PREFATORY NOTE.

IN the exhumation and rearrangement of the possessions of the Connecticut Historical Society incident to the enlargement of the Wadsworth Atheneum in 1892 was brought to notice a Diary kept by Rev. Daniel Wadsworth during the larger part of his ministry as seventh pastor of the First Church of Christ in Hartford. Mr. Wadsworth sustained this relationship from September 28, 1732, to his death on November 12, 1747. His Diary, however, was only begun on the 5th of May, 1737—nearly five years after his settlement—and it ends with his last feeble entry sometime in February, 1747, nine months before he died.

The Diary is essentially a dry, prosaic, and commonplace one. The writer of it was all his life a valetudinarian, and apparently at no time a man of keenness of observation or pungency of expression. He was a timid, cautious, sincere-hearted pastor, distinctly evangelic in spirit and inspired by a conscientious if not strenuous desire to do a good part in his time. His time, however, was rather a dull one in his church's history save for two features, one of lesser and one of far larger concern. The matter of lesser importance was the building of a new church edifice, the second one in the church's history, to take the place of the old one erected by the first fathers on this soil. The other was the episode in religious affairs marked by the preachings of George Whitefield and his followers and known as the time of the "Great Awakening." In his relation to this passage of our New England story Mr. Wadsworth—and with him the great body of his church—took a conservative attitude.

And for readers outside of Hartford associations it is doubtless this feature of the present Diary which will lend it most interest. The observations made by its writer upon this most memorable portion of the history of his time are indeed painfully lacking in the racy and picturesque qualities we might naturally look for; but they avail, nevertheless, to show clearly the perplexities and struggles of a class of devout and sincere Christian ministers, of whom Mr. Wadsworth was only one among many, who were not able to sympathize with the new measures introduced by the Great Awakening, and respecting whom, for that reason, some of their contemporaries and many of their posterity have formed a perhaps too severe judgment. These pages will at least show that if these more conservative men and churches did not do exactly what might have been wisest, they were conscientious in what they did, and in the way they thought best were earnest and faithful workers.

The mortuary records in this Diary, though of a most meager quality, supply in some measure a real lack in the written annals of the time in which Mr. Wadsworth exercised his ministry in Hartford; his official church-record, while minuting most church actions, taking no notice of the deaths of his parishioners or of others in the community.

But, such as these annals are, it has seemed to the present writer best to rescue them from their century and a half of oblivion. Impelled primarily by a desire to illuminate as far as possible the history of that First Church of Christ in Hartford, toward which object he has hitherto made sundry endeavors, the editor of these Wadsworth memorials has lovingly studied out these tracings of the hand of a predecessor in the pastoral office, and endeavored to bring that predecessor and the events among which he moved to some degree of life again, so far as the very dusty materials at command would allow.

To do this, however, it has not seemed necessary to print absolutely every daily entry in the Diary, nor in all cases every word of such entries as are made. It did not seem expedient to reproduce every instance of perpetually recurring phrases like the following: "This day in Studying, rainy weather," "This day visiting, nothing remarkable occurs," "Laboured under much indisposition, little study," "Little done, pleasant weather," "O y^t god might help me in my duty," "O y^t my heart might be quickened by divine grace." Expressions of which these are examples, constituting the only entry for a day, occur very frequently, and often for several days together. Enough of them probably are retained to satisfy any reader of the following pages that some scores or perhaps hundreds of such expressions have been properly omitted altogether.

A few transcribed passages from books Mr. Wadsworth was reading—passages not apparently illuminative either of his character or situation, but probably copied by him to fix them in his memory—have also been left unreproduced in this publication.

With these exceptions it has been the aim of this transcript to give the Diary just as Mr. Wadsworth left it; carefully preserving all references to events, places, and persons mentioned, and retaining the contractions, spellings, punctuations, and non-punctuations of the original autograph.

As to the personal history of the author other than as it is indicated in his Diary it must suffice here to say :

Rev. Daniel Wadsworth was born in Farmington, November 14, 1704. He was great-grandson of William Wadsworth, an original settler in Hartford; a man prominent in all public affairs of the little commonwealth till his death in 1676. William's son John—a brother of the Joseph who hid the charter—settled in Farmington, and there John's son, John, and his grandson Daniel were born.

