The signers of an undertaking in appeal are estopped in a suit upon such undertaking from making the defense that no appeal was in fact perfected. (1883) Gudtner v. Kilpatrick, 14 Neb. 347 (15 N. W. 708); (1886) Adams v. Thompson, 18 Neb. 541 (26 N. W. 316); (1894) Dunterman v. Storey, 40 Neb. 447 (58 N. W. 949); (1895) Flannagan v. Cleveland, 44 Neb. 58 (62 N. W. 297).

Digitized by Google

2231. (1901.) A obtained judgment in the district court against B, a corporation, upon which execution issued and was returned unsatisfied; subsequently, B brought the case to the supreme court on error and filed a supersedeas bond in the district court, which was duly approved; afterwards, on A's motion, the district court made an order requiring additional sureties on the supersedeas bond, and providing that on failure of B to comply with such order within ten days, the supersedeas bond should be stricken from the files and execution issue on the judgment; the order was not complied with, and, while the proceedings in error were still pending, A brought an action to enforce the judgment against the stockholders of B to the extent of their unpaid stock subscriptions which was still pending at the time of the trial of the present case; the judgment of the district court was afterward affirmed. In an action against the surety on the supersedeas bond, the foregoing facts held not to constitute a defense. English v. Smith, 1 Unof. 670 (96 N. W. 60).

2232. (1906.) One who executes a bond under circumstances that would estop him to assert its invalidity for want of consideration, cannot, in an action upon the bond, avoid liability on the ground that the plaintiff is estopped to assert that there was any consideration for the bond. Locke v. Skow, 76 Neb. 39 (106 N. W. 1013).

——— Parties.

2233. (1903.) Under the provisions of section 29 of the code of civil procedure, a joint obligee in an appeal bond may maintain an action thereon in his own name without joining the other joint obligee, only where he alleges and proves that he has purchased the interest of his joint obligee, is the owner of the bond, and the real party in interest therein. Harker v. Burbank, 68 Neb. 85 (93 N. W. 949).

——— Pleading.

2234. (1893.) In an action on an appeal bond, given by a defendant in replevin the petition, held to state a cause of action. Shoning v. Coburn, 36 Neb. 76 (54 N. W. 84).

2234*a*. (1898.) In an action on a supersedeas bond, held unnecessary to allege the issue and return of an execution nulla bona. Cortelyou v. McCarthy, 53 Neb. 479 (73 N. W. 921).

2234*b*. (1898.) Petition held to state a cause of action on a sueprsedeas bond. Cortelyou v. McCarthy, 53 Neb. 479 (73 N. W. 921).

2235. (1906.) A petition declaring on an appeal bond, which contains no allegation showing a breach of its conditions, is subject to demurrer. Moriarty v. Cochran, 75 Neb. 835 (106 N. W. 1011).

2236. (1906.) In an action for the breach of the conditions of a bond, one of which was that the defendant would satisfy the judgment, if judgment be rendered against him on appeal, the petition is not open to demurrer because it does not show the breach of another condition actionable independently of the liability to satisfy or perform the judgment. Locke v. Skow, 76 Neb. 39 (106 N. W. 1013).

——— Limitations.

2237. (1902.) An action on an appeal bond is governed exclusively by section 14 of the code and not barred until after ten years. Crum v. Johnson, 3 Unof. 826 (92 N. W. 1054).

——— Amount of recovery.

2238. (1895.) The measure of damage recoverable by a judgment creditor in an action on appeal bond is the amount due on the judgment. Flannagan v. Cleveland, 44 Neb. 58 (62 N. W. 297).

2239. (1901.) A supersedeas bond conditioned that appellants "shall prosecute such appeal without delay, and will abide and perform the judgment or decree rendered, or final order which shall be made by the supreme court in the cause," was given to supersede a decree canceling a conveyance and quieting title only, which was affirmed by the supreme court. Held, That in an action on the bond, rents and profits accruing pendente lite could not be recovered. Griswold v. Hazels, 62 Neb. 888 (87 N. W. 1047).

——— Judgment.

2239*a*. (1896.) In an action on a supersedeas bond, a judgment for the plaintiff should, under section 511 of the code of civil procedure, state which defendant is the principal debtor and which are sureties. Van Etten v. Kosters, 48 Neb. 152 (66 N. W. 1106).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

APPEARANCE

ANALYSIS.

Definition, § 1.
Right to appear, §§ 2-5.
Authority of entering appearance for another.
——— In general, §§ 6, 7.
——— Authority of attorney, §§ 8-16.
Proceedings constituting appearance.
——— General or special appearance, §§ 17-23.
——— Presence in court room, § 24.
——— Attendance as witness, § 25.
——— Objection to jurisdiction, §§ 26-28.
——— Motion to dismiss, § 28*a*.
——— Motion for security for costs, § 29.
——— Motion to set aside summons, judgment, or orders, §§ 30-36.
——— Motion for continuance or change of venue, §§ 37, 38.
——— Quashing attachment or garnishment, §§ 39, 40.
——— Confessing judgment, §§ 41, 42.
——— Objection to confirmation of sale on foreclosure, §§ 43-45.
——— Application to correct record, or time to prepare bill of exceptions, §§ 46, 47.
——— Disclaiming interest in subject-matter, § 48.
——— Prosecuting error, §§ 49, 50.
Evidence received in aid of objection, § 51.
Effect and operation of appearance.
——— In general, §§ 52-56.
——— Waiver of process or notice, §§ 57-61.
——— Effect of unauthorized appearance, § 62.
Jurisdiction acquired by appearance, §§ 63-65.
Waiver of objections.
——— Defect in service or process, §§ 66-75.
——— Jurisdiction, §§ 76-90.
Pointing out defects in special appearance, §§ 91-95.

CROSS-REFERENCES.

In appellate court, see Appeal and Error, § 639.

In attachment, see Attachment, §§ 76-83.

Right to appear specially in attachment, see Attachment, § 37.

By cities, see Municipal Corporations, §§ 1077, 1078.

Appearance by guardian for ward, see Guardian and Ward, § 71.

Appearance in proceedings before justices of the peace, see Justices of the Peace, §§ 125-128.

By attorney in partition, see Partition, § 22.

Authority to enter appearance for partnership, see Partnership, §§ 202, 203.

Definition.

1. (1906.) The word "appear," when used to designate a step taken in litigation by a defendant, means the act or proceeding by which he places himself before the court and submits to its jurisdiction. It does not necessarily imply the actual physical presence either of the party or his attorney before the court. Thornhill v. Hargreaves, 76 Neb. 582 (107 N. W. 847).

Right to appear.

2. (1871.) A defendant may appear specially to object to the jurisdiction of the court, either over his person or the subject-matter of the suit, without waiving his right to be heard on these questions in bank. Porter v. Chicago & Northwestern Ry. Co., 1 Neb. 14.

Digitized by Google

3. (1880.) A party may appear specially to object to the jurisdiction of the court for want of proper service of summons. Newlove v. Woodward, 9 Neb. 502 (4 N. W. 237).

www.libtool.com.cn

4. (1884.) A defendant or appellee may appear in court specially and make a motion to dismiss the case, for the want of jurisdiction, or to quash or strike from the files any jurisdictional paper, without thereby making a general appearance in the case. Cleghorn v. Waterman, 16 Neb. 226 (20 N. W. 636, 877).

5. (1890.) In an action under sections 51 and 77 of the code of civil procedure, where service was by publication, and the plaintiff's affidavit omitted to state that the defendants, or some of them, resided out of the state, it was competent for the defendant to appear specially in support of a motion challenging the jurisdiction of the court, or to quash a juridical paper without further appearing as a defendant in the case. Brown v. Rice, 30 Neb. 236 (46 N. W. 489).

Authority of entering appearance for another.

——In general.

6. (1871.) A party whose agent, not an attorney of the court, has entered his appearance, and who has answered a cross-bill filed in the cause against him and the plaintiff in the original bill, affirms the appearance and becomes a party in the principal suit. Miller v. Finn, 1 Neb. 254.

7. (1900.) A chairman of the board of trustees of a village defendant is not empowered to waive the issuance and service of summons, and to enter the voluntary appearance of the defendant in an action, without authority of the village board acting in its corporate capacity as a body politic. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. County of Hitchcock, 60 Neb. 722 (84 N. W. 97).

——Authority of attorney.

See, also, Attorney and Client, 41-45.

Authority of county attorney to enter appearance for county, see Counties, § 676.

8. (1871.) An attorney of record in a cause in the district court may, when the cause is removed into the supreme court, enter therein the voluntary appearance of his clients, without the issue or service of summons in error. McDonald v. Penniston, 1 Neb. 324.

9. (1883.) Although an authority will be presumed when an attorney appears for a defendant not served with process, yet, if the defendant prove that he had no authority, his rights cannot be affected by the attorney's acts. Kepley v. Irwin, 14 Neb. 300 (15 N. W. 719).

10. (1883.) The right of an attorney to enter an appearance for a party in an action can be called in question only by the party himself. Baldwin v. Foss, 14 Neb. 455 (16 N. W. 480).

11. (1886.) Attorney appearing in a cause by authority of another attorney but which authority is denied by the party, held, there being no proof of knowledge of the pendency of the proceedings on the part of said party, that the appearance was unauthorized. Hurste v. Hotaling, 20 Neb. 178 (29 N. W. 299).

12. (1888.) Where the sole authority of a court to proceed in an action and render judgment is the general appearance of an attorney for the defendant, such right to appear may be denied, and the judgment vacated; but where service is made upon some of the members of a firm, and an attorney appears for all, the proof should be clear that he was not warranted in appearing for all. Winters v. Means, 25 Neb. 241 (41 N. W. 157; 13 Am. St. Rep. 489).

13. (1892.) Where an attorney waives process and appears for a defendant, his authority to do so will be presumed; but the defendant may deny and disprove such authority, in which case he will not be bound by the attorney's appearance. Kirschbaum v. Scott, 35 Neb. 199 (52 N. W. 1112).

13*a*. (1893.) Where want of authority to enter appearance is the basis of an action to invalidate a judgment, the burden of proof to show lack of such authority is upon the party asserting the same. Connell v. Gallagher, 36 Neb. 749 (55 N. W. 229).

14. (1895.) Whether a warrant of attorney is sufficient under the laws of another state to authorize the appearance entered thereunder, is a question to be determined from the evidence as to the laws of that state. Snyder v. Critchfield, 44 Neb. 66 (62 N. W. 306).

15. (1898.) The authority of an attorney who actually enters an appearance will be presumed to justify him in so doing. Missouri P. R. Co. v. Fox, 56 Neb. 746 (77 N. W. 57).

16. (1900.) An attorney of a municipal

Digitized by Google

ation, without authority therefor, waive the issuance and service of ons and enter the voluntary appear- of the defendant in an action. Chi- B. & Q. R. Co. v. County of Hitchcock, b. 722 (84 N. W. 97).

dings constituting appearance.

Ceneral or special appearance.

(1871.) If a defendant seek to call ction any power of the court except e question of its jurisdiction, his ap- ice is general. Porter v. Chicago & Ry. Co., 1 Neb. 14; (1895) South Nat. Bank v. Farmers & Merchants Bank, 45 Neb. 29 (63 N. W. 128); Bankers Life Ins. Co. v. Robbins, b. 170 (80 N. W. 484).

(1873.) A defendant may appear lly to object to the jurisdiction of the but if, by motion or other form of ation to the court, he seeks to bring wers into action, except on the ques- of jurisdiction, he will be deemed to appeared generally. Cropsey v. Wig- rn, 3 Neb. 108.

(1879.) Where a defendant appears lly for the purpose of objecting to the iction of the court over his person, ust restrict his motion to the single on of jurisdiction. Aultman & Taylor Steinan, 8 Neb. 109.

(1895.) Whether an appearance is al or special is to be determined by xamination of the substance of the ing, and not by its form. South Omaha Bank v. Farmers & Merchants Nat. 45 Neb. 29 (63 N. W. 128); (1900) ers Life Ins. Co. v. Robbins, 59 Neb. 80 N. W. 484).

(1895.) An appearance is special its sole purpose is to question the iction of the court. South Omaha Bank v. Farmers & Merchants Nat. 45 Neb. 29 (63 N. W. 128).

(1898.) A special appearance must sumed to have been properly overruled the affidavit upon which it was ied does not appear in the record in upreme court. Life Ins. Clearing Co. tschuler, 53 Neb. 481 (73 N. W. 942).

(1907.) A defendant may appear ally to object to the jurisdiction of court, but if, by motion or other form pplication to the court, he seeks to its powers into action, except on the ion of jurisdiction, he will be deemed to have appeared generally. McXillip v. Harvey, 80 Neb. 264 (114 N. W. 155).

23. (1904.) When a party who had made a special appearance in an action or proceeding moves the court for affirmative relief in his own behalf, he thereby makes a general appearance and subjects himself to the jurisdiction of the court. Montague v. Marunda, 71 Neb. 805 (99 N. W. 653).

——— Presence in court room.

24. (1880.) The mere presence of a party, or his attorney, in the court room during trial does not of itself constitute an appearance. Newlove v. Woodward, 9 Neb. 502 (4 N. W. 237).

——— Attendance as witness.

25. (1902.) An apearance of a party to testify as a witness is not an apearance to the action. Commercial State Bank of Genoa v. Rowley, 2 Unof. 645 (89 N. W. 765).

——— Objection to jurisdiction.

26. (1903.) Ordinarily, if a defendant intends to rely on a want of jurisdiction of the court over his person, he must appear, if at all, for the sole purpose of objecting to the jurisdiction; if he appears for any other purpose, his appearance is general. Linton v. Heye, 69 Neb. 450 (95 N. W. 1040; 111 Am. St. Rep. 556).

27. (1904.) Where an appearance is made and objection by motion to the jurisdiction of the court also challenges the jurisdiction over the subject-matter of the controversy and is not well founded, it is a voluntary appearance equivalent to a service of summons. Perrine v. Knights Templar's & Masons' Life Indemnity Co., 71 Neb. 267 (98 N. W. 841).

28. (1904.) The appearance of a defend ant, for the sole purpose of objection, by motion, to the jurisdiction of the court over his person, is not an appearance to the action. Perrine v. Knights Templar's & Masons' Life Indemnity Co., 71 Neb. 267 (98 N. W. 841).

——— Motion to dismiss.

28*a*. (1907.) In an action at law against a non-resident defendant, if service is made upon the defendant in any manner not authorized by law, defendant may appear specially and move to quash the service; but, if he go further and pray for a dismissal of the case, it will be held to be a general appearance in the action, as it invokes the power of the court on a question other than that relating to jurisdiction.

Digitized by Google

McKillip v. Harvey, 80 Neb. 264 (114 N. W. 155).

——— Motion for security for costs.

29. (1877.) Moving for security for costs is an admission by defendant of jurisdiction over his person. Healy v. Aultman & Co., 6 Neb. 349.

——— Motion to set aside summons, judgment, or order.

30. (1885.) The appearance of a defendant, against whom a judgment has been rendered on default and on whom constructive service was had, to answer to the merits, as provided for the opening of judgments under section 82 of the code of civil procedure, is a general appearance and waives all irregularities and defects of service by publication, and gives the court jurisdiction over the whole case. Warren v. Dick, 17 Neb. 241 (22 N. W. 462).

31. (1888.) A defendant in an action not legally served with process, but against whom a judgment by default has been entered, may appear specially and pray the court to set aside such judgment of default, and upon such default being opened, enter a plea in abatement to the jurisdiction of the court, without being held to have made a general appearance in the action. Cobbey v. Wright, 23 Neb. 250 (36 N. W. 506).

32. (1888.) A defendant in an action not legally served with process, but against whom a judgment by default has been entered, may appear specially and pray the court to set aside such judgment of default, and upon such default being opened, enter a plea in abatement to the jurisdiction of the court, without being held to have made a general appearance in the action. Cobbey v. Wright, 23 Neb. 250 (36 N. W. 506).

33. (1891.) A motion to quash a summons because of defects therein, or in serving the same, should be confined to the defects complained of. If it go further and pray for a dismissal of the case, it is a general appearance in the action, as it invokes the power of the court on a question other than that relating to jurisdiction. Bucklin v. Strickler, 32 Neb. 602 (49 N. W. 371).

34. (1892.) The filing of a motion by a defendant to set aside a judgment, under section 1001 of the civil code, is a general appearance, and waives all objection to jurisdiction over his person. Leake v. Gallogly, 34 Neb. 857 (52 N. W. 824).

35. (1896.) Where a decree is rendered upon service had by publication, and defendant subsequently files an answer to the merits, and asks to have the decree opened under section 82, code of civil procedure, such appearance is a waiver of all defects and irregularities in the service. Scarborough v. Myrick, 47 Neb. 794 (66 N. W. 867).

36. (1900.) When an administrator appears in a case involving the allowance of a claim against the estate, and asks leave to have the order of allowance vacated and leave to defend, and appeals from the judgment of allowance, such action will be a general appearance in the case and the court thereby obtains jurisdiction. Dredla v. Baache, 60 Neb. 655 (83 N. W. 916).

——— Motion for continuance or change of venue.

37. (1884.) A party who by his attorney enters into a written agreement to continue a cause until a subsequent term of the court thereby enters a general appearance in the action. Bazzo v. Wallace, 16 Neb. 290 (20 N. W. 315).

38. (1884.) A defendant by filing an affidavit for a change of venue enters a general appearance in the action. Freeman v. Burks, 16 Neb. 328 (20 N. W. 207); (1887) Wagner v. Evers, 20 Neb. 183 (29 N. W. 298).

——— Quashing attachment or garnishment.

39. (1891.) The filing of a motion to quash an attachment for want of jurisdiction over the person of the defendant and to issue the writ does not constitute a general appearance in an action. Coffman v. Brandhoeffer, 33 Neb. 279 (50 N. W. 6).

40. (1895.) A motion to quash a notice of garnishment and the return thereof because they are void and because defendants "do not reside" in the county where the action is brought, is a special and not a general appearance although it contains no recital to that effect. South Omaha Nat. Bank v. Farmers & Merchants Nat. Bank, 45 Neb. 29 (63 N. W. 128).

——— Confessing judgment.

41. (1906.) A written offer to confess judgment in favor of the plaintiff, filed by the defendant in an action to recover money, is a general appearance which will give the court jurisdiction over the person of the defendant. Maryland Casualty Co. v. Bank of Murdock, 76 Neb. 314 (107 N. W. 562).

Digitized by Google

42. (1906.) A paper signed by a defendant in an action, duly entitled and filed wherein he waives process, and confesses the debt, and authorized a judgment against him, constitutes a personal appearance of defendant within the meaning of section 433 of the code, authorizing judgments by confession. Thornhill v. Hargreaves, 76 Neb. 582 (107 N. W. 847).

www.libtool.com.cn

——Objection to confirmation of sale on foreclosure.

43. (1889.) Where service in a foreclosure is had upon a brother of the nonresident mortgagor, and, after a decree for plaintiff, such brother, in the name of the mortgagor, secures a stay of the order of sale, the mortgagor thereby appeared in the action and is concluded by the decree and sale thereunder. Franse v. Armbuster, 28 Neb. 467 (44 N. W. 481; 26 Am. St. Rep. 345).

44. (1901.) A party who asks to be made a party defendant in order to object to a confirmation of foreclosure sale for defect of parties and of service thereby makes a general appearance. Nelson v. Nebraska Loan & Trust Co., 62 Neb. 549 (87 N. W. 320).

45. (1901.) A party appearing in a case for the purpose of moving to vacate an appraisement of real estate for judicial sale and to interpose objections to the confirmation of sale on different grounds, not going to the jurisdiction of the court over the party, thereby makes a general appearance for all purposes of the case. Nebraska Loan & Trust Co. v. Kroener 63 Neb. 289 (88 N. W. 499).

——Application to correct record, or time to prepare bill of exceptions.

46. (1882.) An application for extension of time to prepare a bill of exceptions in a general appearance. Ellis v. Ellis, 13 Neb. 91 (13 N. W. 29).

47. (1884.) An appearance in a cause before final judgment by motion to correct the record of an interlocutory order, arguing the motion and procuring the correction, is a general appearance. White v. Merriam, 16 Neb. 96 (19 N. W. 703).

——Disclaiming interest in subject matter.

48. (1897.) A formal disclaimer, by one made a party defendant to a proceeding in rem, of any interest in the subject of the action is not a special appearance for the purpose of challenging the jurisdiction of the court over his person; but is, in substance, a defense requiring the judgment of the court, and amounts to a general appearance. Fowler v. Brown, 51 Neb 414 (71 N. W. 54).

——Prosecuting error.

49. (1894.) A party was held to have entered a general appearance in the district court where he prosecuted error thereto, cross-examined a witness whose evidence was being taken by deposition, consented to a trial on the merits of the case and waived a jury. Ward v. Western Horse & Cattle Ins. Co., 42 Neb. 374 (60 N. W. 547).

50. (1903.) Where a judgment of an inferior court is reversed in the district court, for want of jurisdiction of the former to render the judgment, the filing of the petition in error and the prosecution of error from such judgment, does not constitute a general appearance in the district court in the original action, nor confer jurisdiction upon such court to set the case down for trial and render judgment upon the merits. Bastian v. Adams, 5 Unof. 32 (97 N. W. 231).

Evidence received in aid of objection.

51. (1895.) For the purpose of ascertaining its jurisdiction where service was by publication and defendant claims that he had no property in the state, it is competent for the court to hear testimony, when the question of jurisdiction is properly raised by the defendant. Welch v. Ayres, 43 Neb. 326 (61 N. W. 635).

Effect and operation of appearance.

——In general.

52. (1872.) A defendant may appear specially and not waive his right to be heard on the subject-matter. Porter v. Chicago, & N. W. R. Co., 1 Neb. 14.

53. (1899.) A special appearance precludes the party entering such appearance from obtaining any decision on the merits of the controversy. Bankers Life Ins. Co. v. Robbins, 59 Neb. 170 (80 N. W. 484).

54. (1900.) An appearance, giving the court jurisdiction to render judgment, in no way militates against the authority of the court to hear and determine an application to vacate a judgment because of an alleged irregularity in obtaining it. Fisk v. Thorp, 60 Neb. 713 (84 N. W. 79).

55. (1900.) By appearing in a case, and invoking the powers of the court to set aside a judgment as having been irregularly obtained, jurisdiction is given to the court over the parties appearing as to all proceedings had in the case. Fisk v. Thorp, 60 Neb. 713 (84 N. W. 79).

Digitized by Google

www.hfpool.com.cn

56. (1900.) An administrator, by appearing and asks to have an allowance of a claim against the estate vacated, and appeals from the refusal thereof, his apearance is general and jurisdiction over him is obtained. Dredla v. Baache, 60 Neb. 655 (83 N. W. 916).

——— Waiver of process or notice.

57. (1896.) Parties who voluntarily appeared and participated in a proceeding cannot complain of the judgment because they did not receive the notice required by law. Spencer v. Wolfe, 49 Neb. 8 (67 N. W. 858).

58. (1897.) A defendant by a general appearance in an action thereby waives the issuance and service of summons therein. Merchants Savings Bank v. Noll, 50 Neb. 615 (70 N. W. 247).

59. (1898.) A general appearance in an action by a defendant confers jurisdiction over his person, though no summons was ever served upon him. State, ex rel. Whedon, v. Smith, 57 Neb. 41 (77 N. W. 384).

60. (1898.) A general appearance waives the objection of failure to sever a conditional order of revivor. Missouri P. R. Co. v. Fox, 56 Neb. 746 (77 N. W. 130).

61. (1900.) Ordinarily a defendant may waive the issuance and service of summons in an action, and enter a voluntary appearance in the case, such appearance being equivalent to actual service of summons in the manner provided by statute. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. County of Hitchcock, 60 Neb. 722 (84 N. W. 97).

——— Effect of unauthorized appearance.

62. (1900.) The unauthorized appearance in a case, where no process has been served upon a defendant, is wholly void as to such defendant for whom such unauthorized appearance was made. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. County of Hitchcock, 60 Neb. 722 (84 N. W. 97).

Jurisdiction acquired by appearance.

63. (1890.) When defendant appears and agrees to a continuance he confers jurisdiction on the court. Steven v. Nebraska & Iowa Ins. Co., 29 Neb. 187 (45 N. W. 284).

64. (1895.) The question whether or not the district court has jurisdiction of the subject of the action and of his person cannot be raised by one who, in respect to such subject, has voluntarily appeared and presented his claim by proper pleading for adjudication by such court. Ragan v. Morrill, 43 Neb. 361 (61 N. W. 590).

65. (1905.) Jurisdiction of a special proceeding is not conferred merely by calling the attention of the court to the fact that an indispensable statutory foundation is wholly lacking. McCormick Harvesting Machine Co. v Stires, 73 Neb. 801 (103 N. W. 660).

Waiver of objections.

Waiver of objections to affidavit or notice in attachment by appearance, see Attachment, §§ 131-133.

——— Defect in service or process.

66. The appearance of a defendant for any other purpose than to challenge the jurisdiction of the court, is a waiver of all defects in the summons. (1876) Kane v. People, 4 Neb. 509; (1873) Cropsey v. Wiggenhorn, 3 Neb. 108; (1884) White v. Merriam, 16 Neb. 96 (19 N. W. 703); (1884) Thrailkill v. Daily, 16 Neb. 114 (19 N. W. 595); (1884) Reed v. Fletcher, 24 Neb. 435 (39 N. W. 437); (1889) Vinnedge v. Nicholai, 28 Neb. 133 (44 N. W. 89); (1897) Omaha Loan & Trust Co. Saving Bank v. Knight, 50 Neb. 342 (69 N. W. 933).

67. (1871.) A defendant who has answered, although his answer has been stricken from the files, and who has applied to the court for leave to answer over, has appeared to the action, and cannot object to the form of the process. Orr v. Seaton, 1 Neb. 105.

68. (1873.) The jurisdiction of the court attaches to the defendant, when he is legally served with summons, without regard to the defects contained in the petition. Cropsey v. Wiggenhorn, 3 Neb. 108.

69. (1874.) If a defendant intend to rely on the want of personal jurisdiction, as a defense to a judgment entered aaginst him, he must appear, if at all, for the sole purpose of objecting to the jurisdiction of the court; if he appear for any other purpose, such appearance is a general and a waiver of all defects in the original process. Crowell v. Galloway, 3 Neb. 215.

70. (1884.) December 13, 1881, an action was commenced in the county court of Cuming county for $122. Summons was issued returnable on the 17th of the same month, and within the December term of said court. The defendant appeared generand made no objection to the summons. That the case stood for trial at the mber term, the general appearance ing the defects in the summons. Wilde ldt, 16 Neb. 539 (20 N. W. 849).

Digitized by Google

(1888.) Where a defendant appears is attorney and answers to the merits he cause and appeals to the supreme , he thereby waives all right as to de- of service. Reed v. Fletcher, 24 Neb. 39 N. W. 437).

(1889.) When a defendant appears ally to challenge the court's jurisdic- over him, on the ground of defect in ce of summons, if the objection is over- , an answer to the merits of the case, out further objections to jurisdiction, wed by trial thereon, will be deemed a ral appearance and a waiver of the ob- on. Walker v. Turner, 27 Neb. 103, 42 . 918).

(1896.) Where a decree is rendered a service by publication and the de- ant subsequently files an answer to merits, and asks to have the decree ed under section 82 of the code, such arance is a waiver of all defects in the ce. Scarborough v. Myrick, 47 Neb. 794 N. W. 867).

(1902.) If a defendant claims that court has acquired no jurisdiction over person, by reason of defects or irregu- ies in the process, or service thereof, course is by special appearance and ob- ons to the jurisdiction; and if he goes ier, and enters a general appearance, voke the powers of the court for any purpose than quashing the pretended ess, or service thereof, the defects are ed. Baker v. Union Stock Yards Nat. , 63 Neb. 801 (89 N. W. 269; 93 Am. Rep. 484); (1907) Stelling v. Peddicord, eb. 779 (111 N. W. 793).

(1904.) Where one has been irregu- cited to appear before a justice in a eeding brought to revive a dormant ment, and he appears before such just- and pleads to the merits, not saving his ctions to the jurisdiction over his per- by answer, he thereby waives the de- or irregularity in the service, and sub- to the jurisdiction of the court over person. Keeley Institute of Kansas v. s, 5 Unof. 612 (99 N. W. 833).

— Jurisdiction.

(1876.) In an action against a public r, brought in a different county from that in which he resides and holds his office, for a wrongful act done by him under color of his office, if he voluntarily appears and pleads to the merits of the case he thereby waives all objections to the jurisdiction of the court. Kane v. Union P. R. Co., 5 Neb. 105. [Overruled: 39 Neb. 158; 41 Neb. 897; 49 Neb. 182.]

77. (1885.) An agreement in open court, by the parties, to the trial of the cause out of the regular term waives the objection to the jurisdiction of the court at such extra term. Cozine v. Hatch, 17 Neb. 694 (24 N. W. 389).

78. (1885.) A defendant who resides in a different county from which the action is brought, and denies the jurisdiction of the court over his person, should have the ruling of the court on his objections thereto reviewed on error and not by appeal. By appealing he enters a general appearance. Lunn v. Haines, 17 Neb. 560 (23 N. W. 501).

79. (1894.) A defendant by answering as one defense by way of a general denial, does not waive the right to plead as a separate defense such facts as would show that jurisdiction of the person of defendant had been obtained by abuse of process. Hurlburt v. Palmer, 39 Neb. 158 (57 N. W. 1019).

80. (1895.) That a corporation has been sued in a county in which it could not be lawfully sued under the statute is a defense which such corporation may waive; and if a corporation is wrongfully sued in a county and answers generally to the merits of the action without either specially appearing and challenging the jurisdiction of the court or without alleging as a defense to the action that such suit was wrongfully brought in said county, then the corporation will be conclusively presumed to have waived such defense. Exeter Nat. Bank v. Orchard, 43 Neb. 579 (67 N. W. 833).

81. (1896.) The filing of a paper authorizing certain attorneys to appear for defendant and defend the action, after the filing of an answer pleading want of jurisdiction, does not waive such plea. Herbert v. Wortendyke, 49 Neb. 182 (68 N. W. 350).

82. (1897.) A defendant who voluntarily submitted to the jurisdiction of the court cannot be heard afterward, by answer, to question such jurisdiction. Shabata v. Johnston, 53 Neb. 12 (73 N. W. 278).

83. (1898.) Unless the petition in an action discloses that the court has no jurisdiction over the defendant, he must challenge the court's attention to its lack of jurisdiction by special appearance, and if that be overruled, go no further, but stand upon his special appearance; or, if he pleads to the merits, to avail himself of the want of the court's jurisdiction over him, he must plead that want of jurisdiction as a defense; and if, on overruling his special appearance, he pleads to the merits of the case, omitting as a defense the court's want of jurisdiction, he will be deemed to have waived that objection. Lowe v. Riley, 57 Neb. 252 (77 N. W. 758).

Digitized by Google

84. (1899.) Defendant did not waive lack of jurisdiction, where he appeared specially and objected to jurisdiction, and, upon the overruling of the objection, pleaded in his answer as a defense the court's want of jurisdiction over him. Barry v. Wachosky, 57 Neb. 534 (77 N. W. 1080).

85. (1902.) A general appearance without objection waives any defect in jurisdiction of person of defendant. McCormick Harvesting Machine Co. v. Scott, 66 Neb. 479 (92 N. W. 599).

86. (1902.) Where a fraternal beneficiary association, having a grand lodge and the principal place of business in this state and doing insurance business therein, is not privileged from being sued in the county where the action is brought, the filing of an answer therein containing an objection to jurisdiction and a plea to the merits is a waiver of the jurisdictional question. Grand Lodge A. O. U. W. v. Bartes, 64 Neb. 800 (90 N. W. 901).

87. (1903.) When the lack of jurisdiction does not appear on the face of the record, but must be established by evidence aliunde, one may plead to the jurisdiction, or unite a plea to the jurisdiction with other defenses to the action, without waiving his right to insist on a lack of jurisdiction, but this rule does not extend to cases where such plea is joined to a cross-petition or counterclaim, which necessitates a trial on the merits of the issues tendered by plaintiffs. Linton v. Heye, 69 Neb. 450 (95 N. W. 1040; 111 Am. St. Rep. 556).

88. (1904.) An appearance for the purpose of objecting to the jurisdiction of the court of the subject-matter of the action, whether by motion or formal pleading, is a waiver of all objections to the jurisdiction of the court over the person of defendant, whether the defendant intended such waiver or not. Perrine v. Knights Templar's & Masons' Life Indemnity Co., 71 Neb. 273 (101 N. W. 1017).

89. (1905.) If a party who contends that a court has no jurisdiction over his person files a motion for a new trial, he thereby concedes that the court has power to act, and will not be afterwards heard to assert the contrary. Tootle-Weakley Millinery Co. v. Billingsley, 74 Neb. 531 (105 N. W. 85).

90. (1906.) An objection to the jurisdiction over the subjectmatter is a waiver of objection to jurisdiction over the person. Brainard & Chamberlain v. Butler, Ryan & Co., 77 Neb. 515 (109 N. W. 766).

Pointing out defects in special apparance.

91. (1890.) A person appearing specially for the purpose of objecting to the jurisdiction, it is incumbent upon him to point out the defects upon which he relies. Brown v. Goodyear, 29 Neb. 376 (45 N. W. 618); (1905) Smith v. Delone, 74 Neb. 594 (104 N. W. 1054); (1903) Gretch v. Maxfield, 4 Unof. 256 (93 N. W. 934).

92. (1884.) A defendant who appears specially in a case for the purpose of objecting to the jurisdiction of the court over his person must specifically point out the defect which it is claimed prevents the court from acquiring jurisdiction. Freeman v. Burks, 16 Neb. 328 (20 N. W. 207).

93. (1887.) Where a party appears in court and objects by motion to the jurisdiction of the court over his person, he must state specifically the grounds of objection. Technical objections to the jurisdiction of the court, over the person of the defendant, will be unavailing unless they are specific. Bell Bros. v. White Lake Lumber Co., 21 Neb. 525 (32 N. W. 561).

93*a*. (1891.) When a party files a motion objecting to the jurisdiction of the court over his person he must specifically state in his motion the grounds of objection. Forbes v. McHaffie, 32 Neb. 742 (49 N. W. 721).

94. (1903.) A person appearing specially, for the purpose of making objections to the jurisdiction over the person, must point out specifically the defects upon which he relies. Brown v. Goodyear, 29 Neb. 376 (45 N. W. 618); (1903) Gretch v. Maxfield, 4 Unof. 256 (93 N. W. 934).

95. (1905.) Where a party makes a special appearance, objecting to the jurisdiction of the court because of irregularities in rvice, it is incumbent upon him to ut the defects upon which he relies. v. Delane, 74 Neb. 594 (104 N. W.

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

APPELLATE COURT.

peal and Error; Courts.

APPOINTMENT.

articular persons or officers, see spe- pics.

APPORTIONMENT.

ost of bridge between counties, see . §§ 21-30; 39-58.

sts, see Costs.

ompensation for taking private prop- ee Eminent Domain, II.

xpense of maintaining public road, ighways.

oss under insurance policy, see In- e, XV.

nse of public improvements, see pal Corporations, VII.

chool funds, see Schools and School ts, §§ 34-39.

state legislature, see States, §§ 6-9.

taxation, see Taxation, §§ 198-201.

amages by verdict, see Trial.

APPRAISAL.

In proceedings for selection of exempt property, see Exceptions, §§ 77-88.

To ascertain amount of exemptions, see Exemptions, §§ 77-84.

Of property taken on execution, see Execution, §§ 72-82.

Of damages for taking land for public road, see Highways, § 115.

Of property to be sold at judicial sale see Judicial Sales, §§ 47-195.

Of mortgaged property on sale on foreclosure, see Judicial Sales.

APPROPRIATION.

Of private property for public use, see Eminent Domain.

Of private bridge by county, see Bridges, §§ 2, 3.

Of payments, see Payments, §§ 27-30.

By state legislature, see States, §§ 165-186.

Of water rights in general, see Water and Watercourses, V.

Of water on public land, see Water and Watercourses, §§ 1-3.

Of way for irrigation purposes, see Water and Watercourses, §§ 223-226.

APPURTENANCES.

Conveyed by deed, see Deeds, § 162.

Effected by mechanics' lien, see Mechanics' Liens, §§ 158, 159.

ARBITRATION AND AWARD.

ANALYSIS.

UBMISSION.
Statutory provisions, §§ 1, 2.
Agreement to arbitrate, § 3.
Requisites and validity, § 4.
Revocation of submission, §§ 5-7.
Enforcement, §§ 8-11.

RBITRATORS AND PROCEEDINGS.
Waiver of irregularities, § 12.
Concurrence of arbitrators in award, §§ 13, 14.

AWARD.
Requisites of award, § 15.
Sufficiency of findings, § 16.
Statement of findings, §§ 17-24.
Setting-aside or modifying, §§ 25-28.
Confirmation, §§ 29, 30.
Presumption as to award, §§ 31-33.
Conclusiveness of award, §§ 34-39.
Estoppel, § 40.

Digitized by Google

Actions on awards, §§ 41-43.
Pleading award as defense, § 44.
Evidence of award as defense, §§ 45-49.
Notice to parties before judgment, §§ 50, 51.
Review, §§ 52-54.

www.hbtoo.com.cn

CROSS-REFERENCES.

Arbitration in particular cases, see specific topics.

See, also, Accord and Satisfaction; Compromise and Settlement.

Arbitration of damages by trespassing animals, see Animals, §§ 88-93.

I. SUBMISSION.

Statutory provisions.

1. (1874.) The mode of proceeding by arbitration provided by statute, is not exclusive. An award upon a submission valid at common law, may support an action. Tynan v. Tate, 3 Neb. 388.

2. (1897.) The method provided by title 28 of the code of civil procedure for settling differences existing between parties by arbitration is not exclusive. That right existed at common law and has not been taken away by the statute. Burkland v. Johnson, 50 Neb. 858 (70 N. W. 388).

Agreement to arbitrate.

Agreement to arbitrate loss under insurance policy, see Insurance, § 447.

3. (1896.) Authority to sign an agreement to arbitrate cannot be inferred from acts as special agent having no reference to such arbitration or the subject-matter therein contemplated. Manufacturers & Builders Fire Ins. Co. v. Mullen, 48 Neb. 620 (67 N. W. 445).

Requisites and validity.

4. (1897.) Parties who submit their differences to arbitration in pursuance of the provisions of title 28 of the code of civil procedure, must acknowledge their agreement of submission before a justice of the peace, and failure to do so will deprive the district court of jurisdiction to confirm the award made or render judgment thereon on motion of the successful party. Burkland v. Johnson, 50 Neb. 858 (70 N. W. 388).

Revocation of submission.

5. (1896.) A party to an arbitration may revoke the submission before an award is made, and where the submission provides for a written award, a revocation may be made after the arbitrators have individually communicated to strangers their respective views, but before they have signed any award. Butler v. Greene, 49 Neb. 280 (68 N. W. 496).

6. (1896.) The right to revoke a submission to arbitration, at common law, must be exercised before the making and publication of the award, otherwise it will be considered as avoided. Connecticut Fire Ins. Co. v. O'Fallon, 49 Neb. 740 (69 N. W. 118).

7. (1896.) A stipulation for arbitration which does not provide for submitting the matters in dispute to a particular person or tribunal, but to one or more persons to be mutually chosen, is revocable by either party, and will not oust the jurisdiction of the courts having cognizance of the subject of the controversy. Home Fire Ins. Co. v. Kennedy, 47 Neb. 138 (166 N. W. 278).

Enforcement.

8. (1893.) Oral agreements of attorneys to arbitrate loss, made out of court, will not be enforced against objections of one, even though policy provide for arbitration. German-American Ins. Co. v. Buckstaff, 38 Neb. 135 (56 N. W. 692).

9. (1901.) It is the settled law of this state that a provision in a contract requiring arbitration, whether of disputes arising under the contract generally or only of the amount of any loss or damages sustained by the parties thereto, will not be enforced; nor will refusal to arbitrate be available in an action growing out of the contract. Schrandt v. Young, 62 Neb. 254 (86 N. W. 1085).

10. (1902.) An agreement by which parties thereto stipulate in advance not to enforce, by resort to a court of justice, a substantial right which may subsequently be involved in dispute between them, but to submit such right to the decision of a private tribunal, although other questions involved may be reserved for adjudication by the courts, cannot be enforced. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Hon, 66 Neb. 555 (92 N. W. 746; 60 L. R. A. 436).

11. (1902.) An agreement between parties to a contract that neither shall main-a suit thereon after breach—all dif-ces to be settled by arbitration,—is ut binding force, as tending to oust ourts of their jurisdiction. Hartford Ins. Co. v. Hon, 66 Neb. 555 (92 N. W. 60 L. R. A. 436).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

ARBITRATORS AND PROCEEDINGS.

mpetency of arbitrators as witnesses, Witnesses, § 57.

er of irregularities.

(1897.) It is competent for parties arbitration had under the provisions le 28 of the code of civil procedure, ive any irregularity in the proceeding does not go to the jurisdiction of rbitrators to act, or the jurisdiction e district court to confirm the award Burkland v. Johnson, 50 Neb. 858 . W. 388).

arrnce of arbitrators in award.

(1896.) An agreement to submit rs to two arbitrators having power to e an umpire to act only when they does not authorize one arbitrator the umpire without a showing of ence between the arbitrators, to re-a conclusive award. Manufacturers & ers Fire Ins. Co. v. Mullen, 48 Neb. 67 N. W. 445).

(1899.) Under a submission to three ators, the award of two to be bind-a further provision that the award d be in writing, signed by three of rbitrators, held not to invalidate an by two of them. City of O'Neill v. 57 Neb. 760 (78 N. W. 256).

III. AWARD.

isites of award.

(1883.) In order to make a valid , the arbitrators must pass upon all ial matters submitted to them. Sides endlinger, 14 Neb. 491 (17 N. W. 113).

iency of finding.

(1892.) An award will be held void ncertainty when no amount is named in or means indicated by which it can certained. St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Gotthelf. 35 Neb. 351 (53 N. W. 137).

ment of findings.

An award of arbitrators must state facts found by them, and their con-ns of law separately. (1871) Murry lls, 1 Neb. 456; (1885) Graves v. Sco- 17 Neb. 593 (24 N. W. 222).

18. (1883.) It is not essential to the validity of an award of arbitrators upon an account, when not required by the terms of this submission, nor requested on the trial, that there be a special finding as to each separate item composing it, but a general finding is sufficient. Sides v. Brendlinger, 14 Neb. 491 (17 N. W. 113).

19. (1888.) Where all matters in difference between two parties are submitted to the decision of arbitrators, and such arbitrators, after hearing the evidence, etc., make and file an award in the district court, in which the facts are found separately from the conclusions of law, the judgment of the district court confirming such award will not be reversed, upon the ground that the arbitrators have not stated the facts found and conclusions of law separately. Westover v. Armstrong, 24 Neb. 391 (38 N. W. 843).

20. (1897.) An award made by arbitrators chosen and acting in pursuance of title 28 of the code of civil procedure, without a statement of any conclusions of fact or conclusions of law found by them, such requirements not having been waived, is erroneous and a judgment confirming such award may be reversed in a direct proceeding instituted for that purpose. Burkland v. Johnson, 50 Neb. 858 (70 N. W. 388).

21. (1897.) It is the duty of arbitrators chosen and acting in pursuance of the provisions of title 28 of the code of civil procedure, to make and state separately the conclusions of fact and conclusions of law reached by them, unless the parties to such arbitration have by their agreement of submission waived such requirement. Burkland v. Johnson, 50 Neb. 858 (70 N. W. 388).

22. (1897.) The failure of arbitrators chosen and acting under the provisions of title 28 of the code of civil procedure to make and state the conclusions of fact and law found by them is an irregularity merely, and one that does not render their award void nor oust the district court of jurisdiction to confirm it. Burkland v. Johnson, 50 Neb. 858 (70 N. W. 388).

23. (1899.) A single cause of action having been submitted to arbitration, an award whereby the arbitrators "find for the plaintiff, assesses her damages" at a sum named, and "award" her that sum is a sufficient separate finding of facts and of law. City of O'Neill v. Clark, 57 Neb. 760 (78 N. W. 256).

Digitized by Google

24. (1899.) Under the statute relating to arbitrations, the arbitrators must in their award state separately their findings of fact and conclusions of law; but this requirement is met if the finding be as certain as is required of the verdict of a jury. City of O'Neill v. Clark, 57 Neb. 760 (78 N. W. 256).

www.libtool.com.cn

Setting aside or modifying.

25. (1876.) Where it is clearly shown that an award of arbitrators has been obtained by fraud, corruption, or other undue means, it should be set aside; but the fact that a party seeking to avoid the award swears that he believes it has been so obtained, is no evidence whatever. The facts and circumstances on which the affiant bases his belief should be set out in detail, and all the evidence on which he relies presented to the court to which the award has been returned. McDowell v. Thomas, 4 Neb. 542.

26. (1893.) The fact that neither the witnesses nor the arbitrators were sworn, when no objection is made on that ground, will not invalidate the award. Greer v. Canfield, 38 Neb. 169 (56 N. W. 883).

27. (1894.) The finding of the trial court adversely to an arbitrament having been entered into between partners for the settlement of differences between them will not be disturbed when there were such proofs as would justify the conclusion reached as one which might reasonably be attained upon due consideration thereof. Glade v. White, 39 Neb. 728 (58 N. W. 286).

28. (1897.) If an award made in pursuance of title 28 of the code of civil procedure may be set aside or modified on motion because of a mistake in computation or allowance of interest by the arbitrators it can only be done when it appears that such a mistake was that of all the arbitrators whose concurrence was necessary to the making of the award. Burkland v. Johnson, 50 Neb. 858 (70 N. W. 388).

Confirmation.

29. (1893.) A verbal submission of the matters in controversy between parties, who appear voluntarily, and testify themselves, and produce witnesses in support of their respective claims, will, if fairly conducted, be sustained after the making of the award. Greer v. Canfield, 38 Neb. 169 (56 N. W. 883).

30. (1897.) The failure to acknowledge before a justice of the peace the agreement of submission is not an irregularity that the parties to the arbitration may waive; and their ratification of an award made under such defective submission will not invest the district court with jurisdiction to confirm such award. Burkland v. Johnson, 50 Neb. 858 (70 N. W. 388).

Presumption as to award.

31. (1883.) Every reasonable intendment is to be made in favor of an award. Sides v. Brendlinger, 14 Neb. 491 (17 N. W. 113).

32. (1883.) The legal presumption, unless the contrary appear, is that arbitrators decide all matters submitted to them, and only those. Sides v. Brendlinger, 14 Neb. 491 (17 N. W. 113).

33. (1887.) Courts will construe awards favorably and make all reasonable presumptions in favor of their validity. Bentley v. Davis, 21 Neb. 685 (33 N. W. 473).

Conclusiveness of award.

34. (1874.) An award by arbitrators acting within the scope of their authority becomes the act of the parties, and decides their rights as effectually as a judgment. Tynan v. Tate, 3 Neb. 388.

35. (1887.) Where certain matters in difference were submitted to arbitrators, who made verbal award, which was ratified by the parties entering into a written agreement signed by them and witnessed by said arbitrators, the parties thereby accepted of said award and no action could be brought upon original items of account submitted to said arbitrators without showing some adequate cause for setting the award aside. Bentley v. Davis, 21 Neb. 685 (33 N. W. 473).

36. (1887.) Matters not submitted to arbitrators or not considered by them in making award may be sued on as though no such award had been made. Bentley v. Davis, 21 Neb. 685 (33 N. W. 473).

37. (1894.) A judgment rendered by a justice of the peace on an award made by arbitrators under the provisions of article 3, chapter 2, Comp. Stats., 1893, is no more conclusive or final than an ordinary judgment at law rendered by such justice, and may be appealed from by either of the parties to such award. Holub v. Mitchell, 42 Neb. 389 (60 N. W. 596).

38. (1895.) The right to recover damages from trespassing animals is not barred

Digitized by Google

act that arbitrators have made an nd the assessment, as provided for erd law, has been paid. Richardson ad, 44 Neb. 606 (62 N. W. 1077).

896.) An award, whether at com-or under the statute, when regude and published is, in the absence or mistake, prima facie binding parties thereto, and the burden of and proving the contrary is upon seeking to impeach it. Connecti-
Ins. Co. v. O'Fallon, 49 Neb. 740
V. 118).

897.) Held, In the case at bar, plaintiff in error had estoped himassailing the award made, either of the failure of the arbitrators to e conclusions of fact and conclulaw found by them, or because of e in computation and allowance of alleged to have been made by the
rs. Burkland v. Johnson, 50 Neb.
N. W. 388).

on awards.

1877.) Arbitrators are proper wit-o testify concerning what matters esented before them, and whether hey had considered all the matters
Hall v. Vanier, 6 Neb. 85; 7 Neb.

(1874.) An award upon a submisid at common law will support an Tynan v. Tate, 3 Neb. 388.

1877.) In an action on an award, ndant may set up as a defense that trators considered matters not sub-o them, or omitted to consider match were submitted, and may prove tters in bar. Hall v. Vanier, 6 Neb.
eb. 397.

1893.) Where there is no compedence of an agreement of the par-n action to submit their matters of e to arbitrators, it is error to sub-question of an award to the jury.
American Ins. Co. v. Buckstaff, 38
(56 N. W. 692).

g award as a defense.

1893.) Where matters in controre submitted to arbitrators, proof nd an award made, and an action thereon, an answer which fails that the arbitrators exceeded their or did not consider some of the submitted, or did an injustice to the defendant, fails to state a defense. Greer v. Canfield, 38 Neb. 169 (56 N. W. 883).

Evidence.

45. (1874.) In an action to recover the amount of an award by arbitrators chosen by the parties, testimony regarding the submission of the matter to arbitrators is admissible. Tynan v. Tate, 3 Neb. 388.

46. (1889.) Where there is a dispute between a contractor and the owner of the building regarding certain parts of the work done and an agreement to submit the same to arbitration, held the award did not include matters pertaining to parts of the work, and for materials not included in the agreement. Doane College v. Lanham, 26 Neb. 421 (42 N. W. 405).

47. (1892.) Held, a finding in the record was an invoice of goods and not an award of arbitrators. St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co. v. Gotthelf, 35 Neb. 351 (53 N. W. 137).

48. (1893.) A claim that an award was made on Sunday is not sustained by showing the arbitrators some explanations on that day. Greer v. Canfield, 38 Neb. 169 (56 N. W. 883).

49. (1896.) Evidence tending to impeach an award actually made and published, in accordance with the agreement of submission, is inadmissible under a general denial. Connecticut Fire Ins. Co. v. O'Fallon, 49 Neb. 740 (69 N. W. 118).

Notice to parties before judgment.

50. (1874.) In rendering a judgment upon an award of arbitrators, it is not absolutely necessary for the court to give notice to either party before proceeding to act upon the award. Kelly v. Morse, 3 Neb. 224.

51. (1901.) Where a confirmation and entry of judgment upon an award are in accordance with the express terms of the agreement under which it was made and the court's order submitting the matter to the arbitrators, no notice to the defendant of such confirmation and entry of judgment was necessary. Shutt v. Hebebrand, 1 Unof. 571 (95 N. W. 785).

Review.

52. (1876.) A party aggrieved by a judgment affirming or setting aside an award of arbitrators may appeal, but the evidence presented to the court below must be preserved by bill of exceptions, otherwise no foundation has been laid on which to predicate an appeal. McDowell v. Thomas, 4 Neb. 542.

Digitized by Google

53. (1885.) Where a cause is submitted to an arbitrator, without suit, under the provisions of title 28 of the civil code, and the arbitrator presents and files his award in the district court, such award may be attacked by a motion to reject and set it aside for any legal and sufficient reasons. Graves v. Scoville, 17 Neb. 593 (24 N. W. 222).

54. (1894.) The provisions of sections 991-995 of the code of civil procedure are not applicable to awards made under article 3, chapter 2, Compiled Statutes, 1893. Holub v. Mitchell, 42 Neb. 389 (60 N. W. 596).

www.lipool.com.cn

ARCHITECTS.

Approval of, as to performance of contract, see Contracts, §§ 309-312.

Lien of, on building, see Mechanics' Liens, §§ 19, 20.

ARGUMENT OF COUNSEL.

In civil cases, see Trial, V.

In criminal prosecutions, see Criminal Law, XII, E.

Waiver of error by failure to argue, see Appeal and Error, §§ 2048-2052.

Review of rulings of court as to, see Appeal and Error, §§ 1704-1706.

Harmless error, see Appeal and Error, §§ 2023-2026.

ARRAIGNMENT.

See Criminal Law, §§ 148-203.

ARREST.

CROSS-REFERENCES.

See, also, Escape.

See, also, Bail; Recognizance; False Imprisonment.

Release from, see Habeas Corpus.

Release from arrest made under void law, see Habeas Corpus, §§ 11, 12.

Rearrest after discharge on habeas corpus, see Habeas Corpus, §§ 56, 57.

Homicide in making arrest, see Homicide, §§ 34, 35.

Homicide while resisting arrest, see Homicide, § 36.

Arrest of garnishee for refusal to answer in garnishment, see Garnishment, § 97.

Arrest for failure to support illegitimate child, see Bastards, §§ 122, 123.

Order overruling motion for order of arrest as final order, see Appeal and Error, § 76.

In civil actions.

1. (1903.) It is not error to refuse, in an action for maliciously procuring plaintiff's arrest in proceedings in aid of execution, an instruction that makes an intention on the part of plaintiff to leave the state a sufficient ground for arresting him. The statute only permits arrest where there is danger defendant will not obey a citation to appear. Bank of Miller v. Richmon, 68 Neb. 731 (94 N. W. 998).

By public officer.

2. (1881.) Before an officer can lawfully resort to extreme measures—such as shooting—to prevent an escape from an unathorized arrest for felony, he is required to exercise a high degree of care and diligence in ascertaining whether he has the right man. Kopplekom v. Huffman, 12 Neb. 95 (10 N. W. 577); Huffman v. Koppelkom, 8 Neb. 344.

3. (1891.) The rule of criminal law is settled that an officer without warrant acts as an individual without police authority unless he witnesses the criminal act; and he must have notice that the crime has been committed, and that the prisoner arrested is the guilty party. Nelson v. State, 33 Neb. 528 (50 N. W. 679).

4. (1895.) A sheriff or other police officer, in arresting or preventing the escape of a felon, may use such force as is reasonably necessary, even to the taking of life; but if the felon can be taken, or his escape prevented, without killing the offender, and he be slain, the officer is guilty of at least manslaughter. Lamma v. State, 46 Neb. 236 (64 N. W. 956).

5. (1896.) The proper officer may arrest and detain any person found violating any law or legal ordinance, until a warrant can be obtained. Fry v. Kaessner, 48 Neb. 133 (66 N. W. 1126).

By private citizen.

6. (1884.) Where a felony has been committed, and there is good cause to believe that a certain party committed the same, a private person may arrest such party until a warrant can be procured.

Digitized by Google

Simmerman v State, 16 Neb. 615 (21 N. W. 387).

7. (1902.) Under the provisions of section 284 of the criminal code, a private person may make an arrest without a warrant only in case the offense, for which the person suspected is arrested, has in fact been committed. Kyner v. Laubner, 3 Unof. 370 (91 N. W. 491).

Resisting unlawful arrest.

8. (1883.) A person may resist an unlawful attempt at arrest, and if necessary, rather than submit, he may lawfully kill the person making it. Simmerman v. State, 14 Neb. 568 (17 N. W. 115).

ARREST OF JUDGMENT.

See Judgments, VI.

In criminal prosecution, see Criminal Law, §§ 920, 921.

ARSON.

Information.

1. (1892.) In an information for arson in setting fire to a building the ownership thereof may be alleged to be in the party in possession because the offense is against the habitation. Where, however, the offense charged is the burning of certain "stacks of wheat of the value of $300," etc., the names of the owners thereof must be alleged and proved. Burger v. State, 34 Neb. 397 (51 N. W. 1027).

2. (1896.) Under section 54 of the criminal code it was erroneous to try defendant upon the charge of burning a schoolhouse, joined with a charge for causing the burning to be done by another. Wendell v. State, 46 Neb. 823 (65 N. W. 884).

Evidence.

3. (1899.) On the trial of a person informed agninst for burning property with intent to prejudice an insurance company, where the accused refuses to produce the policies of insurance, secondary evidence is competent to show the contents of the policies, that they were made out and delivered by an authorized agent of the companies, and that defendant was claiming indemnity under them. Knights v. State, 58 Neb. 225 (78 N. W. 508; 76 Am. St. Rep. 78).

4. (1907.) Evidence, in a prosecution for arson, showing defendant to have been seen at a place of such distance from the property burned to be most probable that he could not have been near the property when the building was fired will not sustain a conviction. Heidelbaugh v. State, 79 Neb. 499 (113 N. W. 145).

Instruction.

5. (1892.) Under a statute which declares, "if any person shall wilfully or maliciously set fire to, or burn or cause to be burned, any barrack or stack of hay, wheat, etc., * * * the property of another, of the value of $30 or upwards," an instruction that if the property "is of some value you will find said Edward Hoagland guilty," is erroneous. Burger v. State, 34 Neb. 397 (51 N. W. 1027).

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

ANALYSIS.

I. CIVIL LIABILITY.
Defenses, §§ 1-6.
Persons liable, §§ 7, 8.
Jurisdiction, § 9.
Process, § 10.
Pleading, §§ 11-15.
Evidence.
——— Admissibility in general, §§ 16-20.
——— Provocation or justification, §§ 21, 22.
——— Character of parties, §§ 23, 24.
——— Weight and sufficiency, §§ 25-29.
Damages, §§ 30-36.
Instructions, §§ 37-39.
Judgment and review, § 40.

Digitized by Google

II. CRIMINAL RESPONSIBILITY.

Nature of criminal assault, § 41.
——— Intent, §§ 42, 43.
Assault with intent to do great bodily harm, §§ 44-49.
Defenses, §§ 50-52.
Liability of aider or abettor, § 53.
Indictment or information, §§ 54-59.
Limitation of prosecution, §§ 60, 61.
Weight and sufficiency of evidence, §§ 62-70.
Questions for jury, §§ 71-73.
Instructions, §§ 74, 74a.
Costs, § 75.

www.libook.com.cn

CROSS-REFERENCES.

Costs taxed on complainant when case fails, see Costs, § 147.

Punishment of child by parent, see Parent and Child, §§ 15, 16.

I. CIVIL LIABILITY.

Defenses.

1. (1884.) The act of March 8, 1871, entitled "An act to protect owners and occupants of enclosed and cultivated lands from trepass and damage," does not take away the right of reasonable resistance by the owner to the invasion of such lands. Fosbinder v. Svitak, 16 Neb. 499 (20 N. W. 866).

2. (1884.) A person may, with reasonable force, defend his property or premises, as well as his person, when invaded, and the fact that an injury is inflicted upon the invading or attacking party will not make the residing party liable for damages resulting from such injury, if inflicted in the reasonable defense of one's house, lands, or goods. Fosbinder v. Svitak, 16 Neb. 499 (20 N. W. 866).

3. (1884.) If a person wilfully trespass upon the cultivated lands of another, and while so trespassing assault the owner thereof, and the owner, while defending his person from such assault, and while being pursued by the assaulting party, inflicts an injury upon the party thus making the assault, the party thus injured cannot recover damages for the injury so received. Neither can he if, in such case, a gun in the hands of the assaulted party is accidentally discharged, and he is injured thereby. Fosbinder v. Svitak, 16 Neb. 499 (20 N. W. 866).

4. (1898.) Right of recaption of personalty exists in this state. Barr v. Post, 56 Neb. 698 (77 N. W. 123).

5. (1892.) Words of provocation will not justify an assault, but may be ground of mitigation of damages. Haman v. Omaha Horse R. Co., 35 Neb. 74 (52 N. W. 830).

6. (1905.) Where there is no evidence of provocative words, it is error to instruct the jury that mere words of provocation are not sufficient to justify a person in committing an assault and battery upon another, but the words may be considered in mitigation of damages. Langdon v. Clarke, 73 Neb. 516 (103 N. W. 62).

Persons liable.

7. (1881.) In an assault and battery, not only he who is the actor or actual perpetrator of the offense, but he also who, being present when the act is done, aids and abets therein, is a principal and liable as such at the suit of the injured party. Cooney v. Burke, 11 Neb. 258 (9 N. W. 57).

8. (1889.) A person who unlawfully shoots another and wounds him, whether intentionally or through negligence, is liable for the damages thereby sustained by the party injured. Carmichael v. Dolen, 25 Neb. 335 (41 N. W. 178).

Jurisdiction.

9. (1882.) County courts have jurisdiction of actions to recover damages for assault and battery, where the amount sought to be recovered does not exceed $500 Brauer v. Luntzer, 12 Neb. 473 (11 N. W. 730).

Process.

10. (1882.) If the amount claimed does not exceed $100, a summons in an action in a county court should be issued and served in the same manner as in cases commenced before a justice of the peace. Brauer v. Luntzer, 12 Neb. 473 (11 N. W. 730).

Pleading.

11. (1889.) The words in the petition in an action for damages for an indecent assault, "Did then and there assault the

Digitized by Google

with foul and indecent purpose to ace to her person and by force and tion to criminally know her, the intiff," etc., after verdict, held suffiitkins v. Gladwish, 27 Neb. 841 (44
').

(1889.) Where a petition alleging defendant made an assault upon the and by striking and shooting in omen is filed in May, an amended stating that defendant being in-took a pistol from his pocket and tly and carelessly discharged the ereby wounding plaintiff, does not different cause of action. Car-
v. Dolen, 25 Neb. 335 (41 N. W.

1897.) A petition charging the de-with unlawfully beating and wound-plaintiff on the head with a pitchereby he, plaintiff, "was wounded nd for a long time will be, sick, and ered, and will suffer, great bodily discomfort," states a cause of ac-such physical and mental suffering e natural and proximate result of ng so alleged. Harshman v. Rose,
113 (69 N. W. 755).

1897.) It is, in a civil action for and battery, unnecessary to speege such damages as are the necesusual consequence of the act com-of. Harshman v. Rose, 50 Neb. 113
7. 755).

e.

dmissibility in general.

1882.) Plaintiff, a married woman, testified that at the time of the
she was enciente, and that the bated her to miscarry, upon her cross-tion she was asked by defendant's whether her husband was not in t of beating her. To which quesplaintiff by her counsel objected;
jection was sustained by the court.
error. Goracke v. Hintz, 13 Neb.
N. W. 397).

1887.) In an action for damages indecent assault, evidence as to a istrict feud in which defendant was properly excluded. Atkins v.
, 27 Neb. 841 (44 N. W. 37).

1889.) In a civil action for dama female plaintiff, for an assault with intent to have carnal inter-with her, statements made my the defendant of and concerning the plaintiff, derogatory to her character, before and after the alleged assault, and too remote therefrom to be deemed a part of the res gestæ, were inadmissible in evidence. Atkins v. Gladwish, 25 Neb. 390 (41 N. W. 347).

www.libtool.com.cn

18*a*. (1896.) In a suit for injuries to one who was ejected from a building and thrown upon the pavement, pleadings in a case through which defendant acquired title to the building were properly excluded. Mengedoht v. Van Dorn, 48 Neb. 880 (67 N. W. 857).

19. (1898.) In a civil action for damages for assault and battery evidence that defendant had never been arrested for the assault properly rejected. Barr v. Post, 56 Neb. 698 (77 N. W. 123).

20. (1898.) In a civil suit for damages for assault and battery, where plaintiff offers no evidence that he has paid or become liable for services rendered by a physician, it is not error to refuse to permit the physician to be asked, on his cross-examination, whether he has rendered plaintiff a bill for his services and whether he has been paid for such services. Barr v. Post, 56 Neb. 698 (77 N. W. 123).

——— Provocation or justification.

Provocation as mitigation of damages, see ante, §§ 5, 6.

21. (1901.) In this state, evidence of threats made by the injured party is not admissible, in mitigation of damages, in an action for assault and battery. Mangold v. Oft, 63 Neb. 397 (88 N. W. 507).

22. (1898.) In a civil suit for assault and battery, where the answer is a general denial, evidence of justification is inadmissible. Barr v. Post, 56 Neb. 698 (77 N. W. 123); (1901) Mangold v. Oft, 63 Neb. 397 (88 N. W. 507).

——— Character of parties.

23. (1898.) In a civil suit for damages for assault and battery the defendant's reputation is not an issue. Accordingly, it is not error for the court to exclude an offer of proof by defendant that he had never used profane language. Barr v. Post, 56 Neb. 698 (77 N. W. 123).

24. (1897.) In an action for assault and battery, self-defense being pleaded as a defense to the action, proof that plaintiff was of a quarrelsome disposition and ungovernable temper must be made by proof of general reputation and not by opinions of witnesses based on their individual observation. Golder v. Lund, 50 Neb. 867 (70 N. W. 379).

Digitized by Google

——Weight and sufficiency.

www.libtool.com.cn

25. (1881.) Evidence that defendant prevented an onlooker from stopping another person from assaulting plaintiff, is sufficient to warrant a verdict against the defendant as principal in the battery complained of. Cooney v. Burke, 11 Neb. 258 (9 N. W. 57).

26. (1896.) Verdict for plaintiff for $957.51 held to be sustained by the evidence in a suit for damages for assault and battery, where plaintiff was ejected from a building and thrown upon the pavement in such a manner as to cause protracted and probably permanent mental derangement. Mengedoht v. Van Dorn, 48 Neb. 880 (67 N. W. 858).

27. (1897.) Where defendant ordered plaintiff to leave his premises, and on the refusal of the latter to do so, struck him over the head with a pitchfork, a verdict against defendant for assault is justified. Harshman v. Rose, 50 Neb. 113 (69 N. W. 755).

28. (1903.) A preponderance of the evidence is sufficient to prove an issue in civil actions for assault and battery. Clasen v. Pruhs, 69 Neb. 278 (95 N. W. 640).

29. (1905.) Evidence examined, and held sufficient to require the submission of the question of conspiracy to commit an assault to the jury. Quist v. American Bonding & Trust Co., 74 Neb. 692 (105 N. W. 255).

Damages.

Provocation as mitigation of damages, see ante, §§ 5, 6.

30. In assessing damages for assault and battery the jury may take into account the character and extent of the injuries, the pain and suffering of plaintiff, loss of time, and the cost of medical attendance. (1890) McClure v. Shelton, 29 Neb. 374 (45 N. W. 689); (1892) Haman v. Omaha Horse R. Co., 35 Neb. 74 (52 N. W. 830).

31. (1878.) In a civil action in the nature of trespass vi et armis for an assault and battery, an amount of damages equal to the full compensation of the plaintiff for the injury sustained by him cannot be increased by the addition of a fine for the punishment of the defendant. Boyer v. Barr, 8 Neb. 68 (30 Am. Rep. 814).

32. (1882.) Verdict of $250 for assaulting and beating an enciente so as to produce a miscarriage, is not excessive. Goracke v. Hintz, 13 Neb. 390 (14 N. W. 379).

33. (1889.) An instruction in a civil action for assault with intent to have carnal intercourse, "that in entering the amount of plaintiff's damages, should they find in her favor, you may take into account the fact that she has been compelled to employ counsel and spend time and money to vindicate her rights," is erroneous. Atkins v. Gladwish, 25 Neb. 390 (41 N. W. 347).

34. (1898.) Damages for two thousand dollars for assault and battery not excessive, under the evidence. Barr v. Post, 56 Neb. 698 (77 N. W. 123).

35. (1898.) In a civil suit for damages for assault and battery a direction to the jury to take into consideration any permanent internal injury sustained by plaintiff was justified by the evidence. Barr v. Post, 56 Neb. 698 (77 N. W. 123).

36. (1904.) Verdict for $1,025 for broken arm, held, excessive under the evidence in an action for assault and battery. Rees v. Rasmussen, 5 Unof. 367 (98 N. W. 830).

Instructions.

37. (1889.) An instruction to the jury, in an action for damages by a female plaintiff for an assault upon her with intent to have carnal intercourse, that in case they should find for the plaintiff they might include in their assessment of damages compensation for "loss of good name, honor, and reputation," is not erroneous. Atkins v. Gladwish, 25 Neb. 390 (41 N. W. 347).

38. (1890.) Instructions set out in opinion taken together held to state the law correctly. McClure v. Shelton, 29 Neb. 370 (45 N. W. 689).

39. (1904.) Instructions examined, and held not prejudicial in an action for assault and battery. Rees v. Rasmussen, 5 Unof. 367 (98 N. W. 830).

Judgment and review.

40. (1871.) If a new trial be granted, in an action for assault and battery on account of the smallness of the verdict, and another trial take place, at which a larger damage is awarded by the jury, all proceedings after the first verdict will be set aside, and judgment be ordered on that verdict. Shoff v. Wells, 1 Neb. 168.

Digitized by Google

CRIMINAL RESPONSIBILITY.

lt with intent to commit rape, see lt with intent to kill, see Homicide,

www.libtool.com.cn

of criminal assault.

1899.) The term "assault," used qualification, has a clear and estab- import in criminal law. Smith v. 8 Neb. 531 (78 N. W. 1059).

ntent.

(1894.) It is not essential to a con- for assault with intent to inflict odily injury, that accused should tended the precise injury which fol- It is sufficient if serious bodily any kind was contemplated by him time of the assault. Murphey v. 3 Neb. 34 (61 N. W. 491).

(1908.) No wrong, however serious, erson of another, will alone warrant ction for an assault with intent to great bodily injury; but, when the proved is a natural and necessary ence of the deliberate and inexcus- t of the accused, the presumption is was the result contemplated by him commission of the assault. Lambert e, 80 Neb. 562 (114 N. W. 775).

(1908.) It is not essential to a con- for intent to inflict great bodily in- at the accused should have intended ecise injury which followed. It is at if it be shown, beyond a reason- oubt, by the circumstances under it was inflicted, together with its na- nd extent, that great bodily injury ntemplated by the defendant when he the assault. Lambert v. State, 80 2 (114 N. W. 775).

(1901.) The intent with which an lone is inferable from the act itself, om the facts and circumstances sur- ng it. Clary v. State, 61 Neb. 688 (85 897).

t with intent to do great bodily rm.

(1901.) The words "great bodily in- as employed in section 17*b* of the al code, imply an injury of a graver ore serious character than an ordi- attery. Likens v. State, 63 Neb. 249 W. 506).

(1891.) Section 2, chapter 34, Ses- aws 1889, is an attempt to amend criminal code, section 14, without referring thereto, and is unconstitutional; but section 1 of the same provides for a new offense, and is valid. Stricklett v. State, 31 Neb. 674 (48 N. W. 820).

46. (1892.) The act defining an assault with intent to do great bodily harm and providing a punishment therefor is not an amendment to the criminal code in the sense used in section 11, article 3 of the constitution. Smith v. State, 34 Neb. 689 (52 N. W. 572).

47. (1892.) The first section of the act approved March 30, 1889, entitled "An act to provide for the punishment of persons guilty of an assault upon another with intent to inflict great bodily injury, and for the punishment of persons guilty of an assault upon another with intent to kill the person so assaulted," section 17*b*, criminal code, does not conflict with section 11, article 3 of the constitution, since the crime of assault to inflict great bodily injury, mentioned in said section, is a new and substantive offense, and the act does not constitute an amendment. Smith v. State, 34 Neb. 689 (52 N. W. 572); (1899) Smith v. State, 58 Neb. 531 (78 N. W. 1059).

48. (1894.) The term "great bodily injury," in criminal code, section 17*b*, is not susceptible of a precise definition, but implies an injury of a graver and more serious character than an ordinary battery; and whether a particular case is within the meaning of the statute is generally a question of fact for the jury. Murphey v. State, 43 Neb. 34 (61 N. W. 491).

49. (1894.) A great bodily injury, within the meaning of the statute, does not necessarily mean a permanent injury. Murphey v. State, 43 Neb. 34 (61 N. W. 491).

Defenses.

50. (1899.) An assemblage of men on Hallowe'en—night of October 31—engaged in moving, injuring, and destroying property is a mob engaged in violating the law, and the citizen may use such force as is actually necessary to protect his person and property from injury at its hands. Atkinson v. State, 58 Neb. 356 (78 N. W. 621).

51. (1903.) A person attacked, or formidably threatened, by three persons acting in concert, may avail himself of the right of self-defense by using commensurate force against the nearest assailant, although it is not from him, but from the others, that great bodily harm is apprehended. Hoy v. State, 69 Neb. 516 (96 N. W. 228).

Digitized by Google

52. (1903.) The right of self-defense does not belong alone to persons engaged in the pursuit of their lawful business; it is available to every person, regardless of the nature of his business, who is assaulted, or who, upon just grounds, apprehends an immediate unlawful attack. Hoy v. State, 69 Neb. 516 (96 N. W. 228).

www.hbtool.com.cn

Liability of aider or abettor.

53. (1894.) The defendant may be convicted of assault and battery under an information charging him with aiding another to commit an assault with intent to wound. Wagner v. State, 43 Neb. 1 (61 N. W. 85).

Indictment or information.

54. The effect of section 17*b* of the criminal code, relative to an assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury, was to create a new and substantive crime,—one purely statutory,—and it is sufficient in an information to charge the crime in the language of the statute without a statement of the means with which the assault was committed. (1892) Smith v. State, 34 Neb. 689 (52 N. W. 572); (1894) Murphey v. State, 43 Neb. 34 (61 N. W. 491); (1899) Smith v. State, 58 Neb. 531 (78 N. W. 1059).

55. (1901.) A conviction of an assault and battery is improper under an information charging an assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury, where the averments therein do not include a battery. Alyea v. State, 62 Neb. 143 (86 N. W. 1066).

56. (1893.) An information for assault and battery alleging that the defendants "did wilfully and maliciously make an assault upon * * * and did then and there unlawfully strike, beat, and wound," etc., is sufficient. Hodgkins v. State, 36 Neb. 160 (54 N. W. 86).

57. (1894.) In a prosecution under the provisions of section 17*b*, criminal code, for an assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury, it is sufficient to charge the offense in the language of the statute without stating the means with which the assault was committed. Murphey v. State, 43 Neb. 34 (61 N. W. 491); (1900) Alyea v. State, 62 Neb. 143 (86 N. W. 1066).

58. (1899.) An information charging that accused "then and there did make an assault upon William P. Wilcox with a certain pistol loaded with gunpowder and one leaden bullet and then and there him did shoot," charges both the assault and the shooting to have been done with a pistol loaded as described. McVey v. State, 57 Neb. 471 (77 N. W. 1111).

59. (1899.) An information for an assault with intent to commit great bodily injury, framed under section 17*b* of the criminal code, will sustain a conviction for an assault and battery, when the information discloses, by proper averments, that such minor offense was in fact included in the commission of the one charged. Mulloy v. State, 58 Neb. 204 (78 N. W. 525).

Limitation of prosecution.

60. (1895.) On the trial of a prosecution for an assault and battery it is error for the court to charge the jury that it was sufficient if they found the offense was committed within eighteen months prior to the filing of the complaint. Jolly v. State, 43 Neb. 857 (62 N. W. 300).

61. (1895.) Under a plea of "not guilty" the defense of statute of limitations may be set up. Bough v. State, 44 Neb. 889 (62 N. W. 1094).

Weight and sufficiency of evidence.

62. (1891.) Evidence in a prosecution for criminal assault by a bar-tender upon a woman who was trying to take her husband from a saloon does not support a verdict of guilt. Roberts v. State, 32 Neb. 251 (49 N. W. 361)

63. (1894.) Evidence held insufficient on which to base a conviction for aiding and abetting an assault with intent to wound. Wagner v. State, 43 Neb. 1 (61 N. W. 85).

64. (1894.) No wrong, however serious to the person of another, will alone warrant a conviction for an assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury; but when the injury proved is the natural and necessary consequence of the deliberate and inexcusable act of the accuser, the presumption is that it was with the result contemplated by him in the commission of the assault. Such presumption is, however, one of fact merely; and while the jury may infer the intention alleged without other proof, there is no obligation resting upon them to do so. Murphey v. State, 43 Neb. 34 (61 N. W. 491).

65. (1894.) The prisoner, without provocation, struck the prosecutor, an elderly man, a blow with his fist, instantly knocking him down, and kicked him twice or more. The latter, on attempting to arise,

Digitized by Google

d that his right leg was broken. e assistance of friends he retreated he street, where, a few minutes was followed by the prisoner, who ruck him, saying, "D—n your old will teach you to keep your nose y business." The prosecutor, who ering and helpless from the effect roken limb, was thrown or pushed risoner from the sidewalk into the here the latter kicked at him sev- es, but the interference of by- prevented the infliction of further Held, To sustain the conviction for with intent to inflict great bodily Murphey v. State, 43 Neb. 34 (61 1).

895.) Evidence that the accused child on the cheek and neck and ys thereafter the child's nose and e badly swollen and inflamed, sus- verdict of guilt of assault with in- do great bodily harm. Whitner v. Neb. 144 (64 N. W. 704).

899.) Evidence examined and held nt to sustain a conviction of assault ent to commit great bodily injury. . State, 58 Neb. 531 (78 N. W.

901.) A conviction under section e criminal code cannot stand where ence fails to disclose that the ac- aking the assault intended to in- at bodily injury upon the person prosecuting witness. Likens v. Neb. 249 (88 N. W. 506).

906.) To sustain a conviction for with intent to inflict great bodily as defined by section 17*b* of the code, the evidence must show an to inflict an injury of a greater and rious character than an ordinary Bice v. State, 77 Neb. 159 (108 N.).

906.) Evidence showing a defend- prosecuting witness, in a prosecu- assault, had both been drinking ght in a street on meeting; that had former ill will toward the other ter the quarrel were on friendly fails to show an intent to inflict arm, within the meaning of the stat- ice v. State, 77 Neb. 159 (108 N. W.

ns for jury.

1895.) Where an information con- two counts, one of assault with in- tent to commit murder and the second of an assault with intent to do great bodily injury, and there was no evidence to support the charge set forth in the first count, it was error which was calculated to confuse and mislead the jurors, and prejudicial to the parties on trial under the complaint, to submit to the jury the question of the guilt or innocence of such parties of the crime charged in the first count, although they were not convicted of such crime. Botsch v. State, 43 Neb. 501 (61 N. W. 730).

72. (1899.) When a citizen assaults one of a mob in the wrongful possession of and taking away his property for the purposes of injuring or destroying it, whether under all the circumstances he was justified in making the assault is a question for the jury. Atkinson v. State, 58 Neb. 356 (78 N. W. 621).

72*a*. (1908.) The term "great bodily injury," as used in section 17*b* of the criminal code, implies an injury of a graver and more serious character than an ordinary battery; and whether a particular case is within the meaning of the statute is generally a question of fact for the jury. Lambert v. State, 80 Neb. 562 (114 N. W. 775).

73. (1899.) Whether the particular intent elemental of a charge of assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury has been shown is generally a question of fact for the jury. Smith v. State, 58 Neb. 531 (78 N. W. 1059).

Instructions.

74. (1901.) It is not error to tell the jury in a prosecution for assault with intent to wound that they have nothing to do with the question of punishment. Clary v. State, 61 Neb. 688 (85 N. W. 897).

74*a*. (1908.) In a case where there is competent evidence tending to show that the defendant in making the assault was actuated by motives of hatred, ill will or revenge, it is proper for the court to charge the jury that: "If you should find and believe from all of the evidence, beyond a reasonable doubt, that the defendant assaulted the prosecuting witness, at a time when he had no reasonable apprehension of immediate and impending injury to himself, and to accomplish some unlawful purpose, or from a spirit of retaliation or revenge, then he cannot avail himself of the law of self defense." Lambert v. State, 80 Neb. 562 (114 N. W. 775).

www.libtool.com.cn

Digitized by Google

Costs.

75. (1902.) Costs made by the state in a futile effort to prove that an assault was felonious cannot be taxed against the defendant, although convicted of an assault and battery. Biester v. State, 65 Neb. 276 (91 N. W. 416).

www.libtool.com.cn

ASSESSMENT.

On members of corporations, see Corporations, §§ 127-132.

Of damages, see Damages, §§ VI, C.

Of damages in condemnation proceeding, see Eminent Domain, §§ 149-258.

For highway purposes, see Highways, §§ 166-187.

Insurance premiums and assessment, see Insurance, §§ 116-141, 739-743.

For street improvements, see Municipal Corporations, VII, D.

For taxation, see Taxation, §§ 203-416.

ASSETS.

Of bankrupt, see Bankruptcy.

Of insolvent banks, see Banks and Banking, §§ 64-79.

Of corporations, see Corporations, IV.

Of estate of decedent, see Executors and Administrators.

Marshaling assets, see Marshaling Assets and Securities.

Of partnership, see Partnership, II; IV, C.

Collection of assets by receiver, see Receivers, §§ 72-75.

ASSIGNMENT.

ANALYSIS.

Property, estates, and interests assignable,
——— Contracts in general, §§ 1-4.
——— Contract for legal services, § 5.
——— Money due or to become due, §§ 6, 7.
——— Future earnings, §§ 8, 9.
——— Right of actions, and judgment, §§ 10, 11.
——— Contract for purchase of land, § 12.
Oral assignment, § 13.
Consideration, § 14.
Recording assignment, § 15.
Assignment to evade exemption, § 16.
Equitable assignments, §§ 17-21.
Operation and effect, § 22.
——— Property included in assignment, §§ 23-28.
Rights and liabilities of parties, §§ 29-35.
Actions.
——— Defenses, §§ 36, 37.
——— Parties, §§ 38-42.
——— Evidence, §§ 43-47.
——— Instructions, § 48.

CROSS-REFERENCES.

Assignment of particular instruments or rights, see specific topics.

See, also, Assignments for Benefit of Creditors; Bankruptcy.

Of altered note, see Alteration of Instruments, § 43.

Effect of check or order as assignment of fund, see Bills and Notes, §§ 111-116.

Of bill of lading, see Carriers, §§ 52-54.

Assignment of chattel mortgage, see Chattel Mortgages, §§ 237-240.

Priority of assignee of chattel mortgage, see Chattel Mortgages, §§ 110-112.

Title of assignee in bankruptcy, see Bankruptcy, §§ 22-24.

Property assigned to assignee in bankruptcy, see Bankruptcy, §§ 14-21.

Right of surety of decedent taking assignment of debt paid, see Executors and Administrators, § 106.

If contract of guaranty, see Guaranty, § 24.

Of insurance policy, see Insurance, § 74.

Digitized by Google

e to sell liquor not assignable, see ting Liquors, § 156.

igment, see Judgment, §§ 814-820.

chanics' lien or claim, see Mechan-s, §§ 204-212.

of assignee of mechanics' lien to , see Mechanics' Liens, § 241.

ortgages, see Mortgages, §§ 251-288.

ment of property by pledgee, see §§ 34-36.

hts under entry of public lands, see ands, §§ 144-148.

ense to operate a street railway, see ailroads, § 15*a*.

s to action on assigned subscrip-tract, see Subscription, § 14.

certificate, see Taxation, §§ 742-747.

of parties after assignment of con-sell lands, see Vendor and Pur-§§ 175-177, 193-199.

, estates and interests assignable.

ontracts in general.

398.) A contract with a municipal ion for lighting its streets, contain-ipulation that the contractor shall gn such contract without first ob-the consent of the city indorsed in writing, is not assignable, either e or in part; and moneys due or to due thereunder, whether payable as ety or in installments, cannot be as-vithout first obtaining such written City of Omaha v. Standard Oil Neb. 337 (75 N. W. 859).

398.) A contract giving a party an in the profits of land purchased her for speculation and imposing a duty to pay the taxes and make clared in the closing sentence "that ulations aforesaid are to bind the executors, administrators, and as-the respective parties," is assign-lden v. George W. Frank Improve-., 57 Neb. 67 (77 N. W. 369).

898.) A written contract which, by ns, requires certain services to be l personally by one of the parties and forbids a transfer by said party interest and liabilities to a third annot, in the face of such inhibi-e transferred by assignment to a rty so as to vest in such assignee, s such, a right, in equity, to an ng for the value of services ren-y the said assignee, though such services are of the same general character as those required by the terms of the contract assigned. Zetterlund v. Texas Land & Cattle Co., 55 Neb. 355 (75 N. W. 860).

4. (1906.) A contract with a publisher of a book, whereby one agrees to accept a book when completed at a stipulated price is assignable by such publisher. Harris v. Paine, 76 Neb. 523 (107 N. W. 748).

——— Contract for legal services.

5. (1906.) A contract for legal services is personal in its nature and cannot be assigned by one party without the consent of the other. Corson v. Lewis, 77 Neb. 446 (109 N. W. 735).

——— Money due or to become due.

6. (1885.) An instrument assigning a claim against a firm for a certain sum less a payment made thereon, leaving a definite balance is an absolute assignment without limitation and conveys a claim for the good will of vendor's business. Wallingford, Shamp & Co. v. Burr, 17 Neb. 137 (22 N. W. 350).

7. (1895.) An assignment of moneys not yet earned, but expected to be earned in the future under an existing contract, is in equity valid and enforceable. Perkins v. Butler County, 44 Neb. 110 (62 N. W. 308).

——— Future earnings.

8. (1906.) Future earnings or profits under an existing contract either public or private are assignable. First Nat. Bank of Madison v. School District, 77 Neb. 570 (110 N. W. 349).

9. (1906.) Whether a city officer may bind the city by assigning his salary prior to the issue of a warrant therefor not discussed or determined. Gordon v. City of Omaha, 77 Neb. 556 (110 N. W. 313).

——— Right of action, and judgment.

10. (1903.) The right of action preserved by section 27 of the code is assignable, together with the judgment therein mentioned, in like manner and with like effect as other choses in action. Wood v. Carter, 67 Neb. 133 (93 N. W. 158).

11. (1907.) A cause of action by a husband for a loss of services and expenditures for medical attendance, etc., occasioned by a negligent and wrongful injury to his wife, is one which survives and is assignable. Forbes v. City of Omaha, 79 Neb. 6 (112 N. W. 326).

www.libtool.com.cn

Digitized by Google

——— Contract for purchase of land.

12. (1891.) An optional contract for the purchase of real estate is subject to assignment by the purchaser. Rice v. Gibbs, 33 Neb. 460 (50 N. W. 436). [Overruled on rehearing. 40 Neb. 264.]

Oral assignment.

13. (1903.) Assignment of an interest in a reversion fund may be oral and may be proved by oral testimony. Curtis v. Zutavern, 67 Neb. 183 (93 N. W. 400).

Consideration.

14. (1892.) Where there is an absolute assignment of an account so that the assignor parts with his entire interest therein, as between the parties the amount of consideration therefor is not a material inquiry. Barnett v. Ellis, 34 Neb. 539 (52 N. W. 368).

Recording assignment.

15. (1902.) An assignment of a real estate mortgage, securing a negotiable promissory note, to the indorsee of such note is an instrument affecting the title to real estate wihin the purview and meaning of Compiled Statutes, chapter 73, sections 16, 46, and hence must be recorded. Ames v. Miller, 65 Neb. 204 (91 N. W. 250).

Assignment to evade exemption.

16. (1894.) An assignment of a debt for the purpose of evading exemptions is unlawful. Bishop v. Middleton, 43 Neb. 10 (61 N. W. 129; 226 L. R. A. 445).

Equitable assignments.

17. (1885.) A was a subcontractor under B to build certain sections of railroad, which work he sublet to C who filed a statutory lien on the railroad. D in the presence of A presented for acceptance and payment to B a draft or order drawn on him by A in favor of and payable to D in full of all claims. B then stated to A in the presence of D that he would not pay it until all the liens for labor were settled and paid off. C sued out an attachment against A and garnished B. Held, That there was an equitable assignment to the amount called for in the order. Code v. Carlton, 18 Neb. 328 (25 N. W. 353).

18. (1898.) An agreement of a debtor to pay his creditor's claim out of the moneys of a particular fund, but which gives the creditor no present right in or control over such fund or any part thereof, does not operate as an equitable assignment of any part of such fund to the creditor. Fairbanks, Morse & Co. v. Welshans & Co., 55 Neb. 362 (75 N. W. 865).

19. (1899.) An order drawn on a particular fund creates an equitable assignment thereof, although not accepted by the drawee. Slobodisky v. Curtis, 58 Neb. 211 (78 N. W. 522).

20. (1900.) An order for the payment of money which is not immediately effective does not operate as an equitable assignment. Nebraska Moline Plow Co. v. Fuehring, 60 Neb. 316 (83 N. W. 69).

21. (1901.) A naked promise to pay existing debts out of a particular fund, does not operate as an equitable assignment thereof. Phillips v. Hogue, 63 Neb. 192 (88 N. W. 180).

Operation and effect.

22. (1898.) Detaching an interest coupon from a bond secured by mortgage and transferring it to a third person operate as an assignment pro tanto of the mortgage. New England Loan & Trust Co. v. Robinson, 56 Neb. 50 (76 N. W. 415; 71 Am. St. Rep. 657).

——— Property included in assignment.

23. (1878.) An assignment of a bill of lading and draft by a consignee of goods conveys his entire interest in the shipment to the assignee. Wright v. Greenwood Warehouse Co., 7 Neb. 435.

24. (1888.) A, who had a contract to build a bridge, entered into an agreement with B as follows: "I assign one-half interest in the within bridge contract of the net proceeds from the contract after all expenses are paid for value of labor and expense and other help, no unnecessary outlay to be added, cost of working and labor to be $2.50 per day." Held, That commissions earned by B in negotiating county bonds issued to pay for such bridge were not included in the agreement and that B need not account to A for them. Daugherty v. Gouff, 23 Neb. 105 (36 N. W. 351).

25. (1894.) An assignment by a contractor of a contract to transfer freight for a railway company is not merely an assignment of the moneys to be earned, but an assignment of the whole contract, binding the assignee, who accepted benefits under the contract, to discharge the obligations thereof. Union P. R. Co. v. Douglas County Bank, 42 Neb. 469 (60 N. W. 886).

26. (1896.) R. & W., being engaged as

Digitized by Google

ors in the construction of a public for D. county, executed an assign-follows: "To the Board of County sioners: For value received we assign all our interest in warrants hers due us from said county to the f Commerce, and hereby authorize nk to receipt for said warrants or s in our name, and to pay all s or vouchers to the Bank of Com-Held, Not to include money sub-ly earned by R. & W. in the perce of their contract with the county.
. Douglas County, 47 Neb. 9 (66 30).

(1897.) An assignment of a buildntract by the contractor was held rely an assignment of the moneys ter to be earned, but an assignment whole contract with its obligations dens. State, ex rel. Gray, v. School
, 51 Neb. 237 (71 N. W. 727).

(1907.) An assignment by an own-half interest in a partnership busind a subsequent assignment by the e, held not to include an amount o the original assignor as the pur-rice of the other half interest in siness. Barnes v. Sim, 80 Neb. 211
W. 154). [Modified on rehearing.
213].

(1898.) Where a contract gave dean interest in the profits of land ed by plaintiff for speculation, and on him the duty to pay taxes and ales, an assignment by defendant if ght, title, and interest" in the connot an assignment of the contract consituting a repudiation of its
, but merely an assignment of the to accrue therefrom. Alden v.
W. Frank Improvement Co., 57 Neb.
N. W. 369).

and liabilities of parties.

(1888.) Where one who has a cono build a bridge across the Platte ssigns one-half interest therein to , such other may, upon the complethe contract maintain an action ivision of the profits. Daugherty v.
3 Neb. 105 (36 N. W. 351).

(1894.) The assignees of a contract sfer freight for a railroad company ear the burdens of the assignor's on before he may enjoy the bene-nion P. R. Co. v. Douglas County
42 Neb. 469 (60 N. W. 886).

31. (1895.) Where a construction partnership that has the contract for building a county court house is dissolved during the progress of the work and one partner continues the work under the firm name, and to secure a loan assigns the reserve held by the county from the payments on the work, the loan being to the individual partner, the assignment is subordinate to the liens of laborers and material-men. Perkins v. Butler County, 44 Neb. 110 (62 N. W. 308).

32. (1895.) Where the owner of a mechanic's lien assigns it to another, a statement that there is no set-off or counter-claim as defense, and a guarantee to pay any deduction made from the claim, is a guarantee to make good any deduction by a counter-claim or set-off, and not that the award in a foreclosure will be for the full amount claimed. Fisherdick v. Hutton, 44 Neb. 122 (62 N. W. 488).

33. (1898.) The assignee of a non-negotiable chose in action takes it subject to all equities existing between the original parties. Lewis v. Holdrege, 56 Neb. 379 (76 N. W. 890).

34. (1899.) An assignee of an account is bound by the contract entered into or ratified by his assignor. Hoover v. Columbia Nat. Bank, 58 Neb. 420 (78 N. W. 717).

35. (1904.) If out of the purchase price of a chose in action the assignor has agreed to discharge an obligation against the same, his agreement so to do may be shown by parol, although a contract of assignment making no mention of such agreement or of the purchase price may be in writing. Bell v. Wiltson, 5 Unof. 486 (98 N. W. 1049).

Actions.

Issues in action on assigned account, see Account, Action on, §§ 19-21.

——— Defenses.

36. (1892.) If there was a defense to the account when assigned, and the assignee is a mere donee, the same defense may be interposed as if the action was by the assignor. If the assignor claims as a bona fide purchaser and the rights of creditors are affected, the amount and kind of consideration become material. Barnett v. Ellis, 34 Neb. 539 (51 N. W. 368).

37. (1898.) It is proper matter of defense that the alleged assignee of the claim in suit is not the owner thereof or the real party in interest. Henley v. Evans, 54 Neb. 187 (74 N. W. 578).

Digitized by Google

——— Parties.

38. (1888.) Where a claim has been assigned to a plaintiff, and he thereby acquires the legal title, but not the beneficial interest, the court may, where it will be in furtherance of justice, upon payment of costs, permit him to acquire the beneficial interest and proceed with the action. Hoagland v. Van Etten, 23 Neb. 462 (36 N. W. 755).

39. (1888.) Section 29 of the code is but a statutory enactment of the rule which has prevailed in courts of equity, that an action must be brought in the name of the party beneficially interested in the subject-matter. A mere assignment of a claim, therefore, where the proceeds of the suit are to be paid to the assignor, will not entitle the assignee to maintain the action. He must possess the beneficial interest. Hoagland v. Van Etten, 23 Neb. 462 (36 N. W. 755).

40. (1898.) The assignee of a chose in action is the proper and only party who can maintain an action thereon. Crum v. Stanley, 55 Neb. 351 (75 N. W. 851).

41. (1903.) An assignor of a chose in action is not a necessary party to an action upon it by the assignee. Wood v. Carter, 67 Neb. 133 (93 N. W. 158).

42. (1903.) An attorney to whom claims are unconditionally assigned may prosecute an action in his own name for a recovery on such claims, without joining the original claimants. Huddleson v. Polk, 70 Neb. 483 (97 N. W. 624).

——— Evidence.

43. (1888.) In an action for a balance due for the assignment of a contract to furnish curbing to a city, where the defense is fraudulent representations by the assignor, as to the price at which the curbing could be purchased, evidence that the parties had together called upon the agent of a railroad company, who showed them a telegram from a quarry containing quotations of such stone, is admissible. Riley v. Melquist, 23 Neb. 474 (36 N. W. 657).

44. (1892.) Evidence produced held to sustain a judgment on claim for charges made by a railroad for freight, on the question of assignment thereof. Rosenbaum v. Russell, 35 Neb. 513 (53 N. W. 384).

45. (1897.) Evidence held to warrant a finding of an absolute assignment of a claim against a railroad for damages for killing live stock. Grand Island & Wyoming C. R. Co. v. Swinbank, 51 Neb. 521 (71 N. W. 48).

46. (1903.) An oral assignment in a reversion fund may be proved by oral testimony. Curtis v. Zutavern, 67 Neb. 183 (93 N. W. 400).

47. (1905.) Under the facts, held, that no competent evidence of an assignment of the judgment by the judgment creditor has been adduced. Ebel v. Stringer, 73 Neb. 249 (102 N. W. 466).

——— Instructions.

48. (1888.) In action for balance due on consideration for assignment of grading contract with city, where defense is fraudulent representations by assignor, instructions given held correct. Riley v. Melquist, 23 Neb. 474 (36 N. W. 657).

ASSIGNMENT OF ERRORS.

See Appeal and Error, X.

In appeal in criminal prosecution, see Criminal Law, §§ 1045-1054.

In motion for new trial, see New Trial, §§ 131-142.

Digitized by Google

ASSIGNMENTS FOR BENEFIT OF CREDITORS.

www.libtool.com.cn

ANALYSIS.

UISITES AND VALIDITY.

A) Conveyances or transactions creating trust.
- Right to make assignment, §§ 1-3.
- Constructive assignment, §§ 4-7.
- ——— Mortgages as security, §§ 8-21.
- ——— Sale or transfer absolute in form, §§ 22-26.
- Provision as to application of estate to debts, § 27.

B) Form and requisite of instrument.
- In general, §§ 28-32.
- Acknowledgment, §§ 33-35.
- Attestation, § 36.
- Description of property, § 37.

C) Reservations.
- In general, §§ 38-41.

D) Preferences.
- Right to prefer creditor in general, §§ 42-48.
- Intention of debtor, § 49.
- Preference by mortgage or other conveyance, §§ 50-56.

E) Fraud.
- Intention, § 57.
- Construction in general, §§ 58-64.
- Transactions before assignment, §§ 65-71.
- Effect of fraud by assignor after assignment, § 72.

F) Filing, recording, and registration.
- Necessity, §§ 73-75.
- Foreign assignment, §§ 76, 77.
- Where to record, § 78.
- Sufficiency, §§ 79, 80.
- Effect of failure to record, §§ 81-85.

STRUCTION AND OPERATION.
- Construction in general, §§ 86, 87.
- Foreign assignments, § 88.
- Right acquired by assignee, §§ 89, 90.
- Effect on property assigned, §§ 91, 92.
- Effect on relation of creditor and debtor, § 93.

ALIFICATION AND TENURE OF ASSIGNEE.
- In general, §§ 94-96.

MINISTRATION OF ASSIGNED ESTATES.
- Authority of assignee in general, §§ 97, 98.
- Representation of creditor, § 99.
- Collection and distribution of assets, §§ 100-102.
- Custody and management of estate, §§ 103-104.
- Compelling assignee to turn over property to successor, § 105.
- Sale of assets, §§ 106, 107.
- Right of assignee to question sale by assignor, §§ 108-110.
- Actions.
- ——— By assignee, §§ 111-114.
- ——— Attachment or garnishment against assignee, §§ 115, 116.
- ——— Set-off, §§ 117, 118.

Digitized by Google

——— Parties, §119.
——— Pleadings, § 120.
——— Evidence, § 121.

V. RIGHTS AND REMEDIES OF CREDITORS.
In general, §§ 122-126.
Effect of failure to file claim, §§ 127-130.
Presentment to assignee, § 131.
Payment of claims, § 132.
Authority of assignee to compromise, § 133.
Superiority of claims or liens to assignment, §§ 134-136.
Estoppel to attack assignment, § 136a.

VI. RIGHT OF ASSIGNOR.
In general, § 137.

VII. LIABILITY OF ASSIGNEE.
In general, §§ 138-142.

www.libook.com.cn

CROSS-REFERENCES.

See, also, Assignment; Insolvency.

See, also, Chattel Mortgages.

Priority of chattel mortgage over assignment, see Chattel Mortgages, §§ 110-112.

Consideration for agreement to accept assigned estate in full payment of claims, see Contracts, § 45.

Chattel mortgage distinguished from assignment, see Chattel Mortgages, § 20.

Title acquired by assignee in bankruptcy, see Bankruptcy, §§ 22-24.

I. REQUISITES AND VALIDITY.

A. Conveyances and Transactions Creating Trust.

Right to make assignment.

1. (1878.) An insolvent debtor may make an absolute assignment of all his property, to a trustee, to be applied in payment of his debts; but in such case it is the duty of the trustee at once to apply the property to the purpose for which the trust was created. McCleery v. Allen, 7 Neb. 21 (29 Am. Rep. 377).

2. (1884.) One of two partners, with the consent of the other, may convey real estate of the firm by an assignment in the name of the firm. Sullivan v. Smith, 15 Neb. 476 (19 N. W. 620; 48 Am. Rep. 345).

3. (1891.) The right of a debtor, who is unable to pay his debts, to make an assignment of all his property to be equally distributed among his creditors in proportion to their several demands is a right to be upheld when possible and its exercise encouraged; and while he may be estopped to make such disposition of his property by judgment or deed, he cannot be, by mere conduct, or matter of estoppel in pais. Commercial Nat. Bank v. Nebraska Nat. Bank, 33 Neb. 292 (50 N. W. 157).

Constructive assignment.

4. (1891.) A conveyance of a stock of merchandise, and of realty of the debtor with all claims owing to the debtor, to one for the benefit of all creditors, held to be a deed of assignment. Clendenning v. Perrine, 32 Neb. 155 (49 N. W. 334).

5. (1903.) When an insolvent corporation transfers all of its assets to a creditor in settlement of a claim upon which the officers of the corporation are personally liable, and the transfer is for that reason held invalid, the transferee holds the property in trust for all creditors of the corporation, and is entitled to participate in the distribution of the assets. National Wall Paper Co. v. Columbia Nat. Bank, 68 Neb. 47 (93 N. W. 1004).

6. (1895.) The act in regard to voluntary assignments refers only to assignments intended as such; that is, when a debtor undertakes to make an assignment under the statute he must make it in accordance with it, otherwise it is no assignment and is void. But the rules relating to the construction of mortgages and other instruments somewhat akin to assignments, but not intended as such, remain unchanged. Kilpatrick-Koch Dry Goods Co. v. Bremers, 44 Neb. 863 (62 N. W. 1105).

7. (1898.) A corporation resolved to remove its stock of merchandise to a distant city and effect a consolidation there with another corporation. Afterwards its managing officers determined, in order to avoid trouble with creditors, to retain a portion of the goods, sell them, and apply the proceeds to the payment of debts. No trust was created and no provision made for the of the application of the proceeds. hat this arrangement did not con- he goods a trust fund for the pay- creditors pro rata. German Nat. First Nat. Bank, 55 Neb. 86 (75 N.

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

Iortgages as security.

886.) The turning point of cases gages with possession of mortgagee, eld assignment for benefit of credi- that the assignee is held to be a for creditors. Bonns v. Carter, 20 6 (31 N. W. 381); Id., 22 Neb. 495 W. 394). [Overruled. 37 Neb. 816; 765; 41 Neb. 35; 41 Neb. 67; 44 Neb. Neb. 119; 48 Neb. 48.]

886.) An instrument in writing, ng to be a chattel mortgage, that ossession of property to mortgagee wer to sell in usual course of busi- an assignment for creditors; and ing been made in conformity to , is void as to creditors. Bonns v. 20 Neb. 566 (31 N. W. 381); Id., 495 (35 N. W. 394). [Overruled. 816; 40 Neb. 765; 41 Neb. 35; 41 44 Neb. 863; 45 Neb. 119; 48 Neb.

1891.) Chattel mortgages to pre- reditors, given to secure actual in- ess, in good faith, by an insolvent are valid and do not constitute an ent, though they cover all the debt- operty, the value of which was in excess of the debts secured. er v. Higman, 31 Neb. 531 (48 N. W. Am. St. Rep. 527).

1892.) One D., being in failing cir- ces and owing money to numerous s, executed separate chattel mort- o six creditors upon his stock of dise. The said mortgages were t the same time and to secure the le indebtedness of D. to the several ecs. It was the intention of all par- t the mortgagees should prorate in oceeds of the mortgaged property, ntention was evidenced by the fol- recital in each mortgage: "This is t the same time and is to prorate ortgages made to" (here follows a ion of each of the other mortgages). eing no trust created by the mort- the transaction did not amount to gnment for the benefit of creditors. n v. Isaacs, 34 Neb. 709 (52 N. W.

12. (1893.) Several chattel mortgages made and delivered simultaneously to secure different creditors of the mortgagor, the delivery being to one of the mortgagees, who in the transaction acts for himself and on behalf of all the other mortgagees, do not constitute an assignment for the benefit of creditors. Farwell Co. v. Wright, 38 Neb. 445 (56 N. W. 984).

13. (1893.) Where a chattel mortgage was taken by a creditor of the mortgagor upon all his property, its purpose being not only to secure a debt due the mortgagee, but also to secure other creditors of the mortgagor not named therein, whose rights are not expressly reserved from the operation of the assignment law of this state, such mortgage is void as an irregular, prohibited voluntary assignment. Stewart v. Stewart, 36 Neb. 558 (54 N. W. 828).

14. (1893.) Several chattel mortgages made and delivered simultaneously to secure different creditors of the mortgagor, the delivery being to one of the mortgagees, who in the transaction acts for himself and on behalf of all the other mortgagees, do not constitute an assignment for the benefit of creditors. Jones v. Loree, 37 Neb. 816 (56 N. W. 390).

15. (1893.) An instrument in the form of a mortgage or bill of sale will not be held to be an assignment for the benefit of creditors unless it creates trust in favor of some person or persons other than the mortgagor or vendor. Costello v. Chamberlain, 36 Neb. 45 (53 N. W. 1034).

16. (1894.) A chattel mortgage is not void as constituting a prohibited assignment for creditors solely for the reason that it is made to secure the payment of debts to third persons as well as to the mortgagee. Davis v. Hilbourn, 41 Neb. 35 (59 N. W. 397).

17. (1894.) Where several chattel mortgages are made and delivered simultaneously, covering all the property of the mortgagor, to secure different creditors, leaving other creditors unsecured, such transaction does not constitute a voluntary assignment for the benefit of creditors, although there may have been an agreement among the mortgagees to share pro rata in the proceeds of the mortgaged property. Smith v. Phelan, 40 Neb. 765 (59 N. W. 562).

18. (1895.) Instruments in the form of chattel mortgages will not be held to constitute an attempted assignment for the benefit of creditors because of the contemplated reciprocal trusts imposed on each mortgagee in favor of the others; because the mortgages provide that they shall prorate one with another; because at the time the mortgages were made the morgagor was unable to redeem, conveyed all his property by the mortgages to secure debts greater than the value of the property; and because the parties contemplated that the mortgagees should take immediae possession,—nor does the fact that the mortgages contained a power of sale in accordance with the statutory provisions for foreclosure render the transaction an assignment. Kilpatrick-Koch Dry Goods Co. v. Bremers, 44 Neb. 863 (62 N. W. 1105).

Digitized by Google

19. (1898.) A mortgage which does not in its inception contravene the assignment law will not be invalidated by a general assignment for the benefit of creditors, made by the mortgagor within thirty days after the execution of the mortgage. Blair State Bank v. Stewart, 57 Neb. 64 (77 N. W. 372).

20. (1899.) Instruments in the form of chattel mortgages will not be held to constitute an attempted assignment for benefit of creditors because of the contemplated reciprocal trusts imposed on each mortgagee in favor of the others; because the mortgages provide that they shall prorate one with another; because at the time the mortgages were made the mortgagor was unable to redeem, conveyed all his property by the mortgages to secure debts greater than the value of the property; and because the parties contemplated that the mortgagees should take immediate possession; nor does the fact that the mortgages contained a power of sale in accordance with the statutory provisions for foreclosure render the transaction an assignment. Sloan v. Thomas Mfg. Co., 58 Neb. 713 (79 N. W. 728).

21. (1899.) A chattel mortgage given by a debtor to several creditors, who by the terms of the instrument are to prorate in the proceeds of the mortgaged property, is not a voluntary assignment under the statute. Skinner v. First Nat. Bank of Pawnee City, 59 Neb. 17 (80 N. W. 42).

——— Sale or transfer absolute in form.

22. (1890.) A sale of mercantile business by an insolvent firm to sureties, who were liable for the debts of the firm, is a sale and not an assignment if made in good faith. Kaufman v. Coburn, 30 Neb. 672 (46 N. W. 1010).

23. (1890.) Where a firm engaged in the mercantile business, being indebted in about the sum of $18,000, for which A, B and C were separately liable as sureties for about equal portions of said debt, sold their stock of goods, including real estate and other property, to said sureties, who jointly assumed all the debts for which they were severally liable, such transaction was a sale and not an assignment, and if made in good faith would be sustained. Kaufman v. Coburn, 30 Neb. 672 (46 N. W. 1010).

24. (1890.) Where members of a firm sell their entire stock of mercantile goods to their sureties of certain indebtedness, the sureties assuming all obligations, it not appearing the sale was for the benefit of any one or more creditors, the sureties became absolutely liable for the debts assumed, whether the property received was sufficient to pay out or not. Kaufman v. Coburn, 30 Neb. 672 (46 N. W. 1010).

25. (1893.) Where a merchant in failing circumstances, intending to prefer certain creditors, executed a bill of sale, the vendee paying the preferred claims out of the consideration named in the bill of sale it was held, in an action of replevin by the vendee against the sheriff who had seized the goods on an order of attachment in favor of an unsecured creditor, that the transfer was not an assignment for benefit of creditors, that the vendee was the only person beneficially interested, and that the transfer was valid, regardless of whether the bill of sale was intended as a mortgage or an absolute transfer. Costello v. Chamberlain, 36 Neb. 45 (53 N. W. 1034).

26. (1894.) The bill of sale herein held to be a conveyance to secure or pay bona fide debts, and not void for being such a conveyance as to constitute a voluntary assignment within the true meaning or construction of the terms of the provisions of the assignment law. Meyer v. Union Bag & Paper Co., 41 Neb. 67 (59 N. W. 696).

Provision as to application of estate to debts.

27. (1878.) A debtor cannot, when a debt is due, avoid the obligation of immediate payment, nor can he, without the consent of the creditor, extend the period of credit. Therefore, if an assignment contains a provision, from which it appears that the debtor, at the time of its execution,

Digitized by Google

to prevent the immediate applica-his property to the payment of his will render the instrument void ace. McCleery v. Allen, 7 Neb. 21 Rep. 377).

www.libtool.com.cn

rm and Requisite of Instrument.

ral.

1880.) Deeds of assignment of both personal property for the benefit tors, to be valid as against the of the assignor, must be executed manner of deeds of real estate, as by sec. 1, ch. 61, Gen. Stat., 872.
v. Hoagland, 10 Neb. 511 (7 N. W.
899) Sloan v. Thomas Mfg. Co., 58
(79 N. W. 728).

1886.) An instrument purporting chattel mortgage, examined and held assignment; and not being made ormity to statutes, held void as creditors. Bonns v. Carter, 20 Neb.
N. W. 381); Id., 22 Neb. 495 (35 N.

1898.) An objection to the admisa deed of assignment in evidence as not executed or acknowledged in ner in which a conveyance is rebe executed and acknowledged is ral and not sufficiently specific to fects in the form of execution and edgment of the instrument. Maul
, 55 Neb. 446 (76 N. W. 163).

1899.) The act in regard to volungnments refers only to assignments as such; that is, when a debtor es to make an assignment under te he must make it in accordance otherwise it is no assignment and
But the rules relating to the con-of mortgages and other instruomewhat akin to assignments, but nded as such, remain unchanged.
Thomas Mfg. Co., 58 Neb. 713 (79
8).

1900.) A substantial compliance
d conformity to, the statutory pro-regulating the subject of voluntary nts for the benefit of creditors is ion essential to effectuate a valid of title to the property assigned to nee named in the assignment. Milite. 60 Neb. 431 (83 N. W. 355).

ledgment.

1880.) The record of an unac-ged deed of assignment is a nullity, g no protection to the assignee as against the creditors of the assignor. Heelan v. Hoagland, 10 Neb. 511 (7 N. W. 282).

34. (1896.) An assignment for the benefit of creditors, to be valid, must be in writing and executed and acknowledged in the same manner that an ordinary conveyance of real estate is required to be executed and acknowledged to entitle the latter to record. Sager v. Summers, 49 Neb. 459 (68 N. W. 614).

35. (1896.) The comma after the word "acknowledged" in the fourth line of section 6, chapter 6, Compiled Statutes, is an interpolation. Sager v. Summers, 49 Neb. 459 (68 N. W. 614).

Attestation.

36. (1896.) A deed of assignment for the benefit of creditors, unless witnessed, is absolutely void. Sager v. Summers, 49 Neb. 459 (68 N. W. 614).

Description of property.

37. (1898.) A deed of assignment which describes the property conveyed with sufficient particularity to enable the same to be readily identified is not rendered void by the failure to attach to such deed a copy of the schedule of property referred to therein as being on file in the office of the county judge, and containing a more specific description. Maul v. Drexel, 55 Neb. 446 (76 N. W. 163).

C. Reservations.

Effect of reservation in assignment to single creditor, see Fraudulent Conveyances, §§ 137-192.

In general.

38. (1878.) The deed of assignment contained a provision for a return to the assignor of the surplus, if any remained, of the assigned property after satisfying the claims of the creditor for whose benefit it was made. Held, That this reservation, being merely incidental to the primary object of the assignment, would not render it fraudulent under section 7, chapter 25, General Statutes. Morgan v. Bogue, 7 Neb. 429.

39. (1879.) A reservation in an assignment to pay over to the assignor "the rest, residue, and remainder, if any there be after paying said costs, charges, expenses, and debts as aforesaid," does not render an assignment void on its face. Lininger v. Raymond, 9 Neb. 40 (2 N. W. 359).

40. (1879.) An assignment for the benefit of creditors of "all the lands, tenements,

Digitized by Google

hereditaments, goods, chattels, property, and choses in action, of every name, nature, and description, wherever the same be (except such property as is exempt by law from execution)," is not void on its face. Lininger v. Raymond, 9 Neb. 40 (2 N. W. 359).

www.libtool.com.cn

41. (1879.) A deed of assignment which purports to convey to the assignee all the assigning partnership's property, except such as is exempt from attachment or execution, is valid, and transfers the title to all the firm property to the assignee. Miller v. Waite, 59 Neb. 319 (80 N. W. 907). [Rehearing. 60 Neb. 431.]

D. Preferences.

Preference by bankrupt, see Bankruptcy, §§ 25-27.

Preference of individual creditor, see Fraudulent Conveyances, §§ 124-166.

Right to prefer creditor in general.

42. (1881.) A debtor, even when in failing circumstances, has the right to pay the bona fide demand of one of his creditors to the exclusion of others. Lininger v. Raymond, 12 Neb. 19 (9 N. W. 550).

43. (1886.) A debtor, even when in failing circumstances, has the right to pay the bona fide demand of one of his creditors, to the exclusion of others. A partnership or firm has the same right so long as the payments are made in good faith to creditors of the partnership. Deitrich v. Hutchinson, 20 Neb. 52 (29 N. W. 247).

44. (1890.) Preference, less than thirty days before an assignment, of a creditor who has ground for knowing of his debtors' insolvency, is void. Banks v. Omaha Barb Wire Co., 30 Neb. 128 (46 N. W. 251).

45. (1893.) The assignment law does not deprive insolvent debtors of their common law right to prefer creditors. The law merely prohibits preferences, with certain exceptions named in the act, when made in the assignment itself, and preferences made within thirty days before an assignment actually executed, with notice upon the part of the creditor preferred that the debtor was then insolvent or contemplating insolvency. Kavanaugh v. Oberfelder, 37 Neb. 647 (56 N. W. 316).

46. (1894.) A debtor who is insolvent, or in failing circumstances, may pay or secure one or more of his creditors in full, and thus create a preference in their favor, which may have the effect to exclude other creditors, and the question of whether such action was with an honest or with a fraudulent intent or purpose is one of fact and not of law. Meyer v. Union Bag & Paper Co., 41 Neb. 67 (59 N. W. 696).

47. (1896.) An insolvent debtor may pay or secure one creditor to the exclusion of others, and the intention to defraud cannot be inferred from the mere fact that such preference was given. Dempster Mill Mfg. Co. v. First Nat. Bank of Holdrege, 49 Neb. 321 (68 N. W. 477).

48. (1901.) An insolvent corporation cannot make a preference of a debt due from it on which the officers and directors are bound as sureties. National Wall Paper Co. v. Columbia Nat. Bank, 63 Neb. 234 (88 N. W. 481; 56 L. R. A. 121).

Intention of debtor.

49. (1893.) An intention to defraud cannot be inferred merely from the fact that a preference was given to a certain creditor. Jones v. Loree, 37 Neb. 816 (56 N. W. 390); (1894) Dempster Mill Mfg. Co. v. First Nat. Bank of Holdrege, 49 Neb. 321 (68 N. W. 477).

Preference by mortgage or other conveyance.

50. (1884.) Under the act of 1877, Compiled Statutes, chapter 6, an assignment for the benefit of creditors must be without preferences. If any preferences are made, that part of the assignment will be held void. But this act does not prevent a debtor, though in failing circumstances, from preferring a creditor by a separate and independent conveyance unconnected with the transaction of making the assignment, even though the preferred creditor be the assignee named in the assignment subsequently made. Nelson v. Garey, 15 Neb. 531 (19 N. W. 630).

51. (1885.) The act of the legislature of 1877 relating to voluntary assignments, Compiled Statutes, 1881, chapter 6, did not prevent a debtor in failing circumstances from preferring a creditor by a separate and independent conveyance unconnected with the transaction of making an assignment. Bierbower v. Polk, 17 Neb. 286 (22 N. W. 698).

52. (1887.) A debtor has the right to prefer his creditors and to pay or secure those preferred. The execution of chattel mortgages to preferred creditors, if made in good faith to secure bona fide debts, even if made to a considerable number of such creditors at or about the same time—no

Digitized by Google

ng created—will not constitute an nt for the benefit of creditors if tended. Davis v. Scott, 22 Neb. 154
N. 353); (1891) Hershiser v. Hig- Neb. 531 (48 N. W. 272; 28 Am. St.
).

(1890.) A mortgage given by an debtor less than thirty days before nment, preferring a creditor who onable grounds for knowing of the y, is fraudulent. Banks v. Omaha re Co., 30 Neb. 128 (46 N. W. 251).

891.) Two of the creditors of an , chosen to take charge of the and secure all, cannot execute s, giving themselves priority over
s. St. Louis Wrought Iron Range yer, 31 Neb. 543 (48 N. W. 395).

894.) A debtor in failing circummay lawfully prefer one or more reditors and secure such creditors gage or conveyance absolute, pro-e transaction is in good faith and e with intent to defraud other credeyer v. Union Bag & Paper Co., 41
(59 N. W. 696).

E. Fraud.

so, Fraudulent Conveyances.

n.

n intention to defraud cannot be inerely from the fact that a pref-as given to one creditor. (1893)
Loree, 37 Neb. 816 (56 N. W. 390); empster Mill Mfg. Co. v. First Nat.
Holdrege, 49 Neb. 321 (68 N. W.

tion in general.

878.) The continued possession of signed by the execution debtor up me of their being seized in execu-the absence of a showing of good him who claims under the assign-conclusive evidence that the as-was fraudulent, and the statute 11, chapter 25, General Statutes) the courts so to declare. Morgan
7 Neb. 429.

879.) An assignment for the benecreditors, being as between them equitable in its nature, will not red void, unless it is clearly so. dt v. McWhirter, 9 Neb. 6 (2 N. W.
Am Rep. 396).

879.) An assignment for the bene-editors, which authorizes the as-
"sell and dispose of the property, and generally convert the same into money, upon such terms and conditions as in his judgment may appear just and for the interest of all parties interested," is not void upon its face. Brahmstadt v. McWhirter, 9 Neb. 6 (2 N. W. 232; 31 Am. Rep. 396).

61. (1881.) Where the debtor parts with all control of his property, and devotes it absolutely to the payment of his debts without reservation, the advantage to creditors is clear and direct, and although there may be delay in the payment of the debts, still the assignment is not fraudulent and will not be declared void. Lininger v. Raymond, 12 Neb. 167 (10 N. W. 716). [Overruled. 13 Neb. 298; 49 Neb. 165.]

62. (1892.) An assignment for the benefit of creditors, as it secures an equitable distribution of the proceeds of the debtor's property among his creditors, will be sustained if possible. Lancaster County Bank v. Horn, 34 Neb. 742 (52 N. W. 562). [Overruled. Bank v. Horn, 49 Neb. 466.]

63. (1898.) A conveyance or transfer made without any intention to contravene or evade the assignment law, and at any time when an assignment was not contemplated, is valid and will be upheld. Blair State Bank v. Stewart, 57 Neb. 64 (77 N. W. 372).

64. (1898.) Whether a deed of assignment is void for reasons which appear on its face is a question of law for the court, and not for the jury, to determine. Maul v. Drexel, 55 Neb. 446 (76 N. W. 163).

Transactions before assignment.

65. (1884.) The fact that prior to but on the same day that an assignment for benefit of creditors was made, the assignor executed a chattel mortgage on a portion of his property, to the assignee to secure a debt, if such mortgage was made bona fide and without fraudulent intent, will not render it a part of the assignment so as to convey the mortgaged property in trust for creditors. Nelson v. Garey, 15 Neb. 531 (19 N. W. 630).

66. (1886.) Where a firm is insolvent the partners cannot by a sale to one partner of their interest, three days before an assignment for the benefit of creditors is made, divest the property of its partnership character so as to defraud partnership creditors. Morehead v. Adams, 18 Neb. 569 (26 N. W. 242).

67. (1890.) The prohibited acts must have taken place within thirty days before the making of an assignment to invalidate such transfer. Banks v. Omaha Barb Wire Co., 30 Neb. 128 (46 N. W. 251).

Digitized by Google

68. (1892.) A debtor in failing circumstances and contemplating insolvency may pay or secure an indebtedness created within nine months prior thereto; and a chattel mortgage executed to secure a bona fide debt created within said time, will not be held void for the reason that such debtor, within a few hours thereafter, makes a general assignment of all his property, including that mortgaged as aforesaid, for the benefit of his creditors. Brown v. Williams, 34 Neb. 376 (51 N. W. 851).

69. (1893.) The fact that a chattel mortgage was executed a few hours previous to the making of a voluntary assignment by the mortgagor for the benefit of creditors is not conclusive evidence of fraud so as to entitle the assignee to recover the mortgaged property as a part of the assigned estate. Brown v. Farmers & Merchants Banking Co., 36 Neb. 434 (54 N. W. 671).

70. (1896.) The fraudulent disposition of a part of his property by one about to make an assignment for the benefit of his creditors will not operate to impair the title of the assignee to the remainder, when such assignment is afterwards made to, and acted upon by, the assignee in good faith. Deere, Wells & Co. v. Losey, 48 Neb. 622 (67 N. W. 462).

71. (1898.) Conveyances made more than thirty days before the execution of a deed of voluntary assignment are not within the inhibition of either section 42 or section 43 of the assignment law (Comp. Stats., ch. 6). Blair State Bank v. Stewart, 57 Neb. 58 (77 N. W. 372).

Effect of fraud by assignor after assignment.

72. (1894.) Where a valid assignment is made for the benefit of creditors, no fraudulent act of the assignor after the taking effect of such assignment will vitiate it. Nor will a failure on the part of the assignee to account for money or property of the assigned estate have that effect. Sullivan v. Smith, 15 Neb. 476 (19 N. W. 620; 48 Am. Rep. 354).

F. Filing, Recording, and Registration.

Recording conveyance to creditor in general, see Fraudulent Conveyances, §§ 210-236.

Necessity.

73. (1880.) To convey property as against the creditors of the assignor, the deed of assignment must be recorded within thirty days after its execution. Heelan v. Hoagland, 10 Neb. 511 (7 N. W. 282).

74. (1900.) Under the provisions of section 6, chapter 6, Compiled Statutes, 1899, a deed of assignment must be filed for record in the clerk's office within 24 hours after its execution, or it becomes nugatory. Miller v. Waite, 60 Neb. 431 (83 N. W. 355).

75. (1903.) The provisions of section 6, chapter 6, Compiled Statutes, 1899, requiring the filing of a deed of assignment for record in the clerk's office of the county in which the assignee resides, within twenty-four hours after its execution, is mandatory. Huddleson v. Polk, 70 Neb. 483 (97 N. W. 624).

Foreign assignment.

76. (1894.) Where a resident of Wyoming executes a voluntary assignment for the benefit of his creditor but fails to make and file, within twenty days, an inventory, required by the statutes of Wyoming, the assignees cannot recover from a bank in this state money the debtor had no deposit at the time of the assignment and which the bank applied to a discharge on unmatured notes held by the bank. Conner v. Omaha Nat. Bank, 42 Neb. 602 (60 N. W. 911).

77. (1906.) A voluntary assignment for the benefit of creditors, executed in a sister state according to the laws thereof, is ineffectual to convey real property situated in this state, unless it is executed and recorded in such manner as would render it so effectual if made in this state. Kirkendall v. Weatherley, 77 Neb. 421 (109 N. W. 757).

Where to record.

78. (1881.) The miscellaneous record is the proper book in which to enter an assignment for the benefit of creditors. Lininger v. Raymond, 12 Neb. 167 (10 N. W. 716).

Sufficiency.

79. (1886.) That part of section 6 of chapter 6 of the Compiled Statutes, which requires an assignment of property for the benefit of creditors to be recorded within twenty-four hours after its execution, construed, and the word "execution" held to include the delivery of the assignment and rrender of control over it. Wells v. 19 Neb. 355 (27 N. W. 229).

Digitized by Google

(1903.) Evidence examined and held fficient to show a compliance with a in the matter of recording an as- nt deed. Huddleson v. Polk, 70 Neb. N. W. 624).

of failure to record.

(1892.) An assignment by a debtor onal property for the benefit of cred- ill not be invalid because not re- if filed in the county clerk's office twenty-four hours after being made. ter County Bank v. Horn, 34 Neb. N. W. 562). [Overruled. 49 Neb. Neb. 431.]

(1892.) Where the assignee has ctual and exclusive possession of the l property assigned, such possession be disregarded by third parties on und of want of notice. The statute provides for a registry of the instru- Lancaster County Bank v. Horn, 34 (52 N. W. 562). [Overruled. Sager mers, 49 Neb. 466].

1898.) An assignment of personal for the benefit of creditors should in the office of the county clerk of unty where the assignor resides twenty-four hours after its execu- d is not void because not filed for with the register of deeds within riod. Maul v. Drexel, 55 Neb. 446 W. 163).

1899.) The right of an assignee for efit of creditors to maintain an ac- conversion of the assigned property divested by the mere failure to file d of assignment for record within four hours after its delivery. Miller e, 59 Neb. 319 (80 N. W. 907). [Re- 60 Neb. 431.]

1903.) The fact that the assignor a sheriff, acting as assignee, to d a deed from record the statutory no excuse for such neglect. Huddle- Polk, 70 Neb. 483 (97 N. W. 624).

NSTRUCTION AND OPERATION.

ction in general.

1896.) An assignment, "H. and Y., doing business under the firm nd style of H. & Y., are indebted ry considerable sums of money and come unable to pay and discharge he with punctuality, or in full, and esirous of making a fair and equita- ble distribution of all our property and effects, do hereby convey to the sheriff of Madison county Nebraska, all our partnership personal property of every description whatever. This conveyance is made in trust for the use and benefit of all our creditors and in conformity with an act of the legislature entitled," will not, for the purpose of holding it void, be construed as an assignment for the benefit of the creditors of the individual partners. Deere, Wells & Co. v. Losey, 48 Neb. 622 (67 N. W. 462).

87. (1890.) Where property of a debtor was assigned to certain parties with a provision that they should conduct and close out the business for the benefit of creditors, naming all of the latter but three, and they being omitted by mistake; the omitted creditors were entitled to their proportionate share of the proceeds of sales. Guittard v. Robinson, 29 Neb. 400 (45 N. W. 476).

Foreign assignments.

88. (1880.) The voluntary assignment in Illinois by a debtor under a statute of that state (Laws 1877, p. 115) of all his property, and the presentation and proof of a creditor's claim in Illinois, is not a bar to such creditor's right of action in Nebraska, there being nothing in the statute of Illinois or in the deed of assignment restricting creditors to their respective dividends, or suspending any other remedy previously open to them. Gross v. Bunn, 10 Neb. 217 (4 N. W. 1048).

Right acquired by assignee.

89. (1891.) Title to all of the assignor's property vests in assignee, and includes that used in a banking business, and ostensibly belonging to a corporation which has no existence in fact. Commercial Nat. Bank v. Nebraska State Bank, 33 Neb. 292 (50 N. W. 157). [Overruled. Lancaster County Bank v. Gillilan, 49 Neb. 165.]

90. (1894.) The assignee of an insolvent corporation takes the property subject to whatever equities existed against the assignor. Salladin v. Mitchell, 42 Neb. 859 (61 N. W. 127).

Effect on property assigned.

See, also, post, §§ 104,105.

91. (1878.) Property held by an assignee, under a valid assignment for the benefit of creditors, is not subject to attachment or garnishment for the assignor's debts. Schlueter v. Raymond Bros. & Co., 7 Neb. 281.

www.tibtool.com.cn

Digitized by Google

92. (1888.) Property of a debtor in the hands of his assignee for the benefit of creditors, is not subject to execution under a judgment against the debtor. Smith, Frazier & Co. v. Taylor & Co., 25 Neb. 260 (41 N. W. 154).

www.libtool.com.cn

Effect on relation of creditor and debtor.

93. (1880.) A debtor cannot change his relations to his creditors by a voluntary assignment. Gross v. Bunn, 10 Neb. 217 (4 N. W. 1048).

III. QUALIFICATION AND TENURE OF ASSIGNEE.

In general.

94. (1879.) The clerk of a district court may act as assignee, and his approval of his own bond does not render his acts void. But he may be required at any time to give additional security. Brahmstadt v. McWhirter, 9 Neb. 6 (2 N. W. 232; 31 Am. Rep. 396).

95. (1891.) Mandamus lies to compel sheriff who has been succeeded as assignee who has been chosen by the creditors to quitclaim to his successor all real estate conveyed by the assignment. Strunk v. State, ex rel. Lipp, 33 Neb. 322 (50 N. W. 14).

96. (1898.) Where property is assigned to the sheriff and his successors in office in trust for the benefit of the creditors of the assignor, on the expiration of the term of the then sheriff the execution of the trust devolves upon his successor in office, in case the assignee chosen by the creditors fails to qualify and enter upon the duties of assignee. Maul v. Drexel, 55 Neb. 446 (76 N. W. 163).

IV. ADMINISTRATION OF ASSIGNED ESTATES.

See, also, ante, § 1.

Authority of assignee in general.

97. (1896.) Except as authorized by statute, the assignee under a voluntary assignment for the benefit of creditors may not assert rights beyond those which the assignor might assert in the absence of the assignment, the assignee, except as otherwise provided, representing the assignor and not the creditors. Lancaster County Bank v. Gillilan, 49 Neb. 165 (68 N. W. 352).

98. (1893.) Under the provisions of sections 42 and 43 of the assignment law, the rights of the assignee to recover property fraudulently transferred by the assignor are similar to those of a judgment creditor and must be enforced according to the forms of law. He is not authorized to forcibly seize and take property on the assumption that it was transferred by his assignor in fraud of the rights of creditors. Brown v. Farmers & Merchants Banking Co., 36 Neb. 434 (54 N. W. 671).

Representation of creditor.

99. (1898.) An assignee under a deed of voluntary assignment represents creditors of the assignor only to the extent that he is expressly authorized to do so by statute. Blair State Bank v. Stewart, 57 Neb. 58 (77 N. W. 370).

Collection and distribution of assets.

100. (1881.) The assignee is under the control and direction of the district court, and it is the duty of such assignee to collect and apply the whole estate to the payment of the debts as speedily as possible. Lininger v. Raymond, 12 Neb. 167 (10 N. W. 716). [Overruled. 13 Neb. 298; 49 Neb. 165.]

101. (1884.) It is necessary for the assignee to take possession of the assigned estate, but so far as the formal act of taking possession is concerned, no stricter rule applies than in case of ordinary purchase. A formal delivery of the keys to storehouses, safe, and shops, accompanied by a pointing out and surrender of possession of stock in pens, horses, harness, wagon, etc., in barns is sufficient. Sullivan v. Smith. 15 Neb. 476 (19 N. W. 620; 48 Am. Rep. 354).

102. (1903.) In an action in equity against a grantee who is charged with a trust in favor of all other creditors of the grantor, the court will distribute the assets to all creditors, parties to the suit, in proportion to their respective claims. National Wall Paper Co. v. Columbia Nat. Bank, 68 Neb. 47 (93 N. W. 1004).

Custody and management of estate.

103. (1879.) Under the statute the entire proceedings are under the supervision and control of the district court or the judge thereof, and it is the duty of the court or judge, upon proper application, to see that the assignee properly discharges the duties of his trust. Lininger v. Raymond, 9 Neb. 40 (2 N. W. 359).

104. (1892.) The funds of an insolvent debtor which come into the hands of the assignee are within the jurisdiction of the court, and that court will proceed to ne the rights of the creditors thereto, bject to the limitations of the con-

Digitized by Google

, will grant the proper relief even extent of recognizing and enforcing . The jurisdiction of a court of in such cases is concurrent only.
v. Coburn, 35 Neb. 530 (53 N. W.

ing assignee to turn over property uccessor.

(1891.) A district court has auto issue mandamus to compel a who has been succeeded as assignee itors, to quitclaim to his successor estate conveyed by the assignment, ection 5, chapter 6, of Compiled
. . Strunk v. State, ex rel. Lipp, 33
2 (50 N. W. 14).

assets.

(1878.) Where an assignment con-provision authorizing the assignee pose of the same in any manner ver as freely and lawfully as the could do himself, which the said the second part, trustee as afore-ay deem advisable to do, tending in ion to convert the same into money, benefit of all interested, held, that thorized a sale on credit, and ren-ne instrument void on its face. *Mc-
v. Allen*, 7 Neb. 21 (29 Am. Rep.

(1881.) After the sale of goods nade by an assignee, he may, if he repurchase them for his own priand benefit. Lininger v. Raymond,
19 (9 N. W. 550).

of assignee to question sale by as-nor.

(1882.) Under a voluntary assign-ne assignee represents simply the
, and not his creditors, respecting igned property, and hence will not nitted to urge that a sale of the previous to the assignment was ent as to the creditors of the asin order to defeat it. Housel v.
13 Neb. 298 (14 N. W. 398).

(1898.) A conveyance executed by gnor before the assignment cannot iled by the assignee on the ground was made to hinder, delay, or dereditors, unless such creditors have ly authorized an action to be for that purpose. Blair State Bank v. Stewart, 57 Neb. 58 (77 N. W. 370).

110. (1898.) An assignee under a deed of general assignment cannot, without the written consent of creditors, assail a conveyance made by his assignor, except on the ground that such conveyance was in contravention of section 42 or section 43 of the assignment law (Comp. Stats., ch. 6). Blair State Bank v. Stewart, 57 Neb. 64 (77 N. W. 372).

Actions.

——— By assignee.

111. (1883.) The assignor cannot come in as a defendant in an action by a single creditor in attachment proceeding. Ashton v. Jones, 14 Neb. 426 (16 N. W. 434).

112. (1885.) An assignee for the benefit of creditors under a valid assignment may maintain an action to set aside a sale of real estate under an attachment levied after the execution and delivery of the deed of assignment, where such sale would impair or defeat his title as assignee. Smith v. Jones, 18 Neb. 481 (25 N. W. 624).

113. (1899.) An assignee, for the benefit of creditors, to whom possession of the trust property has been delivered, may maintain an action for conversion against one who wrongfully seizes such property. Miller v. Waite, 59 Neb. 319 (80 N. W. 907). [Rehearing 60 Neb. 431.]

113*a*. (1900.) An assignee has such an interest in the property as will maintain an action for conversion. Miller v. Waite, 60 Neb. 431 (83 N. W. 355).

114. (1900.) An assignee of property assigned for the benefit of creditors who is in the peaceable and undisputed possession thereof has a possessory title therein sufficient to maintain an action for conversion against those who illegally and without authority obtain possession of such property, and unlawfully convert the same to their own use, even though the deed of assignment be invalid for want of being filed for record within twenty-four hours from its execution, as provided by statute. Miller v. Waite, 60 Neb. 431 (83 N. W. 355).

——— Attachment or garnishment against assignee.

115. (1885.) Where property is delivered to a deputy sheriff, under an assignment for creditor, when such officer came to levy an attachment thereon, and he accepted the trust and delivered the same to the sheriff, and an assignee is chosen by the creditors, the assignee, in an action of replevin, is entitled to possession of the property as against attachment levied three days after the delivery to the sheriff. Wells v. Lamb, 18 Neb. 352 (24 N. W. 682).

Digitized by Google

116. (1896.) In an action to hold liable as garnishee the assignee of an insolvent firm with respect to property which has come into his hands by virtue of the assignment it is immaterial whether or not the deed of assignment was witnessed, and any ambiguity in such deed will not be so construed as to render it void. Deere, Wells & Co. v. Losey, 48 Neb. 622 (67 N. W. 462). [Overruled. Sagers v. Summers, 49 Neb. 459.]

——— Set-off.

117. (1894.) In a proceeding by an assignee to foreclose a mortgage, the property of an insolvent bank, the purchaser from the mortgagor who is made a defendant therein, may set off against the claim of the assignee an indebtedness due to him from the bank. Salladin v. Mitchell, 42 Neb. 859 (61 N. W. 127).

118. (1894.) The defendant, in an action by the assignee to recover money due to an insolvent banking corporation, may set off against the amount owing by him to the bank an indebtedness of the latter to him. Salladin v. Mitchell, 42 Neb. 859 (61 N. W. 127).

——— Parties.

119. (1891.) Where one who is the sole owner of a banking business, which corporation has never been perfected as a corporation, makes an assignment of all of his property for the benefit of creditors, and one creditor attaches the banking property on the ground that the banking company was the owner thereof, the assignee is a proper party to intervene and is not estopped by representations of the assignor to the effect that the banking business was an organized corporation. Commercial Nat. Bank v. Nebraska State Bank, 33 Neb. 292 (50 N. W. 157).

——— Pleadings.

120. (1900.) A petition which alleges that plaintiff, as assignee, was in exclusive, open and notorious possession of property assigned for the benefit of creditors, which property was illegally converted by defendants, will resist a demurrer, even though the petition shows on its face that the deed of assignment was not filed for record for ten days after its execution. Miller v. Waite, 60 Neb. 431 (83 N. W. 355).

——— Evidence.

121. (1881.) Where creditors of an assignor for the benefit of creditors attached the property in the hands of the assignee on the grounds that the assignment was fraudulent, he must show by competent evidence that the assignment was fraudulent as alleged. Lininger v. Raymond, 12 Neb. 19 (9 N. W. 550).

V. RIGHTS AND REMEDIES OF CREDITORS.

In general.

122. (1880.) Where a debtor makes a voluntary assignment of all his property under the statute of a foreign state, including lands in Nebraska, as well as a deed of said lands direct to his assignee, and a creditor seeks to recover a personal judgment in Nebraska, such debtor making a voluntary appearance in the action, the sufficiency of such conveyances to pass the title of such lands to the assignee has no relevancy in such action, and it is error to admit such deeds in evidence. Gross v. Bunn, 10 Neb. 217 (4 N. W. 1048).

123. (1886.) A creditor under the assignment law of 1877 is not precluded from suing the debtor and recovering upon his claim, but the assigned property will not be liable for the satisfaction of the judgment unless he can have the assignment set aside as being fraudulent against creditors. Morehead v. Adams, 18 Neb. 569 (26 N. W. 242).

124. (1887.) Where an insolvent debtor has made an assignment of his property, the proceeds of which have been distributed among creditors, leaving a large amount unpaid, a creditor's bill filed by the assignee, or a creditor who has proved his claim, will inure to the benefit of all creditors who have established their claims against said assigned property. Fisher v. Herron, 22 Neb. 183 (34 N. W. 365). [Decree modified. 26 Neb. 130.]

125. (1896.) A creditor who knowingly ignores a voluntary assignment and elects to enforce his claim by attachment, cannot, after an adverse judgment, share in the distribution of the estate of the assignor, where he wilfully refused to file his claim within the time allowed by law. Commercial Nat. Bank of Omaha v. Lipp, 46 Neb. 595 (65 N. W. 777).

Digitized by Google

1903.) The claims of creditors l in a hostile attitude to an assign-not be prorated with the claims of o have complied with the act, in ution of the proceeds of the as-roperty. Huddleson v. Polk, 70
(97 N. W. 624).

failure to file claim.

1900.) The failure of a creditor claim within the time fixed by the he court, does not warrant another charged with knowledge to act on ption that it will not be presented.
Bank of Commerce, 61 Neb. 22 (84
).

1900.) A court may, in its discrenit a creditor to share in the asan insolvent bank, although his not filed with the receiver within which was by a general order for the presentation of claims.
Bank of Commerce, 61 Neb. 22 (84
).

1890.) Under the assignment law ate, where the creditor of an asithout any laches on his part, is from filing his claim within the ted therefor by the county judge, afterwards present his claim for and receive a pro rata share with creditors in the assets unadmin-the time his claim is filed. *El-
o. v. Estate of Marsh*, 31 Neb. 134
. 639).

1891.) A creditor of an assignor ugh his own fault, fails to present n against the estate within the ted therefor by law, is barred from ion in any dividends or distribu-the estate of the assignor. *Clen-
v. Perrine*, 32 Neb. 155 (49 N. W.

ment to assignee.

1891.) Creditors must show not their claims are valid against the but that they have been duly pre-the assignee. Clendenning v. Per-
Neb. 155 (49 N. W. 334).

of claims.

1891.) Claims against an as-tate should be paid by the assignee direction of the court; but where ave been paid without a dividend clared, and the account of the as-which includes such payments, is by the court, the error is cured.
Clendenning v. Perrine, 32 Neb. 155 (49 N. W. 334).

Authority of assignee to compromise.

133. (1879.) A provision in an assignment, that an assignee may compromise choses in action when he deems it expedient to do so, gives authority to compromise only doubtful claims. Lininger v. Raymond, 9 Neb. 40 (2 N. W. 359).

Superiority of claims or liens to assignment.

134. (1893.) A claimant waives his right to have his claim preferred by neglecting to appeal from the order of a county judge allowing it as ordinary claims and accepting dividends from the assignee. Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association v. Morris, 36 Neb. 31 (53 N. W. 1037).

135. (1893.) It is the duty of the county judge, at the same time he audits and allows a claim against an assigned estate, to determine whether or not it is entitled to preference, and if he finds that it is, to order the same paid as a preferred claim. His decision is, in effect, a judgment, which is conclusive, unless appealed from. Anheuser-Busch Brewing Ass'n v. Morris, 36 Neb. 31 (53 N. W. 1037).

136. (1896.) The holder of an unrecorded chattel mortgage from the assignor has a right to the mortgaged property superior to that of the assignee, unless the case is one where the statute expressly confers upon the assignee the powers of a creditor. Lancaster County Bank v. Gillilan, 49 Neb. 165 (68 N. W. 352).

Estoppel to attack assignment.

136*a*. (1906.) A creditor, by participating in an insolvency proceeding begun in a sister state by a voluntary deed of assignment insufficient in form to be effectual to convey real property situated in this state, may become estopped to impeach a purported title of a purchaser of such property acquired in good faith in the progress of such proceedings. Kirkendall v. Weatherley, 77 Neb. 421 (109 N. W. 757).

VI. RIGHT OF ASSIGNOR.

In general.

137. (1883.) The assignor of property, assigned for the benefit of creditors generally, has no such interest in the distribution as will enable him to maintain an action for an injunction to restrain its appropriation by a single creditor through proceedings in attachment. Ashton v. Jones, 14 Neb. 426 (16 N. W. 434).

www.liptool.com.cn
Digitized by Google

VII. LIABILITY OF ASSIGNEE.

In general.

138. (1879.) Before the acts of February 15, 1877, Laws 1877, p. 24, the only remedy against an assignee for the benefit of creditors, where he neglected to collect the assets and render them available, or to settle the conflicting claims of creditors and adjust the respective amounts to be paid to each, was by suit in the nature of a bill in equity to enforce a settlement of the accounts of the assignee and a distribution of the assets among the creditors. Nuckolls v. Tomlin, 9 Neb. 353 (2 N. W. 875).

www.libtool.com.cn

139. (1903.) In an action against a sheriff for failure to file a deed of assignment to him, whereby the property was lost to the general creditors, it may be shown by the defendant in mitigation of damages that there are other creditors entitled to participate in the assets of the insolvent estate, but, to be available, this fact must be affirmatively pleaded in the answer. Huddleson v. Polk, 70 Neb. 492 (102 N. W. 464).

140. (1903.) Where a deed of assignment executed in favor of the sheriff, is rendered void by reason of the latter's failure to file it, and the property is thereby lost to the general creditors, the true measure of damage is the pro rata share of the creditor with all other creditors who would be entitled to participate in the assets of the insolvent estate had the assignment not been invalidated. Huddleson v. Polk, 70 Neb. 492 (102 N. W. 464).

141. (1903.) Where a deed of assignment of an insolvent person, executed in pursuance of the assignment laws in favor of the sheriff as assignee, is rendered void because of the latter's failure to have the same filed and recorded within the time required by law, and, because all of the property of the insolvent is lost to the general creditors, and there is no estate to administer under the provisions of the insolvent act, it is not a prerequisite to the maintenance of an action and the recovery of damages by a creditor, who has suffered loss by the neglect of the sheriff, to have his claim against the insolvent filed with, and approved by, the county court as though the estate was being administered in that tribunal. Huddleson v. Polk, 70 Neb. 492 (102 N. W. 464).

142. (1903.) The sureties on the official bond of a sheriff are liable for his misconduct when acting as assignee under the provisions of section 7, chapter 6, Compiled Statutes. Huddleson v. Polk, 70 Neb. 483 (97 N. W. 624).

ASSISTANCE, WRIT OF.

ANALYSIS.

Granting at chambers, § 1.
When granted, §§ 2, 3.
When not granted, §§ 4-6.

CROSS-REFERENCES.

Review of settlement of assigned estates, see Appeal and Error, § 60.

Order awarding writ of assistance as subject to review, see Appeal and Error, § 150.

To put purchaser at judicial sale in possession, see Judicial Sales, §§ 552-555.

Granting at chambers.

1. (1901.) A judge at chambers has no jurisdiction to grant a writ of assistance. Hartsuff v. Huss, 2 Unof. 145 (95 N. W. 1070).

When granted.

2. (1899.) The remedy by forcible entry and detainer and by writ of assistance in the original case are concurrent, and an injunction will not be allowed to restrain the prosecution of a case in forcible detainer merely because the district court might proceed by writ of assistance. Green v. Morse, 57 Neb. 391 (77 N. W. 925; 73 Am. St. Rep. 761).

3. (1902.) A court making a sale under a decree of foreclosure may, when necessary, issue a writ of assistance to put the purchaser in possession. Magruder v. Kittle, 2 Unof. 118 (89 N. W. 272).

When not granted.

4. (1902.) It is error to award a writ of assistance against a person who entered upon land pendente lite, claiming an independent title, not derived from or in succession to any of the parties to the suit or their privies. Merrill v. Wright, 65 Neb. 794 (91 N. W. 697; 101 Am. St. Rep. 645).

Digitized by Google

5. (1902.) One in possession of land under a void tax deed, asserting title thereunder, cannot be disposed under a writ of assistance. Merrill v. Wright, 65 Neb. 794 (91 N. W. 697; 101 Am. St. Rep. 645).

6. (1905.) Where on an application for a writ of assistance the party in possession of the premises makes a litigable claim of ownership thereof in fee, and it appears that his rights, if any, are unaffected by the decree of foreclosure and sale sought to be aided thereby, the writ should be refused. Urlau v. Ruhe, 73 Neb. 807 (103 N. W. 670; 104 N. W. 1053).

ASSOCIATIONS.

ANALYSIS.

Members, punishment of, §§ 1, 2.
Liability of members for debts, § 3.
Fines against members, § 4.
Actions by or against, § 5.

CROSS-REFERENCES.

See, also, Colleges and Universities; Corporations; Joint Stock Companies; Partnership.

Agricultural societies, see Agriculture.

Mutual benefit insurance companies, see Insurance, §§ 692-776.

Members, punishment of.

1. (1896.) The mere fact that a director had a special interest in the infliction of punishment upon a member of a voluntary association for the violation of its regulations did not, in the absence of objection on the ground of disqualification of such director to act as a trier of the accused, so far invalidate the findings and order of the board of directors, acting within the scope of its powers, that such findings and order, in a collateral proceeding in the district court, ought to be treated as of no force or validity. Jackson v. South Omaha Live Stock Exchange, 49 Neb. 687 (68 N. W. 1051).

2. (1896.) Where articles of incorporation of a voluntary association provided that it should be managed through by-laws and by a board of directors having power to punish infractions of the rules, regulations in the form of by-laws are as binding on members as though constituting part of the articles of incorporation. Jackson v. South Omaha Live Stock Exchange, 49 Neb. 687 (68 N. W. 1051).

Liability of members for debts.

Liability of member of religious society for debt, see Religious Societies, §§ 39-40.

3. (1894.) One is not liable for the debts of a voluntary unincorporated association incurred by it at the time when he was not a member thereof, unless by express contract, based on a good consideration, which must be alleged and proved. Hornberger v. Orchard, 39 Neb. 639 (58 N. W. 425).

Fines against members.

4. (1896.) In an action to enjoin the collection of a fine assessed against members of a voluntary association for the violation of its rules, disputed questions of fact cannot, as by a reviewing court, be examined, there being no proper proof of the nature of such evidence. Jackson v. South Omaha Live Stock Exchange, 49 Neb. 687 (68 N. W. 1051).

Actions by or against.

5. (1902.) A voluntary association, unincorporated, which is not organized to carry on some trade or business or to hold property in this state, and does not in fact carry on a trade or business or hold property therein, cannot sue or be sued as such. Cleland v. Anderson, 66 Neb. 252 (92 N. W. 306).

Digitized by Google

ASYLUMS.

ANALYSIS.

www.libtool.com.cn

Control and regulation, §§ 1-3.
Status of Home for Friendless, § 4.
Title to property of Home for Friendless, §§ 5, 6.
Institution for blind, for educational purposes, § 7.
Rights of inmates of blind institution, § 8.
Trustees, election of, § 9.
Salary of superintendent, § 10.
Removal of hospital superintendent, §§ 11, 12.

CROSS-REFERENCES.

Application for commitment, see Insane Persons, § 18.

Commitment of dipsomaniacs to, see Insane Persons, §§ 18a-20.

Commitment of incompetents to, see Insane Persons, §§ 18-20.

Compelling approval of officer's bond, see Mandamus, § 149.

Control and regulation.

1. (1877.) The institution for the blind is not, within the meaning of section 19, article V of the constitution, an educational institution, and therefore is within the control of the board of public lands and buildings. State, ex rel. Davis, v. Bacon, 6 Neb. 286.

2. (1899.) By section 4 of the act establishing the Home for the Friendless (Sess. Laws 1881, p. 247, ch. 52) the Society of the Home for the Friendless was given supervision of the institution subject to the paramount authority of the board of public lands and buildings. Society of Home for the Friendless v. State, 58 Neb. 447 (78 N. W. 726).

3. (1899.) The supervision given to the Society for the Friendless over the Home for the Friendless by Laws 1881, ch. 52, was a mere privilege, and not a vested, irrevocable right. It depended upon the statute and was entirely extinguished when section 4 was repealed. Society of Home for the Friendless v. State, 58 Neb. 447 (78 N. W. 726).

Status of Home for Friendless.

4. (1899.) The institution established under the authority of the act of February 28, 1881, entitled "An act to establish a home for the friendless in the state of Nebraska, and to provide for the erection and location and government of the same," is a state institution. Society of Home for the Friendless v. State, 58 Neb. 447 (78 N. W 726).

Title of property of Home for Friendless.

5. (1899.) Real estate purchased by the board of public lands and buildings upon which to erect a home for the friendless was conveyed to "the state of Nebraska for the use and benefit of the home for the friendless." Held, That the clause, "for the use and benefit of the home for the friendless," was not designed to create a trust, but was merely descriptive of the use to which the property should be devoted by the state. Society of Home for the Friendless v. State, 58 Neb. 447 (78 N. W. 726).

6. (1899.) In establishing a home for the friendless under the authority of act February 28, 1881, the board of public lands and buildings could not lawfully purchase a building site and take the title thereto to the state in trust for the Society of the Home for the Friendless. Society of Home for the Friendless v. State, 58 Neb. 447 (78 N. W. 726).

Institution for blind, for educational purposes.

See, also, ante, § 1.

7. (1895.) The institution for the blind at Nebraska City is one for "educational purposes" within the meaning of section 19, article V of the constitution, and is not an asylum. Curtis v. Allen, 43 Neb. 184 (61 N W. 568).

Rights of inmates of blind institute.

8. (1895.) The mere fact that persons are blind, poor, and indigent does not entitle them to any privilege in the institution for the blind at Nebraska City, except to receive an education, and incidentally aid and support as thereby shall be ered necessary. Curtis v. Allen, 43 184 (61 N. W. 568).

Digitized by Google

tees, election of.

(1895.) Session Laws, 1875, p. 150, on 2, providing for the election by the ature of trustees for the institution he blind, is repugnant to section 10, e V of the constitution, and was by repealed. State, ex rel. Horne, v. mb, 46 Neb. 88 (64 N. W. 437).

y of superintendent.

(1899.) House Roll 615 passed by egislature of 1897, appropriating $2,500 ear as salary for the superintendent of ospital for the insane, held to express ntention of the legislature. State v. tt, 59 Neb. 106 (80 N. W. 499).

Removal of hospital superintendent.

11. (1895.) The provisions of section 7, article 7, chapter 83, Compiled Statutes, for the hearing of charges, before the board of public lands and buildings, against certain state officers, does not repeal the prior provisions for the removal, by the governor for cause, of the superintendent of the hospital for the insane. State, ex rel. Attorney General, v. Hay, 45 Neb. 321 (63 N. W. 821).

12. (1895.) A finding that a superintendent of the state hospital for insane had, through his employees and attendants wantonly abused and maltreated patients, and administered sedatives to them in harmful and dangerous quantities, held sufficient to sustain an order of the governor removing him from office. State, ex rel. Attorney General, v. Hay, 45 Neb. 321 (63 N. W. 821).

ATTACHMENT.

ANALYSIS.

NATURE AND GROUNDS.

(A) Nature of remedy, causes of action and parties.

Nature and purpose of remedy, §§ 1-5.

Actions on which attachment is authorized.

——— On overdue note or bill, § 6.

——— Implied contract, § 7.

——— Action on covenant, § 8.

——— On unliquidated demand, §§ 9, 10.

——— Debt not due, §§ 11-19.

——— Action for tort, §§ 20, 21.

——— Revival of judgment, § 22.

Parties, § 23.

Persons liable, § 24.

(B) Grounds of attachment.

Necessity of grounds, § 25.

Absconding, absence, or concealment, §§ 26-30.

Insolvency of debtor, §§ 31-33.

Belief that one is a silent partner, § 34.

Removal from jurisdiction, §§ 35, 36.

Fraudulent transfer or disposition of property.

——— In general, §§ 37-42.

——— Transfers as security, 43-46.

Non-residence, §§ 47-51.

Fraud in contracting debt, § 52.

Evidence as to grounds, §§ 53, 54.

PROPERTY SUBJECT TO ATTACHMENT.

Interest in mortgaged property, §§ 55-59.

Homesteads, § 60.

Heir's interest in estate, § 61.

Equitable interest in realty, § 62.

Property delivered to bailee or carrier, §§ 63, 64.

Accounts, § 65.

Negotiable bill or note, §§ 66, 67.

www.libtool.com.cn

Digitized by Google

Property in custody of the law, §§ 68-71.
——— Property in hands of assignee for creditors, §§ 72, 73.

III. PROCEDURE TO PROCURE.
(A) Jurisdiction and venue.
In general, §§ 74, 75.
Jurisdiction of justice of the peace, §§ 76, 77
Jurisdiction over defendant, §§ 78, 79.
Jurisdiction of property, §§ 80-82.
Special appearance to object to jurisdiction, § 83.
Waiver of objections, §§ 84, 85.
(B) Affidavits.
Who may take, and verification, §§ 86-88.
Effect of omitting affiant's name from, § 89.
Time for application, § 90.
Knowledge or information, § 91.
Single affidavit for several orders, § 92.
Necessity and sufficiency of averments.
——— As to parties, §§ 93-99.
——— Property of defendant in jurisdiction, § 100.
——— Residence of defendant, § 101.
——— Intent of act of defendant, § 102.
——— Indebtedness of defendant, § 103.
——— Nature of demand, §§ 104-109.
——— Nature of demand, variance, §§ 110, 111.
——— Grounds for attachment, §§ 112-122.
Amendments, §§ 123-129.
Effect of want of venue, § 130.
Waiver of defects or objections, §§ 131-133.
Curing defects by subsequent affidavit, § 134.
Reference to petition to supply defects, § 135.
(C) Security.
When may be demanded, § 136.
Necessity of, when defendant non-resident, §§ 137-141.
Sufficiency and validity, §§ 142, 143.

IV. WRIT OR WARRANT.
Necessity of written application, § 144.
Authority to issue, §§ 145, 146.
Time for allowance, § 147.
Issuing on Sunday or holidays, §§ 148, 149.
Parties, § 150.
Requisites and validity, §§ 151-160.
Review of refusal to grant, §§ 161, 162.

V. LEVY, LIENS, CUSTODY AND SALE OF PROPERTY.
Sufficiency and validity of levy, §§ 163-167.
Service of writ or warrant, § 168.
Care and custody of property, § 169.
Inventory and appraisement, §§ 170-171.
Liens.
——— Creation and existence, §§ 172-181.
——— Interests affected, §§ 182-187.
——— Rights acquired, §§ 188-191.
——— Forfeiture and termination, §§ 192-195.
——— Continuation on appeal, §§ 196, 197.
——— Merger with judgment, § 198.
Priorities between attachments, §§ 199-208.
Priorities between attachments and other liens or claims, §§ 209-217.
Release of exempt property by sheriff, §§ 218, 219.

Digitized by Google

Delivery bonds, effect and liability.
——— In general, §§ 220, 221.
——— Bond, §§ 222-226.
——— Effect on attachment, §§ 227, 228.
Sale of property.
——— Mode and conduct, §§ 229, 230.
——— Preventing, and vacating, §§ 231-234.
——— Title and right acquired by purchaser, §§ 235-239.
——— Confirmation of sale, § 240.
——— Disposition of proceeds, § 241.
Costs, § 242.

VI. PROCEEDINGS TO SUPPORT OR ENFORCE.
Commencement of action, §§ 243-245.
Notice of action, § 246.
Appearance, § 247.
Process and service, §§ 248-253.
Affidavit for publication, §§ 254-256.
Limitations, § 257.
Pleadings, §§ 258-262.
Judgment, §§ 263-271.
Effect of judgment on subsequent purchaser, § 272.
Deficiency execution, § 273.

VII. QUASHING, VACATING, DISSOLUTION, OR ABANDONMENT.
Grounds for quashing, vacating, or dissolving, §§ 274-284.
Persons entitled to move, §§ 285-291.
Persons entitled to be heard, § 292.
Time for attacking attachment, §§ 293-299.
Notice of motion, § 300.
Estoppel to deny defendant's title, §§ 301-304.
Burden of proof on denial of affidavit, §§ 305-312.
Evidence.
——— Burden of proof, §§ 313, 313a.
——— Admissibility, §§ 314-319.
——— Sufficiency, §§ 320-337.
Hearing.
——— Nature of hearing, § 338.
——— Continuance, § 339.
——— Reception of evidence, § 340.
——— Right to open and close, §§ 341, 342.
Issues and questions determined, §§ 343-352.
Dissolution, §§ 353-355.
Costs, §§ 356-360.
——— Curing error by subsequent judgment, § 361.
Special findings, § 362.
Delivery bond on appeal, § 363.
Supersedeas bond, liability, §§ 364-366.
Moving for discharge on appeal, § 367.
Review.
——— Questions appealable, §§ 368-372.
——— Delivery of property on failure to file bond, §§ 373, 374.
——— Time for appeal, § 375.
——— Authority of county judge to sign bill of exceptions, §§ 376-378.
——— Presumption as to sufficiency of evidence, § 379.
——— Conflicting evidence, §§ 380-390.
——— Judgment on appeal, § 391.

VIII. CLAIMS BY THIRD PERSONS.
Intervention to contest attachment, §§ 392-399.
Trial of right of property,
——— Right of jury trial, § 400.

www.tiptool.com.cn
Digitized by Google

——— Method of procedure, § 401.
——— Evidence, § 402.
——— Judgment rendered, §403.
——— Conclusiveness of finding or judgment, §§ 404-406.
——— Review, §§ 407-409.

www.libtool.com.cn

IX. RETURN.
In general, §§ 410-412.

X. LIABILITY ON BOND OR UNDERTAKING.
Nature of action, § 413.
Requisites and validity of bond, §§ 414, 415.
Nature of liability of co-surety, § 416.
Extent of liability, § 417.
Conditions precedent, § 418.
Defenses, §§ 419, 420.
Parties, § 421.
Set-off, §§ 422-425.
Damages, §§ 426, 427.
Pleadings, §§ 428-433.
Evidence.
——— Burden of proof, §§ 434-436.
——— Admissibility, §§ 437-440.
Instructions, §§ 441, 442.
Directing verdict, § 443.

XI. WRONGFUL ATTACHMENT.
Nature and grounds of liability, §§ 444-446.
Persons liable.
——— In general, §§ 447-449.
——— Joint liability of plaintiff and officer, §§ 450-455.
——— Attorney, § 456.
——— Justice of the peace, and county judge, §§ 457-459.
——— Appraisers, § 460.
Jurisdiction, § 461.
Defenses, § 462.
Damages, §§ 463-469.
Pleading, §§ 470-472.
Evidence.
——— Sufficiency, §§ 473-475.
——— Admissibility, §§ 476-479.

CROSS-REFERENCES.

See, also, Execution; Garnishment; Replevin.

Proceedings for attachment of real property, as lis pendens, see Lis Pendens.

By partnership in firm name, see Partnership, § 181.

I. NATURE AND GROUNDS.

A. Nature of Remedy, Causes of Action and Parties.

Nature and purpose of remedy.

1. (1881.) Proceedings in attachment are regulated by statutes, and there must be a substantial compliance therewith to give them validity. Philpott v. Newman, 11 Neb. 299 (9 N. W. 94).

2. (1882.) Attachment is merely for the purpose of retaining the prop the custody of the law until it is mined whether the plaintiff is enti recover. Wescott v. Archer, 12 N (11 N. W. 491, 577).

3. (1882.) The object of an atta is to obtain sufficient property or cr the debtor to satisfy the judgment may be recovered. Turpin v. Coats, 321 (11 N. W. 300).

4. (1894.) Attachment, though times called an ancillary or auxilia ceeding, is nevertheless, in all e respects, a suit. The affidavit of a made to obtain the writ of attachme the affidavit of a defendant, when denying the truth of the averments plaintiff, constitute the pleadings proceeding. Jordan & McCarthy v. Dewey & Stone, 40 Neb. 639 (59 N. W. 88).

Digitized by Google

5. (1896.) Attachment is a remedy merely ancillary to the personal action. Darnell v. Mack, 46 Neb. 740 (65 N. W. 805).

www.libook.com.cn

Actions in which attachment is authorized.

——On overdue note or bill.

6. (1877.) A debt due upon a note or bill overdue is subject to attachment and garnishment. Nesbitt v. Campbell, 5 Neb. 429.

——Implied contract.

7. (1888.) In cases of bailment at common law, there has always been a choice of forms of action between actions on the case and assumpsit. Case lies for breach of duty, and assumpsit for breach of promise. A duty arises out of a promise, and the law implies a promise out of most duties. The code, while abolishing the forms of action, has preserved to a suitor all the rights and remedies known to the law. Therefore, if a promise is implied, either from a breach of duty or from the undertaking of the defendant, an attachment in a proper case will lie. Hart v. Barnes, 24 Neb. 782 (40 N. W. 322).

——Action on covenant.

8. (1892.) The action of covenant was in form and substance ex contractu, and an action under the code by a covenantee for damage on account of the breach of a covenant of warranty, after eviction under a paramount title, is for a debt arising under a contract, which may be recovered by attachment. Cheney v. Straube, 35 Neb. 521 (53 N. W. 479).

——On unliquidated demand.

9. (1883.) A claim for damages in not delivering goods purchased is not such a claim as will authorize the issuance of an attachment against a foreign corporation or a non-resident. Rouss v. Wright, 14 Neb. 457 (16 N. W. 765).

10 (1889.) Where a professional person is employed to render certain service in the line of his profession, and the testimony when construed most strongly against him tends to show mere negligence in performing the same, from which his employer suffers damages, such employer will not be entitled to an attachment against the property of such person in an action to recover such damages upon the ground that he had fraudulently contracted the debt. Rawlings v. Powers, 25 Neb. 681 (41 N. W. 651).

——Debt not due.

11. (1877.) The right to issue the attachment on a claim not due depends alone upon the fraudulent intent to defraud, hinder or delay creditors. Seidentopf v. Annabil, 6 Neb. 524.

12. (1885.) It is not a fatal objection to an attachment that it may be deducible from an examination of the petition or bill of particulars that some part of the amount stated in the affidavit for attachment is not yet due. Tessier v. Englehart & Co., 18 Neb. 167 (24 N. W. 734).

13. (1887.) R. J. & Co. sued M. in the county court and obtained an order of attachment. On motion and hearing the attachment was dissolved. Upon the trial the defendant obtained judgment. Upon error in the district court the judgment dissolving the attachment was reversed, and upon appeal and retrial of the action in the district court, at a subsequent term, the plaintiff obtained judgment. But the court made a special finding, that at the date of the commencement of the action the debt sued on was not due, and thereupon dissolved the attachment. Held, Error, and reversed. Reed v. Maben, 21 Neb. 696 (33 N. W. 252).

14. (1891.) An attachment on a claim before due can only issue in the exceptional cases mentioned in the statute, and where property is replevied from a sheriff holding it under a writ of attachment issued on a debt not due, it devolves upon the officer to prove that the jurisdictional steps preceding the issuing of the writ have been taken, in order to have the amount of such claim included in the assessment of his damages. Gamble v. Wilson, 33 Neb. 270 (50 N. W. 3).

15. (1892.) A county judge has jurisdiction, under section 238 of the code of civil procedure, to grant an attachment on a claim not due, upon the proper affidavit being made and filed, showing the existence of at least one of the statutory grounds or causes for issuing an attachment on a debt before due. Winchell v. McKinzie, 35 Neb. 813 (53 N. W. 975).

16. (1893.) An attachment will not issue on an account not due, merely on the ground that defendant is about to sell his stock of merchandise, it appearing that the defendant is perfectly solvent with assets greatly in excess of his liabilities. Caufield v. Bittenger, 37 Neb. 542 (56 N. W. 302).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

17. (1894.) An action can only be maintained on a debt prior to the maturity thereof in the exceptional cases specified in section 237 of the code. Such an action cannot be prosecuted to judgment, unless a writ of attachment has been allowed, and property seized thereunder. Cox v. Peoria Mfg. Co., 42 Neb. 660 (60 N. W. 933).

18. (1897.) An action may be prosecuted to judgment when therein a writ of attachment has been allowed under which property has been seized, although the obligation sued on did not mature until after the attachment was begun. Mosher v. Farmers & Merchants Nat. Bank, 51 Neb 55 (70 N. W. 540).

19. (1907.) A surety who has paid his principal's debt is entitled to attachment against the latter before the debt is due. Danker v. Jacobs, 79 Neb. 435 (112 N. W. 579).

——— Action for tort.

20. (1875.) An attachment, under the code of Nebraska, cannot be maintained in an action of tort. Handy v. Brong, 4 Neb. 60.

21. (1888.) Attachment will not lie in an action for a tort. Hart v. Barnes, 24 Neb. 782 (40 N. W. 322).

——— Revival of judgment.

22. (1903.) Attachment will not lie in an action to revive a dormant judgment. Farak v. First Nat. Bank of Schuyler, 67 Neb. 463 (93 N. W. 682).

Parties.

23. (1382.) An attachment by non-resident partnership in the firm name is not void. The want of legal capacity to sue must be objected to on that ground or it will be waived. Cady v. Smith, 12 Neb. 628 (12 N. W. 95).

Persons liable.

24. (1891.) Where the body of a petition states a cause of action against a bank only, though the name of its president appears in the title of the cause, there is no ground of attachment against the president alone. Bauer v. Deane, 33 Neb. 487 (50 N. W. 431).

B. Grounds of Attachment.

Necessity of grounds.

25. (1886.) To justify a party in causing an attachment to issue against the property of a debtor, at least one of the causes of attachment mentioned in the statute must exist. Walker v Haggerty, 20 Neb. 482 (30 N. W. 556).

Absconding, absence, or concealment.

26. (1879.) Mere temporary absence of a party from the state is not sufficient to justify an attachment under this provision; the party must be a non-resident of the state. Marsh v. Steele, 9 Neb. 96 (1 N. W. 869; 31 Am. Rep. 406).

27, 28. (1892.) In a legal sense a party absconds when he hides, conceals, or absents himself clandestinely with the intent to avoid legal process. Gandy v. Jolly, 34 Neb. 536 (52 N. W. 376); (1895) Smith v. Johnson, 43 Neb. 754 (62 N. W. 217).

29. (1896.) Absence for the purpose of business or pleasure is of itself not such an abandonment of one's place of abode within the state as to authorize the issuance of an attachment against him on the ground of non-residence. Johnson v. May, 49 Neb. 601 (68 N. W. 1032).

30. (1896.) One who has acquired a residence in a given place, within the meaning of the attachment law, is presumed to have abandoned his former domicile, and vice versa. Johnson v. May, 49 Neb. 601 (68 N. W. 1032).

Insolvency of debtor.

31. (1884.) The mere inability of a debtor to pay his debts is not a cause for an attachment. Parmer v. Keith, 16 Neb 91 (20 N. W. 103).

32. (1886.) Mere insolvency of the debtor, even if it exist, is not a cause of attachment. Walker v. Haggerty, 20 Neb. 482 (30 N. W. 556).

33. (1888.) Mere inability of a debtor to pay his debts is not ground for attachment. Peru Plow Co. v. Benedict, 24 Neb. 340 (38 N. W. 824).

Belief that one is a silent partner.

34. (1889.) The fact that a debtor engaged in business claims that a member of another firm is a silent partner with him, and credit is intended for him, is no ground for attachment because the creditor understood the second partnership was the silent partner. Adams County Bank v. Morgan, 26 Neb. 148 (41 N. W. 993).

Removal from jurisdiction.

35. (1883.) The mere fact of a removal of property out of the jurisdiction of a court, unless it be done with intent to defraud creditors, does not give the right of attachment. Steele v. Dodd, 14 Neb. 496 (16 N. W. 909).

Digitized by Google

36. (1883.) The fact that a debtor designs to sell his property, or to remove it beyond the jurisdiction of a court, when not accompanied by an intent to defraud his creditors, is not ground for an attachment. Hunter v. Soward, 15 Neb. 215 (18 N. W. 58).

www.libtool.com.cn

Fraudulent transfer or disposition of property.

——In general.

37. (1885.) Where the evidence shows plaintiff to be a judgment creditor of the defendant; that the defendant is a non-resident and has the equitable title to certain real estate transferred to defraud such creditor, attachment will issue to hold the property in statu quo pending a payment of the judgment. Kennard, Daniel & Co. v. Hollenbeck, 17 Neb. 362 (22 N. W. 771).

38. (1888.) Where plaintiff begins an investigation of the affairs of a partnership of which he was a member, and pending such investigation and negotiations of settlement, defendant, who was acting as attorney for the other partner, came into possession of $500 paid to the firm, attachment will lie against such attorney on the ground of fraud. Warren v. Barsby, 24 Neb. 811 (40 N. W. 314).

39. (1894.) It is a sufficient ground for attachment that members of an insolvent partnership divide between themselves the firm assets for the purpose of enabling each to claim the portion transferred to him as exempt against the partnership creditors. Cox v. Peoria Mfg. Co., 42 Neb. 660 (60 N. W. 933).

40. (1895.) The goods of a merchant may be attached on the ground of a fraudulent disposal of property, where he expresses an intention to defeat the claim of a creditor, arranges to carry out his purpose, sells his goods rapidly for cash, greatly depletes the value of his stock in a short time, and fails to give a satisfactory account of the money realized. Reed v. First Nat. Bank of Weeping Water, 46 Neb. 168 (64 N. W. 701).

41. (1897.) A showing that a merchant sold a one-third interest in a stock of goods for a worthless tract of land, and later sold the remaining two-thirds, whereon the buyer and the owner of the other one-third immediately and at night time divided the goods between themselves, states grounds sufficient to sustain an attachment. McDonald v. Marquardt, 52 Neb. 820 (73 N. W. 288).

42. (1897.) Where an attachment was issued on the ground, among others, that the defendant had disposed of his property in whole or in part with intent to defraud his creditors, and, in resistance of a motion to discharge the attachment defendant there was undisputed proof of admission by the attachment defendant that he had made such a transfer of the nature charged that no execution against him could be collected, held, that there exists no reason for assuming that the transfer must have been made subsequent to the commencement of the attachment suit in view of the fact that the attachment defendant himself placed no such limitation on his own admissions of the fraudulent transfer in question. Nebraska Moline Plow Co. v. Fuehring, 52 Neb. 541 (72 N. W. 1003).

——Transfers as security.

43. (1884.) The fact that persons owning $8,000 worth of property and owing $4,000, mortgaged this property for $4,100 and invested $3,000 in mining stock claimed to be worthless, was not such a fraudulent disposition of this property as to be a ground for attachment. Thurber v. Sexauer, 15 Neb. 541 (19 N. W. 493).

44. (1888.) Evidence that shows a debtor to be accustomed to trading any or all of his property, sending the same to different places where he owned implement stores, where he sold machinery at about cost, the fact of his giving an inventory of his stock at one place to one creditor on request will not justify an attachment by another, on a charge that he was disposing of property to defraud creditors. Reed, Jones & Co. v. Bagley, 24 Neb. 332 (38 N. W. 827).

45. (1889.) Where, by reason of fire, a merchant became financially depressed and executed a chattel mortgage upon his stock of goods to secure a creditor, and immediate possession not being given, it is not a transfer in fraud of creditors as will warrant the issuance of attachment. Feder, Nusbaum & Co. v. Solomon, 26 Neb. 266 (42 N. W. 1).

46. (1890.) A creditor may take adequate security from a failing debtor without being chargeable with seeking to hinder and to delay other creditors, but where a debtor, heavily indebted, makes a mortgage upon all his property to one creditor, the security being greatly in excess of the amount of the debt, and the effect will be to prevent other creditors from collecting their claims out of the residue, an attachment on the ground of fraudulent disposition of the property, on the facts stated in the opinion, will lie against the debtor. Smith v. Boyer, 29 Neb. 76 (45 N. W. 265; 26 Am. St. Rep. 373). [Rehearing. 35 Neb. 46.]

Digitized by Google

Non-residence.

47. (1882.) In May, 1881, defendant came to this state from Illinois, with the intention of abandoning his former residence, and commenced the erection of a dwelling on land owned by his wife, who remained in Illinois until October, 1881, when the dwelling was completed. Held, That an attachment action commenced in June, 1881, against defendant and his wife, on the ground that they were non-residents, would not lie. Swaney v. Hutchins, 13 Neb. 266 (13 N. W. 282).

48. (1896.) The question of residence, within the meaning of the statute regulating attachments, is generally one of intention, determinable from the facts of each case. Johnson v. May, 49 Neb. 601 (68 N. W. 1032).

49. (1901.) Where all the parties are non-residents, and plaintiff has no knowledge of any claim ever having been made to any property in this state by the defendant, the mere filing of a deed in this state is not a constructive discovery on the part of plaintiff of fraud in that deed. Coulson v. Galtsman, 1 Unof. 502 (96 N. W. 349).

50. (1907.) Where a defendant leaves the state with no definite intention to return, she being undecided as to her future residence, she became a non-resident within the attachment laws. Webb v. Wheeler, 79 Neb. 172 (112 N. W. 369).

51. (1907.) It is the actual residence of the debtor, and not his domicile, which determines the status of the parties in attachment proceedings. Webb v. Wheeler, 79 Neb. 172 (112 N. W. 369).

Fraud in contracting debt.

52. (1882.) Where one arranges with another to buy stock for him and draw advances on him, and under such contract draws a draft for $2,000, saying he has bought hogs, and the draft is paid, attachment will issue on the hogs. Young v. Cooper, 12 Neb. 610 (12 N. W. 91).

Evidence as to grounds.

53. (1895.) In order to sustain an attachment as against the defendant it is sufficient to establish the existence of one or more of the statutory grounds therefor as against him, without regard for the rights of other parties. Landauer, Kaim & Streng v. Mack & Co., 43 Neb. 430 (61 N. W. 597).

54. (1895.) Evidence examined, and held to sustain the statement in the affidavit for attachment on the ground that defendant has sold and disposed of his property with intent to defraud his creditors and to hinder and delay them in the collection of their claims; that he is about to sell and dispose of his property with like fraudulent intent, and is about to remove it with intent to cheat and defraud his creditors. Landauer, Kaim & Streng v. Mack & Co., 43 Neb. 430 (61 N. W. 597).

II. PROPERTY SUBJECT TO ATTACHMENT.

Effect of bankruptcy proceedings on attachment, see Bankruptcy, § 7.

Exemption of property from attachment, see Exemptions.

Attachment against assignee for creditors, see Assignments for Benefit of Creditors, § 115.

Right of attaching creditor to attach conveyance of debtor as fraudulent, see Fraudulent Conveyances, §§ 327-329.

Right to attach firm property on individual claim, see Partnership, § 165.

Interest in mortgaged property.

55. (1877.) An ordinary creditor may, by proceedings in attachment, subject the interest of a mortgagor of goods and chattels in the hands of the mortgagee to the payment of his debt. The plain, orderly course in such case is by garnishment, whereby such interest can be ordered paid over to the attachment creditor. Faulkner v. Meyers, 6 Neb. 414.

56. (1882.) A mortgagee's interest must be such as is for an ascertained right of possession for a definite period, to be attachable. Peckinbaugh v. Quillin, 12 Neb. 586 (12 N. W. 104). [Overruled. 14 Neb. 214; 45 Neb. 119.]

57. (1883.) The equity of redempton in mortgaged or pledged personal property,

Digitized by Google

even after condition broken, is such an interest as, may be reached by attachment or garnishment before judgment, and by garnishment after judgment in aid of execution. Burnham v. Doolittle, 14 Neb. 214 (15 N. W. 606). [Modified. Chicago L. Co. v. Fisher, 18 Neb. 334.]

58. (1898.) Where a junior mortgagee is without actual possession of the mortgaged chattels or the right of immediate possession, an officer, under writs of attachment, may lawfully seize the property and by a sale in gross dispose of the mortgagor's reversionary interest. Locke v. Shreck, 54 Neb. 472 (74 N. W. 970).

59. (1901.) Where a debtor has fraudulently conveyed his property with the intent to place it beyond the reach of his creditors, his interest therein remains subject to attachment. Westervelt v. Baker, 1 Unof. 635 (95 N. W. 793).

Homesteads.

60. (1882.) Lands acquired under the U. S. Homestead Act (U. S. Rev. St., p. 2296) are not subject to attachment for a debt contracted prior to the issuance of the patent. Smith v. Steele, 13 Neb. 1 (12 N. W. 830).

Heir's interest in estate.

61. (1902.) An heir who has accepted advancements in full settlement of his share of the estate has not, thereafter, an attachable interest in the property. Security Inv. Co. v. Lottridge, 2 Unof. 489 (89 N. W. 298).

Equitable interest in realty.

62. (1894.) If there is no possession of real property by an attachment defendant having an equitable interest therein, no valid levy and sale can be made upon such equitable interest, neither can it under such circumstances be subjected otherwise than by invoking the aid of a court of chancery. Shoemaker v. Harvey, 43 Neb. 75 (61 N. W. 109).

Property delivered to bailee or carrier.

63. (1888.) Barrels of intoxicating liquor delivered by the seller to a railroad, but before delivery the buyer cancels the order and never accepts the same, is not subject to attachment by a creditor of the buyer while in storage at the freight house at the place of delivery. Hershiser v. Delone & Co., 24 Neb. 380 (38 N. W. 863).

64. (1895.) Property in the possession of a factor to be sold for the benefit of his principal is not liable to execution or attachment in satisfaction of the debts of the former. National Cordage Co. v. Sims, 44 Neb. 148 (62 N. W. 514).

Accounts.

65. (1899.) Under section 214 of the code of civil procedure accounts may be subjected to the lien of an attachment. Sloan v. Thomas Mfg. Co., 58 Neb. 713 (79 N. W. 728).

Negotiable bill or note.

66. (1877.) A negotiable note or bill is not, before maturity, subject to attachment; but, if such note or bill is transfered before maturity, voluntarily or fraudulently, for the purpose of protecting the debt from the creditors of the payee, it may be attached or garnished while the same remains in the hands of such indorsee. Clough v. Buck, 6 Neb. 343.

67. (1891.) Attachment may be brought by an indorsee of a promissory note, secured by bill of sale, for property covered by latter. Gamble v. Wilson, 33 Neb. 270 (50 N. W. 3).

Property in custody of the law.

68. (1894.) The property of an insolvent bank, prior to the appointment of a receiver therefor or putting the sheriff in possession thereof by order of a court or judge, is not exempt from seizure by attachment or other legal process at the suit of its creditors. Arnold v. Weimer, 40 Neb. 216 (58 N. W. 709).

69. (1895.) Chattels garnished in the hands of a mortgagee are in custody of the law and not subject to seizure under a subsequent writ of attachment. Grand Island Banking Co. v. Costello, 45 Neb. 119 (63 N. W. 376).

70. (1896.) Even though a sheriff in possession of personal property for its safe keeping pending an application for a receiver is to be deemed to be a receiver, a proposition not determined, the levy of an attachment on a portion of such property without leave of the court is not void in the absence of any objection by the sheriff as custodian, or by the receiver, on that ground. Ackerman v. Ackerman, 50 Neb. 54 (69 N. W. 388).

71. (1898.) Assets of an insolvent bank are not subject to attachment at the suit of a creditor while they are in possession of a bank examiner acting under authority of the state banking board. Andrews v.

Digitized by Google

Steele City Bank, 57 Neb. 173 (77 N. W. 342).

——— Property in hands of assignee for creditors.

www.hbtool.com.cn

72. (1878.) Property held by an assignee, under a valid assignment for the benefit of creditors, is not subject to attachment or garnishment for the assignor's debts. Schlueter v. Raymond Bros. & Co., 7 Neb. 281.

73. (1885.) A firm being in embarrassed circumstances prepared an assignment of their property for the benefit of their creditors, and held the same ready to be delivered to the sheriff. The assignment was prepared about one o'clock A. M. on Monday, and about five o'clock P. M. of said day the deputy sheriff appeared, apparently for the purpose of levying certain attachments on the assigned property. Before any attempt was made to levy the attachments, the assignment was delivered to and accepted by him, and on the next day transmitted to the sheriff, who had the same recorded immediately, the goods being in possession of the deputy sheriff. Three days afterwards other writs of attachment were issued and levied on the property. An assignee having been chosen by the creditors, who brought an action of replevin and obtained possession of the property, held, that the assignee was entitled to the possession of the property. Wells v. Lamb, 18 Neb. 352 (24 N. W. 682).

III. PROCEDURE TO PROCURE.

A. Jurisdiction and Venue.

In general.

74. (1892.) Where a statutory cause for an attachment in an action on contract is made to appear to a court of original jurisdiction in which an action is pending, by filing the necessary affidavit and giving a sufficient undertaking, such court thereby acquires jurisdiction and may issue an attachment. Strickler v. Hargis, 34 Neb. 468 (51 N. W. 1039).

75. (1892.) Where an action upon contract was brought before a justice of the peace, and dismissed and taken by the plaintiff to the district court for review, and while pending in that court an affidavit and undertaking for an attachment were duly filed therein, and an attachment issued thereupon and levied on the defendant's property, such court has jurisdiction and the attachment is to be sustained or discharged as in other cases. Strickler v. Hargis, 34 Neb. 468 (51 N. W. 1039).

Jurisdiction of justice of the peace.

76. (1883.) In order to give a justice of the peace jurisdiction in attachment against a non-resident it must appear that the defendant had property in this state, which had been seized or levied upon; and the claim must be one arising upon contract, judgment or decree. Rouss v. Wright, 14 Neb. 457 (16 N. W. 765).

77. (1902.) The practice in attachment cases, in the county court, where the amount involved is above the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace, by chapter 20 of the Compiled Statutes, is made the same as that which prevails in the district court, and the county court has full power to hear motions to dissolve attachments and make the proper orders thereon. Dittman Boot & Shoe Co. v. Graff, 3 Unof. 165 (91 N. W. 188).

Jurisdiction over defendant.

78. (1894.) On a showing by a defendant in an attachment issued in D. county and served upon him in K. county, that at the time of filing the petition in the action he was a resident of K. county the service was properly quashed on the ground of lack of jurisdiction. Hoagland v. Wilcox, 42 Neb. 138 (60 N. W. 376).

79. (1901.) In an action by attachment against a non-resident, there being no personal service and no appearance by the defence, the petition, affidavit, published notices and proceedings down to and including the order of sale, contained as the name of the sole defendant the letters and word O. P. Buchanan. The true name of the person intended to be proceeded against was Porter O. Buchanan. Held, That this was a substantial defect and that the judgment in the attachment suit and a sheriff's sale and conveyance of the land of Porter O. Buchanan pursuant thereto were void for want of jurisdiction. Buchanan v. Edmisten, 1 Unof. 429 (95 N. W. 620).

Jurisdiction of property.

80. (1892.) An ordinary action must be brought in the county where the defendant resides, or service of summons can be made upon him; but where a debtor absconds and an attachment is issued against his property the action may be brought in the county of his former residence and where the debtor's property may be found. Gandy v. Jolly, 34 Neb. 536 (52 N. W. 376).

Digitized by Google

81. (1895.) Jurisdiction over property lawfully seized under a writ of attachment is not lost by a failure to serve upon defendant process in the main, pending action. Darnell v. Mack, 46 Neb. 740 (65 N. W. 805); (1897) Rachman v. Clapp, 50 Neb. 648 (70 N. W. 259).

82. (1895.) An affidavit filed in an action before a justice of the peace to obtain the issuance of a writ of attachment, contained the allegation "that said defendants have absconded with intent to defraud creditors," and the summons issued in the case was returned indorsed "I could not find the defendants within my county," with signature of the officer. Held, That the action was properly instituted in the county of the debtor's former residence and where property could be levied upon. Smith v. Johnson, 43 Neb. 754 (62 N. W. 217).

Special appearance to object to jurisdiction.

83. (1906.) Where the only ground alleged for the issuance of an attachment is that the defendant is a non-resident, he is not entitled to make a special appearance or to answer, attacking the jurisdiction of the court upon the sole ground that he is not the owner of the property seized under the writ. Kneeland v. Weigley, 76 Neb. 276 (107 N. W. 574).

Waiver of objections.

84. (1882.) An attachment by a non-resident partnership in the firm name is not void. The want of legal capacity to sue must be objected to on that ground, or it will be waived. Cady v. Smith, 12 Neb 628 (12 N. W. 95).

85. (1902.) Where one of several defendants denies separately plaintiff's allegations and claims in his answer sole ownership of attached property, and plaintiff traverses the claim of ownership and that question is litigated in both county court and on appeal in district court, without objection, it is too late after final judgment in favor of that defendant to assert that the district court was without jurisdiction to determine ownership of the property in that action. Alpirn v. Goodman, 3 Unof. 397 (91 N. W. 530).

B. Affidavits.

Construction of ambiguous language in general, see Affidavits, §§ 12, 13.

Who may take, and verification.

86. (1898.) An affidavit to procure an attachment, sworn to before a notary public who is plaintiff's attorney, is not a nullity, but an irregularity which cannot be attacked collaterally. Horkey v. Kendall, 53 Neb. 522 (73 N. W. 953; 68 Am. St. Rep 623).

86*a*. (1907.) Affidavits taken and subscribed before a notary public, who is also an attorney in the case, cannot be used in support of an attachment issued therein against the objections of the defendant. Malcom Savings Bank v. Cronin, 80 Neb. 228 (114 N. W. 158).

87. (1898.) A notary public who is the attorney of one of the parties to an action is not permitted to take the affidavit of his client for the purpose of procuring an attachment. Horkey v. Kendall, 53 Neb. 522 (73 N. W. 953; 68 Am. St. Rep. 623).

88. (1898.) While a notary public may not take the affidavit of his client for the purpose of procuring an attachment, the taking of an affidavit as indicated is a mere irregularity, and the affidavit is not a nullity, and its defects may therefore be cured by amendment. Dobry v. Western Mfg. Co., 57 Neb. 228 (77 N. W. 656).

Effect of omitting affiant's name from.

89. (1877.) The omission of affiant's name from body of affidavit not ground for dissolving attachment. Rudolf v. McDonald, 6 Neb. 163.

Time for application.

90. (1881.) Where a resident of Illinois, made an assignment of all his property, including lands in this state, for the benefit of creditors, a resident of that state claiming the benefit of the assignment could not maintain an attachment levied after the assignment of the lands in this state. Green v. Gross, 12 Neb. 117 (10 N. W. 459).

Knowledge or information.

91. (1883.) In the affidavit for attachment it is only necessary to state that the creditor has good reason to and does believe the defendant has property or funds belonging to the debtor. Burnham v. Doolittle, 14 Neb. 214 (15 N. W. 606).

Single affidavit for several orders.

92. (1883.) Several orders of attachment in an action may be issued at the same time, or in succession; but in such case only a single affidavit is necessary. Thompson v. Stetson, 15 Neb. 112 (17 N. W. 368).

Necessity and sufficiency of averments.

——As to parties.

93. (1884.) An affidavit for an order of attachment in the following form: (Venue)

Digitized by Google

"Charles O. Bates, one of the attorneys for the plaintiff, being duly sworn, on his oath says," etc., held sufficient. Tessier v. Crowley, 16 Neb. 369 (20 N. W. 264).

www.libtool.com.cn

94. (1885.) Where from the record before the court it appears that the person who made the affidavit for an order of attachment is the plaintiff or one of several plaintiffs, the attachment will not be quashed, although the affidavit contains no direct allegation that the affiant is the plaintiff or one of the plaintiffs. Tessier v. Englehart & Co., 18 Neb. 167 (24 N. W. 734).

95. (1880.) An affidavit for an attachment made by the attorney for the plaintiff, wherein he "swears that he is the authorized attorney of the plaintiff in the above entitled action; that he has commenced an action," etc., where it appears from the whole affidavit that the action was brought by the plaintiff, is not void. Jansen & Co. v. Mundt, 20 Neb. 320 (30 N. W. 53).

96. (1888.) The statute does not require the affiant to swear that he is the plaintiff, his agent, or attorney, and the court has no authority to inject such words into the statute. Reed, Jones & Co. v. Bagley, 24 Neb. 332 (38 N. W. 827).

97. (1893.) An affidavit for attachment is not void, although purporting in its opening clause to be that of a corporation plaintiff, where it sufficiently appears from the whole affidavit that it is that of the agent of the corporation, and that such agent in fact made oath thereto and signed it. Moline, Milburn & Stoddard Co. v. Curtis, 38 Neb. 520 (57 N. W. 161).

98. (1901.) An affidavit for an attachment, from which it does not distinctly appear that the statements it contains are the averments of some natural person making it, is insufficient to justify the issuance of the writ. Clements & Co. v. Puckett, 1 Unof. 356 (95 N. W. 796).

99. (1902.) The better practice requires the fact of agency in an affidavit for attachment or garnishment to be sworn to by the affiant and not set out by way of recital merely. Jeary v. American Exchange Bank, 2 Unof. 657 (89 N. W. 771).

——— Property of defendant in jurisdiction.

100. (1883.) An affidavit for an attachment that states in effect a claim for which an attachment will lie; that it is just; the amount which the affiant believes the plaintiff ought to recover; and one or more of the grounds for an attachment, need not in addition state that the defendant has property within the jurisdiction of the court subject to attachment. Grebe v. Jones, 15 Neb. 312 (18 N. W. 81).

——— Residence of defendant.

101. (1903.) An affidavit for attachment which states that defendant "has removed from the state of Nebraska to the state of Utah, where he now resides," shows sufficiently the non-residence of defendant to give the court jurisdiction to issue an attachment. Citizens State Bank of Wood River v. Porter, 4 Unof. 73 (93 N. W. 391).

——— Intent of act of defendant.