Daniel was educated at Yale College, graduating in 1726, in the same class with Elnathan Whitman, son of his Farmington pastor, and destined to be his associate in the Hartford ministry as pastor of the Second Church. Young Wadsworth seems to have been employed to some extent after his college course as a surveyor of land, memoranda indicative of this fact remaining in various forms among papers left by him. He was employed in 1730 on the survey of the contested boundary between Farmington and Wethersfield; and in 1730 and 1731 he was one of the Deputies for Farmington in the General Assembly.

He probably secured the chief part of his theological training—and if so doubtless in companionship with his college-classmate and boyhood companion Elnathan Whitman—under the supervision of Rev. Samuel Whitman, the Farmington pastor. His ministry in Hartford began in some service of assistance occasioned by the failing health of his predecessor, the venerable Timothy Woodbridge, who died April 30, 1732, after a ministerial connection with the First Church of forty-eight years and eight months. His ordination to the pastorate took place September 28, 1732. The procedure on the occasion he himself inscribed on the church record as follows:

“The Rev^d M^r Whitman [of Farmington] began with pray^r and preached a Sermon from Matt. 24. 45., the Rev^d M^r Edwards made a pray^r and gave y^e Charge, the Rev^d M^r Colton gave the Right hand of fellowship.”

Mr. Wadsworth followed the establishment of his ecclesiastical relations by the formation of social ones, marrying, February 28, 1734, Abigail Talcott, daughter of Governor Joseph Talcott by the governor's second wife Eunice (Howell), widow of Rev. Jabez Wakeman.

Mr. Wadsworth died November 12, 1747, lacking two days of forty-three years of age, having filled a pastoral term of fifteen years and two months. He left a widow and six children.¹ He was one of the trustees of Yale College from 1743 to his death, having apparently been elected in the place of Rev. Samuel Woodbridge of East Hartford. The numbers admitted to fellowship with the church in his ministry, seventy-five to the Covenant and one hundred and three to Full Communion, do not appear to be large for the Great Awakening period, but the proportion of one to the other indicates a healthful condition of the church, and a sound view of things that made for its welfare in the pastor.

Personally Mr. Wadsworth was very clearly a man of kind heart and strong pastoral and family affections. He was nervous and as he himself says "bashful." He seems to have been curiously afraid of accidents, lightning, and fires. Though apparently a dyspeptic and semi-hypochondriac he was after his method a laborious and industrious man. Several hundreds of his manuscript sermons, written fine and complete on little four-by-six folios of paper, remain in the possession of the Historical Society, attesting at once his constancy in this kind of activity and also his timidity in apparently on no occasion speaking without fully written notes. He was a man of considerable property, leaving an estate valued at above £4,000. His library compared favorably with those of ministers about him in like situations, though very small measured by some nearly contemporary Boston pastors, and above all with those of Increase and Cotton Mather.

He built a house on the site of the present Atheneum building founded by his grandson, the ground in the rear being his garden. His widow survived him nearly twenty-six years, dying June 24, 1773, in her 67th year.

Mr. Wadsworth sleeps beside those who occupied his pastoral office before him in the old Hartford burying-ground.

Jeremiah married Mehitabel Russell, and became father of Daniel, the founder of the Atheneum, and of Catherine and Hannah. With this Daniel, who died in 1848 without children, the name of Wadsworth in the direct male line from Rev. Daniel Wadsworth became extinct.

A DIARY BEGAN MAY 5th. 1737.

Some years agone I began and kept a Diary¹ for some time but being unsettled in y^e world and my business often calling I at length dropt that, and then kept a weekly Journal till sometime after my settling in y^e ministry, but I have now for sometime neglected that also, but being sensible of many Conveniencies y^t may accrue from private memoirs or minutes &^e I now resume and purpose to continue a Diary.

May 5. this day much indisposed for study or close application to any business. Entertained thots about projecting some scheme for y^e reforming y^e young people of my parish and endeavouring to bring y^m to a more serious concern about religion. I pray god to direct me in it.