102. (1901.) In an affidavit for the procuring of an order of attachment, the intent with which the act complained of is committed is an essential part of the charge and its omission will, upon a motion to discharge the writ, be fatal. American Exchange Bank v. Puckett, 1 Unof. 358 (95 N. W. 796).

——— Indebtedness of defendant.

103. (1888.) Affidavit for attachment is sufficient if it state that the total amount of the claim sued on is just; it is not necessary to express belief in justness of each item of claim. Holland v. Commercial Bank, 22 Neb. 571 (36 N. W. 113)

——— Nature of demand.

104. (1884.) In stating "the nature of the plaintiff's cause of action" in an affidavit for an attachment, it is not necessary to state the facts constituting the cause of action; a condensed statement of the general nature of the claim is a sufficient compliance with the requirements of section 199 of the code of civil procedure. Dorrington v. Minnick, 15 Neb. 397 (19 N. W. 456).

105. (1888.) The affidavit must show a debt or demand arising upon contract. Hart v. Barnes, 24 Neb. 782 (40 N. W. 322).

106. (1888.) The affidavit for an attachment must show "the nature of the plaintiff's claim." If the claim appears in the affidavit to be one for which an attachment may issue, but the statement is not as full as may be desired, reference may be had to the petition. Hart v. Barnes, 24 Neb. 782 (40 N. W. 322).

107. (1897.) An attachment affidavit must contain a statement of "the nature of plaintiff's claim." Grotte v. Nagle, 50 Neb. 363 (69 N. W. 973).

Digitized by Google

108. (1897.) A statement in an affidavit for attachment that the action is one "upon an account for goods sold and delivered by plaintiff to defendant at his request" was sufficient to show that the action was one in which an attachment might issue and to give the court jurisdiction of the attachment suit. The statement that it was on an account was a general description of the plaintiff's claim, and the further words which we have quoted served to designate the kind of an account. Grotte v. Nagle, 50 Neb. 363 (69 N. W. 973).

109. (1897.) If the claim appears from the statements of the affidavit to be one for which an attachment is authorized, but its nature is not fully set forth, reference may be had to the petition. Grotte v. Nagle 50 Neb. 363 (69 N. W. 973).

——— Nature of demand—variance.

See, also, post, §§ 258-262.

110. (1884.) A discrepancy between the amount sworn to in the affidavit, and the amount of plaintiff's claim named in the order of attachment which is favorable to the defendant cannot be assigned for error by him. Tessier v. Crowley, 16 Neb. 369 (20 N. W. 264).

111. (1897.) It is required in section 199 of the code of civil procedure that in an attachment affidavit there should be set forth "the amount which the affiant believes the plaintiff ought to recover." Held, That a slight variance in the amount stated and that actually due is immaterial, and not a fatal defect in the affidavit. Grotte v. Nagle, 50 Neb. 363 (69 N. W. 973).

——— Grounds for attachment.

112. (1872.) An affidavit for an attachment is sufficient if it be in the words of the statute, and does not set forth the facts on which the allegations thereof are based. Ellison v. Tallon, 2 Neb. 14.

113. (1873.) The ground for an attachment may be stated in the affidavit in the language of the statute, without specifying more particularly the facts intended to be alleged. Tallon v. Ellison, 3 Neb. 63.

114. (1877.) In an application for the allowance of an attachment in an action on a claim not due, the better practice is to set forth in the affidavit, not merely a repetition of the language of the code, but also a statement of facts and circumstances. Seidentopf v. Annabil, 6 Neb. 524.

115. (1879.) An affidavit setting forth the existence of the grounds of attachment in the words of the statute, unaccompanied by any facts showing them to be true, will support the writ. But when such affidavit is met by the positive oath of the defendant in denial, it must be supported by competent evidence. Hilton v. Ross, 9 Neb. 406 (2 N. W. 862).

116. (1883.) Affidavit in attachment stating the defendants intention to leave the country, held, insufficient. Hunter v. Soward, 15 Neb. 215 (18 N. W. 58).

117. (1883.) Although an affidavit setting forth a ground of attachment substantially in the words of the statute will support the writ as long as it stands unchallenged by a denial, when so challenged its truthfulness must be shown by competent proof of facts, or the attachment will fail. Steele v. Dodd, 14 Neb. 496 (16 N. W. 909).

118. (1885.) An affidavit that states a debt is due, and the affiant believes justly so, and further that the creditor is about to convert his property into money for the purpose of defrauding creditors, though defective as to form, is sufficient to sustain an attachment. Tessier v. Reed, Jones & Co., 17 Neb. 105 (22 N. W. 225).

119. (1885.) The grounds or causes for the issuance of an order of attachment, being divided and separated into nine groups or subdivisions in the section of the statute providing therefor, each group or subdivision constituted but one ground or cause, and the whole of either one of such groups or subdivisions may be stated in the language of the statute in an affidavit for an order of attachment, although it contains more than one distinct allegation separated from each other by the disjunctive conjunction or. When more than one of such groups or subdivisions are used in an affidavit they should be united by the conjunction and. Tessier v. Englehart & Co., 18 Neb. 167 (24 N. W. 734).

120. (1893.) The affidavit for attachment on claim past due set out in the opinion, held, sufficient. Whipple v. Hill, 36 Neb. 720 (55 N. W. 227; 38 Am. St. Rep 742; 20 L. R. A. 313).

121. (1896.) An affidavit for an attachment setting forth the grounds therefor in the language of the statute is sufficient. Burnham v. Ramge, 47 Neb. 175 (66 N. W. 277).

Digitized by Google

122. (1897.) An attachment affidavit setting forth the nature of the plaintiff's claim, that it is just, the amount which the affiant believes plaintiff ought to recover, and the existence of one or more statutory grounds for the writ in the language of the code of civil procedure is sufficient. McDonald v. Marquardt, 52 Neb. 820 (73 N. W. 288).

www.lbtool.com.cn

Amendments.

123. (1877.) An affidavit for the issuance of an attachment may be amended by leave of the court, even if a motion to quash the proceedings is filed, because of that particular defect. Struthers v. McDowell, 5 Neb. 491.

124. (1877.) It is not error for the court to permit the officer before whom the affidavit was made to attach a venue, according to the fact, even after a motion has been filed to dismiss the attachment, on the ground of its omission. Struthers v. McDowell, 5 Neb. 491.

125. (1877.) The want of a venue, if taken advantage of by the defendant at the proper time, is a fatal defect, unless cured by amendment. And when the venue is omitted by mistake, it is proper for the court to allow an amendment in accordance with the facts. Rudolf v. McDonald, 6 Neb. 163.

126. (1892.) While an amendment of an affidavit for an attachment may be permitted when in furtherance of jutice, even on the hearing of the case, yet no new cause of attachment, which existed when the action was brought, can be brought in by amendment. Brookmire & Co. v. Rosa, 34 Neb. 227 (51 N. W. 840).

127. (1893.) An affidavit for an attachment may be amended by leave of court, even after a motion to quash the writ is filed, because of that particular defect. Moline, Milburn & Stoddard Co. v. Curtis, 38 Neb. 520 (57 N. W. 161).

128. (1893.) An affidavit for the issuance of an attachment may be amended by leave of the court even after a motion to quash the proceedings is filed, because of that particular defect. Clarke Banking Co. v. Wright, 37 Neb. 382 (55 N. W. 1060).

129. (1903.) The provisions of the code relating to amendments should be liberally contrued, but one cannot amend an affidavit in attachment so as to state a cause of action different from that stated in the original affidavit on which the writ was issued. Westover & Co. v. Van Dorn Iron Works Co., 70 Neb. 415 (97 N. W. 598).

Effect of want of venue.

130. (1872.) In a collateral action, in which the title acquired through a sale based on an order of sale and an order of attachment is drawn in question, the objection, that the affidavit upon which the attachment issued had no venue, will not be entertained. Crowell v. Johnson, 2 Neb. 146.

Waiver of defects or objections.

131. (1877.) The defendant in attachment may waive anything when it will cause no substantial injustice to the other creditors, or is not intended to guard their rights, and if he do so, a subsequent attaching creditor can take no advantage of a former by reason of any such waiver. Rudolf v. McDonald, 6 Neb. 163.

132. (1883.) An appearance in court, and filing objections to the confirmation of a sale of attached property, is a waiver of defects in the published notice to the defendants. Helmer v. Rehm, 14 Neb. 219 (15 N. W. 344).

133. (1896.) While the defendant in an attachment case may waive mere irregularities, he cannot, as against junior attaching creditors, waive a substantial departure from the mode prescribed by law for giving effect to the attachment, nor can he waive defects which prejudice the substantive rights of such creditors. Deere, Wells & Co. v. Eagle Mfg. Co., 49 Neb. 385 (68 N. W. 504).

Curing defects by subsequent affidavits.

134. (1894.) A defect in one affidavit as to jurisdiction in attachment against a non-resident, may be supplied by another, and if enough appears from all, it is sufficient. Jones v. Danforth, 71 Neb. 722 (99 N. W. 495).

Reference to petition to supply defects.

135. (1897.) Reference may be had to the petition in the action to supply a defect in the affidavit as to the nature of the demand. Hart v. Barnes, 24 Neb. 782 (40 N. W. 322); (1897) Grotte v. Nagle, 50 Neb. 363 (69 N. W. 973).

C. Security.

When may be demanded.

136. (1893.) An officer in whose hands an attachment is placed to be levied upon goods of the debtor in the action may, where there is doubt as to the ownership of the goods, demand an indemnifying bond from the plaintiff in the attachment. Mihalovitch, Fletcher & Co. v. Barlass, 36 Neb. 491 (54 N. W. 826).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

Necessity of when defendant non-resident.

137. (1879.) In case of an attachment against a non-resident defendant no undertaking is required. In such case the statute expressly authorizes the order to be issued without giving an undertaking, and this provision invades no constitutional privilege of such defendant. Olmstead v. Rivers, 9 Neb. 234 (2 N. W. 366).

138. (1879.) Section 200 of the code of civil procedure, which authorizes an attachment against the property of a non-resident without an undertaking, is not in conflict with any provision of the constitution of the state or of the United States. Marsh v. Steele, 9 Neb. 96 (1 N. W. 869; 31 Am. Rep. 406).

139. (1883.) Where the ground of the attachment is that the defendant is a non-resident, no undertaking is required. Grebe v. Jones, 15 Neb. 312 (18 N. W. 81).

140. (1891.) The words "not a resident of the state" and "a non-resident of the state" mean the same thing, and where an affidavit for an attachment shows that the defendant is a non-resident of the state, no undertaking is necessary. Nagel v. Loomis, 33 Neb. 499 (50 N. W. 441).

141. (1903.) The filing of a bond is not jurisdictional to the right to have an attachment issued against a non-resident defendant for a debt not due. Gutterson v. Meyer, 68 Neb. 767 (94 N. W. 969).

Sufficiency and validity.

142. (1885.) An undertaking in attachment, signed by the attachment plaintiff as principal and a firm or partnership as surety, is prima facie good. Tessier v. Crowley, 17 Neb. 207 (22 N. W. 422).

143. (1885.) An attorney should not be allowed to become surety on an attachment bond, but if the clerk approve such a bond the surety is bound thereby, and the undertaking held good upon a motion to discharge the attachment. Tessier v. Crowley, 17 Neb. 207 (22 N. W. 422).

IV. WRIT OR WARRANT.

Writs in general, see Process.

Writ of execution, see Execution.

Necessity of written application.

144. (1892.) No written application for an order allowing an attachment, other than the filing of the proper affidavit, is necessary. Winchell v McKinzie, 35 Neb. 813 (53 N. W. 975).

Authority to issue.

145. (1888.) Where a county judge grants an attachment on a debt not due, and signs the order officially, it will be presumed that he is judge of the county where the order was made, and that the judge of the district court was absent from such county. Reed, Jones & Co. v. Bagley, 24 Neb. 332 (38 N. W. 827).

146. It is presumed that a writ of attachment issued by a district judge was issued in session. Cox v. Peoria Mfg. Co., 42 Neb. 660 (60 N. W. 933).

Time for allowance.

147. (1894.) The plaintiff in an action is entitled to have a writ of attachment issued when he has filed an affidavit stating the necessary facts, in a court where he has instituted an action and had summons issued, which can or may be legally served, if he had the same issued with the true intent that it shall be served. Hoagland v. Wilcox, 42 Neb. 138 (60 N. W. 376).

Issuing on Sunday or holidays.

148. (1893.) An order by a district or county judge allowing an attachment in an action on a claim not due is a judicial act within the meaning of section 38 chapter 19, Compiled Statutes, and cannot be made on Sunday or a legal holiday. Merchants Nat. Bank v. Jaffray, 36 Neb. 218 (54 N. W. 258; 19 L. R. A. 316*n*).

149. (1893.) Section 38, chapter 19, Compiled Statutes, providing that "no court can be opened nor any judicial business be transacted on Sunday, or any legal holiday," etc., does not prohibit a county judge from issuing, on a legal holiday, an order of attachment on a debt past due, since that is purely a ministerial, and not a judicial act. Whipple v. Hill, 36 Neb. 720 (55 N. W. 227; 38 Am. St. Rep. 742; 20 L. R. A. 313).

Parties.

150. (1893.) In an action against two defendants, where grounds of attachment exist against one only, the order of attachment and undertaking are properly entitled in the name of that defendant alone. Williams v. Eikenbary, 36 Neb. 478 (54 N. W. 852).

Requisites and validity.

151. (1872.) In an action in attachment a writ duly issued by the clerk, under the seal of the court, directed to the sheriff, running in the name of the territory of Nebraska, commanding the officer to attach the goods and chattels, lands and tenements, of the defendant, sufficient to satisfy a sum named,—being the sum mentioned in the affidavit, and costs of seizure,—and also commanding him to safely keep the same to abide the order of the court, and summon all proper parties as garnishees, and also the defendant, to answer the plaintiff's petition, cannot be disregarded, but will be held sufficient to support the jurisdiction of the court and its judgment thereon. Crowell v. Johnson, 2 Neb. 146.

Digitized by Google

152. (1876.) A writ of attachment which does not run in the name of "The People of the State of Nebraska," as required by the constitution, is voidable only; the defect is curable by amendment. Livingston v. Coe, 4 Neb. 379.

153. (1881.) An attachment issued by the clerk without an order, on a debt before due, on the sole ground that the defendant is a non-resident of the state, is null and void, and confers no jurisdiction on the court issuing the same. Philpott v. Newman, 11 Neb. 299 (9 N. W. 94).

154. (1882.) If a writ of attachment is issued by the proper authority, and substantially complies with the law it is at most only voidable. Moore v. Fedawa, 13 Neb. 379 (14 N. W. 170).

155. (1882.) A writ of attachment commencing "The State of Nebraska, Lancaster County," is sufficient without repeating "The State of Nebraska" before the name of the officer addressed. Moore v. Fedawa, 13 Neb. 379 (14 N. W. 170).

156. (1884.) The statute relating to attachments does not require the order of attachment to recite the making of the affidavit or the giving of the undertaking required by law. But to do so is good form. Tessier v. Crowley, 16 Neb. 369 (20 N. W. 264).

157. (1885.) In an action for goods, wares, and merchandise, it is not a fatal objection to an order of attachment issued therein that the same fails to state the plaintiff's claim, so as to show whether or not the defendant is entitled to the maximum of exemption against the same. Tessier v. Englehart & Co., 18 Neb. 167 (24 N. W. 734).

158. (1890.) Where, upon the proper affidavit being made and filed, an order of attachment upon a debt not due is obtained, such order need not appear on the face of the writ of attachment. Armstrong v. Lynch, 29 Neb. 87 (45 N. W. 274).

159. (1892.) The issuing of a writ of attachment by a county judge in an action commenced before him is, in itself, the granting of the order for attachment, and it is unnecessary for him to enter such order upon his docket. Winchell v. McKinzie, 35 Neb. 813 (53 N. W. 975.)

160. (1892.) The omission of a county judge to attach the seal of the county to an order of attachment does not render the order void. It is a mere irregularity objectionable only to the defendant. Winchell v. McKinzie, 35 Neb. 813 (53 N. W. 975).

Review of refusal to grant.

161. (1877.) In order to review a refusal of the trial court to issue an attachment on a claim not due, the record must show such facts and circumstances as will fairly indicate an intent of defendant to defraud his creditors. Seidentopf v. Annabil, 6 Neb. 524.

162. (1877.) The court or judge may, in its discretion, allow or refuse to allow the writ; but if by the abuse of that discretion a party is clearly injured by the disallowance of the writ, the decision may be reviewed on error, but to invoke the reviewing power of the appellate court, the record must contain such facts and circumstances as will fairly indicate the intent of the party. Seidentopf v. Annabil, 6 Neb. 524.

V. LEVY, LIENS, CUSTODY AND SALE OF PROPERTY.

Sufficiency and validity of levy.

163. (1887.) When a constable receives an order of attachment and proceeds to levy the same on a part of a stock of goods, and before making the inventory and appraisement other orders of attachment are placed in his hands for execution, he may properly levy upon property of sufficient value to satisfy all of such orders, and make but one return of the inventory and appraisement. In such case he cannot be charged with making an excessive levy, unless the value of the property seized exceeds a proper levy to satisfy all such orders and probable costs; and even in such case the question can only be raised by the parties to the action. As between third parties in a collateral proceeding, the levy would be valid. Connelly v. Edgerton, 22 Neb. 82 (34 N. W. 76).

Digitized by Google

164. (1894.) A levy on realty by posting a copy of the order of attachment is not effective against third persons where there is an occupant. Shoemaker v. Harvey, 43 Neb. 75 (61 N. W. 109).

165. (1901.) Special statutory provisions respecting the manner in which attachments shall be levied must be strictly pursued, and departure therefrom will render a levy invalid. Ames v. Parrott, 61 Neb. 847 (86 N. W. 503; 87 Am. St. Rep. 536).

166. (1901.) The requirement of section 205 of the code of civil procedure that a sheriff levying an attachment go to the place where property of the defendant may be found and declare that by virtue of the order he attaches such property at the suit of the plaintiff, in the presence of two residents of the county, is not complied with by a levy and declaration in the presence of two persons, one of whom is the plaintiff in the attachment. Ames v. Parrott, 61 Neb. 847 (86 N. W. 503; 87 Am. St. Rep. 536).

167. (1903.) A levy of attachment by leaving at the attached premises a copy of the writ with a tenant and then going half a mile and getting one appraiser, and then going three-quarters of a mile farther to get another, and then telling them that a levy had been made on the lands in question and swearing them and making the appraisement, does not comply with section 205 of the code, nor make a valid levy, it not appearing that the levy itself was in the presence of any witness. Citizens State Bank of Wood River v. Porter, 4 Unof. 73 (93 N. W. 391).

Service of writ or warrant.

168. (1901.) Where a copy of an order of attachment is left with the actual occupant of lands attached, having possession of the premises and apparent authority over and control of the same, the act will be a compliance with the provisions of the statute, requiring that "where the property attached is real property, the officer shall leave with the occupant thereof, or, if there be no occupant, in a conspicuous place thereon, a copy of the order," although such occupant be not the owner or lessee of such premises. Westervelt v. Hagge, 61 Neb. 647 (85 N. W. 852; 54 L. R. A. 333).

Care and custody of property.

169. (1896.) It is the duty of an officer who seizes personal property on a writ of attachment to take such property into his actual possession, and to keep it under his control and have it forthcoming to answer the judgment of the court; and for a neglect of this duty such officer and his sureties are liable to the party injured thereby. Deering & Co. v. Wisherd, 46 Neb. 720 (65 N. W. 788).

Inventory and appraisement.

170. (1898.) Where, upon the filing of inventory and affidavit, the officer refuses to call appraisers, a writ of mandamus will issue to compel him to perform that duty; and, pending the application for the writ, the attachment creditor may intervene and join with the officer in resisting the application. First Nat. Bank of Neligh v. Lancaster, 54 Neb. 467 (74 N. W. 858).

171. (1898.) It is the duty of an officer who has seized under an order of attachment property claimed to be exempt under section 521 of the code of civil procedure to cause such property to be appraised when the attachment defendant, being a resident of the state, the head of a family, and without any homestead exemption, files with such officer, or in the court from which the writ issued, the proper inventory and affidavit. First Nat. Bank of Neligh v. Lancaster, 54 Neb. 467 (74 N. W. 858).

Liens.

Effect on lien of mortgagees by attachment, see Chattel Mortgages, §§ 120-124.

Liens in garnishment, see Garnishment, §§ 50-80.

——— Creation and existence.

172. (1881.) A lien of attachment on real estate takes effect from the date of the levy, and hence a conveyance made thereafter by the owner is not a cloud upon the attachment creditor's title. Therefore a suit to remove such alleged cloud will not lie. Wright v. Smith, 11 Neb. 341 (7 N. W. 537).

173. (1885.) Where an attachment is levied upon real estate belonging to a nonresident debtor, or which it is claimed is owned by him, whether held in his own name or not, the attaching creditor acquires a lien upon the interest of the debtor, if any, in the land, which he may enforce after judgment by an action in the nature of a creditor's bill. Kimbro v. Clark, 17 Neb. 403 (22 N. W. 788).

174. (1891.) Where an attachment is levied upon real estate belonging to the debtor, whether held in his own name or not, the attaching creditor acquires a lien on the interest of the debtor in the land, which he may enforce after he recovers judgment. In such case it is unnecessary to issue an execution before bringing the action. First Nat. Bank of Columbus v. Hollerin, 31 Neb. 558 (49 N. W. 392).

Digitized by Google

175. (1901.) Where an attachment is levied on real estate fraudulently alienated by the attachment debtor and grantor, for the purpose of hindering, delaying and defrauding creditors, even though the legal title of record is in another, the attachment creditor acquires thereby a lien upon the interest of the debtor in the land attached, which he may enforce by appropriate proceedings after recovery of judgment. Westervelt v. Hagge, 61 Neb. 647 (85 N. W. 852; 54 L. R. A. 333).

176. (1901.) Where real estate is attached by a creditor of a fraudulent grantee, to whom the legal title has been conveyed in fraud of the rights of the creditors of the fraudulent grantor, and who has no actual interests therein, and who restores and reconveys the real estate to the fraudulent grantor, who voluntarily incumbers the same for the benefit of his creditors, such attachment creditor thereby acquires no valid lien on the property as against such creditors of the grantor under their liens thus acquired. Westervelt v. Hagge, 61 Neb. 647 (85 N. W. 852; 54 L. R. A. 333).

177. (1901.) Where an attachment is levied on real estate fraudulently alienated by the attachment debtor and grantor, for the purpose of hindering, delaying and defrauding creditors, even though the legal title of record is in another, the attachment creditor acquires thereby a lien upon the interest of the debtor in the land attached, which he may enforce by appropriate proceedings after recovery of judgment. Coulson v. Galtsman, 1 Unof. 502 (96 N. W. 349).

178. (1901.) Where an attachment proceeding is instituted against a defendant, who is a resident of this state, in a county in which such defendant does not reside and cannot be found, and makes no appearance, a levy on a judgment rendered on such proceeding is not a valid lien on the property of the defendant in the county in which such judgment was rendered. Nelson v. City of Beatrice, 2 Unof. 47 (96 N. W. 288).

179. (1904.) A creditor by the levy of attachment upon land acquires a specific lien sufficient to support a suit in the nature of a creditor's bill to remove obstructions from the title calculated to make a sale unprofitable, and in such case the issuance of an execution and return nulla bona is not a preliminary prerequisite. Coulson v. Saltsman, 71 Neb. 495 (98 N. W. 1055).

180. (1905.) The creditor, if he chooses, may, before reducing his claim to judgment, commence an action aided by attachment and seize the estate fraudulently conveyed by his debtor, and after judgment in the attachment suit he may enforce his lien by an action in the nature of a creditor's bill. This course may be pursued, whether the debtor is a resident of the state or a non-resident. Ainsworth v. Roubal, 74 Neb. 723 (105 N. W. 248).

181. (1906.) Where an attachment is issued and levy made upon real estate belonging to the debtor, whether held in his own name or not, the creditor acquires a lien upon the interest of the debtor in the land, which he may enforce after the recovery of the judgment, and the fact that the party holding the legal title to the land is a non-resident of the state is immaterial Kneeland v. Weigley, 76 Neb. 276 (107 N. W. 574).

——— Interests affected.

182. (1883.) Where an attachment is levied upon real estate belonging to the debtor, whether held in his own name or not, the attaching creditor acquires a lien upon the interest of the debtor in the land which he may enforce after he recovers judgment. Keene v. Sallenbach, 15 Neb. 200 (18 N. W. 75).

183. (1890.) Where a sheriff had levied certain writs of attachment upon goods of a debtor, which it was claimed had been transferred to a fraudulent vendee, his interest in the goods within the value of the property levied on would be the amount due upon the writs with legal costs. Armstrong v. Lynch, 29 Neb. 87 (45 N. W. 274).

184. (1897.) A creditor who attaches a chose in action acquires only a lien upon the interest which the defendant in the attachment suit had therein at the time the chose in action was seized. Hartford Life & Annuity Ins. Co. v. Cummings, 50 Neb. 236 (69 N. W. 782).

185. (1899.) An attachment or judgment lien on land binds only the actual interest of the attachment or judgment debtor. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. First

Digitized by Google

Nat. Bank of Omaha, 58 Neb. 548 (78 N. W. 1064).

186. (1889.) The lien attaches only to defendant's actual interest in the property. Barnes v. Cox, 58 Neb. 675 (79 N. W. 550).

187. (1903.) When an attachment is rightfully issued and levied upon property of the defendant, it creates a lien in favor of the plaintiff for the amount of his claim and for all costs, whether incident to the action or resulting from the special proceeding. Rhodes v. Samuels, 67 Neb. 1 (93 N. W. 148).

——— Rights acquired.

188. (1901.) An attachment lien on land, the legal title to which is in the attachment debtor, is subject to every equity which exists against the debtor at the time of the levy of the attachment and equity will limit the lien to the actual interest of the attachment debtor in such land. Westervelt v. Hagge, 61 Neb. 647 (85 N. W. 852; 54 L. R. A. 333).

189. (1901.) Where, pending litigation, after the levy of an attachment on real estate, a lien has been acquired by another on the same property, the person in whose favor the lien is created is charged with notice and takes subject to the rights of the plaintiff in the action wherein the attachment was levied and final judgment rendered. Westervelt v. Hagge, 61 Neb. 647 (85 N. W. 852; 54 L. R. A. 333).

190. (1901.) Where, after attachment proceedings on land fraudulently alienated, the real estate is reconveyed and restored to the fraudulent grantor, the lien of the attachment becomes thereby effective and enforceable, the same as though the conveyance in the first instance had not been made. Westervelt v. Hagge, 61 Neb. 647 (85 N. W. 852; 54 L. R. A. 333).

191. (1904.) Where a creditor has acquired a specific lien by the levy of an attachment, he is entitled to maintain a creditor's bill to remove obstructions to a sale of the premises, without reference to whether the judgment at law has, during the pendency of such creditor's suit, become dormant. Coulson v. Saltsman, 71 Neb. 495 (98 N. W. 1055).

——— Forfeiture and termination.

192. (1894.) The lien acquired by the levy of an attachment upon the property of an insolvent bank is not vacated by the subsequent appointment of a receiver for such bank. Arnold v. Weimer, 40 Neb. 216 (58 N. W. 709).

193. (1901.) Evidence examined, and found not to sustain the finding of the trial court that the Grand Island Banking Company lost its attachment lien by laches in failing to prosecute its suit. Westervelt v. Baker, 1 Unof. 635 (95 N. W. 793).

194. (1901.) Where an attachment was levied on land on December 2, 1895, and during that time another creditor obtained a judgment and mortgage security on the land, the attaching creditor is not guilty of such laches as will defeat his attachment lien. Westervelt v. Hagge, 61 Neb. 647 (85 N. W. 852; 54 L. R. A. 333).

195. (1904.) The lien acquired by attachment or garnishment is not lost by taking a general money judgment against the defendant without an order for the sale of the attached property, where the creditor has used due diligence in the prosecution of a creditor's bill. Coulson v. Saltsman, 71 Neb. 495 (98 N. W. 1055).

——— Continuation on appeal.

196. (1894.) Where an order is made discharging an attachment the filing of a petition in error and the filing and approval of a supersedeas bond within the time fixed by the court, not to exceed twenty days, operate to continue the lien of the attachment in force pending error proceedings. The issuance of a summons in error within that time is not necessary for that purpose. McDonald v. Bowman, 40 Neb. 269 (58 N. W. 704).

197. (1903.) An error proceeding from an order of a jutice of the peace discharging an attachment preserves and continues the lien of the attachment and brings the ruling of the justice before the district court for review. Rhodes v. Samuels, 67 Neb. 1 (93 N. W. 148).

——— Merger with judgment.

198. (1906.) In an action aided by attachment, upon the entry of judgment the attachment lien is merged in that of the judgment, and thereafter the lien is a mere incident to the judgment and ceases to exist when the judgment becomes dormant. Harvey v. Godding, 77 Neb. 289 (109 N. W. 220).

Priorities between attachments.

199. (1877.) A subsequent attaching creditor is entitled to no advantage over the first creditor, for the reason that the affiant's name is omitted from the body of the affidavit. Rudolf v. McDonald, 6 Neb. 163.

Digitized by Google

200. (1878.) The attachment of a note and mortgage debt is in effect a seizure of the same, and in law is regarded as an assignment to the attaching creditor of such note and mortgage, and gives such creditor the same right to enforce the payment of the money from the garnishee as the debtor himself previously had. Campbell v. Nesbitt, 7 Neb. 300.

201. (1882.) In a contest between attaching creditors the attachment first levied is entitled to priority. Moore v. Fedawa, 13 Neb. 379 (14 N. W. 170).

202. (1888.) Where a sheriff levies an order of attachment in his possession upon personal property, other orders may be levied upon the same property, subject to the prior levy, so long as he retains possession of and dominion over the property so levied upon. And, if the levy is not wrongful, a lien will be created to the extent of the amount represented by the attachments in his hands. But if after such levy the property is taken from his possession in an action of replevin he receives other orders of attachment, no lien will be created upon the property thereby. Merrill v. Wedgewood, 25 Neb. 283 (41 N. W. 149).

203. (1891.) An amended petition afterwards filed, which alleges a liability of the defendant to the plaintiff, will not take precedence of liens of other creditors which have attached since filing the original petition. Bauer v. Deane, 33 Neb. 487 (50 N. W. 431).

204. (1893.) A determination of priorities under section 946 of the code constitutes an adjudication which cannot be collateraly attacked. State, ex rel. Austrain & Co., v. Duncan, 37 Neb. 631 (56 N. W. 214).

205. (1893.) Under section 946 of the code, where several attachments are levied upon the same property, or the same persons are made garnishees in several cases, the justice issuing the order first served may, upon motion of any of the plaintiffs, determine the amounts and priorities of the several attachments; and he has authority to do this as well when the validity of some of the attachments or garnishments is disputed as when their validity is unquestioned. State, ex rel. Austrain & Co., v. Duncan, 37 Neb. 631 (56 N. W. 214).

206. (1896.) The institution of an action before the claim is due, and the issuing and levying of an attachment without obtaining an order therefor from a court or judge authorized to issue the same, is a substantial defect of which junior attaching creditors may take advantage. Deere, Wells & Co. v. Eagle Mfg. Co., 49 Neb. 385 (68 N. W. 504).

207. (1903.) Error was prosecuted from only one of several orders sustaining successive attachments and the order reversed and the final judgment affirmed. Pending a review the property attached was sold to the first attaching creditor under an order of sale issued on the judgment of such party, rendered in the attachment suit, and the proceeds applied on that judgment, the other judgments remaining wholly unsatisfied. Held, That an action for restitution would not lie against the first in favor of the subsequent attaching creditors, but that an action for money had and received could be maintained to which the defendant might interpose a counterclaim or set-off. First Nat. Bank of Pawnee City v. Avery Planter Co., 69 Neb. 329 (95 N. W. 622. 111 Am. St. Rep. 541).

208. (1903.) Where error was prosecuted from only the first of several orders sustaining successive attachments, and the order reversed, but the final judgment affirmed, and pending review, the property was sold to the first attaching creditor under the final judgment, the statute of limitation did not begin to run against an action by the subsequent attaching creditors for money received, until the first attachment was dissolved. First Nat. Bank of Pawnee City v. Avery Planter Co., 69 Neb. 329 (95 N. W. 622; 111 Am. St. Rep. 541).

Priorities between attachments and other liens or claims.

209. (1871.) Under the attachment law enacted in 1857, a bona fide purchaser of lands for value will take the same, free of the lien of an attachment, which has been levied thereon, unless an abstract of such attachment be entered in the register's office of the county. Adams v. Boulware, 1 Neb. 470.

210. (1880.) A prior unrecorded deed, passing title to the purchaser in good faith, takes precedence of an attachment, if recorded before a deed based upon the attachment. Harral v. Gray, 10 Neb. 186 (4 N. W. 1040).

211. (1885.) Where property is delivered to a deputy sheriff under an assignment for creditor, when such officer came to levy an attachment thereon, and he accepted the trust and delivered the same to the sheriff, and an assignee is chosen by the creditors, the assignee, in an action of replevin, is entitled to possession of the property as against attachment levied three days after the delivery to the sheriff. Wells v. Lamb, 18 Neb. 352 (24 N. W. 682).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

212. (1895.) The levy of a writ of attachment creates a priority over rights reserved or created by conditions contained in unrecorded notes given by the attachment debtor for the purchase price of the personal property levied upon. New Home Sewing Machine Co. v. Beak, 44 Neb. 816 (62 N W. 1092).

213. (1895.) The lien of an attachment levied after the tax list was delivered to the county treasurer is inferior to the lien of the taxes. Reynolds v. McMillan, 43 Neb. 183 (61 N. W. 699).

214. (1900.) Where an order for payment of money is not immediately effective if the fund against which it is directed is seized by attachment or garnishee process, the rights of the attaching or garnisheeing creditor are superior to those of the person holding such order. Nebraska Moline Plow Co. v. Fuehring, 60 Neb. 316 (83 N. W. 69).

215. (1901.) Where, by a valid attachment, a creditor acquires a lien upon the property of his debtor prior to other creditors, such priority is presumed to continue until it is made affirmatively to appear that his priority has been lost through laches or otherwise. Westervelt v. Baker, 1 Unof. 635 (95 N. W. 793).

216. (1904.) Where a mortgagee claims a lien on real estate through a deed filed for record subsequent to the levy of an order of attachment on the same land as the property of the grantor in such deed, the order of attachment and the return of the sheriff showing the levy being duly recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds before the recording of such deed, the mortgagee takes with notice of the rights of the attachment creditor and subject to such infirmities as inhere in the title of the mortgagor. Naudain v. Fullenwider, 72 Neb. 221 (100 N. W. 296).

217. (1904.) A prior unrecorded deed passing title to real estate, if made in good faith and for a valuable consideration, will take precedence of an attachment or judgment, if such deed be recorded before the deed based upon such attachment or judgment. Naudain v. Fullenwider, 72 Neb. 221 (100 N. W. 296).

Release of exempt property by sheriff.

218. (1882.) Exempt property held by a constable under an order of attachment issued by a justice of the peace, cannot be released under sections 522 and 523 of the code, but may be by order of the justice. State, ex rel. Tucker, v. Sanford, 12 Neb. 425 (11 N. W. 868). [Overruled.] 21 Neb. 541; 26 Neb. 240; 27 Neb. 501; 31 Neb. 462; 56 Neb. 422.]

219. (1898.) No statute exists requiring or authorizing the officer to have exempt property appraised before releasing it to the debtor. Johnson v. Bartek, 56 Neb. 422 (76 N. W. 878).

Delivery bonds, effect and liability.

——— In general.

Liability and sufficiency of general attachment bond, see post, §§ 413-443.

220. (1895.) The mere facts that the clerk of the district court, without authority, approved a delivery bond and directed the sheriff to release the attached property, in the absence of evidence of fraud or deceit practiced by the clerk, were not alone sufficient to render him liable to the plaintiffs in attachment for the loss sustained by reason of the clerk's approval of the bond and the release of the property by the sheriff in obedience to the order of the clerk. Dewey & Stone v. Kavanaugh, 45 Neb. 233 (63 N. W. 396).

221. (1896.) A stranger to an attachment suit who executes a redelivery bond under section 206 of the code is bound to deliver the property attached in his hands, or its appraised value in money to answer the judgment in the case. Cooper v. Davis Mill Co., 48 Neb. 420 (67 N. W. 178).

——— Bond.

222. (1894.) The sureties on a redelivery bond are not bound thereby until the bond has been accepted and approved by the officer who levied the writ. The approval need not be indorsed on the bond. Cortelyou v. Maben, 40 Neb. 512 (59 N. W. 94).

223. (1894.) Where the officer receiving a forthcoming bond in attachment notifies the defendant that he rejects the bond on account of insufficiency of the sureties thereon, and it does not appear that the attached property was ever surrendered to the defendant, the sureties are not liable in an action on such bond. Cortelyou v. Maben, 40 Neb. 512 (59 N. W. 94).

224. (1894.) Where a redelivery bond is rejected, the sureties are not estopped from asserting that their principal never received the attached property from the officer. Cortelyou v. Maben, 40 Neb. 512 (59 N. W. 94).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

225. (1895.) A delivery bond executed in pursuance of code of civil procedure, section 206, can be approved only by the officer holding the writ of attachment. Dewey & Stone v. Kavanaugh, 45 Neb. 233 (63 N. W. 396).

226. (1896.) Section 206 of the code of civil procedure provides that an officer who has levied a writ of attachment shall deliver the attached property to the person in whose posession it was found, upon his execution, with sureties, of an undertaking that the parties to the same are bound in double the appraised value thereof, that the property or its appraised value in money shall be forthcoming to answer the judgment of the court in the action. A stranger to the attachment suit in whose possession the attached property is found, and who has given such an undertaking, cannot, after judgment and order of sale in the attachment case, be heard to assert, in an action upon the undertaking, that he himself and not the attachment defendant was the owner of the property. Cooper v. Davis Mill Co., 48 Neb. 420 (67 N. W. 178).

——— Effect on attachment.

227. (1879.) The giving of a delivery undertaking, as provided in section 206 of the code of civil procedure, neither has the effect of dissolving the attachment nor of preventing the defendant from afterwards moving its dissolution as to the whole or a part of the property attached. Hilton v. Ross, 9 Neb. 406 (2 N. W. 862).

228. (1895.) A delivery bond executed in pursuance of section 206 of the code does not discharge the attachment. Dewey & Stone v. Kavanaugh, 45 Neb. 233 (63 N. W. 396).

Sale of property.

——— Mode and conduct.

229. (1880.) When an order of sale, regular on its face and issued by a court of competent jurisdiction, is placed in the hands of an officer, he is not required to examine into the proofs upon which the judgment was rendered to ascertain the existence of any fact passed upon by the court. Zunkle v. Cunningham, 10 Neb. 162 (4 N. W. 951).

230. (1883.) The sale of land taken in attachment under an order of court is governed by the same restrictions and regulations as are provided for sales of lands under execution. Helmer v. Rehm, 14 Neb. 219 (15 N. W. 344).

——— Preventing, and vacating.

231. (1883.) An error in the description of the land in the published notice will justify the vacation of the sale. Helmer v. Rehm, 14 Neb. 219 (15 N. W. 344).

232. (1883.) A defendant in an attachment suit cannot have the aid of equity to prevent a sale of the attached property under an order of the court, on a ground that would have been equally available to him in that suit. Ashton v. Jones, 14 Neb. 426 (16 N. W. 434).

233. (1885.) Where the county court issued an order of sale for the sale of attached property, after judgment, and it is alleged that the court erred in doing so, the judgment containing no order appropriating the attached property to its payment, the proper proctice would be to move the county court for a return and vacation of the order of sale. Cozine v. Hatch, 17 Neb. 694 (24 N. W. 389).

234. (1888.) Where several attachments have issued against a debtor, and notices of garnishment served upon a garnishee, other judgment creditors will be enjoined from selling the property under execution until the determination of the priority of the several claims. Northfield Knife Co. v. Shapliegh, 24 Neb. 635 (39 N. W. 788; 8 Am. St. Rep. 395).

——— Title and right acquired by purchaser.

235. (1881.) The sale of lands under attachment divests the attachment defendant of title to the property, and is notice to third person of the pendency of the action. Day v. Thompson, 11 Neb. 123 (7 N. W 533).

236. (1885.) A purchaser, in good faith, of real estate under an order of sale issued in attachment proceedings will be held to have acquired the title of the judgment debtor even though the judgment may be opened and the defendant permitted to to make his defense under the provisions of section 82 of the civil code. Warren v. Dick, 17 Neb. 241 (22 N. W. 462).

237. (1896.) A prior unrecorded deed, passing the legal title, made in good faith for a valuable consideration, will take precedence of a title based on a judicial sale, made under an attachment or execution, if such deed be recorded before the evidence of the title based on the judicial sale is recorded. Sheasley v. Keens, 48 Neb. 57 (66 N. W. 1010).

Digitized by Google

238. (1898.) Under a sale of a non-resident's realty seized on attachment, the purchaser acquires a title not subject to collateral attack, though the publication of notice preceding the judgment might have been held defective if it had been property assailed. Brown v. Bose, 55 Neb. 200 (75 N. W. 536; 70 Am. St. Rep. 379).

www.libtool.com.cn

239. (1905.) One claiming title to personal property through a sale under attachment proceedings in a justice's court must show legal notice to the defendants of the pendency of the action and that the property claimed was attached therein. Beckwith v. Dierks Lumber Co., 75 Neb. 349. (106 N. W. 442).

——— Confirmation of sale.

240. (1881.) When real estate is attached on the ground that defendant has disposed of it with intent to defraud his creditors a third person who purchases the property at the execution sale, cannot resist the confirmation of such sale on the ground that defendant had conveyed the property prior to the levy, since that was a matter of record in the cause at the time he made the purchase. Bachle v. Webb, 11 Neb. 423 (9 N. W. 473).

——— Disposition of proceeds.

241. (1893.) A sheriff in possession of a stock of goods, pending their sale for the satisfaction of certain attachments in his hands, having sold a part of said goods, and collected claims due the attachment defendant, paid the proceeds of such sales and collections to the purchaser of the stock, who bought irrespective of such sales and collections. Held, In a suit for an accounting between the attachment defendant, who has paid all claims against him, and the recipient of such proceeds and collections, that said attachment defendant is entitled to recover the amount of such proceeds with interest from the time they were received by said purchaser. McConnell v. First Nat. Bank of Lincoln, 38 Neb. 252 (56 N. W. 1013).

Costs.

Compensation and fees of levying officer, see Sheriffs and Constables, §§ 14-19.

242. (1896.) An officer under a writ of attachment may lawfully return as costs the actual, necessary, and reasonable charges and expenes incurred in taking, removing, and preserving the attached property. Deering v. Wisherd, 46 Neb. 720 (65 N. W. 788).

VI. PROCEEDINGS TO SUPPORT OR ENFORCE.

See, also, Garnishment.

Commencement of action.

See, also, Actions, §§ 69-75.

243. (1896.) For the purpose of the attachment an action is commenced when a petition is filed and a summons issued with the bona fide intention that it shall be served. Darnell v. Mack, 46 Neb. 740 (65 N. W. 805.

244. (1891.) In this state an action is begun in the district court by filing a petition and issuing a summons thereon which is served on the defendant, and an attachment is ancillary thereto. Where, therefore, the petition makes no claim of liability against a defendant, stating no fact from which such liability may be inferred, there is no ground of attachment against him. Bauer v. Deane, 33 Neb. 487 (50 N. W. 431).

245. (1891.) An action is considered commenced, so far as the right to issue a writ of attachment is concerned, as soon as the petition is filed in the proper court, and a summons is issued thereon with a bona fide intent that it shall be served. Coffman v. Brandhoeffer, 33 Neb. 279 (50 N. W. 6).

Notice of action.

246. (1885.) It is not necessary to give a decription of the attached property in the notice of the pending of an attachment suit. Notice of the action is sufficient. Warren v. Dick, 17 Neb. 241 (22 N. W. 462).

Appearance.

See, also, Appearance.

247. (1888.) Defendants in attachment by appearing and answering to the merits of the action waive the objection of want of service of summons in the action. Reed v. Fletcher, 24 Neb. 435 (39 N. W. 437).

Process and service.

Process in general, see Process.

248. (1882.) Where an attachment is levied upon the real estate of a non-resident, and service of summons is not made upon him, the court posesses no power to render judgment against him and order a sale of his property to satisfy the same, unless publication has been made as required by law, and the notice should contain a description of the property attached. Wescott v. Archer, 12 Neb. 345 (11 N. W. 491, 577). [Overruled. 15 Neb. 312; 46 Neb. 740.]

Digitized by Google

249. (1882.) No summons need be issued on a non-resident debtor in attachment, where he has real estate here. Wescott v. Archer, 12 Neb. 345 (11 N. W. 591, 577).

250. (1883.) Where the decription of attached property in a notice by publication includes the property attached, it is not void, although the decription be in general terms. Grebe v. Jones, 15 Neb. 312 (18 N. W. 81).

251. (1886.) The rule is well settled that process of garnishment served upon a non-resident of the state, but temporarily within it, is not effectual as an attachment. Wright v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 19 Neb. 175 (27 N. W. 90; 56 Am. Rep. 747).

252. (1892.) Where an action is instituted by attachment against an absconding debtor in the county from which he absconded, process may be served upon him in any other county of the state, and a judgment rendered on such service will be valid unless he appears and contests the right to maintain the action there. Gandy v. Jolly, 35 Neb. 711 (53 N. W. 658; 37 Am. St. Rep. 460).

253. (1895.) Jurisdiction of the defendant cannot be acquired by service by publication, in an action for the recovery of money, under the third clause of section 77 of the code, unless the defendant is a non-resident of the state, or a foreign corporation having property in this state, or debts owning to him, which are sought to be taken by some provisional remedy, or to be appropriated by judicial proceedings. Welch v. Ayers, 43 Neb. 326 (61 N. W. 635).

Affidavit for publication.

254. (1872.) An objection that a proper affidavit for publication of notice of the pendency of the suit, cannot be raised in a collateral action attacking the title acquired by the attachment sale. The court obtains jurisdiction by the levy of the attachment, and subsequent irregularities render the judgment in a proper proceeding voidable, but not void. Crowell v. Johnson, 2 Neb. 146.

255. (1889.) Where the affidavit for an attachment of real estate and for service upon the defendant by publication shows the essential facts to confer jurisdiction, the court will look at both, and if a defect in the affidavit for publication is supplied in the affidavit for an attachment it will be sufficient. Miller v. Eastman, 27 Neb. 408 (43 N. W. 179).

256. (1896.) In an action in a justice court an attachment affidavit alleging that defendant absconded with intent to defraud creditors was sufficient to authorize constructive service, where the officer to whom the summons was directed made a return that he could not find defendant in the county. Smith v. Johnson, 43 Neb. 754 (62 N. W. 217).

Limitations.

257. (1901.) Where all the parties are non-residents, the issuance of an attachment and levy upon real estate within four years after a fraudulent transfer will prevent the running of the statute of limitations, if the attachment proceedings are promptly followed up with a creditor's bill. Coulson v. Galtsman, 1 Unof. 502 (96 N. W. 349).

Pleadings.

Variance, see, also, ante, §§ 110, 111.

258. (1876.) A petition headed "Supreme Court of the State of New York," and filed in a district court of this state, is not sufficiently defective to warrant the dissolution of an attachment issued in the cause. Livingston v. Coe, 4 Neb. 379.

259. (1879.) Failure to attach a copy of the instrument sued on, in attachment, can be taken advantage of only by a motion requiring such copy to be given. Olmstead v. Rivers, 9 Neb. 234 (2 N. W. 366).

260. (1894.) A creditor in suing on a claim not due and attaching the debtor's goods need not set out in his petition the ground of attachment, but may state it in his affidavit. Cox v. Peoria Mfg. Co., 42 Neb. 660 (60 N. W. 933).

261. (1897.) Where an attachment affidavit varies from an amended petition in the statement of the specific kind of an account in suit, and the defendant, by answering the amended petition and taking part in a trial of the issues joined, has waived the right to further object to the error, if any, in allowing the amended petition to be filed, in which it was claimed that a new cause of action was introduced, in that in the amended petition an account different in its particular character from that pleaded in the original petition was declared upon, held, that inasmuch as a reference to the petition would disclose the precise nature of the account, and hence the action could be pleaded in bar of a second attachment on the same account, the court did not err in overruling a motion to discharge the attachment on the ground, in substance, that it did not state the nature of plaintiff's claim as contained in the amended petition. Grotte v. Nagle, 50 Neb. 363 (69 N. W. 973).

Digitized by Google

262. (1902.) Where an order of attachment issues in an action, and property is levied upon thereunder, and an amended petition is subsequently filed, which, in addition to the cause of action stated in the original petition, sets forth another and different cause of action, and the first cause of action is dismissed before trial, the attachment is thereby dissolved, and an order for the sale of the attached property, in satisfaction of the judgment rendered on the second cause of action, is erroneous. Holway v. American Exchange Nat. Bank, 64 Neb. 67 (89 N. W. 382).

Judgment.

263. (1872.) In a collateral action, a judgment in attachment which recites a finding of a certain sum due the plaintiff, and runs against the property attached on the provisional order, and directs its sale, and does not run against the defendant personally, is not void. Crowell v. Johnson, 2 Neb. 146.

264. (1872.) All questions which may be raised upon the proceedings of the sheriff in executing the order of sale are concluded by the confirmation, and cannot be opened in a collateral action. Crowell v. Johnson, 2 Neb. 146.

265. (1877.) The true rule of practice is, that where property is seized under an order of attachment, and no question of ownership is raised nor any fraud or collusion charged, final judgment in the action concludes all inquiry, by third persons, concerning the validity or regularity of the proceedings, no matter how erroneous they may have been, provided the court had jurisdiction. Rudolf v. McDonald, 6 Neb. 163.

266. (1895.) A finding by a justice of the peace, in an attachment suit, of the sum due plaintiff, an assessment of plaintiff's recovery, and an order of sale of the attached property, is but a judgment in form against defendants, and where the only relief sought is to subject the attached property to the payment of the debt, is sufficient as an entry, both in form and in substance, and is not void. Smith v. Johnson, 43 Neb. 754 (62 N. W. 217).

267. (1898.) An attachment based on a false affidavit of defendant's non-residence is void. German Nat. Bank v. Kautter, 55 Neb. 103 (75 N. W. 566; 70 Am. St. Rep. 371).

268. (1898.) Where plaintiff in attachment seizes a resident's property as that of a non-resident and sells it under a judgment rendered on contructive service, defendant, in absence of an appearance, may attack such judgment in a later suit by him wherein the attachment plaintiff invokes such judgment as a defense. German Nat. Bank v. Kautter, 55 Neb. 103 (75 N. W. 566; 70 Am. St. Rep. 371).

269. (1902.) As between plaintiff who had attached the debtor's property, and the debtor's estate all matters litigated in the attachment suit must be deemed merged in the judgment and order of sale of the attached property. First Nat. Bank of Madison v. Tompkins, 3 Unof. 328 (91 N. W. 551).

270. (1902.) A finding and judgment for defendant ipso facto discharges an attachment. Alpirn v. Goodman, 3 Unof. 397 (91 N. W. 530).

271. (1904.) A judgment rendered without substituted service on the defendant in an attachment case against a non-resident, whose property has been seized in this state, is merely erroneous and not void. Jones v. Danforth, 71 Neb. 722 (99 N. W. 495).

Effect of judgment on subsequent purchaser.

272. (1899.) One who by voluntary transfer acquires rights in personal property after a writ of attachment has been levied thereon is bound by an adjudication in the attachment case of the validity of such attachment. Nagle v. First Nat. Bank of Omaha, 57 Neb. 552 (77 N. W. 1074).

Deficiency execution.

273. (1889.) Where an action is brought against a non-resident and real estate attached, service by publication had, judgment by default entered, and the property sold and the sale confirmed, the court loses jurisdiction, and it cannot order an execution against other property for a deficiency. Gue v. Jones, 25 Neb. 634 (41 N. W. 555); Noyce v. Jones, 25 Neb. 643 (41 N. W. 558); Gilbert v. Jones, 25 Neb. 644 (41 N. W. 558).

Digitized by Google

VII. QUASHING, VACATING, DISSOLUTION, OR ABANDONMENT.

Moving to quash as appearance in case, see Appearance, §§ 39, 40.

Replevin of attachment property, see Replevin, §§ 13-17.

www.libtool.com.cn

Grounds for quashing, vacating or dissolving.

274. (1877.) An objection that affiant's name was omitted from the body of the affidavit, he having duly signed it at the close, is technical merely, and no ground for dissolving the attachment. Rudolf v. McDonald, 6 Neb. 163.

275. (1879.) The failure of the plaintiff to attach a copy of the instrument on which the action is brought to the petition is not a good ground for dissolving an attachment. Olmstead v. Rivers, 9 Neb. 234 (2 N. W. 366).

276. (1885.) A cause of action in a petition upon a debt not fraudulently contracted, if coupled with a cause of action upon a debt which was fraudulently contracted, and an order of attachment covering both counts is issued upon an affidavit alleging that "said defendant fraudulently contracted the debt and incurred the obligation for which this suit is brought," held, to vitiate such order of attachment and justify its discharge. Mayer & Schurmann v. Zingre, 18 Neb. 458 (25 N. W. 727); (1889) Meyer v. Evans, 27 Neb. 367 (43 N. W. 109).

277, 278. (1886.) Where it is shown that a debtor transferred certain of his property to his wife for a mere nominal consideration, one of such transfers being shown not to be fraudulent, but the other is unexplained, it is error to discharge an attachment on the ground that the allegation of an attempt to wrongfully convey property is untrue. Washburn v. McGuire, 19 Neb. 98 (26 N. W. 709).

279. (1893.) Where a plaintiff brought suit, alleging as a cause of action his ownership of certain notes, then past due, made and delivered to him by the defendant, and at the same time filed an affidavit for attachment in which such notes were made the basis of such claim against the defendant, and caused the property of the defendant to be seized under said attachment, and it afterwards appeared that plaintiff was not the owner of said notes, or any of them, at the time of bringing such suit and instituting such attachment proceeding and seizing said property, held, that the attachment should be dissolved, although plaintiff, after the seizure of defendant's property, became the owner of said notes and owned them at the time of the hearing of the motion to discharge the attachment. Farwell Co. v. Wright, 38 Neb. 445 (56 N. W. 984).

280. (1893.) An attachment must stand on plaintiff's cause of action as it existed when the affidavit for an attachment was filed and the writ issued; and if the plaintiff, at the date of the issuing of the attachment, does not own the claim for which he seizes the defendant's property, he cannot afterwards, by purchasing such claim, assert it by amendment or otherwise as against the property seized under the attachment and by virtue thereof. Farwell Co. v. Wright, 38 Neb. 445 (56 N. W. 984).

281. (1897.) It is not ground for the discharge of an attachment that some portion of the sum stated in the affidavit is not due. Grotte v. Nagle, 50 Neb. 363 (69 N. W. 973).

282. (1897.) It is no ground for dissolving an attachment issued against two or more defendants that the property levied on is the individual property of one of them alone. McDonald v. Marquardt, 52 Neb. 820 (73 N. W. 288).

283. (1902.) An order of attachment is dissolved by filing an amended petition which sets forth an additional and different cause of action. Holway v. American Exchange Nat. Bank, 64 Neb. 67 (89 N. W. 382).

284. (1903.) Where a writ of attachment issues for the whole amount claimed in several causes of action included in the same petition, and afterward, and before trial, some of such causes of action are dismissed by the plaintiff, a motion to dissolve the attachment, based on such dismissal, should be sustained. First Nat. Bank of Greenwood v. Van Doren, 68 Neb. 142 (93 N. W. 1017).

Persons entitled to move.

285. (1886.) A mortgagor of personal property upon which an attachment issued against him has been levied, has the right, under the provisions of section 235 of the civil code, to resist the attachment by a motion to discharge the same, upon the ground that the allegations of fraud upon which the order of attachment was procured are untrue. Grimes v. Farrington, 19 Neb. 44 (26 N. W. 618).

Digitized by Google

286. (1896.) A debtor who had transferred all his interest in property subsequently attached, to one who is not a party to the attachment suit, cannot, in his own name and right, be permitted, on motion for a dissolution of the attachment, to establish the validity of his transfer. Kountze v. Scott, 49 Neb. 258 (68 N. W. 479). [Overruled. McCord v. Bowen, 51 Neb. 247.]

287, 288. (1897.) One made defendant to an attachment proceeding may move to discharge the same from the whole or any part of the property, notwithstanding the fact that he had disposed of his entire interest in such property prior to its seizure. Kountze v. Scott, 52 Neb. 460 (72 N. W. 585); (1897) South Park Improvement Co. v. Baker, 51 Neb. 392 (70 N. W. 952).

289. (1899.) Defendant may move to discharge the attachment though he had disposed of his entire interest in the property. Symns Grocery Co. v. Snow, 58 Neb. 516 (78 N. W. 1066).

290. (1899.) A mortgagee of chattels upon which an order of attachment has been levied cannot question the existence of the grounds for issuance of the writ, that right belonging alone to the attachment debtor. Meyer, Bannerman & Co. v. Keefer, 58 Neb. 220 (78 N. W. 506).

291. (1906.) The subsequent purchaser of lands on which an order of attachment has been levied cannot question the existence of the grounds for the issuance of the writ; to the attachment debtor alone belongs that right. Wagner v. Wolf, 75 Neb. 780 (106 N. W. 1024).

Persons entitled to be heard.

292. (1899.) An attachment defendant who has incumbered the attached property beyond its value is entitled to be heard on a motion to discharge the attachment. Skinner v. First Nat. Bank of Pawnee City, 59 Neb. 17 (80 N. W. 42).

Time for attacking attachment.

293. (1877.) To be available a motion to dissolve an attachment because the affiant's name was omitted from the body of the affidavit, must be made before final judgment in the action. Rudolf v. McDonald, 6 Neb. 163.

294. (1879.) The defendant may at any time before judgment, upon notice to plaintiff, move to discharge the attachment as to the whole or a part of the property attached. Hilton v. Ross, 9 Neb. 406 (2 N. W. 862).

295. (1883.) A defendant may give the undertaking required by section 206 of the code, for the delivery of the attached property, and afterwards move to discharge the attachment. Wilson v. Shepherd, 15 Neb. 15 (16 N. W. 826).

296. (1893.) A motion to dissolve an attachment, to be available, must be made before final judgment in the action. Where such a motion has been made and heard before the trial of the cause, and taken under advisement, the court may, after judgment for the plaintiff, rule upon the motion. Moline, Milburn & Stoddard Co. v. Curtis, 38 Neb. 520 (57 N. W. 161).

297. (1895.) A motion to discharge an attachment must be filed before judgment in the action, but if so filed the court may rule thereon after judgment. Stutzner v. Printz, 43 Neb. 306 (61 N. W. 620). [Overruled. Herman v. Hayes, 58 Neb. 54.]

298. (1897.) Any time before judgment, defendant, upon proper notice, may move to dissolve the attachment, and the fact that the attached property does not belong to him, or is incumbered to its full value, does not bar or estop him from filing the motion. McCord v. Bowen, 51 Neb. 247 (70 N. W. 950).

299. (1899.) A court is without authority to hear and determine a motion to discharge an attachment filed before judgment in the action, but not submitted until after payment. Herman v. Hayes, 58 Neb. 54 (78 N. W. 365).

Notice of motion.

300. (1896.) A reasonable notice of the hearing of a motion to discharge an attachment is such notice as is meet and fair in view of the circumstances and conditions existent at the time in the matter to be presented. Sterling Mfg. Co. v. Hough, 49 Neb. 618 (68 N. W. 1019).

Estoppel to deny defendant's title.

301. (1895.) A plaintiff who levies an attachment on property as that of defendant, cannot deny the latter's title. Standard Stamping Co. v. Hetzel, 44 Neb. 105 (62 N. W. 247).

302. (1896.) A plaintiff who has attached property as the property of defendants and obtained writs of garnishment to issue on allegations that the garnishee named has in his possession property, etc., owned by or belonging to the defendants, will not be heard to assert that defendants have not sufficient interest to be allowed to defend against the attachments. Dayton Spice Mills Co. v. Sloan, 49 Neb. 622 (68 N. W. 1040).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

303, 304. (1897.) An attaching plaintiff is estopped to assert that defendant has not sufficient interest to defend against the attachment. McCord, Brady & Co. v. Bowen, 51 Neb. 247 (70 N. W. 950); (1897) Kountze v. Scott, 52 Neb. 460 (72 N. W. 585).

Burden of proof on denial of affidavit.

305. (1872.) Preponderance of proof must be in favor of the party suing out the attachment, when affidavits are filed to disprove the charge made in that on which the order issued. Ellison v. Tallon, 2 Neb. 14.

306. (1873.) The charge made in an affidavit if denied by the defendant, must be sustained by the plaintiff to the satisfaction of the court; upon the plaintiff, by the denial, is thrown the burden of proof. Tallon v. Ellison, 3 Neb. 63.

307. (1886.) Where, on the hearing of a motion to discharge an attachment procured upon an allegation of the fraudulent disposition of property, the averments of such affidavit are denied by the attachment of defendant, the burden of proof to establish the fact charged is upon the plaintiff in the action, and the motion to discharge should be sustained, unless such proof is made by a preponderance of testimony. Grimes v. Farrington 19 Neb. 44 (26 N. W. 618).

308. (1889.) Where a defendant moves to dissolve an attachment, and denies the ground thereof, the burden of sustaining the attachment is on the plaintiff. Olds Wagon Co. v. Benedict, 25 Neb. 372 (41 N. W. 254).

309. (1892.) When a defendant moves to dissolve an attachment on the ground that the affidavit for the attachment is untrue, and files in support thereof his affidavit denying the fact stated in the original affidavit for attachment, the burden of proof is upon the plaintiff to sustain the attachment by a preponderance of the evidence. Dolan v. Armstrong, 35 Neb. 339 (53 N. W. 132).

310. (1894.) Where the allegations of an affidavit for attachment are put in issue by a motion to dissolve, plaintiff is required to establish, to the satisfaction of the court, the truth of the facts alleged. Citizens State Bank v. Baird 42 Neb. 219 (60 N. W. 551).

311. (1894.) Where the grounds for the issuing of an attachment are alleged in the language of the statute, and the defendant denies by affidavit the truth of the averments made to obtain such attachment, and moves to dissolve the same, the court before whom the proceeding is pending should by an order require the plaintiff in attachment, within a reasonable, fixed time, to file such affidavits or other evidence as he desires or relies upon to sustain the averments made by him to obtain the issuing of the attachment writ; and the defendant, in a reasonable, fixed time thereafter to file such affidavits or other evidence as he desires or relies upon to traverse, explain, or avoid the case made by the plaintiff's evidence; and the plaintiff in a reasonable, fixed time thereafter, to file such affidavits or other evidence as is applicable in rebuttal. Jordan & McCarthy v. Dewey & Stone, 40 Neb. 639 (59 N. W. 88).

312. (1896.) Where the facts stated in an affidavit for an attachment are denied on a motion to dissolve, the burden is cast upon the plaintiff to sustain his charges by proof. Geneva Nat. Bank v. Bailor, 48 Neb. 866 (67 N. W. 865).

Evidence.

——— Burden of proof.

313. (1894.) Where a creditor attaches property in the hands of a mortgagee, the burden of proving fraud in the transfer, on a motion to discharge, is upon such creditor. Landauer v. Mack, 39 Neb. 8 (57 N. W. 555).

313*a*. (1907.) Where the grounds relied on to support an attachment are positively denied by the oath of the defendant, the burden is upon the plaintiff to prove his grounds for attachment by a preponderance of evidence. Malcom Savings Bank v. Cronin, 80 Neb. 231 (116 N. W. 150).

——— Admissibility.

314. (1882.) In an action by a wife for conversion of a millinery stock attached as the property of her husband the fact that goods purchased for the busines at different times, extending over a period of four or five years, and amounting to several thousand dollars, had been shipped to the husband, and all correspondence in relation to such goods and purchases had been carried on between the seller and the husband and in his name, affords some evidence, however slight, that the husband was acting in the capacity of owner rather than that of clerk, agent, or manager, and hence is admissible. Oberfelder v. Kavanaugh, 21 Neb. 483 (32 N. W. 295).

Digitized by Google

315. (1893.) Where a plaintiff in attachment claims the debt for which he sues was fraudulently contracted, and, to sustain such claim offers in evidence a statement made by the debtor to his banker, and by the latter communicated to plaintiff, to render such communication admissible it must be identical with the statement made, or the substance of it, and not the banker's conclusion deduced therefrom. Kilpatrick-Koch Dry Goods Co. v. McPheely, 37 Neb. 800 (56 N. W. 389).

316, 317. (1897.) Whether oral evidence shall be used on the hearing of a motion to discharge an attachment is a matter resting in the discretion of the court trying such proceeding. Kountze v. Scott, 52 Neb. 460 (72 N. W. 585); (1897) Hamer v. McKinley-Lanning Loan & Trust Co., 52 Neb. 705 (72 N. W. 1041).

318. (1897.) Section 236, code of civil procedure does not confer on an attaching plaintiff the right to resist a motion to discharge the attachment by oral evidence. Kountze v. Scott, 52 Neb. 460 (72 N. W. 585).

319. (1900.) On the hearing of a motion to dissolve an attachment, error cannot be predicated upon the admission of improper evidence. It is presumed that the trial judge, in arriving at a conclusion, considered only proper and competent evidence, and disregarded that which was improper. Merrifield v. Farmers Nat. Bank of Pawnee City, 59 Neb. 602 (81 N. W. 611).

——— Sufficiency.

320. (1883.) Affidavits examined, and the order of the district judge discharging the attachment sustained. Hunter v. Soward, 15 Neb. 215 (18 N. W. 58).

321. (1886.) Testimony of persons familiar and accustomed to dealing with a defendant that defendant's conduct of his business showed no indication of his intention to defraud his creditors, and of his financial ability to meet his just debts, and a declaration to legally fight the claim in question, is sufficient to dissolve an attachment. Walker v. Haggerty, 20 Neb. 482 (30 N. W. 556).

322. (1888.) Where, during the absence of the owner of a stock of goods, the same is attached by creditors, and the clerk who had been left in charge of the store takes out goods to the amount of his claim for wages, there is no evidence of a disposition of property in fraud of creditors, and the attachment should be discharged. Peru Plow Co. v. Benedict, 24 Neb. 340 (38 N. W. 824).

323. (1888.) On the trial of a motion to discharge an order of attachment to a judge at chambers, there being evidence tending to prove the absconding of defendant with intent to defraud his creditors, and that he had left the county of his residence to avoid the service of a summons, the same being grounds of attachment alleged in the affidavit for attachment, and the weight of the evidence not being clearly against the finding and judgment of the judge on said motion, the same upheld. Holland v. Commercial Bank, 22 Neb. 571 (36 N. W. 113).

324. (1889.) Evidence that shows that a merchant executed a bill of sale to a certain creditor to secure his debt, that the creditor went into immediate possession and was handling the stock to the good interests of both, will not sustain an attachment on the ground of a conveyance in fraud of creditors. Sloan v. Coburn, 26 Neb. 607 (42 N. W. 726; 4 L. R. A. 470).

325. (1891.) Evidence to show that a retail grocery dealer, in order to obtain additional credit of a jobber in groceries, misrepresented that he owed no other bills, and owned certain farm lands; and other testimony that he made a statement that he intended executing a bill of sale of the goods to his mother, though he was not indebted to her, is sufficient to sustain an attachment on the ground of fraud. Askwith v. Allen, 33 Neb. 418 (50 N. W. 267).

326. (1891.) T. & Co. obtained an attachment against one D. upon a promissory note before the same was due, on the ground that he had fraudulently disposed of his property with intent to defraud his creditors and was about to dispose of his property with that object in view. Held, That a clear preponderance of the evidence tended to show that the transaction was bona fide and not to defraud creditors. Tenney v. Diss, 32 Neb. 61 (48 N. W. 877).

Digitized by Google

327. (1891.) Where one who was engaged in the mercantile business, being considerably indebted for goods, traded his stock, which was worth about $2,000, for wild land of questionable value and incumbered, whereupon a creditor to whom he was indebted for goods attached the stock, there is sufficient cause shown for an attachment and the district court erred in discharging it. Robinson Notion Co. v. Ormsby, 33 Neb. 665 (50 N. W. 952).

328. (1893.) Where property conveyed by a debtor to his brother, is attached by a creditor on the ground that the conveyance is fraudulent, the attachment should not be dissolved on the affidavit of the purchaser that the purchase was in good faith, in consideration of a loan previously made to the grantor where there was no showing as to the amount of the loan or that affiant desired the conveyance. Jones v. Biven, 36 Neb. 821 (55 N. W. 248).

329. (1896.) Evidence, in attachment showing defendant left his place of residence on receipt of telegrams of his wife's mother's illness, and before leaving notifies his creditors of his purpose in leaving and that he would be gone for some time, sustains a finding that, at the commencement of the action, defendants were not non-residents. Johnson v. May, 49 Neb. 601 (68 N. W. 1032).

330. (1896.) Evidence examined, and held that it fails to show that the defendant fraudulently contracted the indebtedness for which this action was instituted. Geneva Nat. Bank v. Bailor, 48 Neb. 866 (67 N. W. 865).

331. (1896.) In an action for attachment on the ground that defendant was about to remove and convert his property to defraud creditors, evidence examined and held insufficient to sustain order discharging the attachment. Kingman & Co. v. Weiser Bros., 48 Neb. 834 (67 N. W. 941).

332. (1897.) Evidence held to sustain an order discharging an attachment. Kountze v. Scott, 52 Neb. 460 (72 N. W. 585).

333. (1897.)) In view of the fact that the names of certain attorneys at law do not appear in the record as attorneys for either party, and of the further fact that there was direct, positive testimony by one of the attorneys that neither of them was an attorney for the plaintiff until long after the commencement of the action in which an attachment issued, no presumption founded upon unsatisfactory circumstantial evidence will be entertained to avoid the effect of such testimony in order that there may be justified the dissolution of the attachment issued at the commencement of the suit by virtue of which such alleged attorneys were garnished as debtors of the attachment defendant. Nebraska Moline Plow Co. v. Fuehring, 52 Neb. 541 (72 N. W. 1003).

334. (1899.) In an action of attachment on the ground "that the defendants have sold, conveyed, and otherwise disposed of their property with intent to cheat and defraud their creditors and to hinder and delay them in the collection of their debts, and that defendants are about to sell and convey and dispose of their property with fraudulent intent," an order dissolving the attachment was reversed as being against the clear and decisive preponderance of the evidence. Symns Grocery Co. v. Snow, 58 Neb. 516 (78 N. W. 1065).

335. (1903.) Evidence examined, and held sufficient to sustain the finding and order of the trial court discharging an attachment. Werner v. Linsenmeyer, 4 Unof. 372 (94 N. W. 105).

336. (1903.) Evidence examined, and held sufficient to support the judgment of the trial court dissolving an attachment. Fremont Brewing Co. v. Pekarek, 4 Unof. 531 (95 N. W. 12).

337. (1907.) Evidence, in an attachment suit by a surety who has paid his principal's note, showing such principal had been indicted for a crime and absconded, and was disposing of his property at a great sacrifice, sustains a finding that he was fraudulently disposing of his property. Danker v. Jacobs, 79 Neb. 435 (112 N. W. 579).

Hearing.

——— Nature of hearing.

338. (1896.) A hearing on motion to dissolve an attachment is a "trial" within the meaning of section 279 of the code defining that term, and within the meaning of section 11, chapter 28, Compiled Statutes, fixing the fees of justices of the peace. Gibson v. Sidney, 50 Neb. 12 (69 N. W. 314).

——— Continuance.

339. (1896.) The action of the trial court in denying an application for the continuance of a hearing on a motion to dissolve an attachment, examined and affirmed. Dayton Spice Mills Co. v. Sloan, 49 Neb. 622 (68 N. W. 1040).

Digitized by Google

——Reception of evidence.

340. (1902.) Where the defendant, in his motion to dissolve an attachment, denies the truth of the facts stated in the affidavit on which the attachment was obtained, the manner of taking the evidence, on the hearing of the motion, is within the discretion of the court. Dittman Boot & Shoe Co. v. Graff, 3 Unof. 165 (91 N. W. 188).

——Right to open and close.

341. (1889.) Where defendant moves to dissolve an attachment and denies the grounds of attachment by affidavit the burden of sustaining the attachment is upon plaintiff, and for that purpose he is entitled to open and close argument. Olds Wagon Co. v. Benedict, 25 Neb. 372 (41 N. W. 254).

342. (1894.) The party issuing the attachment is entitled to the opening and closing on the hearing of a motion to dissolve, and on him is the burden of proof. Jordan & McCarthy v. Dewey & Stone, 40 Neb. 639 (59 N. W. 88).

Issues and questions determined.

343. (1879.) Where the petition states a good cause of action, the merits of the demand cannot be questioned on a motion to dissolve an attachment issued in the case. Olmstead v. Rivers, 9 Neb. 234 (2 N. W. 366).

344. (1891.) While on a motion to dissolve an attachment the merits of a cause of action cannot be questioned, yet this rule will not prevent the defendant on such motion from stating any pertinent fact to explain the transaction out of which the suit arose, even if in doing so he makes it appear that the sum claimed is too large. Hamilton v. Johnson, 32 Neb. 730 (49 N. W. 703).

345. (1892.) In the case stated, held, that the questions presented, aside from the want of authority of the attorneys to appear, are first, that the action on which the attachment issued arose upon contract; and, second that the garnishees acted in good faith in the garnishment proceedings. Kirschbaum v. Scott, 35 Neb. 199 (52 N. W. 1112).

346. (1893.) In the action of an attachment creditor against the debtor the validity of chattel mortgages made by the debtor to other parties cannot as against such mortgagees, be adjudicated. As between plaintiff and defendant alone, upon motion to dissolve the attachment, the defendant can be heard only because of his residuary, contingent interest which may remain after the said mortgages are satisfied. McCord v. Krause, 36 Neb. 764 (55 N. W. 215). [Overruled. McCord v. Bowen, 51 Neb. 247.]

347. (1894.) The homestead character of real estate is not a proper question to be determined upon a motion to discharge an attachment. Quigley v. McEvony, 41 Neb. 73 (59 N. W. 767).

348. (1895.) Where it was alleged in the petition in an attachment case that the defendants acted conjunctively, the first named buying on credit and turning over goods to the second to be disposed of by him for the joint benefit of both, it was proper on a motion to dissolve such attachment to consider whether or not there existed the alleged privity between the defendants. Standard Stamping Co. v. Hetzel, 44 Neb. 105 (62 N. W. 247).

349. (1895.) On the hearing of a motion by a defendant to discharge an attachment allowed in an action against him on the ground that he had fraudulently disposed of his property with intent to defraud creditors, the alleged fraudulent transaction being the conveyance by mortgage of certain property, the validity of such mortgage is not put in issue and cannot be determined. Landauer, Kain & Streng v. Mack & Co., 43 Neb. 430 (61 N. W. 597).

350. (1897.) The issue of fact in a proceeding to discharge an attachment is not whether the attachment defendant owns the property, nor whether his grantee has an unimpeachable title or interest therein, but whether the statutory grounds for attachment exist. South Park Improvement Co. v. Baker, 51 Neb. 392 (70 N. W. 952).

351. (1897.) The merits of a cause will not be adjudicated on a motion to dissolve an attachment. McDonald v. Marquardt, 52 Neb. 820 (73 N. W. 288).

352. (1898.) A judgment sustaining an attachment does not determine whether the property was exempt from seizure. Johnson v. Bartek, 56 Neb. 422 (76 N. W. 878).

Dissolution.

353. (1871.) A defendant in an attachment which has been dissolved is entitled to possession of the property taken under the writ, without reimbursing the sheriff what he paid to a carrier who had a lien on it, nor what he paid for the safe keeping of it. McReady v. Rogers, 1 Neb. 124 (93 Am. Dec. 333).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

354. (1896.) The dissolution of an attachment issued on a claim before due terminates the action; and that a judge, at chambers, after dissolving such an attachment, made an order of dismissal of the main action, if without jurisdiction, and error was not prejudicial. Dayton Spice Mills Co. v. Sloan 49 Neb. 622 (68 N. W. 1040).

355. (1903.) Payment of a judgment rendered by a justice of the peace in favor of a party who has prosecuted error from an order discharging an attachment, will not, without payment of attachment costs rightfully incurred, dissolve the lien of the attachment. Rhodes v. Samuels, 67 Neb. 1 (93 N. W. 148).

Costs.

356. (1888.) In the taxation of costs, upon the dissolution of an attachment an item of sheriff's fees of $190 for "care, preservation and custody of attached property" is improperly taxed, when the charge was not itemized, nor contained in the sheriff's return, it appearing to have been taken from the fee book of the district court. Reed v. Smith, 25 Neb. 64 (40 N. W. 591).

357. (1896.) On the discharge of an attachment the costs and expenses incident thereto should ordinarily be taxed to the party suing out the attachment. Deering & Co. v. Wisherd, 46 Neb. 720 (65 N. W. 788).

358. (1903.) The costs of the error proceeding, like other costs incident to the litigation, are secured by the attachment lien, and the attached property may be sold to satisfy the same. Rhodes v. Samuels, 67 Neb. 1 (93 N. W. 148).

359. (1903.) When the district court has given its decision, and the order discharging the attachment has been reversed, the justice of the peace is reinvested with complete jurisdiction of the ancillary proceeding, and it is then his right and duty to tax the attachment costs against the unsuccessful party. Rhodes v. Samuels, 67 Neb. 1 (93 N. W. 148).

360. (1903.) While error proceeding is pending the justice may try and determine the action, but he is without jurisdiction or authority to make an order taxing the costs of the attachment to either party. Rhodes v. Samuels, 67 Neb. 1 (93 N. W. 148).

——— Curing error by subsequent judgment.

361. (1879.) Error in discharging an attachment on motion of defendant, whereby costs are wrongfully visited upon the plaintiff, is not cured by a subsequent final judgment in the action in favor of the defendant. Hilton v. Ross, 9 Neb. 406 (2 N. W. 862).

Special finding.

362. (1895.) Where an attachment had previously been dissolved upon a full hearing of the merits, there existed no requirement that upon request, sustained by affidavits, additional special findings should be made, and it was not erroneous on motion to strike out affidavits from the files. Standard Stamping Co. v. Hetzel, 44 Neb. 105 (62 N. W. 247).

Delivery bond on appeal.

363. (1879.) The undertaking provided for by "An act to provide for the retention of attached property pending a review on error," etc. (Gen. Stat., 715), passed February 17, 1873, not being necessarily a part of the record of the case, its absence therefrom cannot be taken as proof that it was not in fact given. Hilton v. Ross. 9 Neb. 406 (2 N. W. 862).

Supersedeas bond, liability.

Liability on undertaking in general, see post, §§ 413-417.

364. (1901.) One who gives a supersedeas bond to hold in force, pending proceedings in error, an attachment and garnishment discharged by order of trial court, can not be heard in defense of a suit on such bond to say that defendant to whom such bond was given had no interest in attached property, or that the attachment and garnishment proceedings were invalid because of irregularity. Metcalf v. Bockoren, 1 Unf. 822 (96 N. W. 406).

365. (1901.) Attachment and garnishment proceedings, to supersede order for the dissolution of which, bond in suit was given, examined and held voidable only. Metcalf v. Bockoven, 1 Unof. 822 (96 N. W. 406).

366. (1901.) Whether one who gives a supersedeas bond to hold in force, pending error proceedings, attachment and garnishment discharged by trial court, can be heard in defense of a suit on such bond to say that such proceedings were void for want of jurisdiction, quære. Metcalf v. Bockoven. 1 Unof. 822 (96 N. W. 406).

Digitized by Google

Moving for discharge on appeal.

367. (1895.) Where a county court sustains an order for attachment and rendered judgment in the action for plaintiff, and on error the district court reversed the judgment but made no order as to sustaining the attachment and the defendant did not except, he in effect ratified the order of the county court, and the district court was justified in refusing to entertain a motion to discharge it. Stutzer v. Printz, 43 Neb. 306 (61 N. W. 620).

Review.

——Questions appealable.

368. (1883.) An order overruling a motion to discharge an attachment is not a final order, as it is subject to review up to the time judgment is rendered. Wilson v. Shepherd, 15 Neb. 15 (16 N. W. 826).

369. (1889.) Where a motion to discharge an attachment is sustained, and the plaintiff fails to file an undertaking for the retention of the attached property, while he thereby loses his attachment is a final order, he may have it reviewed on error. Adams County Bank v. Morgan, 26 Neb. 148 (41 N. W. 993).

370. (1890.) An order overruling a motion to discharge an attachment is not a final order and cannot be reviewed prior to the rendition of final judgment. Root v. State Bank, 30 Neb. 772 (47 N. W. 82).

371. (1901.) When, in an action pending in a justice court, an attachment is issued and levied upon mortgaged property in the possession of a third person who is summoned in garnishment, and the mortgagee intervenes in the suit and obtains an order discharging the attachment at least to the extent of releasing its levy upon the property, he cannot assign for error a further order of the justice requiring the garnishee to pay a sum of money into court for the benefit of the plaintiff in the action. Wiseman v. Jaco, 1 Unof. 164 (95 N. W. 367).

372. (1904.) Error will not lie from an order discharging an attachment when there is nothing in the record to show that any action was ever taken under the writ. Sand Hills Commercial Co. v. Phillips Bros. & Rennau, 5 Unof. 330 (98 N. W. 718).

——Delivery of property on failure to file bond.

373. (1879.) If no undertaking is given within the required period, an appeal from a discharge of attachment, the officer must deliver the property to the party entitled to the same, and if he refuse to do so he may be compelled by mandamus. State, ex rel. Rieschick, v. Cunningham, 9 Neb. 146 (1 N. W. 1011).

374. (1879.) Mandamus will issue to compel redelivery of property after discharge of attachment. State, ex rel. Rieschick, v. CuCnningham, 9 Neb. 146 (1 N. W. 1011.)

——Time for appeal.

375. (1879.) Where an attachment is dissolved the court may fix a time, not exceeding twenty days, in which to file a petition in error in the reviewing court and to give the undertaking required by the statute, during which time the attached property shall be held by the officer having possession of the same. State, ex rel. Rieschick, v. Cunningham, 9 Neb. 146 (1 N. W. 1011).

——Authority of county judge to sign bill of exceptions.

376. (1891.) Section 236 of the code, which authorizes the filing of a petition in error upon an order of a court discharging an attachment, is general in its application and applies to all courts having jurisdiction in civil actions. Therefore a county judge may sign a bill of exceptions in any case where an attachment has been discharged by him. Osborne v. Canfield, 33 Neb. 330 (50 N. W. 167). [Overruled. Moline, Milburn & Stoddard Co. v. Curtis, 38 Neb. 530.]

377. (1893.) A county judge has no power or authority to sign a bill of exceptions preserving the evidence used in the hearing of a motion to discharge an attachment. Moline, Milburn & Stoddard Co. v. Curtis, 38 Neb. 520 (57 N. W. 161).

378. (1895.) A county judge has no jurisdiction to settle a bill of exceptions preserving the evidence adduced on the hearing of a motion to dissolve an attachment. Michigan Stove Co. v. Miller, 43 Neb. 332 (61 N. W. 610).

——Presumption as to sufficiency of evidence.

379. (1902.) Where the evidence taken in the county court on a motion to dissolve an attachment is not preserved by a bill of exceptions, and is not before the court of review, it will be presumed that the evidence was sufficient to sustain the judgment and order of the lower court. Dittman Boot & Shoe Co. v. Graff, 3 Unof. 165 (91 N. W. 188).

Digitized by Google

www.libook.com.cn

——— Conflicting evidence.

380. (1888.) In a proceeding in attachment, where the defendant denies the truth of the allegations in the affidavit for attachment, and an inquiry is made thereon by the district court upon affidavits filed by both parties, and in which there is a conflict, a reviewing court will not reverse the decision of the district court upon the facts unless the decision was clearly wrong. In such case the same rule must be applied as would be had there been a trial. Johnson & Co. v. Steele, 23 Neb. 82 (36 N. W. 358).

381. (1892.) The order of a trial court made on affidavits upon a motion to dissolve an attachment will not be reversed where there is a conflict of evidence unless the ruling is against the clear weight thereof. Dolan v. Armstrong, 35 Neb. 339 (53 N. W. 132).

382. (1892.) An order discharging an attachment will not be disturbed by the supreme court in a case where the testimony is conflicting, unless it is clearly against the weight of evidence. Smith v. Boyer, 35 Neb. 46 (52 N. W. 581).

383. (1893.) Where a motion to discharge an attachment on the ground that the facts stated in the affidavit are untrue is heard upon conflicting affidavits, the decision of the trial court on the motion will not be disturbed unless it is clearly against the weight of the evidence. Whipple v. Hill, 36 Neb. 720 (55 N. W. 227; 38 Am. St. Rep. 742; 20 L. R. A. 313).

384. (1894.) The overruling of a motion to dissolve an attachment of mortgaged chattels, presented by the mortgagor alone, will not be reviewed when upon the hearing of the motion it was shown that the rights of the mortgagor had been foreclosed under the mortgage referred to, and when there is in the record evidence sufficient to justify the conclusion that the mortgage was by the mortgagor executed with intent to defraud or delay his creditors. Darst v. Levy, 40 Neb. 593 (58 N. W. 1130). [Overruled in part. McCord v. Bowen, 51 Neb. 247.]

385. (1896.) An order discharging an attachment, made upon conflicting evidence, will not be disturbed by a reviewing court, unless the decision is clearly and manifestly wrong. Geneva Nat. Bank v. Bailor, 48 Neb. 866 (87 N. W. 865).

386. (1896.) Where a motion to discharge an attachment, because plaintiff's affidavits are untrue, is heard on conflicting evidence, the ruling on the motion will not be disturbed unless it is clearly against the weight of evidence. Nebraska Moline Plow Co. v. Klingman, 48 Neb. 204 (66 N. W. 1101).

387. (1896.) In a hearing of a motion to discharge an attachment, one of the grounds of which is the untruth of the allegations of the affidavit for attachment, where the evidence used at the hearing is conflicting, the conclusions of the judge who heard the matters, announced from such evidence, will not be disturbed unless manisfestly wrong. Sterling Mfg. Co. v. Hough, 49 Neb. 618 (68 N. W. 1019).

388. (1897.) An order dissolving an attachment made on conflicting evidence will not be disturbed. Smith v. Bowen, 51 Neb. 245 (70 N. W. 949).

389. (1900.) In reviewing the ruling of a trial court on a motion to dissolve an attachment, the supreme court will not reverse a decision thereon, if supported by competent evidence, because the evidence is conflicting, unless it is against the clear weight of evidence. Merrifield v. Farmers Nat. Bank of Pawnee City, 59 Neb. 602 N. 611).

390. (1903.) On disputed questions of fact tried on ex-parte affidavits in support of a motion to dissolve an attachment, the findings of the trial court will not be disturbed unless clearly against the weight of the evidence. Fremont Brewing Co. v. Pekarek, 4 Unof. 531 (95 N. W. 12).

——— Judgment on appeal.

391. (1903.) In an error proceeding from an order of a justice of the peace discharging an attachment, the only judgment which the district court is authorized to render and enforce is a judgment affirming or reversing the order of the justice and taxing the costs incident to such proceeding. Rhodes v. Samuels, 67 Neb. 1 (93 N. W. 148).

VIII. CLAIMS BY THIRD PERSONS.

Intervention to contest attachment.

392. (1887.) Proceedings irregular and amendable, but not void, cannot be attacked collaterally by third parties. Connelly v. Edgerton, 22 Neb. 82 (34 N. W. 76).

Digitized by Google

393. (1892.) Where proceedings in attachment are irregular and erroneous, but not void, such errors and irregularities cannot be taken advantage of by third parties in a collateral proceeding. Winchell v. McKinzie, 35 Neb. 813 (53 N. W. 975).

394. (1896.) Where two writs of attachment have been levied in different actions on the same property, plaintiff in the later case may intervene in the earlier case to have the priority of the levies adjudicated. Deere, Wells & Co. v. Eagle Mfg. Co., 49 Neb. 385 (68 N. W. 504).

395. (1897.) A judgment creditor whose debtor has recovered in an action of attachment a sum of money from another, which money is in the hands of the clerk of the court, should intervene as a party to the attachment in order to apply such funds to his claim. Anheuser-Busch Brewing Ass'n v. Hier, 52 Neb. 424 (72 N. W. 588).

396. (1899.) Where the owner of attached chattels mortgaged them to creditors other than plaintiff in attachment, and the petition in the attachment suit was subsequently amended to state a different cause of action, and the attachment was afterward held good on motion to discharge it, the mortgagees, in an independent action, were not permitted to assail the attachment. Nagle v. First Nat. Bank of Omaha, 57 Neb. 552 (77 N. W. 1074).

397. (1902.) The rule that a claimant cannot intervene and have his rights determined in the attachment suit, does not preclude the parties from voluntarily appearing and presenting the issue of ownership under the title of the original action, and when jurisdiction is thus acquired, and a trial had without objection, it is the duty of the court to enter a judgment on the merits. Haines & Co. v. Stewart, 3 Unof. 216 (91 N. W. 539).

398. (1902.) The mere fact that a party claims to be the owner of attached property, does not give him the right to intervene in the attachment, and thus have the question of his ownership determined in the attachment suit. Haines & Co. v. Stewart, 3 Unof. 216 (91 N. W. 539).

399. (1907.) A third party claiming an interest in or lien on property upon which an attachment has been levied cannot intervene in the attachment suit to question the grounds for the issuance of the writ. Danker v. Jacobs, 79 Neb. 435 (112 N. W. 579).

Trial of right of property.

——— Right to jury trial.

400. (1880.) A proceeding under the statute for a trial of the right of property is not in a legal sense a "civil action," and is therefore not properly triable by a jury; but where a jury is impaneled by agreement or at the instance of the plaintiff in error, he cannot complain on that ground. State, ex rel. McClung, v. Powell, 10 Neb. 48 (4 N. W. 317).

——— Method of procedure.

401. (1883.) When an order of attachment is issued by a county judge, in a case in which the county court has jurisdiction concurrently with the district court, and chattels, seized upon such attachment, are claimed by a person other than the defendant in such attachment suit, proceedings for the trial of the right of such property should be commenced and conducted under the provisions of sections 486 and 487 of the civil code. Schell v. Husenstine, 15 Neb. 9 (16 N. W. 758).

——— Evidence.

Evidence admissible in action on bond, see post, §§ 437-440.

402. (1881.) An undertaking to return property in suit by claimant is admissible in evidence. Noakes v. Switzer, 12 Neb. 156 (10 N. W. 536).

——— Judgment rendered.

403. (1902.) In proceedings for the trial of the right of property, under section 996 et seq., code of civil procedure, the only judgment a jutice is authorized to render is a judgment for costs. McCormick Harvesting Machine Co. v. Scott, 66 Neb. 481 (92 N. W. 599).

——— Conclusiveness of finding or judgment.

404. (1880.) The trial and finding of the right to property levied on in attachment is not conclusive as to ownership of the property and conclusive as to ownership of the property and a creditor, notwithstanding such finding, may still contest his right to such property, and a mandamus will not be granted to compel the officer to comply with the order of the justice. State, ex rel. Snelling, v. Gillispie, 9 Neb. 505 (4 N. W. 239).

405. (1882.) Where goods are levied upon under an attachment issued by a justice of the peace, and are claimed by another than the defendant in the attachment, and such claimant institutes proceedings for a trial of the right of the property, and judgment is rendered against him, he cannot afterwards maintain replevin against the officer. Bray v. Saaman, 13 Neb. 518 (14 N. W. 474).

Digitized by Google

406. (1902.) A stranger to an attachment suit, in whose possession the attached property is found, who gives a redelivery undertaking under section 930, code of civil procedure, cannot thereafter assert ownership and try the right of property under sections 945 and 996. Allyn v. Cole, 3 Unof. 235 (91 N. W. 505).

——— Review.

407. (1902.) The order, on a trial of right of property seized under attachment, under section 996 et seq. of the code of civil procedure, to be issued by a justice to the officer, directing restoration of the property, is not a judicial order, from which error will lie, but merely the means of apprising the officer of the result of inquisition. McCormick Harvesting Machine Co. v. Scott, 66 Neb. 481 (92 N. W. 599).

408. (1902.) Proceedings before a justice of the peace on trial of right of property, under sections 996, 997 and 998 of the code of civil procedure, are reviewable on error. McCormick Harvesting Machine Co. v. Scott, 66 Neb. 479 (92 N. W. 599).

409. (1902.) Upon a reversal in the district court of a judgment of a justice of the peace rendered in proceedings to try the right of property seized under attachment, the district court has jurisdiction to hear and determine the issues, but its jurisdiction to render judgment is limited, as that of a justice of the peace, to a judgment for costs, and a judgment for a release of the property from the levy, and a restoration thereof to the claimant, is unauthorized and void. McCormick Harvesting Machine Co. v. Scott, 66 Neb. 481 (92 N. W. 599).

IX. RETURN.

In general.

410. (1883.) After schedule, appraisement and return of the writ, it is error to permit an amendment of the return without any showing, and a cancellation of the return will be set aside. Griffith v. Short, 14 Neb. 259 (15 N. W. 335).

411. (1883.) Where the return on the writ of attachment shows a levy upon the property, the calling of appraisers, the appraisement of the property, etc., and states that the appraisement is returned herewith, but fails to describe the property levied upon, such description being fully stated in the appraisement, held, that after judgment the return is sufficiently certain. Grebe v. Jones, 15 Neb. 312 (18 N. W. 81).

412. (1887.) Where an officer holding an order of attachment receives other orders against the same property before serving the first one, he may make levy under all at the same time and make but one return therefor. Connelly v. Edgerton, 22 Neb. 82 (34 N. W. 76).

X. LIABILITY ON BOND OR UNDERTAKING.

Redelivery bond, see ante, §§ 220-228.

Nature of action.

Liability on delivery bond, see ante, §§ 220-226.

413. (1892.) An action upon an undertaking for an attachment is one arising upon contract, and may be maintained by attachment against the property of a nonresident. The fact that the damages are unliquidated does not change the character of the action. Withers v. Brittain, 35 Neb. 436 (53 N. W. 375).

Requisites and validity of bond.

414. (1889.) An undertaking in attachment signed by the sureties alone and not signed by the plaintiff in the action is not void. And where an attachment is wrongfully issued a suit can be maintained on such undertaking, without making the attachment plaintiff a party to the action. Eckman v. Hammond, 27 Neb. 611 (43 N. W. 397).

415. (1897.) An attachment bond is valid without the signature of the attaching plaintiff, and where he does not sign the bond he is not liable thereon to defendant in attachment. Storz v. Finkelstein, 50 Neb. 177 (69 N. W. 856).

Nature of liability of co-surety.

416. (1871.) A surety on one attachment bond incurs an obligation, several as respects a surety on another attachment bond, when the two are given respectively in several suits, against the same defendants, and the same property is taken upon the same writs. McReady v. Roger, 1 Neb. 124 (93 Am. Dec. 333).

Extent of liability.

417. (1871.) A surety on an attachment bond is liable for all damages which the defendant on the writ may sustain, up to the redelivery of the property to him, if the attachment is dissolved. McReady v. Rogers, 1 Neb. 124 (93 Am. Dec. 333).

Digitized by Google

Conditions precendent.

www.libtool.com.cn

418. (1889.) Where service of summons is had upon an attachment defendant, and he appears to the action, he cannot maintain a suit upon the attachment undertaking upon the ground that the attachment was wrongfully issued, without having obtained a judgment of the court in which the attachment proceeding was pending discharging the attachment. Eckman v. Hammond, 27 Neb. 611 (43 N. W. 397).

Defenses.

419. (1893.) The fact that an officer permits judgment to be rendered against him for an alleged wrongful levy, without making a defense, although a circumstance which with others in an action on the indemnity bond given him by the attachment plaintiff, may show fraud, yet in order to do so it must appear that a defense was available. Mihalovitch, Fletcher & Co., v. Barlass, 36 Neb. 491 (54 N. W. 826).

420. (1901.) A suit having been brought for the malicious attachment of the plaintiff's property, did not consitute an election of remedies so as to preclude plaintiff from subsequently bringing action on the attachment bond. Simons v. Fagan, 62 Neb. 287 (87 N. W. 21).

Parties.