— 6. This day spent in Studying a Sermon. I find difficult satisfying people discoursing about y^r Spiritual state; y^r want to know y^r shall be sure y^r believe, y^r y^r Love god, y^r y^r are in y^e right way, are sincere and y^e like. its difficult bringing y^m rationally to think or speak of these matters

— 7. This day under much perplexity as to w^t subject I should prepare a Sermon upon w^o is many times y^e case with me, but y^m I would remember those words go I will be with thy mouth &^e.

— 8. Lords day. this day I preached A:M. from psal. 78. 34–37. P.m. from 1. Joh. 3. 8. a very warm day. baptized 3 children, 2 persons made publick confession of scandal, & owned y^e covenant, god grant y^t y^r may bring forth fruit meet for repentance

— 9. this day not very profitably spent, so y^t I may almost say, diem perdidit. Some attempts at making a sermon, made little progress

- 10. this day spent not y^e most profitably warm, pleasant growing weather, nature revives, may grace do so likewise, as the face of the earth is renewed, so may y^e face of y^e moral world.
- 11. this day in composing a sermon studying nothing remarkable.
- 12. This day General election in this Colony Governour, Deputy Governour and other officers ¹ all chosen as in y^e year past, viz the same persons. M^r Colton ² preached y^e Election Sermon, from Joshua 24. 20
- 13. This day in reading, conversation and impertinence
- 14. this day as y^e former —
- 15. Lords day M^r. Burr ³ preached for me in y^e forenoon from Joh. 17. 17. and M^r. Hosmore ⁴ in y^e afternoon from Sam. 4. 3. 4. a very warm day
- 18. This day took a Journey to Farmington and returned. Very warm, windy &°.
- 19. this day spent in reading, Conversation &°. No great profit. a refreshing rain in y^e evening.
- 20. Spent in perplexing thots. dies sine linea
- 21. a plentiful, seasonable and refreshing rain this morning and y^e night preceeding this day spent in composing a sermon
- 22. Lords day I preached A. M. from 1 Sam. 2. 30 and P. M. from heb. 2. 6.
- 23. fair pleasant weather. get good habits day spent with little reading, to little purpose
- 26. in studying, a rainy day M^r Hall⁵ of Sutton here.
- 27. Studying a sermon, a rainy day, perplexing thoughts.

² Rev. Benjamin Colton born in Longmeadow, Mass., probably in 1690; grad. Y. C. 1710; ordained pastor of the Fourth Church of Christ in Hartford (now West Hartford) Feb. 24, 1713-14; died March 1, 1759, aged about 69 years. His sermon on this election occasion was on "The Danger of Apostacie" and was published at New London, 1738. It would be inexcusable in the present editor of these Wadsworth memorials not to acknowledge his great indebtedness for facts concerning Mr. Wadsworth's ministerial cotemporaries to Professor F. B. Dexter's Biographical Sketches of the Graduates of Yale College, a book of quite indispensable importance in all similar enquiries.

⁵ Rev. David Hall, grad. H. C. 1724. Died at Sutton, Mass., May 8, 1789, aged 84, in the sixtieth year of his ministry.

- 29. Lords day in y^e forenoon I preached for M^r Whitman¹ at y^e New Chh.² from rev. 3. 1. and P. M. in my own pulpit from 1 Joh. 3. 1. warm weather
- 30. This morning died John Pratt Jun^r very suddenly, being seized y^e morning before with an headache giddiness &^o. warm day
- 31. This day y^e general assembly adjourned without day. John Pratt buried

- 2. fair and cooler, this day Elijah Andrews was buried.
- 5. Lords day I preached A. M. from rom. 8. 28 P. M. 1 Joh. 2: 17 — under considerable difficulty and indisposition.
- 6. Warm weather, y^e querulous humour of some is unaccountable, O y^e times, y^e times, y^e badness of y^e times, is y^e burden of y^r song, and even of such as are not very remarkable for y^r good deeds neither
- 7. this day travelled to Kensington from thence to