421. (1896.) Where the attachment undertaking was signed by the sureties alone and not by the attachment creditor, an action thereon cannot be maintained against the latter. Storz v. Finklestein, 48 Neb. 27 (66 N. W. 1020).

Set-off.

422. (1881.) In an action on an attachment undertaking, an unliquidated claim due from plaintiff may be set off. Raymond Bros. v. Green & Co., 12 Neb. 215 (10 N. W. 709; 41 Am. St. Rep. 763).

423. (1881.) In an action upon an attachment undertaking, against a surety and principal, a demand due the principal from plaintiff, may be set off against him. Raymond Bros. v. Green & Co., 12 Neb. 215 (41 Am. St. Rep. 763).

424. (1903.) Sureties on an attachment undertaking are properly allowed the benefit of legal offsets held by their principal, who was not a party to the action against plaintiff, the principal assenting to such defense and assisting in presenting it. Waller v. Deranleau, 4 Unof. 497 (94 N. W. 1038).

425. (1895.) In an action upon an attachment undertaking, a claim due the principal in such bond from the plaintiff is a proper subject of set-off. Field v. Maxwell, 44 Neb. 900 (62 N. W. 62).

Damages.

426. (1881.) In an action upon an undertaking for an attachment, the reasonable value of an attorney's services, who procured the dissolution of the attachment, is a proper item of damage. Raymond Bros. v. Green & Co., 12 Neb. 215 (10 N. W. 709; 42 Am. Rep. 763).

427. (1897.) The obligation of a surety in an undertaking in attachment is to pay the obligees thereof the damages sustained by reason of the attachment, "if the order be wrongfully obtained." Hopewell v. McGrew, 50 Neb. 789 (70 N. W. 397).

Pleadings.

428. (1877.) It is not enough to state in the petition that the attachment was quashed, and the property released by proceedings in error. Eaton v. Bartscherer, 5 Neb. 469.

429. (1877.) In an action on an undertaking in attachment the petition should allege that the order of attachment was wrongfully sued out, or obtained. Eaton v. Bartscherer, 5 Neb. 469.

430. (1893.) If an attaching officer, by collusion and fraud, should permit a judgment to be wrongfully rendered against him, these facts may be pleaded to an action on an indemnity bond, together with a statement of the plaintiff in attachment that the property levied upon was that of the debtor in attachment. Mihalovitch, Fletcher & Co. v. Barlass, 36 Neb. 491 (54 N. W. 826).

431. (1897.) A petition disclosing that the action was brought by the assignee of a party, a stranger to those described in the attachment bond, and was one for damages which he claimed to have sustained by reason of the seizure under the writ of attachment of property of which he was in possession as such assignee, does not state a cause of action on the bond. Hopewell v. McGrew, 50 Neb. 789 (70 N. W. 397).

432. (1903.) Payment is a defense which must be alleged and proved in an action on an attachment undertaking. Waller v. Deranleau, 4 Unof. 497 (94 N. W. 1038).

Digitized by Google

433. (1904.) In an action on a forthcoming bond given by the defendant in attachment in pursuance of section 206, code of civil procedure, it is necessary to allege and prove an order of the court in the attachment proceedings for the sale of the attached property. Young v. Joseph Bros. & Davidson. 5 Unof. 559 (99 N. W. 522).

www.libtool.com.cn

Evidence.

——— Burden of proof.

434. (1896.) In a suit on an attachment bond, where the answer denies each allegation of the petition, the burden is on plaintiff to show the execution of the bond and the wrongful issuance of the attachment, proof that the attachment was merely dissolved not being sufficient. Storz v. Finklestein, 48 Neb. 27 (66 N. W. 1020).

435. (1897.) In an action on an attachment bond, where the answer is a general denial of the averments of the petition, the burden is upon the plaintiff to show that the attachment was wrongfully issued; that is, that the averments in attachment affidavit as ground for the writ were untrue. Storz v. Finklestein, 50 Neb. 177 (69 N. W. 856).

436. (1899). In a suit on an attachment bond, where averments of the petition are put in issue by the answer, the burden is upon plaintiff to establish that the ground stated in the affidavit for attachment did not exist. Jandt v. Deranleau, 57 Neb. 497 (78 N. W. 22).

——— Admissibility.

Evidence admissible in trial of right of property, see ante, § 402.

437. (1881.) Where a third party claims attached property and the trial of right of property results in his favor, and plaintiff gives an undertaking to the officers as security for damages, such undertaking is admissible in evidence in an action against the signers for damages. Noakes v. Switzer, 12 Neb. 156 (10 N. W. 536).

438. (1899.) In an action on an attachment bond the defendants who undertake to make proof of facts justifying a resort to attachment should be permitted to introduce testimony relevant to that issue. Jandt v. Deranleau, 57 Neb. 497 (78 N. W. 22).

439. (1903.) An attachment undertaking in the body of which defendants' names appear as obligors although at the bottom appears the name of a banking company of which they were respectively president and cashier, with a penmark erasure through it and the appearance that "by" had originally been written before each of their names, and "Pres." after one and "cashier" after the other, is admissible in evidence in the first instance, leaving the parties to such explanation as they choose to offer. Waller v. Deranleau, 4 Unof. 497 (94 N. W. 1038).

440. (1903.) Where it is alleged and sufficiently appears that the plaintiff in the suit on the attachment undertaking, who is there named as "Lucien," is the real defendant and the one whose property was seized under the attachment, it is not sufficient ground for rejecting the evidence of the record in the attachment case that defendant is therein designated as "Lewis," the evidence in the present case showing that he is known as "Lucien," "Lewis," and "Lew." Waller v. Deranleau, 4 Unof. 497 (94 N. W. 1038).

Instructions.

441. (1897.) In an action on an attachment bond, where the answer is a general denial, an instruction which permits the jury to return a verdict for the plaintiff if they find that the attachment was merely dissolved, held erroneous. Storz v. Finklestein, 50 Neb. 177 (69 N. W. 856).

442. (1899.) Where, in an action on an attachment bond because of an alleged wrongful attachment, plaintiff had made no effort to prove the allegation, and the court had refused to admit proofs contradictory thereof by defendants, held, erroneous to submit that issue as one of fact, to the jury. Jandt v. Deranleau, 57 Neb. 497 (78 N. W. 22).

Directing verdict.

443. (1903.) The fact that plaintiff in a suit on an attachment undertaking did not in terms allege that the damages for which he sued were unpaid, where defendants answered denying the damages and the cause of action, and setting up offsets, and allege no payment, and where the evidence shows throughout that damages have always been denied and are unpaid, does not entitle the defendant to an instruction for a verdict or to a judgment upon the pleadings. Waller v. Deranleau, 4 Unof. 497 (94 N. W. 1038).

XI. WRONGFUL ATTACHMENT.

Nature and grounds of liability.

444. (1884.) Malice in an attachment may be inferred from want of probable cause, but this inference may be repelled by facts and circumstances. Parmer v. Keith, 16 Neb. 91 (20 N. W. 103).

Digitized by Google

445. (1884.) To maintain an action for malicious attachment there must be a want of probable cause, malice of the defendant, and injury to the plaintiff. Parmer v. Keith, 16 Neb. 91 (20 N. W. 103).

www.lbtool.com.cn

446. (1896.) In the absence of malice, an action for the wrongful suing out of an attachment can be maintained alone on the attachment bond. To maintain an action independently of the statute, and not on the bond, malice in suing out the writ and want of probable cause must be averred and shown. Storz v. Finklestein, 48 Neb. 27 (66 N. W. 1020).

Persons liable.

——In general.

447. (1897.) Where a plaintiff in an attachment of goods belonging to a stranger, buys them at the sale, with knowledge of the true ownership, and converts them to his own use, such acts constitute a ratification. Cole v. Edwards, 52 Neb. 711 (72 N. W. 1045).

448. (1897.) The plaintiff in an attachment suit has control of the writ and may require the release of the levy. Therefore, where the goods of a stranger have been levied upon, and the plaintiff with knowledge of that fact refuses on demand to release them, such refusal constitutes a ratification of the wrongful levy. Cole v. Edwards, 52 Neb. 711 (72 N. W. 1045).

448*a*. (1907.) Where an action is brought without the authority or sanction of the party in whose name it is prosecuted, and an attachment is procured to be issued thereon, such attachment is wrongfully obtained within the meaning of section 200 of the code. Bauer v. Mitchell, 80 Neb. 187 (113 N. W. 986).

449. (1898.) If, in an attachment in which the goods of a stranger to the suit have been taken and sold under the writ, the plaintiff, with knowledge of the true ownership of said goods, receives the proceeds of the sale, it constitutes a ratification of the levy. Omaha Nat. Bank v. Robinson, 56 Neb. 590 (77 N. W. 73).

——Joint liability of plaintiff and officer.

450. (1884.) When in an action of trespass de bonis asportatis against a constable and one who was plaintiff in an attachment suit wherein the property of the plaintiff in the case at bar, who was a stranger to the attachment suit, was wrongfully seized and sold by the said constable as the property of the defendant in said attachment suit, the said constable and original plaintiff answer jointly admitting the taking but denying the ownership of the plaintiff at bar and alleging ownership in the defendant in the attachment suit, the said original plaintiff, co-defendant at bar, will be held to have adopted the taking by the constable and to be jointly liable with him. Taylor v. Ryan, 15 Neb. 573 (19 N. W. 475).

451. (1891.) Where the goods of B were wrongfully levied upon and sold on an execution and attachment against A, and the plaintiffs in those actions directed the levy and sale and indemnified the officer, they are jointly liable with him and his sureties for the wrong. Walker v. Wonderlick, 33 Neb. 504 (50 N. W. 445).

452. (1894.) Plaintiffs who indemnify and direct the sheriff in a wrongful levy upon, and sale of, the goods of one person under execution and attachment against another, are jointly liable with the officer and his sureties. Wonderlick v. Walker, 41 Neb. 806 (60 N. W. 103).

453. (1897.) Where an officer levies writs of attachment on the goods of a stranger, the plaintiffs in the attachment cases will be liable in trover, jointly with the officer, not only when they directed the wrongful levy, but also when they subsequently adopted or ratified his acts. Cole v. Edwards, 52 Neb. 711 (72 N. W. 1045).

454. (1901.) A sheriff who, as a condition precedent to the levy of a writ of attachment, demands and receives indemnity from the plaintiff in the suit, acts in so doing in virtue of, and not merely under color of, his office, and the sureties on his official bond are liable for damages resulting from his failure to preserve and properly account for and turn over the security thus obtained. Comstock-Castle Stove Co. v. Caulfield, 1 Unof. 542 (95 N. W. 783).

455. (1903.) The seizure of the goods of a third party by the sheriff under an order of attachment is tortious, and attaching creditors who join with the sheriff in resisting an action brought by such third party to recover the goods become trespassers ab initio, and jointly and severally liable for a money judgment rendered therein in favor of such third party. First

Digitized by Google

Nat. Bank v. Avery Planter Co., 69 Neb. 329 (95 N. W. 622; 111 Am. St. Rep. 541).

——— Attorney.

456. (1882.) When an attorney, in an attachment suit, in addition to his ordinary duties in suing out the writ, specially advises and directs the illegal seizure of property, and assists in its conversion by being present at the sale, and bidding off portions of it for his client, his liability is equal to that of the officer by whom the seizure and sale were made. Peckinbaugh v. Quillin, 12 Neb. 586 (12 N. W. 104).

——— Justice of the peace, and county judge.

457. (1871.) A probate judge issuing an attachment and a sheriff executing it, are not liable for the taking and conversion of property thereon if they have acted in good faith. Morgan v. Marsh, 1 Neb. 361.

458. (1885.) Where an action by attachment is brought before a justice of the peace against a non-resident of the state, and his property attached and sold, the justice will be liable if the cause of action is not founded on contract, judgment, or decree. Wright v. Rouse, 18 Neb. 234 (25 N. W. 80).

459. (1897.) A justice of the peace who issues an order of attachment against a resident of the state, without an undertaking therefor first having been executed, is liable for nominal damages to the defendant in such attachment, although the latter suffer no actual injury therefrom. Head v. Levy, 52 Neb. 456 (72 N. W. 583).

——— Appraisers.

460. (1884.) Persons summoned by an attaching officer, to appraise the attached goods, cannot on making such appraisement, be held liable as trespassers at the suit of one claiming the attachment was wrongful. Thrailkill v. Daily, 16 Neb. 114 (19 N. W. 595).

Jurisdiction.

461. (1892.) An action for a wrongful suing out an attachment under which the property of the debtor was seized, is one for malicious prosecution, and a justice of the peace has no jurisdiction. Rice v. Day, 34 Neb. 100 (51 N. W. 464).

Defenses.

462. (1901.) A judgment in favor of a defendant in an action for maliciously attaching plaintiff's property, held no bar to a subsequent action by plaintiff to recover the penalty of an attachment bond for wrongful issuance of the attachment. Simons v. Fagan, 62 Neb. 287 (87 N. W. 21).

Damages.

463. (1892.) Where from the issue made by the pleadings, it is in effect admitted that an attachment was wrongfully sued out and levied on the debtor's stock of goods, although they were not removed from the store, such debtor, after the dissolution of the attachment, will be entitled to damages for injury to his business and credit, and a verdict for $350 upon the evidence in the record will not be set aside. Meyer & Raapke v. Fagan, 34 Neb. 184 (51 N. W. 753).

464. (1898.) For wrongful injury or destruction of one's financial credit he may recover whatever pecuniary damages he can prove, by competent testimony under proper pleadings, he has sustained thereby. Kyd v. Cook, 56 Neb. 71 (76 N. W. 524; 71 Am. St. Rep. 661).

465. (1898.) One's measure of damages for wrongful attachment of his property is, under proper pleadings, all the damages he has sustained thereby. Gains prevented are losses, and these are damages. Kyd v. Cook, 56 Neb. 71 (76 N. W. 524; 71 Am. St. Rep. 661).

466. (1898.) A loss of profits is a loss which may be reasonably, naturally, and ordinarily expected to follow from the closing up of a merchant's place of business and the seizure of his goods. Kyd v. Cook, 56 Neb. 71 (76 N. W. 524; 71 Am. St. Rep. 661).

467. (1898.) Where a sheriff wrongfully attached a merchant's goods and retained them three months, the merchant, in a suit for damages may prove sales and profits during corresponding months of the previous year as a basis to determine profits lost. Kyd v. Cook, 56 Neb. 71 (76 N. W. 524; 71 Am. St. Rep. 661).

468. (1899.) In an action for wrongful attachment of accounts, the face value of the accounts may or may not furnish a measure of damages. Sloan v. Thomas Mfg. Co., 58 Neb. 713 (79 N. W. 728).

469. (1899.) Under sec. 214 of the code accounts may be subjected to the lien of an attachment and hence in an action for a wrongful seizure and retention of possession of property under a writ of attachment, inclusive of accounts, the plaintiff may recover damages for the wrongful acts in regard to the accounts. Sloan v. Thomas Mfg. Co., 58 Neb. 713 (79 N. W. 728).

Digitized by Google

Pleading.

www.libtool.com.cn

Pleading in general, see Pleading.

470. (1889.) A petition alleging that the defendant caused an attachment wrongfully issued against the plaintiff's property, consisting of horses and drays, thereby causing great damage to the plaintiff by loss of business, and injury to the horses by reason of their being kept shut up for forty days, and causing the expenditure of attorney's fees, states a cause of action for malicious attachment. Jones v. Fruin, 26 Neb. 76 (42 N. W. 283).

471. (1898.) A petition in a suit for wrongful attachment held not demurrable for omitting to give names of persons who refused plaintiff credit because of the attachment. Kyd v. Cook, 56 Neb. 71 (76 N. W. 524; 71 Am. St. Rep. 661).

472. (1898.) A petition in an action for wrongful attachment sufficiently specific to permit plaintiff to introduce evidence of loss of credit sustained by him in consequence of the attachment. Kyd v. Cook, 56 Neb. 71 (76 N. W. 524; 71 Am. St. Rep. 661).

Evidence.

——— Sufficiency.

473. (1883.) In an action against a justice of the peace for wrongfully issuing an attachment, and where the bill of particulars on the attachment suit and the affidavit therein was read in evidence, an instruction that there was no evidence tending to show that defendant acted negligently, wrongfully or corruptly in issuing the attachment, is erroneous. Rouss v. Wright, 14 Neb. 457 (16 N. W. 765).

474. (1889.) To sustain an action for malicious attachment of property, it is necessary to prove want of probable cause, malice, and damage to the plaintiff from the issuing of the attachment. Want of probable cause being shown, the question whether the defendant was actuated by malice is still one of fact for the jury. Jones v. Fruin, 26 Neb. 76 (42 N. W. 283).

475. (1897.) Evidence in an action for wrongful attachment held to show that the damages assessed by the jury, including $500 for loss of reputation and humiliation, are excessive. Jensen v. Hallam, 51 Neb. 492 (70 N. W. 1121).

——— Admissibility.

476. (1884.) On the case set out at length in the opinion, held, that the chattel mortgage and note therein referred to were properly admitted, and the instruction therein referred to properly refused. Taylor v. Ryan, 15 Neb. 573 (19 N. W. 475).

477. (1887.) In an action against a sheriff for conversion of certain millinery goods claimed to belong to the wife of the attachment debtor, it having been proved that both of them had, up to a certain poin of time, under some authority and in som capacity, exercised control over the said stock of goods and the store in which the same was kept, it is competent on the part of the defendant to prove any fact connected with the business which from its nature must have been known to the wife inconsistent with her claim of ownership. Oberfelder v. Kavanaugh, 21 Neb. 483 (32 N. W. 295).

478. (1895.) In an action against an officer for damages for wrongfully selling exempt property, the execution debtor's inventory and affidavit for exemption may be admitted in evidence. Smith v. Johnson, 43 Neb. 754 (62 N. W. 217).

479. (1898.) In an action against a sheriff or coroner for conversion of property seized by him under a writ of attachment, the inventory and appraisement made and assigned by such officer in the attachment proceedings are admissible in evidence against him on the question of the value of the property. Maul v. Drexel, 55 Neb. 446 (76 N. W. 163).

ATTENDANCE.

At court as ground for exemption from process, see Process, §§ 149-154.

At legislature as exempt from process, see Process, §§ 147, 148.

Of juror, see Jury, III.

Of witness, see Witnesses, § 2.

ATTESTATION.

Of assignment of property for creditors, see Assignments for Benefit of Creditors § 36.

Of deed, see Deeds, §§ 56-68.

Proof of attestation as preliminary to introduction of writing in evidence, see Evidence, X, D.

Necessity of, of written contract to sell land, see Frauds, Statute of, §§ 61, 62.

Of mortgage, see Mortgages, §§ 80, 81.

Of will, see Wills, §§ 53-56.

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

ATTORNEY AND CLIENT.

ANALYSIS.

I. THE OFFICE OF ATTORNEY.
(A) Admission to practice.
Jurisdiction to admit, §§ 1, 2.
Capacity and qualifications, §§ 3-6.
Right of attorney of another state to appear in case, § 7.
(B) Privileges, disabilities and liabilities.
Acting for adverse parties, §§ 8-10.
Professional conduct in general, §§ 11-13.
(C) Suspension and disbarment.
Jurisdiction of courts, §§ 14-16.
Grounds, §§ 17-23.
Proceedings.
——— Postponement pending indictment, §§ 24, 25.
——— Joinder with contempt proceedings, § 26.
——— Sufficiency of evidence, § 27.
——— Costs, §§ 28, 29.

II. RETAINER AND AUTHORITY.
Proof of authority, § 30.
——— Presumptions and burden of proof, §§ 31-38.
Termination of relation, §§ 39, 40.
Scope of authority in general, §§ 41-43.
Delegation of authority, §§ 44, 45.
Execution of indemnity bond, § 46.
Confession of judgment, § 47.
Commencement and conduct of litigation, § 48.
——— Entry of appearance, §§ 49-53.
——— Dismissal of action, §§ 54, 55.
——— Conduct of trial, §§ 56-58.
——— Assignment of judgment, § 59.
——— Control of execution, §§ 60-62.
Receiving payment, §§ 63-67.
Settlements, compromises, and releases, §§ 68-73.

III. DUTIES AND LIABILITIES OF ATTORNEY TO CLIENT.
Advice to client, § 74.
Acquiring property adversely to interests of client, §§ 75-82.
Summary remedies of client, §83.
Actions for money collected, §§ 84-86.
Actions for negligence, § 87.

IV. COMPENSATION AND LIEN OF ATTORNEY.
(A) Fees and other remuneration.
Services under assignment by court, §§88, 89.
Premature termination of relationship, §§ 90, 91.
Services for which fees may be charged, §§ 92-97.
Persons liable, §§ 98-100.
Value of services, § 101.
Contracts for compensation, §§ 102-108.
——— Employment by attorney of assistant, §§ 109-112.
Apportionment between attorneys, §§ 113, 114.
Allowance and payment from funds in court, § 115.

Digitized by Google

Actions for compensation.
——— Limitations, § 116.
——— Defenses, § 117.
——— Pleading, §§ 118, 119.
——— Evidence, §§ 120-127.
——— Instructions, § 128.
Payment of fees as fraud against creditors, § 129.
(B) Lien.
Right to lien, §§ 130-132.
Notice, §§ 133-140.
Services or fees covered, § 141.
Subject matter to which lien attaches, §§ 142-151
Priorities, § 152.
Assignment of judgment, §§ 153-154.
Assignment of claim, §§ 155, 156.
Release of lien, § 157.
Protection against settlement between parties, §§ 158, 159.
——— Remedies of attorney, §§ 160-164.
Protection against set-off between parties, §§ 165-167.
Enforcement, §§ 168-177.

www.libtool.com.cn

CROSS-REFERENCES.

Liability for advising wrongful attachment, see Attachment, § 456.

Contracts as champertous, see Champerty and Maintenance.

Excepting to charge to grand jury as contempt, see Contempt, § 12.

Refusal to appear as counsel before a particular judge, as contempt, see Contempt, §§ 2, 3.

Filing affidavit of prejudice of judge as contempt of court, see Contempt, §§ 4-8.

Absence of attorney as ground for continuance, see Continuance, §§ 8, 9.

Agreement of attorneys as grounds for continuance, see Continuance, §§ 1, 2.

Employment by county board, see Counties, § 164.

Exemption against claim for moneys collected by attorney, see Exemptions, §§ 55, 56.

Liability of attorney for embezzlement, see Embezzlement, §§ 28, 29.

Indictment charging attorney with embezzlement, see Embezzlement, § 34.

Negligence of attorney as ground for relief against judgment, see Judgment, §§ 370, 371.

Advice of attorney as probable cause for prosecution, see Malicious Prosecution, §§ 21-27.

Neglect of counsel as ground for new trial, see New Trial, §§ 50, 51.

Appearance by, for partnership, see Partnership, §§ 202, 203.

Liability of attorney who signs a bond in legal proceedings, see Principal and Surety, § 37.

Appointment of attorney for receiver, see Receivers, § 76.

Argument of attorneys, see Trial, V.

Arguments and conduct of counsel in trial of case, see Trial, §§ 177-221.

Liability to administrator for conversion of property, see Trover and Conversion, § 3.

I. THE OFFICE OF ATTORNEY.

A. Admission to Practice.

Jurisdiction to admit.

1. (1900.) Since the passage of the act of 1895 (ch. 6) the power to license to practice in the courts of Nebraska has been taken from the district courts and lodged exclusively in the supreme court. In re Admission to the Bar, 61 Neb. 58 (84 N. W. 611).

2. (1906.) Section 9, chapter 3, Revised Statutes, 1866, was not repealed as a whole by chapter 6, laws 1895, but the power of the district court to admit attorneys of other states to practice in this state was taken away by that act. In re Burton, 76 Neb. 752 (107 N. W. 1015).

Capacity and qualifications.

3. (1900.) No one but a citizen of the United States and a resident of the state of Nebraska can be admitted to practice generally in the courts of said state. In re Admission to the Bar, 61 Neb. 58 (84 N. W. 611).

4. (1900.) To entitle a person to apply for admission to the bar of the supreme court under the provisions of section 2, chapter 7, of the Compiled Statutes, he must, at the time of making his application, have attained to the age of twenty-one years. In re Admission to the Bar, 61 Neb. 58 (84 N. W. 611).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

5. (1900.) Attentive study of the law in the office of a practicing attorney for the full period of two years, or regular graduation from the College of Law of the University of Nebraska, is absolutely required; and study in any other law school, or otherwise than in such office, will not be considered. In re Admission to the Bar, 61 Neb. 58 (84 N. W. 611).

6. (1900.) The "practicing attorney," in whose office the statute requires the studies of the applicant to be duly pursued, is one who resides and practices in this state. In re Admission to the Bar, 61 Neb. 58 (84 N. W. 611).

Right of attorney of another state to appear in case.

7. (1900.) A practicing attorney, in good standing in the courts of record of a sister state, a territory or a foreign country, having an interest in a cause pending in any of the courts of this state, may, in the discretion of such courts, and as a matter of courtesy, be permitted to appear in said court for some of the purposes of such cause. In re Admission to the Bar, 61 Neb. 58 (84 N. W. 611).

B. Privileges, Disabilities and Liabilities.

Competency of attorney as juror, see Jury, § 201.

Competency of attorney to testify in action against client, see Witnesses, §§ 126-142.

Acting for adverse parties.

8. (1889.) Where an attorney was employed to defend a prosecution in bastardy and in violation of his retainer sought to appear for the plaintiff in the action, and was perpetually enjoined from so doing, such retainer and injunction will not prevent him from accepting a retainer and appearing for the plaintiff in a suit for damages resulting from a breach of contract for marriage, the plaintiff and defendant being the same as in the prosecution for bastardy. Musselman v. Barker, 26 Neb. 737 (42 N. W. 759).

9. (1895.) An attorney is bound to the most scrupulous good faith, when acting for his client. He must be loyal to the interests intrusted to his care. The members of a firm of attorneys cannot represent opposite sides of the same cause without the knowledge and consent of the clients. Cox v. Barnes, 45 Neb. 172 (63 N. W. 394).

10. (1899.) The fact that after an agreement for an amicable suit, the attorney for defendant, as an accommodation to the non-resident attorneys for plaintiff, signed their name to the petition dictated by them, and filed it, does not show that he was attorney for both parties so as to constitute ground for enjoining enforcement of the judgment. City of Broken Bow v. Broken Bow Water-Works Co., 57 Neb. 548 (77 N. W. 1078).

Professional conduct in general.

11. (1885.) An attorney should never allow himself to be placed in the attitude of encouraging litigation; nor should he allow himself to become personally interested in the cause of his client by assuming any personal liability. Tessier v. Crowley, 17 Neb. 207 (22 N. W. 422).

12. (1886.) In granting a license to practice law it is on the implied understanding that the party receiving it shall in all things demean himself in a proper manner, and abstain from such practices as cannot fail to bring discredit upon himself, the profession, and the courts. State, ex rel. Attorney General, v. Burr, 19 Neb. 593 (28 N. W. 261).

13. (1891.) The court will not permit one of its officers to resort to questionable means in the prosecution of a case in order to obtain fees not allowed by the laws of the state. In re Breckenridge, 31 Neb. 489 (48 N. W. 142).

C. Suspension and Disbarment.

Jurisdiction of courts.

14. (1886.) The supreme court, having power by express statute to grant a license to practice law, has an inherent right to see that the license is not abused or perverted to a use not contemplated in the grant. State, ex rel. Attorney General, v. Burr, 19 Neb. 593 (28 N. W. 261).

15. (1906.) The supreme court alone can pass upon the qualifications of applicants for admission to the bar, and has sole power to annul such admission. In re Disbarment Proceedings of Newby, 76 Neb. 482 (107 N. W. 850).

16. (1906.) Charges of criminal or immoral conduct calling for disbarment should be addressed to the supreme court. In re Disbarment Proceedings of Newby, 76 Neb. 482 (107 N. W. 850).

Digitized by Google

Grounds.

www.libtool.com.cn

17. (1886.) If a deceit is practiced by an attorney in his character as such, although not in a suit pending in the court, he may be removed from his office as attorney. The effect of such removal is to deprive the attorney of the right to practice as such in all courts of record of the state. State, ex rel. Attorney General, v. Burr, 19 Neb. 593 (28 N. W. 261).

18. (1886.) Where an attorney who has defended a prosecution for murder through the district and supreme courts and his client is found guilty and sentenced to be hanged, and pending appeal to the federal court, such attorney induces a United States commissioner to wrongfully release such convict in a void writ of habeas corpus such conduct is a violation of the official duty of an attorney, and he should be removed from such office. State, ex rel. Attorney General, v. Burr, 19 Neb. 593 (28 N. W. 261).

19. (1886.) Where an information, filed against an attorney in disbarment proceedings, alleges that a person was convicted of the crime of murder in the first degree and sentenced to be hanged, which sentence was affirmed by the supreme court, and sending an appeal to the supreme court, the convict was confined in the jail of another county, and the answer of the respondent admits the allegations, it is sufficient to show that the imprisonment was legal, and a release of the person convicted would be unlawful. State, ex rel. Attorney General, v. Burr, 19 Neb. 593 (28 N. W. 261).

20. (1886.) Section 5 of chapter 7, Compiled Statutes of 1885, does not control the action of an attorney in conducting "the defense of a person charged with a public offense," but this is limited to such defense in a court upon the trial of the case on its merits, or in a collateral or interlocutory proceeding. It does not permit the use of illegal or fraudulent means to secure the release or escape of a person convicted of crime. State, ex rel. Attorney General, v. Burr, 19 Neb. 593 (28 N. W. 261).

21. (1886.) An attorney who has wrongfully induced a United States commissioner to wrongfully issue a writ of habeas corpus, thus obtaining the release of one convicted of murder, cannot be heard to say that he was acting in good faith, and that he believed he was proceeding in accordance with law. State, ex rel. Attorney General, v. Burr, 19 Neb. 593 (28 N. W. 261).

22. (1886.) Evidence that shows an attorney, by fraud and misrepresentation, induced a United States commissioner into believing that he had power to release a person, convicted and imprisoned for murder, by habeas corpus, and procured such writ and the release of such convicted person, is sufficient to find such attorney guilty of such misconduct as will warrant his disbarment. State, ex rel. Attorney General, v. Burr, 19 Neb. 593 (28 N. W. 261).

23. (1906.) If the charge upon which disbarment proceedings are based involves professional misconduct in the relations of an attorney at law with the court in which he practices, that court may, upon satisfactory proof, disbar the attorney from practicing before it. In re Disbarment Proceedings of Newby, 76 Neb. 482 (107 N. W. 850).

Proceedings.

——— Postponement pending indictment.

24. (1900.) Where disbarment proceedings are founded, in part, upon facts made the basis of a prior pending indictment or information against the same attorney, the court may, where no abuse of discretion is shown, postpone the consideration of the specification in the proceeding to disbar involved in the criminal case until the latter is terminated. Morton v. Watson, 60 Neb. 672 (84 N. W. 91).

25. (1906.) If proceedings for disbarment are begun against an attorney at law based solely upon a charge of crime against the laws of this state, which is not admitted by the accuser, the supreme court will not, ordinarily, investigate the facts constituting the alleged crime while the matter is pending upon indictment in the district court. In re Disbarment Proceedings of Newby, 76 Neb. 482 (107 N. W. 850).

——— Joinder with contempt proceedings.

26. (1897.) A charge of malpractice against an attorney and counselor at law may be joined with a prosecution for a contempt of court where both charges involve a single transaction. Blodgett v. State, 50 Neb. 121 (69 N. W. 751).

——— Sufficiency of evidence.

27. (1900.) Where, in a disbarment proceeding instituted against an attorney, the evidence is fairly conflicting, a finding based thereon will not be disturbed on review. Morton v. Watson, 60 Neb. 672 (84 N. W. 91).

Digitized by Google

——— Costs.

28. (1900.) In disbarment proceedings costs cannot be taxed against the informer where he acted in good faith. Morton v. Watson, 60 Neb. 672 (84 N. W. 91).

29. (1900.) A person who files a complaint in a disbarment proceeding is in no sense a party to an action, but a friend of the court. Morton v. Watson, 60 Neb. 672 (84 N. W. 91).

II. RETAINER AND AUTHORITY.

Attorney as surety on attachment bond, see Attachment, § 143.

Authority of attorney to enter appearance, see Appearance, §§ 8-16.

Authority of attorney to take acknowledgment of client, see Acknowledgment, § 18.

Authority of attorney to take affidavit in case, see Affidavit, §§ 8-10.

Authority of attorney to waive summons in error, see Appeal and Error, §§ 635-638.

Power of attorney to take affidavit in attachment, see Attachment, §§ 86-88.

Validity of affidavit in attachment made by attorney, see Attachment, § 95.

Proof of authority.

30. (1889.) Where question of the authority of an attorney to appear in a case was submitted to the trial jury specially, and they found that the appearance of counsel in proceedings, upon which plaintiff's rights were based, was without authority, the finding of the jury was conclusive. Vorce v. Page, 28 Neb. 294 (44 N. W. 452).

——— Presumptions and burden of proof.

31. (1883.) Although an authority will be presumed when an attorney appears for a defendant not served with process, yet, if the defendant prove that he had no authority, his rights cannot be affected by the attorney's acts. Kepley v. Irwin, 14 Neb. 300 (15 N. W. 719).

32. (1884.) Where an attorney appears for a party and procures a correction of the record, it is presumed that he had authority to do so. White v. Merriam, 16 Neb. 98 (19 N. W. 703).

33. (1889.) Where an attorney appears in a cause, the presumption is that he has authority and that presumption continues until the want of such authority is established by proof. Vorce v. Page, 28 Neb. 294 (44 N. W. 452).

34. (1892.) Where an attorney waives process and appears for a defendant, his authority to do so will be presumed; but the defendant may deny and disprove such authority, in which case he will not be bound by the attorney's appearance. Kirschbaum v. Scott, 35 Neb. 199 (52 N. W. 1112).

35. (1893.) Where action is prosecuted for several co-plaintiffs, under direct employment by only one plaintiff, it will be presumed the latter had authority from his co-plaintiffs to employ counsel for them. Sprague v. Fuller, 36 Neb. 220 (54 N. W. 423).

36. (1893.) Where want of authority to appear for a defendant against whom judgment has been rendered is alleged to invalidate such judgment, the burden of proof of such want of authority is upon the party asserting the same. Connell v. Galligher, 36 Neb. 749 (55 N. W. 229).

37. (1898.) The authority of an attorney who actually enters an appearance will be presumed to justify him in so doing. Missouri P. R. Co. v. Fox, 56 Neb. 746 (77 N. W. 130).

38. (1905.) Where an attorney appears in an action for a defendant, the presumption is that he was authorized to appear. Evidence examined, and held not to overcome this presumption. Ebel v. Stringer, 73 Neb. 249 (102 N. W. 466).

Termination of relation.

39. (1902.) In the absence of stipulations evidencing a different intent, an employment of an attorney to prosecute a claim to a recovery, terminates with the rendition of a judgment thereon and the exhaustion of the usual legal process upon the judgment. It does not include the prosecution of subsequent actions and proceedings to reach the property of the judgment debtor, or to enforce liability against his sureties upon supersedeas. Lamb v. Wilson, 3 Unof. 505 (97 N. W. 325).

40. (1906.) Death or disability, which renders the performance of a contract of attorney and client impossible, annuls the contract. Corson v. Lewis, 77 Neb. 446 (109 N. W. 735).

Scope of authority in general.

41. (1881.) An attorney as such, has no authority to give notice to an agent of the client, of the termination of the agency. Tingley v. Parshall, 11 Neb. 443 (9 N. W. 571).

Digitized by Google

42. (1901.) A party to a suit is not bound by any step taken by his attorney, in the latter's behalf, in another action. Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. v. Milliken, 62 Neb. 116 (86 N. W. 913).

43. (1902.) Ordinarily, an attorney has no implied authority to bind his principal by the indorsement of negotiable paper. National Fire Ins. Co. v. Eastern Building & Loan Ass'n, 63 Neb. 698 (88 N. W. 863).

Delegation of authority.

44. (1886.) An appearance by an attorney by authority of another attorney but which authority is denied by the party, there being no proof of knowledge of the pendency of the proceedings on the part of said party, was unauthorized. Hurste v. Hotaling, 20 Neb. 178 (29 N. W. 299).

45. (1890.) A contract for professional services—as that of an attorney—is personal and confidential and cannot be assigned to another without the assent of the client and in case of such assignment without assent, the client may declare the contract at an end and recover certain lands conveyed as a conditional fee, for the prosecution of the action—money expended in the prosecution of the action, however, to be refunded. Hilton v. Crooker, 30 Neb. 707 (47 N. W. 3).

Execution of indemnity bond.

46. (1894.) An attorney at law, by virtue merely of his employment as such to prosecute an action, has no authority to execute on behalf of his client a bond to indemnify the sheriff from the consequences of levying upon property claimed by a stranger, the client residing and being at the place where the events took place and there being full opportunity for prompt communication between client and attorney. Luce v. Foster, 42 Neb. 818 (60 N. W. 1027).

Confession of judgment.

47. (1887.) Under section 1001, civil code, an attorney may confess judgment for costs. Stanton & Co. v. Spence, 22 Neb. 191 (34 N. W. 359).

Commencement and conduct of litigation.

48. (1899.) The authority of counsel to file a pleading for one of the parties to an action cannot be first questioned in the supreme court. German Nat. Bank of Hastings v. First Nat. Bank of Hastings, 59 Neb. 7 (80 N. W. 48).

——— Entry of appearance.

Presumption of authority, see ante, §§ 31-38.

49. (1871.) An attorney of record in a cause in the district court may, when the cause is removed into the supreme court, enter therein the voluntary appearance of his clients, without the issue of service of summons in error. McDonald v. Pennistón, 1 Neb. 324.

50. (1883.) The right of an attorney to enter an appearance for a party in an action can be called in question only by the party himself. Baldwin v. Foss, 14 Neb. 455 (16 N. W. 480); (1884) White v. Merriam, 16 Neb. 98 (19 N. W. 703).

51. (1888.) Where the sole authority of a court to proceed in an action and render judgment is the general appearance of an attorney for the defendant, such right to appear may be denied, and the judgment vacated; but where service is made upon some of the members of a firm, and an attorney appears for all, the proof should be clear that he was not warranted in appearing for all. Winters v. Means, 25 Neb. 241 (41 N. W. 157; 13 Am. St. Rep. 489).

52. (1895.) Whether a warrant of attorney is sufficient under the laws of another state to authorize the appearance entered thereunder, is a question to be determined from the evidence as to the laws of that state. Snyder v. Critchfield, 44 Neb. 66 (62 N. W. 306).

53. (1900.) An attorney of a municipal corporation, without authority therefor, cannot waive the issuance and service of summons and enter the voluntary appearance of the defendant in an action. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. County of Hitchcock, 60 Neb. 722 (84 N. W. 97).

——— Dismissal of action.

54. (1901.) An attorney at law employed to bring and prosecute an action has no authority to dismiss such action contrary to the desire and over the objection of his client. Steinkamp v. Gaebel, 1 Unof. 480 (95 N. W. 684).

55. (1901.) After his employment had been terminated, an attorney who had been employed to bring an action dismissed it contrary to his client's desire. The statutory period of limitation for actions of that nature had elapsed pending suit. Held, That a motion, made at the same term, to set aside the order of dismissal and reinstate the case should have been sustained. Steinkamp v. Gaebel, 1 Unof. 480 (95 N. W. 684).

Digitized by Google

——— Conduct of trial.

56. (1873.) Agreements relating to the conduct of a suit, and its proceedings during trial, made by the attorneys in the case in open court and entered upon the record, are binding upon the parties. McCann v. McLennan, 3 Neb. 25.

57. (1875.) The attorey has a right to agree to submit the case without argument. Palmer v. People, 4 Neb. 68.

58. (1879.) An attorney has general authority from his client in all matters which may reasonably be expected to arise during the progress of a case. He may make agreements as to continuances, evidence, and the conduct of the trial; and if in such matters he enters into any agreement within the scope of his authority his client is bound thereby even though contrary to his interest. State Bank of Nebraska v. Green, 8 Neb. 297.

——— Assignment of judgment.

59. (1899.) An attorney cannot, without actual authority from his client, sell and assign his client's judgment. Henry & Coatsworth Co. v. Halter, 58 Neb. 685 (79 N. W. 616).

——— Control of execution.

60. (1879.) An attorney under his general authority cannot authorize the clerk to issue execution on a judgment while a supersedeas bond for an appeal was on file in the clerk's office. State Bank v. Green, 8 Neb. 297.

61. (1894.) An attorney who has signed an indemnity bond to a sheriff or an execution has no authority to bind his client by an agreement that the proceeds of execution shall be by the sheriff paid to the surety on the indemnity bond, to be held as security against liability thereon. Luce v. Foster, 42 Neb. 818 (60 N. W. 1027).

62. (1899.) An attorney, by virtue of his employment to prosecute a case, has no authority to bind his client by an agreement that the purchaser at the judicial sale shall pay the amount of his bid to a third person instead of to the officer making the sale. Fire Ass'n of Philadelphia v. Ruby, 58 Neb. 730 (79 N. W. 723).

Receiving payment.

63. (1897.) A debtor dealing with an attorney who holds for collection a claim against him is bound to take notice of the attorney's authority. Cram v. Sickel, 51 Neb. 828 (71 N. W. 724; 66 Am. St. Rep. 478).

64. (1897.) Unless specially authorized by his client, an attorney employed to collect a debt has no authority to accept in payment therefor anything but money, nor to release one of two joint debtors in consideration of the other giving security for the debt. Cram v. Sickel, 51 Neb. 828 (71 N. W. 724; 66 Am. St. Rep. 478).

65. (1901.) An attorney may have authority to collect a note and mortgage for his principal without having the same in his possession. Orient Ins. Co. v. Hayes, 61 Neb. 173 (85 N. W. 57).

66. (1902.) An attorney who has authority to collect a claim from a corporation, and who, in the adjustment thereof, receives a draft from the adjusting agent of such corporation, drawn on the paying agent thereof, for the amount of such claim, has implied authority to bind his principal by an indorsement of such draft, made to enable him to receive the amunt due thereon. National Fire Ins. Co. v. Eastern Building & Loan Ass'n, 63 Neb. 698 (88 N. W. 863).

67. (1906.) An attorney may, by virtue of his retainer, receive and receipt for money due his client in a case in which he is employed, and the act will bind his client, unless the party paying it had notice of a revocation of the attorney's authority to act in the case. Gordon v. City of Omaha, 77 Neb. 556 (110 N. W. 313).

Settlements, compromises and releases.

68. (1882.) An attorney at law, by virtue of his employment to make collections, has no authority to release a surety on a promissory note without payment; such authority must be proved. Stoll v. Sheldon, 13 Neb. 207 (13 N. W. 201).

69. (1883.) The ordinary powers of an attorney do not authorize him to enter into an agreement to take about one-third of the face value of a valid judgment in favor of his client, and accept payment of the same in a debt owing by such attorney. Hamrick v Combs, 14 Sep. 381 (15 N. W. 731).

70. (1896.) An attorney employed to collect a debt has not by virtue of his general employment authority to release a debtor except upon payment of the full amount of the debt in money. Smith v.

Digitized by Google

Jones, 47 Neb. 108 (66 N. W. 19; 53 Am. St. Rep. 519).

71. (1906.) Evidence showing plaintiff left an account for work and labor, with other evidence of authority sustains a finding of authority of such attorney to settle the claims. Flora v. Chapman, 77 Neb. 741 (110 N. W. 664).

72. (1907.) A person claiming title derived under a decree of court will not be heard to dispute the authority of the attorney to enter into the stipulation upon which the decree was based. Peterson v. Ramsey, 78 Neb. 235 (110 N. W. 728).

73. (1907.) A landlord is estopped to deny the authority of his attorney to compromise and settle a claim for rent, where he accepts and retains the amount received in settlement. Fenimore v. White, 78 Neb. 520 (111 N. W. 204).

III. DUTIES AND LIABILITIES OF ATTORNEY TO CLIENT.

Advice to client.

74. (1898.) The expression of an opinion as to the probabilities of realizing a certain sum upon the sale of real property is not such an expression of opinion as renders liable an attorney because of a mistake in his estimate. Reumping v. Wharton, 56 Neb. 536 (76 N. W. 1076).

Acquiring property adversely to interests of client.

75. (1894.) Land purchased by the attorney of the judgment debtor in his wife's name at the execution sale, is not held in trust for the latter, where he has instructed the attorney not to purchase the land for him. Washburn v. Osgood, 38 Neb. 804 (57 N. W. 529).

75a. (1889.) An attorney selling real estate for his client, and representing the title to be good, which representation is relied on, cannot thereafter assert title in himself to any of the real estate so sold. Little v. Giles, 25 Neb. 313 (41 N. W. 186).

76. (1898.) An attorney who purchases a judgment against his client can recover thereon only the amount paid. Olson v. Lamb, 56 Neb. 104 (76 N. W. 433; 71 Am. St. Rep. 670).

77. (1893.) An attorney may not purchase at judicial sale property in which his client is interested. If he do so the client at his election may treat him as a trustee. But the client by afterwards dealing with the attorney as the owner, may ratify the purchase or estop himself from claiming the benefit thereof. Olson v. Lamb, 56 Neb. 104 (76 N. W. 433; 71 Am. St. Rep. 670).

78. (1898.) If the attorney conceal from the client material facts which might affect the client's election, dealings with the attorney on the basis of the latter's ownership, but in ignorance of such facts, will not prevent the client, on learning the facts, from then enforcing the trust. Olson v. Lamb, 56 Neb. 104 (76 N. W. 433; 71 Am. St. Rep. 670).

79. (1898.) Where it was shown that an attorney owned one of several liens upon property under foreclosure; that a sale was made and to procure a re-sale he offered to bid a certain sum; that on re-sale he brought for $1,000 less than his offer; that to procure confirmation he remitted $1,000 from his lien; that one of his clients owned a lien of equal priority, and the bid actually made was insufficient to pay this class,—held that on accounting the client was entitled to such share of the $1,000 as he would have realized if the bid had been that much higher and no remittitur entered. Olson v. Lamb, 56 Neb. 104 (76 N. W. 433; 71 Am. St. Rep. 670).

80. (1905.) Where an attorney at law has bought one-half interest in lands sold by his client, and such sale is set aside on account of the attorneys connected therewith, the vendor may set off the rents and profits which the vendees have collected against the purchase price he is required to return. Levara v. McNeny, 73 Neb. 414 (102 N. W. 1042).

81. (1905.) Where the attorney purchases the subject of the suit the client may set aside the purchase at will, unless the attorney shows by clear and conclusive proof that no advantage was taken; that everything was explained to the client, and that the price was fair and reasonable. Levara v. McNeny, 73 Neb. 414 (102 N. W. 1042).

82. (1905.) Where an attorney, by statements and representations made to his clients as to the condition and value of their land, the subject of the litigation, procures the sale thereof to be made to a third party for whom he is at the same time acting in that capacity, for an inadequate price, and immediately takes a half interest therein for himself, paying one-half of the consideration, a court of equity will set aside the transaction and the conveyances, and restore the estate to the vendors on the repayment of the purchase price, with interest at seven per cent. per annum. Levara v. McNeny, 73 Neb. 414 (102 N. W. 1042).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

Summary remedies of client.

83. (1884.) The jurisdiction of the district court to compel an attorney to pay money into court, which has been collected by the attorney for the client, cannot be questioned; but when the client has received all the money to which he is entitled, the power of the district court ceases, and it cannot in a summary way compel the attorney to pay money into court for other parties claiming a share in the fees retained by the attorney. That question must be settled by an action between themselves. Baldwin v. Foss, 16 Neb. 80 (19 N. W. 496).

Action for money collected.

84. (1892.) A petition that alleges defendant has collected a certain sum of money as plaintiff's attorney, and that defendant is entitled to retain a certain sum as fees, the balance being due to plaintiff, states a cause of action. Fletcher v. Cummings, 33 Neb. 793 (51 N. W. 144).

85. (1895.) Under an allegation that an attorney received for the use of plaintiff, but not pursuant to a contract between them, money paid by a judgment debtor, which defendant wrongfully detained, it is error to instruct the jury that a reasonable sum may be allowed for professional services, where defendant answers that he retained only the sum due him under a contract with plaintiff. Wigton v. Smith, 46 Neb. 461 (64 N. W. 1080).

86. (1896.) In an action solely for money alleged to have been collected by the defendants to whom, as attorneys at law, the collection of the same had been intrusted, a recovery for damages resulting from an unauthorized appearance by defendants as attorneys at law in an action entirely independent of the aforesaid collection cannot be sustained. Scott v. Kirschbaum, 47 Neb. 331 (66 N. W. 443).

Actions for negligence.

87. (1898.) In an action against attorneys at law for damages because of their alleged failure to obtain, upon appeal, the modification of a decree in like manner with others of the parties who did appeal, a failure of the evidence to show like conditions held to justify the supreme court's refusal to disapprove of an instruction of the district court to find for the defendants in such action for damages. Reumping v. Wharton, 56 Neb. 536 (76 N. W. 1076).

IV. COMPENSATION AND LIEN OF ATTORNEY.

A. Fees and Other Remuneration.

Attorneys' fees as damages in attachment, see Attachment, § 426.

Provisions for attorneys' fees as affecting negotiability of note, see Bills and Notes, §§ 129-131.

Attorneys' fees as costs, see Costs, §§ 66-94.

Compensation of county attorney, see County Attorneys, §§ 15, 16.

Recovery of attorneys' fees as costs in action on covenant, see Covenant, §§ 79, 80.

Allowance in divorce case, see Divorce, §§ 144-151.

Validity of conveyance to, in payment of future services, see Fraudulent Conveyances, § 67.

Fees paid to attorney in procuring dissolution of injunction as element of damages in action on bond, see Injunction, §§ 180, 182, 184, 186-190, 192-194, 196.

Fees on foreclosure of mortgage, see Mortgages, §§ 940-946.

Allowance of fee in partition, see Partition, §§ 44-47.

Allowance in action to quiet title, see Quieting Title, § 122.

Adding attorney's fee as usury, see Usury, § 70.

Services under assignment by court.

88. (1888.) The certificate of the judge of the district court, that a claim for compensation to counsel appointed by such court to conduct the defense of a person charged with felony, has "been examined and allowed by the court," is not conclusive upon the county commissioners as to the amount which should be allowed for such services. It is prima facie evidence that the amount allowed by the district court is correct, but the county board has the right to re-examine the account and allow so much as they may think just. Boone County v. Armstrong, 23 Neb. 764 (37 N. W. 626).

89. (1895.) The claim for attorney's fees for defending an indigent prisoner in the district court and for services in the supreme court upon review must be presented and allowed in the lower court. The supreme court has no authority to allow such claims. Edmonds v. State, 43 Neb. 742 (62 N. W. 199).

Digitized by Google

Premature termination of relationship.

90. (1903.) Attorneys who have undertaken to establish, for a contingent fee, a client's right to a fund in court, and who, after rendering valuable services, have been defeated in the district court, and who have furnished a supersedeas bond to retain the fund, and are taking steps to have the decision against their client reviewed on error, are entitled, when their client under these circumstances refuses to pay them and instructs them to proceed no further on her behalf, to prosecute error proceedings in her name, on their own behalf, in order to collect their contingent fee out of the fund still in court, if they can establish their client's right to it. Counsman v. Modern Woodmen of America, 69 Neb. 713 (98 N. W. 414).

91. (1906.) If a disability occurs after a special contract for services has been partly performed, this does not prevent the disabled party, if the breach of the contract was made through no fault of his own, but by the act of God or unavoidable casualty, from receiving upon a quantum meruit for the reasonable value of the services rendered prior to the disability. Corson v. Lewis, 77 Neb. 449 (114 N. W. 281).

Services for which fees may be charged.

92. (1891.) Courts will not aid any attorney to recover for services rendered for the sole object and purpose of obstructing and delaying courts in the administration of justice. Nor is it the legitimate business of an attorney to knowingly aid a litigant in that way, by delaying the trial of an action in which there is no defense. Van Etten v. Butt, 32 Neb. 285 (49 N. W. 365).

93. (1895.) Attorneys' fees are not ordinarily recoverable for services rendered in an attempt to dissolve a temporary restraining order pending the hearing of a motion to allow a temporary injunction. Carnes v. Heimrod, 45 Neb. 364 (63 N. W. 809).

94. (1898.) Advising with the sheriff as to the proper levying of a writ of attachment is a proper service to a client for which an attorney is entitled to compensation. People's Nat. Bank v. Geisthardt, 55 Neb. 232 (75 N. W. 582).

95. (1898.) An attorney who purchases for his own benefit at judicial sale property in which his client is interested will not, in a suit to declare a trust, be allowed compensation for professional services in procuring the sale to be confirmed. Olson v. Lamb, 56 Neb. 104 (76 N. W. 433; 71 Am. St. Rep. 670).

96. (1906.) It is not necessary that a claim, the basis of a suit, be reduced to judgment to enable an attorney to recover on quantum meruit. Corson v. Lewis, 77 Neb. 449 (114 N. W. 281).

97. (1907.) An attorney employed as attorney for an administrator in the administration of the estate, cannot consistently act also as attorney for the adminisrator personally to assist the latter as heir in getting as much out of the estate as possible, and hence is not entitled to compensation for the latter services. Marshall v. Piggott, 78 Neb. 722 (111 N. W. 532).

Persons liable.

98. (1891.) The attorney for the plaintiff in a suit for divorce cannot maintain an action for attorney's fees against the husband, in addition to those allowed by the court and paid. Burnham v. Tizard, 31 Neb. 781 (48 N. W. 823).

99. (1906.) The estate of a decedent is not ordinarily liable to an attorney for services rendered by him for and at the request of a legatee under decedent's will, in a contest thereof. St. James Orphan Asylum v. McDonald, 76 Neb. 630 (110 N. W. 626).

100. (1906.) A decedent's estate is properly chargeable with fees paid to counsel for services rendered in successfully defending the will against attack, and this rule ordinarily should not be departed from in a case where the contest is instituted by the person named in the will as executor, and the defense is conducted by counsel employed on behalf of a legatee. St. James Orphan Asylum v. McDonald, 76 Neb. 625 (107 N. W. 979). [Overruled. 76 Neb. 630.]

Value of services.

101. (1891.) The preponderance of the testimony in the case establishes that the defendant employed the plaintiff, a practicing attorney, to prosecute a certain action in the district court of Buffalo county, and that the attorney rendered the services as agreed. There was no agreement as to the amount of fees. Held, That the defendant was liable for the reasonable value of the services. Cowles v. Thompson, 31 Neb. 479 (48 N. W. 145).

Digitized by Google

Contracts for compensation.

102. (1871.) There is no relation or agency between a party forwarding a written request to counsel for his opinion, and another party by whom the writing is transmitted. Jamesson v. Butler, 1 Neb. 115.

www.lbtool.com.cn

103. (1871.) A written request to counsel for his deliberate legal opinion, justifies him in preparing and forwarding such opinion in writing. Jameson v. Butler, 1 Neb. 115.

104. (1905.) A contract between an attorney and client for services to be rendered by the former is not necessarily invalid because a part of the services to be rendered is the procurement of legislative action, nor because such contract provides for a contingent fee and will be enforced unless it appears that it contemplates the use of unlawful or improper means, or that such means were employed in pursuance thereof to attain the object for which the contract was made. Richardson v. Scott's Bluff County, 59 Neb. 400 (81 N. W. 309), modified. Stroemer v. Van Orsdel, 74 Neb. 132 (103 N. W. 1053).

105. (1905.) The fact that the agent or attorney in carrying out his agreement for services in reference to claims of Indian land purchasers, and as incidental thereto, appears before a committee of both houses of congress and explains the nature of a bill prepared by the secretary of the interior, authorizing him to grant the reduction of the price of such lands agreed upon, does not render such contract void, or preclude the attorney from recovering the compensation expressed therein for his services. Stroemer v. Van Orsdel, 74 Neb. 143 (107 N. W. 125).

106. (1905.) An agreement for purely professional services, such as "collecting facts, preparing and submitting to the Indians and proper authorities of the government of the United States arguments upon the merits of the claims of those holding Indian lands purchased from the government for a reduction, and upon the justice and advisability of a reduction, of the purchase price of such lands, as may be necessary and proper to secure such reduction," is valid. Stroemer v. Van Orsdel, 74 Neb. 143 (107 N. W. 125).

107. (1905.) If a contract of employment by the year has been entered into for a definite period, continued service same nature rendered from year after this period has expired, with other contract being shown, will sumed to have been performed u original contract. Fitch v. Martin, 538 (104 N. W. 1072).

108. (1906.) An attorney at l agrees with an executor or adminis conduct certain legal business of t for a sum named is estopped to d such sum is a reasonable consider the services rendered pursuant agreement. Estate of Rapp v. Elg Neb. 674 (110 N. W. 661).

——— Employment by attorney o ant.

109. (1888.) Where an attorne into a contract with a client to an action to final judgment for a s sum, and such attorney employs one to assist him in the case, the c not be liable for fees for such s torney, unless he, in some manner, his employment or retention in Sedgwick v. Bliss, 23 Neb. 617 (3 483).

110. (1888.) Where an attorn ing in a particular county brough tion in the district court of anothe and after the filing of the petiti to a firm of attorneys in the coun the action was brought, requesting file the proper pleadings to make sues, and informed them that them to do so his client would them to state the necessary facts, ing, "I will see you paid for your and the client thereupon called u attorneys a number of times, and the necessary papers to make up t and assisted in the trial of the cas procuring a decree for the client, being said by her to them about tract made by her with the attor filed the petition, and they had n edge of such contract, held, that t was liable for the fees of the attor ployed to assist in the case. Sed Bliss, 23 Neb. 617 (37 N. W. 483).

111. (1902.) A client is not l fees of other counsel employed whom he has retained to conduct unless he authorizes or ratifies ployment. Dillon v. Watson, 3 U (92 N. W. 156).

112. (1902.) An attorney ret

Digitized by Google

conduct a case which is pending in another county, may properly employ local counsel to attend to necessary formal matters, such as procuring orders, attending calls of the docket, and the like, and charge the fees paid such counsel as expenses, where it appears that the fees paid were less, or at least not more, than the expense which would have been incurred had he gone in person. Dillon v. Watson, 3 Unof. 530 (92 N. W. 156).

www.hbook.com.cn

Apportionment between attorneys.

113. (1902.) Where a law firm dissolves, and one of the members is subsequently employed under a new contract by a client of the old firm in a case commenced before dissolution, and which has been assigned to such member, a settlement made between the members of fees due to the firm in such case, made with knowledge of such subseuent employment, will be held to have been made in view of such employment, and will not be opened. Lamb v. Wilson, 3 Unof. 496 (92 N. W. 167).

114. (1902.) Where a law firm dissolves, assigning undisposed of cases to the several members, and the agreement of dissolution is supported by sufficient consideration, each member who in good faith undertakes to carry out his part of the agreement is entitled to prosecute to completion the cases assigned to him, and services rendered by other members to him in such cases will be held to be gratuitous. Lamb v. Wilson, 3 Unof. 496 (92 N. W. 167).

Allowance and payment from funds in court.

115. (1896.) Courts of equity, in dealing with funds brought directly within their control, frequently order payment therefrom of fees to counsel of the respective parties; but that practice rests upon the theory that the proceeding is primarily for the purpose of securing the direction of the court with respect to such fund, and therefore alike beneficial to all parties. McClary v. Stull, 44 Neb. 175 (62 N. W. 501).

Actions for compensation.

——Limitations.

116. (1903.) On the facts stated, held that an attorney's claim for services was barred by the statute of limitations. Greek v. McDaniel, 68 Neb. 569 (94 N. W. 518).

——Defenses.

117. (1898.) The rendition of a bill for services does not estop the person rendering it from claiming and recovering a larger amount in a subsequent action on a quantum meruit, when the other party did not accept or acquiesce in the bill, but refused at once to recognize it as correct. People's Nat. Bank v. Geisthardt, 55 Neb. 232 (75 N. W. 582).

——Pleading.

118. (1897.) Where it is sought to hold liable a party for attorney's fees earned in the foreclosure of a mortgage held by such party, and the employment of the attorney is dependent on whether or not one who had authorized the commencement of such foreclosure proceedings did so with authority from the mortgagee, the burden of proof is on the attorney to establish such authority, and evidence which tends to negative the existence of such authority in the alleged agent is admissible, under proper pleadings. Saxton v. Harrington, 52 Neb. 300 (72 N. W. 272).

119. (1906.) In an action by an attorney to recover from another attorney who retained the former to defend one of the latter's clients in a criminal prosecution, certain money collected by such latter attorney under a lease by the client, executed for attorney's fees, a petition that fails to allege the value of his services, or that he has not received payment from another source is insufficient. Leyda v. Reavis, 77 Neb. 695 (110 N. W. 642).

——Evidence.

120. (1889.) Prior to the year 1884 plaintiffs' intestate was the owner of school lands in Gage county and paid taxes thereon. In January of that year defendant in error notified plaintiffs that he was proceeding to recover the amount of taxes paid upon school lands, for a contingent fee of one-half of what he could recover, and offering to make an effort to recover the amount due plaintiffs in error if they so desired. Receiving no answer he soon thereafter addressed them again to the same effect. They telegraphed him to proceed, providing he would do so for a fee of ten per cent. upon the amount recovered. He answered by telegraph, declining their offer, but soon thereafter wrote them a letter saying that he was not in a position to dictate terms, and that he had included their claim with others in his hands for collection, and had presented it to the county board. He frequently notified them of the proceedings which he was taking and finally of his success in recovering the money from the county. No objections were made by them to his action, although they were at all times advised of the efforts being made by him in their behalf. In an action instituted by him for one-half of the amount recovered of the county it was held, that the evidence fully justified the finding of the district court, that he was entitled to ten per cent. of the amount recovered, and a judgment to that effect was affirmed. Emery v. Cobbey, 27 Neb. 621 (43 N. W. 410).

Digitized by Google

121. (1891.) The question of what were reasonable fees, having been put in issue and determined by the trial court, held, that the evidence sustained the judgment. Rice v. Day, 33 Neb. 204 (49 N. W. 1128).

122. (1897.) Where plaintiffs sued defendants for attorney's fees, under an alleged special contract of retainer with such defendants as individuals, and defendants allege that the services were rendered under a contract of yearly retainer with a corporation of which they were stockholders, the latter contract is admissible in evidence. Rosenthal v. Ogden, 50 Neb. 218 (69 N. W. 779).

123. (1897.) Where the question at issue is whether attorneys' fees charged and retained should have been restricted to ten per cent. of the amount collected, and the parties who employed the attorneys had testified to that restriction, it was error, on cross-examination, to hold that this witness could not be asked if said witness, at the time he had been paid seventy-five per cent. of the collection, had not said to one of the attorneys who had made the collection, that winess would not expect said attorney to do all the work for ten per cent. that said attorney was the doctor, and furthermore, that witness had accepted the proffered check for seventy-five per cent. of the said collection. McClanahan v. Dingman, 51 Neb. 628 (71 N. W. 302).

124. (1897.) Where the attorney seeks to recover fees alleged to be due him for the foreclosure of a mortgage, claiming that the mortgagee, with knowledge of the facts, by his silence ratified the acts of such attorney while the foreclosure was progressing, and afterwards, that the mortgagee's ratification was evidenced by his receiving the avails of the foreclosure proceedings, and the defense is that the employment of the attorney was not by the mortgagee, but by one who wished to cut out a subsequent mortgage, evidence which tends directly to establish the fact that such representations were made to the mortgagee as to the purposes of the foreclosure of his mortgage, and that the party benefited would pay the attorney's fees in such foreclosure, is competent in explanation of the failure of the mortgagee to disaffirm the foreclosure proceeding when brought to his knowledge. Sarton v. Harrington, 52 Neb. 300 (72 N. W. 272).

125. (1906.) Where one has been arrested on a charge of murder and committed to jail, and while so confined executed a note for attorneys fees to be rendered, evidence disputing such note is sufficient to send that question to the jury. Gillis v. Paddock, 77 Neb. 504 (109 N. W. 734).

126. (1907.) In an action by an attorney for fees due under a contract of employment, defended on the ground that the only services contracted for or rendered were on behalf of defendant as administrator, which had been paid for by an allowance out of the estate, the evidence examined and held sufficient to sustain a judgment for defendant. Marshall v. Piggott, 78 Neb. 722 (111 N. W. 592).

127. (1907.) Evidence, in an action to recover attorneys' fees, showing plaintiff to have acted under a contract for a specific amount, and certain advancements remain unpaid a verdict for defendant is not sustained. Jones v. Jones, 79 Neb. 63 (112 N. W. 325).

——— Instructions.

128. (1891.) In an action by an attorney for compensation, where the employment was denied, the instructions held to correctly state the law of the case. Cowles v. Thompson, 31 Neb. 479 (48 N. W. 145).

Payment of fees as fraud against creditors.

129. (1903.) Where property in large amount, without fraudulent intent, has been turned over by an insolvent debtor to his attorneys in consideration of past and future services and a general retainer for himself and wife, any creditor desiring to attack such transfer should do so before services to the full value of the property are rendered. Farmers & Merchants Nat. Bank v. Mosher, 68 Neb. 713 (94 N. W. 1003).

B. Lien.

Right to lien.

130. (1877.) An attorney has a lien upon a judgment to the extent of his reasonable fees and disbursements in the suit in which it was obtained. And this right is paramount to the rights of the parties in the suit. Griggs v. White, 5 Neb. 467.

Digitized by Google

131. (1886.) An attorney is not entitled to a lien before judgment upon a cause of action for tort, which in case of the death of the parties would not survive. Abott v. Abott, 18 Neb. 503 (26 N. W. 361).

www.hptool.com.cn

132. (1905.) An attorney has a lien for his compensation for professional services and for his disbursements upon moneys received by him on his client's behalf in the course of his employment, and this right of lien is not affected by the fact that the client is an executor or trustee and the services were rendered and money received on behalf of the estate. Burleigh v. Palmer, 74 Neb. 122 (103 N. W. 1068).

Notice.

133. (1889.) An attorney who desires to enforce a claim for his services, must file a lien to that effect; otherwise he cannot enforce a claim against the adverse party. This claim for a lien may be filed with the papers in the case and the adverse party will be chargeable with notice of its existence. Elliott v. Atkins, 26 Neb. 403 (42 N. W. 403).

134. (1889.) In order to render a defendant liable to a lien for the services of the plaintiff's attorney, it is indispensable that a claim of lien be filed with the papers or given to such adverse party. Notice of a contract between the plaintiff and his client where no lien is claimed, will not bind the defendant or render him liable for the services of plaintiff's attorney. Elliott v. Atkins, 26 Neb. 403 (42 N. W. 403).

135. (1897.) In an action on a policy, an indorsement on the summons that plaintiff will take judgment for attorneys' fees, held not a notice of the claim of plaintiff's attorney for a lien of fees, and service of the summons so indorsed did not convey to the company notice of such claim. Cobbey v. Dorland, 50 Neb. 373 (69 N. W. 951).

136. (1900.) The lien of an attorney upon his client's papers, books, and money in the hands of the former is effective without notice to anyone. Cones v. Brooks, 60 Neb. 698 (84 N. W. 85).

137. (1900.) The lien of an attorney upon the money in the hands of the adverse party is not perfected until notice has been given to the party in possession of the fund. Cones v. Brooks, 60 Neb. 698 (84 N. W. 85).

138. (1900.) The notice of a charging or specific lien of an attorney need not be in writing or placed among the files in the case. Any notice that the claim is made and that it will be asserted is sufficient. Cones v. Brooks, 60 Neb. 698 (84 N. W. 85).

139. (1902.) As against a client or client's assignee, an attorney engaged in prosecuting a claim before a county board has a lien for his services without filing claim or giving notice, and an assignee, whose rights arise while the matter is pending, takes subject to the attorney's rightful fees. Maloney v. Douglas County, 2 Unof. 396 (89 N. W. 248).

140. (1903.) The commencement of proceedings of which the judgment debtor has notice, to enforce an attorney's lien against a judgment, while a sufficient amount of the judgment remains unpaid to cover it, is sufficient notice of the lien to the judgment debtor. Greek v. McDaniel, 68 Neb. 569 (94 N. W. 518).

Services or fees covered.

141. (1895.) An attorney's lien for services performed in prosecuting an action is not measured by the amount which his client claims to be his due, but cannot exceed the amount in the hands of the adverse party belonging to his client or the amount owing to him, and is not paramount to any proper set-off or other available defense in such action. Field v. Maxwell, 44 Neb. 900 (63 N. W. 62).

Subject-matter to which lien attaches.

142. (1880.) An attorney in an action may have a lien for fees due him for services therein on money in the hands of the adverse party, and which is the subject of the litigation; and under certain circumstances may be admitted as a party plaintiff in that action for the purpose of protecting and enforcing such lien. Reynolds v. Reynolds, 10 Neb. 574 (7 N. W. 322).

143. (1888.) An attorney has a lien for a general balance of compensation upon money in his hands belonging to his client, and until such lien is discharged he is not liable to a prosecution for the embezzlement of such money. Van Etten v. State, 24 Neb. 734 (40 N. W. 289; 1 L. R. A. 669).

144. (1889.) An attorney has a lien for a general balance of compensation on any papers of his client which may come into his possession in the course of his professional employment; upon money in his hands belonging to his client, and in the hands of an adverse party, in an action or proceeding in which the attorney was employed, from the time of giving notice of the lien to that party. Elliott v. Atkins, 26 Neb. 403 (42 N. W. 403).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

145. (1894.) An attorney's lien cannot be asserted against money appropriated to a client by the legislature while it is in the custody of the state treasurer. State, ex rel. Sayre, v. Moore, 40 Neb. 854 (59 N. W. 755; 25 L. R. A. 774).

146. (1900.) An attorney's lien upon his client's papers, books and documents or money depends upon possession, and attaches only to papers, books, documents or money in the hands of the attorney. Cones v. Brooks, 60 Neb. 698 (84 N. W. 85).

147. (1900.) An attorney has a charging or specific lien upon money in the hands of the adverse party to an action or proceeding. Cones v. Brooks, 60 Neb. 698 (84 N. W. 85).

148. (1900.) An attorney has a general or retaining lien upon all papers, books, documents or money of his client coming into his hands in the course of his professional employment. Cones v. Brooks, 60 Neb. 698 (84 N. W. 85).

149. (1901.) The attorney for a defendant in action in which the plaintiff has caused funds in the hands of a third party to be garnished, is not entitled to an attorney's lien on the fund so garnished to secure his fee for services performed in the case. Phillips v. Hogue, 63 Neb. 192 (88 N. W. 180).

150. (1906.) An attorney may have a lien upon the claim of his client in an action for personal injury. Corson v. Lewis, 77 Neb. 449 (114 N. W. 281).

151. (1907.) Under section 8, chapter 7, Compiled Statutes, providing for attorneys' liens, the judgment in favor of the prosecutrix in a bastardy proceeding is subject to the lien of her attorneys for professional services in obtaining such judgment. Taylor v. Stull, 79 Neb. 295 (112 N. W. 577).

Priorities.

152. (1873.) The lien of an attorney, upon a judgment obtained by him, to the extent of his reasonable fees and disbursements, is paramount to any rights of the parties in the suit or to any set-off. Boyer v. Clark, 3 Neb. 161; (1891) Rice v. Day, 33 Neb. 204 (49 N. W. 1128).

Assignment of judgment.

153. (1892.) The assignee of a judgment takes it subject to the rights of an attorney who has filed a lien in due form for services rendered in procuring such judgment. Yates v. Kinney, 33 Neb. 853 (51 N. W. 230).

154. (1907.) An assignment of a judgment after the filing of an attorney's lien does not affect such lien, and the assignee takes the judgment subject to the attorney's lien. Taylor v. Stull, 79 Neb. 295 (112 N. W. 577).

Assignment of claim.

155. (1877.) Where attorneys have rendered services in a case, but have filed no notice of a lien, the mere assignment of their account to parties claiming a lien will not authorize the latter to enforce such claim against the debtor. Griggs v. White, 5 Neb. 467.

156. (1906.) A contract for legal services is personal in its nature and cannot be assigned by one party without the consent of the other. Corson v. Lewis, 77 Neb. 446 (109 N. W. 735).

Release of lien.

157. (1905.) Where an attorney has filed a lien for professional services rendered in the case, and his client agrees to pay a certain amount in consideration of the release of the lien, and suit is brought upon such agreement, the question of the amount of services performed by the attorney or the terms of the original employment are immaterial, and evidence respecting these matters was properly rejected by the court. Burleigh v. Palmer, 74 Neb. 122 (103 N. W. 1068).

Protection against settlement between parties.

158. (1877.) Where a defendant against whom judgment has been recovered has notice of an attorney's lien, he cannot evade the payment of the sum actually due for such services by payment to the creditor of the amount of the judgment. Griggs v. White, 5 Neb. 467.

159. (1902.) Three plaintiffs, who were heirs of a deceased party, and who had joined with each other in an action to set aside the probated will and declare the same revoked, may dismiss the case as to themselves upon payment of their proportionate share of accrued costs even though they had entered into contracts with attorneys to prosecute their suit for a portion of whatever recovery may be had Williams v. Miles, 63 Neb. 851 (89 N. W. 455).

Digitized by Google

——Remedies of attorney.

160. (1886.) An attorney cannot intervene to continue suit which has been settled by parties pending litigation. Lavender v. Atkins, 20 Neb. 206 (29 N. W. 467).

161. (1887.) Where, in an action for divorce and alimony, an order is made by the court in which the cause is pending, requiring a sum of money to be paid into court as and for attorney's fees, and afterwards the parties to the action, by collusion and fraud and for the purpose of defrauding the attorney for plaintiff out of the allowance made for his compensation, with notice of an attorney's lien thereon in his favor, enter into an alleged settlement by which the cause is to be dismissed and the order for alimony satisfied, such fraudulent settlement will be set aside, on motion of the attorney entitled to the money, and the amount found due ordered to be paid into court by the defendant. Aspinwall v. Sabin, 22 Neb. 73 (34 N. W. 72; 3 Am. St. Rep. 258).

162. (1887.) The original plaintiff is not a necessary party to a motion by her attorney to set aside settlement of case after an allowance of attorney fees had been made to her, on ground of fraud Aspinwall v. Sabin, 22 Neb. 73 (34 N. W. 72; 3 Am. St. Rep. 258).

162*a*. (1894.) Where defendant in an action to quiet title obtains from plaintiff a quitclaim deed to the land and a dismissal of the action, with notice that before the suit was brought plaintiff deeded to his attorney, for services to be rendered, and undivided one-half interest in the real estate, the attorney may have the cause reinstated, and the court may grant him, as to his interest, the relief sought before dismissal, though he began the original action in his client's name, verified the petition, and failed to record his deed. Chamberlain v. Grimes, 42 Neb. 701 (60 N. W. 948).

163. (1903.) The proper method of procedure to set aside a settlement in fraud of an attorney's lien, is for the attorney to file an intervening petition and have the amount and extent of his lien judicially determined before any other steps are taken for its enforcement. Jones v. Duff Grain Co., 69 Neb. 91 (95 N. W. 1).

164. (1903.) Where a judgment to which an attorney's lien has attached has been compromised between plaintiff and defendant in fraud of the attorney's rights, such settlement and compromise may be set aside at the suit of the attorney defrauded. Jones v. Duff Grain Co., 69 Neb. 91 (95 N. W. 1).

Protection against set-off between parties.

165. (1889.) A & B, practicing attorneys, recovered a judgment for C against D, under an agreement with their client that they were to have one-half the amount of recovery, and they filed an attorney's lien for that amount. D recovered a judgment against the client of A and B, and brought an action to set off one judgment against the other; and without making an issue in the pleadings upon the amount claimed to be due A & B sought to reduce it. Held, That in the absence of an issue in the pleadings upon that point, the attorneys had a lien for the amount agreed upon. Ward v. Watson, 27 Neb. 768 (44 N. W. 27).

166. (1895.) The lien of an attorney is inferior to any proper set-off or other available defense of the adverse party. Field v. Maxwell, 44 Neb. 900 (63 N. W. 62).

167. (1902.) G. obtained judgment against the firm of C. & F. for eight hundred dollars. On the rendition of the judgment, W. and P., attorneys for G., filed their claim for an attorneys' lien on the judgment and gave notice thereof. Afterwards, F., one of the partners, commenced an action against G. on a note made to him by G., alleging that both C., the other member of the firm, and G., the judgment creditor, were insolvent, and that he alone was responsible. He asked that any judgment entered against G. on the note might be set off against the judgment entered in favor of G. against C. & F. W. and P. intervened and asked that their attorneys' lien be protected. Held, That to the extent of their lien the attorneys should be protected and that to that extent the set-off could not be allowed. Finney v. Gallop, 2 Unof. 480 (89 N. W. 276).

Enforcement.

168. (1881.) To entitle an attorney to be admitted as a party plaintiff in an action for the purpose of protecting and enforcing his lien, it must appear that fees are due him for services in that case. Oliver v. Sheeley, 11 Neb. 521 (9 N. W. 689).

169. (1886.) On appeal of the original suit, an attorney cannot litigate his lien for fees under his contract with his client. Lavender v. Atkins, 20 Neb. 206 (29 N. W. 467).

Digitized by Google

170. (1897.) An attorney's lien cannot be enforced where there is not anything to which such lien can attach. Yeiser v. Lowe, 50 Neb. 310 (69 N. W. 847).

171. (1900.) Petition in suit to enforce an attorney's lien examined, and found to state facts sufficient to support the action. Cones v. Brooks, 60 Neb. 698 (84 N. W. 85).

172. (1900.) An attorney can not enforce, by action, his general or retaining lien upon a note, bond or other obligation to pay money. Cones v. Brooks, 60 Neb. 698 (84 N. W. 85).

173. (1902.) Whether or not the contract of employment with attorneys to prosecute a will contest on a contingent fee for the plaintiffs operated to give to them such a lien on, or interest in, the cause of action as to permit them to prosecute the action to final judgment for the enforcement and protection of their own rights by virtue of the contract, is not determined. Williams v. Miles, 63 Neb. 851 (89 N. W. 455).

174. (1902.) The liability of plaintiffs moving to dismiss their action of contest of a probated will, to attorneys, who had a contract to prosecute such action to the end on a contingent fee, and who had expended considerable money in the prosecution of the suit, for the value of their services can not be litigated or determined on a motion to dismiss. Williams v. Miles, 63 Neb. 851 (89 N. W. 455).

175. (1903.) An attorney at law having a lien on a judgment may intervene in proceedings to revive such judgment, and is entitled to a revivor thereof in his own name to the extent of his lien, Greek v. McDaniel, 68 Neb. 569 (94 N. W. 518).

176. (1903.) That the court, in proceedings to revive a judgment to protect an attorney's lien thereon renders a judgment in favor of the attorney and against the judgment debtor for the amount of the lien, instead of entering an order of revivor in the name of the attorney, to that extent is without prejudice to the judgment debtor. Greek v. McDaniel, 68 Neb. 569 (94 N. W. 518).

177. (1903.) It is not error for the trial court to overrule a motion for an execution to enforce the collection of an attorney's lien before the nature and extent of such lien had been judicially determined. Jones v. Duff Grain Co., 69 Neb. 91 (95 N. W. 1).

ATTORNEY GENERAL.

CROSS-REFERENCES.

See, also, Attorney and Client; County Attorneys.

Right to enjoin common carrier from violating rate law, see Carriers, § 125a.

1. (1878.) The claim on which the action was brought was for the recovery for services performed by the plaintiffs as attorneys in an action against the state, under an employment by the attorney general, by which they were to have a fee of $10,000, contingent upon a judgment being finally recovered favorable to the state, which was obtained. Held, That there was no law authorizing the employment, and if actually made was void, and all services performed under it gratuitous, imposing no legal obligation on the state to pay for them. Bradford v. State, 7 Neb. 109.

2. (1887.) The attorney general is the law officer of the state, and is required to prosecute or defend any suit in the supreme court in which the state is a party or interested; therefore, where a majority of the board of transportation of the state adopted a resolution asking the supreme court to continue a case pending therein against a railroad company to compel such company to conform its rates and charges to an order previously made by said board, held, that the board had no authority to control the action of the attorney general in the management of the case. State, ex rel. Board of Transportation, v. Fremont, E. & M. V. R. Co., 22 Neb. 313 (35 N. W. 118).

3. (1889.) The word "clerk," in section 24, article V of the constitution, is used in the same sense as at common law, viz., a person employed in an office, who writes or registers in proper form the transactions of the tribunal or body to which he belongs. In re Appropriations, 25 Neb. 662 (41 N. W. 643).

4. (1889.) The prohibition against "clerk hire" in the office of the attorney general does not preclude the legislature from providing for a deputy or assistant attorney general. In re Appropriations, 25 Neb. 662 (41 N. W. 643).

Digitized by Google

5. (1889.) A stenographer is one skilled in the art of writing in shorthand, by using abbreviations or characters for whole words, and does not come within the common law definition of the word clerk. In re Appropriations, 25 Neb. 662 (41 N. W. 643).

AUCTIONS AND AUCTIONEERS.

Representations.

1. (1903.) Representations made by an auctioneer without the knowledge or direction of the owner are not binding on the latter. Korbel v. Skocpol, 70 Neb. 45 (96 N. W. 1022).

AUDITOR.

Of state, see State, §§ 26-32, 52, 91-93.

AUTHENTICATION.

Of affidavits, see Affidavits, §§ 18-24.

Sufficiency of, of officer taking depositions, see Depositions, §§ 57-59.

Of certificate of officer taking depositions, see Depositions, § 35.

Of documentary evidence in civil actions, see Evidence, §§ 352-386.

Of bill of exceptions by clerk, see Exceptions, Bills of, §§ 138-153.

AUTREFOIS CONVICT.

See Criminal Law, §§ 89-112.

AVULSION.

Of streams, see Water and Watercourses, §§ 71-73.

AWARD.

See Arbitration and Award.

Of contracts for public improvements, see Municipal Corporations, §§ 267, 268.

Award of damage for condemnation of private property, see Eminent Domain.

BAGGAGE.

Liability of carrier for baggage of passengers, see Carriers, IV, F.

Baggage check as evidence, see Carriers, § 369.

BAIL.

ANALYSIS.

Nature and purposes, §§ 1, 1a.
Right to release on bail, §§ 2, 3.
Requisites and validity of recognizance, §§ 4-17.
Construction and operation, § 18.
Amount of bail, § 19.
——— Increase or reduction, §§ 20-23.
Deposit in lieu of bail, § 24.
Breach or fulfillment of condition, §§ 25-28.
Extent of liability, § 29.
Discharge of sureties, §§ 30, 31.
Relief from liability or forfeiture, §§ 32-38.
——— Arrest or surrender of principal, § 39.
Action on recognizance, §§ 40-42.

CROSS-REFERENCES.

See, also, Arrest.

In bastardy proceedings, see Bastards, §§ 44, 45.

Nature and purposes.

1. (1888.) The purpose of a recognizance is to secure the attendance of the party recognized at the hearing. State, ex rel. Pepper, v. Speice, 24 Neb. 386 (38 N. W. 837).

1a. (1885.) A recognizance for the appearance of a person charged with an offense is an obligation of record, and becomes such when taken and filed in the court to which it is returnable. King v. State, 18 Neb. 375 (25 N. W. 519).

Right to release on bail.

2. (1894.) The right to give bail pending proceedings by petition in error in the supreme court, after conviction for a felony, is not absolute, but rests in the discretion of the court. Bail will be allowed in the supreme court upon a showing of probable error calling for a reversal of the judgment. Ford v. State, 42 Neb. 418 (60 N. W. 960).

Digitized by Google

3. (1894.) The provision of section 9, article I of the constitution, that all persons shall be bailable by sufficient sureties, is merely the declaration of an existing right, and has reference to bail as understood at common law, and in accordance with the practice before the constitution was adopted. Ford v. State, 42 Neb. 418 (60 N. W. 960).

Requisites and validity of recognizance.

4. (1880.) A recognizance proper should not be signed, but when it is properly taken and certified, the signatures of the recognizors may be treated as surplusage and the instrument held valid. Irwin v. State, 10 Neb. 325 (6 N. W. 370).

5. (1880.) A recognizance that stated it to be in the sum of three hundred dollars and certified by M. as J. P. is not violated by such signature; but the failure to designate the denomination of the debt, and the official character of the officer certifying it, renders it void. Irwin v. State, 10 Neb. 325 (6 N. W. 370).

6. (1885.) Where a county judge, acting as an examining magistrate, requires the accused to enter into a recognizance for his appearance at the next term of the district court, and such recognizance is given with sureties which are approved by such county judge, the endorsement of such approval upon the recognizance is not required to be attested by the seal of the county judge. Holmes v. State, 17 Neb. 73 (22 N. W. 232).

7. (1885.) A recognizance taken by an examining magistrate and signed by all the obligors, is sufficient and will bind all, whether their names are entered in the body of the same or not, provided it complies with the law in other respects. Holmes v. State, 17 Neb. 73 (22 N. W. 232).

8. (1885.) A criminal recognizance requiring a person who has been charged with the commission of a felony and held to bail by an examining magistrate to appear before the district court, is a sufficient compliance with section 307 of the criminal code, if the date fixed in the recognizance for the appearance of the accused is in fact the first day of the next term of said court. Holmes v. State, 17 Neb. 73 (22 N. W. 232).

9. (1885.) The criminal code does not require a recognizance taken by a justice of the peace when sitting as an examining magistrate to be entered upon his docket. King v. State, 18 Neb. 375 (25 N. W. 519).

10. (1885.) A recognizance proper, unless taken out of court, should not be signed; but when it is properly taken and certified the signatures of the recognizors may be treated as surplusage, and the instrument held valid. King v. State, 18 Neb. 375 (25 N. W. 519); (1886) State v. Moran, 18 Neb. 536 (26 N. W. 357); (1894) Shupe v. State, 40 Neb. 524 (59 N. W. 100).

11. (1886.) A recognizance for the appearance of an accused person to answer to an indictment for felony, taken before and approved by an officer or person unauthorized by law, so that the same fails to be binding under the statute, is void as a common law obligation. Dickenson v. State, 20 Neb. 72 (29 N. W. 184).

12. (1888.) A recognizance taken by a justice of the peace on a complaint and proceedings under chapter 37 of the Compiled Statutes, is valid against a security, although was not entered of record on the appearance docket of the district court, under section 383 of the criminal code. State v. Moran, 24 Neb. 103 (38 N. W. 29).

13. (1894.) A recognizance executed under section 325 of the criminal code, for the purpose of prosecuting an appeal by one who has been convicted of a misdemeanor, conditioned that he "shall be and personally appear at the next term of the district court in and for Saunders county, on the first day of the term thereof, and abide the judgment of the court, and not depart the court without leave, then this recognizance to be void, otherwise to remain in full force and effect," sufficiently complies with the requirements of the statute and is a binding obligation. Shupe v. State, 40 Neb. 524 (59 N. W. 100).

14. (1894.) Under section 388 of the criminal code a recognizance is not invalidated by reason of defects in the form thereof, if it appear from the tenor of the recognizance at what court the party was bound to appear and that the court or officer before whom it was taken had the power to require and take such recognizance. Shupe v. State, 40 Neb. 524 (59 N. W. 100.

15. (1894.) A recognizance for an appeal from a conviction for a misdemeanor before a justice of the peace is invalid, if the court where, and before which, the prisoner is to personally appear is not stated in the recognizance. Pill v. State, 43 Neb. 23 (61 N. W. 96).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

16. (1897.) On appeal from a police magistrate a recognizance failing to designate the court wherein the prisoner is to appear is invalid and confers no jurisdiction on the appellate court to try the case. Kazda v. State, 52 Neb. 499 (72 N. W. 853).

17. (1903.) The conditions imposed upon a surety on a recognizance by the provisions of sections 32 and 33, chapter 19, Compiled Statutes, examined, and held reasonable and binding. Bartling v. State, 67 Neb. 637 (93 N. W. 1047).

Construction and operation.

18. (1885.) By the provisions of the criminal code a recognizance taken by a justice of the peace acting as an examining magistrate becomes an obligation of record when returned by the justice of the peace to the clerk of the district court, and is by him entered of record as required by section 383 of the criminal code. King v. State, 18 Neb. 375 (25 N. W. 519).

Amount of bail.

19. (1893.) Bond for $70,000 from one charged with embezzling that amount is not "excessive bail" within section 9, article I, constitution. In re Scott, 38 Neb. 502 (56 N. W. 1009).

——— Increase or reduction.

20. (1893.) At the same term at which the bail of a prisoner has been fixed, and before such prisoner has furnished bail at the amount so fixed, the court may enter an order increasing the amount of bail. In re Scott, 38 Neb. 502 (56 N. W. 1009).

21. (1893.) An order of the district court fixing the amount of bail a prisoner shall give will not be disturbed by the supreme court in a proceeding by habeas corpus for reduction of bail, unless it clearly appears per se that the amount is unreasonably great and disproportionate to the offense charged. In re Scott, 38 Neb. 502 (56 N. W. 1009).

22. (1893.) In fixing the amount of bail the court or judge may take into consideration the nature of the offense; the penalty which the law authorized to be inflicted should there be a conviction; the probability of the accused appearing to answer the charge against him, if released on bail; his pecuniary condition, and the circumstances surrounding the case. In re Scott, 38 Neb. 502 (56 N. W. 1009).

23. (1893.) Upon an application for reduction of bail by a prisoner, after indictment and before trial, the guilt of the accused will be presumed, but evidence may be received to repel that presumption. In re Scott, 38 Neb. 502 (56 N. W. 1009).

Deposit in lieu of bail.

24. (1903.) A justice of the peace has no authority to accept money in lieu of the bail required by section 298 of the criminal code; and in case he does so, his bondsmen are not liable for his failure to properly account for the same. Snyder v. Gross, 69 Neb. 340 (95 N. W. 636).

Breach of fulfillment of condition.

25. (1885.) Where a person was charged with the commission of an offense, and upon being held to bail by the examining magistrate, entered into a recognizance with sureties for his appearance at the next term of the district court, and subsequently left the state, and committed a crime in another state where he was arrested and imprisoned, and thus by his own voluntary act rendered it out of his power to appear in this state to answer to the crime with which he was charged; Held, That these facts would constitute no defense to an action against his sureties upon his recognizance. King v. State, 18 Neb. 375 (25 N. W. 519).

26. (1888.) Where a party charged with felony secures a change of venue, and enters in a recognizance for his appearance before district court of county to which venue is changed, and afterwards fails to appear, and his recognizance is forfeited, and amount thereof paid by his surety, the money will belong to the county in which the accused was recognized to appear. State, ex rel. Pepper, v. Speice, 24 Neb. 386 (38 N. W. 837).

27. (1902.) A defendant who is released on bail to appear at a certain term of court, which happens to be an equity term and defendant is present several days but does not report his presence nor is he called to report, is not in default. Hesselgrave v. State, 63 Neb. 807 (89 N. W. 295).

28. (1902.) In order to default a defendant on a recognizance, that the sureties thereon may be held liable, he must be called at some time during the term set for his appearance. Hesselgrave v. State, 63 Neb. 807 (89 N. W. 295).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

Extent of liability.

29. (1901.) A recognizance given under section 3 of chapter 37, Compiled Statutes, 1899, is not a bond of indemnity for the payment of the judgment which may be ultimately recovered in the action. The amount of liability on such a recognizance is the penal sum named therein, with interest thereon from the date of the forfeiture. Myers v. Baughman, 61 Neb 818 (86 N. W. 507).

Discharge of sureties.

30. (1882.) Arrest of principal, after indictment, releases sureties on recognizance given before examining court. Smith v. State, 12 Neb. 309 (11 N. W. 317).

31. (1900.) A recognizance in a bastardy proceeding, conditioned that accused "shall be and appear before the district court on the first day of the next term thereof, and appear thereat from day to day to abide the order of the court," is limited to the term at which it exacts the appearance. A continuance of the cause to a subsequent term of court is not within the contract of the recognizance, and, if made, a non-appearance of accused at the term to which the continuance carries the cause is not a breach of such recognizance. State v. Murdock, 59 Neb. 521 (81 N. W. 447); (1902) Perkins v. Milton, 64 Neb. 848 (90 N. W. 756).

Relief from liability or forfeiture.

32. (1894.) A second forfeiture of a recognizance, incurred because the principal a second time failed to appear according to the condition of his obligation, will not be vacated and canceled on the return of the principal after such forfeiture, where sufficient excuse is not shown for his failure to appear before the forfeiture taken, and the record shows that the prosecution has been deprived of proofs by the delay. Rule applied. Noll v. State, 38 Neb. 587 (57 N. W. 285).

33. (1894.) A forfeiture of a recognizance will be vacated and canceled on the payment of costs, where, after the default and on the same day, the principal voluntarily appears in court in case sufficient cause is shown for his failure to appear according to the obligation of his recognizance. Rawlings v. State, 38 Neb. 590 (57 N. W. 286).

34. (1897.) One who has been admitted to bail after a preliminary examination, and who becomes a fugitive, is not, after his return or apprehension, entitled to be discharged because no information was filed against him at the term at which he was recognized to appear, and while he was a fugitive. Ex parte Trester, 53 Neb. 148 (73 N. W. 545).

35. (1902.) A recognizance in a criminal action conditioned "that the defendant shall be and appear in this court on the first day of the next term thereof to answer to the charge of rape now pending herein against him, and will not depart the court without leave, and abide the order of the court," is limited to the term at which it exacts the appearance. Hesselgrave v. State, 63 Neb. 807 (89 N. W. 295).

36. (1903.) The conditions of a recognizance for the appearance of one accused of a criminal offense are not invalidated by the failure of the term of court at which he was required to appear, on account of an adjournment or continuance of such term. Bartling v. State, 67 Neb. 637 (93 N. W. 1047).

37. (1903.) Where, by reason of the prevalence of small-pox in the vicinity of a county seat, the district judge ordered the regular term of the court to be fixed at a later date, the liability of sureties on a bail bond, for the appearance of one accused of a crime, is extended to the next term actually held. Bartling v. State, 67 Neb. 637 (93 N. W. 1047).

38. (1903.) The conditions imposed upon a surety on a recognizance by the provisions of sections 32 and 33, chapter 19, Compiled Statutes (Annotated Statutes, secs. 4742, 4743), examined, and held reasonable and binding. Bartling v. State, 67 Neb. 637 (93 N. W. 1047).

——— Arrest or surrender of principal.

39. (1882.) Arrest of principal, after indictment, releases sureties on recognizance given before examining court. Smith v. State, 12 Neb. 309 (11 N. W. 317).

Action on recognizance.

40. (1882.) Action of a recognizance against H. B. S., as principal, and W. H. S. and E. S., as sureties. Summons served on W. H. S. and E. S., but no service on, or appearance by, H. B. S. Judgment against

Digitized by Google

H. B. S. and W. H. S., no judgment either for or against E S., held erroneous. Smith v. State, 12 Neb. 309 (11 N. W. 317).

41. (1885.) Where a recognizance was given for the appearance of a defendant to answer a "charge against him for larceny," held, that the fact that the complaint was defective could not be asserted as a defense to an action upon such recognizance after forfeiture. King v. State, 18 Neb. 375 (25 N. W. 519).

42. (1901.) An action upon a forfeited recognizance taken under the provisions of section 3, chapter 37, Compiled Statutes, 1899, must be brought in the name of the state, the obligee named in the recognizance. Myers v. Baughman, 61 Neb. 818 (86 N. W. 507).

BAILMENT.

ANALYSIS.

Construction of contract, §§ 1, 2.
Care of property and negligence of bailee, §§ 3-15.
——— Inkeeper, § 16.
——— Agister or hirer of animals, §§ 17-26.
Liability of bailee to third person, § 27.
Wrongful use of property by bailee, § 28.
Compensation of bailor for use of property, § 29.
Compensation of bailee for care of property, §§ 30, 31.
——— Lien, §§ 32-41.
Redelivery or recovery of property, §§ 42-45.
Conversion by bailee, §§ 46, 47.
Larceny by bailee, §§ 48, 49.
Actions against third persons, § 50.

CROSS-REFERENCES.

Deposits with particular persons or relations, see specific topics.

Lien of agister for compensation for care of animals, see Animals, §§ 18-33.

Property in hands of bailee as subject to attachment, see Attachment, §§ 63, 64.

Deposit in banks, see Banks and Banking, III, C.

Consignment to common carriers, see Carriers.

Liability for mixing grain, see Confusion of Goods, § 8.

Election to sue for breach of contract or tort, see Election of Remedies, §§ 1, 2.

Loss of property of guest at hotel, see Innkeepers, §§ 7-11.

Liability for damages to animals hired from livery stable, see Livery Stable Keepers, §§ 3-5.

Pledge of property as collateral security, see Pledges.

Estoppel of bailee to deny ownership in himself, see Estoppel, § 50.

Execution against property in hands of bailee, see Execution, § 31.

Conditional sales, see Sales.

Deposit of property with warehouseman, see Warehousemen.

Construction of contract.

1. (1890.) The sole effect of section 26, chapter 32, Compiled Statutes, upon an unrecorded conditional lease of personalty, where the lessee is neither judgment creditor nor purchaser without notice, is to place it on an equal footing with conditional sale. Norton v. Pilger, 30 Neb 860 (47 N. W. 471).

2. The written instrument, set out in the opinion, construed, and held to be a contract of bailment of personal property for hire, and not one of conditional sale or sale of personal property on condition. (1892) McClelland v. Scroggin, 35 Neb. 536 (53 N. W. 469); (1900) Baker v. Priebe, 59 Neb. 597 (81 N. W. 609).

Care of property and negligence of bailee.

3. (1892.) A gratuitous bailee is liable for injury to property entrusted to his care occasioned by gross negligence. Burk v. Dempster, 34 Neb. 426 (51 N. W. 976).

4. (1892.) If a lessee finds personal property in the building, at the time he takes possession, and permits it to remain there without objection, he becomes a gratuitous bailee thereof. Burk v. Dempster, 34 Neb. 426 (51 N. W. 976).

Digitized by Google

5. (1892.) Where the vendor of a store building obtains gratuitous permission of vendee's lessee to leave a stove in the building for storage, such lessee is liable if he subsequently remove the stove to the lot back of the building where it is damaged. Burk v. Dempster, 34 Neb. 426 (51 N. W. 976).

6. (1892.) Although a bailor upon being notified by the gratuitous bailee to remove the property, failed to do so, the bailee cannot place the same in an exposed place where it would likely be injured or destroyed. In such case it was his duty to have the stove removed to a place of storage, and he could have charged the expense thereof to the defendant in error. Burk v. Dempster, 34 Neb. 426 (51 N. W. 976).

7. (1896.) A bailee who contracts to keep the property in a particular place is not discharged from damages resulting from his falure to do so because he was compelled to remove it by the owner of the place designated. Butler v. Greene, 49 Neb. 280 (68 N. W. 496).

8. (1896.) A special contract of bailment prevails in determining the liabilities of the parties, as against general principles of law applicable in the absence of express agreement. Butler v. Greene, 49 Neb. 280 (68 N. W. 496).

9. (1901.) Although when a bailee fails to return the property, as a general rule, the burden is upon him to show that the loss did not occur through his negligence, yet if he establishes that it occurred through inevitable accident or irresistible force, which do not of themselves import negligence, the burden of proving negligence is upon the bailor. Bissell v. Harris & Co., 1 Unof. 535 (95 N. W. 779).

10. (1901.) A bailment without reward of moneys to be held and used for the sole benefit of the bailor, is not a bailment for hire because one motive inducing the bailee to act may have been an expectation that his so doing would assist to hold trade in a town in which he was engaged in business. Bissell v Harris & Co., 1 Unof. 535 (95 N. W. 779).

11. (1902.) Having received property as bailee, the burden is on the bailee to show that it was lost without negligence on his part. Sulpho-Saline Bath Co. v. Allen, 66 Neb. 295 (92 N. W. 354).

12. (1902.) Defendant conducted a bath-house, in which was a large swimming pool, patronized by large numbers of people. The dressing rooms in connection with the swimming pool were not provided with locks, but a large number of drawers were provided in the office, in which the customers were requested to place their valuables. The proprietor of the bath-house was a bailee for hire of valuables so deposited, inasmuch as the deposit was a necessary incident to the business in which the bailee made a profit. Sulpho-Saline Bath Co. v. Allen, 66 Neb. 295 (92 N. W. 354).

13. (1902.) A bailment is for hire, although no direct hire is paid for the bailment, where it is a necessary incident of a business in which the bailee makes a profit. Sulpho-Saline Bath Co. v. Allen, 66 Neb. 295 (92 N. W. 354).

14. (1904.) Where in a city which by ordinance requires fireproof shutters on windows, of brick buildings, one is in possession of property as bailee, and it is destroyed by fire which spread from another building through windows unprotected by fire-proof shutters, he is not liable for the value of such property by reason of the fact that he owned the building and that no fire-proof shutters were provided as required by the ordinance. Frontier Steam Laundry Co. v. Connolly, 72 Neb. 767 (101 N. W. 995; 68 L. R. A. 425).

15. (1904.) When a bailment is reciprocally beneficial to both parties, the law requires ordinary diligence on the part of the bailee, and makes him responsible for negligence. Mattern v. McCarthy, 73 Neb. 228 (102 N. W. 468).

——— Innkeeper.

16. (1889.) A hotel clerk who receipts for a valuable registered letter directed to a guest at the hotel, but which is lost before reaching him, is liable to the carrier, who is required by the post office department to bear the loss. Joslyn v. King, 27 Neb. 38 (42 N. W. 756; 20 Am. St. Rep. 656; 4 L. R. A. 457).

——— Agister or hirer of animals.

17. (1888.) In an action to recover from a bailee of a team of horses, hired from plaintiff, for injuries to the team by reason of driving the same into a wire fence, there being no evidence connecting plaintiff with the existence of the fence, an instruction tending to excuse or justify defendant because of the existence of the fence in the road, was properly refused. Floater v. Ferrell, 24 Neb. 647 (38 N. W. 732).

Digitized by Google

18. (1888.) Upon the trial of an action to recover for injuries to a team hired by defendant, it is within the discretion of the court to give or withhold from the jury questions for special findings of fact. Floater v. Farrell, 24 Neb. 347 (38 N. W. 732).

19. (1890.) Where one contracts to winter 125 head of cattle, and forty-nine die and the others become very thin and weak, and there is other evidence of neglect, a finding of want of proper care is sustained. Calland v. Nichols, 30 Neb. 532 (46 N. W. 631).

20. (1890.) Where there is no express contract as to the kind of feed and degree of care to be given by one who takes cattle to keep through the winter, he is bound to provide reasonable and ordinary feed for such stock, and to use reasonable and ordinary care to protect them from injury; but where a number of such cattle die while in charge of the bailee, the bailee upon stating that fact to the owner—in other words, accounts for the cattle—the burden of proof of negligence is upon the owner. Calland v. Nichols, 30 Neb. 532 (46 N. W. 631).

21. (1896.) The hirer of a team is liable to the owner for want of ordinary care in the use of the team. Prunell v. Minor, 49 Neb. 555 (68 N. W. 942).

22. (1896.) Evidence showing that defendant hired a team of horses of plaintiff to work on a farm, that the team was in good condition then taken but for want of care became greatly run down and very poor, sustains a finding awarded by the jury. Prunell v. Minor, 49 Neb. 555 (68 N. W. 942).

23. (1905.) Under a contract whereby one party thereto agrees to herd and care for certain cattle for an equal share of the increase during a period of three years he is required to use reasonable and ordinary care for, feed and protect the cattle specified therein, and to make him liable for negligence. Mattern v. McCarthy, 73 Neb. 228 (102 N. W. 468).

24. (1905.) Where one agrees to herd and care for cattle during a period of three years and agrees to pay the other "just remuneration" for all cattle lost from neglect on his part, such term means the remuneration which the plaintiff would be justly entitled to under the law for the loss of his cattle by the defendant's negligence, and this is the value of the cattle lost. Mattern v. McCarthy, 73 Neb. 228 (102 N. W. 468).

25. (1905.) An agreement by an agister to take good care of a herd of cattle entrusted to his charge is equivalent to a contract to take such care of them as an ordinarily skillful and prudent man would take of his own animals under like circumstances. Darr v. Donovan, 73 Neb. 424 (102 N. W. 1012).

26. (1905.) When the contract of an agister is for the care and feeding of a particular head of cattle, evidence descriptive of that herd is admissible without special reference to the subject in the pleading. Darr v. Donovan, 73 Neb. 424 (102 N. W. 1012).

Liability of bailee to third person.

27. (1893.) Under the Herd Law (Comp. St., ch. 2, art. III) a person having the custody of cattle for the purpose of depasturing the same, although without compensation from the general owner, is liable for damage done by them upon the cultivated lands of another. Laflin v. Svoboda, 37 Neb. 368 (55 N. W. 1049).

Wrongful use of property by bailee.

28. (1905.) The measure of damages for the unauthorized use of the property of another by a bailee thereof is not the value that may be produced by the labor and investment of the bailee, combined with such use of the property, but is the value of the use itself and any damage that may be done to the property in so using it, or, if the use amounts to a conversion, then the measure of damages will be the value of the property. State v. State Journal Co., 75 Neb. 275 (106 N. W. 434; 9 L. R. A. [n. s.] 174).

Compensation of bailor for use of property.

29. (1897.) Where money belonging to a daughter is voluntarily left by her in her father's possession, she is not entitled to interest thereon until after a demand for its repayment. Bell v. Rice, 50 Neb. 547 (70 N. W. 25).

Compensation of bailee for care of property.

30. (1897.) An involuntary bailee of goods may conserve the same, and recover from the owner what the service is reasonably worth. Moline, Milburn & Stoddard Co. v. Neville, 52 Neb. 574 (72 N. W. 854).

Digitized by Google

31. (1897.) Where an agent of defendant who has property of the latter to sell on commission, surrenders the building he occupies, leaving the defendant's goods in the building, the latter is liable to the owner of the building, as an involuntary bailee, for the difference of its rental value without the goods and what it actually rented for with the goods stored therein. Moline, Milburn & Stoddard Co. v. Neville, 52 Neb. 574 (72 N. W. 854).

www.libtool.com.cn

——— Lien.

Compensation and lien of warehousemen, see Warehousemen.

32. (1896.) A lien does not exist at common law, or by custom, in favor of one who holds property in subordination to the will or control of another. Moline, Milburn & Co. v. Wood Machine Co., 49 Neb. 869 (69 N. W. 405).

33. (1896.) Exclusive possession of chattels by the claimant, whether a factor, warehouseman, or other bailee, is indispensable to the existence or continuance of a lien thereon at common law, or the usage of trade. Moline, Milburn & Co. v. Wood Machine Co., 49 Neb. 869 (69 N. W. 405).

34. (1896.) A lien does not attach in favor of a bailee of goods if inconsistent with the terms of the agreement, express or implied, under which he obtained possession. Moline, Milburn & Co. v. Wood Machine Co., 49 Neb. 869 (69 N. W. 405).

35. (1896.) A contract for the storage and forwarding of goods by which the consignor reserves the right to withdraw, at pleasure, for reshipment the goods stored thereunder, and by which each party reserves the right to draw at sight upon the other for any balance in his favor, the consignee relying upon the personal credit of the consignor, does not create in favor of such consignee a lien for charges pursuant thereto. Moline, Milburn & Co. v. Wood Machine Co., 49 Neb. 869 (69 N. W. 405).

36. (1898.) One bestowing labor and skill on a chattel bailed to him for that purpose, thereby increasing its value, has a lien thereon superior to the lien of a prior chattel mortgage. Drummond Carriage Co. v. Mills, 54 Neb. 417 (74 N. W. 966; 69 Am. St. Rep. 719; 40 L. R. A. 761).

37. (1898.) Lien for repairing a buggy held superior to a chattel mortgage executed before the repairs were made. Drummond Carriage Co. v. Mills, 54 Neb. 417 (74 N. W. 966; 69 Am. St. Rep. 719; 40 L. R. A. 761).

38. (1898.) Rules relating to agisters' liens held inapplicable to a lien in favor of one who repairs a chattel bailed to him for that purpose. Drummond Carriage Co. v. Mills, 54 Neb. 417 (74 N. W. 966; 69 Am. St. Rep. 719; 40 L. R. A. 761).

39. (1898.) The common law rule creating a lien of one who has bestowed labor and skill on a chattel bailed to him for that purpose, and thereby increasing its value may, by force of special facts or circumstances, override or supersede a prior contractual or statutory lien. Drummond Carriage Co. v. Mills, 54 Neb. 417 (74 N. W. 966; 69 Am. St. Rep. 719; 40 L. R. A. 761).

40. (1902.) A lien does not attach in favor of a bailee of goods if inconsistent with the terms of the agreement, express or implied, under which his possession was obtained. Webster v. Keck, 64 Neb. 1 (89 N. W. 410).

41. (1902.) An agreement to permit a tenant under an expiring lease to leave his goods in statu quo for an agreed sum of $10 payable monthly, with no right to retain the goods to the end of the month, and no right to demand payment on removal reserved by the contract, creates no lien on the goods for unpaid storage. Webster v. Keck, 64 Neb. 1 (89 N. W. 410).

Redelivery or recovery of property.

42. (1895.) The rightful owner of goods in possession of a common carrier may enforce his right thereto, although a stranger to the contract of bailment. Shellenberg v. Fremont, E. & M. V. R. Co., 45 Neb. 487 (63 N. W. 859; 50 Am. St. Rep. 561).

43. (1895.) A bailee may yield possession of the property bailed to a stranger to the contract of bailment by taking the risk of establishing that the latter is the rightful owner. Shellenberg v. Fremont, E. & M. V. R. Co., 45 Neb. 487 (63 N. W. 859; 50 Am. St. Rep. 561).

44. (1895.) Where a stranger to a contract of bailment claims property in possession of the bailee, the latter has a remedy by bill of interpleader requiring the claimants to the property to litigate the question of title between themselves. Shellenberg v. Fremont, E. & M. V. R. Co., 45 Neb. 487 (63 N. W. 859; 50 Am. St. Rep. 561).

Digitized by Google

45. (1901.) A depository of a trust fund who parts with no consideration and is not misled to his prejudice by reason of the deposit, is bound to restore the fund to the true owner on demand, although such deposit was made by an agent or trustee and, until such demand, the depository had no notice of its real character. Union Stock Yards Bank v. Campbell, 2 Unof. 72 (96 N. W. 608).

www.libtool.com.cn

Conversion by bailee.

46. (1888.) In cases of bailment at common law, there has always been a choice of forms of action between case and assumpsit. Case lies for breach of duty and assumpsit for breach of promise. The code has preserved to the suitor all the rights and remedies known to the law, and hence, if a promise is implied, either from a breach of duty or from the undertaking of defendant, an attachment in a proper case will lie. Hart v. Barnes, 24 Neb. 782 (40 N. W. 322).

47. (1900.) A bailee who fails or refuses to surrender trust property to the owner in accordance with the express or implied terms of the bailment is liable in an action for conversion, unless he can show a prior lawful seizure of the property under judicial process against the owner, or some other legal and valid excuse. Wood Harvester Co. v. Dobry, 59 Neb. 590 (81 N. W. 611).

Larceny by bailee.

48. (1898.) The rule excluding evidence of a crime other than that for which accused is being tried held applicable to a prosecution for larceny as bailee. Davis v. State, 54 Neb. 177 (74 N. W. 599).

49. (1898.) In a prosecution for larcenry by a bailee the gravamen of the charge is the felonious conversion, and the intent may be shown to have been entertained as of the time of the reception of the possession of the property or to have arisen during the continuance of such possession. Davis v. State, 54 Neb. 177 (74 N. W. 599).

Actions against third persons.

50. (1906.) A bailee of property having an interest therein under express contract may maintain an action to recover the value thereof against one through whose negligence or failure of duty it is lost. Union P. R. Co. v. Meyer, 76 Neb. 549 (107 N. W. 793).

BALLOTS.

See Elections, §§ 59-87.

BANK EXAMINERS.

See Banks and Banking, § 1.

BANKRUPTCY.

ANALYSIS.

Possession of property by United States marshal, §§ 1-3.
Effect of bankruptcy act on insolvency law, § 4.
Questions determined on application for discharge, § 5.
Effect of bankrupt proceeding in general, §§ 6-10.
Effect on pending actions, §§ 11, 12.
Presumption of execution of assignment, § 13.
Property vested in assignee, §§ 14-21.
Title and rights acquired by assignee, §§ 22-24.
Preference and transfers by bankrupt.
——— In general, §§ 25, 26.
——— Indirect transfers, § 27.
——— Notice of insolvency, §§ 28-31.
——— Absolute transfers in good faith, § 32.
——— Time of transfers, §§ 33-36.
——— Consideration, § 37.
Rights of preferred creditor, § 38.
Recovery of and setting aside transfer, §§ 39-47.
Discharge in bankruptcy.
——— Bar to subsequent suits, §§ 48-54.
——— Presumption of assignment, § 55.
——— Effect in general, §§ 56, 57.

Digitized by Google

——— Burden of proving discharge, § 58.
Collateral attack on discharge, §§ 59, 60.
Actions by assignee.
——— Jurisdiction of state courts, §§ 61-66.
——— Set-off of claim allowed, § 67.
——— Pleading, §§ 68-70.
——— Evidence, §§ 71-72.
——— Question for jury, §§ 73, 74
——— Instructions, § 75-77.

www.legool.com.cn

CROSS-REFERENCES.

See also, Assignments for Benefit of Creditors; Insolvency; Fraudulent Conveyances.

Insolvency of corporations, see Corporations.

Possession of property by United States marshal.

1. (1877.) In bankruptcy proceedings the possession of the goods by the United States marshal was possession of the court whose officer he was, and it was the right of that court to determine whether that possession was legal or not. Baker v. Daily, 6 Neb. 464.

2. (1877.) A marshal of a federal court can waive the right of that court to determine the legality of his possession of property seized in bankruptcy proceeding, and does so waive by failure to answer a replevin suit. Baker v. Daily, 6 Neb. 464.

3. (1877.) Where a property is taken by a United States marshall from an alleged bankrupt's vendee, and the state courts replevin the same and assess damages against the marshal, such marshal could have rendered such proceeding improper and erroneous, by proper answer, and showing by what authority he held the same. Baker v. Daily, 6 Neb. 464.

Effect of bankruptcy act on insolvency law.

4. (1902.) The bankruptcy act of 1898 does not affect proceedings commenced under the state insolvency law before its passage. Hood v. Blair State Bank, 3 Unof. 432 (91 N. W. 701).

Questions determined on application for discharge.

5. (1905.) The question of fraud in conveyances made prior to July 1, 1898, could not be determined in a hearing on application by a bankrupt for his discharge in the bankrupt proceedings. Shreck v. Hanlon, 74 Neb. 264 (104 N. W. 193).

Effect of bankrupt proceedings in general.

6. (1902.) As against a conditional vendor of chattels, the filing of a petition in bankruptcy by or against the vendee has the effect of the seizure of the goods upon judicial process against the latter. Logan v. Nebraska Moline Plow Co., 3 Unof. 526 (93 N. W. 1128).

7. (1880.) Where a judgment is recovered on attachment proceedings prior to proceedings in bankruptcy are instituted such attachment and judgment are dissolved by the proceedings in bankruptcy. Tootle v. Sheldon, 10 Neb. 44 (4 N. W. 358).

8. (1907.) Whether a debt due from an agent to his principal for rent collected and converted to his own use is one created by fraud, embezzlement, misappropriation, or defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity, within section 17 of the bankruptcy act, quære. Stull Brothers v. Beddeo, 78 Neb. 119 (112 N. W. 315).

9. (1907.) A surety on an injunction bond, given in a suit brought to restrain the enforcement of a judgment, is not released from liability thereon by the discharge of his principal in bankruptcy. Stull Brothers v. Beddeo, 78 Neb. 119 (112 N. W. 315).

10. (1906.) One who collects rents as the agent of another is acting in a fiduciary capacity and holds the amount so collected in trust for his principal; or if, without authority so to do, he collects rents due his employer and converts the same, he becomes indebted to his employer to the amount of the rents collected and the debt so created is fraudulently contracted. In either event a discharge in bankrtuptcy does not release him from the debt so contracted. Stull Brothers v. Beddeo, 78 Neb. 114 (110 N. W. 861).

Effect on pending actions.

11. (1882.) The only effect of bankruptcy proceedings upon a pending action prior to the discharge is to enable the bankrupt to have the action stayed to agait the decision of the bankrupt court on the question of his discharge. McCormick v. Raymond, 13 Neb. 306 (14 N. W. 402).

Digitized by Google

12. (1902.) The state court should stay proceedings in a suit pending against a person against whom proceedings in bankruptcy have been commenced, either on his own petition or by his creditors, if the pending suit is founded upon a claim from which a discharge in bankruptcy would be a release. McIntyre v. Malone, 3 Unof. 159 (91 N. W. 246).

www.libtool.com.cn

Presumption of execution of assignment.

13. (1888.) As soon as an assignee in bankruptcy is appointed and qualified by an instrument under his hand, to assign and convey to the assignee all of the estate of the bankrupt, etc., in a case where the record is silent as to the execution of such instrument, but does show that the bankrupt was subsequently discharged in bankruptcy from his debts, it will be presumed that the judge and register performed their duty, and that such instrument of assignment was executed. Hale v. Christy, 24 Neb. 746 (40 N. W. 295).

Property vested in assignee.

14. (1888.) Upon an adjudication of bankruptcy, the appointment of an assignee, and the execution by the judge, or in cases where there is no opposing interest, the register, of an instrument of assignment, all of the estate of such bankrupt, both real and personal, including all judgments owned by him, collectible or non-collectible, except exemptions not necessary to be considered, pass to and become vested in such assignee by virtue of the adjudication in bankruptcy and the appointment of the assignee. Hale v. Christy, 24 Neb. 746 (40 N. W. 295).

15. (1902.) An action for tort pending at the time of bankruptcy passes to the trustee of the bankrupt, and a purchaser and assignee thereof claiming under a trustee's sale may satisfy the claim. Cleland v. Anderson, 66 Neb. 252 (92 N. W. 306). [Overruled on rehearing. 66 Neb. 276.]

16. (1902.) Under section 70 of the bankruptcy act of 1898 (U. S. Compiled Statutes, 1901, p. 3451), a cause of action which would survive and pass to the personal representative of the plaintiff, so that the avails thereof would be distributed in the administration of the estate, will pass to his trustee in bankruptcy. Cleland v. Anderson, 66 Neb. 252 (92 N. W. 306). [Overruled on rehearing. 66 Neb. 276.]

17. (1902.) Where the state statutes make a distinction between a plaintiff's interest in a pending action and his cause of action before suit brought, the making the one assignable in cases where the other is not, the interest of a bankrupt in a pending action, which he might sell and assign, and of which his creditors might have the benefit on administration of the estate, is to be held "property," within the purview of subdivision 5, section 70, national bankruptcy act, rather than a "right of action" under subdivision 6. Cleland v. Anderson, 66 Neb. 273 (96 N. W. 212).

18. (1902.) An action for conspiracy whereby plaintiff was "driven out of business as a dealer in lumber," under section 11, chapter 91*a*, Compiled Statutes, 1901, is an action in tort, and does not arise "from the unlawful taking or detention of, or injury to, his property," within the meaning of the federal bankrupt act. Cleland v. Anderson, 66 Neb. 276 (98 N. W. 1075).

19. (1902.) A right of action for tort, is not property within the meaning of the national bankrupt act; and, even though an action is pending thereon, such right does not pass to the trustee in bankruptcy. Cleland v. Anderson, 66 Neb. 276 (98 N. W. 1075).

20. (1902.) The bankrupt act vests the assignee with title to all property conveyed by the bankrupt in fraud of creditors, and he may recover the interest of the bankrupt in the property, whether any creditor was in position to attack the transfer or not. Sheldon v. Parker, 66 Neb. 610 (92 N. W. 923).

21. (1905.) The right of action given by section 11, chapter 91*a*, Compiled Statutes 1903, is for injury to "business, employment or property," and under the national bankruptcy act passes to the assignee in bankruptcy. Cleland v. Anderson, 75 Neb. 273 (105 N. W. 1092).

Title and rights acquired by assignee.

22. (1902.) The federal bankruptcy law giving to the trustee the title to all property which the bankrupt could have transferred prior to the filing of the petition or which could have been levied upon for his debts, places the trustee as against an unrecorded conditional sale contract in the position of a judgment creditor. Logan v. Nebraska Moline Plow Co., 3 Unof. 516 (92 N. W. 129).

Digitized by Google

23. (1905.) A trustee in bankruptcy succeeds to the bankrupt's title to choses in action, subject to any defense, abatement or counterclaim to which they would have been liable in the hands of the latter. Nebraska Moline Plow Co. v. Blackburn, 74 Neb. 246 (104 N. W. 178).

24. (1905.) A party borrowed the amount necessary to pay the purchase price of certain real estate, for the purchase of which he had made an oral contract with the owner, giving his note therefor. To secure the payment of the note it was orally agreed among the vendor, the vendee and the payee of the note that upon payment of the note the title of the real estate should be conveyed to the vendee, but upon default in such payment it should be conveyed to the payee. Afterwards the vendee was adjudged a bankrupt and a trustee appointed for his estate. Held, That the vendee took merely the equitable title, subject to a lien in favor of the holder of the note for the amount due thereon, and that the trustee of his estate occupies no more advantageous position. Beer v. Wisner, 74 Neb. 437 (104 N. W. 757).

Preferences and transfers by bankrupt.

——— In general.

25. (1905.) Evidence examined, and held sufficient to sustain finding that a conveyance of land by a bankrupt to his wife was fraudulent as to creditors. Shreck v. Hanlon, 74 Neb. 264 (104 N. W. 193).

26. (1905.) When an insolvent debtor within four months of the adjudication of his bankruptcy transfers to one of his creditors with notice of such insolvency sufficient property to satisfy the debt in full, a preference will be presumed, because such is the natural and logical result of the transaction. Raley v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co., 73 Neb. 496 (103 N. W. 57).

——— Indirect transfers.

27. (1903.) A creditor will not be permitted to obtain a preference indirectly by transfer of his account, procuring a third party to loan money to the debtor for payment of such creditor, or other colorable device or transaction intended to evade the provisions of the bankruptcy act. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co., 68 Neb. 624 (94 N. W. 822).

——— Notice of insolvency.

28. (1902.) Where defendants admit that an assignment of their account against a bankrupt to a purchaser of his stock and business was with the understanding that it was to be used in payment therefor, and that they were to "carry" the purchaser on the account, if it be added that the defendants had notice of the bankrupt's insolvency, the transaction would amount to a preference and must be held to have been so intended. Hackney v. Hargreaves Bros., 3 Unof. 676 (92 N. W. 626).

29. (1903.) A mere knowledge of a creditor that the debtor has other liabilities, or of circumstances which could operate no further than to create a suspicion of possible insolvency, wil not necessarily suffice to constitute a payment or credit to such creditor, a preference within the purview of section 60 of the bankruptcy act. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co., 68 Neb. 624 (94 N. W. 822).

30. (1903.) In determining whether a creditor to whom an alleged preference was made, had reasonable cause to believe that his debtor was insolvent, it is not necessary to find that the creditor actually knew or believed that the debtor was insolvent. He is chargeable with notice of such facts as a reasonable inquiry, in view of the circumstances with respect to the debtor's condition which were brought home to him, might fairly be expected to disclose. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co., 68 Neb. 624 (94 N. W. 822).

31. (1903.) If the creditor has reasonable ground to believe that the debtor is insolvent, and the obvious effect of receipt of the money under those circumstances is to give him an advantage over other creditors, he is chargeable with notice of intent to prefer. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co., 68 Neb. 624 (94 N. W. 822).

——— Absolute transfers in good faith.

32. (1903.) An absolute transfer of an account against the insolvent debtor, in good faith, to one who afterwards buys the latter's stock of goods and obtains credit for such account on the purchase price, without any agreement or understanding that such use was to be made thereof, or that the purchaser of the account was to be protected by the creditor in any way, does not constitute a preference of the creditor to the extent of the money he received on sale of his claim. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co., 68 Neb. 624 (94 N. W. 822). [Overruled on rehearing. 68 Neb. 633.]

Digitized by Google

——Time of transfer.

33. (1903.) A chattel mortgage executed and delivered more than four months prior to bankruptcy of the mortgagor, is not voidable because not recorded until a subsequent date within such period of four months. First Nat. Bank of Holdrege v. Johnson, 68 Neb. 641 (94 N. W. 837).

34. (1903.) If a chattel mortgage is executed more than four months before bankruptcy, which creates no lien on specific chattels, and afterwards, within the four months, while the mortgagor is insolvent, he separates or identifies certain chattels and agrees that the mortgage shall apply to them, the lien is created then for the first time, and constitutes a preference within the meaning of section 60 of the bankruptcy act. First Nat. Bank of Holdrege v. Johnson, 68 Neb. 641 (94 N. W. 837).

35. (1903.) Evidence examined, and found insufficient to sustain a judgment in favor of the plaintiff under the provisions of subdivision f of section 67 of the national bankruptcy act of 1898. Johnson v. Anderson, 70 Neb. 233 (97 N. W. 339).

36. (1905.) Under subdivision e, section 67 of the bankruptcy act of July 1, 1898, all conveyances, transfers or assignments of property of a bankrupt made within four months of the filing of the petition for an adjudication in bankruptcy for a past consideration and with the intent and purpose on the part of the bankrupt to hinder, delay and defraud any of his creditors, are void as against the creditors. Raley v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co., 73 Neb. 496 (103 N. W. 57).

——Consideration.

37. (1903.) A creditor of a bankrupt cannot escape the consequences of the bankruptcy act regarding unlawful preferences by assigning his account to a purchaser of the property of the bankrupt under an arrangement whereby such purchaser offers to assume the liability, and satisfy such account contingent upon the purchase of the bankrupt's property, and where in the sale of such bankrupt's property, as a part of the consideration, such purchaser agrees to and assumes such liability, and reserves from the purchase price an amount sufficient to satisfy the same. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co., 68 Neb. 633 (99 N. W. 675).

Rights of preferred creditor.

38. (1903.) If a secured creditor of a bankrupt, whose security is insufficient, discloses his security in proving his claim before the referee, he may retain his security and share in the dividends as to the overplus. Kohout v. Chaloupka, 69 Neb. 677 (96 N. W. 173).

Recovery of and setting aside transfer.

39. (1902.) A trustee in bankruptcy, acting for the creditors of the bankrupt, may maintain an action in the nature of a creditors' bill to set aside a fraudulent conveyance without reducing the claims of the creditors to judgment. In all other things he possesses only such rights and powers as they can exercise for themselves. Hood v. Blair State Bank, 3 Unof. 432 (91 N. W. 701).

40. (1902.) Where it is shown in the petition of a trustee in bankruptcy that insolvency proceedings are pending under the state insolvency law, providing for an assignment for the benefit of creditors, his action to set aside alleged fraudulent conveyances and a decree of the state court foreclosing them cannot be maintained. Hood v. Blair State Bank, 3 Unof. 432 (91 N. W. 701).

41. (1903.) The trustee in bankruptcy may recover money paid by the bankrupt as a preference, only when the person receiving it had reasonable ground to believe that a preference was intended. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co., 68 Neb. 624 (94 N. W. 822).

42. (1903.) Where a creditor of an insolvent in good faith transfers his account to one who afterwards buys the debtor's goods and obtains credit for the account on the purchase price, the remedy of the trustee in bankruptcy of the debtor, is against the purchaser of the stock, who received credit on the purchase price for the account so transferred, in case he had reasonable ground to believe that a preference was intended. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co., 68 Neb. 624 (94 N. W. 822). [Overruled on rehearing. 68 Neb. 633.]

43. (1903.) In an action by a trustee in bankruptcy to recover a note from one to whom it had been assigned by the bankrupt's wife pending the bankruptcy proceedings, the evidence held to support the trial court's finding that neither fraud or intended preference was shown in this case. Hackney v. First Nat. Bank of Lincoln, 68 Neb. 588 (94 N. W. 805).

44. (1903.) An action by a trustee in bankruptcy to recover a negotiable promissory note from one to whom it had been transferred by the bankrupt's wife pending bankruptcy proceedings, must develop either fraud or an intended preference to entitle plaintiff to recover. Hackney v. First Nat. Bank of Lincoln, 68 Neb. 588 (94 N. W. 805).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

45. (1903.) Where one creditor of a bankrupt has secured a preference in the payment of his claim, the trustee may recover the property, or its value, from such preferred creditor, but he can not pursue the property into the hands of a third party, who is a bona fide purchaser, or recover from such third party the value of the property. Hackney v. First Nat. Bank of Lincoln, 68 Neb. 594 (98 N. W. 412).

46. (1903.) The trustee in bankruptcy may recover money paid by the bankrupt as a preference only, when the person receiving it had reasonable ground to believe that a preference was intended. Johnson v. Anderson, 70 Neb. 233 (97 N. W. 339).

47. (1905.) A trustee in bankruptcy, acting for the creditors of the bankrupt, may maintain an action in the nature of a creditors' bill to set aside a fraudulent conveyance, without reducing the claims of the creditors to judgment. Shreck v. Hanlon, 74 Neb. 264 (104 N. W. 193).

Discharge in bankruptcy.

Discharge in, not a bar to creditor's suit, see Creditor's Suit, § 3.

Discharge of fraudulent grantee as defense of grantor to creditor's suit, see Creditor's Suit, §§ 42, 43.

——— Bar to subsequent suits.

48. (1877.) A certificate of discharge is sufficient evidence of bankruptcy and of the validity of the proceedings therein. Smith v. Kinney, 6 Neb. 447.

49. (1877.) When a judgment, upon a debt accrued before the institution of proceedings in bankruptcy, is entered in a state court prior to a decree in bankruptcy, the certificate of discharge is conclusive of the discharge and a bar to further proceedings upon the judgment; and the court will relieve the judgment debtor, in such case, from an execution afterwards issued thereon. Smith v. Kinney, 6 Neb. 447.

50. (1882.) It is only the final discharge of a debtor, under the bankrupt law of the United States, that constitutes a good plea in bar of an action. The fact that he has simply been adjudged a bankrupt is not a defense. McCormick v. Raymond, 13 Neb. 306 (14 N. W. 402).

51. (1900.) A discharge in bankruptcy is no defense to an action based upon the defendant's fraud while acting as an officer or in any fiduciary capacity. Gerner v. Yates, 61 Neb. 100 (84 N. W. 596).

52. (1902.) The question of fraud in conveyances made prior to July 1, 1898, could not be determined in a hearing on application by a bankrupt for his discharge in the bankrupt proceedings, and hence such discharge is not a bar to a pending proceeding to set the conveyance aside. Paxton v. Scott, 66 Neb. 385 (92 N. W. 611).

53. (1904.) After plaintiff in attachment has recovered judgment, and an order for the sale of the attached real estate, and has begun an action in equity to set aside a fraudulent convenance of the real estate, the discharge in bankruptcy of the judgment defendant will not defeat such action. Grandin v. First Nat. Bank of Chicago, 70 Neb. 730 (98 N. W. 70).

54. (1905.) Where a discharged bankrupt seeks to enjoin the collection of a judgment against him which was not listed in the name of the creditor in the bankruptcy proceedings, he must plead and prove that the creditor had notice or knowledge of such proceedings in time for proof and allowance of the same before he can succeed in the action. Armstrong v. Sweeney, 73 Neb. 775 (103 N. W. 436).

——— Presumption of assignment.

55. (1888.) Where record shows discharge of bankrupt, presumption is that assignment was executed. Hale v. Christy, 24 Neb. 746 (40 N. W. 295).

——— Effect in general.

56. (1887.) Where one who is indebted to another procures a third person to execute a note and mortgage to the creditor, on false representations, and a concealment of the indebtedness between the parties, the liability created by such fraud is not discharged by bankruptcy proceeding, and the measure of damage the amount of the loss occasioned by the fraud, with legal interest. Forbes v. Thomas, 22 Neb. 541 (35 N. W. 411).

57. (1902.) The discharge of a bankrupt is only personal to himself, and does not affect any lien, either by contract or by judicial proceedings, against property. Parton v. Scott, 66 Neb. 385 (92 N. W. 611).

Digitized by Google

——Burden of proving discharge.

58. (1885.) One who pleads a discharge in bankruptcy as a defense to an action against him is burdened with establishing such discharge by sufficient evidence. Gregory v. Edgerly, 17 Neb. 374 (22 N. W. 703).

Collateral attack on discharge.

59. (1876.) A discharge in bankruptcy has the same effect in law as payment of the debts, and such discharge cannot be assailed for fraud in a collateral proceeding. Seymour v. Street, 5 Neb. 85.

60. (1877.) A decree of discharge in bankruptcy can only be impeached in a direct application for that purpose in the court in which it was granted. Smith v. Kinney, 6 Neb. 447.

Actions by assignee.

——Jurisdiction of state courts.

61. (1872.) The assignee of a bankrupt under the United States bankrupt law of 1867, can maintain an action in a state court in his own name, for property claimed to belong to the estate of the bankrupt. Hoover v. Robinson, 3 Neb. 437.

62. (1902.) The state courts have jurisdiction of an action by a trustee in bankruptcy to set aside an alleged fraudulent conveyance by the bankrupt. Paxton v. Scott, 66 Neb. 385 (92 N. W. 611).

63. (1902.) A trustee in bankruptcy must, in certain cases, resort to the courts of the state to recover property of the bankrupt fraudulently conveyed. In such cases he is entitled to all remedies and all relief that would be afforded any other party litigant under the same facts. Sheldon v. Parker, 66 Neb. 610 (92 N. W. 923).

64. (1902.) Where a person has been declared a bankrupt under the act of congress approved July 1, 1898, the trustee appointed in that proceeding may maintain an action to set aside a conveyance made by the bankrupt at any time within two years after the estate has been closed, provided the action was not barred by the laws of this state at the time the petition in bankruptcy was filed. Shreck v. Hanlon, 66 Neb. 451 (92 N. W. 625); Sheldon v. Parker, 66 Neb. 610 (92 N. W. 923).

65. (1902.) The state court in which is pending the suit against a bankrupt is the proper tribunal to which application for a stay pending the bankruptcy proceedings should be made. McIntyre v. Malone, 3 Unof. 159 (91 N. W. 246).

66. (1902.) Actions by a trustee in bankruptcy to recover property in the hands of third parties and which he claims as a part of the bankrupt estate, must be prosecuted in the state court unless the defendants in such actions consent that the same may be prosecuted in the federal court. McIntyre v. Malone, 3 Unof. 159 (91 N. W. 246).

——Set-off of claim allowed.

67. (1905.) A party against whom a judgment has been rendered in favor of the trustee of a bankrupt may, by proper proceedings in equity, be allowed to offset against the same a claim allowed in its favor against the bankrupt in the bankruptcy proceedings. Tootle-Weakley Millinery Co. v. Billingsley, 74 Neb. 531 (105 N. W. 85).

——Pleading.

68. (1903.) The petition of a trustee in bankruptcy, asking to be substituted as party plaintiff in a creditor's bill filed by a creditor of the bankrupt who has filed his claim before the referee in bankruptcy, which does not allege that such creditor has waived his security, is insufficient to entitle the trustee to intervene and be subrogated to the rights of such creditor. Kohout v. Chaloupka, 69 Neb. 677 (96 N. W. 173).

69. (1903.) In an action by a trustee in bankruptcy to recover the proceeds of the property of the bankrupt paid over to a creditor on a judgment in completed attachment proceedings in his favor, within four months of, and before the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, it must be alleged in the petition that the preference was received by the creditor having reasonable cause to believe that the bankrupt was insolvent, and, by suffering the attachment proceedings and judgment to be taken against him, thereby intended to make a preference. Johnson v. Anderson, 70 Neb. 233 (97 N. W. 339).

70. (1903.) Held, That the court in the exercise of a reasonable discretion, properly refused to allow the plaintiff to amend his petition, where the amendment tendered failed to allege that the defendant, to whom a payment was made by the insolvent, within four months before the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, had reasonable ground to believe that by such payment the bankrupt intended a preference. Johnson v. Anderson, 70 Neb. 233 (97 N. W. 339).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

——— Evidence.

71. (1903.) A schedule of liabilities filed by the bankrupt in bankruptcy proceedings, is not competent evidence on an issue between the trustee and third persons to whom he had made an alleged preference, as to the financial condition of the bankrupt three months before such proceedings were instituted. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co., 68 Neb. 624 (94 N. W. 822). [Overruled on rehearing. 68 Neb. 633.]

72. (1903.) In a contest between a trustee in bankruptcy and one sought to be charged as a creditor having received an unlawful preference, the schedule of liabilities filed by the bankrupt in the bankruptcy proceedings is admissible in evidence on the issue of insolvency as tending to prove the insolvency charged. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co., 68 Neb. 633 (99 N. W. 675).

——— Question for jury.

73. (1903.) Evidence examined, and held to present a question for the jury whether the specific chattels in controversy were mortgaged in the first instance, or were afterwards within four months of bankruptcy agreed upon as the mortgaged property. First Nat. Bank of Holdrege v. Johnson, 68 Neb. 641 (94 N. W. 837).

74. (1903.) Whether a creditor had reasonable cause to believe his debtor insolvent within the purview of section 60 of the bankruptcy act is a question of fact. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co., 68 Neb. 624 (94 N. W. 822).

——— Instructions.

75. (1903.) In an action by a trustee in bankruptcy to recover, under section 60 of the bankrupt law, the amount of a preference given within four months of the filing of a petition in bankruptcy, held error to instruct the jury that it is sufficient to prove that the defendant had reasonable cause to believe the bankrupt was insolvent "or that it was acquainted with facts as to the condition of said company that would lead to a reasonable doubt of its solvency." Farmers & Mechanics Bank v. Wilson, 4 Unof. 606 (95 N. W. 609).

76. (1903.) An instruction, that notice of facts sufficient to lead a prudent man to the conclusion that a debtor "could not meet his obligations as they matured in the ordinary course of business" is notice of the insolvency of such debtor, within the meaning of the bankruptcy act, is erroneous. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co., 68 Neb. 624 (94 N. W. 822).

77. (1905.) In an action by a trustee in bankruptcy to set aside an alleged preference to defendant as creditor, the instructions set out in the opinion, held not prejudicial. Hargreaves Bros. v. Hackney, 74 Neb. 700 (104 N. W. 855).

BANKS AND BANKING.

ANALYSIS.

I. CONTROL AND REGULATION.
Public examiners, § 1.

II. BANKING CORPORATIONS AND ASSOCIATIONS.
(A) Incorporation, organization, and incidents of existence.
What constitutes bank, §§ 2-4.
——— Individual doing banking business, §§ 5, 6.
Term of existence, § 7.
Reorganization, §§ 8-11.
(B) Capital stock and dividends.
Issue of stock, § 12.
Reduction of capital stock, §§ 13, 14.
Liability for unpaid subscriptions, §§ 15, 16.
(C) Stockholders.
Liability for debts of bank, §§ 17-19.
Liability on indebtedness to bank, § 19a.

Digitized by Google

Contribution among stockholders, § 20.
Actions to enforce stockholders' liability, §§ 21, 22.
——— Conditions precedent, §§ 23-25.
——— Parties, §§ 26-31.
——— Pleading, § 32.
(D) Officers and agents.
Rights and liabilities as to bank and its stockholders, §§ 33-42.
——— Securities furnished by defaulting officer, §§ 43-46.
——— Actions, §§ 47-51.
Criminal responsibility, §§ 52-54.
(E) Insolvency and receivers.
Application and proceedings for appointment of receiver, §§ 55-57.
Jurisdiction to appoint receiver, §§ 58, 59.
Removal of receiver, § 60.
Directions to sue stockholders, §§ 61-63.
Assets and possession thereof, §§ 64-68.
——— Sale by receiver, §§ 69-71.
——— Delivery to officers of bank on security, §§ 72-75.
——— Liens against assets, §§ 76-79.
Compromise of debts due bank, §§ 80-82.
Set-off by debtor of insolvent bank, §§ 83-85.
Right of action by insolvent bank, § 86.
Actions and proceedings by and against receivers, §§ 87-89.
Distribution of assets, and priorities, §§ 90-93a.
——— Interest, § 93b.
Compensation of trustee, § 93c.

III. FUNCTIONS AND DEALINGS.
(A) Banking franchises and powers, and their exercise in general.
Property and conveyances, §§ 94, 95.
Purchasing and holding stock in other corporations, §§ 96-98.
Authority to act as surety, § 99.
(B) Representation of bank by officers and agents.
Authority of officers in general, §§ 100-104.
Assumption of debt, §§ 105, 106.
Execution of replevin bond, §§ 107-109.
Compromise of debts due bank, §§ 110, 111.
Release of surety, § 112.
Representations and admissions, §§ 113-117.
Confession of judgment, § 118.
Liability on negotiable paper executed by officer, §§ 119, 120.
Knowledge of officer as notice to bank, §§ 121, 122.
Estoppel to deny authority of officer, § 123.
Liability on paper misappropriated by officer, § 124.
(C) Deposits.
Title to deposits, and nature of relation created, §§ 125-132.
——— Trust funds, §§ 133-136.
Application of deposits to debts due bank, §§ 137-142.
Priorities on insolvency of bank, §§ 143-146.
——— Trust funds, §§ 147-151.
——— Deposit made after insolvency, §§ 152-155.
Interest on deposits, §§ 156, 157.
Acceptance of check or agreement to accept, §§ 158-161.
Payment of check drawn or indorsed by unauthorized person, §§ 162-167.
Payment of forged checks, §§ 168, 169.
Certificates of deposit, §§ 170-172.
——— Transfer, §§ 173-180.
Effect of check as transfer of fund, §§ 181-186.

Digitized by Google

Payment of checks, §§ 187-189.
——— Effect of payment, §§ 190, 191.
——— Liability of bank to payer or holder, §§ 192-196.
——— Liability of bank to drawer for refusal to pay, §§ 197, 198.
Actions to recover deposits,
——— Defenses, §§ 199, 200.
——— Limitations, §§ 201, 202.
——— Pleading, §§ 203-207.
——— Presumptions and burden of proof, §§ 208-211.
——— Admissibility of evidence, §§ 212, 213.
——— Weight and sufficiency of evidence, §§ 214-216.
——— Judgment, § 217.
(D) Collections.
Title to paper received for collection, §§ 218, 219.
Title to funds collected, § 220.
——— After insolvency of bank, §§ 221-223.
——— Application of proceeds to debt due bank, § 224.
Receipt of depositor's check for collection, § 225.
Negligence or default in making collection, §§ 226-237.
——— Agent or correspondent of collecting bank, §§ 238-243.
Liability on collection of void draft, § 244.
Actions or defenses for negligence or default.
——— Defenses, § 245.
——— Pleading, §§ 246-249.
——— Evidence, §§ 250-254.
——— Measure of damages, § 255.
(E) Exchange.
Issue and payment of drafts, § 256.
IV. NATIONAL BANKS.
Nature and status in general, §257.
Guaranty, §§ 258, 259.
Transactions in real property, §§ 260-264.
——— Persons entitled to question transaction, §§ 265.
Liability of officers for publishing false statement, §§ 266-274.
——— Actions to enforce liability, §§ 275-278.
Usurious loans by banks, §§ 279-286.
——— Set-off of usurious interest paid, §§ 287-289.
Actions for penalty for usury, §§ 290-292.
——— Jurisdiction and venue, §§ 293, 294.
——— Conditions precedent, §§ 295, 296.
——— Defenses, § 296a.
——— Pleading, §§ 297-299.
——— Limitations, § 300.
——— Evidence, § 301.
——— Instructions, § 301a.
——— Amount of penalty recoverable, § 302.
Insolvency and receivers, §§ 303-305.
——— Assessment of stockholders by comptroller, §§ 306-309.

CROSS-REFERENCES.

Bank checks, see Bills and Notes.

Assessment of property for taxation, see Taxation, §§ 292, 293.

I. CONTROL AND REGULATION.

Public examiners.

1. (1890.) Under the act of March 29, 1889, requiring banks, corporations, firms, and individuals transacting a banking business to report their resources bilities to the auditor of public and providing for their yearly exa the fees of bank examiners, app the board of state officers under are to be strictly in conformity 8 of the act, and any resolution of the board of state officers p any other rule or rate of compe without authority and void. Sta Post, v. Benton, 31 Neb. 44 (47 N

www.libtool.com.cn
Digitized by Google

II. BANKING CORPORATIONS AND ASSOCIATIONS.

A. Incorporation, Organization and Incidents of Existence.

www.libtool.com.cn

What constitutes bank.

2. (1902.) In determining whether or not a corporation is a banking institution within the meaning of section 7, article XI*b* of the constitution, the court will look to its articles of incorporation, its declared objects and purposes, the character of the business transacted by it, and even the construction which the officers themselves, in their management of its affairs, place upon its charter powers, if this construction is not unwarranted by the language of its charter. Hamilton Nat. Bank v. American Loan & Trust Co., 66 Neb. 67 (92 N. W. 189).

3. (1902.) To buy and sell commercial paper, to make and negotiate loans, to receive money to be transferred to and paid at other places, to buy and sell exchange upon other cities in this and foreign countries, to receive money on deposit and to pay the same out upon checks or orders, are each banking functions; but it is not necessary, in order to constitute a corporation a banking institution within the meaning of section 7, article XI*b* of the constitution, that it shall exercise all of these functions. Hamilton Nat. Bank v. American Loan & Trust Co., 66 Neb. 67 (92 N. W. 189).

4. (1902.) A corporation filed articles providing, among other things, that the general nature of its business should be to make and negotiate loans, to purchase and sell notes, mortgages, stocks and bonds, to borrow money and issue its own obligations therefor, to receive money on deposit, and to execute trusts. It received money on deposit, and paid the same out on checks; it bought and sold commercial paper; it made and negotiated loans; it bought and sold exchange upon other cities, and also transacted much of the business of a loan and trust company. It designated itself a "loan and trust company." Held, That it was a bank, and its stockholders were liable under the provisions of section 7, article XI*b* of the constitution. Hamilton Nat. Bank v. American Loan & Trust Co., 66 Neb. 67 (92 N. W. 189).

——— Individual doing banking business.

5. (1899.) An unincorporated bank, exclusively owned by a private individual, is not a legal entity, though its business be conducted by a president and cashier. Longfellow v. Barnard, 58 Neb. 612 (79 N. W. 255; 76 Am. St. Rep. 117).

6. (1899.) An unincorporated bank, exclusively owned by one person, is not a corporation de facto, though the business be conducted by a president and cashier. Longfellow v. Barnard, 59 Neb. 455 (81 N. W. 307).

Term of existence.

7. (1897.) A finding adverse to the contention that a banking corporation had ceased to exist by lapse of time will be sustained where, on each side, the evidence is of like character with a preponderance in favor of the finding rather than against it. Shabata v. Johnston, 53 Neb. 12 (73 N. W. 278).

Reorganization.

8. (1897.) A petition of a creditor of a banking association which discloses that another bank, as successor of said association, had assumed the liabilities upon a sufficient consideration moving from said association, and that the claim of plaintiff was one of said liabilities remaining unpaid, states sufficient facts to entitle to relief as against the bank which assumed the aforesaid liabilities. Tecumseh Nat. Bank v. Best, 50 Neb. 518 (70 N. W. 41).

9. (1897.) Evidence held insufficient to show that a national bank, succeeding a banking association, assumed the debts of the association. Tecumseh Nat. Bank v. Saunders, 50 Neb. 521 (70 N. W. 42).

10. (1898.) Where a partnership bank guarantees payment of a note and transferred it to an incorporated bank of which two of the partners became officers, the defense that the transferee extended the time of payment of the note was held not availing to defendants in a suit by the transferee on the guaranty. Leonhardt v. Citizens Banks of Ulysses, 56 Neb. 38 (76 N. W. 452).

11. (1898.) Where partners in a bank transfer their assets to an incorporated bank, guarantee payment, and become stockholders and officers of the incorporated bank, a settlement of the liability of the copartnership and the incorporated bank by its managing officers, is voidable at the election of the incorporated bank, unless the full amount due on the guaranty is paid, or the settlement authorized or ratified by the stockholders, the guarantors not voting. Leonhardt v. Citizens Bank of Ulysses, 56 Neb. 38 (76 N. W. 452).

Digitized by Google

B. Capital Stock and Dividends.

Issue of stock.

www.libtool.com.cn

12. (1878.) O., the president of a bank, informed one R. that they were about to reorganize the bank, and that if he would act as director thereof, and his firm would give the bank all their business as they had done before, and use their influence in its behalf, that they would give him ten shares of the stock. R. accepted the proposition, and was elected and served as a director, and the firm of which he was a member continued to do business with the bank. Held, 1st, that the agreement was a sufficient consideration to entitle R. to the ten shares of stock; 2d, that the president professing to act for the bank in the transaction, and the bank receiving the benefits derived from the contract, thereby ratified his action. Rich v. State National Bank, 7 Neb. 201 (29 Am. Rep. 382).

Reduction of capital stock.

13. (1902.) Where a bank reducing its captial stock, took up its old stock, and issued new stock for half the amount in exchange and also, without consideration, issued certificates of deposit to the stockholders for an amount equal to the other half of the stock, another bank, which held as collateral a part of the $25,000 of previous stock, and surrendered the same, and accepted in lieu thereof one-half in new stock and one-half in certificates of deposit, stands as to this reduction of stock in the shoes of an ordinary stockholder, and can not recover against the receiver on its deposit certificates. State v. Bank of Ogallala, 65 Neb. 20 (91 N. W. 497).

14. (1902.) A bank having a nominal capital stock of $25,000, and an indebtedness besides to the amount of $14,542, its entire assets being only of the value of $21,400, issued certificates of deposit for the amount of $12,500 to its several stockholders, and also $12,500 of new capital stock to take up the former capital stock, held, that the certificates of deposit are without consideration, as against a receiver and creditors of the bank, and that without regard to when the creditors became such. State v. Bank of Ogallala, 65 Neb. 20 (91 N. W. 497).

Liability for unpaid subscriptions.

Liability for debts of bank, see post, §§ 17-32.

15. (1893.) W. and T. were conducting a private bank at L., and on November 1, 1887, organized a corporation with an alleged capital of $50,000 of which they retained a controlling interest. They turned over the deposits and assets of the private bank to the new corporation, for the amount of their stock. Held, That the stockholders were liable for the unpaid stock held by each, and for a sum equal to the shares so held by each for all liabilities of the bank accruing while he was a stockholder. Porter v. Sherman County Banking Co., 36 Neb. 271 (54 N. W. 424)

16. (1897.) Compiled Statutes, chapter 8, section 35 (the Banking Act), in so far as it attempts to authorize actions to recover unpaid stock subscriptions before the corporate debts have been judicially ascertained and the corporate property exhausted, is in conflict with the constitution and void. State v. German Savings Bank, 50 Neb. 734 (70 N. W. 221).

C. Stockholders.

Directions to receiver to sue stockholders, see post, §§ 61-63.

Liability on unpaid subscription, see ante, §§ 15, 16.

Liability for debts of bank.

Assessment of stockholders of national bank, by comptroller, see post, §§ 306-309

17. (1893.) The stockholders are not liable under the provisions of sections 136, 139, chapter 11, General Statutes, for a debt which was not incurred while the officers of the bank were in default in publishing notice of the condtion of the bank. Porter v. Sherman County Banking Co., 36 Neb. 271 (54 N. W. 424).

18. (1896.) The provisions of section 7, article XI of the constitution, that "every stockholder in a banking corporation or institution shall be individually responsible and liable to its creditors over and above the amount of stock by him held, to an amount equal to his respective stock or shares so held, for all its liabilities accruing while he remains such stockholder," are enforceable without special supplementary statutory enactments. Farmers Loan & Trust Co. v. Funk, 49 Neb. 353 (68 N. W. 520).

19. (1907.) The stockholders' liability is not a part of the res seized by the receiver. It is a liability for the benefit of the creditors. Holcomb v. Tierney, 79 Neb. 660 (113 N. W. 204).

Digitized by Google

Liability on indebtedness to bank.

19a. (1907.) Where a stockholder in a bank which is in process of liquidation, who is indebted to the bank, refuses to pay his indebtedness and litigates the question, thereby preventing the distribution of funds on hand, and the litigation is determined adversely to him, he should be charged with interest upon the amount of his indebtedness, as found by the court, down to the time of the entry of judgment, regardless of the fact of the existence of such funds. Gund v. Ballard, 80 Neb. 385 (114 N. W. 420).

www.libtool.com.cn

Contribution among stockholders.

20. (1899.) Where a stockholder of a state bank advances his own funds to pay the debts of the bank in pursuance of an agreement of the stockholders that each should contribute in proportion to the number of shares of stock held by him, the advancing stockholder may maintain an action against the other stockholders for an accounting and contribution, without having first exhausted the assets of the bank. Davidson v. Gretna State Bank, 59 Neb. 63 (80 N. W. 256).

Actions to enforce stockholders' liability.

21. (1898.) The general nature of the relief to be afforded in an action by creditors against stockholders in an insolvent bank, on their unpaid subscriptions, in its main and ordinary elements outlined herein. German Nat. Bank. v. Farmers & Merchants Bank, 54 Neb. 593 (74 N. W. 1086.

22. (1898.) An action to enforce individual liability of stockholders of a bank, for corporate debts, is within the equity jurisdiction of the court. German Nat. Bank v. Farmers & Merchants Bank, 54 Neb. 593 (74 N. W. 1086.

——Conditions precedent.

23. (1896.) The constitutional requirement (constitution, article XI, section 4, under "Miscellaneous Corporations") that the indebtedness of a corporation shall be ascertained and the corporate assets exhausted before the enforcement of individual liability of stockholders, applies to banking corporations. Farmers Loan & Trust Co. v. Funk, 49 Neb. 353 (68 N. W. 520); (1898) German Nat. Bank v. Farmers & Merchants Bank, 54 Neb. 593 (74 N. W. 1086); (1898) Hastings v. Barnd, 55 Neb. 93 (75 N. W. 49).

24. (1902.) The liability of stockholders of a banking institution under section 7, article 11*b* of the constitution, is not an asset of the corporation, but a subject-matter wholly distinct; and a receiver can enforce such liability only at the instance of the creditors, by direction of the court, and then only after the claims of the creditors have been judicially ascertained, and the assets of the corporation exhausted. Hamilton Nat. Bank v. American Loan & Trust Co., 66 Neb. 67 (92 N. W. 189).

25. (1907.) A judicial ascertainment of the liabilities of an insolvent banking corporation, such as is necessary before an action can be maintained to enforce the liability of the stockholders, can only be had in an action where the bank, being a party, has been properly served with notice of the pendency of the proceeding, or where it has voluntarily appeared and submitted to the jurisdiction of the court. Holcomb v. Tierney, 79 Neb. 660 (113 N. W. 204).

——Parties.

26. (1898.) The bank, the liability of whose stockholders was sought to be enforced herein, held not a necessary party to the action, but not an improper one. German Nat. Bank v. Farmers & Merchants Bank, 54 Neb. 593 (74 N. W. 1086).

27. (1898.) An action by creditors of an insolvent bank, against stockholders on unpaid stock should be for the benefit of all the creditors of the corporation against whose stockholders it is commenced. German Nat. Bank v. Farmers & Merchants Bank, 54 Neb. 593 (74 N. W. 1086).

28. (1898.) The liability of stockholders in banking corporations under section 7, article 11 of the constitution, must be enforced by or on behalf of all creditors, and against all stockholders liable. A suit by and on behalf of one out of many creditors against certain selected stockholders will not lie. Hastings v. Barnd, 55 Neb. 93 (75 N. W. 49).

29. (1898.) It is the settled doctrine of the supreme court that the liability of a stockholder in a banking corporation, under the provisions of section 7, article XI of the constitution, is for the creation of a fund for the benefit of all creditors, and an action to enforce such liability must be prosecuted for the benefit of all the creditors of the corporation against all the stockholders within the jurisdiction of the court. Pickering v. Hastings, 56 Neb. 201 (76 N. W. 587).

Digitized by Google

30. (1899.) An action for the enforcement of the individual liability of the stockholders of a banking corporation must be prosecuted by one creditor for the benefit of all, or by the receiver of the corporation. Brown v. Brink, 57 Neb. 606 (78 N. W. 280).

31. (1899.) A creditor may not intervene in an action brought by the receiver of a bank against a stockholder, at least where it is not made to appear that the receiver is not prosecuting the case in good faith for the best interests of the creditors, or in some way has disregarded or violated the duties of his trust in that regard. Brown v. Brink, 57 Neb. 606 (78 N. W. 280).

——— Pleading.

32. (1898.) In an action to enforce stockholders liability, an allegation that "the exact amount justly due has hereinbefore been ascertained and the corporate property has been wholly and completely exhausted" was sufficient as against a motion to strike on the ground of indefiniteness. German Nat. Bank v. Farmers & Merchants Bank, 54 Neb. 593 (74 N. W. 1086).

D. Officers and Agents.

Acts and statements of officers binding on bank, see post, §§ 100-124.

Liability for neglegence of agent in making collection, see post §§ 238-243.

Rights and liabilities as to bank and its stockholders.

33. (1897.) Where the cashier of a bank used the bank's funds to purchase stock in another bank, a court of equity may charge the stock with a trust in favor of the bank whose funds were wrongfully used to purchase the stock. Tecumseh Nat. Bank v. Russell, 50 Neb. 277 (69 N. W. 763).

34. (1900.) In an action for deceit against the officers of a national bank who published a false report as to its financial condition, upon which plaintiff relied, one of the directors cannot escape liability on the ground that there was no special reliance upon him, if it appear that the plaintiff relied on the report and the entire directorate. Gerner v. Yates, 61 Neb. 100 (84 N. W. 596).

35. (1900.) A published report of the financial condition of a bank in which the resources and liabilities are equally inflated is not such a material misrepresentation as will support an action for deceit, unless the condition of the bank is thereby made to appear better than it actually is. Gerner v. Yates, 61 Neb. 100 (84 N. W. 596).

36. (1901.) An assistant cashier of a bank is subject to the control and direction of the cashier, but, when he is led to believe that the cashier is violating his own duty, and is taking bank funds for his own use, without authority, the assistant cashier has no right to aid or connive at such misappropriation. Fiala v. Ainsworth, 63 Neb. 1 (88 N. W. 135; 93 Am. St. Rep. 420).

37. (1901.) In an action against an assistant cashier of a bank to recover for negligence in knowingly permitting the cashier to misappropriate bank funds, no recovery can be had on certain losses sustained through transactions with other banks whereby the cashier obtains loans in the name of the bank, such loss being too remote. Fiala v. Ainsworth, 63 Neb. 1 (88 N. W. 135; 93 Am. St. Rep. 420).

38. (1903.) Where an officer of a bank gives a bond conditioned that he will "honestly, faithfully, and efficiently" perform his duties, he and his sureties are liable for loss resulting from his negligence, even though the directors may not have used due diligence. Fiala v. Ainsworth, 68 Neb. 308 (94 N. W. 153).

39. (1904.) The general authority of a cashier of a bank does not authorize him to issue drafts of the bank for himself or for his private use. Mendel v. Boyd, 71 Neb. 657 (99 N. W. 493).

40. (1905.) Where the president of a bank was a creditor of a firm who were also debtors of the bank secured an assignment of all of the debtors property in his individual name, and obliged himself to pay the indebtedness to the bank by signing a note in its favor with the debtor, he is primarily liable to the bank for the amount of the bank. Gund v. Ballard, 73 Neb. 547 (103 N. W. 309).

41. (1905.) Where a person occupies a fiduciary relation to a bank and its stockholders, and engages in litigation in which his individual interests are in conflict with those he represents in a fiduciary capacity, actual fraud is not essential in order to avoid the proceedings thus had and entered into. Gund v. Ballard, 73 Neb. 547 (103 N. W. 309).

42. (1905.) The president and director of a bank cannot enter into a contract with the corporation in which he is such an officer to pay a usurious rate of interest on money owing by him to such corporation, and thereby escape the payment of all interest on such indebtedness under the statute denouncing usurious contracts. In such a case a court of equity will not enforce the unlawful usurious contract, but will require the debtor to do equity by paying the legal rate of interest on the principal sum for which he is indebted to the corporation. Gund v. Ballard, 73 Neb. 547 (103 N. W. 309).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

——Securities furnished by defaulting officer.

43. (1901.) When a defaulting officer of a bank, for the purpose of replenishing the assets of the bank to enable it to resume business, is allowed to furnish collateral securities for his indorsements upon paper previously sold by him to the bank, representations made by an examiner as to the liabilities of such officer to the bank and the value and condition of the securities already furnished by him, are not binding upon the bank; and one who furnishes collateral securities to such defaulting officer to be so used by him can not rely upon such representations of the examiner as a defense in an action by the bank to foreclose its lien upon such securities. Tecumseh Nat. Bank v. Chamberlain Banking House, 63 Neb. 163 (88 N. W. 186; 57 L. R. A. 811).

44. (1901.) Where a defaulting bank officer contracts to furnish collateral security for his indorsement on paper previously sold to the bank by him so as to replenish the assets of the bank after such securities have been furnished and the bank has resumed business, the person furnishing such securities at the request of such defaulting officer with knowledge of the use to be made thereof by him cannot be heard to say that there was no consideration for furnishing the same Tecumseh Nat. Bank v. Chamberlain Banking House, 63 Neb. 163 (88 N. W. 186; 57 L. R A. 811).

45. (1901.) A contract of a defaulting bank officer to furnish collateral security so as to enable the bank to resume business, is not illegal. Tecumseh Nat. Bank v. Chamberlain Banking House, 63 Neb. 163 (88 N. W. 186; 57 L. R. A. 811).

46. (1901.) Where a defaulting bank officer makes false representations to a third person in order to obtain collateral securities so as to replenish the assets of the bank, and the bank is represented by a majority of its directors who are not in default and who accept such securities from the defaulting officer, such defaulting officer is not an agent of the bank, and his representations as to the liabilities of the bank and the value of the securities already obtained will not be binding upon the bank, so as to enable the person induced to furnish such securities to rely upon the representations as a defense in an action by the bank to foreclose its lien thereon. Tecumseh Nat. Bank v. Chamberlain Banking House, 63 Neb. 163 (88 N. W. 186; 57 L. R. A. 811).

——Actions.

Action to enforce liability of national bank officer for publishing false report, see post, §§ 275-278.

47. (1901.) In an action on a bond of an officer of a bank for negligence, remote and consequential damages cannot be recovered. Fiala v. Ainsworth, 63 Neb. 1 (88 N. W. 135; 93 Am. St. Rep. 420).

48. (1901.) Findings of the trial court, in an action by a bank against its former president for falsifying his account and settlement on his retirement, for the defense sustained Citizens Bank of Humphrey v. Stockslager, 1 Unof. 799 (96 N. W. 591).

49. (1903.) Evidence examined, and held sufficient to support the verdict for plaintiff in an action on the bond of a cashier of a bank for misappropriation of funds of the bank. Fiala v. Ainsworth, 68 Neb. 308 (94 N. W. 153).

50. (1904.) When it appears that a bank cashier has issued drafts to himself, there is no presumption that they were paid for when issued, and the burden is on the party claiming they were thus paid for to prove it. Mendel v. Boyd, 71 Neb. 657 (99 N. W. 493).

51. (1905.) Damages resulting to a national bank from the misfeasance or mismanagement of its officers are assets of the bank, and are recoverable only in an action brought by the bank or for the benefit of all the stockholders and creditors thereof. Yates v. Jones Nat. Bank, 74 Neb. 734 (105 N. W. 287); Yates v. Utica Bank, 74 Neb. 734 (105 N. W. 287); Yates v. Bailey, 74 Neb. 734 (105 N. W. 287). [Reversed. 206 U. S. 158, 181.]

Criminal responsibility.

52. (1895.) Where a cashier of a bank is being prosecuted for receiving a deposit of $11 with knowledge of the banks insolvency, evidence that the person making the deposit was indebted to the bank by an overdraft, in the sum of $15.30, is admissible for the defense. Nichols v. State, 46 Neb. 715 (65 N. W. 774).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

53. (1896.) A cashier, with knowledge of the bank's insolvency, cannot be convicted of a felony under sections 22, 23, chapter 8, Compiled Statutes, for accepting a deposit to apply on the depositor's overdraft. Nichols v. State, 46 Neb. 715 (65 N. W. 774).

54. (1897.) A charge that one made a false book-entry in the account of an individual with a bank is not sustained by proof that the entry was in an account with such individual designated as "township treasurer," and the variance is not less fatal because private money of the individual was included in the account referring to him as treasurer. Williams v. State, 51 Neb. 630 (71 N. W. 313).

E. Insolvency and Receivers.

Assets of insolvent banks subject to attachment, see Attachment, § 71.

Of national banks, see post, §§ 303-305.

Application and proceedings for appointment of receiver.

55. (1890.) An application by the attorney general stating that the defendant bank is conducting its affairs in such a manner as to appear to the creditors and the state, that the depositors' interests are being jeopardized; and that it is unsafe for the defendant to longer continue in business, states facts sufficient to warrant the appointment of a receiver. State v. Commercial Bank, 28 Neb. 677 (44 N. W. 998).

56. (1896.) The evidence examined, and held not to justify the overruling of the motion to vacate the appointment of receiver for a bank. Neitzel v. Lyons, 48 Neb. 892 (67 N. W. 867).

57. (1907.) In an action against an insolvent banking corporation for the appointment of a receiver to wind up the affairs of the bank for the benefit of its creditors, notice of the filing and pendency of the action should be given before a receiver is appointed. Holcomb v. Tierney, 79 Neb. 660 (113 N. W. 204).

Jurisdiction to appoint receiver.

58. (1890.) The supreme court in a proper case has jurisdiction to appoint a receiver to take charge of and wind up the affairs of a banking corporation organized under the laws of this state. State v. Commercial Bank, 28 Neb. 677 (44 N. W. 998).

59. (1892.) The provisions of section 14, chapter 8, Compiled Statutes, known as the banking act, which authorizes the appointment by the supreme court of receivers of insolvent private banks to take charge of and wind up the business thereof, does not conflict with the provisions of section 2, article VI of the constitution. State v. Exchange Bank of Milligan, 34 Neb. 198 (51 N. W. 765).

Removal of receiver.

60. (1902.) An adverse ruling on a motion to secure the removal of a receiver, on the ground that he is a stockholder of the corporation and not a suitable person to enforce the stockholders' liability provided for in the case of a banking institution, is not an adjudication of the question whether the corporation is a banking institution, within article XI*b*, section 7 of the constitution, relating to stockholders' liability. Hamilton Nat. Bank v. American Loan & Trust Co., 66 Neb. 67 (92 N. W. 189).

Directions to sue stockholders.

61. (1897.) In a proceeding under chapter 8, Compiled Statutes, to wind up an insolvent bank, a judgment overruling the bank's motion to discharge an order requiring the receiver to sue stockholders for their unpaid subscriptions, is appealable. State v. German Savings Bank, 50 Neb. 734 70 N. W. 221).

62. (1897.) In a proceeding under chapter 8, Compiled Statutes, to wind up an insolvent banking corporation, the corporation, even after consenting to the appointment of a receiver, remains an interested party and may be heard to resist an application for an order conferring authority upon the receiver not within the original order appointing him. State v. German Savings Bank, 50 Neb. 734 (70 N. W. 221).

63. (1897.) Section 35, chapter 8, Compiled Statutes, conferring upon district courts power to order the receiver of an insolvent bank to enforce the liabilities of stockholders, refers to liabilities upon their stock. State v. German Savings Bank, 50 Neb. 734 (70 N. W. 221).

Assets and possession thereof.

64. (1893.) In winding up the affairs of an insolvent bank under the statutes of this state, the receiver of such bank, when so authorized by the supreme court, may take such steps as shall be necessary to enable him to secure possession of the assets of such bank, or their value. State v. Commercial & Savings Bank, 37 Neb. 174 (55 N. W. 640).

Digitized by Google

65. (1893.) In a proceeding to obtain possession of the assets of an insolvent bank wrongfully withheld by one of its former officers, such officer cannot require the allowance of a set-off or counter-claim as a condition precedent to the delivery of the possession of such assets. State v. Commercial & Savings Bank, 37 Neb. 174 (55 N. W. 640).

66. (1893.) Where persons have, by the fraudulent conduct of themselves or their agents, obtained possession of the assets of an insolvent bank, and are unable to return to the receiver of such insolvent bank the said assets in kind, such persons will be held to strict accountability for the value thereof. State v. Commercial & Savings Bank, 37 Neb. 174 (55 N. W. 640).

67. (1893.) It is not necessary in proceedings to obtain possession of the assets of an insolvent bank wrongfully withheld by one of its former officers, to join as parties to the proceeding other individuals for whose benefit the misappropriation took place. State v. Commercial & Savings Bank, 37 Neb. 174 (55 N. W. 640).

68. (1899.) A receiver of a state bank appointed in proceedings under the provisions of section 34, chapter 8, Compiled Statutes, takes possession and holds the assets of a bank in favor of, and to assert and guard the claims of, the depositors and other creditors as the paramount and superior claims against the assets. State v. Bank of Hemingford, 58 Neb. 818 (80 N. W. 50).

——Sale by receiver.

69. (1899.) A banking corporation, a defendant in an action having for its object the impounding of its assets, their conversion into money, and their application to the payment of its creditors, may be heard to resist application for an order on a receiver to sell its real estate. State, ex rel. German Savings Bank, v. Fawcett, 58 Neb. 371 (78 N. W. 636).

70. (1899.) A bank is not estopped from resisting an order directing a receiver to sell the assets of a bank, or appealing therefrom, by having consented to the appointment of the receiver in the first instance, when the order consented to did not fix the terms or conditions or time of the sale. State, ex rel. German Savings Bank, v. Fawcett, 58 Neb. 371 (78 N. W. 636).

71. (1900.) An order of court directing a receiver of a bank to sell its assets will not be disturbed where no abuse of discretion is shown. State v. Nebraska Savings & Exchange Bank, 60 Neb. 190 (82 N. W. 625).

——Delivery to officers of bank on security.

72. (1903.) Where, pending an application for the appointment of a receiver for a bank, under the provisions of chapter 8, Compiled Statutes, a bond is given to procure the return of the assets of such bank under the provisions of section 35 of said chapter, and such proceedings are dismissed and the assets returned, any creditor who is a beneficiary of such bond may maintain an action at law theron, after the condition is broken to his damage. Rawson v. Taylor, 69 Neb. 473 (95 N. W. 1033).

73. (1903.) Where pending an application for the appointment of a receiver for a bank under chapter 8, Compiled Statutes, a bond is given to procure the return of the assets of the bank to its president and vice president, under the provisions of section 35, a delivery of such assets to the vice-president in the presence of the president, is a sufficient return thereof to render the signers of the bond liable. Rawson v. Taylor, 69 Neb. 473 (95 N. W. 1033).

74. (1903.) While section 35, chapter 8, Compiled Statutes, provides for the delivery of the assets of an insolvent bank to the officers, stockholders or owners furnishing the bond therein provided for, a delivery thereof to one only of several parties entitled thereto by virtue of the statute, does not relieve the sureties on such bond from liability thereon, where, by their acts, they assent to such delivery and ratify it. Taylor v. Weckerly, 69 Neb. 739 (96 N. W. 618).

75. (1906.) By the execution of a bond to the state as provided by section 34, chapter 8, Compiled Statutes, by the officers of an insolvent bank, conditioned upon the full settlement of all the liabilities of such bank, the officers and sureties assume the burdens of the bank's liquidation, and cannot use the assets in paying the expenses thereof to the prejudice of creditors. Hume v. Miller, 75 Neb. 800 (106 N. W. 1006).

——Liens against assets.

76. (1894.) The receiver of an insolvent bank takes the assets thereof incumbered with all valid liens thereon which attached prior to his appointment. Arnold v. Weimer, 40 Neb. 216 (58 N. W. 709).

Digitized by Google

77. (1894.) The lien acquired by the levy of an attachment upon the property of an insolvent bank is not vacated by the subsequent appointment of a receiver for such bank. Arnold v. Weimer, 40 Neb. 216 (58 N. W. 709).

78. (1894.) The property of an insolvent bank, prior to the appointment of a receiver therefor or putting the sheriff in possession thereof by order of a court or judge, is not exempt from seizure by attachment or other legal process at the suit of its creditors. Arnold v. Weimer, 40 Neb. 216 (58 N. W. 709).

79. (1898.) Assets of an insolvent bank are not subject to attachment at the suit of a creditor while they are in possession of a bank examiner acting under authority of the state banking board. Andrews v. Steele City Bank, 57 Neb. 173 (77 N. W. 342).

Compromise of debts due bank.

80. (1899.) A court appointing a receiver for an insolvent bank may authorize him to settle and compromise a suit instituted by him where it appears that as large a sum will probably be realized in that way as if the litigation was continued, or it is disclosed that the best interests of the estate require that such settlement be effected. State v. Bank of Rushville, 57 Neb. 608 (78 N. W. 281).

81. (1902.) The power conferred on the receiver of an insolvent bank by section 35, chapter 8, Compiled Statutes, to "compound all bad or doubtful debts when approved by the court or judge," includes the right to compromise doubtful claims against stockholders of such bank for the double liability imposed upon them by the constitution of this state in section 7, article XI*b*. State v. German Savings Bank, 65 Neb. 416 (91 N. W. 414).

82. (1902.) An offer of compromise, made by debtors of an insolvent bank to the receiver thereof, examined, and held there was no abuse of discretion on the part of the trial court in directing the receiver to accept it. Morrison v. Lincoln Savings Bank & Safe Deposit Co., 2 Unof. 762 (89 N. W. 996).

Set-off by debtor of insolvent bank.

83. The defendant in an action by the assignee to recover money due to an insolvent banking corporation may set off against the amount owing by him to the bank an indebtedness of the latter to him. (1894) Salladin v. Mitchell, 42 Neb. 859 (61 N. W. 127); (1896) Bernstein v. Coburn, 49 Neb. 734 (68 N. W. 1021).

84. (1894.) The right of set-off exists in favor of one who has acquired the title to money due from an insolvent bank on a certificate of deposit issued to a third person without a formal assignment by the latter. Salladin v. Mitchell, 42 Neb. 859 (61 N. W. 127).

85. (1894.) In a proceeding by an assignee to foreclose a mortgage, the property of an insolvent bank, the purchaser from the mortgagor, who was made a defendant therein, may set off against the claim of the assignee an indebtedness due to him from the bank. Salladin v. Mitchell, 42 Neb. 859 (61 N. W. 127).

Right of action by insolvent bank.

86. (1902.) In an action by an insolvent bank to foreclose securities of a note executed by defendant, a demurrer to the answer that attacked the petition on the ground of defect of parties plaintiffs, in that the action should be brought by the receiver, was properly sustained. Omaha Savings Bank v. Rosewater, 1 Unof. 723 (96 N. W. 68).

Actions and proceedings by and against receiver.

87. (1894.) On a petition in the supreme court by the receiver of an insolvent state bank for an order requiring Charlotte M. Dickinson and Harriet E. Adams (not theretofore parties to the proceeding) to show cause why a half interest in an electric light plant, which had been conveyed to them by W. H. Dickinson, Sr., the quondam proprietor of said bank, should not be converted into assets of said bank, issues were joined and tried to a referee, to whose findings of fact and conclusions of law exceptions were filed by the receiver, upon consideration whereof there are approved and confirmed the following conclusions of said referee: 1. That the state is not a proper party to bring the action in the nature of a creditor's bill to determine the bona fides of the conveyances of said one-half of said electric light plant from said W. H. Dickinson, Sr., to said Charlotte M. Dickinson and Harriet E. Adams. 2. That said action should be brought in the name of the receiver of said bank, and that the supreme court has not original jurisdiction of such action. State v. Bank of Wahoo, 40 Neb. 192 (58 N. W. 863).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

88. (1894.) The receiver of an insolvent bank who intervenes in an action to which said bank is a party, thereby submits himself to the jurisdiction of the court in which such suit is pending, and can only review the judgments and rulings of such court in the same manner as any other litigant. Arnold v. Weimer, 40 Neb. 216 (58 N. W. 709).

89. (1897.) The receiver of a bank, appointed under the provisions of section 34, chapter 8, Compiled Statutes, takes charge of the assets of such bank in favor of and to assert and guard the claims of depositors and creditors of the bank as the paramount and superior claims against the assets thereof; and in an action by the receiver or by a purchaser at receiver's sale, on any note or evidence of indebtedness of the assets, a defense thereto cannot prevail which involves the recognition and enforcement of an agreement which, when made, was a fraud on creditors and depositors of the bank, present and future; and this is true notwithstanding the defense might have been entertainable and good against the bank. Harrington v. Connor, 51 Neb. 214 (70 N. W. 911).

Distribution of assets, and priorities.

90. (1890.) The property and assets of a banking corporation organized under the laws of this state, after it has ceased to carry on a banking business, are a trust fund for the payment of its debts. The rights of the creditors to a corporate property, so far as it is necessary to meet their demands, are superior to those of the stockholders, or the assignee of an insolvent stockholder. State v. Commercial Bank, 28 Neb. 677 (44 N. W. 998).

91. (1899.) In the adjustment and settlement of claims against a state bank which is in the hands of a receiver, those of depositors and other general creditors who trusted the bank in the course and transaction of its legitimate business may be preferred over claims which originated in the pursuit and conduct of a business by the bank in which it had no legal authority or power to engage. State v. Bank of Hemingford, 58 Neb. 818 (80 N. W. 50).

92. (1900.) A court may permit a creditor to share in the assets of an insolvent bank, though his claim was not filed within the time limited. State v. Bank of Commerce, 61 Neb. 22 (84 N. W. 406).

93. (1907.) Where a receiver is appointed without notice to an insolvent bank, except such as is implied from being dispossessed of its property, and the receiver proceeds by direction of the court, without objection, to convert the assets of the bank into cash and pays the proceeds out to the creditors, the proceeding is not void to the extent that the status of the property involved is open to collateral attack. Holcomb v. Tierney, 79 Neb. 660 (113 N. W. 204).

93*a*. (1907.) Where certain stockholders of a bank in process of liquidation employ counsel to litigate for them their contention as to the distribution of a fund which is already in existence in the hands of the trustees or managing directors, and subject to distribution to the parties entitled thereto, as their respective rights may be determined by the court, they will not be entitled to recover their attorneys' fees out of such fund. Gund v. Ballard, 80 Neb. 385 (114 N. W. 420).

——— Interest.

93*b*. (1907.) Where the managing directors or trustees of a bank in process of litigation have in their hands funds of the bank, and the distribution of such funds is prevented by litigation or otherwise, and the custom of responsible banks in the community where they reside is to pay interest upon such deposits, and said funds were in fact bearing interest at and prior to the time such trustees obtained the custody of the same, and said trustees withdraw the moneys from such bank and deposit them in a bank in which one of the trustees is a stockholder, without interest, such trustees will be held personally liable for the customary rate of interest paid by responsible banks in such community for deposits of like character. Gund v. Ballard, 80 Neb. 385 (114 N. W. 420).

Compensation of trustees.

93*c*. (1907.) The mere fact that managing directors or trustees of a bank in process of liquidation have not been active in interposing defenses to an action by one of their number against the bank upon an individual claim will not defeat their right to a reasonable compensation for services rendered and responsibility assumed in closing up and settling the other affairs of said bank. Gund v. Ballard, 80 Neb. 385 (114 N. W. 420).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

III. FUNCTIONS AND DEALINGS.

A. Banking Franchises and Powers, and their Exercise in General.

Property and conveyances.

94. (1899.) Where an unincorporated bank is exclusively owned by a private individual the assets of the bank represent merely the portion of the owner's capital invested in banking, and he may lawfully dispose of them to pay or secure the just claims of any of his creditors. Longfellow v. Barnard, 58 Neb. 612 (79 N. W. 255; 76 Am. St. Rep. 117).

95. (1899.) The assets of an unincorporated bank may be lawfully disposed of by the owner to secure or pay the just claims of any of his creditors. Longfellow v. Barnard, 59 Neb. 455 (81 N. W. 307).

Purchasing and holding stock in other corporations.

96. (1893.) A banking corporation, organized under the laws of this state, has no power to become a stockholder in an insurance company. Bank of Commerce v. Hart, 37 Neb. 197 (55 N. W. 631; 40 Am. St. Rep. 479; 20 L. R. A. 780).

97. (1903.) A savings bank organized under the laws of this state may acquire title to shares of stock of another corporation, where such stock is taken in compromise or discharge of the indebtedness of an insolvent debtor, and where no circumstances casting suspicion on the transaction are shown, but it fairly appears that the directors of the bank acted in good faith and in the belief that the acceptance of the stock was for the best interest of the bank. Hill v. Shilling, 69 Neb. 152 (95 N. W. 24).

98. (1903.) After acquiring the stock of another corporation, a savings bank becomes subject to any liability thereon the same as other stockholders. Hill v. Shilling, 69 Neb. 152 (95 N. W. 24).

Authority to act as surety.

99. (1901.) It is not within the powers of an incorporated state bank to pledge its credit, as a mere matter of accommodation, by executing undertakings in judicial proceedings. Sturdevant Bros. & Co. v. Farmers & Merchants Bank of Rushville, 62 Neb. 472 (87 N. W. 156).

B. Representation of Bank by Officers and Agents.

Knowledge of officer as affecting bona fides of purchase of note, see Bills and Notes, § 235.

Liability for negligence of agent in making collection, see post, §§ 238-243.

Authority of officers in general.

100. (1878.) Like other agents, the president of a bank must act within the scope of his authority, in order to bind his principal, unless his acts have been ratified. Kennedy v. Otoe County Nat. Bank, 7 Neb. 59.

101. (1878.) As a rule, the officers of a bank are held out to the public as having authority to act according to the usage and course of business of such institutions, and their acts, within the scope of their authority, bind the bank in favor of persons having no knowledge to the contrary. Rich v. State National Bank, 7 Neb. 201 (29 Am. Rep. 382).

102. (1902.) A bank is not chargeable with notice of the fraudulent act of its employee, outside the scope of his authority and furtherance of his own personal designs, solely because he is an employee. Jones v. First Nat. Bank of Lincoln, 3 Unof. 73 (90 N. W. 912).

103. (1902.) As a general rule, acts done by an officer of a bank away from its place of business, and not authorized or ratified, are not binding upon it. Jones v. First Nat. Bank of Lincoln, 3 Unof. 73 (90 N. W. 912).

103*a*. (1906.) Where a customer enters a bank for the purpose of doing business with the bank and talks with the president of such bank, and during their conversation nothing is said to indicate the contemplated transaction was intended as an individual transaction with such officer, the bank is bound by the acts of the officer. Heim v. First Nat. Bank of Humboldt, 76 Neb. 831 (107 N. W. 1019).

104. (1902.) The acts of a bank officer, outside the usual scope of his authority, in a matter to which it is no party and of which it is not chargeable with notice, do not bind the bank. Jones v. First Nat. Bank of Lincoln, 3 Unof. 73 (90 N. W. 912).

Assumption of debt.

105. (1878.) No officer of a bank can bind it by a promise to pay a debt which the corporation does not owe, and was not liable to pay, unless the bank authorized or has ratified the act; but ratification is equivalent to original authority to act in the matter, and corporations are bound in the same manner as natural persons. Rich v. State Nat. Bank, 7 Neb. 201 (29 Am. Rep. 382).

Digitized by Google

106. (1894.) The president of a national bank in signing its name to a subscription paper obligating the bank to donate two hundred dollars to certain parties on condition that they would erect a paper mill in the city of K., was not acting within the scope of his authority, and hence the bank, in the absence of an authorization or ratification by it of the president's act, was not bound by the agreement made. Robertson v. Buffalo County Nat. Bank, 40 Neb. 235 (58 N. W. 715).

Execution of replevin bond.

107. (1901.) A cashier of a bank has no authority, merely by virtue of his office, to obligate the bank upon an undertaking in replevin in a cause wherein the bank has no interest. Sturdevant Bros. & Co. v. Farmers & Merchants Bank, 62 Neb. 472 (87 N. W. 156).

108. (1903.) The signing of a replevin bond as surety thereon by the cashier of a bank, acting for the corporation, in an action between third parties in which the bank to all outward appearances has no interest, is not an act within the apparent scope of the authority of the cashier in the performance of his duties as such officer. Sturdevant Bros. & Co. v. Farmers & Merchants Bank of Rushville, 69 Neb. 220 (95 N. W. 819).

109. (1903.) The execution by the cashier of a banking corporation, on behalf of his principal, of a replevin undertaking as surety, in an action between third parties, although it may not be illegal under any and all circumstances, is so much out of and beyond the general scope of the business of such corporation and the authority of the cashier, as to require those dealing with the corporation and accepting and acquiescing in such undertaking as sufficient under the law, to see to it that the bank was empowered and the cashier authorized to execute such an undertaking. Sturdevant Bros. & Co. v. Farmers & Merchants Bank of Rushville, 69 Neb. 220 (95 N. W. 819).

Compromise of debts due bank.

110. (1893.) The cashier of a banking corporation has, by virtue of his office, no authority to accept, in payment and discharge of a debt due the bank, certificates of the capital stock of an insurance company. Bank of Commerce v. Hart, 37 Neb. 197 (55 N. W. 631; 40 Am. St. Rep. 479; 20 L. R. A. 780).

111. (1893.) The acts of the directory of a banking corporation, in dealing with and investing the funds of the stockholders, to bind the bank, must be confined to the expressed purposes for which the bank was incorporated, and to purposes necessarily incidental thereto in the successful conduct of its legitimate business. The directors have no authority to ratify an act of the cashier whereby he accepts stocks in an insurance company in payment of a debt owing the bank. Bank of Commerce v. Hart, 37 Neb. 197 (55 N. W. 631; 40 Am. St. Rep. 479; 20 L. R. A. 780).

Release of surety.

112. (1877.) A cashier of a bank, by virtue of his office, is not authorized to release a surety upon a note or bill belonging to the bank without payment. Merchants Bank v. Rudolf, 5 Neb. 527.

Representations and admissions.

113. (1877.) Statements made by a cashier at casual interviews away from the bank as to payments having been made upon its securities, are not binding upon the bank. Merchants Bank v. Rudolf, 5 Neb. 527.

114. (1877.) If the cashier of a bank, on inquiry by a surety who is not an officer of the bank, states that the note upon which he is surety has been paid by the principal, the bank is estopped from denying the truth of such statement, when to do so would entail a loss on the surety. Otherwise if the surety is a director of the bank. Merchants Bank v. Rudolf, 5 Neb. 527.

115. (1878.) Representations of the president of a bank, made in transacting its business, are admissible in evidence against the bank; but statements made by him away from the bank, in reference to matters in which the bank has no interest, are not admissible. Kennedy v. Otoe County Nat. Bank, 7 Neb. 59.

116. (1879.) A bank is liable for any loss occasioned by the declaration of its cashier respecting payment of a note held by the bank, made to an endorser, and on which the cashier is also an endorser. Grant v. Cropsey, 8 Neb. 205.

Digitized by Google

117. (1896.) A person purchasing negotiable paper from the president of a bank, with a guaranty of payment executed by the president, is justified in relying on the president's representation that the paper belonged to the bank, and the bank is bound by his representation to that effect, at least where the transaction occurred in the banking house, and while the president was apparently engaged in performing his duties as such officer. City Nat. Bank of Hastings v. Thomas, 46 Neb. 861 (65 N. W. 895).

Confession of judgment.

118. (1901.) The president and cashier of an incorporated state bank are not authorized to confess judgment against it, under section 433 of the code, on notes executed by the cashier in the name of the bank, after it has ceased doing business. Fogg v. Ellis, 61 Neb. 829 (86 N. W. 494).

Liability on negotiable paper executed by officer.

119. (1886.) Where officers or clerks in banking houses receive money or securities over the bank counter, and issue therefor drafts, bills or negotiable certificates of deposit, the bank is liable thereon, although such instrument may be signed by such person without disclosing the name of the banking house. Webster v. Wray, 19 Neb. 558 (27 N. W. 644; 56 Am. St. Rep. 754).

119*a*. (1906.) Where a party went into a bank to make a time deposit and asked the president of the bank what interest would be paid, to which the reply stated four per cent, and instead of a certificate of deposit the president gave his personal note signed in his individual capacity, the bank is liable to such person as a depositor for money received. Heim v. First Nat. Bank of Humboldt, 76 Neb. 831 (107 N. W. 1019).

120. (1907.) Under code of civil procedure, section 341, if a person dealing with a president of a bank in making a loan, understood that he was making the loan to the bank, and the president had reason to suppose that he so understood, the bank is liable and cannot claim that the loan was to the president individually. Patterson v. First Nat. Bank of Humboldt, 78 Neb. 228 (110 N. W. 721).

Knowledge of officer as notice to bank.

121. (1876.) Notice to a bank director, not at the time officially engaged in the business of the bank, is not ordinarily binding on the bank, but notice to the president is notice to the bank. McCann v. State, 4 Neb. 324.

122. (1891.) The fact that officers of a bank purchasing a note, acquired knowledge, long before its organization, and in their private business, of the usurious consideration of a note, will not charge the bank with notice of such infirmity. Koehler v. Dodge, 31 Neb. 328 (47 N. W. 913; 28 Am. St. Rep. 518).

Estoppel to deny authority of officer.

123. (1902.) When the president and cashier of a bank, acting in his official capacity for such bank, collects money for and places it on deposit in such bank to the credit of one of its customers and pays out of such deposit notes due to the bank from the customer and checks drawn by him against such deposit, the bank cannot, for the purpose of escaping liability to its customer for the mistakes or malfeasance of its president and cashier, deny his authority to represent it in this kind of a transaction. Citizens Bank of Humphrey v. Fromholz, 64 Neb. 284 (89 N. W. 775).

Liability on paper misappropriated by officer.

124. (1876.) Where the president of a bank accepts a draft drawn on the United States government and payable to "William James, acting governor, or order" he has sufficient notice to put him on inquiry as to the real owner thereof, and such notice to such president is notice to the bank, and the latter is liable for full amount of such drafts where they have been wrongfully appropriated by such president. McCann v. State, 4 Neb. 324.

C. Deposits.

Banks as depositaries of public funds, see Depositaries.

Deposits as subject to garnishment, see Garnishment, § 20.

Presentment of check necessary to charge maker or indorser, see Bills and Notes, §§ 317-329.

Title to deposits and nature of relation created.

125. Where money is deposited in a bank, on an open account, subject to check of the depositor, and not received as a special deposit, the bank agreeing to pay interest on the money, the transaction, although called a "deposit," is in substance and legal effect a loan. (1878) State v. Keim, 8 Neb. 63; (1894) State, ex rel. First Nat. Bank, v. Bartley, 39 Neb. 353 (58 N. W. 172; 23 L. R. A. 67).

Digitized by Google

126. (1883.) When the owner of money makes a general deposit of it in a bank, it ceases to be his money, and instantly becomes the money of the bank, and he becomes the creditor of the bank to that amount. Seward County v. Cattle, 14 Neb. 144 (15 N. W. 337).

127. (1894.) The depositing in banks of public funds, under the provisions of the depository law, constitutes a loan and investment of the moneys so deposited. State, ex rel. First Nat. Bank, v. Bartley, 39 Neb. 353 (58 N. W. 172; 23 L. R. A. 67).

128. (1894.) One may involuntarily become the creditor of another, but from the very nature of things the relation of banker and depositor can be created only by consent of both parties. State v. State Bank of Wahoo, 42 Neb. 896 (61 N. W. 252).

129. (1896.) The law presumes that the relation existing between a bank and its customer is that of ordinary debtor and creditor. Nichols v. State, 46 Neb. 715 (65 N. W. 774).

130. (1896.) Whether a deposit made in a bank by its customers is a general or special one, is a question of fact to be determined from the intention of the parties; but in the absence of evidence the law presumes such a deposit a general one. Nichols v. State, 46 Neb. 715 (65 N. W. 774).

131. (1897.) Evidence examined and held to show that a bill of exchange, drawn to the order of a bank by its customer, the amount of which was placed to the customer's credit, became the property of the bank, and was not entrusted to it merely for collection. Higgins v. Hayden, 53 Neb. 61 (73 N. W. 280).

132. (1902.) Deposits in a bank create between it and the depositor the relation of debtor and creditor; and as long as this relation exists the bank is in duty bound to honor the checks of the depositor, and it cannot refuse to do so on the ground that the money deposited belongs to some other person, or that the title of the depositor to it is defective. Nehawka Bank v. Ingersoll, 2 Unof. 617 (89 N. W. 618).

——— Trust funds.

Mingling trust funds with personal funds of trustee, see Trusts, §§ 164-167; 172-175.

133. (1896.) F., a commission merchant, deposited in bank money realized from the sale of live stock consigned to him by C., his account with the bank being at the time largely overdrawn. Held, Regardless of the question of notice, that the bank is accountable to C., and that it cannot apply the money so deposited in satisfaction of F.'s indebtedness. Cady v. South Omaha Nat. Bank, 46 Neb. 756 (65 N. W. 906).

134. (1896.) Trust funds do not lose their character as such by being deposited in bank by the trustee to his own account. Cady v. South Omaha Nat. Bank, 49 Neb. 125 (68 N. W. 358).

135. (1897.) A school district treasurer, by a general deposit of funds held by virtue of his office, cannot create between the district and his banker the relation of debtor and creditor. State v. Midland State Bank, 52 Neb. 1 (71 N. W. 1011; 66 Am. St. Rep. 484).

136. (1903.) In case a person chargeable as constructive trustee, deposits the money in a bank, the bank on receiving notice of the claims of the owner, becomes a trustee also, and may be held as such. Penny v. Bryant, 70 Neb. 127 (96 N. W. 1033).

Application of deposits to debts due bank.

137. (1891.) A banker has no right to use the money of a depositor to discharge a note not payable at the bank where the deposit is made, without instructions from the customer to do so. Commercial State Bank v. Rowland, 31 Neb. 483 (48 N. W. 149).

138. (1896.) Where a customer of a bank, who has overdrawn and thus stands indebted in open account to the bank, makes a general deposit therein, the presumption of law is that such deposit was made and received toward the payment of such overdraft. Nichols v. State, 46 Neb. 715 (65 N. W. 774).

139. (1898.) As against the holder of a check against an account of a depositor the bank of deposit may not apply the amount of the account to the payment of the indebtedness of the depositor to the bank which is not yet due, although the depositor may be insolvent. Columbia Nat. Bank v. German Nat. Bank, 56 Neb. 803 (77 N. W. 346).

www.libtool.com.cn
Digitized by Google

140. (1902.) A bank that appropriates a deposit made by a customer to reduce his indebtedness due the bank, knowing the deposit, or a part thereof, to be a trust fund, is liable to the true owner for a conversion of his money, and an action at law to recover the amount can be maintained. Globe Savings Bank v. Nat. Bank of Commerce, 64 Neb. 413 (89 N. W. 1030).

141. (1902.) If a deposit in a bank, or any part thereof, is a trust fund, and the bank has notice thereof, it will be liable to the true owner for any conversion to liquidate a debt of the trustee. Globe Savings Bank v. Nat. Bank of Commerce, 64 Neb. 413 (89 N. W. 1030).

142. (1904.) Where a note due to a bank does not mature until after the death of the maker, the bank cannot set off such debt against a deposit by such maker in the bank. Sharp v. Citizens Bank of Stanton, 70 Neb. 758 (98 N. W. 50).

Priorities on insolvency of bank.

Rights of depositors in insolvent bank, see post, §§ 152-155.

143. (1894.) To make one a depositor of a bank, and in case of its insolvency to limit such person's right against the assets thereof to those of an ordinary creditor, it must appear that such person became a depositor of such bank voluntarily. State v. State Bank of Wahoo, 42 Neb. 896 (61 N. W. 252).

144. (1899.) The owner of a sum of money on a general deposit in a bank at the time of its failure is not entitled to a preferred claim against the assets in the hands of its receiver. Schnelling v. State, 57 Neb. 562 (78 N. W. 279).

145. (1906.) Where a customer enters a bank for the purpose of doing business with the bank and talks with the president of such bank and during such conversation nothing is said to indicate the transaction contemplated was intended as an individual transaction with such officer, the bank is bound by the acts of such officer. Heim v. First Nat. Bank of Humboldt, 76 Neb. 831 (107 N. W. 1019).

146. (1906.) Where a party went into a bank to make a time deposit and asked the president of the bank what interest would be paid, to which he replied four per cent would be paid, and instead of a certificate of deposit the president gave his personal note signed in his individual capacity, the bank is liable to such person as a depositor for money received. Heim v. First Nat. Bank of Humboldt, 76 Neb. 831 (107 N. W. 1019).

——— Trust funds.

147. (1894.) Where a purchaser of land gets a bank cashier to procure a loan of $2,000 on the land to complete the purchase price, and such banker holds the drafts, sent him by the person making the loan, on the pretense that the title to the land is defective, and sends the purchaser a certificate of deposit for the amount he holds, the relation as to such sum is not of creditor and debtor but of trustee and cestui que trust, and the purchaser may recover from the bank after its insolvency. State v. State Bank of Wahoo, 42 Neb. 896 (61 N. W. 252). [Overruled. 54 Neb. 725; 64 Neb. 822.]

148. (1896.) Where funds come into a bank which is nothing more than a trust to be delivered to the party entitled, the receiver of the bank is merely substituted as trustee, and its funds in his hands should be devoted to discharging such trust before distribution thereof is made to the general creditors of the bank. Capital Nat. Bank v. Coldwater Nat. Bank, 49 Neb. 786 (69 N. W. 115; 59 Am. St. Rep. 572). [Overruled. City of Lincoln v. Morrison, 64 Neb. 822.]

149. (1896.) A fund which comes into the possession of a bank with respect to which the bank has but a single duty to perform, and that is to deliver it to the party thereto entitled, is a trust fund and is therefore incapable of being commingled with the general assets of such bank subsequently transferred to its receiver. Capital Nat. Bank v. Coldwater Nat. Bank, 49 Neb. 786 (69 N. W. 115; 59 Am. St. Rep. 572). [Overruled. City of Lincoln v. Morrison, 64 Neb. 822.]

150. (1897.) A banker receiving on deposit from a school district treasurer, funds known to be held by the latter in his official capacity, becomes a trustee for the district, and it, upon insolvency of the banker, may recover such funds as a preferred claim against his estate. State v. Midland State Bank, 52 Neb. 1 (71 N. W. 1011; 66 Am. St. Rep. 484). [Overruled. 54 Neb. 725; 64 Neb. 822.]

151. (1898.) Where one in accordance with a long course of business deposits in his own name as agent moneys of his principal, with the latter's consent, in a bank which becomes insolvent, the moneys will not be declared a trust fund in favor of the principal and established as a preferred claim. State v. Thomas, 53 Neb. 464 (73 N. W. 922).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

——— Deposit made after insolvency.

152. (1892.) The fact that a bank is insolvent within the knowledge of its officers, and receives the money of a depositor under circumstances which amount to a fraud upon him, is not of itself sufficient to entitle the latter to preference from the funds of the bank in the hands of an assignee. He may follow his money while he can trace and distinguish it or the proceeds thereof, but not after it has passed into the hands of the assignee, mingled with the other funds of the bank. Wilson v. Coburn, 35 Neb. 530 (53 N. W. 466).

153. (1897.) Where a bank remains open and holds itself out as ready to transact business, this is an implied representation of solvency, and for its officers to then receive a deposit, knowing it to be hopelessly insolvent, is a fraud, and the depositor may rescind the contract of deposit and recover back the thing deposited, while it or its proceeds may be distinguished in specie, and before they have become commingled with the general assets of the bank. Higgins v. Hayden, 53 Neb. 61 (73 N. W. 280).

154. (1897.) Certain stipulations in the record held to justify a finding that the proceeds of the deposit in question, made at a time when the bank was insolvent, had been preserved separate, and not commingled with the general assets. Higgins v. Hayden, 53 Neb. 61 (73 N. W. 280).

155. (1897.) A petition seeking to charge a trust on property in the hands of the receiver of an insolvent bank may allege that the bank obtained the property as bailee, and at the same time charge that it was obtained by fraudulent concealment of insolvency, and relief may be granted on the latter ground, though the former be not proved. Higgins v. Hayden, 53 Neb. 61 (73 N. W. 280).

Interest on deposits.

156. (1883.) One C., a depositor, purchased sight drafts at a bank to pay for cattle that he expected to purchase in Colorado. At the same time he made a parol agreement with the bank that if he did not purchase cattle he might return the drafts to the bank and receive credit for the amount thereof with interest. Held, That the parol agreement was valid, and did not contradict the written agreement, as it merely showed the purpose for which the drafts were procured and delivered. Collingwood v. Merchants Bank, 15 Neb. 118 (17 N. W. 359).

157. (1893.) Where a certificate of deposit contained no agreement as to interest, that interest is to be computed at the rate of seven per cent from the time payment of the certificate was demanded of the defendant, and in case no such demand has been made, then from the date of the commencement of the action. Morse v. Rice, 36 Neb. 212 (54 N. W. 308).

Acceptance of check or agreement to accept.

158. (1891.) A verbal acceptance of a check by the drawee is valid and binding as if the acceptance was in writing. Farmers & Merchants Bank v. Dunbier, 32 Neb 487 (49 N. W. 376).

159. (1891.) The delivery of property for which a check was given in payment, is a sufficient consideration for acceptance of the check by the drawee. Farmers & Merchants Bank v. Dunbier, 32 Neb. 487 (49 N. W. 376).

160. (1891.) Evidence held sufficient to establish oral acceptance of check by drawee. Farmers & Merchants Bank v. Dunbier, 32 Neb. 487 (49 N. W. 376).

161. (1903.) It is no objection to an agreement by a bank to honor checks for a carload of horses, the drawee to be secured by a draft and bill of lading on their shipment, that the drawers were already indebted to the bank on other transactions, and hence constituted an agreement to allow an overdraft. Falls City State Bank v. Wehrli, 68 Neb. 75 (93 N. W. 994).

Payment of check drawn or indorsed by unauthorized person.

162. (1898.) Where a local agent presented an application to a loan company for a loan upon real estate, the proper application and abstract having been forwarded and a check sent to be delivered to the applicant, and it is shown that the applicant was a fictitious person, an indorsement of the check, if made by the agent, was a forgery; if the application and abstract were made by a third person, but not the person in whose name they were drawn, such indorsement was genuine. First Nat. Bank of Hastings v. Farmers & Merchants Bank, 56 Neb. 149 (76 N. W. 430).

Digitized by Google

163. (1898.) Where an agent of a loan company forges an application for a loan from his principal and, also, the abstracts of title to fictitious lands and a check is sent to him to be turned over to the applicant, and the agent forges the indorsement of such applicant to the check, in an action by the payee bank against a forwarding indorser bank, the evidence held not to sustain a finding that the indorsement was genuine. First Nat. Bank of Hastings v. Farmers & Merchants Bank, 56 Neb. 149 (76 N. W. 430).

164. (1901.) Where A on receipt of release, made at A's request, of all claim against an estate, and purporting to have been made by B, procures a draft to his own order, indorses it to B's order and sends it by mail to the address given him as B's, and it is there received by the person executing the release and indorsed in B's name, A has no right of action against a bank which pays the draft to the holder, supposing him to be B, though he is in fact an impostor. Hoffman v. American Exchange Nat. Bank, 2 Unof. 217 (96 N. W. 112).

165. (1902.) A depositor, who claims that a bank has paid out his money to a person not entitled to receive it, has an election to sue the bank or the person who received the money; but can not proceed against each, unless in case of conspiracy or joint wrong. Jones v. First Nat. Bank of Lincoln, 3 Unof. 73 (90 N. W. 912).

166. (1903.) In an action by a bank against a principal to recover the amount paid on a draft drawn by defendant's agent after the termination of his agency, it can recover only the amount paid before receiving notice of the agent's want of authority. That the remainder had been previously placed to the agent's credit in the bank, is not sufficient. Baeschlin v. Chamberlain Banking House, 67 Neb. 196 (93 N. W. 412).

167. (1903.) Where a former agent, without actual authority, and with nothing due him, has drawn on his former principal through a bank instructed by the principal to pay such drafts, it is the bank's duty, as soon as it learns of the agent's lack of authority, to retain any proceeds of the draft which have not been paid out. Baeschlin v. Chamberlain Banking House, 67 Neb. 196 (93 N. W. 412).

Payment of forged checks.

168. (1888.) A stranger presented to the bank of O. a check purporting to be drawn by one C. on the bank of A. for $385. The cashier of the bank of O., with which C. also had an account, compared the signature of the purported drawer with his genuine signature in a book kept by such cashier, and paid the check without requiring proof as to the identity of the person presenting the same or making inquiries in regard to him. The check was sent to a bank in Lincoln, and there credited to the bank at O., and by the Lincoln bank sent to the bank at A., on which it was drawn, and was paid by such bank. Several days afterwards it was discovered that the check was a forgery, and notice was thereupon given to the bank at Lincoln and also at O. Held, That the bank at O. was liable for the amount received by it on the check. First Nat. Bank of Orleans v. State Bank of Alma, 22 Neb. 769 (36 N. W. 289; 3 Am. St. Rep. 294).

169. (1889.) A check drawn by I. W. F., paymaster, on J. G. T., assistant treasurer B. & M. R. R. Co. in Neb., to the order of F. L. D., was presented to the Nat. Bk. of H by L. with a forged indorsement of the name of F. L. D. thereon, and the money received by L. from the bank, which having accounted to F. L. D. for the amount of the check, sued L. therefor. Held, That L. was liable. Levy v. First Nat. Bank, 27 Neb. 557 (43 N. W. 354).

Certificates of deposit.

Liability on certificate issued by officer in his own name, see ante, §§ 119, 120.

Limitation of action on certificate of deposit, see post, §§ 201, 201*a*.

170. (1893.) Where certificates of deposit in an insolvent bank are prima facie the obligation of the bank, the burden is on the receiver to show that they were issued without authority. State v. Farmers & Drovers Bank, 36 Neb. 675 (54 N. W. 974).

171. (1893.) Evidence held sufficient to sustain finding of referee that certificates of deposit issued to claimant by insolvent bank in exchange for notes and mortgages, were the obligation of the bank and not the personal obligation of its president. State v. Farmers & Drovers Bank, 36 Neb. 675 (54 N. W. 974).

Digitized by Google

172. (1902.) When a bank, without consideration, issued certificates of deposit to its stockholders, and afterwards went into the hands of a receiver, the latter can maintain an action to recover payments payments made upon such certificates of deposit within four years of the time of commencing such action. State v. Bank of Ogalalla, 65 Neb. 20 (90 N. W. 961; 91 N. W. 497).

www.libtool.com.cn

——Transfer.

Set-off by purchaser of certificate of deposit against debt due insolvent bank, see ante, § 84.

173. (1892.) A certificate of deposit in the usual form issued by a bank and made payable to order or bearer, is negotiable. First Nat. Bank v. Security Nat. Bank, 34 Neb. 71 (51 N. W. 305; 33 Am. St. Rep. 618; 15 L. R. A. 386*n*).

174. (1892.) A bona fide purchaser of a negotiable certificate of deposit for value, before maturity, without notice of equities, is protected to the same extent as an innocent holder of other negotiable paper. But if such certificate is transferred when overdue, the purchaser takes it subject to all defenses which could have been made had it remained in the hands of the payee. First Nat. Bank v. Security Nat. Bank, 34 Neb. 71 (51 N. W. 305; 33 Am. St. Rep. 618; 15 L. R. A. 386*n*).

175. (1898.) The indorsement of a certificate of deposit by the payee before due, "without recourse," is not of itself sufficient to charge the purchaser with notice of defenses of the maker. First Nat. Bank v. Security Nat. Bank, 34 Neb. 71 (51 N. W. 305; 33 Am. St. Rep. 618; 15 L. R. A. 386*n*).

176. (1894.) A certificate of deposit as follows: "This certifies that A. B. has deposited in this bank $3,000, payable to order of self, in current funds, on return of this certificate properly indorsed. This deposit not subject to check. With interest at six per cent if left six months; no interest after six monts," is overdue so as to charge purchasers with notice of equities after the expiration of six months, and not until then. Kirkwood v. First Nat. Bank of Hastings, 40 Neb. 484 (58 N. W. 1016; 42 Am. St. Rep. 683; 24 L. R. A. 444).

177. (1894.) A certificate of deposit in the usual form, issued by a bank and made payable to order or bearer, is negotiable, and a bona fide purchaser thereof for value before maturity, without notice of equities, is protected to the same extent as an innocent holder of other negotiable paper. Kirwood v. First Nat. Bank of Hastings, 40 Neb. 484 (58 N. W. 1016; 42 Am. St. Rep. 683; 24 L. R. A. 444).

178. (1894.) The negotiability of a certificate of deposit is destroyed neither by a stipulation that it is payable on return of the certificate properly indorsed, nor by a provision that it is payable in current funds, nor by a provision that it shall bear interest if left six months, but no interest after six months. Kirkwood v. First Nat. Bank of Hastings, 40 Neb. 484 (58 N. W. 1016; 42 Am. St. Rep. 683; 24 L. R. A. 444).

179. (1898.) A certificate of deposit indorsed by the payee, "Pay to the order of R. C. O., Cash, for account" of the indorser, is a restrictive indorsement, vests no general property to the paper in the indorsee, but merely constitutes him an agent for the purpose of collecting; and parol evidence is not admissible to establish that the transfer of title was absolute. United States Nat. Bank v. Geer, 55 Neb. 462 (75 N. W. 1088; 70 Am. St. Rep. 390; 41 L. R. A. 444).

180. (1899.) A certificate of deposit against a solvent bank invests the transferee with dominion over the deposit; and the transfer is tantamount to a manual delivery. Paxton v. State, 59 Neb. 460 (81 N. W. 383; 80 Am. St. Rep. 689).

Effect of a check as transfer of fund.

181. (1890.) A check drawn on funds in a bank is an appropriation of the amount of the check in favor of the holder thereof, in effect an assignment of the amount of the check. Fonner v. Smith, 31 Neb. 107 (47 N. W. 632; 28 Am. St. Rep. 510; 11 L. R. A. 528).

182. (1890.) There is an implied promise on the part of a bank when receiving deposits to pay them out on the checks of the depositor to any person in whose favor he may draw the same, and the check-holder is thus subrogated to the rights of the depositor in so much of the deposits as the check may call for which cannot, after notice to the bank, be withdrawn by the drawer. Fonner v. Smith, 31 Neb. 107 (47 N. W. 632; 28 Am. St. Rep. 510; 11 L. R. A. 528).

183. (1898.) A check upon a bank by a depositor operates a transfer of the amount to the payee if on deposit at the time of presentation. Columbia Nat. Bank v. German Nat. Bank, 56 Neb. 803 (77 N. W. 346).

Digitized by Google

184. (1899.) A bank will not be obligated to pay a check in a sum greater than the amount to the credit of the drawer in his account with the bank; nor does the check operate a transfer pro tanto. Henderson & Co. v. United States Nat. Bank, 59 Neb. 280 (80 N. W. 898).

www.libtool.com.cn

185. (1900.) A check drawn upon a particular fund is an appropriation of so much of the fund as may be necessary to pay the check. Nebraska Moline Plow Co. v. Fuehring, 60 Neb. 316 (83 N. W. 69).

186. (1900.) A check directed against a fund to be afterwards created by depositing money in a bank, does not vest in the payee any right to, or control over, such money until it has been so deposited. Nebraska Moline Plow Co. v. Fuehring, 60 Neb. 316 (83 N. W. 69).

Payment of checks.

Rights and liabilities on checks as between drawer and payee, see Bills and Notes.

187. (1876.) The United States, being indebted to the state of Nebraska, drew two drafts upon its treasury in favor of "William H. James, acting governor, or order" and said James indorsed the drafts to McCann, the president of the Nebraska City National Bank, who indorsed the same and the bank received the proceeds therefrom. A portion of the funds was paid to an agent of James, who collected the debt from the federal government, and a large part was given to James, some to McCann and others, but none went to the state treasury, whereon, in an action against James, McCann and the bank, it was held that the drafts were the property of the state and could not be transferred by James except to the state treasurer and that the face of the drafts were sufficient to put a purchaser on inquiry as to their real owner. McCann v. State, 4 Neb. 324.

188. (1876.) Where the president of a bank accepts for deposit a draft drawn on the United States government and payable to "William H. James, acting governor, or order" he has sufficient notice to put him on inquiry as to the real owner thereof, and such notice to such president is notice to the bank, and the latter is liable for full amount of such drafts where the proceeds have been paid to and wrongfully appropriated by such governor. McCann v. State, 4 Neb. 324.

189. (1902.) Knowledge by the bank that a draft has been drawn on the depositor and is outstanding would not justify a refusal by the bank to pay out the money deposited when demanded by the depositor; the law would not allow the bank to set up a jus tertii against the demand. Nehawka Bank v. Ingersoll, 2 Unof. 617 (89 N. W. 618).

——— Effect of payment.

190. (1897.) Where certain officers and stockholders of a corporation borrowed money intended by them to be deposited in a bank and therein held as a trust fund for the creditors of the said corporation, but such intention as well as the insolvent condition of the corporation were unknown to the bank wherein the deposit was made, the payment in good faith of the fund upon the check of an officer of the corporation did not render the bank liable as a trustee to other creditors of the corporation, or to its receiver on their behalf, merely because the proceeds of said check, with the consent of the bank, were used to take up the note on the faith of which the loan had originally been made by the bank. Wyman v. Nat. Bank of Commerce, 51 Neb. 636 (71 N. W. 277).

191. (1902.) Prosecution to final judgment of a suit against the person to whom money on deposit was paid by a bank is an election to treat the payment by the bank as proper and authorized, and will bar a subsequent suit against the bank for the amount of the deposit. Jones v. First Nat. Bank of Lincoln, 3 Unof. 73 (90 N. W. 912).

——— Liability of bank to payee or holder.

192. (1890.) A check drawn on funds in a bank is an appropriation of the amount of the check in favor of the holder thereof —in effect an assignment of the amount of the check; and the holder, upon refusal of the bank to pay the same, where such funds have not been drawn out before its presentation, may bring an action thereon in his own name. Fonner v. Smith, 31 Neb. 107 (47 N. W. 632; 28 Am. St. Rep. 510; 11 L. R. A. 528).

193. (1898.) The payee or holder of a check, the drawer of which had funds on deposit with the drawer at the time of its presentation, may, on refusal of payment, maintain a suit on the instrument for the recovery of its stated sum. Columbia Nat. Bank v. German Nat. Bank, 56 Neb. 803 (77 N. W. 346).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

194. (1903.) The payee of a check has a right of action against the drawee if the latter has funds to meet it when it is presented. Falls City State Bank v. Wehrli, 68 Neb. 75 (93 N. W. 994).

195. (1905.) Where the only reason given by a bank for its refusal to pay a check, is that the maker had stopped payment thereon, it is estopped to urge in defense of a suit on such check that the maker had no funds on deposit in the bank. First State Bank of Overton v. Stephens Bros., 74 Neb. 616 (105 N. W. 43).

196. (1906.) Where the holder of a bank draft neither demands payment of the bank on which it is drawn nor takes any other step to secure payment within five years from the time it came into his possession, his right of action against the bank issuing the draft because of the failure of the bank on which it was drawn to pay the same when it was presented is barred by the statute of limitations. Wrigley v. Farmers & Merchants State Bank, 76 Neb. 862 (108 N. W. 132)

——Liability of bank to drawer for refusal to pay.

197. (1894.) The damages recoverable for the refusal of a bank to pay a check, drawn upon it by one who has funds with the bank wherewith to make such payment, should not exceed such amount as reasonably and fairly in the natural course of things would result from such refusal. Bank of Commerce v. Goos, 39 Neb. 437 (58 N. W. 84; 23 L. R. A. 190).

198. (1899.) Proof by the drawer of a check that when such check was presented the drawer had with the drawee subject to check a sufficient deposit wherewith to pay such check, and that subsequently the drawer was compelled to pay the amount of the check to the holder thereof because the drawee unwarrantedly refused payment thereof, is sufficient proof to sustain a judgment for damages to the amount of the payment so made by the drawer and such other damages as are alleged and proved. First Nat. Bank of Greenwood v. Railsback Bros. & Spelts, 58 Neb. 248 (78 N. W. 512).

Actions to recover deposits.

Actions to establish trust in deposit made in insolvent bank, see ante, §§ 152-155.

——Defenses.

199. (1894.) Where a partner or officer in a banking corporation is the agent of an individual, and as such collects rents and, under an agreement with the principal, invests the proceeds at usurious rates, keeping an account in the bank in which he deposits all sums realized, the bank cannot set up usury as a defense to an action by the principal against it to recover his deposits. Porter v. Sherman County Banking Co., 40 Neb. 274 (58 N. W. 721).

200. (1894.) Suit was brought by A against a bank, alleging that B, being indebted to A, had paid into the bank the amount of the indebtedness to the use of A. The bank answered, among other things, alleging that in an action by a third person against the bank, B and others, it was determined that the amount due A had been included in a mortgage from B to the bank, and that the judgment rendered in that case against B in favor of the bank did not include A's indebtedness. Held, That these averments stated no defense. German Nat. Bank of Hastings v. Leonard, 40 Neb. 676 (59 N. W. 107).

——Limitations.

201. (1899.) Where an action on certificates of deposit against a bank other than the maker, is based on allegations that since defendant had become possessed of the assets of the maker, it became liable as a matter of law, for the debts of such maker, an amended petition seeking relief on the ground of fraud in the transaction by which defendant became possessed of such assets, state a different cause of action, and hence the original petition did not stop the running of the statute of limitations as against the amended cause of action. Buerstetta v. Tecumseh Nat. Bank, 57 Neb. 504 (77 N. W. 1094).

201*a*. (1904.) The statute of limitations does not begin to run against a claim against a bank on a certificate of deposit payable on demand until a demand has been made. Sharp v. Citizens Bank of Stanton, 70 Neb. 758 (98 N. W. 50).

202. (1902.) As between a bank and one of its depositors, the statute of limitations does not begin to run in favor of the bank until a demand has been made for the money on deposit. Citizens Bank of Humphrey v. Fromholz, 64 Neb. 284 (89 N. W. 775).

——Pleading.

203. (1896.) In an action against a bank for money deposited by the plaintiff's agent

Digitized by Google

to his own account, evidence of payment by the defendant on checks subsequently drawn by such agent, in good faith, relying upon his apparent title to said fund, is inadmissible under a general denial. Such fact to be available as a defense must be specially pleaded. Cady v. South Omaha Nat. Bank, 46 Neb. 756 (65 N. W. 906).

204. (1896.) In an action against a bank for deposits made by plaintiff's agent in his own name, evidence that the money was paid out on defendant's checks is inadmissible under a general denial. Cady v. South Omaha Nat. Bank, 49 Neb. 125 (68 N. W. 358).

205. (1896.) A petition in an action against a newly organized bank to recover the amount of deposits made in the old bank, that fails to show that the new corporation assumed the obligations and liabilities of the old company does not state a cause of action. Austin v. Tecumseh Nat. Bank, 49 Neb. 412 (68 N. W. 628; 59 Am. St. Rep. 543; 35 L. R. A. 444).

206. (1901.) In an action on a certificate of deposit, a petition which alleges that the certificate was duly issued, that plaintiff is the owner of it, that it was duly presented and payment refused, and that defendant claims to have a partial defense, cannot be successfully assailed by general demurrer. Seven Valleys Bank v. Wise, 61 Neb. 880 (86 N. W. 923).

207. (1902.) In an action against a bank for money deposited by a trustee to his own account, evidence of payment by the bank on checks subsequently drawn by such trustee in good faith relying on his apparent title to said fund is inadmissible under general denial. Such fact, to be available as a defense, must be specially pleaded. Union Stock Yards Nat. Bank v. Haskell, 2 Unof. 839 (90 N. W. 233).

——— Presumptions and burden of proof.

208. (1890.) Where there is a dispute between a bank and customer as to whether the latter had made a certain deposit, held, that as claim of creditor would make the deposit an unusual one, it was incumbent upon him to show from what source he had received the particular sum in dispute. State Bank v. Smith, 29 Neb. 434 (45 N. W. 691).

209. (1905.) Where a depositor draws a check upon a general deposit in a bank or order, the purpose being, as the depositor claims, to change a general deposit subject to check into a time deposit in the same bank, and the check is returned indorsed paid, and the bank seeks to avoid liability by a plea of payment, the burden of proof is upon the bank to show that the amount of the check was paid at the depositor's request to a third party. Patterson v. First Nat. Bank of Humboldt, 73 Neb. 384 (102 N. W. 765).

210. (1905.) Where a check for $450 was drawn by a depositor in a bank upon her deposit, payable to the same bank or order, its endorsement by the bank, and return to the drawer as paid, is prima facie evidence of the receipt by the bank of the amount evidenced by the check. It is not conclusive but is open to explanation or denial. Patterson v. First Nat. Bank of Humboldt, 73 Neb. 384 (102 N. W. 765).

211. (1905.) Where a depositor claims that a check for $450, payable to the "First National Bank," was given by her to the same bank for the purpose of changing her general deposit therein into a time deposit, and the only controversy is whether or not a certain "time check," signed by the president of the bank by his individual name alone, was fraudulently delivered to her in exchange for the check instead of a certificate of deposit, or whether the check was paid, the money loaned by her to the bank president individually, and the "time check" given by him as evidence of his own debt, it is error to instruct the jury that before the plaintiff can recover she must prove "not only that the $450 check was fraudulently procured from her, but that the time checks given her were fraudulent," since the plaintiff does not claim there was fraud in procuring the check. Patterson v. First Nat. Bank of Humboldt, 73 Neb. 384 (102 N. W. 765).

Admissibility of evidence.

212. (1902.) In a suit against a bank, book entries made by its officers or bookkeeper in the regular course of business, are competent evidence as admissions against interest. Globe Savings Bank v. Bank of Commerce, 64 Neb. 413 (89 N. W. 1030).

213. (1905.) In an action against a bank by a depositor on an instrument given the latter which was a note signed by the president of the bank in his individual capacity, it being claimed that the depositor thought and understood such instrument was a certificate of a time deposit, and brings the action on that theory, evidence that five years before another depositor was given a note similar to the one in this case and on noticing that it was not a certificate of deposit the cashier of the bank corrected it by paying the same on demand is inadmissible to show fraudulent intent as transpiring at too distant a time. Patterson v. First Nat. Bank of Humboldt, 73 Neb. 384 (102 N. W. 765).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

——— Weight and sufficiency of evidence.

214. (1891.) In a dispute between a depositor and a bank as to the amount plaintiff had on deposit, with defendant, the evidence held to sustain the verdict. Conklin v. Graham, 32 Neb. 546 (49 N. W. 460).

215. (1897.) In an action by the seller of cattle against a bank, the evidence held insufficient to show that the bank was liable as trustee for the proceeds of the sale, the funds having been deposited with the bank by the commission agents who made the sale. Pederson v. South Omaha Nat. Bank, 52 Neb. 95 (71 N. W. 973).

216. (1901.) In an action by an heir to recover the amount of a deposit made by the deceased in defendant bank, evidence showing the defendant received the money from the deceased sustains a verdict for plaintiff, as against a contention that the same was transferred to another bank, Tecumseh Nat. Bank v. McGee, 61 Neb. 709 (85 N. W. 949).

——— Judgment.

217. (1906.) Where the issue is as to whether a certificate of deposit was issued against a deposit in a bank, and the general verdict is for the plaintiff, based upon his denial that such instrument ever existed, the court need not require indemnity against such alleged outstanding instrument. Emley v. Citizens State Bank, 76 Neb. 794 (107 N. W. 1014).

D. Collections.

Title to papers received for collection.

218. (1897) The question whether title passes to a negotiable instrument delivered to a bank under a restrictive but ambiguous indorsement, without an express contract, but in pursuance of an established usage, is one of fact rather than law, and depends on the intent of the parties. United States Nat. Bank v. Geer, 53 Neb. 67 (73 N. W. 266; 41 L. R. A. 439). [Rehearing. 55 Neb. 462.]

219. (1897.) Evidence held to show a sale of a certificate of deposit, and not a bailment for collection. United States Nat. Bank v. Geer, 53 Neb. 67 (73 N. W. 266; 41 L. R. A. 439). [Rehearing. 55 Neb. 462.]

Title to funds collected.

220. (1897.) The mere crediting of the account of the remitting bank by a correspondent employed by it to make collections does not create in favor of the latter such an equity as can be interposed in defense of an action by the owner of the paper so collected for the proceeds thereof. Branch v. United States Nat. Bank of Omaha, 50 Neb. 470 (70 N. W. 34).

——— After insolvency of bank.

221. (1893.) Where a bank collects money for another, it holds the same as trustee of the owner, and on the making of an assignment by the bank for the benefit of its creditors the trust character still adheres to the fund in the hands of the assignee, and the owner is entitled to have his claim allowed by the county court as a preferred claim. Anheuser-Busch Brewing As'n v. Morris, 36 Neb. 31 (53 N. W. 1037).

222. (1893.) Where a national bank receives notes and mortgages for collection, the proceeds to be remitted when collected, it is the agent of the owner of the securities. Where the bank fails before remittance and after collection, the funds do not become the assets of the bank. Griffin v. Chase, 36 Neb. 328 (54 N. W. 572).

223. (1901.) Money collected by a bank for another is not a part of the assets of the bank, and on its insolvency is a preferred claim for the use of the owner. State v. Bank of Commerce of Grand Island, 61 Neb. 181 (85 N. W. 43; 52 L. R. A. 858).

——— Application of proceeds to debt due bank.

224. (1891.) The plaintiff in error received for collection a negotiable promissory note, unindorsed, with instructions to remit the proceeds, when collected, to the payee. Before the money was collected the bank voluntarily, and without the knowledge or consent of the payee, paid to a third party a note given by a partnership of which the payee was a member. Subsequently, but before the note was collected, the bank was notified that the note had been sold to the defendant in error. In an action against the bank to recover the money collected by it, held, that the bank was not entitled to set off the amount of the firm note against the money collected. Commercial State Bank v. Rowland, 31 Neb. 483 (48 N. W. 149).

Digitized by Google

Receipt of depositor's check for collection.

225. (1897.) A bank receiving for collection a customer's check is required to pay the same upon the receipt thereof during business hours, or to promptly give notice of its dishonor in order to charge the drawer and indorsers thereof. Western Wheeled Scraper Co. v. Sadilek, 50 Neb. 105 (69 N. W. 765; 61 Am. St. Rep. 550).

Negligence or default in making collection.

226. (1876.) Failure of a banker to present a negotiable instrument, delivered to him for collection, for payment at maturity will render him liable for damage occasioned thereby. Steele v. Russell, 5 Neb. 2 ..

227. (1876.) Where a banker receives a negotiable instrument for collection, it is his duty to cause it to be presented for payment at maturity, and if refused, protested, so as to charge the indorser. Steele v. Russell, 5 Neb. 211.

228. (1893.) A bank receiving for collection from a correspondent checks drawn upon it by a customer with instructions to protest in case of non-payment, is required; in case payment is refused for want of funds, to give notice to the bank from which they were received not later than the next day after the dishonor. And when they are held for two days in order to enable the drawer to provide funds for payment thereof a jury will be warranted in finding that the bank intended to accept them and become liable thereon. Wood River Bank v. First Nat. Bank of Omaha, 36 Neb. 744 (55 N. W. 239).

229. (1893.) No custom or usage among bankers as to the manner of presenting ordinary checks for payment will relieve them from the legal duty of presenting such checks for payment within a reasonable time. First Nat. Bank of Wymore v. Miller, 37 Neb. 500 (55 N. W. 1064; 40 Am. St. Rep. 499).

230. (1897.) A customer's bank check is not intended for circulation as a medium of exchange and should be presented for payment with the dispatch consistent with the circumstances of the case and the transaction of other commercial business. First Nat. Bank of Wymore v. Miller, 37 Neb. 500 (55 N. W. 1064; 40 Am. St. Rep. 499).

231. (1897.) A bank which undertakes the collection of a customer's check is guilty of negligence in sending it for payment direct to the drawee bank, provided there is in the same town another bank in good standing. Western Wheeled Scraper Co. v. Sadilek, 50 Neb. 105 (69 N. W. 765; 61 Am. St. Rep. 550).

232. (1897.) Held, from an examination of the evidence, that prejudice to the defendant as drawer of the check which is the subject of controversy will be presumed from the failure to give notice of its dishonor, there being to his credit therein sufficient funds for its payment, the drawee bank having in the meantime become insolvent. Western Wheeled Scraper Co. v. Sadilek, 50 Neb. 105 (69 N. W. 765; 61 Am. St. Rep. 550).

233. (1898.) A bank to whom a draft is sent for collection is liable to the forwarding bank for negligence and want of good faith in allowing the creditor more time and afterwards taking an assignment of the creditor's property, before collecting such draft, assuming a large amount of the debts but not that for the unpaid draft. Dern v. Kellogg, 54 Neb. 560 (74 N. W. 844).

234. (1898.) The custom of a local bank, unknown to a forwarding bank, as to treatment of collections will not protect the former. Dern v. Kellogg, 54 Neb. 560 (74 N. W. 844).

235. (1898.) A bank holding paper for collection merely, and charged with no duty other than its due presentment, if it discharges that duty and is guilty of no misrepresentation or fraudulent concealment, is not forbidden to obtain a preference for a debt owing to itself from the same debtor. United States Nat. Bank of Omaha v. Westervelt, 55 Neb. 424 (75 N. W. 857).

236. (1900.) A bank which undertakes to collect a draft is bound to keep within the authority conferred upon it, and exercise proper diligence to obtain payment. Omaha Nat. Bank v. Kiper, 60 Neb. 33 (82 N. W. 102).

237. (1901.) If the payee of a check drawn upon a bank in this state indorses it to a bank in a neighboring town for collection and the latter, without the knowledge or consent of the payee, sends it for collection through a distant bank situated outside the state, thereby consuming three days for making a presentment for payment which might have been made in one day, the indorsee will be liable for the consequences of such delay and for any default or negligence of the bank chosen to make the collection. Bedell v. Harbine Bank, 62 Neb. 339 (86 N. W. 1060).

Digitized by Google

——— Agent or correspondent of collecting bank.

238. (1892.) Where a bank receives for collection a note or bill payable at a distant point, with the understanding that such collection is an accommodation only, or that it shall receive no compensation therefor beyond the customary exchange, and it transmits such paper to a reputable and suitable correspondent at the place of payment, with proper instructions for the collection and remittance of the proceeds thereof, it will not be liable for the defaults of such correspondent. First Nat. Bank v. Sprague, 34 Neb. 318 (51 N. W. 846; 33 Am. St. Rep. 644; 15 L. R. A. 498).

239. (1892.) The exchange which is usually charged by banks for the transmission of money from one place to another, is not a sufficient consideration to support an implied undertaking to answer for the default of a correspondent, selected to make collections for customers according to the course of business of banks First Nat. Bank v. Sprague, 34 Neb. 318 (51 N. W. 846; 33 Am. St. Rep. 644; 15 L. R. A. 498).

240. (1893.) Where a check sent to a bank for collection remains in the bank to be protested for non-payment by the president and manager thereof, a notary public, and who, although aware of the instructions to the contrary, delays noting for protest or giving notice, in consequence of which the indorsers are discharged, such notary will be held to be the agent of the bank, and the latter will be liable for his negligence. Wood River Bank v. First Nat. Bank of Omaha, 36 Neb. 744 (55 N. W. 239).

241. (1893.) The general rule is that where a bank delivers a note or bill to a notary public for demand, protest, and notice, it will not be liable for the default of the latter. Wood River Bank v. First Nat. Bank of Omaha, 36 Neb. 744 (55 N. W. 239).

242. (1898.) A bank to which a note had been sent for collection may be held liable to the owner for the amount due thereon, where the bank forwarded the note to another bank which, pursuant to instructions, made collection and credited the proceeds to the former bank, though the collecting bank failed immediately thereafter. First Nat. Bank of Omaha v. First Nat. Bank of Moline, 55 Neb., 303 (75 N. W. 843).

243. (1901.) If the payee of a check drawn upon a bank in this state indorses and delivers it to a bank in a neighboring town for collection, and accompanies the act with a request that it be not immediately presented for payment and agrees that it may be sent for collection through a distant bank situate outside the state, the indorsee will not be liable for the consequences of the delay necessarily incident to the course adopted, nor for the default or negligence of the bank chosen to make presentment for payment. Bedell v. Harbine Bank, 62 Neb. 339 (86 N. W. 1060).

Liability on collection of void draft.

244. (1907.) A bank that, without notice or suspicion of wrongdoing, receives a draft from the drawer for collection, and demands and obtains payment of it from the drawee, and in good faith pays the proceeds over to its employer, is not liable to the payor in damages because the latter made payment without consideration, and in reliance upon a forged bill of lading which the drawer had attached to and caused to be forwarded with the draft. Nebraska Hay & Grain Co. v. First Nat. Bank of Falls City, 78 Neb. 334 (110 N. W. 1019).

Action or defenses for negligence or default.

——— Defenses.

245. (1897.) The mere crediting of the account of the remitting bank by a correspondent employed by it to make collections does not create in favor of the latter such an equity as can be interposed in defense of an action by the owner of the paper so collected for the proceeds thereof. Branch v. United States Nat. Bank of Omaha, 50 Neb. 470 (70 N. W. 34).

——— Pleading.

246. (1890.) L. & S., residents of V., in this state, on Friday, November 16, sent by mail a check on a bank at V. to M. B. & Co. at O., Neb. This was received by M. B. & Co. on the next day. The payee on the same day endorsed the check and delivered it to the Nebraska National Bank at O., which, on the same day, transmitted the same by mail to the bank at V., on which it was drawn, for payment. On Tuesday, November 20, the bank at V., in payment of the check, sent a worthless draft to the bank at O., which the latter refused to receive, and on the same day notified M. B. & Co. of that fact, and on the next day notified L. & S. The testimony showed that the bank at V. was in a failing condition when L. & S. drew and sent the check on it and that they stated that fact to M. B. & Co. in the letter transmitting the check. In an action against the drawers they demurred to the petition. Held, That if the facts stated in the petition were true, the Nebraska National Bank had shown due diligence and was entitled to recover. Nebraska Nat. Bank v. Logan, 29 Neb. 278 (45 N. W. 459).

Digitized by Google

247. (1890.) Action by bank which had cashed a check drawn on a bank which became insolvent against drawer of same; petition examined; held, that alleged negligence of bank in selecting the payee bank as agent to collect the check, did not appear therein and should have been set up by answer. Nebraska Nat. Bank v. Logan, 29 Neb. 278 (45 N. W. 459).

248. (1900.) Petition held to state cause of action against defendant bank for negligence in making collection of a draft. Omaha Nat. Bank v. Kiper, 60 Neb. 33 (82 N. W. 102)

249. (1903.) Petition filed in the county court in an action against a private bank for negligence in failing to collect notes left with it for that purpose, examined, and held to state a cause of action. Coleman v. Spearman, Snodgrass & Co., 68 Neb. 28 (93 N. W. 983).

——— Evidence.

250. (1876.) Solvency of an indorser of a negotiable instrument is a material inquiry, in an action by a holder thereof, against a banker for damages for failure to present same for payment. Steele v. Russell, 5 Neb. 211.

251. (1876.) It is competent for a banker, who is sued for damages for failure to present a note for payment, to prove that an indorser was, and continues to be insolvent, and that no damage was occasioned by his failure to protest the note. Steele v. Russell, 5 Neb. 211.

252. (1876.) Embarrassed circumstances of an indorser is immaterial and constitute no defense to an action against a banker for failing to protest a note sent it for collection. Steele v. Russell, 5 Neb. 211.

253. (1898.) In an action by a forwarding bank against a local bank to recover for neglect in failing to promptly collect a draft suit for that purpose it was not necessary for the plaintiff to prove with certainty that but for the misconduct of the collecting agent payment would have been obtained. A prima facie case is established by showing that such, with reasonable probability, would have been the result. Dern v. Kellogg, 54 Neb. 560 (74 N. W. 844).

254. (1898.) The fact that all the time a bank held a draft the merchant against whom it was drawn continued to conduct his business and had property subject to execution to the value of many times the debt is sufficient to charge the bank prima facie, with the amount of the draft, for a failure and neglect to collect the same. Dern v. Kellogg, 54 Neb. 560 (74 N. W. 844).

——— Measure of damages.

255. (1900.) In case a debt is lost through the negligence of a collecting agent the measure of damages is the actual loss resulting from such agent's omission of duty. Omaha Nat. Bank v. Kiper, 60 Neb. 33 (82 N. W. 102).

E. Exchange.

Issue and payment of drafts.

256. (1892.) One who purchases a draft from a bank for $500, and receives an instrument stating the amount in figures, but containing the words, "five and no-100 dollars," by reason of which the drawee refuses to pay more than $5, is entitled to be reimbursed by the drawer, though it has since been placed in the hands of a receiver. State v. Bank of Western, 34 Neb. 175 (51 N. W. 749).

IV. NATIONAL BANKS.

Nature and status in general.

257. (1898.) A national bank having given a transaction the form of one with an individual for the purpose of evading the liabilities peculiar to national banks, cannot be heard to assert its true nature for the purpose of evading the liabilities attaching to individuals and of claiming the privileges of national banks. Gadsden v. Thrush, 56 Neb. 565 (76 N. W. 1060).

Guaranty.

258. (1894.) While a national bank may not lend its credit for the accommodation of others, still it may guarantee the payment of commercial paper as incidental to the exercise of its power to buy and sell the same. Thomas v. City Nat. Bank of Hastings, 40 Neb. 501 (58 N. W. 943; 24 L. R. A. 263).

259. (1894.) A, being indebted to a national bank and being the holder of certain negotiable notes, indorsed them generally

www.libtool.com.cn
Digitized by Google

and delivered them to the president of the bank, who negotiated them for value to C, at the same time executing in the name of the bank a written guaranty of payment. From the proceeds of the sale A's debt to the bank was canceled. Held, That the authority of the president to execute the guaranty would be conclusively presumed in favor of the purchaser acting without notice to the contrary; and the retention and enjoyment by the bank of the proceeds of such transaction constituted a ratification of the president's act. Thomas v. City Nat. Bank of Hastings, 40 Neb. 501 (58 N. W. 943; 24 L. R. A. 263).

www.libtool.com.cn

Transactions in real property.

260. (1876.) The limitations of the national banking acts applies to transactions in real property, independent of banking operations, and not to mortgage securities. Richards v. Kountze, 4 Neb. 200.

261. (1876.) In the absence of evidence showing the purpose and object of the assignment to the bank, it cannot be presumed that it was for a debt created in presenti, in violation of the National Banking Act. Richards v. Kountze, 4 Neb. 200.

262. (1876.) A note and mortgage is not extinguished by assignment to a national bank, and are valid in he hands of a subsequent assignee from such bank. Richards v. Kountze, 4 Neb. 200.

263. (1901.) Where security on real estate has been taken by a national bank on a contemporaneous loan, the same may be enforced, notwithstanding the provisions of the United States statutes prohibiting that character of security. First Nat. Bank of Sutton v. Grosshans, 61 Neb. 575 (85 N. W. 542).

264. (1901.) A party who has secured a loan from a national bank, and given real estate security therefor, cannot be heard to deny the right of the bank to enforce the provisions of the mortgage because of the section of the United States statutes prohibiting the taking of real estate security for a loan negotiated by a national bank. First Nat. Bank of Sutton v. Grosshans, 61 Neb. 575 (85 N. W. 542).

——— Persons entitled to question transaction.

265. (1895.) Where a bank takes a mortgage to secure a debt, a third person cannot attack the transaction or treat the mortgage as void on the ground that it is ultra vires of the bank to take such security. Smith v. First Nat. Bank of Chadron, 45 Neb. 444 (63 N. W. 796).

Liability of officers for publishing false statement.

266. (1899.) The statements and reports which are required and are made to the comptroller and published in the newspapers have among their purposes that of conveyance of information to those persons, each or all, who contemplate dealings with the bank in which its financial condition enters as a vital matter. Stuart v. Bank of Staplehurst, 57 Neb. 569 (78 N. W. 298).

267. (1899.) Directors of a national bank who knowingly make and publish false statements and reports of the bank's financial condition, with intent to deceive, may, in an action for deceit, be liable for damages suffered by persons who believed and acted upon such statements and reports. Stuart v. Bank of Staplehurst, 57 Neb. 569 (78 N. W. 298).

268. (1899.) A director of a national bank is not individually liable for the consequences of the bank's false report to the comptroller, unless such director attested the report or in some manner participated in making or publishing it. Gerner v. Mosher, 58 Neb. 135 (78 N. W. 384; 46 L. R. A. 244).

269. (1899.) The directors of an insolvent national bank are personally liable, at the suit of one purchasing the stock of such bank, for damages sustained by the reason of the insolvency of the corporation, when the plaintiff is induced to make such purchase by false representations of solvency, contained in reports made by the bank to the comptroller of the currency and attested by the directors and published in pursuance of law, even though the directors were unaware that such reports and representations were false or untrue and were made without intention to defraud. Gerner v. Mosher, 58 Neb. 135 (78 N. W. 384; 46 L. R. A. 244).

270. (1899.) Where the directors of a national bank attest the reports made of its condition by its executive officers to the comptroller of the currency under section 5211, Revised Statutes U. S., they thereby certify that the statements contained in said report are absolutely true. Gerner v. Mosher, 58 Neb. 135 (78 N. W. 384; 46 L. R. A. 244).

Digitized by Google

271. (1899.) The word "attest," as used in section 5211, Revised Statutes U. S., means something more than to witness the execution of the report by the president or cashier. It means to certify its correctness. Gerner v. Mosher, 58 Neb. 135 (78 N. W. 384; 46 L. R. A. 244).

272. (1900.) A report of a national bank to the comptroller of the currency which complies with the law and regulations of the comptroller cannot be made the basis of an action for deceit because the item of interest on rediscounts was deducted from undivided profits instead of being made to appear specifically in such report. Gerner v. Yates, 61 Neb. 100 (84 N. W. 596).

273. (1905.) The officers of a national bank are personally liable for false reports made and published by them in pursuance of section 5211, Revised Statutes U. S., to the party injured thereby, and the right of the injured party to maintain the action does not rest on the federal statute but on the common law. Yates v. Jones Nat. Bank, 74 Neb. 734 (105 N. W. 287); Yates v. Utica Bank, 74 Neb. 734 (105 N. W. 287); Yates v. Bailey, 74 Neb. 734 (105 N. W. 287). [Reversed. 206 U. S. 158, 181.]

274. (1905.) It is no defense to an action against officers of a national bank for publishing false reports that such reports were made and published by the officers without knowledge of their falsity. Yates v. Jones Nat. Bank, 74 Neb. 734 (105 N. W. 287); Yates v. Utica Bank, 74 Neb. 734 (105 N. W. 287); Yates v. Bailey, 74 Neb. 734 (105 N. W. 287); Yates v. Bank of Staplehurst, 74 Neb. 734 (105 N. W. 287). [Reversed. 206 U. S. 158, 181.]

——— Actions to enforce liability.

275. (1899.) The liabilities which are fixed in the national banking law for violation of its provisions are not exclusive and do not preclude the action for deceit. Stuart v. Bank of Staplehurst, 57 Neb. 569 (78 N. W. 298).

276. (1899.) Petition against directors of a national bank for publishing a false statement as to its financial condition, held to state a cause of action for deceit and not for relief under the national banking law, and to present no federal question for adjudication. Stuart v. Bank of Staplehurst, 57 Neb. 569 (78 N. W. 298).

277. (1899.) In an action for false representations it is not necessary to aver or prove that the party making them knew they were untrue. And this rule is applicable to an action for deceit against the director of a bank for falsely stating the financial condition of the corporation. Gerner v. Mosher, 58 Neb. 135 (78 N. W. 384; 46 L. R. A. 244).

278. (1899.) The president and cashier of a bank, shown to have personally conducted its business, cannot be presumed ignorant of the falsity of reports of the bank's condition by them published, the books of the bank on their face disclosing the falsity. Gerner v. Mosher, 58 Neb. 135 (78 N. W. 384; 46 L. R. A. 244).

Usurious loans by banks.

279. (1888.) Where the usurious interest is discounted from the face of the note, the bank can recover only the face of the note less the interest deducted. If the borrower pays the usurious interest in advance he may recover double the interest so paid. Schuyler Nat. Bank v. Bollong, 24 Neb. 825 (40 N. W. 413).

280. (1890.) Where a national bank loans money at a usurious rate which is included in the note, in an action to enforce the contract the interest is forfeited. Hall v. First Nat. Bank, 30 Neb. 99 (46 N. W. 150); (1894) McGhee v. First Nat. Bank of Tobias, 40 Neb. 92 (58 N. W. 537).

280*a*. (1891.) The fact that officers of a bank, acquired knowledge, long before its organization, and in their private business, of the usurious consideration of a note, will not charge the bank with notice of such infirmity. Koehler v. Dodge, 31 Neb. 328 (47 N. W. 913; 28 Am. St. Rep. 518).

281. (1894.) Where money is loaned at a usurious interest by a partner of a private banking firm, and several renewals are made, the payments that have been made amounting to more than the original loan, a national bank that has assumed the business of the private firm and the partner making the loan is the cashier of the new bank, such bank cannot recover on the note so given in renewal of the loan. Exeter Nat. Bank v. Orchard, 39 Neb. 485 (58 N. W. 144).

282. (1895.) Where a national bank knowingly charges usurious interest upon a loan of money which is included in the note, in an action to enforce the contract, the entire interest is forfeited. Where illegal interest has been paid to a national bank, the borrower may recover double the amount of interest actually paid, if the action is brought within two years after such payment is made. Norfolk Nat. Bank v. Schwenk, 46 Neb. 381 (64 N. W. 1073).

Digitized by Google

283. (1897.) The defense of usury is available in an action by a national bank for the recovery of unpaid interest where the rate contracted for by it is in excess of that prescribed by the act of congress. Tomblin v. Higgins, 53 Neb. 92 (73 N. W. 461; 68 Am. St. Rep. 596). [Rehearing. 58 Neb. 336.]

284. (1898.) The inhibition contained in section 5197, Revised Statutes U. S., is general and forbids the taking of usurious interest by a national bank from an artificial as well as from a natural person. Albion Nat. Bank v. Montgomery, 54 Neb. 681 (74 N. W. 1102).

285. (1899.) The exemption of national banks from the penalties of usury prescribed by statute of the state owes its existence to laws enacted by congress, and such exemption should not, by implication, be extended beyond the import of the federal statute. Gadsden v. Thrush, 58 Neb. 340 (78 N. W. 632; 45 L. R. A. 654).

286. (1899.) In an action to foreclose a mortgage securing a note made to be used as collateral to a note owing to a national bank the mere fact that the proceeds of such collateral, when collected by the payee thereof, are to be used to discharge the said principal note to the bank does not justify the extension of the federal exemption of national banks from penalties for usury to such foreclosure proceedings. Gadsden v. Thrush, 58 Neb. 340 (78 N. W. 632; 45 L. R. A. 654).

286*a*. (1905.) The president and director of a bank cannot enter into a contract with the corporation in which he is such an officer to pay a usurious rate of interest on money owing by him to such corporation, and thereby escape the payment of all interest on such indebtednes under the statute denouncing usurious contracts. In such a case a court of equity will not enforce the unlawful usurious contract, but will require the debtor to do equity by paying the legal rate of interest on the principal sum for which he is indebted to the corporation. Gund v. Ballard, 73 Neb. 547 (103 N. W. 309).

——Set-off of usurious interest paid.

See, also, Usury, §§ 99-102.

287. (1894.) It seems that the remedies given by the federal statutes for usury exacted by national banks are exclusive; but that principle does not prevent a debtor, under circumstances stated, from availing himself of any defenses to which he is entitled under the state law, and which accrued before he was aware that the debt was owing to the bank. Exeter Nat. Bank v. Orchard, 39 Neb. 485 (58 N. W. 144).

287*a*. (1894.) In an action by a national bank to recover on renewals to it of usurious notes given to a private bank which plaintiff has succeeded, defendant is entitled to have all payments of interest applied on the principal, and he is not estopped from claiming this right by the fact that he has made such renewals to the national bank and has also sued and recovered from it the penalty provided by the federal statute. Exeter Nat. Bank v. Orchard, 39 Neb. 485 (58 N. W. 144).

288. (1895.) Following the decisions of the supreme court of the United States, it was held that usurious interest paid a national bank on a note cannot be applied by way of set-off or payment against the principal sum due in any suit by the bank upon such note. Norfolk Nat. Bank v. Schwenk, 46 Neb. 381 (64 N. W. 1073).

289. (1896.) Money paid as usurious interest to a national bank cannot be set off in a suit brought by the bank more than two years after such payment to recover the principal sum. Lanham v. First Nat. Bank of Crete, 46 Neb. 663 (65 N. W. 786); (1897) Montgomery v. Albion Nat. Bank, 50 Neb. 652 (70 N. W. 239).

Actions for penalty for usury.

290. (1892.) Defendant bank might evade the penalty by proof that it had in good faith sold and assigned the usurious note to another for whom it was merely acting as agent in making the collection, but the mere assignment of the note raises no presumption of an absolute sale. First Nat. Bank of North Bend v. Miltonberger, 33 Neb. 847 (51 N. W. 232).

291. (1897.) While under the state law no action can be maintained to recover back payments of usury, and all remedy is lost by payment of the debt, the national banking act provides otherwise, and an action will lie against a national bank to recover the penalty, notwithstanding the borrower has paid both principal and interest. First Nat. Bank of Tobias v. Barnett, 51 Neb. 397 (70 N. W. 937).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

292. (1898.) The right to recover double the amount of usury paid to a national banking association is, by section 5198, Revised Statutes U. S., conferred as well upon artificial as upon natural persons. Albion Nat. Bank v. Montgomery, 54 Neb. 681(74 N. W. 1102).

——— Jurisdiction and venue.

293. (1887.) Actions and proceedings against any association under the national banking act may be brought in any state, county, or municipal court, in the county or city in which such association is located, having jurisdiction in similar cases. This applies to a penalty under section 5198, Revised Statutes U. S. In such cases the state courts do not exercise a new jurisdiction conferred upon them, but their ordinary jurisdiction derived from their constitution under the state law. First Nat. Bank v. Overman, 22 Neb. 116 (34 N. W. 107); (1890) Schuyler Nat. Bank v. Bollong, 28 Neb. 684 (45 N. W. 164).

294. (1888.) The courts of record of the several states have jurisdiction in actions brought under sections 5197 and 5198, Revised Statutes U. S., to recover from national banks the penalty for knowingly taking, receiving, or charging a rate of interest greater than is allowed by law. Schuyler Nat. Bank v. Bollong, 24 Neb. 825 (40 N. W. 413); (1888) Schuyler Nat. Bank v. Bollong, 24 Neb. 821 (40 N. W. 411); (1891) Schuyler Nat. Bank v. Bollong, 32 Neb. 70 (48 N. W. 826); (1893) Schuyler Nat. Bank v. Bollong, 37 Neb. 620 (56 N. W. 209).

——— Conditions precedent.

295. (1890.) Where illegal interest has been charged, but not paid, an action cannot be maintained to recover it back. Hall v. First Nat. Bank of Fairfield, 30 Neb. 99 (46 N. W. 150).

296. (1895.) The payment of a usurious loan made by a national bank is not a condition precedent to the right of the borrower to maintain an action against such bank to recover double the amount of usurious interest paid by such borrower to such bank on such loan. Exeter Nat. Bank v. Orchard, 43 Neb. 579 (62 N. W. 833).

——— Defenses.

296*a*. (1892.) In an action against a national bank to recover double the amount of interest paid on a usurious contract, defendant contended that it had sold and assigned the usurious note to another bank and that in collecting the face of the note from the maker it was acting merely as the agent of the other bank. Held, First, the defendant might evade the penalty for usury by proof of a sale and assignment in good faith of the usurious note; second, the mere assignment of the note by the defendant bank in such case raises no presumption in its own favor of an absolute sale thereof. First Nat. Bank of North Bend v. Miltonberger, 33 Neb. 847 (51 N. W. 232).

——— Pleading.

297. (1888.) When an action is brought to recover a penalty under sections 5197 and 5198, Revised Statutes U. S., upon the ground of taking, receiving, reserving, or charging a rate of interest greater than is allowed by law, it is necessary to allege in the petition that the act was "knowingly done." Schuyler Nat. Bank v. Bollong, 24 Neb. 821 (40 N. W. 411).

298. (1890.) In a petition in an action against a national bank for taking usury, the words "so as aforesaid paid by the plaintiff to the defendant, and by the defendant knowingly contracted for and received from the plaintiff," are neither redundant, scandalous, nor irrelevant matter, within the meaning of section 125 of the code. Schuyler Nat. Bank v. Bollong, 28 Neb. 684 (45 N. W. 164).

299. (1895.) A petition for the recovery of double the amount of interest, in which was included usury paid to a national bank, is sufficiently definite in its statements of facts when therein is shown the dates and amounts of the several loans, the usurious rate of interest stipulated for, and the date and amount of interest actually paid upon closing up the series of transactions described. Ord Nat. Bank v. Wells, 43 Neb. 550 (61 N. W. 692).

——— Limitations.

300. (1893.) The limitation of two years within which suit may be brought against a national bank under section 5198, Revised Statutes U. S., for taking usurious interest, begins to run, as to each installment of interest, from the time when such interest is paid. First Nat. Bank of Dorchester v.

Digitized by Google

Smith, 36 Neb. 199 (54 N. W. 254); (1894) Smith v. First Nat. Bank of Crete, 42 Neb. 687 (60 N. W. 866); (1894) Lanham v. First Nat. Bank of Crete, 42 Neb. 757 (60 N. W. 1041); (1895) Norfolk Nat. Bank v. Schwenk, 46 Neb. 381 (64 N. W. 1073).

www.libtool.com.cn

——— Evidence.

300a. (1889.) In an action against a national bank to recover the penalty provided by the United States statute for taking usurious interest, the testimony of the plaintiff, who was the principal witness relied upon to establish the usury, being vague, indefinite, and unsatisfactory, the court will not review the findings of fact of the jury. Volker v. First Nat. Bank, 26 Neb. 602 (42 N. W. 732).

301. (1897.) In an action against a national bank to recover the penalty for taking usury, it appeared that the transactions between plaintiff and the bank consisted of a large number of loans evidenced by notes, many of which had been from time to time renewed. Held, That evidence of the whole course of transactions was material, although some were not pleaded as usurious. First Nat. Bank of Tobias v. Barnett, 51 Neb. 397 (70 N. W. 937).

——— Instructions.

301a. (1897.) In an action against a national bank to recover a penalty for usury, certain instructions examined, and held properly refused. First Nat. Bank of Tobias v. Barnett, 51 Neb. 397 (70 N. W. 937).

——— Amount of penalty recoverable.

302. (1890.) In an action against a national banking association, for a penalty under section 5198, Revised Statutes U. S., the plaintiff may recover double the amount of interest actually paid, and is not confined to double the amount of usury paid. Schuyler Nat. Bank v. Bollong, 28 Neb. 684 (45 N. W. 164).

Insolvency and receivers.

303. (1898.) The commission or written appointment of a receiver of a national bank issued by the comptroller of the currency, signed by him and attested with his seal of office, is a certificate within the meaning of section 884, Revised Statutes United States. Such a certificate proves itself, and is admissible in evidence without extraneous proof of its genuineness. Davis' Estate v. Watkins, 56 Neb. 288 (76 N. W. 575).

304. (1900.) The United States circuit court having jurisdiction over a receiver and questions growing out of the administration of the assets of an insolvent bank, the supreme court of the state will not interfere with such jurisdiction or the carrying out of its orders and judgments. Schaberg v. McDonald, 60 Neb. 493 (83 N. W. 737).

305. (1901.) A bank examiner who takes charge of the assets of a national bank, under the directions of the comptroller, is not the agent for the bank in such negotiations as the bank may be permitted to enter into with a view to resumption of business. Tecumseh Nat. Bank v. Chamberlain Banking House, 63 Neb. 163 (88 N. W. 186; 57 L. R. A. 811).

——— Assessment of stockholders by comptroller.

306. (1898.) An assessment levied by the comptroller of the currency on a stockholder of a national bank draws interest from the date such assessment is made payable. Davis' Estate v. Watkins, 56 Neb. 288 (76 N. W. 575).

307. (1898.) In a suit against a stockholder of a national bank to recover assessments defendant cannot assail the validity of the incorporation of the bank. Davis' Estate v. Watkins, 56 Neb. 288 (76 N. W. 575).

308. (1898.) In a suit against a stockholder of a national bank to recover assessments levied against him by the comptroller of the currency it will be presumed that the stock certificate bearing the corporate seal of the bank was issued and signed by the officer having authority so to do. Davis' Estate v. Watkins, 56 Neb. 288 (76 N. W. 575).

309. (1900.) A receiver has authority to institute proceedings and collect assessments ordered by the comptroller of the currency against stockholders of an insolvent national bank on their individual liability, and satisfaction of a judgment obtained in such proceedings satisfies and obliterates the obligation, regardless of the disposition made of the proceeds of such assessment by the receiver of such national bank. Schaberg v. McDonald, 60 Neb. 493 (83 N. W. 737).

BAR.

Admission as attorney to practice, see Attorney and Client, §§ 1-7.

Digitized by Google

Marriage of parents of illegitimates as bar to action, see Bastards, §§ 20-22.

Discharge in bankruptcy no bar to creditors suits, see Creditor's Suit, § 3.

General judgment in creditors suit as bar to special relief, see Creditor's Suit, § 86.

Compromise as bar to action, see Compromise and Settlement, §§ 17-23.

Acts barring dower, see Dower, §§ 15-35.

Election of remedies as bar to other remedies, see Election of Remedies, §§ 10-34.

Judgment as bar, see Judgment, XIV.

Pleas in bar, see Pleading, § 17.

Return of property as bar to action for conversion, see Trover and Conversion, § 35.

BASEBALL.

Playing on Sunday, see Sunday, §§ 1-3.

BASTARDS.

ANALYSIS.

Who are illegitimate, § 1.
Legitimation giving right to inherit.
——— In general, § 2.
——— Recognition or acknowledgment, §§ 3-6.
——— Marriage of parents, §§ 7, 8.
——— Adoption into family, §§ 9, 10.
Statutory provisions, §§ 11-13.
Nature and form of remedy, §§ 14-19.
Bar or abatement of proceedings.
——— Intermarriage of parties, §§ 20-22.
——— Settlement between parents, § 23.
——— Death of child, § 24.
Who may maintain proceedings, §§ 25-28.
Jurisdiction, §§ 29-36.
Venue, §§ 37, 38.
Limitations, § 39.
Examination by justice of the peace, §§ 40-42.
Process, § 43.
Recognizance, §§ 44, 45.
Pleading, §§ 46-50.
Arraignment and plea, §§ 51-53.
Necessity of plea on retrial, § 54.
Burden of proof, § 55.
Evidence admissible.
——— In general, §§ 56-59.
——— Testimony given on preliminary proceeding, §§ 60-64.
——— Offer of compromise, §§ 65-68.
——— Marriage of prosecutrix, § 69.
——— Declarations of complainant, § 70.
——— Intimacy and illicit relations of parties, §§ 71, 72.
——— Good character of defendant, §§ 73, 74.
——— Character and conduct of prosecutrix, §§ 75-82.
Sufficiency of evidence.
——— In general, §§ 83-88.
——— To prevent a discharge on habeas corpus, § 89.
——— Marriage of complainant, § 90.
——— Alibi, § 91.
——— Proof that child was alive, §§ 92-94.
Trial.
——— Course and conduct in general, §§ 95-97.
——— Taking infant child to witness stand, §§ 98, 99.
——— Argument of counsel, §§ 100, 101.
——— Instructions, §§ 102-105.

www.libtool.com.cn
Digitized by Google

Cross-examination of defendant, § 106.
Credibility of prosecutrix as witness, §§ 107-109.
Judgment.
——— Filiation, § 110.
——— Award of support and expenses, §§ 111-117.
——— Award when mother dead, § 118.
——— Bond for support, § 119.
Bond for support, §§ 120-121.
Enforcement of order of support, §§ 122, 123.
Compromise of judgment, § 124.
Costs, apportionment of, § 125.
Review, §§ 126, 127.

CROSS-REFERENCES.

Fornication; Parent and Child.

corpus in bastardy proceedings, Corpus, § 3.

llegitimate.

.) At common law, a bastard one born neither in lawful wed- ithin a competent time after its ., under circumstances which npossible that the husband of its n be its father. Parker v. No- Neb. 315 (93 N. W. 851; 60 L. R.

on giving right to inherit.

eneral.

.) The moral obligation of the legtimate children does not legiti- atter, except upon the conditions by section 31, chapter 23 of the Statutes. Trayer v. Setzer, 72 101 N. W. 989).

ognition or acknowledgment.

3.) A writing sent by one in this woman in Sweden who is ad- "dear mother" and providing for ng to Nebraska, and to send or me" and start him alone at an instrument inclosed for the e giving directions, to any one d so do, how to aid the youth, f the boy as "my dear son" and nself "his father" is not such an gment of an illigitimate child as d for by section 31, chapter 23, of Statutes, which provides that ille- children who have been acknowl- the father may inherit from him. urke, 56 Neb. 785 (77 N. W. 444).

2.) In the writing described in ., chapter 23, Compiled Statutes, t statement that the child is illegi- d no intention to make the child need appear. Thomas v. Thomas, 81 (90 N. W. 630).

5. (1902.) Section 31, chapter 23, Compiled Statutes, in making an illegitimate child an heir of the person who "shall, in writing, signed in the presence of a competent witness, have acknowledged himself to be the father of such child," only provided for the prescribed evidence of paternity. Thomas v. Thomas, 64 Neb. 581 (90 N. W. 630).

6. (1906.) A writing to constitute an acknowledgment of paternity within the provisions of section 31, chapter 23, Compiled Statutes, 1903, must be one in which the paternity is directly, unequivocally and unquestionably acknowledged. Moore v. Flack, 77 Neb. 52 (108 N. W. 143).

——— Marriage of parents.

7. (1904.) The marriage of the parents of illegitimate children does not legitimate the latter, except upon the conditions prescribed by section 31, chapter 23 of the Compiled Statutes. Trayer v. Setzer, 72 Neb. 845 (101 N. W. 989).

8. (1906.) Evidence examined, and held insufficient to show a common law marriage between plaintiff's mother and the deceased. Moore v. Flack, 77 Neb. 52 (108 N. W. 143).

——— Adoption into family.

9. (1901.) The expression "adopted into the family," in section 31, chapter 23, Compiled Statutes, means received into one's family and given the family name and acknowledeged as a child. Estate of Morton v. Morton, 62 Neb. 420 (87 N. W. 182).

10. (1901.) An illegitimate child whose parents, before his death, intermarry and have other children, and whose father has received him into his family, and acknowledged him as a child and given him the family name, shall be counted among the legitimate children of a testator and share in a devise "to my children share and share alike" equally with the legitimate children. Estate of Morton v. Morton, 62 Neb. 420 (87 N. W. 182).

Digitized by Google

Statutory provisions.

11. (1888.) Statute providing for imprisonment of father, without remedy for his discharge other than security for compliance with the order of the court, is constitutional. Ex parte Donahue, 24 Neb. 66 (38 N. W. 28).

12. (1895.) Section 1, chapter 37, Compiled Statutes, permitting a settlement to be made in a bastardy proceeding, does not violate section 11, article III, of the constitution, providing that no bill shall contain more than one subject, and the same shall be clearly expressed in its title. Stoppert v. Nierle, 45 Neb. 105 (63 N. W. 382).

13. (1903.) Chapter 37, Compiled Statutes entitled "Illegitimate Children," held constitutional and valid. Gatzemeyer v. Peterson, 68 Neb. 832 (94 N. W. 974).

Nature and form of remedy.

14. The proceeding under the bastardy act is esentially a civil one. (1883) Jones v. State, 14 Neb. 210 (15 N. W. 901); (1884) Altschuler v. Algaza, 16 Neb. 631 (21 N. W. 401); (1884) Kremling v. Lallman, 16 Neb. 280 (20 N. W. 383); (1891) Strickler v. Grass, 32 Neb. 811 (49 N. W. 804).

15. (1879.) Bastary proceedings are in the nature of a civil action to enforce the performance of a civil and moral obligation —the support by a father of his child. Cottrell v. State, 9 Neb. 125 (1 N. W. 1008).

16. (1882.) A proceeding under the bastardy act while in the nature of a civil action is properly a police regulation requiring the putative father to furnish support for his child, and to indemnify the public against liability for its support. Ex parte Cottrell, 13 Neb. 193 (12 N. W. 174).

17. (1895.) An action under the provisions of our statute in relation to "Illegitimate Children" is, in its nature, a civil proceeding, and the rules governing such proceedings apply to it. Stoppert v. Nierle, 45 Neb. 105 (63 N. W. 382).

18. (1901.) Proceedings in bastardy are purely statutory and the issue and order must conform to the statutes. Peters v. Killian, 63 Neb. 57 (87 N. W. 1049).

19. (1901.) The bastardy act is an exercise of the police power of the state. the object of which is to require the putative father to furnish support for his child and indemnify the public against liability for its care and maintenance. In re Walker, 61 Neb. 803 (86 N. W. 510).

Bar or abatement of proceedings.

——— Intermarriage of parties.

20. (1884.) The intermarriage of the parties will always be encouraged as a means of terminating litigation and rendering some measure of justice to the innocent offspring, but it cannot be enforced nor made a condition of its support. Kremling v. Lallman, 16 Neb. 280 (20 N. W. 383).

21. (1902.) The word "unmarried," as used in the statute as amended in 1875, properly refers to the status of the mother at the time her child is begotten and born, and does not relate to her situation at the time of making the complaint therein referred to. Parker v. Nothomb, 65 Neb. 315 (93 N. W. 851; 60 L. R. A. 699).

22. (1904.) Bastardy proceedings begun against the father are not abated by his fraudulent marriage with the mother not consummated by cohabitation with but followed by immediate abandonment of her. Trayer v. Setzer, 72 Neb. 845 (101 N. W. 989).

——— Settlement between parents.

23. (1901.) A settlement between the parents of an illegitimate child, in order to be operative as a stay or termination of such proceedings, must be of such nature and made and attested in such manner as the act prescribes and the district court can take judicial cognizance of none other. In that proceeding the court cannot try the issue whether the father or the mother of the child is the more suitable person to be entrusted with its custody. Peters v. Killian, 63 Neb. 57 (87 N. W. 1049).

——— Death of child.

24. (1893.) The prosecution of the father of a bastard child, under chapter 37, Compiled Statutes, does not abate by the death of the child pending the prosecution. Hanisky v. Kennedy, 37 Neb. 618 (56 N. W. 208).

Who may maintain proceedings.

25. A proceeding in bastardy may be prosecuted in the name of the prosecutrix. (1879) Cottrell v. State, 9 Neb. 125 (1 N. W. 1008); (1883) Jones v. State, ex rel. Gibson, 14 Neb. 210 (14 N. W. 901); (1884) Kremling v. Lallman, 16 Neb. 280 (20 N. W. 301); (1884) Altschuler v. Algaza, 16 Neb. 631 (21 N. W. 401); (1888) Ingram v. State, ex rel. McIntosh, 24 Neb. 33 (37 N. W. 943).

26. (1879.) Proceedings under the bastardy act of 1875 should be conducted in the prosecuting witness, or, if she rosecute, in the name of the where proceedings are insti- name of the state, without ob- at ground until after judgment, a waiver of the objections, the a mere trustee for the real erest. Cottrell v. State, 9 Neb. 1008).

Digitized by Google

) Under the statute entitled Children," prior to its amend- 5, an action in bastardy could ed by any woman giving birth timate child, even though be- orn during the existence of the e. Parker v. Nothomb, 65 Neb. V. 851; 60 L. R. A. 699).

) The word "unmarried," in apter 37, Compiled Statutes of oes not properly refer to the tus at the time of making the bastardy, but only to such ch time as it will affect the the legitimacy of the child, or of the husband to support it. othomb, 65 Neb. 308 (91 N. W.

) In a proceeding under the the district court acquires ju- the filing of the transcript of ings before the justice, based complaint, arrest of the ac- order requiring him to appear istrict court for trial. The evi- complainant, on the preliminary reduced to writing by the ransmitted to the district court, purpose of confirming or im- testimony in the latter court; occurring in the exclusion of such examination do not affect tion. Altschuler v. Algaza, 16 N. W. 401).

) The county judge has juris- ear proceedings instituted under of Compiled Statutes, entitled Children." Ingram v. State, osh, 24 Neb. 33 (37 N. W. 943).

) A bastardy proceeding is es- civil action, and can only be merits in the district court, and tice of the peace has no juris- ry and determine the guilt or f a party charged with being of a bastard child. Munro v. Neb. 849 (60 N. W. 97).

32. (1895.) Proceedings under chapter 37, Compiled Statutes, entitled "Illegitimate Children," are within the jurisdiction of a county judge and may be instituted and hearing had before such judge. Stoppert v. Nierle, 45 Neb. 105 (63 N. W. 382).

33. (1895.) Error of a county judge in excluding testimony during the examination of complainant in a bastardy case will not affect the jurisdiction of the district court. Stoppert v. Nierle, 45 Neb. 105 (63 N. W. 382).

34. (1901.) A justice of the peace obtains jurisdiction over a defendant under the bastardy act by the filing of the statutory complaint, duly verified; the issuance of a warrant for the arrest of the defendant, and its execution, the execution of the process serving the same office as the service of a summons in an ordinary civil action. In re Walker, 61 Neb. 803 (86 N. W. 510).

35. (1901.) In a proceeding under the bastardy act the district court acquires jurisdiction by the filing of the transcript of the proceedings had before the justice of the peace, based on a proper complaint, arrest of the accused, and order requring him to appear before the district court for trial. In re Walker, 61 Neb. 803 (86 N. W. 510).

36. (1901.) The district court having acquired jurisdiction in a bastardy proceeding, by the filing of a transcript of the proceedings had before a justice of the peace, is empowered to try the case and render judgment, even though the defendant be not personally present. In re Walker, 61 Neb. 803 (86 N. W. 510).

Venue.

37. (1888.) Prosecution in bastardy is properly commenced in county where mother resides though child was born in another county. Ingram v. State, ex rel. McIntosh, 24 Neb. 33 (37 N. W. 943).

38. (1894.) Prosecution may be had in the county of complainant's residence where the child is liable to become a public charge, notwithstanding complainant may have a legal settlement elsewhere. Clark v. Carey, 41 Neb. 780 (60 N. W. 78).

Limitations.

39. (1888.) Where the action was not brought until after four years from birth of child and the evidence shows the party accused to be the father and claims of mother were made at first oportunity, etc., not barred. Denham v. Watson, 24 Neb. 779 (40 N. W. 308).

Digitized by Google

Examination by justice of the peace.

40. (1891.) The provisions of statute that upon a complaint of bastardy by an unmarried woman to a justice of the peace that she is pregnant, or has been delivered of a child, charging a putative father with the offense, the defendant shall be arrested, and brought to answer, and which requires the justice to examine the complainant under oath touching her complaint, which examination is to be reduced to writing, are provisions for the protection of defendants, and may be waived without prejudice to their defense. Strickler v. Grass, 32 Neb. 811 (49 N. W. 804).

41. (1894.) The examination by a justice of the peace of a person charged with being the father of a bastard child is in no sense a trial of the merits of the controversy; and the statute does not contemplate the taking of any testimony in such proceeding on behalf of the party accused. Munro v. Callahan, 41 Neb. 849 (60 N. W. 97).

42. (1903.) In a proceeding under chapter 37, Compiled Statutes, the record of the justice of the peace before whom the preliminary examination was had, showing that the examination was regularly had and completed, is conclusive upon the question. Morgan v. Stone, 4 Unof. 115 (93 N. W. 743).

Process.

43. (1901.) The execution of the process in a bastardy case serves the same office as the service of a summons in an ordinary civil action. In re Walker, 61 Neb. 803 (86 N. W. 510).

Recognizance.

44. (1899.) A recognizance in a bastardy proceeding, conditioned that accused "shall be and appear before the district court on the first day of the next term thereof, and appear thereat from day to day to abide the order of the court," is limited to the term at which it exacts the appearance. A continuance of the cause to a subsequent term of court is not within the contract of the recognizance, and, if made, a non-appearance of accused at the term to which the continuance carries the cause is not a breach of such recognizance. State v. Murdock, 59 Neb. 521 (81 N. W. 447).

45. (1902.) A recognizance in a bastardy proceeding, conditioned that the accused shall apear at the next term of the district court to answer such accusation, and abide the order of the court, is limited to the term at which it exacts the appearance, and where the case is continued to a subsequent term without a renewal of such recognizance, and the defendant fails to appear at such subsequent term, there is no liability on the recognizance. Perkins v. Milton, 64 Neb. 848 (90 N. W. 756).

Pleading.

46. (1886.) In a prosecution under chapter 37, Compiled Statutes, of 1885, entitled "Illegitimate Children," no pleadings are necessary in the district court except those specified in the act. Hutchinson v. State, 19 Neb. 262 (27 N. W. 113).

47. (1889.) A denial of sexual intercourse on the day named in the complaint is not a denial that such intercourse had taken place. Planck v. Bishop, 26 Neb. 589 (42 N. W. 723).

48. (1894.) The complaint in a bastardy proceedings, where it charges the date of the birth of the child, need not set out the time or place when or where it was begotten. Robb v. Hewitt, 39 Neb. 217 (58 N. W. 88).

49, 50. (1903.) In a bastardy proceeding, a complaint in which it is stated that the complainant is an unmarried woman, residing in the county where the complaint was filed, and that on a certain day immediately preceding its filing she was delivered of a bastard child, and that the accused is its father, is sufficient to sustain a verdict of guilty and a judgment thereon, when assailed for the first time in the appellate court. Campion v. Lattimer, 70 Neb. 245 (97 N. W. 290); (1903) In re Application of Campion, 5 Unof. 144 (97 N. W. 443).

Arraignment and plea.

51. (1886.) When a person charged with being the father of an illegitimate child is placed upon trial in the district court, and through inadvertence a plea to the complaint is not taken until after the jury is impaneled and a plea of not guilty is then entered, such omission to enter the plea before impaneling of the jury would be an irregularity, but without prejudice, and a new trial will not be granted for that reason. Hutchinson v. State, 19 Neb. 262 (27 N. W. 113).

Digitized by Google

.) The right to have the com- to him and to be allowed to o may be waived by the de- he will be held to have waived here a trial is had as though had been entered. McNeal v. Neb. 579 (101 N. W. 236).

) Where, on a trial in a bas- eding, the defendant goes to he sole and only issue of his rged in the complaint, and on hat he has pleaded not guilty, e is so submitted to the jury, it no formal arraignment and is entered of record is an which at most is error without IcNeal v. Hunter, 72 Neb. 579 236).

? plea on retrial.

) When a plea of "not guilty" n a bastardy proceeding and a uilty is rendered, the verdict ide and a second trial had, it ry to again enter a second plea. ishop, 26 Neb. 589 (42 N. W.

roof.

) In a prosecution for bas- the testimony of the complaint he first act of intercourse with nt was less than 252 days be- h of the illegitimate child, the pon the complainant to estab- ponderance of the evidence that leged to have been begotten by ourse was of premature birth. Karr, 78 Neb. 488 (111 N. W.

missible.

neral.

.) The probable duration of f gestation is a question of fact n by proper evidence in each ase wherein that question is avison v. Cruse, 47 Neb. 829 23).

.) On the hearing of a bas- eding it is error for the district nit evidence of the value of the dered by the attorneys of the Harshman v. Ingwerson, 52 1 N. W. 980).

.) Where evidence is intro- accused for the purpose of es- n alibi, testimony which tends such evidence may be properly received in rebuttal. Campion v. Lattimer, 70 Neb. 245 (97 N. W. 290).

59. (1907.) In a prosecution for bastardy, where the testimony of the complainant shows that the first act of intercourse with the defendant was less than 252 days before the birth of the illegitimate child, evidence tending to show the premature birth of the child should be offered in chief, and is not admissible in rebuttal. Souchek v. Karr, 78 Neb. 488 (111 N. W. 150).

www.libook.com.cn

——— Testimony given on preliminary proceeding.

60. (1886.) It is not error to allow counsel for defendant, in a bastardy proceeding, on cross-examination of the prosecutrix to examine her as to what she testified to on the preliminary hearing before the magistrate. Masters v. Marsh, 19 Neb. 458 (27 N. W. 438).

61. (1889.) Where, after the preliminary hearing before a justice of the peace, but before the trial, the plaintiff, in a bastardy proceeding, dies and the action is revived in the name of the county, the testimony of such plaintiff given before the justice is admissible on the trial. Dodge County v. Kemnitz, 28 Neb. 224 (44 N. W. 184).

62. (1891.) The examination provided for in section 1 of chapter 37, Compiled Statutes, is only of the complainant; and in a case where a defendant, having been arrested and brought before a justice of the peace on a charge of bastardy, was permitted to swear and examine a witness, in his defense, whose testimony was taken down in writing and afterwards offered in evidence upon the trial in the district court, held, that it was properly rejected. Daly v. Melendy, 32 Neb. 852 (49 N. W. 926).

63. (1895.) The portion of section 5, chapter 37, Compiled Statutes, entitled "Illegitimate Children," in which appears the statement, "And at the trial of such issue the examination before the justice shall be given in evidence," authorizes the offer and introduction in evidence by either party during trial in the district court of the examination of complainant in an action of bastardy, taken before a justice of the peace or county judge. Stoppert v. Nierle, 45 Neb. 105 (63 N. W. 382).

64. (1903.) In a proceeding under chapter 37, Compiled Statutes, the testimony given by the complaining witness at the preliminary examination is not original evidence, but may be introduced for the purpose of confirming or impeaching the testimony of the complaining witness at the trial; but, as the order of proof is largely within the discretion of the trial court, held, not prejudicial error to admit in evidence a transcript of such testimony before the direct examination of the complaining witness. Morgan v. Stone, 4 Unof. 115 (93 N. W. 743).

Digitized by Google

——— Offer of compromise.

65. (1891.) An offer of compromise made by a defendant in a bastardy proceeding, not accepted, is not admissible in evidence. The rule does not exclude the admission of particular facts tending to show guilt. Olson v. Peterson, 33 Neb. 358 (50 N. W. 155).

66. (1894.) An offer made by the defendant to the father of the prosecutrix to contribute money for the purpose of "sending the prosecutrix away" is not an offer to compromise, and is admissible in evidence. Robb v. Hewitt, 39 Neb. 217 (58 N. W. 88).

67. (1897.) In a bastardy action it is prejudicial error to admit in evidence, over proper objections, an offer of marriage by the putative father to the mother of the bastard child, made with a view to the settlement of such proceeding about to be commenced. Lisy v. State, ex rel. Dufek, 50 N. W. 226 (69 N. W. 768).

68. (1903.) An offer by the defendant in bastardy proceedings to take the prosecutrix away to a physician for the purpose of getting rid of the child is not an offer of compromise, and may be shown as an admission. Gatzemeyer v. Peterson, 68 Neb. 832 (94 N. W. 974).

——— Marriage of prosecutrix.

69. (1891.) Where the complainant has testified that she was unmarried at the beginning of the action, it is proper to prove, on cross-examination, any fact or circumstance tending to show that she was married when the suit was instituted. Olson v. Peterson, 33 Neb. 358 (50 N. W. 155).

——— Declarations of complainant.

70. (1895.) Evidence of declarations of the complainant in a bastardy suit, in which she claimed the defendant was the father of her child, made during ordinary conversations or out of court and not during her testimony before the justice or county judge or the district court, is incompetent and inadmissible. Stoppert v. Nierle, 45 Neb. 105 (63 N. W. 382).

——— Intimacy and illicit relations of parties.

71. (1886.) In a bastardy case it is not error to refuse a question, on the cross-examination of the prosecutrix, as to having had intercourse with defendant at a certain time and place, about nineteen months before the birth of the child. Masters v. Marsh, 19 Neb. 458 (27 N. W. 438).

72. (1891.) In an action of bastardy upon an answer of not guilty by the defendant, witnesses may be examined on the part of the plaintiff as to the intimate relations apparently existing between the accused at and about the time of the claimed conception. Strickler v. Grass, 32 Neb. 811 49 N. W. 804).

——— Good character of defendant.

73. (1894.) Where in a bastardy proceeding the defendant introduces evidence of good character, evidence by plaintiff on rebuttal admitted without objection, though not responsive to the question, is not reversible error. Robb v. Hewitt, 39 Neb. 217 (58 N. W. 88).

74. (1895.) The character and reputation of the defendant for chastity and virtue is not an issue in an action of bastardy; and notwithstanding proof of the facts of his having sexual connection with the complainant and of his being the father of her child may affect his reputation for chastity, he cannot invoke the aid of his previous reputation in that respect as tending to disprove such facts. Stoppert v. Nierle, 45 Neb. 105 (63 N. W. 382).

——— Character and conduct of prosecutrix.

75. (1884.) Where doubt is raised as to the paternity of the bastard child by reason of the complainant's connection with other men about the time it was begotten, other facts may be shown sufficient to satisfy the jury that the accused is the father. Altschuler v. Algaza, 16 Neb. 631 (21 N. W. 401).

76. (1886.) In a bastardy proceeding evidence that plaintiff has had intercourse with other men before the birth of the child, and clearly outside of the period of gestation, is immaterial to the issue and therefore inadmissible in evidence. Evidence of such intercourse is admissible only for the purpose of showing that another

Digitized by Google

rson charged is the father of the
v. Beers, 20 Neb. 365 (30 N.

.) Testimony that the comd sexual intercourse with men he defendant, outside the period
, is inadmissible in evidence.
terson, 33 Neb. 358 (50 N. W.

.) In a bastardy case, where ny is conflicting as to the pater-child, it is competent for the de-prove that, about the time the alourse was had, the complainant was frequently visited by a than the defendant from a half hour and a half each time.
urt, 34 Neb 187 (51 N. W. 745).
.) In an action of bastardy the entitled to ask the complainant s-examination whether she had nection with other men at or me the child was begotten, and h question answered; and it is strict the range of such cross-to a number of days less than of gestation, especially so when, ase at bar, the time excluded by on is the ten days or two we ks prior to the date when the t has testified she had the first ual intercourse with defendant, vithin the period of gestation.
Nierle, 45 Neb. 105 (63 N. W.

.) Evidence of the unchastity nant in a bastardy proceeding, period of gestation, whether in of proof of her improper conduct general reputation for chastity, nt to the issues presented for son v. Cruse, 47 Neb. 829 (66 N.

.) Evidence of a rumor as to nacy between complainant and a than defendant, is not relevant
e. Erickson v. Schmill, 62 Neb.
W. 166).

.) In prosecutions for bastardy, admissible to show that the had sexual intercourse with than the defendant about the became pregnant. Erickson v.
Neb. 368 (87 N. W. 166).

of evidence.

eneral.

post, §§ 102-105.

proceeding under the bastardy act is essentially a civil one and a preponderance of evidence is sufficient. (1897) Altschuler v. Algaza, 16 Neb. 631 (21 N. W. 401); (1891) Strickler v. Grass, 32 Neb. 811 (49 N. W. 804); (1891) Olson v. Peterson, 33 Neb. 358 (50 N. W. 155); (1893) Dukehart v. Coughman, 36 Neb. 412 (54 N. W. 680); (1894) Robb v. Hewitt, 39 Neb. 217 (58 N. W. 88); (1896) Davison v. Cruse, 47 Neb. 829 (66 N. W. 823); (1906) Stoltenberg v. State, 75 Neb. 631 (106 N. W. 975); (1902) Priel v. Adams, 3 Unof. 305 (91 N. W. 536).

84. (1884.) Evidence examined, and held to sustain the verdict. Altschuler v. Algaza, 16 Neb. 631 (21 N. W. 401).

85. Evidence in bastardy proceedings held to sustain a finding that defendant was the putative father of a bastard child. (1888) Denham v. Watson, 24 Neb. 779 (40 N. W. 308); (1889) Planck v. Bishop, 26 Neb. 589 (42 N. W. 723)

86. (1888.) Evidence in bastardy proceeding held to sustain a verdict of guilty. Ingram v. State, ex rel. McIntosh, 24 Neb. 33 (37 N. W. 943).

87. (1891.) Evidence as to the date of the alleged conception held sufficient to sustain verdict against defendant. Strickler v. Grass, 32 Neb. 811 (49 N. W. 804).

88. (1901.) Evidence examined, and held sufficient to sustain a verdict of guilty on a charge of bastardy. Guthrie v. State, 2 Unof. 28 (96 N. W. 243).

——— To prevent a discharge on habeas corpus.

89. (1881.) In a prosecution for bastardy by a woman claiming to be unmarried by reason of her husband having a wife living at the time of her marriage to him, held, that hearsay evidence as to such prior marriage of her husband having been admitted without objection, tended to prove that she was unmarried and would be sufficient when the offense charged was clearly proved, to prevent the court from discharging the accused on a writ of habeas corpus. In re Carleton, 11 Neb. 99 (7 N. W. 755).

——— Marriage of complainant.

90. (1898.) To maintain a finding of guilty it is necessary to show by evidence that the mother, at the time of the birth of the alleged bastard, was an unmarried person. Johnson v. State, 55 Neb. 781 (76 N. W. 427).

Digitized by Google

——— Alibi.

91. (1877.) Where, on the trial of a defendant under the bastardy act, an alibi was established by two credible witnesses in addition to that of the accused, as against the unsupported testimony of the mother of the child, the verdict should be set aside as being against the evidence. Spurgeon v. Clemmons, 6 Neb. 307.

——— Proof that child was alive.

92. (1893.) Where the prosecuting witness after testifying that she was the mother of the child which she held in her arms at the time, and that it was illegitimate and was begotten by defendant on a certain day, there is sufficient proof that the child was born alive and was alive at the time of the trial. Dukehart v. Coughman, 36 Neb. 412 (54 N. W. 680).

93. (1902.) In a prosecution for bastardy when it is proven that a child was born upon a certain day it may be inferred that it was born alive. Priel v. Adams, 3 Unof. 305 (91 N. W. 536).

94. (1904.) In a bastardy case the testimony of the prosecutrix that she was the mother of a bastard child; that it was born on a certain date; that it is a girl, and the accused is its father, together with the fact that she brought a child with her to the witness stand, is sufficient to warrant the inference that such child was born alive, and was living at the time of the trial. Esch v. Graue, 72 Neb. 719 (101 N. W. 978).

Trial.

——— Course and conduct in general.

95. (1884.) Upon the trial of a bastardy case neither party is entitled to more than three peremptory challenges. Kremling v. Lallman, 16 Neb. 280 (20 N. W. 383); Stoppert v. Nierle, 45 Neb. 105 (63 N. W. 382).

96. (1888.) In bastardy proceedings, where the prosecuting attorney instructed the prosecutrix to turn the face of the illegitimate child so that the jury could observe it, and which, upon objection being made thereto, was held by the court to be improper, no error could be assigned. Ingram v. State, ex rel. McIntosh, 24 Neb. 33 (37 N. W. 943).

97. (1901.) Where a defendant fails to appear in the district court, in pursuance to an order made at the preliminary inquiry had before a justice of the peace, and enteres no plea to the complaint, a trial may be had to the court without the aid of a jury provided for by section 5 to try the issue on a plea of not guilty. In re Walker, 61 Neb. 803 (86 N. W. 510).

——— Taking infant child to witness stand.

98. (1886.) When in a prosecution under the provisions of chapter 37, Compiled Statutes, 1885, entitled "Illegitimate Children," the prosecutrix being called as a witness takes with her to the witness stand the child, the parternity of whom is in question, said child being only about seven months old, it is not error for the trial court to refuse to order the child to be removed. Hutchinson v. State, 19 Neb. 262 (27 N. W. 113).

99. (1904.) It is not error for the court, on the trial of a bastardy case, to refuse to order or cause to be removed from the court room a child less than five months old, brought by the prosecutrix with her to the witness stand, where such child was not exhibited to the jury, and no comparison was made between it and the alleged father. Esch v. Graue, 72 Neb. 719 (101 N. W. 978).

——— Argument of counsel.

100. (1888.) In proceedings in bastardy, where the defendant, although present in court, did not take the witness stand as a witness in his own behalf and deny the charge made by the prosecutrix, it was held competent for the attorney for the prosecutrix, in arguing the case to the jury, to refer to such want of denial on the part of the accused. Ingram v. State, ex rel. McIntosh, 24 Neb. 33 (37 N. W. 943).

101. (1891.) Remarks of counsel derogatory to character of adverse party and his family disapproved, but held not sufficient ground for reversal. Daly v. Melendy, 32 Neb. 852 (N. W. 926).

——— Instructions.

102. (1892.) In a bastardy proceeding a failure to instruct that the jury may take into consideration any variations in the testimony of the prosecutrix before the magistrate and that before the jury, is not reversible error, where no such instruction was requested to be given. Burris v. Court, 34 Neb. 187 (51 N. W. 745).

103. (1891.) An instruction that it is incumbent on defendant to establish an alibi by a preponderance of the evidence, that is, by the greater weight of evidence, before he is entitled to an acquittal on this ground, and, as bearing upon this defense, "you should carefully consider all the evidence before you touching upon the question, and if you believe from such evidence that the defendant was at another place than that where the intercourse is alleged to have taken place at the time of such alleged intercourse, so that he could not have been guilty of the same, then you should acquit the defendant of such charge," is correct. Daly v. Melendy, 32 Neb. 852 (49 N. W. 926).

Digitized by Google

104. (1903.) Certain instructions examined, and held not improperly given. Morgan v. Stone, 4 Unof. 115 (93 N. W. 743).

104*a*. (1884.) In bastardy proceedings where two others than defendant swear that they had intercourse with the complainant about the time the child was begotten, it is not error to refuse to instruct that if the jury believe such witnesses they should find for defendant. Altschuler v. Algaza, 16 Neb. 631 (21 N. W. 401).

105. (1906.) In a bastardy proceeding in which the defendant denies his guilt, the jury, if defendant so requests, should be instructed in accordance with the provisions of section 5, chapter 37, Compiled Statutes, 1903, so far as applicable to the testimony, and it is error to refuse to so instruct. Stoltenberg v. State, 75 Neb. 631 (106 N. W. 975).

Cross-examination of defendant.

106. (1889.) Where in a bastardy proceeding, the defendant denies having had sexual intercourse with the complaining witness on the day named, any question relating to the situation of plaintiff and defendant while together on that day, or about that time, is proper on cross-examination. Planck v. Bishop, 26 Neb. 589 (42 N. W. 723).

Credibility of prosecutrix as witness.

107. (1884.) Where a complainant testifies that the defendant had sexual intercourse with her at a certain time, and is the father of her bastard child, and two witnesses swear that they had connection with her about the same time, it is not error for the court to refuse to give an instruction that if they believe the last witnesses they should find for the defendant. Altschuler v. Algaza, 16 Neb. 631 (21 N. W. 401).

108. (1903.) An instruction that the unsupported testimony of the prosecutrix should be received with caution and weighted carefully, on the theory that she should be regarded as an accomplice, is properly refused; her interest in the event of the case may be considered, but the instruction should go no further. Gatzemeyer v. Peterson, 68 Neb. 832 (94 N. W. 974).

109. (1906.) Where there is a variance between the testimony of the complaining witness given at the preliminary and her testimony at the trial in a bastardy proceeding, if the defendant requests the court to instruct the jury on this variance as affecting the credibility of the complainant, it is error to refuse such instruction. Quinn v. Eggleston, 76 Neb. 409 (106 N. W. 976).

Judgment.

——— Filiation.

110. (1877.) In an action for bastardy, on a verdict of guilty, it is the duty of the court to adjudge the defendant to be the reputed father of the bastard child, and a failure to do so will render the orders of the court for the support of the child erroneous. Spurgeon v. Clemmons, 6 Neb. 307.

——— Award of support and expenses.

111. (1888.) Where there is considerable delay in instituting the proceedings, expenses accruing prior to that time will not be allowed. Denham v. Watson, 24 Neb. 779 (40 N. W. 308).

112. (1891.) In a bastardy case, where the jury return a verdict of guilty against the defendant, it is ordinarily the duty of the court to charge him with such sum or sums, for the maintenance of the child, as it shall deem proper, and require him to give security to perform the order. Dodge County v. Kemnitz, 32 Neb. 238 (49 N. W. 226).

113. (1903.) The amount which a defendant in bastardy proceedings shall be adjudged to pay is largely in the discretion of the district court, and its award will not be disturbed unless manifestly excessive. Gatzemeyer v. Peterson, 68 Neb. 832 (94 N. W. 974).

114. (1894.) It is not error in a prosecution for bastardy to order the accused, on conviction, to pay to the complainant a specific amount of money for the support and education of the illegitimate child. Clark v. Carey, 41 Neb. 780 (60 N. W. 78).

115. (1894.) Some discretion is allowed the trial court in fixing the amount in which the accused, upon conviction for bastardy, shall stand charged, and a judgment in such case will not on appeal be held to be excessive in the absence of a manifest abuse of discretion. Clark v. Carey, 41 Neb. 780 (60 N. W. 78).

Digitized by Google

116. (1897.) The word "maintenance" as used in section 6, chapter 37, Compiled Statutes, relating to bastardy proceedings, does not include the value of services of prosecutrix' attorneys. Harshman v. Ingwerson, 52 Neb. 116 (71 N. W. 980).

117. (1898.) The amount which a party adjudged guilty in a prosecution for bastardy shall be ordered or adjudged to pay is to some extent within the discretion of the trial court, and its judgment in such matter will not in error proceedings be determined excessive unless there is apparent manifest abuse of discretion. Wurdeman v. Schultz, 54 Neb. 404 (74 N. W. 951).

——— Award when mother dead.

118. (1891.) If the mother be dead the child may be placed in the care of the putative father, in which case no order for the payment of money will be necessary. The judgment, however, continues subject to modification during the minority of the child, and if the child is ill-treated by its father or those having its care, the court upon the proper application, may make such further order as may be necessary for its maintenance and protection. Dodge County v. Kemnitz, 32 Neb. 238 (49 N. W. 226).

——— Bond for support.

119. (1903.) A judgment rendered in a proceeding under chapter 37, Compiled Statutes, is not void because it fails in express terms to provide for the defendant giving security for the payment of the sums adjudged against him, and thereby securing his liberty. Morgan v. Stone, 4 Unof. 115 (93 N. W. 743).

Bond for support.

120. (1902.) After a bastardy proceeding has been prosecuted to judgment, there is no authority for the execution and approval of a bond to save the county harmless. State, ex rel. Peters, v. McBride, 64 Neb. 547 (90 N. W. 209).

121. (1894.) When for the deceased mother of a bastard child the proper county has been substituted as complainant in proceedings under chapter 37, Compiled Statutes, the judgment and order of the court, upon a verdict of guilty, should require defendant to "give security to save the county harmless from any expense which may be incurred in the support of said child." Dodge County v. Kemnitz, 38 Neb. 554 (57 N. W. 385).

Enforcement of order of support.

122. (1882.) The sum adjudged to be paid by putative father is not a debt within the meaning of the constitution, and in case of his failure to comply with the judgment he may be imprisoned. Ex parte Cottell, 13 Neb. 193 (12 N. W. 174).

123. (1901.) A suit against the putative father of a bastard child, is a civil action accompanied by the extraordinary remedy of arrest and imprisonment to enforce a judgment. In re Walker, 61 Neb. 803 (86 N. W. 510).

Compromise of judgment.

124. (1902.) The prosecutrix has no authority to compromise or release a judgment rendered in a bastardy proceeding. State, ex rel. Peters, v. McBride. 64 Neb. 547 (90 N. W. 209).

Costs, apportionment of.

125. (1883.) The court may apportion the costs between the parties. Jones v. State, ex rel. Gibson, 14 Neb. 210 (15 N. W. 901).

Review.

126. (1888.) Proceedings under the bastardy act, where the putative father is imprisoned for non-compliance with the order of the court, will not be reviewed on application for writ of habeas corpus. Ex parte Donahue, 24 Neb. 66 (38 N. W. 28).

127. (1891.) There being no bill of exceptions, and error not appearing affirmatively, a judgment in bastardy is affirmed. Dodge County v. Kemnitz, 32 Neb. 238 (49 N. W. 226).

BATTERY.

See Assault and Battery.

BEER.

As intoxicating liquor, see Intoxicating Liquors, §§ 242, 243.

Digitized by Google

BENEFICIAL ASSOCIATIONS.

www.lawtech.com.cn

ANALYSIS.

Constitution and by-laws, § 1.
——— Waiver of provisions, § 2.
Membership.
——— Requirements and waiver thereof, §§ 3-6.
——— Suspension and reinstatement, § 7.
Change of beneficiaries, § 8.
Right to benefits, §§ 9-12.
——— Persons entitled, §§ 13-15.
Forfeiture of benefits, §§ 16-20.
Right of action against association, §§ 21-23.
Acceptance of benefits as bar of action for wrongful death, §§ 24-28.

CROSS-REFERENCES.

Fraternal and mutual benefit insurance associations, see Insurance.

Acceptance of relief from, as release of liability of employer, see Master and Servant, §§ 60-69.

Exemption of benevolent associations from taxation, see Taxation, §§ 144-147.

Constitution and by-laws.

1. (1899.) The rules and regulations of fraternal beneficiary societies for the creation and payment of their funds to the properly designated beneficiaries should receive such liberal construction as to carry out the benevolent purposes sought to be accomplished. Fisher v. Donovan, 57 Neb. 361 (77 N. W. 778; 44 L. R. A. 383).

——— Waiver of provisions.

2. (1902.) Officers of the subordinate lodges of benevolent scieties have no authority to waive any provisions of the rules of the order which form a part of the contract of membership. Royal Highlanders v. Scovill, 66 Neb. 213 (92 N. W. 206; 4 L. R. A. [n. s.] 421).

Membership.

——— Requirements and waiver thereof.

3. (1894.) Where the acceptance of assessments by a relief department of a railway company, from an applicant, without the required preliminaries to membership, was with the knowledge of the superintendent of the department, there was no question of the authority of subordinate employees to waive requirements, their acts being in such case the acts of the department. Burlington Voluntary Relief Department v. White, 41 Neb. 547 (59 N. W. 747; 43 Am. St. Rep. 701).

4. (1894.) Where a relief department, maintained by a railway company, caused to be deducted from the pay of an applicant for membership, assessments on the basis of membership, with knowledge of the fact that no formal application had been made, and no physical examination had, as required by its by-laws, it is estopped from disputing that such applicant was a member, the fact that it is a mutual insurance company not relieving it from the rules of estoppel. Burlington Voluntary Relief Department v. White, 41 Neb. 547 (59 N. W. 747; 43 Am. St. Rep. 701).

5. (1894.) Where a relief department maintained by a railway company, caused to be deducted from the pay of an applicant for membership, assessments on the basis of membership, with knowledge of the fact that no formal application had been made and no physical examination had, as required by its by-laws, the department was not relieved from liability because of a rule which provided that where an employee had made a proper application and passed a physical examination the department should only be liable during a delay in the approval of his application for injuries or death caused by accident. The department, under the facts stated, was estopped not only from denying that there had been an application and examination, but from denying that the application had been approved. Burlington Voluntary Relief Department v. White, 41 Neb. 547 (59 N. W. 747; 43 Am. St. Rep. 701).

6. (1894.) Where a relief department maintained by a railway company, caused to be deducted from the pay of an applicant for membership, assessments on the basis of membership, with knowledge of the fact that no formal application had been made and no physical examination had, as required by its by-laws, the tender of a return of such assessment did not release it from liability, because liabilities had already accrued against the department from which it could not discharge itself by refunding the assessment. Burlington Voluntary Relief Department v. White, 41 Neb. 547 (59 N. W. 747; 43 Am. St. Rep. 701).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

——— Suspension and reinstatement.

7. (1902.) Where one of the rules of a fraternal association, which forms a part of the contract of membership, is that after suspension for non-payment of dues a member could only be reinstated while in good health, the receipt of her dues for reinstatement by the subordinate lodge's secretary, while she was in a dying condition, was no waiver of such requirement of good health. Royal Highlanders v. Scoville, 66 Neb. 213 (92 N. W. 206; 4 L. R. A. [n. s.] 421).

Change of beneficiaries.

8. (1899.) A member holding a certificate in a fraternal beneficiary society may at his option change the beneficiary therein so long as he complies with the laws of such society and keeps within its limitations, and those of the statute under which it is organized. Fisher v. Donovan, 57 Neb. 361 (77 N. W. 778; 44 L. R. A. 383).

Right to benefits.

9. (1899.) A certificate in a fraternal beneficiary society is a mere expectancy, and the beneficiary has no vested right therein. Fisher v. Donovan, 57 Neb. 361 (77 N. W. 778; 44 L. R. A. 383).

10. (1899.) Upon the death of a member holding a certificate in a fraternal beneficiary society the money arising from such certificate vests absolutely in the beneficiary properly designated by the member. Fisher v. Donovan, 57 Neb. 361 (77 N. W. 778; 44 L. R. A. 383).

11. (1903.) The contract was for "payment for each day of disability by reason of accident," and the regulations provide that "the word 'disability' shall be held to mean physical inability to work." The decision of the medical examiner that plaintiff, who had suffered amputation of a leg by reason of his injury, was "able to work," will not be construed to mean that plaintiff was recovered from his disability, when it is shown by the evidence that the examiner at the same time declared plaintiff "able to do light work at present, * * * but he is still disabled." Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Olsen, 70 Neb. 559 (97 N. W. 831).

12. (1903.) The decision of the medical examiner that plaintiff is "not entitled to any further disability benefits" is a mere conclusion, and is not binding upon the parties. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Olsen, 70 Neb. 559 (97 N. W. 831).

——— Persons entitled.

13. (1895.) No beneficiary having been designated by a member of a voluntary relief department of a railway company, the rules of the department construed and held to constitute his widow his beneficiary. Burlington Voluntary Relief Department v. White, 41 Neb. 547 (59 N. W. 747; 43 Am. St. Rep. 701).

14. (1899.) Creditors have no right to, or interest in, a certificate in a fraternal beneficiary society, either before or after the death of the member, and they cannot participate in the fund derived therefrom. Fisher v. Donovan, 57 Neb. 361 (77 N. W. 778; 44 L. R. A. 383).

15. (1899.) A member of a fraternal beneficiary society has no such interest or property in the proceeds of a certificate therein that he can impress such proceeds with a trust in favor of his creditors. Fisher v. Donovan, 57 Neb. 361 (77 N. W. 778; 44 L. R. A. 383).

Forfeiture of benefits.

16. (1900.) An employee of a railroad company who has accepted from it damages for injuries sustained cannot recover benefits for such injury from the relief department of such corporation under an agreement of membership releasing the company from liability in case of such acceptance. Clinton v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 60 Neb. 692 (84 N. W. 90).

17. (1902.) Terms in a benefit certificate of the Burlington Voluntary Relief Department of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company providing that where members of that department shall elect to accept the benefits provided by the certificate, they must waive all right of action against the railroad company for the injury received, examined, and held valid. Oyster v. Relief Department of Chicago, B.

Digitized by Google

., 65 Neb. 789 (91 N. W. 699; 59 91).

2.) Where the full penalty prestatute has been recovered from o, Burlington & Quincy Railroad for the unlawful killing of one loyees who is a member of the Relief Department of such com-beneficiary named in the certifich employee cannot maintain a ction against the railroad comuch certificate. *Oyster v. Relief
t of Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co.*, 65
91 N. W. 699; 59 L. R. A. 291).

5.) When the certificate of p in a railway relief department provides that the indemnity ovided shall be waived or for-n action for damages against the mpany itself, the terms of the nd not the general rules of law the election of remedies, will the consequences of such an elec-ers v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co.,
(104 N. W. 1066). [See *Chicago,
Co. v. Healy*, 76 Neb. 786.]

6.) The provision in a contract rship in the relief department ny suit at law shall be brought d company for damages arising owing out of" the death of the e benefit otherwise payable shall forfeited, is against public policy ot be enforced. Chicago, B. & Q. ealy, 76 Neb. 786 (111 N. W. 598).

ction against association.

4.) A rule of a relief depart-railway company, that all contro-connection with the department
submitted to the superintendent, sion should be final, subject to es not prevent the maintaining n by the beneficiary of one whose o is denied, since in disclaiming rship before his death the super-was not acting judicially after a a controversy upon the subject, cting in an administrative ca-behalf of the department alone.
Voluntary Relief Department v.
Neb. 547 (59 N. W. 747; 43 Am.
1).

4.) A rule of a relief depart-railway company, that all contro-connection with the department
submitted to the superintendent,
sion should be final, subject to appeal, does not prevent the maintaining of an action by the beneficiary of one whose membership is denied, since this was not a controversy with the department as to transactions between it and a member, but was an action by the widow after W.'s membership had ceased to enforce a liability accruing to her. Burlington Voluntary Relief Department v. White, 41 Neb. 547 (59 N. W. 747; 43 Am. St. Rep. 701).

23. (1895.) If parties to a contract agree that if a dispute arises between them that such dispute shall be submitted to arbitration, refusal to arbitrate or no arbitration is not a defense to an action brought on such contract by one of the parties thereto, as the effect of such agreement is to oust the courts of their jurisdiction, and is contrary to public policy and therefore void. National Masonic Accident Ass'n v. Burr, 44 Neb. 256 (62 N. W. 466).

Acceptance of benefits as bar of action for wrongful death.

24. (1895.) The acceptance by a railway employee of payments under a relief fund contract after an injury and the cause of action thereon has accrued operates as an estoppel to afterwards bring an action for damages for such injuries. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Bell, 44 Neb. 44 (62 N. W. 314); (1900) Clinton v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 60 Neb. 692 (84 N. W. 90); (1906) Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Healy, 76 Neb. 786 (111 N. W. 598).

25. (1895.) The agreement of an employee of a railroad company that acceptance of funds from the relief department shall release the company from liability in case of injury, is not a waiver of his right for damages when he does not accept benefits. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Bell, 44 Neb. 44 (62 N. W. 314); (1894) Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Wymore, 40 Neb. 645 (58 N. W. 1120).

26. (1897.) The agreement of an employee of a railroad company, upon becoming a member of the relief department, that acceptance of relief fund should release the company from liability for damages in case of injury, is not against public policy or without consideration. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Curtis, 51 Neb. 442 (71 N. W. 42; 66 Am. St. Rep. 456).

27. (1897.) An agreement of an employee of a railroad company, that acceptance of a relief fund from a relief department, should relieve the railroad company

www.hbtool.com.cn
Digitized by Google

from liability for damages in case of injury, although made with the relief department, is available to the railroad company as a defense. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Curtis, 51 Neb. 442 (71 N. W. 42; 66 Am. St. Rep. 456).

28. (1902.) The election of the widow of a member of the Voluntary Relief Department of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company to accept the provisions of a relief certificate in which she is the beneficiary does not bar an action by the personal representative of the deceased against the railroad company, under the provisions of section 2, chapter 21, Compiled Statutes of Nebraska, for the benefit of the minor children of the deceased. Oyster v. Relief Department of Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 65 Neb. 789 (91 N. W. 699; 59 L. R. A. 291).

BENEFICIARIES.

Of insurance policy, see Insurance.

——— of mutual societies, see Insurance, XIX, E.

Of trust funds, see Trusts, VII.

BENEFITS.

Deduction of to property from assessment for city improvements, see Municipal Corporations, §§ 380-388.

Special benefits from street improvement, see Municipal Corporations, §§ 466-482.

BENEFICIAL SOCIETIES.

See Insurance.

BEST AND SECONDARY EVIDENCE.

In civil cases, see Evidence, V.

In criminal prosecution, see Criminal Law, X, E.

BETTING.

See Gaming.

BIAS.

Disqualifying juror, see Jury, §§ 254-258.

Of witness as affecting credibility, see Witnesses, §§ 256-372.

Of judge as ground for new trial, see Judges, §§ 15-19.

BIBLE.

Use in public schools, see Schools and School Districts, §§ 273-275.

BIDS.

For state contracts, see States, §§ 130, 131.

On county contracts, see Counties, §§ 344-351.

At judicial sales, see Judicial Sales, §§ 316-324.

At tax sales, see Taxation, §§ 645-650.

BIGAMY.

CROSS-REFERENCES.

See, also, Fornication; Divorce and Alimony.

Unlawful cohabitation, see Adultery.

Validity of marriage, see Marriage.

Competency of spouse to testify against the other, see Witnesses, § 157.

1. (1899.) In a prosecution for bigamy it is prejudicial error to permit the state to reinforce a disputable presumption in regard to the capacity of one of the parties to contract a valid marriage, by the introduction of incompetent evidence directly bearing upon the question. Reynolds v. State, 58 Neb. 49 (78 N. W. 483).

2. (1899.) A married person will not be absolved from the bonds of matrimony by believing, even upon information apparently reliable, that the marriage has been dissolved by death or divorce. Public policy forbids that the performance of the marriage relation should depend upon anything so precarious as the mental state of one of the parties. Reynolds v. State, 58 Neb. 49 (78 N. W. 483).

3. (1899.) Whether in a prosecution for bigamy, an honest and reasonably grounded belief entertained by the defendant in the death of an absent spouse is of itself a complete defense, quære. Reynolds v. State, 58 Neb. 49 (78 N. W. 483).

4. (1901.) The mere allegation or averment of a marriage as a fact implies that the marriage was legal. Hills v. State, 61 Neb. 589 (85 N. W. 836; 57 L. R. A. 155).

5. (1901.) A wife is a competent witness against her husband in a prosecution for bigamy. Hills v. State, 61 Neb. 589 (85 N. W. 836; 57 L. R. A. 155).

Digitized by Google

BILLIARDS.

, Gaming.

on of, by city, see Municipal Cor- §§ 592-594.

www.libtool.com.cn

BILL IN EQUITY.

ity.

LL OF EXCEPTIONS.

eptions, Bill of.

ILL OF EXCHANGE.

s and Notes.

BILL OF LADING.

riers, II, B.

LL OF PARTICULARS.

ading.

In actions before justice of peace, see Justice of the Peace, §§ 142-151.

BILL OF SALE.

As assignment for creditors, see Assignments for Benefit of Creditors. §§ 22-26.

As chattel mortgage, see Chattel Mortgages, §§ 15-19.

See Sales.

BILL QUIA TIMET.

See Quieting Title.

BILLS.

See Bills and Notes.

Enactment of statutes, see Statutes, §§ 1-23.

BILLS AND NOTES.

ANALYSIS.

UISITES AND VALIDITY.

A) Form and contents of promissory notes.
- Draft as promissory note, § 1.
- Parties, § 2.
- Estoppel to deny capacity of payee, §§ 3-5.
- Designation of time of payment, § 6.
- Provisions for confession of judgment, § 7.
- Allonge, §§ 8, 9.
- Memoranda and indorsements, § 10.

B) Execution and delivery.
- Persons liable whose names are not subscribed or inserted, §§ 11-13.
- Delivery, § 14.
- ——— Conditional delivery, §§ 15, 16.

C) Acceptance.
- Necessity, §§ 17-19.
- Sufficiency, §§ 20-23.
- Liability created in general, § 24.
- Acceptance of conditional order, § 25.
- Conditional acceptance, § 26.
- Agreement to accept, §§ 27-29.

D) Consideration.
- Necessity, §§ 30-33.
- Sufficiency, §§ 34-38.
- ——— Consideration moving to another, §§ 39-44.
- ——— Sale of interest in public lands, §§ 45-49.
- ——— Insurance premium, § 50.
- ——— Pre-existing indebtedness, §§ 51, 52.
- Consideration for acceptance, § 53.
- Failure of consideration, § 54.
- ——— Partial failure, §§ 55, 56.

E) Validity.
- What law governs, §§ 57, 58.

Digitized by Google

Validity of assent.
——— Fraud, §§ 59, 60.
——— Duress, §§ 61, 62.
Legality of object or consideration, §§ 63-68.
——— Gaming contract, §§ 69, 70.
——— Compounding felony, §§ 71, 72.
Effect of partial invalidity, §§ 73, 74.
Right to contest validity, § 75.

II. CONSTRUCTION AND OPERATION.
In general, §§ 76, 77.
Parties, §§ 78-81.
——— Accommodation parties, §§ 82, 83.
——— Representative capacity, §§ 84-86.
Consideration, §§ 87, 88.
Interest, §§ 89-93.
Time of maturity, §§ 94-99.
Days of grace, §§ 100-102.
Mode and form of payment, § 103.
Construction of instruments together, §§ 104-106.
Memoranda and indorsements, §§ 107-110.
Effect as assignment of fund, §§ 111-116.

III. NEGOTIABILITY AND TRANSFER.
(A) Instruments negotiable.
In general, § 117.
Words of negotiability, §§ 118, 119.
Certainty as to time of payment, §§ 120-125.
Certainty as to amount, §§ 126-128.
——— Provision for attorney's fees, §§ 129-131.
——— Provisions for payment of taxes, §§ 132-136.
Conditions and restrictions in instrument, §§ 137-139.
Provisions in collateral instrument or agreement, §§ 140-144.
Effect of indorsement or other transfer, §§ 145, 146.
Negotiability of particular instruments, §§ 147-154.
(B) Transfer by indorsement.
Sufficiency of indorsement, §§ 155, 156.
Necessity of delivery, § 157.
Operation and effect as to title, §§ 158, 159.
——— Indorsement as security, §§ 160-161a.
——— Indorsement for collection, §§ 162-167.
——— Unauthorized indorsement, § 168.
——— Forged indorsement, § 169.
——— Transfer of collateral securities, § 170.
Enjoining negotiation of note, §§ 171-174.
(C) Transfer without indorsement.
Transfer by delivery, §§ 175-179.
——— Note payable to fictitious payee, § 180.
Purchase at judicial sale, § 181.
Assignment of note, §§ 182, 183.
——— Non-negotiable note, § 184.

IV. RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES ON INDORSEMENT OR TRANSFER.
(A) Indorsement before delivery to, or transfer by payee.
Nature of liability on indorsement, §§ 185-187.
——— As second indorser, §§ 188-190.
——— Accommodation indorsement, § 191.
——— As surety, §§ 192-194.
——— As guarantor, §§ 195-197.

Digitized by Google

Discharge of indorser, §§ 198-200.
——— Alteration of note, §§ 201, 202.
Indorsement for transfer.
Nature of liability on indorsement, § 203.
——— As maker, § 204.
——— As surety, § 205.
——— As guarantor, §§ 206-208.
Conditional indorsement, §§ 209, 210.
Discharge of indorser, §§ 211-214.
Necessity of first proceeding against indorser, § 215.
Estoppel to deny or limit indorsement, § 216.
Assignment or sale.
Representations and warranties, § 217.
Liability of assignor of non-negotiable note to assignee, §§ 218, 219.
Equities and defenses against assignee, §§ 220-223.
Bona fide purchasers.
In general, §§ 224-226.
Statutory provisions, §§ 227, 228.
Actual notice, §§ 229-233
——— Notice to agent of indorsee, §§ 234, 235.
Constructive notice, §§ 236-241.
——— Matters apparent from instrument, §§ 242-248.
Taking after maturity.
——— What constitutes taking after maturity, §§ 249-251.
——— Extension of time of payment, § 252.
——— Defenses as against purchaser after maturity, §§ 253-260.
Taking in payment of pre-existing debt, §§ 261-265.
Purchasers from bona fide holder, §§ 266-270.
———Purchase by payee, § 271.
Taking as collateral security, §§ 272-277.
Purchase for less than face value, §§ 275-282.
Purchaser of stolen note, § 283.
Defenses against bona fide purchasers.
——— Want or failure of consideration, §§ 284-291.
——— Illegality of consideration, §§ 292-295,
——— Fraud in procurement, §§ 296-301.
——— Duress, § 302.
——— Coverture, § 302a.
——— Alteration, §§ 303-308.
——— Usury, §§ 309-313.
——— Payment, §§ 314, 315.
Effect of cancelation as against payee, § 316.
ENTMENT, DEMAND, NOTICE AND PROTEST.
Time for presentment, §§ 317-329.
Place of presentment, §§ 330-333.
Effect of failure to demand payment, § 334.
Excuse for failure to demand payment, § 335.
Necessity for protest, §§ 336-339.
Requisites and sufficiency of protest, §§ 340-342.
Notice of non-payment and protest.
——— Necessity, § 343.
——— Persons who must give, §§ 344-346.
——— Persons to whom notice must be given, § 347.
——— Service, §§ 348, 349.
——— Time, §§ 350-353.
——— Effect of failure to give, § 354.
Waiver of presentment, § 355.
Fees and cost of protest, §§ 356, 357.

www.libtool.com.cn
Digitized by Google

VI. PAYMENT AND DISCHARGE.
Mode and sufficiency of payment, §§ 358, 359.
——— Renewal note, §§ 360, 361.
Sufficiency of tender of payment, § 362.
Indorsement of payments, §§ 363, 364.
Persons to whom payment may be made, §§ 365-375.
——— Agent of payee, §§ 376-387.
——— Forged indorsement, §§ 388-391.
Application of payments, §§ 392-394.
Effect of payment as discharge, §§ 395-397.
Part payment as waiver of defenses, § 398.
Recovery of payments, §§ 399, 400.
Effect of release of joint maker, § 401.

VII. ACTIONS.
Right of action in general, §§ 402, 403.
Accrual of right of action, § 404.
Joinder with action to foreclose mortgage, § 404a.
Persons who may maintain action, §§ 405-412.
Conditions precedent, §§ 413-419.
Defenses, §§ 420-423.
——— Want or failure of consideration, §§ 424-432.
——— Usury, §§ 433-439.
——— Possession of collateral security, § 440.
——— Payment, §§ 441, 442.
——— Counter claim or set-off, §§ 443-445.
Venue, § 446.
Parties, §§ 447-453.
Limitations, §§ 454-464.
Petition, §§ 465-481.
——— Designation of parties, §§ 482, 483.
——— Allegation as to amount due, §§ 484-488.
——— Bill of particulars, §§ 489, 490.
Answer, §§ 491-510.
Demurrer, § 511.
Reply, § 512.
Issues and proof, §§ 513-521.
——— Matters admissible under general denial, §§ 522-528.
——— Variance, §§ 529, 530.
Process, §§ 531-533.
Presumptions, §§ 534-539.
Burden of proof, §§ 540-542.
——— Execution and delivery of note, §§ 543-545.
——— Ownership of note, §§ 546-550.
——— Want or failure of consideration, §§ 551, 552.
——— Validity of consideration, § 553.
——— Good faith of purchase, §§ 554-564.
——— Payment, §§ 565-568.
——— Authority to receive payment, §§ 569-571.
Admissibility of evidence, §§ 572-605.
——— Altered note, §§ 606-609.
——— Declarations and admissions, §§ 610-618.
——— Parol evidence, §§ 619-640.
Weight and sufficiency of evidence, §§ 641-662.
——— Want or failure of consideration, §§ 663-666.
——— Validity of consideration, §§ 667-670.
——— Duress, § 671.
——— Good faith of purchase, §§ 672-678.
——— Authority to receive payment, §§ 679-684.

www.libtool.com.cn
Digitized by Google

——— Possession as evidence of ownership, §§ 685-695.
——— Payment, § 696.
——— Possession as evidence of payment, §§ 697-699.
Questions of law and fact, §§ 700-703.
Direction of verdict, § 704.
Instructions, §§ 705-725.
Right to open and close, § 726.
Amount of recovery, §§ 727, 728.
Stipulation for judgment, § 729.
Judgment, §§ 730-734.
Reformation of instrument, § 735.
——— Merger and bar, § 736.
——— Payment and satisfaction, § 737.
——— Opening or vacating, § 738.
Attorney's fees, §§ 739-743.
Appeal and error, § 744.

www.libtool.com.cn

CROSS-REFERENCES.

of, see Alteration of Instru- instrument as subject to ate Attachment, §§ 66, 67.

f bank for negligence in collect-check, see Banks and Banking, ls, see States, § 211.

rants, see States, §§ 187-209.

strict bonds, see Schools and icts, §§ 174-197.

ding, see Carriers, §§ 51-55.

of payment of note, see Guar- urety for husband, see Husband of married women on note, see d Wife, §§ 73-75, 156, 157.

premium notes, see Insurance, on lost note, see Lost Instru- on, when lost, as bar to action ereof, see Lost Instruments, § 7.

f note as collateral security, see tender of money, see Tender, n of promissory note, see Trover

ion, §§ 6, 7.

ISITES AND VALIDITY.

d Contents of Promissory Notes.

omissory note.

) A draft, drawn by an au-ent of a corporation, on such or the treasurer thereof in hird party, for a debt due such third party from the corporation, is, in effect, the promissory note of the corporation. National Fire Ins. Co. v. Eastern Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 65 Neb. 483 (91 N. W. 482).

Parties.

2. (1897.) In an action by the purchaser of a note sold to him by the receiver of an insolvent bank under an order of court directing such sale, the fact that the entire capital stock of such bank was held by its cashier at the time of the making of such note, or thereafter, constitutes no defense. Shabata v. Johnston, 53 Neb. 12 (73 N. W. 278).

Estoppel to deny capacity of payee.

3. (1871.) The maker of a note which is in terms payable to a bank, cannot, in an action brought by it thereon, raise the question of its incorporation. He is estopped to deny it. Platte Valley Bank v. Harding, 1 Neb. 461.

4. (1889.) An action was brought by "The People's Bank" against the makers of a promissory note and personal service had on the same and judgment rendered by default. Afterwards the makers of the note took the case on error to the district court, where the judgment was affirmed. Held, That while the name of "The People's Bank" would not of itself show the legal capacity of the plaintiff, yet if the note was given to the bank by that name the makers could not deny its right to bring suit thereon. Bair v. People's Bank, 27 Neb. 577 (43 N. W. 347).

5. (1891.) The maker of a note, payable to a bank, cannot, in an action on the note, raise the question of the incorporation of the bank. Exchange Nat. Bank v. Capps, 32

Digitized by Google

Neb. 242 (49 N. W. 223; 29 Am. St. Rep. 433).

Designation of time of payment.

6. (1893.) Where a promissory note payable in installments, the consideration of which was the procuring of a loan for the maker by the payees, contained a provision that if default should be made in the payment of any installment when due, the whole note should become due at the option of the holder in the absence of a showing of fraud, want of consideration, or illegality in the contract, a court of equity would enforce the contract as made by the parties. Morling v. Bronson, 37 Neb. 608 (56 N. W. 205).

Provision for confession of judgment.

7. (1878.) The following words in a promissory note to-wit: "and also authorize any attorney of record to go into court and confess judgment," was properly rejected as surplusage. Kemp v. Klaus, 8 Neb. 24.

Allonge.

8. (1886.) An allonge is a strip of paper pasted on a note to supply space for indorsements. Doll v. Hollenbeck, 19 Neb. 639 (28 N. W. 286).

9. (1886.) Where note and mortgage are not attached or fastened together; and had they been, there would remain sufficient space remaining blank on the back of the note for endorsements, the mortgage cannot be said to be an allonge of the note. Doll v. Hollenbeck, 19 Neb. 639 (28 N. W. 286).

Memoranda and indorsements.

10. (1898.) A condition or memorandum written in or indorsed on a promissory note by the maker prior to its delivery is a substantive part of such note. Specht v. Beindorf, 56 Neb. 553 (76 N. W. 1059; 42 L. R. A. 429).

B. Execution and delivery.

Authority of partner to issue negotiable instrument binding firm, see Partnership, §§ 98-196.

Persons liable whose names are not subscribed or inserted.

11. (1886.) Where an officer or a clerk of a bank or banking house receives money or securities over the bank counter and issues drafts, bills or negotiable certificates of deposits the bank is liable as principal, although such officer signs the instrument without disclosing the name of the bank. Webster v. Wray, 19 Neb. 558 (27 N. W. 644; 56 Am. Rep. 754).

12. (1886.) No party can be charged as principal upon a negotiable note or bill of exchange unless his name is thereon disclosed. Webster v. Wray, 19 Neb. 558 (27 N. W. 644; 56 Am. Rep. 754).

13. (1901.) With the exception of banks under certain circumstances, no party can be charged as principal upon a negotiable note or bill of exchange unless his name is thereon disclosed. Lewis v. First Nat. Bank of Cambridge. 1 Unof. 177 (95 N. W. 355).

Delivery.

14. (1883.) Where the payee of a note does not accept it for the purpose for which it was intended, but endorses it and delivers it to the maker to enable him to negotiate it, there is a sufficient delivery of the note to the payee. Morris v. Morton, 14 Neb. 358 (15 N. W. 725).

——— Conditional delivery.

15. (1891.) Where a note, executed for the use of the sheriff by a purchaser of property at foreclosure sale, is delivered to a third party to be held until a motion to set aside the sale shall be determined, and such motion is overruled and the note delivered, the payee can recover though the sale is set aside on a petition thereafter filed. Simms v. Bank of Alma, 32 Neb. 607 (49 N. W. 332).

16. (1904.) If the note when executed is by agreement of the parties delivered to a third person to be by him delivered to the payee upon the performance of a condition precedent, and the condition is performed after the death of the maker of the note, the delivery becomes complete by the performance of the condition. Gandy v. Estate of Bissell, 72 Neb. 356 (100 N. W. 803).

C. Acceptance.

Consideration for acceptance, see post, § 53.

Necessity.

17. (1892.) An instrument in the nature of an order for materials not accepted by the drawee does not bind the person on whom the order is drawn to furnish the materials. Crane Bros. Mfg. Co. v. Keck, 35 Neb. 683 (53 N. W. 606).

18. (1894.) An action cannot be maintained by the payee against the drawee of an order upon a fund payable to the drawer where the drawee has refused to accept the order. Patrick Land Co. v. Leavenworth, 42 Neb. 715 (60 N. W. 954).

Digitized by Google

3.) A creditor's order on a ay a third person a portion of ot is inoperative unless accepted
tor. Hopkins v. Washington
Neb. 596 (76 N. W. 53).

) The holder of a draft may ceive any other than a general pay strictly accordinging to its f he take a qualified one he is terms and must submit to the uences. Green v. Raymond, 9
N. W. 881).

) A was a subcontractor under certain sections of railroad, he sublet to C who filed a statuthe railroad. D in the presence ed for acceptance and payment or order drawn on him by A and payable to D in full of all hen stated to A in the presence would not pay it until all the oor were settled and paid off.
an attachment against A and . Held, That there was an signment to the amount called rder. Code v. Carlton, 18 Neb.
V. 353).

) The word "Excepted" writ-the face of the draft by the valid acceptance. Cortelyou v.
Neb. 697 (36 N. W. 159; 3 Am.
).

.) A verbal acceptance of a e drawee is valid and binding eptance was in writing. Farm- ants Bank v. Dunbier, 32 Neb.
V. 376).

eated in general.

) The legal presumption arise acceptance of a draft is that has funds of the drawer in his which to pay it at maturity.
en the acceptor and the drawer, other holder, for whose accome acceptance was given, this may be rebutted, and the true he parties to each other shown.
rey, 8 Neb. 238.

of conditional order.

.) Where an order read as nn H. Erck, Esq., Omaha, Ne-—Please pay to Geo. A. Hoag-r, six hundred and thirty-five of amount due me on contract on of your store building, when was accepted, no recovery could be had thereon unless the acceptor was therein or thereafter indebted to Randall, he having failed to complete the building. Hoagland v. Erck, 11 Neb. 580 (10 N. W. 498).

www.libtool.com.cn

Conditional acceptance.

26. (1879.) The measure of an acceptor's liability is the acceptance itself, construed with reference to the law under which it was given. And where the holder of a draft, payable "ten days after date," took a qualified acceptance extending still further the day of payment, he is bound by the terms of such acceptance. Green v. Raymond, 9 Neb. 295 (2 N. W. 881).

Agreement to accept.

27. (1893.) A person who contracts in writing to accept and pay such drafts as shall be drawn by a party named, in favor of another party also named, upon compliance with certain conditions, is absolutely liable upon drafts drawn as contemplated, irrespective of the condition of the general account between the drawer and drawee at the time such drafts are made. Palmer, Richman & Co. v. Rice, 36 Neb. 844 (55 N. W. 256).

28. (1893.) A contract to accept drafts thereafter to be drawn upon certain conditions, can be made the basis of a recovery by the payee of such drafts, only upon showing full and exact compliance with each of said conditions. Palmer, Richman & Co. v. Rice, 36 Neb. 844 (55 N. W. 256).

29. (1896.) B. & F., live stock commission merchants at South Omaha, wrote to the U. Bank a letter saying: "We will pay H. & M.'s drafts until further notice for the cost or value of stock shipped to us here with or without bill of lading attached." Held, That B. & F. thereby obligated themselves to accept drafts made in pursuance of such letter of credit, provided they were in fact for the cost or value of stock then shipped; the bank in discounting drafts taking the risk of that fact, but the risk being transferred to B. & F. upon their acceptance of the drafts. Burke v. Utah Nat. Bank, 47 Neb. 247 (66 N. W. 295).

D. Consideration.

Consideration arising from gambling transaction, see Gaming, §§ 13, 14.

Right to urge want of consideration as defense, see post, §§ 424-432.

Want or failure of consideration as defense against bona fide purchaser, see post, §§ 284-291.

Digitized by Google

Necessity.

30. (1889.) In an action upon a promissory note, where it appeared that it had been given without consideration, and transferred to parties who were not bona fide purchasers thereof for value before maturity, the defense of want of consideration would defeat a recovery on the note. Fifth Nat. Bank v. Edholm, 25 Neb. 741 (41 N. W. 776).

31. (1896.) A promissory note without consideration is invalid as between the original parties, and cannot be enforced against the maker in the hands of the payee. Sternberg v. State, ex rel. Keller, 48 Neb. 299 (67 N. W. 190).

32. (1898.) A non-negotiable note given to the payee thereof as a gratuity, being nothing more than a promise by the payor to make a gift in the future of the sum of money therein mentioned, is without consideration, and cannot, except under special circumstances, be enforced by action. Ricketts v. Scothorn, 57 Neb. 51 (77 N. W. 365; 73 Am. St. Rep. 491; 42 L. R. A. 794).

33. (1899.) Except as against a bona fide purchaser for value before maturity, want of consideration is a good defense to an action on a negotiable promissory note. Fellers v. Penrod, 57 Neb. 463 (77 N. W. 1085).

Sufficiency.

34. (1898.) Relinquishment by a married woman of dower and homestead rights in her husbands' land is a sufficient consideration for a note and mortgage executed to her. Gruver v. Walkup, 55 Neb. 544 (75 N. W. 1091).

35. (1898.) A promissory note given by the maker to the payee to enable the latter to cease work, but without any condition being imposed or promise exacted, is without consideration and may be repudiated, in the absence of circumstances creating an equitable estoppel. Ricketts v. Scothorn, 57 Neb. 51 (77 N. W. 365; 73 Am. St. Rep. 491; 42 L. R. A. 794).

36. (1898.) The note in suit was executed to the plaintiff by a relative to enable her to live without working; whereupon she abandoned the occupation in which she was engaged, and remained idle for more than a year. This action on her part was contemplated by the relative as the probable consequence of the execution of the note. Held, That want of consideration could not be alleged as defense. Ricketts v. Scothorn, 57 Neb. 51 (77 N. W. 365; 73 Am. St. Rep. 491; 42 L. R. A. 794).

37. (1898.) Where the payee of a note, given to her to enable her to cease work, has been induced to abandon a lucrative occupation in reliance on the note being paid, and has taken such action in accordance with the expectation of the maker, neither the latter nor his legal representatives will be permitted to resist payment on the ground that there was no consideration for the promise. Ricketts v. Scothorn, 57 Neb. 51 (77 N. W. 365; 73 Am. St. Rep. 491; 42 L. R. A. 794).

38. (1901.) A moral obligation to pay a pre-existing legal obligation is a sufficient consideration for a note given in its payment. Fourth Nat. Bank of Cadiz v. Craig, 1 Unof. 849 (96 N. W. 185).

——— Consideration moving to another.

39. (1894.) The contemporaneous lending of money to the husband is a sufficient consideration for the wife's signing a note evidencing such indebtedness, and a clause in such a note pledging her separate estate is binding upon her, although she personally received no consideration therefor. Briggs v. First Nat. Bank of Beatrice, 41 Neb. 17 (59 N. W. 351).

40. (1897.) Where, upon a sufficient consideration moving to himself, a party has given his promissory note to the cashier of a bank to take up the indebtedness of another person due to said bank, such maker will be held liable to one who subsequently purchases said note, even after due; not necessarily because of any right to protection on account of being such purchaser, but because the note could be enforced by the bank for whose benefit it was originally made. Shabata v. Johnston, 53 Neb. 12 (73 N. W. 278).

41. (1898.) Where one makes his own note payable at a future time in discharge of the past due note of a third person, the release of the third person and extension of time of payment form a sufficient consideration to support the new note and a mortgage made to secure it. Morrill v. Skinner, 57 Neb. 164 (77 N. W. 375).

42. (1898.) The promise of one to assume a debt of another in consideration of a conveyance of land by that other to the promisor will support a note and mortgage made by the promisor to the creditor in the promise. Morrill v. Skin 164 (77 N. W. 375).

Digitized by Google

) If A, as an accommodation consideration of his promise gives his note to C for a debt latter by B, the note of A does sideration. B's promise to A t consideration to support A's . Murphey v. Illinois Trust & , 57 Neb. 519 (77 N. W. 1102).

) Where money is advanced resentation and in the expecta- person named will sign a note r, and he afterwards does so, cient consideration as to the r v. Union Stock Yards Nat. o. 801 (89 N. W. 269; 93 Am. .

f interest in public lands.

) Where a person buys school the first payment, and fails interest payments, then sells in said lands, taking a note that his interest in said lands feited the same is a sufficient for the note. Smith v. White, ) The sale and surrender of a aim upon the public lands, to- improvements made thereon, veying no interest in the land nst the government, is a good for a promissory note; the being subjects of legitimate sale. McWilliams v. Bridges, .) Improvements on public roperty, and a sufficient con- sustain a promissory note purchase of the same. Brooks Neb. 503 (14 N. W. 480).

) Improvements upon public statute in this state, a suffi- ration for a promissory note. Jamison, 14 Neb. 244 (15 N.

) The sale and relinquishment te homestead or other posses- on the public domain, together nd other improvements thereon, good and valid consideration ory note. Paxton Cattle Co. v. nk, 21 Neb. 621 (33 N. W. 271; ep. 852).

nce premium.

) A promissory note given in a premium of insurance is not without a real consideration by reason of a clause in both the note and policy which provides for a suspension of the policy during the time, after maturity, the note shall remain unpaid, and a recovery may be had thereon for the full amount of the note, or any unpaid balance thereof. McEvoy v. Nebraska & Iowa Ins. Co., 46 Neb. 782 (65 N. W. 888).

www.libtool.com.cn

——— Preexisting indebtedness.

51. (1898.) A loan made, to secure which a note and mortgage is given, is sufficient consideration for the last of several renewal notes. Saunders v. Bates, 54 Neb. 209 (74 N. W. 578).

52. (1902.) If a note which is given in settlement of a past due indebtedness, and which extends the time of payment, contains a stipulation releasing and discharging all claims for damages arising out of the transaction in which the indebtedness was incurred, the stipulation rests upon a sufficient consideration and will be upheld. Deering & Co. v. Walter, 2 Unof. 361 (96 N. W. 517).

Consideration for acceptance.

53. (1891.) The delivery of property for which a check was given in payment, is a sufficient consideration for an acceptance of the check by the drawee. Farmers & Merchants Bank v. Dunbier, 32 Neb. 487 (49 N. W. 376).

Failure of consideration.

54. (1894.) A promissory note given for privilege of using article not shown to be patented, but apparently open to use by all, is nudum pactum. Schroeder v. Neilson, 39 Neb. 335 (57 N. W. 993).

——— Partial failure.

55. (1880.) The defense to a promissory note was, that it was given for property to which the title had failed. There was testimony tending to show that there was not an entire failure of title. Held, That the plaintiff was entitled to recover for such property, as the title had not failed, and a verdict for the defendant was set aside. Brooks v. Hiatt, 13 Neb. 503 (14 N. W. 480).

56. (1893.) In an action on negotiable instrument, as between the parties to the instrument and persons not bona fide purchasers for value before maturity, a partial defense is available. Lanning, Antram & Co. v. Burns, 36 Neb. 236 (54 N. W. 427).

Digitized by Google

E. Validity.

Alteration of note as affecting validity thereof, see Alteration of Instruments.

What law governs.

www.fbtool.com.cn

57. (1883.) Where a promissory note is made in Nebraska, but payable in New York, its validity is to be determined by the laws of Nebraska. Joslin v. Miller, 14 Neb. 91 (15 N. W. 214).

58. (1891.) A note made and payable in Wyoming by a corporation doing most of its business in Nebraska and secured by a mortgage on property in Nebraska, held to be a Wyoming contract and not usurious, though it provided for fifteen per cent. interest, a rate lawful in the latter state. Coad v. Home Cattle Co., 32 Neb. 761 (49 N. W. 757; 29 Am. St. Rep. 465).

Validity of assent.

——— Fraud.

Defense as against bona fide purchaser, see post, §§ 296-301.

59. (1903.) Where the fraud in obtaining the signature of the maker is established, it is sufficient for the maker to show that he was free from fault and negligence in signing the instrument, and he is not required to show that he is not chargeable with "misplaced confidence in others." (Dinsmore & Co. v. Stimbert, 12 Neb. 433, modified.) Shenandoah Nat. Bank v. Gravatte, 4 Unof. 591 (95 N. W. 694).

60. (1903.) Where the signature of a person is obtained to a promissory note, which he is unable to read, by false and fraudulent representations, whereby he is induced to believe that he is merely signing a receipt, the note cannot be enforced, even in the hands of a bona fide holder, where it appears that the maker was without any fault or negligence in signing the instrument. Shenandoah Nat. Bank v. Gravatte, 4 Unof. 591 (95 N. W. 694).

——— Duress.

Defense as against bona fide purchaser, see post, § 302.

61. (1892.) Defendant had removed mortgaged property from the county without the consent of the mortgagee, for which he was arrested and imprisoned. The defendant and one W. thereupon signed a note with the mortgagor for the amount of the debt and costs. Held, That such note was not executed under duress. Cass County Bank v. Bricker, 34 Neb. 516 (52 N. W. 575; 33 Am. St. Rep. 649).

62. (1883.) One who obtains a note and mortgage from an irregular practitioner of medicine by means of threats to send him to the penitentiary for having made an alleged indelicate, indecent, and injurious examination of the daughter of the former while treating her for supposed suppression of the menses, obtains no lawful property in such note or mortgage, and the same will be enjoined. Hullhorst v. Scharner, 15 Neb. 57 (17 N. W. 259).

Legality of object or consideration.

Illegality of consideration as defense against bona fide purchaser, see post, §§ 292-295.

63. (1874.) If a note be founded upon some illegal consideration, prohibited by some positive statute, no recovery can be had, even though the indorsee may not be privy to the original transaction. Kittle v. De Lamater, 3 Neb. 325. [Overruled. 9 Neb. 31; 67 Neb. 69.]

64. (1876.) A promissory note given in payment of printing certain maps containing a lottery scheme is not void or illegal because such a lottery is prohibited by statute, and the maker of such a note is liable to an indorsee thereof. Kittle v. De Lamater, 4 Neb. 426.

65. (1879.) A note given as an inducement for securing the location of a county seat is illegal and void. Herman v. Edson, 9 Neb. 152 (2 N. W. 368).

66. (1887.) A promissory note given for the premium on an insurance policy issued by an insurance company which had not complied with the laws of the state is void as between the parties to the contract, and cannot be enforced. Barbor v. Boehm, 21 Neb. 450 (32 N. W. 221). [Overruled. American Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Rainbolt, 48 Neb. 434.]

67. (1900.) A contract whereby one agrees not to bid at a chattel mortgage sale is contrary to public policy, and a note given in pursuance of such contract is unenforceable. McClelland v. Citizens Bank, 60 Neb. 90 (82 N. W. 319).

68. (1904.) A promissory note given in consideration of the right to the unexpired term of a license to sell intoxicating liquors cannot be enforced. Padget v. O'Connor, 71 Neb. 314 (98 N. W. 870).

——— Gaming contract.

69. (1889.) A promissory note given as a marginal security for an optional purchase of grain, bought through a "bucket shop" there being no intention of the sellers to deliver the grain, or of the buyers to receive it, is not based upon a good consideration and no recovery can be had thereon. Sprague v. Warren, 26 Neb. 326 (41 N. W. 1113; 3 L. R. A. 679*n*).

Digitized by Google

70. (1898.) A note reading, "six months after date, if elected county commissioner, I promise to pay," etc., is a contract of wager on the result of an election, and on grounds of public policy will be declared void. Specht v. Beindorf, 56 Neb. 553 (76 N. W. 1059; 42 L. R. A. 429).

——— Compounding felony.

71. (1892.) The owner of property stolen or wrongfully taken may reclaim the same, or receive compensation for the injury sustained, and this compensation may be by promissory note signed by sureties; and unless there is an agreement on his part to forbear the further prosecution of the case, or to suppress some of the evidence, the defense of compounding a felony will not be available against the note. Cass County Bank v. Bricker, 34 Neb. 516 (15 N. W. 575; 33 Am. St. Rep. 649).

72. (1902.) If the consideration for the giving of a note is the suppression of a criminal prosecution, the transaction is illegal and void, and no recovery can be had thereon. It is not material in such a case that no criminal prosecution was actually commenced. A promise not to institute a prosecution is as illegal a consideration as the dismissal of a prosecution already instituted. Smith Premier Typewriter Co. v. Mayhew, 65 Neb. 65 (90 N. W. 939).

Effect of partial invalidity.

73. (1886.) When a principal writes a letter to his agent authorizing the latter to draw on him for $75, and the agent changes the letter to show the figure to be $175, one who endorses a draft for $150 on authority of the letter may recover from the principal the amount of the agent's authority, or $75. Wilson v. Beardsley, 20 Neb. 449 (30 N. W. 529).

74. (1904.) Where an illegal transaction constitutes a part of the consideration for a promissory note, the other portion of the consideration being lawful, the illegality of the part taints the whole consideration and the courts will not enforce the collection of such a note in the hands of the original parties. Padget v. O'Connor, 71 Neb. 314 (98 N. W. 870).

Right to contest validity.

75. (1903.) Where the consideration for which a note is given is unlawful, so as to render the note void, the maker cannot be estopped from urging such invalidity by reason of the fact that he knew the payee intended to indorse it as collateral security. Corn Exchange Nat. Bank v. Jansen, 70 Neb. 579 (97 N. W. 814).

II. CONSTRUCTION AND OPERATION.

Liabilities created by indorsement, see post, §§ 185-202.

In general.

76. (1898.) The drawer of a check thereby promises that there is money in the hands of the drawee to meet it, and on presentment it will be paid. Conner v. Becker, 56 Neb. 343 (76 N. W. 893).

77. (1901.) Bank checks are regarded as inland bills of exchange. German Nat. Bank v. Beatrice Nat. Bank, 63 Neb. 246 (88 N. W. 480).

Parties.

78. (1899.) A widow does not become personally liable upon the note of her deceased husband by making a voluntary partial payment thereon. Fellers v. Penrod, 57 Neb. 463 (77 N. W. 1085).

79. (1901.) A "pay check," given to an employee of a railroad company by the paymaster, drawn on the assistant treasurer, and made payable at different banks therein mentioned, is not a check on either of the banks as by a depositor therein. Such check is made payable at the bank specified and not by the bank, and the company, not the bank, is the drawee. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Burns, 61 Neb. 793 (86 N. W. 483).

80. (1901.) An order or "pay check" drawn by a paymaster of a railroad company, on the assistant treasurer, in favor of an employee, is not drawn against a third party, but on the party from whom the debt for which the "pay check" is given, is due. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Burns, 61 Neb. 793 (86 N. W. 483).

81. (1903.) A check made payable to an officer of a bank in his official capacity is to be treated as though made payable to the institution which he represents, where it appears that the maker does not intend that the payee should be a party to it, or indorse it to give it effect. State v. Omaha Nat. Bank, 66 Neb. 857 (93 N. W. 319).

Digitized by Google

——— Accommodation parties.

82. (1895.) An accommodation note or bill, within the meaning of the law merchant, is one which is made or accepted not upon a consideration, but for the purpose of enabling the payee or holder to raise money on credit. Pollard v. Huff, 44 Neb. 892 (63 N. W. 58).

83. (1895.) An accommodation maker is one who executes commercial paper without consideration in order to enable the payee, or holder, to thereby obtain credit. Peoria Mfg. Co. v. Huff, 45 Neb. 7 (63 N. W. 121).

——— Representative capacity.

84. (1895.) A note signed by one who adds "trustee" to his name without disclosing the nature of the trust is the personal obligation of the signer and not that of the cestui que trust. Farrell v. Reed, 46 Neb. 258 (64 N. W. 959).

85. (1901.) A note executed to the plaintiff recited "We promise to pay," etc., and was signed, "Omaha Coffin Mfg. Co. C. A. Claflin, Pres. S. L. Andrews, Secy." Held, That the note was the note of the Omaha Coffin Manufacturing Co. and not the joint note of that company, Claflin and Andrews. American Nat. Bank v. Omaha Coffin Mfg. Co., 1 Unof. 322 (95 N. W. 672).

86. (1903.) A note signed "Globe Loan & Trust Co., H. O. Devries, Presdt., W. B. Taylor, Secy.," on its face shows no personal liability on the part of Devries or Taylor. English & Scottish American Mort. & Inv. Co. v. Globe Loan & Trust Co., 70 Neb. 435 (97 N. W. 612).

Consideration.

87. (1903.) A note in the usual form containing a stipulation on the back that it was not payable until certain land was deeded to one of the makers does not of itself show an agreement to convey the land described in the stipulation, and that such agreement was the consideration for the note. Enlow Cattle Co. v. Ganow, 4 Unof. 513 (94 N. W. 978).

88. (1903.) A note, in the usual form, contained a stipulation on the back thereof in these words: "This note is not payable until the south half of the southeast quarter and the south half of the southwest quarter of section twenty-six, township 28, range 38, is deeded to M. B. Ganow." Held, That the plaintiff, by objecting to evidence as to the consideration for the note on the ground that the note itself showed the consideration, was not committed to the theory that the consideration for the note was such agreement to convey. Enlow Cattle Co. v. Ganow, 4 Unof. 513 (94 N. W. 978).

Interest.

89. (1883.) The payee, or his assignee before maturity, is entitled to the rate of interest provided for in the note, not only until maturity, but until payment unless otherwise expressed, and a statute passed after maturity by the note, and before its payment, reducing the lawful rate of interest, will not affect it. Kellogg v. Lavender, 15 Neb. 256 (18 N. W. 38; 48 Am. Rep. 339).

90. (1889.) When at the date of the notes a contract to pay a rate not exceeding twelve per cent. interest for the loan or forbearance of money was legal, the notes sued on calling for twelve per cent. interest until paid, the decree providing for the payment of interest at that rate until paid, upheld. Allendorph v. Ogden, 28 Neb. 201 (44 N. W. 220).

91. (1903.) Where a note provides for ten per cent. interest after maturity, and an extension agreement is entered into between the maker and holder, extending the time of payment and providing for six per cent. interest thereon during the period of extension, after the expiration of the period of extension, the note will again draw interest at ten per cent. Mutual Benefit Life Ins. Co. v. Daniels, 67 Neb. 91 (93 N. W. 134).

92. (1901.) On a note bearing six per cent. interest, but providing that all should become due at option of holder on a default of interest and bear ten per cent. per annum from maturity, holder not entitled to higher rate till option declared, in this case by suit. Klingenfeld v. Houghton, 1 Unof. 868 (96 N. W. 76).

93. (1903.) A due bill draws interest from the day of its date in the absence of some provision therein to the contrary. Estate of Bennett v. Taylor, 4 Unof. 800 (96 N. W. 669).

Time of maturity.

94. (1888.) A note, "$50.00. Franklin Grove, Ill., July 1, 1878. Ten days after date I promise to pay to the order of D. B. Fisk & Co., Chicago, Ill., Fifty Dollars, at ten per cent. interest from date, Value received. M. T. Minor. No. .. Due Sept. 30, 1878," matures upon the date named in the body thereof, and not upon that named in the margin. Fisk & Co. v. McNeal, 23 Neb. 726 (37 N. W. 616; 8 Am. St. Rep. 162).

Digitized by Google

95. (1889.) An instrument bearing no date of payment, but providing that "on default of prompt payment of the interest for thirty days after it is due, then this note * * * shall be due and collectible," is a negotiable promissory note payable on demand. Roberts v. Snow, 27 Neb. 425 (43 N. W. 241).

96. (1893.) A provision in an installment note permitting the holder to declare the whole debt due upon default in payment of any installment is volid. After default, the holder of such a note is under no legal obligation to notify the maker that by reason thereof he has elected to declare the whole note due. Morling v. Bronson, 37 Neb. 608 (56 N. W. 205).

97. (1897.) When, uninfluenced by statute, a bill or note without grace falls due on Sunday or a legal holiday, it is payable on the business day next following. Capital Nat. Bank of Lincoln v. American Exchange Nat. Bank of Chicago, 51 Neb. 707 (71 N. W. 743).

98. (1897.) When grace on a note or bill expires on Sunday or other nonbusiness day, it becomes due, and should be presented for payment or acceptance on the latest business day within or before the period of grace. Capital Nat. Bank of Lincoln v. American Exchange Nat. Bank of Chicago, 51 Neb. 707 (71 N. W. 743).

99. (1899.) Where a negotiable note secured by a mortgage provides that if default should be made in the payment of an interest note which was likewise negotiable in form, and made payable on the first day of a certain month, for ten days after it became due, the principal and interest notes, at the option of the holder, should at once become due and payable without notice, the option exercised on the 13th of said month was premature. Hartsuff v. Hall, 58 Neb. 417 (78 N. W. 716).

Days of grace.

100. (1879.) In this state, by statute, all negotiable drafts, whether sight or time, are entitled to three days' grace in the time of payment. Green v. Raymond, 9 Neb. 295 (2 N. W. 881).

101. (1893.) Bank checks are due upon presentation, and not entitled to days of grace. Wood River Bank v. First Nat. Bank of Omaha, 36 Neb. 744 (55 N. W. 239).

102. (1899.) A debtor is entitled to days of grace on a negotiable coupon interest note. Hartsuff v. Hall, 58 Neb. 417 (78 N. W. 716).

Mode and form of payment.

103. (1898.) A memorandum indorsed on a promissory note, to the effect that the promise may be discharged by substitution of other obligations of the makers within a given time, is for the benefit of the makers, and if they fail to avail themselves of the privilege or option, within the prescribed period, the note becomes absolute, and a recovery may be had thereon, after maturity, according to its legal import. Western Mfg. Co. v. Rogers, 54 Neb. 456 (74 N. W. 849).

Construction of instruments together.

104. (1882.) A note and the mortgage securing it, executed at the same time, must be construed together as parts of one contract. Fletcher v. Daugherty, 13 Neb. 224 (13 N. W. 207).

105. (1902.) A note and mortgage executed and delivered together as one transaction will be construed together. Provisions in the mortgage affecting the indebtedness itself will be construed with the note. Consterdine v. Moore, 65 Neb. 296 (96 N. W. 1021).

106. (1904.) A note and mortgage executed at the same time and as parts of the same transaction will be construed together, and the purchaser of the note and mortgage will be charged with knowledge of the contents of the mortgage. Allen v. Dunn, 71 Neb. 831 (99 N. W. 680).

Memoranda and indorsements.

107. (1876.) A memorandum written under a negotiable instrument and qualifying it, is to be taken as a part of the contract. Palmer v. Largent, 5 Neb. 223 (25 Am. Rep. 479).

108. (1879.) A memorandum, on the back of a promissory note, stating that the note was to be paid in wheat, is a part of the note. Polo Mfg. Co. v. Parr, 8 Neb. 379 (30 Am. Rep. 830).

109. (1883.) A memorandum upon a note made contemporaneously with and delivered with it, and intended as a part of the contract, is a substantive part of the note, and qualifies it the same as if inserted in the body of the instrument, and with it constitutes a single contract. Grimison v. Russell, 14 Neb. 521 (16 N. W. 819; 45 Am. Rep. 126).

Digitized by Google

110. (1902.) A note for $1,593 and a memorandum on the back thereof to the effect that when the "sureties quit paying on this note or any renewal of it, it is to be cut down to $1,050," construed to mean that the sureties were to be released when the excess of $1,050 had been paid. Mockett v. Boston Improvement Co., 2 Unof. 500 (89 N. W. 283).

Effect as assignment of fund.

111. (1890.) A check drawn on funds in a bank is an appropriation of the amount of the check in favor of the holder thereof --in effect an assignment of the amount of the check. Fonner v. Smith, 31 Neb. 107 (47 N. W. 638); 28 Am. St. Rep. 510; 11 L. R. A. 528); (1898) Columbia Nat. Bank v. German Nat. Bank, 56 Neb. 803 (77 N. W. 346); (1900) Nebraska Moline Plow Co. v. Fuehring, 60 Neb. 316 (83 N. W. 69).

112. (1899.) An order drawn on a particular fund creates an equitable assignment thereof, although not accepted by the drawee. Slobodisky v. Curtis, 58 Neb. 211 (78 N. W. 522).

113. (1899.) A check for a sum greater than the amount the drawer has in his account with the bank does not operate as a transfer pro tanto. Henderson & Co. v. United States Nat. Bank, 59 Neb. 280 (80 N. W. 898).

114. (1900.) An order for the payment of money which is not immediately effective does not operate as an equitable assignment. Nebraska Moline Plow Co. v. Fuehring, 60 Neb. 316 (83 N. W. 69).

115. (1900.) A check directed against a fund to be afterwards created by depositing money in bank does not vest in the payee of the check any right to, or control over, such money until it has been so deposited. Nebraska Moline Plow Co. v. Fuehring, 60 Neb. 316 (83 N. W. 69).

116. (1900.) Where an order for payment of money is not immediately effective if the fund against which it is directed is seized by attachment or garnishee process, the rights of the attaching or garnisheeing creditor are superior to those of the person holding such order. Nebraska Moline Plow Co. v. Fuehring, 60 Neb 316 (83 N. W. 69).

III. NEGOTIABILITY AND TRANSFER.

Negotiability and transfer of bill of lading, see Carriers, §§ 52-54.

A. Instruments Negotiable.

Warehouse receipts as negotiable instruments, see Warehousemen, §§ 7-10.

In general.

117. (1880.) A promissory note is defined to be "a plain and direct enagagement in writing to pay a sum specified, at the time therein limited, to a person therein named or sufficiently indicated, or to his order, or to bearer." And an instrument possessing all of these characteristics is not rendered unnegotiable by containing a recital of fact showing particularly the consideration for which it was given, but including no promise or undertaking on the part of the payee. Newton Wagon Co. v. Diers, 10 Neb. 284 (4 N. W. 995).

Words of negotiability.

118. (1877.) Any words in a promissory note, from which it appears that the person making it intended it to be negotiable, will give it a transferable quality; but the words "negotiable and payable without defalcation or discount," do not of themselves make an instrument, otherwise non-negotiable, negotiable. Hosford v. Stone, 6 Neb. 378.

119. (1877.) A promissory note, drawn for a sum certain and made payable to any person, "or order," "or assigns," "or bearer," is negotiable; but if it is payable to a certain person without words making it payable "to order," "or assigns," "or bearer," it is not a negotiable instrument. Hosford v. Stone, 6 Neb. 378.

Certainty as to time of payment.

120. (1885.) A note in the following form: "October 4, 1882. On March 1, 1883, for value received, I promise to pay Anna M. Wilson or order four hundred dollars, with interest from this date. This note shall become due immediately upon Anna M. Wilson delivering possession to me of the northwest quarter of section 12, town 6, range 6 E., in Gage county, Nebraska." signed, is negotiable. Dobbins v. Oberman, 17 Neb. 163 (22 N. W. 356).

121. (1895.) A note held to be non-negotiable on account of the following condition: "If default be made in the payment of any interest coupon, said principal sum may, at the option of the holder of this note, become due and payable without further notice." Stark v. Olsen, 44 Neb. 646 (63 N. W. 37).

Digitized by Google

122. (1898.) A contract for the payment of money, to be negotiable, must, among other things, be payable at some time or other, though it may be uncertain when that time will arrive. Specht v. Beindorf, 56 Neb. 553 (76 N. W. 1059; 42 L. R. A. 429).

123 (1902.) The agreement in a mortgage to pay insurance premiums and taxes on the property mortgaged, will not render the note which it is given to secure non-negotiable; nor will the agreement that if the mortgagor fails to pay such insurance and taxes, the mortgagee may declare the whole debt due and payable at once, or may elect to pay the same and declare the whole debt due. Consterdine v. Moore, 65 Neb. 291 (91 N. W. 399; 101 Am. St. Rep. 620).

124. (1902.) A provision in a mortgage, which by the terms of the note to secure which it is given, is made a part thereof, that on failure to comply with any of the conditions of the mortgage, the whole debt shall become due and payable without notice to the mortgagor, does not affect the negotiability of the note. Kendall v. Selby, 66 Neb. 60 (92 N. W. 178; 103 Am. St. Rep. 697).

125. (1903.) Incorporation of a collateral agreement in a promissory note, which requires payment to be made of uncertain sums at uncertain times before maturity, and thus renders it impossible to say how much, if anything, will be due at maturity, renders the note non-negotiable. Roblee v. Union Stock Yards Nat. Bank, 69 Neb. 180 (95 N. W. 61).

Certainty as to amount.

126. (1902.) A provision in a note and mortgage that, in case of default in some particular, the debt shall draw a higher rate of interest than would otherwise be the case, is in the nature of a penalty, is non-enforceable, and its incorporation in the note does not affect its negotiability. Kendall v. Selby, 66 Neb. 60 (92 N. W. 178; 103 Am St. Rep. 697).

127. (1902.) A promissory note is not rendered non-negotiable by an agreement to pay the sum named "with exchange" on a point other than that at which it is payable. Haslach v. Wolf, 66 Neb. 600 (92 N. W. 574; 103 Am. St. Rep. 736; 60 L. R. A. 434).

128. (1903.) In order to be negotiable, an instrument must bear on its face entire certainty as to the amount to be paid at maturity; conditions rendering the amount then payable uncertain destroy negotiability. Roblee v Union Stock Yards Nat. Bank, 69 Neb. 180 (95 N. W. 61).

——— Provision for attorney's fees.

129. (1878.) A promissory note, in form otherwise negotiable, is not rendered non-negotiable by reason of containing a clause in these words, "and if suit is brought to enforce collection I will pay reasonable attorney's fees." Heard v. Dubuque County Bank, 8 Neb. 10 (30 Am. Rep. 811).

130. (1878.) A note in form negotiable is not rendered non-negotiable by reason of containing a stipulation providing for the payment of an attorney's fee in case of judgment thereon. Kemp v. Klaus, 8 Neb. 24.

131. (1895.) A note, otherwise in form negotiable, will not be held non-negotiable by reason of a provision therein for an attorney's fee in case suit is brought thereon to enforce collection. Stark v. Olsen, 44 Neb. 646 (63 N. W. 37).

——— Provisions for payment of taxes.

132. (1902.) The incorporating into a mortgage of provisions as to payment of taxes which would be the mortgagees' right independent of such provisions does not affect the negotiability of the instruments. Bradbury v. Kinney, 63 Neb. 754 (89 N. W. 257).

133. (1902.) The agreement in a mortgage to pay "all the taxes and assessments levied upon said premises and all taxes and assessments levied upon the holder of the mortgage for and on account of the same," will not render the note which it is given to secure non-negotiable. Garnett v. Meyers, 65 Neb. 280 (91 N. W. 400). [Overruled on rehearing. 65 Neb. 287, 94 N. W. 803].

134. (1902.) The condition in a real estate mortgage securing a note otherwise negotiable that "the said parties of the first part hereby agree to pay all the taxes and assessments levied upon said premises and all taxes and assessments levied upon the holder of the mortgage for and on account of the same" destroys the negotiability of the note. Garnett v. Meyers, 65 Neb. 287 (94 N. W. 803).

135. (1902.) A provision in a mortgage, which by the terms of the note to secure which it is given is made a part thereof, that the mortgagor shall pay taxes on the premises, and, on his failure to do so, the holder may pay the same, and the mortgage shall stand as security for such payment and interest thereon, does not affect the negotiability of the note. Kendall v. Selby, 66 Neb. 60 (92 N. W. 178; 103 Am. St. Rep. 697).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

136. (1904.) A mortrage securing a note containing a provision that, in case any taxes or assessments shall be levied against the legal holder of the indebtedness on account of the loan within the state in which the mortgaged property is situate, the party of the first part will pay the same, renders the note non-negotiable. Allen v. Dunn, 71 Neb. 831 (99 N. W. 680).

Conditions and restrictions in instrument.

137. (1878.) A promissory note otherwise negotiable is not rendered non-negotiable by reason of its containing a recital in these words. "The express condition of the sale and purchase of this Ohio reaper and mower No. — is such that the title, ownership, or possession does not pass from the said McDonald & Co. until this note and interest is paid in full. That the said McDonald & Co. have full power to declare this note due and take possession of said machine at any time they may deem themselves insecure, even before the maturity of the note." Heard v. Dubuque County Bank, 8 Neb. 10 (30 Am. Rep. 811).

138. (1883.) An instrument in the form on a promissory note, but which by its terms is only to be payable on the condition of another certain note therein named being not paid, is not a negotiable promissory note. Grimison v. Russell, 14 Neb. 521 (16 N. W. 819; 45 Am. Rep. 126).

139. (1898.) A promissory note reading, "six months after date, if elected county commissioner, I promise to pay," etc., is not a negotiable instrument. Specht v. Beindorf, 56 Neb. 553 (76 N. W. 1059; 42 L. R. A. 429).

Provisions in collateral instrument or agreement.

140. (1878.) Although it may appear on the face of the note that its payment is secured by collaterals in personal property or mortgage of real property, yet if otherwise in proper form it is nevertheless negotiable. Heard v. Dubuque County Bank, 8 Neb. 10 (30 Am. Rep. 811).

141. (1902.) A promissory note and the contemporaneous mortgage securing it, are to be construed together, and all persons charged with notice of the conditions of the mortgage are bound by its terms affecting the negotiability of the note. Kendall v. Selby, 66 Neb. 60 (92 N. W. 178; 103 Am. St. Rep. 697).

142. (1903.) A note otherwise negotiable is not rendered non-negotiable merely by a provision for or reference to collateral security. Roblee v. Union Stock Yards Nat. Bank, 69 Neb. 180 (95 N. W. 61).

143. (1903.) When executed together and as part of one transaction, a note and mortgage securing it are to be construed together and as one instrument. Hence, provisions as to the terms and manner of payment contained in the mortgage may be such as to make the note non-negotiable as to all persons chargeable with notice thereof. Roblee v. Union Stock Yards Nat. Bank, 69 Neb. 180 (95 N. W. 61).

144. (1903.) Where a note is negotiable in form and by its terms payable on demand, evidence of a contemporaneous oral agreement, destroying its negotiability, and making the time of payment contingent on the happening of an uncertain event, is inadmissible. Mallory v. Estate of Fitzgerald, 69 Neb. 312 (95 N. W. 601).

Effect of indorsement or other transfer.

145. (1902.) An indorsement upon a promissory note as follows: "For value received I hereby assign and transfer the within bond and coupons thereto annexed, together with all my interest in and rights under the mortgage securing the same, to the Coddington Savings Bank, without recourse," signed by the payee in the note, does not destroy its negotiability. Coddington Savings Bank v. Anderson, 64 Neb. 205 (89 N. W. 787).

146. (1902.) The indorsement upon a note as follows: "Pay to the order of —— without recourse," made and signed by the payee, does not destroy the negotiability of the note in the hands of an innocent purchaser for value, in the regular course of business. Consterdine v. Moore, 65 Neb. 291 (91 N. W. 399; 101 Am. St. Rep. 620).

Negotiability of particular instruments.

147. (1876.) School district orders, drawns by its officers, accepted by its treasurer, and indorsed "not paid for want of funds," are not regarded as commercial paper in the hands of a bona fide holder for value, but are subject to the same defense against an indorsee, as against the payee. School District No. 2 v. Strough, 4 Neb. 357.

Digitized by Google

148. (1882.) Warrants are not commercial paper, and are open to the same defense in the hands of an indorsee that they would be as against the payee. Burlington & M. R. R. Co. v. Clay County, 13 Neb. 367 (13 N. W. 628).

149. (1886.) Coupon notes are incidents to the main bond and dependent upon it for their validity If the bond is non-negotiable, the coupons, though payable to bearer, are also non-negotiable for the purpose of admitting equities. Richardson v. Woodruff, 20 Neb. 132 (29 N. W. 308).

150. (1892.) A certificate of deposit in the usual form issued by a bank and made payable to order or bearer, is negotiable. First Nat. Bank v. Security Nat. Bank, 34 Neb. 71 (51 N. W. 305; 33 Am. St Rep. 618; 15 L. R. A. 386*n*).

151. (1894.) A certificate of deposit in the usual form, issued by a bank and made payable to order or bearer, is negotiable, and a bona fide purchaser thereof for value before maturity, without notice of equities, is protected to the same extent as an innocent holder of other negotiable paper. Kirkwood v. First Nat. Bank of Hastings, 40 Neb. 484 (58 N. W. 1016; 42 Am. St. Rep. 683; 24 L. R. A. 444).

152. (1894.) The negotiability of a certificate of deposit is destroyed neither by a stipulation that it is payable on return of the certificate properly indorsed, nor by a provision that it is payable in current funds, nor by a provision that it shall bear interest if left six months, but no interest after six months. Kirkwood v. First Nat. Bank of Hastings, 40 Neb. 484 (58 N. W. 1016; 42 Am. St. Rep. 683; 24 L. R. A. 444).

153 (1895.) The warrants of a municipal corporation are not negotiable instruments. They do not constitute a new debt or evidence of a new debt, but are only the prescribed means devised by law for drawing money from the treasury. State, ex rel. First Nat. Bank, v. Cook, 43 Neb. 318 (61 N. W. 693).

154. (1897.) Warrants drawn by the auditor of public accounts upon the state treasury are not negotiable instruments. Bartley v. State, 53 Neb. 310 (73 N. W. 744).

B. Transfer by Indorsement.

Authority of attorney to indorse paper for client, see Attorney and Client, § 43.

Authority of agent to indorse negotiable instrument, see Principal and Agent, §§ 152-156.

Sufficiency of indorsement.

155. (1898.) An indorsement on a promissory note, written on the back of it: "For value received I hereby guarantee payment of the within note and waive presentation, protest, and notice," signed by the payee, operates as a transfer of the note, or as an indorsement with an enlarged liability. Heard v. Dubuque County Bank, 8 Neb. 10 (30 Am. Rep. 811); (1883) State Nat. Bank v. Haylen, 14 Neb. 480 (16 N. W. 754); (1889) Helmer v. Commercial Bank, 28 Neb. 474 (44 N. W. 482); (1890) Weitz v. Wolf, 28 Neb. 500 (44 N. W. 485).

156. (1898.) An indorsement of a negotiable promissory note in this language, "Pay to the order of—Mary W. Gaylord," is not a general indorsement, nor such an indorsement as would transfer the legal title by a mere delivery of such note. Gaylord v. Nebraska Savings Exchange Bank, 54 Neb. 104 (74 N. W. 415; 69 Am. St. Rep 705).

Necessity of delivery.

157. (1874.) To constitute a valid endorsement of a promissory note, there must be in addition to the mere act of writing the name on the back of the note, a delivery and acceptance of it by the indorsee. Kittle v. De Lamater, 3 Neb. 325.

Operation and effect as to title.

158. (1888.) Where a negotiable promissory note is transferred by indorsement after maturity, the legal title is thereby vested in the indorsee, and the amount due on the note cannot thereafter be garnished in the hands of the maker as a debt due to the original holder, whether the maker has notice of the transfer or not. Edney v. Willis, 23 Neb. 56 (36 N. W. 300).

159. (1898.) A payee who transferred his note cannot afterward extend the time of payment. Zobel v. Bauersachs, 55 Neb. 20 (75 N. W. 43).

——— Indorsement as security.

160. (1894.) One to whom a promissory note is indorsed and delivered as collateral security thereby becomes the legal owner and holder of said note and may maintain a suit thereon in his own name. Kavanaugh v. Brodball, 40 Neb. 875 (59 N. W. 517; 25 L. R. A. 774).

Digitized by Google

161. (1894.) Where a note assigned as collateral was procured by the payee by fraud, the pledgee can recover thereon only to the extent of the unpaid portion of the debt it was transferred to secure and in estimating such amount, another note pledged at the same time and afterwards surrendered in exchange for other notes secured by mortgage drawn in favor of the pledger, must be treated as having been paid in full. Haas v. Bank of Commerce, 41 Neb. 754 (60 N. W. 85).

161*a*. (1908.) Negotiable instruments may be pledged to secure liabilities arising in the future; but to ascertain what debts are secured resort must be had to the contract of the parties. Brown v. James, 80 Neb. 475 (114 N. W. 591).

——— Indorsement for collection.

162. (1878.) The single fact that a promissory note payable to bearer, was transferred to the plaintiff without consideration, or solely to enable him to bring suit upon and collect it, constitutes no defense to the action. McWilliams v. Bridges, 7 Neb. 419.

163. (1897.) The legal title of commercial paper indorsed "for collection" passes to the indorsee only so far as to enable him to demand and enforce payment thereof. Branch v. United States Nat. Bank of Omaha, 50 Neb. 470 (70 N. W. 34).

164. (1897.) The owner of commercial paper indorsed for collection may control the same until paid in full, and may intercept the proceeds thereof in the hands of an intermediate agent. Branch v. United States Nat. Bank of Omaha, 50 Neb. 470 (70 N. W. 34).

165. (1897.) The indorsement of a note for collection and account does not pass title to indorsee nor confer upon him authority to transfer the note so as to charge former indorsers under the law merchant. Boyer v. Richardson, 52 Neb. 156 (71 N. W. 981).

166. (1897.) The indorsement of a negotiable note for collection and account constitutes the indorsee the agent of the indorser for the purpose only of collecting and remitting the proceeds. Boyer v. Richardson, 52 Neb. 156 (71 N. W. 981).

167. (1898.) A certificate of deposit indorsed by the payee, "Pay to the order of R. C. O., Cash, for account" of the indorser, is a restrictive indorsement, vests no general property to the paper in the indorsee, but merely constitutes him an agent for the purpose of collecting; and parol evidence is not admissible to establish that the transfer of title was absolute. United States Nat. Bank v. Geer, 55 Neb. 462 (75 N. W. 1088; 70 Am. St. Rep. 390; 41 L. R. A. 444).

——— Unauthorized indorsement.

168. (1886.) A sales agent of a harvester machine company who takes in payment for a machine, the purchaser's note, payable to the company, has no authority to indorse such note to himself, and hence his indorsement of the company's name on such note and the transfer thereof to a third person in payment of his individual debt does not give the transferee a right to bring action on the note. Englehart v. Peoria Plow Co., 21 Neb. 41 (31 N. W. 391).

——— Forged indorsement.

169. (1898.) Where a check is drawn payable to the order of a named payee, one who takes the check on the forged indorsement of the payee and himself indorses it, is liable to the bank on which the check is drawn if that bank pays it in ignorance of the forgery, in the absence of circumstances estopping the drawer from setting up the forgery. First Nat. Bank of Hastings v. Farmers & Merchants Bank, 56 Neb. 149 (76 N. W. 430); (1899) First Nat. Bank of Hastings v. Omaha Nat. Bank, 59 Neb. 192 (80 N. W. 810).

——— Transfer of collateral securities.

170. (1891.) The transfer of a promissory note by indorsement operates as an assignment or transfer of a bill of sale given to secure its payment, and the owner of the note, in a proper case, may bring replevin in his own name to recover possesion of the property covered by the bill of sale. Gamble v. Wilson, 33 Neb 270 (50 N. W. 3).

Enjoining negotiation of note.

171. (1889.) There being outstanding renewal notes against plaintiffs, a part of which represented usurious interest, said notes being held by a party having notice of their usurious character, and being about to mature, and there being ground to believe that they were about to be transferred to an innocent purchaser, plaintiffs may take the initiative and proceed in equity and by aid of injunction for relief. Wilhelmson v. Bentley, 25 Neb. 473 (41 N. W. 387).

Digitized by Google

172. (1895.) A court of equity has no jurisdiction to enjoin the transfer or collection of an altered note, since the maker has an adequate remedy at law. Erickson v. First Nat. Bank of Oakland, 44 Neb. 622 (62 N. W. 1078; 48 Am. St. Rep. 753; 28 L. R. A. 577).

173. (1895.) The fact that a party is apprehensive that his witnesses by whom he expects to establish his defense against a note may die or move away, is not alone sufficient ground to enjoin the negotiation of the instrument, since the testimony of witnesses may be perpetuated under the provisions of the code of civil procedure. Erickson v. First Nat. Bank of Oakland, 44 Neb. 622 (62 N. W. 1078; 48 Am. St. Rep. 753; 28 L. R. A. 577).

174. (1902.) In an action to restrain the sale of a negotiable promissory note, so as to cut off defenses thereto by way of counter-claim or recoupment, the amount of recoupment or counter-claim may, at the option of the plaintiff, be ascertained; but in such case the defendant will, if he demands it, be entitled to a trial of the issue of damages by jury. Larabee v. Given, 65 Neb. 701 (91 N. W. 504).

C. Transfer Without Indorsement.

Transfer by delivery.

175. (1872.) If a bill be payable to some person known at the time to exist, and present to the mind of the drawer when he made it, as the party to whose order it was to be paid, the genuine indorsement of such payee is necessary, in order to a recovery thereon by an indorsee, even though he have no interest in it, and the drawer knew that fact. Nor is the case changed by the circumstance, that the party who induced the drawer to make such bill defrauded him in so doing. Rogers v. Ware, 2 Neb. 29.

176. (1872.) A deposited with B, a banker, a forged draft, and had credit for its contents; and, upon his check against the same, obtained B's draft payable to the order of C, a person who was to indorse the draft. A negotiated the draft to the plaintiff for value, and bona fide indorsing thereon the name of C. B, discovering the forgery of the draft taken by him from A, stopped payment of the one he gave. Held, That C was not a fictitious payee; but his genuine indorsement must be shown to support the plaintiff's title. Rogers v. Ware, 2 Neb. 29.

177. (1892.) A draft payable to the order of the payee and indorsed in blank by him and delivered to a third party is thereafter like a negotiable instrument payable to bearer, and the title will pass by mere delivery. Everett v. Tidball & Fuller, 34 Neb. 803 (52 N. W. 816).

178. (1897.) An equitable assignment of a negotiable promissory note, secured by a mortgage, may be made by a sale and delivery thereof by the person to whose order the note is payable, without an indorsement of the note or a formal assignment in writing of the mortgage or note; and such purchaser may maintain an action in his own name to foreclose said mortgage. Greeley State Bank v. Line, 50 Neb. 434 (69 N. W. 966).

179. (1903.) The equitable or beneficial title to a negotiable instrument, payable to the order of the payee, may be transferred by mere delivery and without indorsement. Cather v. Damerell, 5 Unof. 175 (97 N. W. 623).

——— Note payable to fictitious payee.

180. (1872.) A holder of a bill must show a genuine indorsement by the payee before he can recover thereon, but, if the bill run to a fictitious payee, it is as if drawn payable to bearer; and indorsement is not necessary. And, if it be payable to some person who had no interest in it, and not intended to become a party to it, whether such person is or is not known to exist, the payee may be deemed fictitious. Rogers v. Ware, 2 Neb. 29.

Purchase at judicial sale.

181. (1897.) The purchaser of a negotiable promissory note at an execution or attachment sale thereof acquires thereby the interest which the execution or attachment defendant had in said note, and occupies the same relation to the maker of said note as he would had said note been indorsed to him without recourse by the payee. Jones v. Wiesen, 50 Neb. 243 (69 N. W. 762).

Assignment of note.

182. (1898.) A negotiable promissory note may be transferred by a separate distinct assignment thereof, but in such case the transferee will not be protected as against infirmities or defenses which might be shown as against the assignor. Gaylord v. Nebraska Savings & Exchange Bank, 54 Neb. 104 (74 N. W. 415; 69 Am. St. Rep. 705).

Digitized by Google

183. (1899.) A note payable to a party or order may be transferred by the payee, without a commercial indorsement, by either an oral or a separate, distinct, written assignment thereof, followed by delivery, which would render the transferee liable to any defenses against the original payee. Sackett v. Montgomery, 57 Neb. 424 (77 N. W. 1083; 73 Am. St. Rep. 522).

www.libtool.com.cn

——— Non-negotiable note.

184. (1899.) A non-negotiable promissory note is a mere chose in action, as such is assignable, and the assignee thereof may maintain an action thereon in his own name. Barry v. Wachosky, 57 Neb. 534 (77 N. W. 1080).

IV. RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES ON INDORSEMENT OR TRANSFER.

Power of corporation to make accommodation indorsement, see Corporations, § 338.

A. Indorsement Before Delivery to or Transfer by Payee.

Nature of liability on indorsement.

185. (1880.) The intent with which an indorser of a promissory note before delivery signed his name, if not consistent with the circumstances under which he did it nor acquiesced in by the payee, is of no consequence. Newton Wagon Co. v. Diers, 10 Neb. 284 (4 N. W. 995).

186. (1880.) When the indorser of a promissory note has given in evidence to the jury the facts and circumstances of the indorsement, it is not competent for him to limit his liability by a resort to his private understanding of what it is. And whether his intent were to incur the liability of an indorser merely, or that of guarantor, must depend upon the agreement or circumstances under which the indorsement was made. Newton Wagon Co. v. Diers, 10 Neb. 284 (4 N. W. 995).

187. (1893.) A person, other than a payee, who signs his name in blank upon the back of a promissory note at the time of its execution, and before its delivery to the payee, is, as to a subsequent bona fide holder for value, liable thereon as a joint maker. Salisbury v. First Nat. Bank of Cambridge, 37 Neb. 872 (56 N. W. 727; 40 Am. St. Rep. 527).

——— As second indorser.

188. (1898.) Indorsement of a name on the back of a note preceded by the words "notice and protest waived" is notice to the original payee and subsequent owners that the liability assumed is not that of a joint maker. Drexel v. Pusey, 57 Neb. 30 (77 N. W. 351).

189. (1903.) A blank indorser of a promissory note payable to the order of the maker thereof, which is indorsed by such maker and afterwards delivered to a third person as payee, in absence of any special agreement to the contrary, becomes liable thereon as second indorser and will not be held to be a joint maker of the note. Harnett v. Holdrege, 5 Unof. 114 (97 N. W. 443).

190. (1905.) Persons who write their names in blank on the back of a promissory note payable to the order of the maker, which is indorsed by such maker and afterwards delivered to a third person, in the absence of any special agreement to the contrary, become liable thereon as indorsers and not as joint makers, and their liability cannot be varied by parol evidence. Harnett v. Holdrege, 73 Neb. 570 (103 N. W. 277).

——— Accommodation indorsement.

191. (1903.) A note made payable to the order of the maker thereof, and indorsed in blank, creates no obligation or liability against any one until it is put in circulation by delivery to a third person as payee, and, although the payee indorses the note first, one who writes his name in blank on the back thereof before delivery, assumes the liability of an accommodation indorser only. Harnett v. Holdrege, 5 Unof. 114 (97 N. W. 443).

——— As surety.

192. (1895.) One who executes a promissory note as surety for another is not an accommodation maker. Peoria Mfg. Co. v. Huff, 45 Neb. 7 (63 N. W. 121).

193. (1898.) In a suit by a bank upon a note a wife held not estopped from interposing, as a defense, her coverture and her signing as surety. Westervelt v. Baker, 56 Neb. 63 (76 N. W. 440).

194. (1898.) One who signs a note as surety is liable for payment thereof precisely to the same extent as his principal. Kroncke v. Madsen, 56 Neb. 609 (77 N. W. 202).

Digitized by Google

——As guarantor.

195. (1895.) The agreement, "For value received we hereby guarantee payment of the within note at maturity, or any time thereafter, waiving protest and notice of non-payment," is not a mere guaranty, but an indorsement with an enlarged liability. Pollard v. Huff, 44 Neb. 892 (63 N. W. 58).

196. (1889.) One who, before delivery, unconditionally guarantees the payment of a promissory note, becomes absolutely liable thereon upon default of the maker. Huff v. Slife, 25 Neb. 448 (41 N. W. 289); (1895) Flentham v. Steward, 45 Neb. 640 (63 N. W. 924); (1901) McKibbin v. Ripley, 1 Unof. 648 (95 N. W. 1046).

197. (1903.) The liability of a guarantor is separate and distinct from that of the makers and sureties on a promissory note. Anderson v. Hall, 4 Unof. 494 (94 N. W. 981).

Discharge of indorser.

198. (1889.) One who before maturity unconditionally guarantees the payment of a promissory note becomes absolutely liable upon the default of the maker; and the neglect of the holder of such note to sue the maker does not discharge such guarantor, although the maker becomes insolvent during the time the holder neglects to sue. Huff v. Slife, 25 Neb. 448 (41 N. W. 289); (1895) Flentham v. Steward, 45 Neb. 640 (63 N. W. 924).

199. (1898.) The release of property of the principal debtor from the lien of a judgment rendered on a note, without the consent or knowledge of an accommodation indorser, discharges the latter pro tanto. Drexel v. Pusey, 57 Neb. 30 (77 N. W. 351).

200. (1904.) Evidence merely that the payee of notes was aware of negotiations between the signers whereby part of them were to assume the debt, and the other two to be released and that he agreed that such an arrangement would be satisfactory does not conclusively show a release of the two parties, where the payee claims, and there is evidence tending to show, that his assent was conditional upon the giving of new notes, which were never made. Jackson v. Lalicker, 5 Unof. 473 (99 N. W. 32).

——Alteration of note.

201. (1903.) Writing the words "For value received, we hereby guarantee the payment of the within note, and waive presentment for payment, demand and notice of protest," over an indorsement in blank on the back of a promissory note is a material alteration of the liability of the indorser, and if done without his knowledge or consent releases him from his obligation as such. Harnett v. Holdrege, 5 Unof. 114 (97 N. W. 443).

202. (1903.) Writing the words "This note to be exchanged for consolidated mortgage bonds of Nebraska and Northwestern Irrigation Company when issued at 90," across the face of a promissory note after it has been indorsed in blank without the knowledge or consent of the indorsers, is a material change of the note, and releases such indorsers from any liability thereon. Harnett v. Holdrege, 5 Unof. 114 (97 N. W. 443).

B. Indorsement for Transfer.

Release of guarantor by failure to give notice of protest, see post, § 354.

Nature of liability on indorsement.

203. (1895.) When the payee of a note indorses his name thereon in blank and delivers said note to a purchaser thereof, the law in effect writes over the signature of said indorser an agreement on his part that if the holder of said note shall present it to the payor thereof at its maturity for payment and it be dishonored, and that if such holder shall then give such indorser notice in a reasonable time of the dishonor of said note, that he, the indorser will pay it. True v. Bullard, 45 Neb. 409 (63 N. W. 824).

——As maker.

204. (1891.) A payee of a promissory note, who, on transferring it, signs his name thereon immediately to the left of the maker's signature, is liable to an innocent purchaser as maker and not simply as indorser. Dusenbury v. Albright, 31 Neb. 345 (47 N. W. 1047).

——As surety.

205. (1888.) Where the payee of a second renewal note signs his name as a surety on indorsement, in an action by the indorsee against the maker, surety ad the indorser, the latter and the surety of the original note sustained the relation to each other of payee and surety, and not of cosurety. Stump v. Richardson County Bank, 24 Neb. 522 (39 N. W. 433).

——As guarantor.

206. (1890.) Words "Demand, notice, and protest waived, and payment guaranteed," written on back of note and signed by payee, constitute indorsement with enlarged liability. Buck v. Davenport Savings Bank, 29 Neb. 407 (45 N. W. 776; 26 Am. St. Rep. 392).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

207. (1891.) An indorser of a promissory note "without recourse," for value, contracts and engages that the signatures borne by said note as makers, or prior indorsers, are the genuine signatures of the persons thereby represented, and that such note is their valid obligation. Palmer v. Courtney, 32 Neb. 773 (49 N. W. 754).

208. (1898.) An indorser of a negotiable instrument guarantees the genuineness of prior indorsements. First Nat. Bank of Hastings v. Farmers & Merchants Bank, 56 Neb. 149 (76 N. W. 430); (1899) First Nat. Bank of Hastings v. Omaha Nat. Bank, 59 Neb. 192 (80 N. W. 810).

Conditional indorsement.

209. (1895.) Where a note has been indorsed with a collateral agreement that the indorser is not to be held liable for its non-payment and the indorser is afterwards sued on the note, by a subsequent transferee, he cannot recover from his indorsee for breach of such collateral agreement, in the absence of an allegation that he has paid the judgment rendered against him on the note. True v. Bullard, 45 Neb. 409 (63 N. W. 824).

210. (1895.) An oral agreement by an indorsee of a note that he would take it "without liability or recourse on the part of the indorsee on account of its non-payment," is not an agreement not to transfer the note, and does not render him liable to the indorser in case the person to whom he transfers it, forces the indorser to pay it. True v. Bullard, 45 Neb. 409 (63 N. W. 824).

Discharge of indorser.

211. (1871.) An indorser of a promissory note who waives notice of protest will be relieved from liability thereon, if the holder does not notify him within a reasonable time of its non-payment nor use due diligence to collect it of the maker. Moffat v. Griswold, 1 Neb. 415.

212. (1878.) An agreement by the indorsee of a promissory note for a definite extension of the time of payment, in consideration of an agreement by the maker to pay a greater rate of interest than that provided for in the note, is binding upon them, and if made without the consent of the indorser will release him from all liability thereon. Kittle v. Wilson, 7 Neb. 76.

213. (1878.) The defense that defendant was released as indorser, by an extension of time to the maker is a legal one, and should be made by the indorser in the action against him on the note; but if he neglects to do so and suffer judgment to go against him, he cannot afterwards make it available as a ground for enjoining the enforcement of such judgment. Kittle v. Wilson, 7 Neb. 76.

214. (1901.) When a payee in a note and mortgage has sold and assigned the same, accompanied by his own collateral guaranty of the prompt payment of the interest and of the collection of the principal within two years after it becomes due, and afterwards, upon the happening of a default on an installment of interest, seeks and obtains the note and mortgage from his assignee for the purpose of enforcing collection, and thereupon, without consulting the assignee with respect to the methods to be pursued, prosecutes against the debtor remedies of his own selection, he, himself, becomes responsible for any default, negligence or dilatoriness in pursuit of the principal and the same will not be imputed to his assignee. Rice v. McCague, 61 Neb. 861 (86 N. W. 486).

Necessity of first proceeding against indorser.

215. (1882.) The holder of a promissory note is not required to resort to his remedy against the maker before he may proceed to collect it from the indorser. And when the indorser has waived a demand, protest, and notice of non-payment, a right of recovery accrues against him as soon as the note is due. Gibson v. Parlin, 13 Neb. 292 (13 N. W. 405).

Estoppel to deny or limit indorsement.

216. (1879.) The plaintiff, the payee of a negotiable promissory note, having formally indorsed it to her son, who afterwards pledged it to the defendant—who had no knowledge of the purpose for which the indorsement was made—as security for a loan of money, will not be permitted to contradict, or limit the legal effect of such indorsement, by showing the real purpose for which it was made. Cropsey v. Averil, 8 Neb. 151.

Digitized by Google

C. Assignment or Sale.

Representations and warranties.

217. (1884.) One B. having a note of D. in his possession, which he had paid in full out of funds of D. in his hands, afterwards sold the note to W., representing it to be a valid and subsisting obligation against D., and that D. resided near F. in this state, all of which was untrue. Held, that W. could recover the consideration paid to B. for the note. Williams v. Bates, 15 Neb. 565 (20 N. W. 31).

Liability of assignor of non-negotiable note to assignee.

218. (1899.) The payee of a non-negotiable note who writes his name across the back thereof, and sells and delivers the note, does not thereby render himself liable on such note to the holder thereof. Barry v. Wachosky, 57 Neb. 534 (77 N. W. 1080).

219. (1899.) The payee of a non-negotiable note may render himself liable to his assignee for its payment by writing a contract to that effect over his signature; but such a contract would be a separate and independent one, and the makers of the note would not be liable on such contract. Barry v. Wachosky, 57 Neb. 534 (77 N. W. 1080).

Equities and defenses against assignee.

220. (1878.) The maker may set-off any liquidated demand which he held against the payee at the time of the assignment, but claims subsequently acquired, even though they had their origin in previous transactions, are not the subject of set-off. Davis v. Neligh, 7 Neb. 84.

221. (1886.) The consideration of all contracts is subject to inquiry, and the assignee of a non-negotiable instrument is in no better condition than the assignor. Richardson v. Woodruff, 20 Neb. 132 (29 N. W. 308).

222. (1886.) Where a non-negotiable bond secured by mortgage is endorsed and transferred for value before due and without notice to the holder who brought an action of foreclosure, the holder took said bond subject to the defenses between the original parties. Richardson v. Woodruff, 20 Neb. 132 (29 N. W. 308).

223. (1898.) A non-negotiable chose in action is subject in the hands of an assignee thereof to all equities which were of force between the original parties thereto prior to the assignment, but not subject to equities of which he had no notice, existent between his assignor and a third person. Williams v. Donnelly, 54 Neb. 193 (74 N. W. 601).

D. Bona Fide Purchasers.

In general.

224. (1885.) To defeat a recovery on a note it is not sufficient to show that the holder took it under circumstances which ought to excite suspicion in the mind of a prudent man. Dobbins v. Oberman, 17 Neb. 163 (22 N. W. 356).

225. (1885.) A holder of negotiable paper who takes it before maturity for a valuable consideration, in the usual course of trade, without knowledge of facts which impeach its validity between antecedent parties, holds it by a good title. Dobbins v. Oberman, 17 Neb. 163 (22 N. W. 356).

226. (1899.) One who purchases negotiable paper before maturity in the usual course of trade and for a valuable consideration and in igronance of facts which would affect its force as between the original parties to it is an innocent purchaser. First Nat. Bank of Cobleskill v. Pennington, 57 Neb. 404 (77 N. W. 1084).

Statutory provisions.

227. (1876.) Where the statute of a state prescribes certain words to be inserted in the body of a negotiable note, given for a patent right, subjecting it to all the defenses as if owned by the original promisee, if the note is executed in the ordinary form—omitting the words prescribed—a bona fide purchaser of the same before maturiay and without notice, takes it divested of all equities between the original parties, and may enforce the payment thereof. Moses v. Comstock, 4 Neb. 516.

228. (1903.) In this state a statute will not be construed so as to make a negotiable instrument void in the hands of a bona fide purchaser, unless the act specifically so declares. Citizens State Bank v. Nore, 67 Neb. 69 (93 N. W. 160; 60 L. R. A. 737).

Actual notice.

229. (1874.) If an indorsee of a promissary note is implicated in the original transaction, the maker may set up any defense which would have availed against the promisee. But in order to make the latter defense available, it must clearly appear that the endorsee had notice of such circumstances as would have avoided a recovery on the note in the hands of the original promisee. Kittle v. De Lamater, 3 Neb. 325.

Digitized by Google

230. (1890.) Where plaintiff negotiated a sale of property to defendant representing it to be his, and was in fact interested therein, and suggested that the purchase money note be made payable to a third person, who indorsed it over to plaintiff, he does not stand in the position of an innocent purchaser of the note. Salisbury v. Iddings, 29 Neb. 736 (46 N. W. 267).

231. (1890.) Where a purchaser of negotiable paper, before maturity, takes it with knowledge of facts which impeach its validity between antecedent parties, or with a belief based upon circumstances brought to his knowledge before the purchase that the maker had a defense to the note, such purchaser is not an innocent holder, and the paper is subject to the defenses existing between the maker and payee. Meyers v. Bealer, 30 Neb. 280 (46 N. W. 479).

232. (1892.) An indorsee of negotiable paper purchased before due, to be protected, must have purchased without notice of any defenses against the same and have paid the consideration before notice of such defenses. Colby v. Parker, 34 Neb. 510 (52 N. W. 693).

233. (1903.) Although the note does not refer to the mortgage securing it, indorsees who take with notice of its provisions are bound thereby. Roblee v. Union Stock Yards Nat. Bank, 69 Neb. 180 (95 N. W. 61).

——— Notice to agent of indorsee.

234. (1886.) When a note is given in payment for a piano, and conditioned on the piano giving satisfaction, and such note is transferred by the payee to his principal, the latter is not a bona fide purchaser, but is bound by the acts of his agent. Coakley v. Christie, 20 Neb. 509 (31 N. W. 73).

235. (1886.) Where a bank buys a note from a harvester company, and the president of one is an officer of the other, the bank is not a bona fide purchaser, and is subject to any defense that existed against the original holder. First Nat. Bank v. Erickson, 20 Neb. 580 (31 N. W. 387).

Constructive notice.

236. (1885.) To impeach a note in the hands of a purchaser for value before maturity it must be shown that he took it under circumstances showing bad faith or want of honesty on his part. Dobbins v. Oberman, 17 Neb. 163 (22 N. W. 356).

237. (1885.) Circumstances tending to show bad faith or fraud in taking a note are admissible in evidence, and the establishment of such bad faith or fraud, whether by direct or circumstantial evidence, subjects the holder of paper so taken to defenses existing between antecedent parties. Dobbins v. Oberman, 17 Neb. 163 (22 N. W. 356).

238. (1899.) To defeat recovery by a bona fide purchaser, on a note, it does not suffice to prove that the purchase was with knowledge of circumstances which should have excited suspicion in the mind of a prudent person; the proof must go to the extent that the purchase was with knowledge of such cirsumstances or facts as show want of honesty or bad faith on his part. First Nat. Bank of Cobleskill v. Pennington, 57 Neb. 404 (77 N. W. 1084).

239. (1902.) One who purchases a note and takes the mortgage and assignment thereof with the note is chargeable with notice of the contents of the mortgage. Garnett v. Meyers, 65 Neb. 287 (94 N. W. 803).

240. (1902.) When the note and mortgage and an assignment of the mortgage are sold and delivered together, the purchaser will be charged with notice of the contents of the papers. Consterdine v. Moore, 65 Neb. 296 (96 N. W. 1021).

241. (1906.) To defeat a recovery on a promissory note in the hands of an indorsee, who takes it before maturity for a valuable consideration, in the ordinary course of business, without notice, it is not sufficient to show that it was taken under circumstances which might excite suspicion in the mind of a prudent man, but it must be shown that the indorsee took the paper under circumstances showing bad faith or want of honesty on his part. Norwood v. Bank of Commerce, 77 Neb. 205 (109 N. W. 152).

——— Matters apparent from instrument.

242. (1876.) Where the United States, being indebted to the state of Nebraska, drew two drafts upon its treasury in favor of "William H. James, acting governor, or order" and said James indorsed the drafts to McCann, the president of the Nebraska City National Bank, who indorsed the same and the bank received the proceeds therefrom; a portion of the funds was paid to an agent of James who collected the debt from the federal government, and a large part was given to James, some to McCann and others, but none went to the state treasury, whereon in an action against James, McCann and the bank it was held that the drafts were the property of the state and could not be transferred by James except to the state treasurer, and that the face of the drafts were sufficient to put a purchaser on inquiry as to their real owner. McCann v. State, 4 Neb. 324.

Digitized by Google

243. (1891.) A release of defenses, if signed and delivered with notes and mortgage, instead of working an estoppel against the maker, is sufficient to excite suspicion and put a purchaser on such an inquiry as to lead to the discovery of usury. Richardson v. Stone, 32 Neb. 617 (49 N. W. 763).

244. (1892.) The indorsement of a certificate of deposit by the payee before due, "without recourse," is not of itself sufficient to charge the purchaser with notice of defenses of the maker. First Nat. Bank v. Security Nat. Bank, 34 Neb. 71 (51 N. W. 305; 33 Am. St. Rep. 618; 15 L. R. A. 386*n*).

245. (1897.) A bank claiming rights through notes by virtue of a transfer from one to whom they had been indorsed for collection, was held chargeable with notice of the latter's want of ownership. Lederer v. Union Savings Bank, 52 Neb. 133 (71 N. W. 954).

246. (1898.) One who buys a corporation note unlawfully issued is not an innocent purchaser where it appears on the face of the note that the payee therein named and the officer by whom it was executed is the same person. Stough v. Ponca Mill Co., 54 Neb. 500 (74 N. W. 868).

247. (1899.) A statement in writing which apeared on the back of a negotiable promissory note, quoted in the opinion, held not to be notice to purchasers of the note of infirmities of the paper, if any existent. Knight v. Finney, 59 Neb. 274 (80 N. W. 912).

248. (1901.) An indorsement of a draft to a bank "for collection" is notice t subsequent holders that the indorsee is agent and not owner of the draft. First Nat. Bank of Hastings v. Farmers & Merchants Bank, 2 Unof. 104 (95 N. W. 1062).

Taking after maturity.

——— What constitutes taking after maturity.

249. (1892.) Across the face of the certificate of deposit in the usual form, payable to the order of the payee, on the return of the certificate properly indorsed, were stamped the words, "This certificate payable three months after date, with six per cent. interest per annum for the time specified." The instrument was transferred by the payee more than three months after its date. Held, To be a time certificate, and dishonored when sold. First Nat. Bank v. Security Nat. Bank, 34 Neb. 71 (51 N. W. 305; 33 Am. St. Rep. 618; 15 L. R. A. 386*n*).

250. (1894.) A certificate of deposit as follows: "This certifies that A. B. has deposited in this bank $3,000, payable to order of self, in current funds, on return of this certificate properly indorsed. This deposit not subject to check. With interest at six per cent. if left six months; no interest after six months," is overdue so as to charge purchasers with notice of equities after the expiration of six months, and not until then. Kirkwood v. First Nat. Bank of Hastings, 40 Neb. 484 (58 N. W. 1016; 42 Am. St. Rep. 683; 24 L. R. A. 444).

251. (1902.) Where a negotiable promissory note has been, before maturity, duly indorsed and delivered in escrow, with the contract of its purchaser to convey in consideration of it certain land, and proceedings were necessary to enable the purchaser of the note to convey the land and carry out the contract for which the note was taken, the fact that such proceedings were not completed, and the contract not fulfilled, and the note not delivered by the depositary to the purchaser until after it matured, will not deprive the buyer of the rights of a bona fide purchaser before maturity, where he has completed the transaction in ignorance of any defense. Cunningham v. Holmes, 66 Neb. 723 (92 N. W 1023).

——— Extension of time of payment.

252. (1905.) Where, at or about the maturity of a negotiable instrument, the time of payment of the indebtedness evidenced thereby is extended by a written agreement of the parties upon a valid consideration, the agreement being independent of and collateral to the original contract, such extension does not continue the commercial characteristics of the note as live unmatured negotiable paper. Swan v. Craig, 73 Neb. 182 (102 N. W. 471).

Digitized by Google

www.libtool.com.cn

——— Defenses as against purchaser after maturity.

253. (1874.) An indorsee, after maturity, of a note takes it subject to all the equities which existed between the original parties. Kittle v. De Lamater, 3 Neb. 325; (1905) May v. First Nat. Bank of Mendola, 74 Neb. 251 (104 N. W. 184).

254. (1878.) When an overdue note is assigned, the assignee takes it subjent to all equities existing between the maker and the payee. In an action on the note, the maker may show that it was obtained by fraud, or without consideration, or that before he received notice of the assignment he had paid it. Davis v. Neligh, 7 Neb. 84; (1888) Edney v. Willis, 23 Neb. 56 (36 N. W. 309).

255. (1878.) T., the owner of a promissory note, had it drawn payable to K., or order. T. retained possession of the note until after it became due, and received from the maker thereof the full amount due thereon. Afterwards he delivered the note to K. It did not appear that K. paid any consideration whatever for the same. K. indorsed the note and delivered it to C. E. T., the wife of T., who assigned the same for a valuable consideration to D. In an action on the note, the note was subject to the set-off from the maker of the note to T. Davis v. Neligh, 7 Neb. 78.

256. (1892.) Although a bona fide purchaser of a negotiable certificate of deposit for value, before maturity, without notice of equities, is protected to the same extent as an innocent holder of other negotiable paper, if such certificate is transferred when overdue, the purchaser takes it subject to all defenses which could have been made had it remained in the hands of the payee. First Nat. Bank v. Security Nat. Bank, 34 Neb. 71 (51 N. W. 305; 33 Am. St. Rep. 618; 15 L. R. A. 386*n*).

257. (1893.) In a suit on a note by the indorsee thereof after due, against the maker, the latter may set-off a judgment owned by him against the plaintiff's assignor and others, such judgment debtors being insolvent. Wilbur v. Jeep, 37 Neb. 604 (56 N. W. 198).

258. (1893.) Any set-off to a promissory note which would have been good between original parties may be pleaded against an indorsee who acquires it after maturity, as he takes it subject to any set-off which the maker had against any prior holder. Wilbur v. Jeep, 37 Neb. 604 (56 N. W. 198).

259. (1893.) In a suit on a note by the indorsee thereof after due, against the maker, the latter may set-off a past due note owned by him, made by others, and on which the plaintiff's assignor is liable to the defendant as indorser, such makers and indorser being insolvent. Wilbur v. Jeep, 37 Neb. 604 (56 N. W. 198).

260. (1893.) The assignee of a promissory note and chattel mortgage, who purchased them after maturity, holds them subject to all the defenses which could have been made by the maker had they remained in the hands of the original payee or holder. Roberson v. Reiter, 38 Neb. 198 (56 N. W. 877).

Taking in payment of pre-existing debt.

261. (1882.) R. bought a lot of F. taking a warranty deed therefor, securing payment for the same by notes and mortgage. At the request of F. the notes and mortgage were drawn payable to V. It turned out that there was a prior mortgage on said lot, executed by F., which was foreclosed, and R. evicted. On suit brought by V. against R. on the notes, held, that the equitable defense by R. was not cut off by reason of V. having received said notes of F. in payment of a pre-existing indebtedness. Vorce v. Rosenberry, 12 Neb. 448 (11 N. W. 879).

262. (1894.) It seems that one who takes the negotiable paper of a third person in payment of a pre-existing debt is a holder for value. This is certainly true where by taking the note the creditor loses or postpones his right to proceed upon the original indebtedness. Barker v. Lichtenberger, 41 Neb. 751 (60 N. W. 79).

263. (1897.) Where the payee of a negotiable note indorses and delivers it to his creditor to secure the payment of a debt owing to latter, the creditor becomes an innocent holder of the note and acquires a lien thereon for the amount of his debt, provided he took it before maturity, without notice of any defenses thereto. Jones v. Wiesen, 50 Neb. 243 (69 N. W. 762).

264. (1902.) The indorsee of negotiable paper before due and without notice of defenses, as collateral security for an antecedent debt, is a bona fide holder thereof for value within the meaning of the law merchant. Lashmett v. Prall, 2 Unof. 284 (96 N. W. 152).

Digitized by Google

265. (1903.) An indorsee of a negotiable instrument, who takes it before maturity in part payment of a pre-existing debt, and credits it thereon, is a purchaser of value in the due course of business. Smith v. Thompson, 67 Neb. 527 (93 N. W. 678).

www.fbtool.com.cn

Purchasers from bona fide holders.

266. (1891.) When a negotiable note is purchased after maturity from an innocent holder for value, the purchaser takes it free from all equities and defenses that existed between the original parties to the paper. Koehler v. Dodge, 31 Neb. 328 (47 N. W. 913; 28 Am. St. Rep. 518).

267. (1894.) When negotiable paper is purchased after maturity from an innocent holder for value before maturity, the purchaser takes it free from all equities and defenses which existed between the original parties. Barker v. Lichtenberger, 41 Neb. 751 (60 N. W. 79).

268. (1897.) One who purchases for value a negotiable note, either before or after its maturity, with knowledge of a defense thereto, is entitled to enforce the collection of the entire note, provided his assignor was an innocent purchaser, before due, for value, in the usual course of business. Jones v. Wiesen, 50 Neb. 243 (69 N. W. 762).

269. (1897.) Where a creditor of the payer of a note takes an assignment thereof before maturity to secure the debt, and thereby becomes a bona fide holder, if another creditor of the payee, to secure his debt, pays the claim of the indorsee and takes an assignment of the note, he will, by such transaction, acquire the same lien and title to the note which his indorser had, whether the second creditor acquired it before or after maturity, and with or without knowledge of defenses existing against the note. Jones v. Wiesen, 50 Neb. 243 (69 N. W. 762).

270. (1899.) One who purchases a negotiable note from an innocent holder acquires a title free from equities existing between the original parties. Knight v. Pinney, 59 Neb. 274 (80 N. W. 912).

——Purchase by payee.

271. (1891.) An exception to the rule that a purchaser after maturity, for value, from an innocent holder for value takes it free from equities, is where the payee becomes such purchaser. He is not within the protection of the rule applicable to innocent holders. Koehler v. Dodge, 31 Neb. 328 (47 N. W. 913; 28 Am. St. Rep. 518).

Taking as collateral security.

272. (1889.) Where a negotiable promissory note is transferred before due, as collateral security for a loan then made, and is received by the indorsee without notice of any defense existing against it in the hands of the indorser, he is entitled to be treated as a bona fide holder and protected, at least to the extent of the loan. Helmer v. Commercial Bank, 28 Neb. 474 (44 N. W. 482).

273. (1891.) If a negotiable note is indorsed and transferred before due, as collateral security for a loan of money then made, the pledgee, who receives the paper without notice of any defense, is a holder for value in the usual course of business. Koehler v. Dodge, 31 Neb. 328 (47 N. W. 913; 28 Am. St. Rep. 518).

274. (1895.) One who receives as collateral security for a loan contemporaneously made, negotiable bonds not due, without knowledge of any defense thereto, is to the extent of the loan entitled to protection as a bona fide purchaser. Hayden v. Lincoln Street R. Co., 43 Neb. 680 (62 N. W. 73).

275. (1901.) Where a negotiable promissory note is indorsed and transferred before due, as collateral security for a loan of money then made, the pledgee without notice is a holder for value. Connecticut Trust & Safe Deposit Co. v. Fletcher, 61 Neb. 166 (85 N. W. 59).

276. (1902.) The indorsee of negotiable paper before due and without notice of defenses, as collateral security for an antecedent debt, is a bona fide holder thereof for value within the meaning of the law merchant. Lashmett v. Prall, 2 Unof. 284 (96 N. W. 152).

277. (1902.) Where a negotiable promissory note is indorsed and transferred, before due, as collateral security for a loan of money then made, the pledgee without notice is a holder for value. Connecticut Trust & Safe Deposit Co. v. Trumbo, 2 Unof. 850 (90 N. W. 216).

277*a*. (1908.) A note pledged before maturity as security for a loan made to the payee or owner is good in the hands of the transferee, who had no notice of equities between the original parties. Brown v. James, 80 Neb. 475 (114 N. W. 591).

Digitized by Google

www.tiptoot.com.cn

Purchase for less than face value.

278. (1881.) The mere fact that one purchases a negotiable promissory note before maturity, for about one-half the face value, there being evidence tending to show that he did not regard the note as good (collectible), and no evidence showing it to be worth more, is not sufficient to put the purchaser on inquiry as to the consideration. Cannon v. Canfield, 11 Neb. 506 (9 N. W. 693).

279. (1881.) Purchaser of notes for inadequate consideration is not to be bona fide purchaser. Smith v. Jansen, 12 Neb. 125 (10 N. W. 537; 42 Am. Rep. 761).

280. (1882.) Where a note is purchased before maturity for three-fifths face value, there being no testimony tending to show actual value; the purchase is bona fide. Citizens Bank v. Ryman, 12 Neb. 541 (11 N. W. 850).

281. (1889.) Where notes given for grossly usurious interest are transferred to a bona fide holder for one-half their face value, the purchaser claiming that the security might be inadequate, the same rule will be applied as where the original consideration was wholly fraudulent, and the purchaser may recover only the amount actually paid, with legal interest. Cheney v. Campbell, 28 Neb. 376 (44 N. W. 451).

282. (1891.) Where a payee of a note indorsed it in blank and delivered it to another to effect a trade, and the indorsee sells the note for his own benefit at two-thirds of its face value and there is a subsequent discharge of the note by the payee, the last purchaser can recover from the payee only to the extent of the consideration paid with interest. Faulkner v. White, 33 Neb. 199 (49 N. W. 1122).

Purchaser of stolen note.

283. (1879.) The bona fide holder can recover upon the paper, although it came to him from a person who had stolen it from the true owner, provided he took it innocently, in the course of trade, for a valuable consideration and not overdue, and under circumstances of due caution. Wortendyke v. Meehan, 9 Neb. 221 (2 N. W. 339).

Defenses against bona fide purchasers. ——Want or failure of consideration.

284. (1878.) I., the president of a national bank in Nebraska City, obtained from K., in the city of Omaha, his (K.'s) promissory note for the sum of $2,000 payable to I., or order and payable on demand, for the purpose of purchasing stock in the bank of which he was president. I. procured the note to be discounted by his bank, and had the proceeds thereof placed to his credit therein, and he afterwards drew the same out by checks on the bank. None of the officers of the bank, except the president, were aware of the character of the note, or that it had been given for stock. Held, in an action on the note, that the bank was entitled to recover. Kennedy v. Otoe County Nat. Bank, 7 Neb. 59.

285. (1880.) The maker of a note, given for the purchase of an organ, cannot set up, as a defense thereto, the worthless character of the organ, without first showing that the holder is not a bona fide purchaser. Western Cottage Organ Co. v. Boyle, 10 Neb. 409 (6 N. W. 473).

286. (1892.) Where the consideration for a note is a jack warranted to be a sure foal-getter and proving not to be such, that defense cannot be set up against an indorsee before maturity, knowing of the warranty but not of its failure. Rublee v. Davis, 33 Neb. 779 (51 N. W. 135; 29 Am. St. Rep. 509).

287. (1893.) The failure of consideration for a negotiable instrument is no defense to an action by bona fide purchasers without notice. Lanning, Antram & Co. v. Burns, 36 Neb. 236 (54 N. W. 427).

288. (1896.) A lack of consideration is no defense to negotiable paper in the hands of an innocent purchaser for value in the usual course of business before maturity. Blue Valley Lumber Co. v. Smith, 48 Neb. 293 (67 N. W. 159)

289. (1898.) Where one gave his note in renewal of his past due note which had been given partly in consideration of the conveyance to him of certain lots by payee, such maker cannot defeat an action on the renewal note, in the hands of an assignee thereof before due, by showing that, at the time said renewal note was executed, payee promised to cause improvements to be made which would enhance the value of the lots; the time fixed for the performance of such promise being subsequent to the date when the note was assigned to plaintiff. Nebraska Nat. Bank v. Pennock, 55 Neb. 188 (75 N. W. 554).

Digitized by Google

290. (1898.) A mortgagee who in consideration therefor agreed to pay a prior mortgage, paid the amount thereof to a person not authorized to receive payment, and who did not account to the holder. Suit was begun to foreclose the first mortgage. After such suit was begun, but before A had answered and before the record disclosed the connection between the two mortgages, B sold his note and mortgage to a stranger without notice, and before the note secured by the mortgage had matured. Held, That the failure of consideration for the second was not an available defense as against the innocent purchaser. Campbell v. O'Connor, 55 Neb. 638 (76 N. W. 167).

291. (1902.) That a promissory note was executed by way of accommodation, is a good defense as against the payee, but not as against the indorsee, from whom money was obtained by virtue thereof, even though he had notice of the relation of the parties to each other. Baker v. Union Stock Yards Nat. Bank, 63 Neb. 801 (89 N. W. 269; 93 Am. St. Rep. 484).

——Illegality of consideration.

292. (1879.) Illegality of consideration constitutes no defense to a promissory note in the hands of a bona fide holder for value before maturity. Smith v. Columbus State Bank, 9 Neb. 31 (1 N. W. 893).

293. (1879.) An answer, to an action on a promissory note, that the note was given in consideration that the payee desist from instituting criminal prosecution against the maker for certain felonies he was accused of having committed, constitutes no defense as against an indorsee in due course. Smith v. Columbus State Bank, 9 Neb. 31 (1 N. W. 893).

294. (1879.) If a note is not declared void by statute, mere illegality in its consideration will not affect the rights of a bona fide purchaser for value. Wortendyke v. Meehan, 9 Neb. 221 (2 N. W. 339).

295. (1903.) A note given for medical services by an unlicensed practioner may be recovered on by a bona fide purchaser, notwithstanding the provisions of chapter 55 of the Compiled Statutes, prohibiting the practice of medicine without a license. Citizens State Bank v. Nore, 67 Neb. 69 (93 N. W. 160; 60 L. R. A. 737).

——Fraud in procurement.

296. (1876.) If the signature of an illiterate person be obtained to a promissory note by fraudulently inducing him to believe that he is signing a different instrument, with no fault on his part, such note will be void even in the hands of a bona fide holder. First Nat. Bank of Omaha v. Lierman, 5 Neb. 247.

297. (1882.) To enable a party to resist the payment of a negotiable note in the hands of a bona fide purchaser before maturity, on the ground that the said note was procured through the fraud and circumvention of the payees in some way or manner unknown to him, he must show that he is not chargeable with any laches or negligence, or misplaced confidence in others. Dinsmore v. Stimbert, 12 Neb. 433 (11 N. W. 872).

298. (1892.) When the signature of an illiterate person is obtained to a promissory note by the payee fraudulently inducing him to believe that he is signing an instrument of an entirely different character, without any fault or negligence of the maker, the note cannot be enforced, even in the hands of a bona fide holder. Willard v. Nelson, 35 Neb. 651 (53 N. W. 572; 37 Am. St. Rep. 455).

299. (1893.) A defense that the execution of a note was fraudulently obtained, cannot be urged against a bona fide indorsee thereof. Reuber v. Crawford, 36 Neb. 334 (54 N. W. 549).

300. (1901.) Where an impostor assumes the name of another person, and thereby induces a third person to believe he is the person whose name he has assumed; and, acting on such belief, such third person indorses a draft, designating the payee by the name assumed by the impostor, and delivers it to such impostor in the belief that he is dealing with the person whose name has been assumed, and the impostor indorses the draft, using such assumed name, and transfers it to an innocent purchaser, the purchaser takes title by such indorsement. Hoffman v. American Exchange Nat. Bank, 2 Unof. 222 (96 N. W. 112).

301. (1903.) Fraud whereby a person is induced to sign a note in the belief that he is signing merely a receipt, may be urged as a defense even as against a bona fide purchaser. Shenandoah Nat. Bank v. Gravatte, 4 Unof. 591 (95 N. W. 694).

www.hptool.com.cn
Digitized by Google

——— Duress.

302. (1901.) The defense that a note was obtained by duress is not available against a good faith purchaser thereof for value before maturity. Wilson v. Neu, 1 Unof. 42 (95 N. W. 502).

www.libtool.com.cn

——— Coverture.

302*a*. (1908.) A purchaser for value, before maturity, of a promissory note, signed by a married woman, cannot invoke the rule of innocent purchaser, as against the defense of coverture at the time he purchased such note. Northwall Co. v. Osgood, 80 Neb. 764 (115 N. W. 308).

——— Alteration.

303. (1876.) The removal of the words "this note is given upon condition," there being nothing to show what the condition was, does not vitiate the instrument in the hands of a bona fide purchaser. Palmer v. Largent, 5 Neb. 223 (25 Am. Rep. 479).

304. (1876.) The fraudulent removal of a memorandum, written under a negotiable instrument and qualifying it, vitiates the instrument, even in the hands of a bona fide purchaser. Palmer v. Largent, 5 Neb. 223 (25 Am. Rep. 479).

305. (1879.) The alteration of a promissory note in any material part renders it invalid as such as against a party not consenting thereto, even in the hands of an innocent purchaser. State Savings Bank v. Shaffer, 9 Neb. 1 (1 N. W. 980; 31 Am. Rep. 394).

306. (1879.) The assignment by the payee of an altered note transfers to the assignee all the rights of the assignor to the original consideration. State Savings Bank v. Shaffer, 9 Neb. 1 (1 N. W. 980; 31 Am. Rep. 394).

307. (1882.) If a contract upon the same paper with a negotiable promissory note, which contract modifies and qualifies it, be detached from the note, the note will be invalid even in the hands of an innocent purchaser. Davis v. Henry, 13 Neb. 497 (14 N. W. 523).

308. (1904.) The alteration of a negotiable promissory note, after delivery, by filling in blanks left therein, where there is nothing on the face of the note to indicate such alteration, will not invalidate the note in the hands of a bona fide endorsee, for value, before maturity and without notice of such change. Humphrey Hardware Co. v. Herrick, 72 Neb. 878 (101 N. W. 1016).

——— Usury.

309. (1880.) S. and wife executed and delivered a negotiable note upon an usurious consideration. The payee indorsed and delivered the same to the plaintiff, before due, and without notice, for the face value thereof less ten per cent. for the immature time. Held, That the plaintiff was entitled to recover. State Savings Bank v. Scott. 10 Neb. 83 (4 N. W. 314).

310. (1883.) A negotiable promissory note secured by mortgage, transferred to a bona fide purchaser without notice before due, and for value, is not subject to the defense of usury. Cheney v. Cooper, 14 Neb. 415 (16 N. W. 471).

311. (1883.) Where a note and mortgage are indorsed and delivered to the plaintiff before maturity and received by the plaintiff for value in the ordinary course of business, without notice of any infirmity, he holds the same free from the taint of usury. State Nat. Bank v. Haylen, 14 Neb. 480 (16 N. W. 754).

312. (1884.) An usurious note transferred to a bona fide purchaser before maturity, for value, without notice, is not open to the defense of usury. Evans v. De Roe, 15 Neb. 630 (20 N. W. 99).

313. (1886.) Where a promissory note secured by mortgage based in part upon an usurious consideration is transferred before maturity to a bona fide purchaser for value, without notice, and in the usual course of business, he takes it free from the defense of usury. Sedgwick v. Dixon, 18 Neb. 545 (26 N. W. 247).

——— Payment.

314. (1883.) An accommodation note indorsed by the payee and delivered to one of the makers before due to be negotiated, it is not prsumed to have been paid and a person purchasing the same in good faith, may recover thereon. Morris v. Morton, 14 Neb. 358 (15 N. W. 725).

315. (1895.) Where a negotiable promissory note has been before maturity indorsed to a third person, the maker of the note must, in order to avail himself of the defense of payment before the indorsement, plead and prove that the plaintiff had no tice of such payment before the indorsement. Yenney v. Central City Bank, 44 Neb. 402 (62 N. W. 872).

Digitized by Google

Effect of cancelation as against payee.

316. (1886.) Where an action is brought against a mortgagee to cancel certain promissory notes and a mortgage to secure the same upon real estate, and a decree is obtained against such mortgagee, a bona fide purchaser before maturity of such notes without notice, who was the owner of the same when the action was brought and was not made a party to the action, will not be affected by the decree. Cheney v. Jansen, 20 Neb. 128 (29 N. W. 289).

www.libtool.com.cn

V. PRESENTMENT, DEMAND, NOTICE AND PROTEST.

Presentment of negotiable instrument for payment on holiday, see Holidays, §§ 9, 10.

Presentment or demand of note falling due on Sunday, see Sunday §§ 318, 327.

Time for presentment.

317. (1883.) Where sight drafts were purchased under an agreement that if not used for a specified purpose they could be returned to the bank drawing the same and credit given, the drafts being drawn in April, the drawee being solvent until July of that year, but no presentment was made at any time, nor any offer to return the drafts to the bank until the succeeding December, held, that as the drafts had neither been presented nor returned to the bank in a reasonable time the holder must bear the loss. Collingwood v. Merchants Bank, 15 Neb. 118 (17 N. W. 359).

318. (1891.) Under the provisions of section 8, chapter 41, Compiled Statutes, legal holidays and Sundays are grouped together so far "as regards the presenting for payment or acceptance and the protesting and giving notice of the dishonor of bills of exchange, bank checks, or promissory notes," and where the third day of grace falls on Sunday, presentment or demand on the following Monday will be sufficient. First Nat. Bank of Hastings v. McAllister, 33 Neb. 646 (40 N. W. 1040). [Overruled. Capital Nat. Bank v. American Exchange Nat. Bank of Chicago, 51 Neb. 707.]

319. (1892.) Where a check is drawn on a bank and sent in a letter to a creditor who indorsed it to his banker, for its face value, and such indorsee sends it on to the drawee bank, as had been the usual custom, such drawee bank issuing a draft therefor on another bank in which it had no funds, and in the meantime the drawee bank fails, the indorser having used due diligence, the drawer is liable to the amount of the check. Nebraska Nat. Bank of Omaha v. Logan, 35 Neb. 182 (52 N. W. 808).

320. (1893.) No custom or usage among bankers as to the manner of presenting ordinary checks for payment will relieve them from the legal duty of presenting such checks for payment within a reasonable time. First Nat. Bank of Wymore v. Miller, 37 Neb. 500 (55 N. W. 1064; 40 Am. St. Rep. 499).

321. (1893.) An ordinary check is not designed for circulation, but for immediate presentment, and to charge an indorser must be presented with all due dispatch and diligence consistent with the transaction of other commercial business. First Nat. Bank of Wymore v. Miller, 37 Neb. 500 (55 N. W. 1064; 40 Am. St. Rep. 499); (1897) Western Wheeled Scraper Co. v. Sadilek, 50 Neb. 105 (69 N. W. 765; 61 Am. St. Rep. 550).

322. (1895.) To charge an indorser of an ordinary check it must be presented with all due dispatch and diligence consistent with the transaction of other commercial business, and whether such diligence has been used must be determined from the facts of each case. First Nat. Bank of Wymore v. Miller, 43 Neb. 791 (62 N. W. 195).

323. (1893.) Greater diligence is required in presenting ordinary checks for payment than in presenting bills of exchange. Whether an ordinary check has been presented for payment by the indorsee thereof in such a reasonable time as to hold the indorser must be determined from the facts and circumstances of each particular case. First Nat. Bank of Wymore v. Miller, 37 Neb. 500 (55 N. W. 1064; 40 Am. St. Rep. 499).

324. (1893.) Where the payee of a check drawn on a bank in Cortland deposits the same in a bank in Wymore, twenty-seven miles from Wymore, and having direct mail and telegraph connections, and the bank at Wymore sends the check to a bank at St. Joseph, Mo., which in turn sends it to Omaha, it reaching the drawer six days after the deposit was made at Wymore, when the maker has no funds in the bank, the Wymore bank not having presented the check within reasonable time, an indorser is discharged. First Nat. Bank of Wymore

Digitized by Google

v. Miller, 37 Neb. 500 (55 N. W. 1064; 40 Am. St. Rep. 499).

325. (1897.) The rule of the common law respecting the presentment of instruments with grace which expire on Sunday is not abrogated by the act of 1873. (General Statutes, ch. 32, sec. 8.) Capital Nat. Bank of Lincoln v. American Exchange Nat. Bank of Chicago, 51 Neb. 707 (71 N. W. 743).

www.lbtool.com.cn

326. (1902.) In the absence of special circumstances, in order to hold the drawer liable on his check, it must be presented not later than the day following its receipt, where the payee receives it in the place in which the bank on which it is drawn is located. Edmisten v. Herpolsheimer Co., 66 Neb. 94 (92 N. W. 138; 59 L. R. A. 934).

327. (1902.) It is the duty of the holder of a check, if he receives it after banking hours, to present it during banking hours of the next day, if the bank is located in the same town; if not, then to forward it by mail the next day. Edmisten v. Herpolsheimer Co. 66 Neb. 94 (92 N. W. 138; 59 L. R. A. 934).

328. (1902.) That the check is drawn on a bank in a city where the collection of such paper is made through a clearing-house, and the check was received after banking hours, does not relieve the payee of the necessity of presenting it the following day. Edmisten v. Herpolsheimer Co., 66 Neb. 94 (92 N. W. 138; 59 L. R. A. 934).

329. (1905.) Due diligence in the presentation of a check for payment does not require the holder, in the absence of special circumstances or some special custom, to present it at other than banking hours for payment. Temple v. Carroll, 75 Neb. 61 (105 N. W. 989).

Place of presentment.

330. (1880.) Where no particular place of payment is designated in a promissory note, the holder is bound to demand payment of the maker personally or at his residence; and the indorser contracts only to be answerable in default of the maker, after such demand has been made, and on notice to him of the default. Townsend v. Star Wagon Co., 10 Neb. 615 (7 N. W. 274; 35 Am. Rep. 493).

331. (1881.) A promissory note was dated at Grand Island, Neb., made payable at ———, and had beneath the signature of the maker the words "Danncbrog, Howard Co." In an action by the indorsee against the indorser, held, on demurrer to the petition, that the allegations of demand at the banks at Grand Island, and that the defendant had no residence or place of business there, there being no allegations that the maker had absconded, or that inquiry had been made at Dannebrog, were insufficient to charge the indorser. Nicholson v. Barnes, 11 Neb. 452 (9 N. W. 652; 38 Am. Rep. 373).

332. (1881.) Although the presumption is that the maker resides at the place where a note is dated, and that he contemplated payment at that place, it is a presumption merely; and if the maker resides elsewhere within the state when the note falls due, and that place be known to the holder, demand must be made at the maker's place of residence. Nicholson v. Barnes, 11 Neb. 452 (9 N. W. 652; 38 Am. Rep. 373).

333. (1885.) When a bank is designated as the place at which a note is to be paid, the maker is not in default in not paying the same until the note is received at the bank. Robinson v. Cheney, 17 Neb. 673 (24 N. W. 378).

Effect of failure to demand payment.

334. (1876.) Where the payee of a note assigns the same to another, in payment of premises purchased, and to secure same a mortgage on the premises was given the vendor in which it was provided if the mortgagor should pay the note at maturity the mortgage should be void, a promise to pay the note is unconditional, and failure to demand payment of the makers does not release such mortgagor. Albright v. Russell, 5 Neb. 207.

Excuse for failure to demand payment.

335. (1905.) When the failure of a bank, holding a check as indorsee, to present it for payment is predicated on some act or omission of one of its agents having authority to make presentation, it is not excused by the fact that such agent was ignorant of the existence of the check. Temple v. Carroll, 75 Neb. 61 (105 N. W. 989).

Nocessity for protest.

336. (1893.) Bank checks in this country are regarded as inland bills of exchange for the purpose of presentment and demand, and notice of dishonor, and do not require a formal protest in order to charge the indorsers. Wood River Bank v. First

Digitized by Google

Nat. Bank of Omaha, 36 Neb. 744 (55 N. W. 239).

337. (1901.) Bank checks do not require a formal protest to charge the indorser. A formal protest, however, is entirely proper. German Nat. Bank of Beatrice v. Beatrice Nat. Bank, 63 Neb. 246 (88 N. W. 480).

338. (1901.) A local bank check, which has been indorsed by the payee, may be formally protested for non-acceptance or non-payment. German Nat. Bank of Beatrice v. Beatrice Nat. Bank, 63 Neb. 246 (88 N. W. 480).

339. (1906.) The owner of notes secured by mortgages is not harmed nor prejudiced by the failure of one who holds the same as collateral security, to protest the non-payment of an installment. Preston v. Morsman, 75 Neb. 358 (106 N. W. 320).

Requisites and sufficiency of protest.

340. (1893.) The term "protest," as applied to inland bills of exchange, includes only the steps essential to charge the drawer and indorser. Wood River Bank v. First Nat. Bank of Omaha, 36 Neb. 744 (55 N. W. 239).

341. (1902.) Instruction sent with a note forwarded by one bank to another for the purpose of collection, "to protest," held to mean, and to have been understood to mean by the notary, to whose attention it was called, that the necessary steps to bind indorsers were to be taken. Williams v. Parks, 63 Neb. 747 (89 N. W. 395; 56 L. R. A. 759).

342. (1904.) Presentment, notice and protest of negotiable paper, in order to be effectual to bind an indorser, must be by one lawfully authorized by the holder to make them. Hofrichter v. Enyeart, 71 Neb. 771 (99 N. W. 658).

Notice of non-payment and protest.

——— Necessity.

343. (1897.) Held, From an examination of the evidence, that prejudice to the defendant as drawer of the check which is the subject of controversy will be presumed from the failure to give notice of its dishonor, there being to his credit therein sufficient funds for its payment, the drawee bank having in the meantime become insolvent. Western Wheeled Scraper Co. v. Sadilek, 50 Neb. 105 (69 N. W. 765; 61 Am. St. Rep. 550).

——— Persons who must give.

344. (1902.) While a promt return to the sender of a protest, showing no notice to an indorser, would have enabled it to serve notice in time, having entrusted that duty to a notary, it was not bound to make examination to see whether it was done. Williams v. Parks, 63 Neb. 747 (89 N. W. 395; 56 L. R. A. 759).

345. (1902.) The giving of notice of the dishonor of protested paper, in the absence of contrary instructions, is a notorial duty rendering the notary liable for neglect upon his bond. Williams v. Parks, 63 Neb. 747 89 N. W. 395; 56 L. R. A. 759).

346. (1902.) A notary should give notice of protest of paper to the holder. Williams v. Parks, 63 Neb. 747 (89 N. W. 395; 56 L. R. A. 759).

——— Persons to whom notice must be given.

347. (1879.) The drawer of a bank check is not released from liability thereon by reason of the failure of the holder to notify him of the non-payment of the check by the bank. Shaffer v. Maddox, 9 Neb. 205 (2 N. W. 464).

——— Service.

348. (1880.) If an indorser or drawer resides within the same post-office delivery, whether in or out of city limits, notice of dishonor must be served personally or left at his residence or place of business. Forbes v. Omaha Nat. Bank, 10 Neb. 338 (6 N. W. 393; 35 Am. Rep. 480).

349. (1902.) The notice of dishonor of a promissory note, served by the last indorser on his next prior indorser, need not be actually prepared by him, but he may adopt and utilize for that purpose a notice sent him by the protesting officer, addressed to the next prior indorser. Oakley v. Carr, 66 Neb. 751 (92 N. W. 1000; 103 Am. St. Rep. 739; 60 L. R. A. 440).

——— Time.

350. (1887.) Where the endorser receives his mail at the place where the note is payable, a notice of non-payment, actually received by him through the mail on the day following the last day of grace, is sufficient to charge him as endorser. Phelps v. Stocking, 21 Neb. 443 (32 N. W. 217); (1881) Hendershot v. Nebraska Nat. Bank, 25 Neb. 127 (41 N. W. 133).

351. (1887.) Where a promissory note payable at W., was duly presented to the makers on the last day of grace and demand of payment made, which was refused, a notice received on the following day by the endorser, who resided a few miles from W., was within a reasonable time. Phelps v. Stocking, 21 Neb. 443 (32 N. W. 217).

Digitized by Google

352. (1902.) Notice of dishonor of a promissory note is sufficient if sent to the last indorser by the first mail of the day following dishonor, even though such indorser is an agent for collection, merely, and he is entitled to one additional day to notify the indorser immediately preceding him. Oakley v. Carr, 66 Neb. 751 (92 N. W. 1000; 103 Am. St. Rep. 739; 60 L. R. A. 440).

353. (1902.) Where the last indorser of a promissory note receives the notice of dishonor on Saturday, his notice to the next prior indorser is timely if served on the following Monday. Oakley v. Carr, 66 Neb. 751 (92 N. W. 1000; 103 Am. St. Rep. 739; 60 L. R. A. 440).

——— Effect of failure to give.

354. (1880.) When a guarantor is not notified of the default of his principal within a reasonable time, he is released from liability to the extent that he may be damaged by the omission. And if it appear that the principal was solvent at the maturity of the obligation, but became insolvent before the demand of payment was made or notice given, except under special and peculiar circumstances, damages will be presumed. Newton Wagon Co. v. Diers, 10 Neb. 284 (4 N. W. 995).

Waiver of presentment.

355. (1882.) A guaranty in the following form: "For value received, we guarantee the payment of the within note, and hereby waive protest, demand, and notice of non-payment thereof," is an absolute contract upon a lawful consideration that the money expressed in the note should be paid at the maturity thereof, at all events and does not require demand on the maker or any diligence on the part of the holder. Bloom v. Warder, 13 Neb. 476 (14 N. W. 395).

Fees and costs of protest.

356. (1882.) It is only where a protest is necessary in order to fix an indorser's liability that he can be subjected to the costs thereof. McKay v. Hinman, 13 Neb. 33 (13 N. W. 15).

357. (1901.) The fees of a notary public for protesting a bank check are recoverable against the drawer and drawee. German Nat. Bank v. Beatrice Nat. Bank, 63 Neb. 246 (88 N. W. 480).

VI. PAYMENT AND DISCHARGE.

Receipted check as evidence of payment, see Payment, § 88.

Effect of note as payment of obligation for which it is given, see Payment, §§ 18-22.

Burden of showing authority to receive payment, see post, §§ 569-571.

Construction as to mode of payment, see ante, § 103.

Payment as defense, see post, §§ 441, 442.

Payment as defense against bona fide purchaser, see ante, §§ 314, 315.

Possession as evidence of payment, see post, §§ 697-699.

See, also, Payment.

Mode and sufficiency of payment.

358. (1888.) Where an agent has accepted a note held by the payee in payment of one held by the agent against him, there being no evidence of the principal's notification of such settlement a verdict for the defendant, whose defense was payment, is not sustained. McCormick v. Peters, 24 Neb. 70 (37 N. W. 927).

359. (1897.) The giving of credit as a deposit for the amount of a check, by the bank upon which it is drawn, is, in contemplation of law, a payment of the check in money. Bartley v. State, 53 Neb. 310 (73 N. W. 744).

——— Renewal note.

360. (1870.) The giving of a new note for the same debt, without an express agreement that it shall be in payment and satisfaction of the old one, has ever been considered a mere collateral security, which does not affect or alter the original liability of the parties on the old note in any respect whatever. Young v. Hibbs, 5 Neb. 433.

361. (1898.) Whether it is payment of a note by giving a renewal or not is to be determined from the intention of the parties as shown by the acts, facts, and circumstances accompanying and attendant upon the transaction in question. Harvey v. First Nat. Bank of Omaha, 56 Neb. 320 (76 N. W. 870).

Sufficiency of tender of payment.

362. (1901.) The payment of a note at its maturity at the place where the same is made payable, is a sufficient tender of payment to stop interest. Chapman v. Wagner, 1 Unof. 492 (96 N. W. 412).

Digitized by Google

Indorsement of payments.

363. (1902.) Where partial payments are made upon a promissory note even after maturity it is a proper precaution for the party making such payments to see that they are indorsed upon the instrument. But there is no absolute legal requirement that payments be so indorsed, nor does a necessary legal presumption that such indorsements were made arise from the mere fact of payment. Storey v. Kerr, 2 Unof. 568 (89 N. W. 601).

364. (1902.) An indorsement of a payment on a note made without the maker's knowledge or assent is not an irrevocable application of the payment to that note where the payee also holds other obligations against the payor. Lau v. Blomberg, 3 Unof. 124 (91 N. W. 206).

Persons to whom payment may be made.

365. (1895.) Payment of money on a note at a bank where it is made payable, when the note has not been left there and is not produced, is not a payment of the note. In such case the person receiving the money becomes the agent of the payor, not of the payee. First Nat. Bank of Omaha v. Chilson, 45 Neb. 257 (63 N. W. 362).

366. (1898.) The collection by a third person of installments of interest on a negotiable instrument confers no authority or apparent authority on such person to receive payment of the principal when it matures. Campbell v. O'Connor, 55 Neb. 638 (76 N. W. 167).

367. (1901.) A series of notes were made payable at the office of Russell & Holmes, who were private bankers. The amount due upon the notes was paid into the bank as they matured, but the bankers did not have possession of the notes; held, that payment to the bank did not discharge the payor in the absence of the other circumstances stated in the opinion. Chapman v. Wagner, 1 Unof. 492 (96 N. W. 412).

368. (1901.) A non-resident holding notes secured by a mortgage payable at a certain private banking company is guilty of such laches as to bar a recovery on such notes, where the maker pays the money to such bank, though it is not the authorized agent of payee, and the bank mails a notice to the payee that it holds the money for him and no effort is made to collect until after the running of the statute therefrom. Chapman v. Wagner, 1 Unof. 492 (96 N. W. 412).

369. (1902.) Where the maker pays other than the rightful owner of the note, he cannot rely on facts unknown to him, and not influencing his action, as an estoppel. Stuart v. Stonebraker, 63 Neb. 554 (88 N. W. 653).

370. (1902.) If the maker pay other than the rightful owner of the note, he cannot rely on facts unknown to him and not influencing his action, as an estoppel; but, if the money has reached the hands of an agent authorized to collect for the holder, such payment will be held a satisfaction of the debt. Pochin v. Knoebel, 63 Neb. 768 (89 N. W. 264).

371. (1902.) The maker of a note and mortgage not negotiable, who has no notice of a transfer of the papers, may satisfy the same by payment to the payee named therein. Garnett v. Meyers, 65 Neb. 289 (94 N. W. 803); (1902) Consterdine v. Moore, 65 Neb. 296 (96 N. W. 1021); (1903) Crewison v. Oelschlegal, 68 Neb. 573 (94 N. W. 814); (1905) Swan v. Craig, 73 Neb. 182 (102 N. W. 471).

372. (1905.) Where the purchaser and indorsee of a promissory note ratifies an extension of time of payment made by the original payee with the maker, and at the expiration of the extended time the maker pays the amount of the note to the original payee, having no knowledge of its indorsement, such payment is good as against the indorsee. Swan v. Craig, 73 Neb. 182 (102 N. W. 471).

373. (1905.) Where an indorsee of a note consents to, and ratifies, extension of the time of payment thereof made by the indorser, who was the original payee, such indorsee is estopped to recover on such note as against the maker, who has paid the indorser, not knowing the note has been transferred. Swan v. Craig, 73 Neb. 182 (102 N. W. 471).

374. (1907.) Where the owner of a note clothes another with the indicia of ownership and ostensible authority to contract with the maker of such note for the discharge thereof, and the maker, relying upon such ostensible ownership and authority, delivers to such person certain property, which the latter accepts in payment and discharge of the note, the owner is estopped to deny the authority of such person to act in the premises. Home Savings Bank v. Stewart, 78 Neb. 624 (110 N. W. 947).

Digitized by Google

375. (1907.) The original payee of a negotiable note in possession thereof is presumed to be the owner, and has ostensible authority to accept money or property in discharge thereof, although the note bears the blank indorsement of such payee. Home Savings Bank v. Stewart, 78 Neb. 624 (110 N. W. 947).

www.hbook.com.cn

——— Agent of payee.

376. (1889.) Notes are not discharged when given in part payment for a reaper, and the amount thereof paid to agents for the sale of such machine, who had neither possession of nor authority to receive payment for the same. Seiberling v. Demaree, 27 Neb. 854 (44 N. W. 46).

377. (1891.) A payment made to an agent of the payer, who has possession of the note for collection discharges the obligation pro tanto, although the agent appropriates the money so paid and does not credit it on the note. Durrell v. Todd, 31 Neb. 256 (47 N. W. 862).

378. (1898.) The mere facts that a mortgagor had sent coupons, as they matured, to a certain person to whom the amounts thereby evidenced as due had been paid, and that the person so receiving such payments had delivered or even advanced the amount of such coupons to one to whom before maturity had been transferred the principal negotiable promissory note secured by mortgage, held not sufficient to satisfy the requirement as to a payment to such person of principal and interest made before the same became due. Chandler v. Pyott, 53 Neb. 786 (74 N. W. 263).

379. (1898.) Where a negotiable note, indorsed by the payee in blank, is delivered to an agent for collection, payment by the maker in good faith to the agent while the note is in his possession, after the death of the principal and without notice of his death, will discharge the debt. Deweese v. Muff, 57 Neb. 17 (77 N. W. 361; 73 Am. St. Rep. 488; 42 L. R. A. 789).

380. (1900.) Payment by a debtor of the principal of his note, before due, to an agent of the payee who has neither the possession of the note nor authority to collect it, is made at the risk of such debtor. Walsh v. Peterson, 59 Neb. 645 (81 N. W. 853).

381. (1901.) A course of dealing by which a loan company has received and receipted for interest payments on a negotiable promissory note from the mortgagor or his assigns will not of itself be sufficient proof of its agency to receive and receipt for the payment of the principal of said note when said note is in the hands of an innocent person, for value, before maturity. Gilbert v. Garber, 62 Neb. 464 (87 N. W. 179).

382. (1901.) The fact that a person or company is authorized to receive the installments of interest which became due on a mortgage note or bond is not sufficient ground from which to infer that the authority also exists to collect or receive the principal sum, if the evidences of the indebtedness are not and have not been in the possession of such person or company. Richards v. Waller, 49 Neb. 639 (68 N. W. 1053); Thompson v. Buehler, 1 Unof. 590 (95 N. W. 854).

383. (1902.) A purchaser of a note who makes the assignor his agent for collection cannot, when such agent makes the collection and fails to account to his principal, repudiate the agency and stand upon the rights of a bona fide holder. Stuart & Co. v. Stonebraker, 63 Neb. 554 (88 N. W. 653).

384. (1902.) Where one purchasing a note constitutes his assignor, who is the original payee named therein, his agent for the collection of both interest and principal, and such agent, in the exercise of such authority, does collect both interest and principal, the holder cannot, after his agent's failure to account, repudiate such agency, stand upon his rights as a bona fide holder for value, and collect a second time from the maker, although the latter has paid the agent in the belief that he was still the holder of the note. Pochin v. Knoebel, 63 Neb. 768 (89 N. W. 264).

385. (1902.) Where one has placed his agent for the investment of money in notes and mortgages in such a situation that persons of ordinary prudence, acquainted with business usages, would be justified in regarding such agent as having full authority with reference to the extension, collection, etc., of such notes and mortgages, payment to such agent will be deemed payment to the principal. Harrison Nat. Bank v. Austin, 65 Neb. 632 (91 N. W. 540; 101 Am. St. Rep. 638; 59 L. R. A. 294).

386. (1902.) When payment is made to the agent of the holder of a negotiable promissory note and the authority of such agent to receive such payment is fully established by competent evidence, such payment is binding on the holder of the note, although the agent did not have the note in his possession at the time of such payment. Union Stock Yards Nat. Bank v. Haskell, 2 Unof. 839 (90 N. W. 233).

Digitized by Google

387. (1903.) In an action on a note by the assignee thereof, certain statements of such assignee to the maker held insufficient to estop the former to deny that the original payee was his agent authorized to receive payment. Ayres v. Nixon, 5 Unof. 156 (97 N. W. 621).

——Forged indorsement.

388. (1889.) A check drawn by I. W. F., paymaster, on J. G. T., assistant treasurer B. & M. R. R. Co. in Neb., to the order of F. L. D., was presented to the National Bank of H. by L., with a forged indorsement of the name of F. L. D. thereon, and the money received by L. from the bank, which, having accounted to F. L. D. for the amount of the check, sued L. therefor. Held, That L. was liable. Levy v. First Nat. Bank of Hastings, 27 Neb. 557 (43 N. W. 354).

389. (1901.) Where the drawee of a pay check paid to one who had forged the indorsement of the payee thereto, sought to escape liability of payment to the payee on the ground of his alleged negligence, the unlawful possession of the holder of the order, and the receiving payment on the forged indorsement, being the result or fruit of a crime, the defendant could not predicate an estoppel by negligence thereon, unless it appears that the negligence is the proximate cause of the forgery being taken as genuine. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Burns, 61 Neb. 793 (86 N. W. 483).

390. (1901.) Where the payee of a "pay check," drawn to him or his order, is robbed of it and his indorsement forged thereon, and payment made to an unauthorized holder, the payee may, notwithstanding such payment, recover from the drawee the amount due him, as evidenced by the order. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Burns, 61 Neb. 793 (86 N. W. 483).

391. (1901.) Where A on receipt of release, made at A's request, of all claim against an estate, and purporting to have been made by B, procures a draft to his own order, indorses it to B's order and sends it by mail to the address given him as B's, and it is there received by the person executing the release and indorsed in B's name, A has no right of action against a bank which pays the draft to the holder, supposing him to be B, though he is in fact an imposter. Hoffman v. American Exchange Nat. Bank, 2 Unof. 217 (96 N. W. 112).

Application of payments.

392. (1875.) Partial payments made upon a debt drawing interest should be first applied in payment of the interest, and afterwards to the reduction of the principal. Mills v. Saunders, 4 Neb. 190.

393. (1890.) Partial payments on a note drawing more than legal interest will be applied on the principal. Hall v. First Nat. Bank of Fairfield, 30 Neb. 99 (46 N. W. 150).

394. (1899.) Payments on a note which include usurious interest should be credited upon the principal, whether such payment be in the form of cash or of an independent note. Tomblin v. Higgins, 58 Neb. 336 (78 Neb. 620).

Effect of payment as discharge.

395. (1898.) The money paid by plaintiff, an indorser of a note, to the indorsee was not paid for the benefit of the maker of the note, but to protect the plaintiff's contract of indorsement; and the effect of the payment and redelivery of the note to the plaintiff was to vest the plaintiff with the equitable title to the note. Hartzell v. McClurg, 54 Neb. 316 (74 N. W. 626).

396. (1899.) When the owner and holder of a past due negotiable note receives payment thereof from the maker or other person liable thereon, the obligation is extinguished, and if it be afterwards transferred to another, the transferee will acquire no better title or greater right than the transferrer possessed. Root v. Fast, 58 Neb. 498 (78 N. W. 939).

397. (1903.) The facts and circumstances surrounding the transfer of certain coupons by the indorsee of the bond to which they were attached, examined, and held to show a sale and not a payment of such coupons. Curtiss v. McCune, 4 Unof. 483 (94 N. W. 984).

Part payment as waiver of defenses.

398. (1902.) The maker of a coupon-note owes no duty to the payee to examine the coupons as they are returned after payment. Foxworthy v. Colby, 64 Neb. 216 (89 N. W. 800; 62 L. R. A. 393).

Recovery of payments.

399. (1879.) Where the payee of a draft is informed by the bank on which the same is drawn that the draft has been paid, and the payee drew out a portion of the money, he is liable to the bank for that amount so drawn out, when it is afterwards discovered that the draft had not been paid. De Nayer v. State Nat. Bank, 8 Neb. 104.

Digitized by Google

400. (1888.) If a party upon whom an order is drawn accepts the same and thereupon proceeds to pay the amount of the order to the person in whose favor it is drawn, the presumption is that the credit was given to the drawer of the order, unless the holder by some acts of his own renders himself liable, and the acceptor cannot recover from the payee. Camp & Compton v. Sadler, 22 Neb. 732 (36 N. W. 144).

Effect of release of joint maker.

401. (1907.) The voluntary release of one of two joint makers of a promissory note will release the other. Banking House of A. Castetter v. Rose, 78 Neb. 693 (111 N. W. 590).

VII. ACTIONS.

Right of action in general.

402. (1898.) The holder of a note secured by a mortgage may maintain an action at law on the note, where neither note nor mortgage contains stipulations making the mortgaged property primarily liable for the debt. Grable v. Beatty, 56 Neb. 642 (77 N. W. 49).

403. (1903.) The payee of a check has a right of action against the drawee if the latter has funds to meet it when it is presented. Falls City State Bank v. Wehrli, 68 Neb. 75 (93 N. W. 994).

Accrual of right of action.

404. (1886.) Where an instrument in the form of a promissory note is only to be payable upon condition that another certain promissory note therein named is paid by one of the parties named, the person so named, upon payment of such promissory note, may bring an action to recover the sum due against the persons signing such instrument. Grimison v. Russell, 20 Neb. 337 (30 N. W. 249).

Joinder with action to foreclose.

404*a*. (1908.) An action to foreclose a mortgage cannot, against objections made by the defendant, be joined with an action to obtain a money judgment upon a note not secured by the mortgage. McCague Savings Bank v. Croft, 80 Neb. 702 (115 N. W. 315).

Persons who may maintain action.

405. (1875.) The right to sue upon a note executed exclusively for the benefit of a banking corporation, vests in the bank, and the indorsement of its cashier, to whom as cashier, such note is made payable, is not necessary. Lacey v. Central Nat. Bank of Omaha, 4 Neb. 179.

406. (1882.) Where a promissory note is made to an agent in his own name as promisee, he may maintain an action thereon without joining the person beneficially interested in the note. Stoll v. Sheldon, 13 Neb. 207 (13 N. W. 201).

407. (1889.) The pledgee of a note, although he takes it subject to equities, may nevertheless bring an action on it as the real party in interest. Herron v. Cole Bros., 25 Neb. 692 (41 N. W. 765).

408. (1889.) An indorsee of a promissory note, where the indorsement was not made for value, nor in the due course of trade, but for the purpose of collection, can maintain an action in his own name for the collection of the note, but in such case the suit would be subject to any defenses the maker may have had as against the indorser of the plaintiff, such defenses not having been cut off by the indorsement. Roberts v. Snow, 27 Neb. 425 (43 N. W. 241).

409. (1890.) An action cannot be brought on a note by the payee, where he has indorsed it as collateral security to a third person who still holds it. Johnson v. Chilson, 29 Neb. 301 (45 N. W. 462).

410. (1894.) One to whom a note is indorsed and delivered as collateral security, may maintain a suit thereon in his own name. Kavanaugh v. Brodball, 40 Neb. 875 (59 N. W. 517; 25 L. R. A. 774).

411. (1898.) The equitable owner of a negotiable promissory note in his possession may maintain an action thereon in his own name. Hartzell v. McClurg, 54 Neb. 316 (74 N. W. 626).

412. (1902.) The indorsee of a check is possessed of the legal title thereto, and is the proper party plaintiff in an action for its collection. Commercial State Bank of Genoa v. Rowley, 2 Unof. 645 (89 N. W. 765).

Conditions precedent.

Possession of collateral security as defense, see post, § 440.

413. (1877.) When the original debt is sued on, the plaintiff must produce the new note on the trial, or satisfactorily show that it is lost or destroyed. Young v. Hibbs, 5 Neb. 433.

Digitized by Google

414. (1883.) The holder of a collateral security for the payment of a promissory note, without special contract to that effect, need not convert and apply the said collateral before bringing suit on the note. Lormer v. Bain, 14 Neb. 178 (15 N. W. 323); (1898) Carson's Executors v. Buckstaff, 57 Neb. 262 (77 N. W. 670).

415. (1892.) Where a negotiable note is lost before it becomes due the court will require the plaintiff to give an indemnifying bond to the maker as a condition of recovering judgment, but where the instrument is lost after it becomes due no bond ordinarily will be required. Means v. Kendall, 35 Neb. 693 (53 N. W. 598, 610).

416. (1894.) Where an instrument negotiable by delivery is lost before maturity, a bond of indemnity should be required as a condition for recovery thereon; but where it is clearly shown that the instrument was payable to order and not indorsed, or that it was lost after maturity, no indemnity should generally be required. Kirkwood v. First Nat. Bank of Hastings, 40 Neb. 484 (58 N. W. 1016; 42 Am. St. Rep. 683; 24 L. R. A. 444).

417. (1894.) The maker of notes which were procured by fraud of the payee, in an action against the former by one who holds the notes as collateral security, cannot require plaintiff to first exhaust other collateral. Haas v. Bank of Commerce, 41 Neb. 754 (60 N. W. 85).

418. (1897.) Where a note payable to order, but neither indorsed nor transferred, is lost before maturity, the execution of an indemnity bond is not essential to plaintiff's recovery in a suit on the note. Palmer v. Carpenter, 53 Neb. 394 (73 N. W. 690).

419. (1898.) In the absence of an agreement by a mortgagee to look primarily to his security for satisfaction of the debt, a foreclosure of the mortgage is not a condition precedent to an action at law on the secured claim. Grable v. Beatty, 56 Neb. 642 (77 N. W. 49).

Defenses.

420. (1895.) In an action on a promissory note by an alleged indorsee thereof, a denial of the indorsement and plaintiff's ownership is a good defense. Central City Bank v. Rice, 44 Neb. 594 (63 N. W. 60).

421. (1898.) In a suit on a note transferred by indorsement to plaintiffs, it was held that defendant was not estopped to deny that plaintiffs were partners. Hoyt v. Kountze, 54 Neb. 368 (74 N. W. 585).

422. (1898.) Where one executes a promissory note and transfers to the payee as collateral security thereto a note then held against a third person secured by a real estate mortgage, a decree foreclosing such mortgage will not bar an action at law on the first note, since it did not evidence the debt the mortgage was previously given to secure. Maxwell v. Home Fire Ins. Co., 57 Neb. 207 (77 N. W. 681).

423. (1901.) In an action on a note, where a defense set up that defendant had executed a deed to plaintiff, in trust, that if the note was paid the property was to be reconveyed, an instruction directing a verdict for plaintiff was proper. Fahay v. State Bank of O'Neill, 1 Unof. 89 (95 N. W. 505).

——— Want or failure of consideration.

424. (1880.) Want of consideration for an indorsement is a good defense to an action by the payee of a promissory note against an indorser before delivery. Newton Wagon Co. v. Diers, 10 Neb. 284 (4 N. W. 995).

425. (1883.) The consideration of negotiable promissory notes may be inquired into in an action on the notes by the promisee against the maker. Kennedy v. Goodman, 14 Neb. 585 (16 N. W. 834).

426. (1883.) The formal making and delivery of an instrument for the payment or security for the payment of money will not preclude the maker, when sued by the promisee, from pleading and proving that no consideration was given. Kennedy v. Goodman, 14 Neb. 585 (16 N. W. 834).

427. (1884.) In an action between the payee and drawer of a bank check, payment of which has been refused by the bank, where the drawer sets up as a defense the want of consideration for the drawing and delivery of such check, it is no answer to such defense that the plaintiff received the same without notice, etc. Camp v. Sturdevant, 16 Neb. 693 (21 N. W. 449).

428. (1884.) The possession by A. H. of a bank check payable to the order of P. D. S. was no evidence to P. D. S. that said check had been drawn by the drawer and delivered to said A. H. to enable him, A. H., to obtain money or credit thereon, nor is such possession evidence to go to the jury of such fact, and hence the maker can urge want of consideration as a defense. Camp v. Sturdevant, 16 Neb. 693 (21 N. W. 449).

Digitized by Google

www.lbtool.com.cn

429. (1890.) An answer in an action on a note, alleging that it was given for a right to sell a patented article, that the payee represented himself to be the agent of the manufacturer and agreed to send a sample to the defendant to be used in making such articles, and that such article was patented, all of which representations were false, set up a good defense. Haggland v. Stuart, 29 Neb. 69 (45 N. W. 263).

430. (1890.) In an action on a note, brought by the payee, an answer alleging that the note was given in payment for a horse sold by plaintiff to defendant, which at the time was affected with glanders, an infectious and contagious disease, as plaintiff well knew and defendants did not know, sets up a good defense. Johnson v. Chilson, 29 Neb. 301 (45 N. W. 462).

431. (1891.) Where the payee of a note indorses it as collateral to secure a note with a mortgage given by himself, and the maker of the original note purchases both notes and mortgage, he may, in an action against the payee to foreclose, show that such original note was without consideration. Smith v. Kinney, 32 Neb. 162 (47 N. W. 341).

432. (1903.) Where the payee of a purchase money note agreed to repair the machine, which was then defective, and put it in good working order, or else surrender the note, notice to the payee that the repairs have not been effective, is not necessary before it can be urged as a defense to the note. Warder, Bushnell & Glessner Co. v. Myers, 70 Neb. 15 (96 N. W. 992).

——— Usury.

433. (1883.) Where a note and mortgage were given for the sum of $445.15, and only $380 received by the mortgagor, usury is established. Cattle v. Haddox, 14 Neb. 527 (16 N. W. 841).

434. (1844.) A promissory note given for already accrued interest, in part usurious, was without consideration, and suspension of the right of collection between its date and maturity in no way operated to supply this essential element otherwise lacking. McGhee v. First Nat. Bank of Tobias, 40 Neb. 92 (58 N. W. 537).

435. (1894.) Every renewal of a note given for a usurious loan of money is subject to the defense of usury between the original parties and purchasers with notice. McDonald v. Aufdengarten, 41 Neb. 40 (59 N. W. 762).

436. (1897.) Where one executes his negotiable note payable to the order of a debtor and delivers it to him as an accommodation, and the debtor indorses and delivers the note to his creditor in payment of a usurious note due the creditor from the debtor, such accommodation note is not a renewal of the usurious note; and, in a suit on the accommodation note against the maker, he cannot interpose, as a defense thereto, the usurious contract existing between the creditor and debtor. Palmer v. Carpenter, 53 Neb. 394 (73 N. W. 690).

437. (1898.) Where a usurious loan has been repeatedly renewed, and the notes evidencing the indebtedness have been taken in the name of a bank, or of its cashier, indifferently, and each transfer has been after due, the holder of the final note, who prosecutes the action, does so subject to any defense of usury which might have been set up against said note or any of its antecedents. Farmers Bank of Kearney v. Oliver, 55 Neb. 774 (76 N. W. 449).

438. (1898.) Notes made and payable to another state and stipulating for a higher rate of interest than is lawful in Nebraska will be enforced according to their terms, in the absence of a plea of usury. McCready v. Phillips, 56 Neb. 446 (76 N. W. 885).

439. (1904.) Where one secures a loan and receives six hundred dollars and executes a note and mortgage to secure the same for six hundred and ninety dollars with interest at seven per cent. per annum and at the end of five years, counting the ninety dollars, more than ten per cent. of the amount received has been paid in interest, the transaction is usurious. Allen v. Dunn, 71 Neb. 831 (99 N. W. 680).

——— Possession of collateral security.

440. (1898.) The maker of a note cannot defend an action thereon on the ground that plaintiff held a third person's collectible note as collateral security, and that the note pledged was for a greater amount than the note sued on. Carson's Executors v. Buckstaff, 57 Neb. 262 (77 N. W. 670).

Digitized by Google

——Payment.

441. (1882.) That a promissory note was payable in wheat and that the wheat had been delivered in pursuance of the contract is a good defense to an action on such a note, and under proof the jury should be instructed for defendant. Smith v. Hobleman, 12 Neb. 502 (11 N. W. 753).

442. (1896.) Under a letter of credit, "We will pay H. & M.'s drafts until further notice for the cost or value of stock shipped to us here with or without bill of lading attached," a draft was drawn October 23 and accepted October 29. On October 29 a large shipment of stock was made. November 8 another draft was drawn not covered by stock shipped, unless the shipment of October 29 should be applied thereto. There was no evidence that the discounting bank in receiving the last draft relied on the acceptance of the former as not including the shipment of October 29. Held, That under the circumstances B. & F., in defense of an action based on their refusal to accept the last draft, were not estopped from showing that the earlier draft had been covered in part by the shipment of October 29, the day of its acceptance. Burke v. Utah Nat. Bank, 47 Neb. 247 (66 N. W. 295).

——Counter-claim or set-off.

443. (1890.) In an action upon a note given for a twine-binder machine, accompanied by warranty, alleged damages to crops growing out of a failure of warranty are not ground for counter-claim. Clark v. Deering, 29 Neb. 293 (45 N. W. 456).

444. (1892.) In an action on a negotiable certificate of deposit, transferred after due, the maker may set off any cross-demand which existed in his favor against the original payee at the time of the transfer. First Nat. Bank of Rapid City v. Security Nat. Bank, 34 Neb. 71 (51 N. W. 305; 33 Am. St. Rep. 618; 15 L. R. A. 386).

445. (1898.) A debtor, when sued on a note by his creditor, may plead as a counter-claim or set-off the value of any collateral security converted by plaintiff to his own use, released, dissipated, or diverted from the purpose for which it was pledged. Carson's Executors v. Buckstaff, 57 Neb. 262 (77 N. W. 670).

Venue.

446. (1883.) An action against the maker and several indorsers of a promissory note may be brought in any county where any one of the parties defendant resides, or may be summoned. Pearson v. Kansas Mfg. Co., 14 Neb. 211 (15 N. W. 346).

Parties.

447. (1885.) New parties to an action by way of intervention are permitted only when the intervenor claims some interest in the subject of the action; the owner of the title to real estate cannot intervene in an action on a note, in which an attachment has issued. Kimbro v. Clark, 17 Neb. 403 (22 N. W. 788).

448. (1887.) Where a promissory note payable to order is endorsed by the payee and transferred to two persons, who bring an action thereon as "H. & A. F. Randolph, partners, etc.," held, that H. & A. F. Randolph, being the lawful holders of the note, if not partners, could in their individual names maintain an action thereon as "H. & A. F. Randolph." Walgamood v. Randolph, 22 Neb. 493 (35 N. W. 217).

449. (1892.) In an action upon a note signed by three persons all should be joined as defendants, although, if service cannot be had upon all, the action may proceed against those served. A failure to join all is ground of demurrer for defect of parties defendant, and the defect must be insisted upon or it will be waived. Beeler v. First Nat. Bank of Larned, 34 Neb. 348 (51 N. W. 857).

450. (1899.) In an action by the assignee of a non-negotiable note, on which the payee has made himself liable by a special contract of indorsement, the original payee is not a proper party. To a suit by such assignee on the payee's contract to be liable for the payment of the note the makers thereof are not proper parties. Barry v. Wachosky, 57 Neb. 534 (77 N. W. 1080).

451. (1899.) In an action on a non-negotiable note, by the assignee thereof, the assignor is not a necessary party. Barry v. Wachosky, 57 Neb. 534 (77 N. W. 1080).

452. (1905.) Persons severally liable upon the same promissory note may all or any of them be included in the same action, at the option of the plaintiff. (Code, sec. 44.) Palmer v. McFarlane, 73 Neb. 178 (102 N. W. 256).

453. (1907.) The voluntary release of one of two joint makers of a promissory note will release the other. But when an action has been brought against both jointly, and a successful defense has been made by one defendant supported by the evidence of both, and judgment has been entered against the other defendant, upon appeal by such defendant to the district court the action may proceed against him alone, and the petition which alleges all the facts above stated is not subject to demurrer for non-joinder of defendants. Banking House of A. Castetter v. Rose, 78 Neb. 693 (111 N. W. 590).

Digitized by Google

Limitations.

Part payment as bar to running of statute of limitation, see Limitation of Actions, §§ 139, 140.

454. (1888.) A note, "$50.00. Franklin Grove, Ill., July 1, 1878. Ten days after date I promise to pay to the order of D. B. Fisk & Co., Chicago, Ill., Fifty Dollars, at ten per cent interest from date. Value received. M. T. Minor. No. .. Due Sept. 30, 1878," matures upon the date named in the body thereof, and not upon that named in the margin. Fisk & Co. v. McNeal, 23 Neb. 726 (37 N. W. 616; 8 Am. St. Rep. 162).

455. (1889.) Where a real estate mortgage secures five notes, each dated February 29, 1876, payable in one, two, three, four, and five years, and the summons in an action to foreclose the mortgage is dated February 9, 1888, only one of the notes is barred, as they continue to be evidence of the debt for ten years after maturity. Cheney v. Campbell, 28 Neb. 376 (44 N. W. 451).

456. (1893.) In December, 1881, the defendant, a resident of the state of Iowa, gave the plaintiff his promissory note due January 1, 1884, and payable in that state. He removed to Nebraska in 1888, and suit was commenced on the note in this state on July 13, 1891. Held, The action was not barred. Minneapolis Harvester Works v. Smith, 36 Neb. 616 (54 N. W. 973).

457. (1893.) The statute of limitations begins to run in favor of the drawer of a check at the latest after the lapse of a reasonable time for the presentment of the check. Scroggins v. McClelland, 37 Neb. 644 (56 N. W. 208; 40 Am. St. Rep. 520; 22 L. R. A. 110).

458. (1898.) An action on a check by the holder against the maker after demand of the drawee and non-payment is a suit on a written instrument, within the meaning of section 10 of the code, and the limitation is five years. Connor v. Becker, 56 Neb. 343 (76 N. W. 893).

459. (1901.) A promissory note is barred after five years from its maturity, though the same is secured by a real estate mortgage, and the statute of limitations is a complete defense to the recovery of a personal judgment upon the note against a maker, other than the mortgagor. Omaha Savings Bank v. Simeral, 61 Neb. 741 (86 N. W. 470).

460. (1901.) A letter from the maker of a note to the payee that the former is trying to collect a debt due him that the note in issue could be paid, is not such an acknowledgment of the liability as will avoid the statute of limitations. Cook v. Farley, 1 Unof. 540 (95 N. W. 683).

461. (1902.) The institution of a suit of foreclosure on a mortgage before the note evidencing the indebtedness is barred by the statute, tolls the statute on the note from the time of the commencement of the foreclosure action. Harris v. Nye & Schneider Co., 3 Unof. 169 (91 N W. 250).

462. (1903.) Prior to the act of 1897, the institution of a suit to foreclose a mortgage and for personal judgment against the makers of the notes secured by the mortgage, tolls the statute of limitation on the liability of the makers on the notes. Carstens v. Eller, 5 Unof. 149 (97 N. W. 631).

463 (1906.) Where the holder of a bank draft neither demands payment of the bank on which it is drawn nor takes any other step to secure payment within five years from the time it came into his possession, his right of action against the bank issuing the draft because of the failure of the bank on which it was drawn to pay the same when it was presented is barred by the statute of limitations. Wrigley v. Farmers & Merchants State Bank, 76 Neb. 862 (108 N. W. 132).

464. (1907.) The payment of dividends upon the stock of a corporation assigned to the payee by the maker of a note as collateral security, and the application thereof as payments upon the note, will stay the running of the statute of limitations. Bosler v. McShane, 78 Neb. 86 (110 N. W. 726); (1907) Bosler v. McShane, 78 Neb 91 (113 N. W. 998).

Petition.

465. (1876.) A petition in an action upon a promissory note reciting the consideration of the note, and disposition of property for which it was given, but not alleging that there was a "wrongful conversion" of the property, is not subject to objection by demurrer, on the ground that "an action on a promissory note and an action of trover are improperly joined." Lash v. Christie, 4 Neb. 262.

Digitized by Google

466. (1881.) In an action upon a negotiable instrument the petition must show the nature of the liability of the indorser, and this would require, where possible, that a copy of the indorsement should be set out in the petition, showing the character of the indorsement. Nicholson v. Barnes, 11 Neb. 452 (9 N. W. 652; 38 Am. St. Rep. 373).

467. (1886.) Where a plaintiff claims to have become the owner and holder of commercial paper before maturity and in good faith, he should, in his petition, state not only that he purchased the note before maturity, but that it was indorsed to him. Britton v. Berry, 20 Neb. 325 (30 N. W. 254).

468. (1888.) Petition held to state a cause of action against the maker and indorser of a promissory note. Hendershot v. Nebraska Nat. Bank, 25 Neb. 127 (41 N. W. 133).

469. (1889.) A petition that alleges the defendants were indebted to plaintiff upon a promissory note, which was attached to the petition, that there was due plaintiff $66, with interest, while informal, is sufficient after judgment. Downing v. Glenn, 26 Neb. 323 (41 N. W. 1119).

470. (1891.) Where a copy of the note sued on is set out in the petition, a further copy need not be attached. Barnes v. Van Keuren & Floyd, 31 Neb. 165 (47 N. W. 848).

471. (1892.) Petition and exhibit set out in opinion held sufficient after judgment to sustain it, as the defendant who could avail himself of the defense does not object. Belcher v. Palmer, 35 Neb. 449 (53 N. W. 380).

472. (1898.) A petition on a promissory note alleged that the owner and holder of the note indorsed and delivered it to the plaintiff. Held, Equivalent to an express averment that the owner thereby transferred the title to the indorsee. Myers v. Farmers State Bank, 53 Neb. 824 (74 N. W. 252).

473. (1898.) In an action on a dishonored check, pleading as a second cause of action thereon, the common counts not approved. Penn Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Conoughy, 54 Neb. 123 (74 N. W. 422).

474. (1898.) A petition in a suit upon a promissory note, made a part of the petition, which alleges that the defendant executed and delivered the note to the plaintiff, that such note is wholly due and payable, and that the defendant wholly neglects to pay the same, or any part thereof, states a cause of action. It is not essential to such a petition that it negative the payment of the note by a stranger thereto. Hartzell v. McClurg, 54 Neb. 313 (74 N. W. 625).

475. (1898.) In a suit upon a promissory note the petition, after alleging the execution and delivery of the note by the defendant to the plaintiff, averred: "That afterwards the plaintiff sold and discounted said note, and that the holder thereof, at its maturity, presented it for payment and it was dishonored; that by reason of the neglect and refusal of the said defendant to pay said note the plaintiff was compelled to 'take up' said note." Held, That this averment was the ordinary and concise language of business men, and, when liberally construed in accordance with section 121 of the code of civil procedure, means that the plaintiff, upon the dishonor of the note, paid the amount due thereon to its holder, and he thereupon surrendered the note to plaintiff. Hartzell v. McClurg, 54 Neb. 316 (74 N. W. 626).

476. (1901.) A petition in an action on a note and mortgage, against the purchaser of the mortgaged premises, setting out the execution of the note and mortgage, and the conveyance of the land to defendant subject to the mortgage is good as against a demurrer. Lincoln University v. Polk, 1 Unof. 403 (95 N. W. 611).

477. (1901.) A petition that alleges that the payment of the note sued on was guaranteed by defendants at the time of the delivery of the note states a cause of action against defendant. McKibbin v. Ripley, 1 Unof. 648 (95 N. W. 1046).

478. (1902.) In an action on a promissory note, an averment by the holder that he caused due notice of dishonor to be served on the last indorser but one, is sufficient, in the absence of a motion to make more specific, to admit evidence that the notice was given to the last indorser and by him transmitted to the one next prior. Oakley v. Carr, 66 Neb. 751 (92 N. W. 1000; 103 Am. St. Rep. 739; 60 L. R. A. 440).

479. (1903.) In an action on a demand note, the failure to allege a demand before suit brought, will not be held fatal after judgment. Grant v. Commercial Nat. Bank, 67 Neb. 219 (93 N. W. 185).

Digitized by Google

480. (1905.) A petition in an action on a note setting out the note and alleging its indorsement to plaintiff states a cause of action thereon. Palmer v. McFarlane, 73 Neb. 178 (102 N. W. 256).

481. (1905.) A petition setting out a copy of a note, and indorsements thereon, and alleging a purchase by plaintiff from an indorsee before maturity and for value, sufficiently alleges a bona fide purchase of such note. Haslach v. Wolf, 73 Neb. 658 (103 N. W. 317).

——— Designation of parties.

482. (1897.) In an action on a draft accepted by C. E. Eiseley a petition against Charles F. Eiseley as defendant and alleging that defendant accepted the draft is sufficient for all purposes to describe the defendant, and to identify him as the party who accepted the draft. Eiseley v. Taggart, 52 Neb. 658 (72 N. W. 1039).

483. (1900.) In actions upon promissory notes or other written instruments, whenever any of the parties thereto are designated by initials or some contraction of the Christian name, it is sufficient to so designate such parties, instead of stating the Christian name in full. (Code, sec. 23.) Richardson v. Opelt, 60 Neb. 180 (82 N. W. 377).

——— Allegation as to amount due.

484. (1882.) Under section 129 of the code, where a copy of the instrument sued upon is set out as a part of the petition, it must be alleged that there is due thereon from the adverse party to the plaintiff a specific sum. Gage v. Roberts, 12 Neb. 276 (11 N. W. 306).

485. (1882.) In an action upon a promissory note it is sufficient to allege the making and delivering of the note, set out a copy of the same, and allege that there is due thereon from the maker to the plaintiff a specified sum. Gage v. Roberts, 12 Neb. 276 (11 N. W. 306).

486. (1885.) A petition which contains no allegation that defendants executed the note copied therein, nor that there is due from them the sum demanded, is not sufficient. Spellman v. Frank, 18 Neb. 110 (24 N. W. 442).

487. (1885.) In an action upon a promissory note when a copy of the note sued upon is set out as a part of the petition, it must be alleged that there is due thereon from the adverse party to the plaintiff a specific sum, unless these facts may be inferred from others pleaded. Spellman v. Frank, 18 Neb. 110 (24 N. W. 442).

488. (1901.) A petition declaring on a promissory note which is copied therein, and from the allegations of which it may be inferred that the sum alleged to be due was due from the adverse party to the plaintiff, states a cause of action, although it is not alleged in direct terms that the sum claimed is due from the adverse party to the plaintiff. Dodds v. McCormick Harvesting Machine Co., 62 Neb. 759 (87 N. W. 911).

——— Bill of particulars.

489. (1884.) A bill of particulars in a justice's court which sets out a copy of the notes sued on, and alleges that there is due thereon from the defendant to the plaintiff a specified sum, is sufficient. Freeman v. Burks, 16 Neb. 328 (20 N. W. 207).

490. (1885.) Where an action is brought on a promissory note before a justice of the peace, and the note is copied by him into his docket and a summons issued thereon, it is a sufficient bill of particulars. Phœnix Ins. Co. v. Lemke, 18 Neb. 184 (34 N. W. 727).

Answer.

491. (1877.) An answer, in an action on a note, setting up a former suit by another person and a recovery therein, but containing no allegation that the payee disposed of his interest in the note to the plaintiff in such suit, does not constitute a defense to the present action. Brandt v. Abers, 6 Neb. 504.

492. (1880.) A general averment in an answer to a petition on a promissory note, that the defendant "received no consideration" therefor, is controlled and completely nullified by a statement of facts and circumstances in the same answer showing that it is untrue, and that there was in fact a good and sufficient consideration. McCormick v. Barry, 10 Neb. 207 (4 N. W. 1014).

493. (1880.) An averment in an answer that the note was given for a certain kind of "reaper and mower combined," but that the one received was in some respects different; and that the defendant, a year afterwards, "notified" the seller "concerning said machine," but omitting to state of what such notification consisted, is immaterial, and constitutes no defense. McCormick v. Barry, 10 Neb. 207 (4 N. W. 1014).

Digitized by Google

494. (1884.) An allegation in answer that only a specified sum is due on the note in suit is a mere conclusion, and does not of itself constitute a defense to the action. Hager v. Blake, 16 Neb. 12 (19 N. W. 780).

www.libool.com.cn

495. (1884.) An answer alleging that the note was given for a patented article and the patent right thereto, and that the patent was void for want of novelty, but which fails to allege that the patented article was without value, does not state a defense. Wilch v. Phelps, 16 Neb. 515 (20 N. W. 840).

496. (1887.) In an action on a note, an answer alleging that the payees at the time the note was given, agreed with defendant that, if he would give the note for the amount expressed upon its face, they would forward him goods to the amount of $3,000, to make good certain overcharges and off-sets claimed by him, growing out of previous transactions in the purchase of merchandise of them by him, but that they had failed so to do, to his damage, etc.; that plaintiff took the note without consideration, after maturity, and with full knowledge of all the facts connected with its execution and of his rights as against it, held to state a defense. Haggerty v. Walker, 21 Neb. 596 (33 N. W. 244).

497. (1888.) A party charging fraud and misrepresentation must plead the facts, and a mere allegation of fraud or misrepresentation is not sufficient. Tepoel v. Saunders County Nat. Bank, 24 Neb. 815 (40 N. W. 415).

498. (1889.) In an action by the assignee against the assignor of a note against which the defense of usury had been successfully urged, to recover the amount paid therefor, where the answer alleged that defendant had informed plaintiff of each and every defect in said note and defense to which it was subject, a motion, to require such answer to be made more specific by stating the manner in which plaintiff gave such information, is properly overruled. McDuffie v. Bentley, 27 Neb. 380 (43 N. W. 123).

499. (1890.) In an action on a note by an assignee thereof, where defendant answers, alleging fraud in its inception, and plaintiff without demurring, replies and goes to trial, the court should not direct a verdict for plaintiff on the ground that the answer states no defense. Haggland v. Stuart, 29 Neb. 69 (45 N. W. 263).

500. (1890.) An answer alleging that the note sued on has been indorsed by plaintiff to a third party as collateral security and that it still remained in the hands of such indorsee, sets up a good defense and is not demurrable. Johnson v. Chilson, 29 Neb. 301 (45 N. W. 462).

501. (1893.) An allegation in an answer, "And the defendants as a separate defense say that the note declared upon has been fully satisfied and delivered to the defendants for cancellation," is a sufficient allegation of payment. Smith v. Gardner, 36 Neb. 741 (55 N. W. 245).

502. (1894.) Plea of usury must state facts showing when, where, at what rate, and with whom alleged usurious agreement was made; otherwise no evidence should be admitted in support of it. Rainbolt v. Strang, 39 Neb. 339 (58 N. W. 96).

503. (1894.) An answer to an action on a note by an indorsee, the defense being usury, wherein it is alleged there was an agreement to loan defendant money without stating how much, does not state a good defense as there is no appearance of usury from such pleading. Rainbolt v. Strang, 39 Neb. 339 (58 N. W. 96).

504. (1895.) In an action on a note by the payee against two makers, one answered alleging that he was surety thereon for the other, that he was induced to sign said note by means of the representations of the plaintiff to the effect that he had been requested by the principal to become surety for him, the principal, but that such statement was wholly false, and made for the purpose of fraudulently inducing him to become a party to said note. Held, To state a defense. Gist v. Feitz, 43 Neb. 238 (61 N. W. 621).

505. (1896.) Answer examined, and held to charge a failure of consideration only and not fraud in the inception of the notes sued upon. Crosby v. Ritchey, 47 Neb. 924 (66 N. W. 1005).

506. (1897.) In a suit by an indorsee of a note against the maker, held that the answer fails to state a defense. First Nat. Bank of Dubuque v. McKibben, 50 Neb. 513 (70 N. W. 38).

507. (1898.) An answer in an action on a note, given by a surety alone as a renewal note, alleging an agreement that the plaintiff would hold the note until other signers could be found when it would be returned to defendant does not state a defense. State Bank of Ceresco v. Belk, 56 Neb. 710 (77 N. W. 58).

Digitized by Google

www.lltool.com.cn

508. (1898.) In a suit on a note secured by collateral, an answer which simply avers that the creditor still has possession of the collateral security pledged to him, but does not allege that the debt sued for has been paid, is not a good plea of conversion. Carson's Executors v. Buckstaff, 57 Neb. 262 (77 N. W. 670).

509. (1899.) An allegation in the answer, that the note sued on is not owned by plaintiff but is the property of another certain person, alleges a good defense and is not demurrable. Van Housen v. Broehl, 59 Neb. 48 (80 N. W. 260).

510. (1903.) The plea of duress as a defense to an action upon a contract is sufficient if it shows that, by reason of threats or other unlawful means, the defendant was deprived of his free will and understanding, and that the contract sued upon was not his free and voluntary act. Nebraska Mutual Bond Ass'n v. Klee, 70 Neb. 383 (97 N. W. 476).

Demurrer.

511. (1876.) Alleged defects in a petition that "a copy of the note sued on is not attached to or filed with" it, and that "the names of parties are not properly entitled," can only be reached by motion. They are not grounds for demurrer. Lash v. Christie, 4 Neb. 262.

Reply.

512. (1877.) When an answer contains an allegation that one of several defendants, joint makers of a promissory note, was in reality only a surety thereon, to which allegation there was no reply, it will be taken as true. Dillon v. Russell & Holmes, 5 Neb. 484.

Issues and proof.

513. (1880.) In an action on a promissory note, circular letters signed by the payee of the note, and sent to the maker after maturity, urging payment, is not admissible under a defense of want of consideration. Knowlton v. Parsons, 10 Neb. 502 (6 N. W. 605).

514. (1883.) Where in an action on a note it appeared that the note for fifteen hundred dollars was obtained by fraud, in that the maker, an old, infirm and nearly blind man, supposed he was signing a note for thirty dollars, and judgment is rendered for defendant, the plaintiff cannot assign for error that he was entitled to a judgment for the thirty dollars, where he did not offer to amend his petition. Griffith v. Short, 14 Neb. 259 (15 N. W. 335).

515. (1895.) Where suit is brought upon a note by the pledgee thereof, evidence that plaintiff took other security and agreed to release the note is inadmissible under an answer that the debt for which the note was pledged had been paid. First Nat. Bank of Omaha v. Chilson, 45 Neb. 257 (63 N. W. 362).

516. (1896.) Evidence contradictory of the terms of a promissory note cannot furnish a defense to such note when it is admitted by defendants that such note was duly executed by them. Miller v. Gunderson, 48 Neb. 715 (67 N. W. 769).

517. (1899.) That for a promissory note in suit by an indorsee there was a lack or want of consideration, the consideration has failed, or that it has been paid prior to its transfer, of any or all of which the indorsee had notice at or prior to the acquirement of title to the paper, or for any other legal reason they exist as equities against the debt of the note in his hands, are defenses, and to be pleaded in the answer for the party defendant. Knight v. Finney, 59 Neb. 274 (80 N. W. 912).

518. (1901.) Although plaintiff fails to plead that he took the note sued on without notice of defense, still if defendant in his answer denies that plaintiff took the note without notice, and evidence is taken upon that question at the trial without objection, it is not error to submit it to the jury. Western Mattress Co. v. Potter, 1 Unof. 627 (95 N. W. 841).

519. (1903.) Under an answer denying the genuineness of the note sued on, testimony of a settlement of the accounts between the maker and payee thereof, at a date subsequent to the alleged making of the note, is admissible as tending to prove the non-existence of the note on that date. Gandy v. Estate of Bissell, 5 Unof. 184 (97 N. W. 632).

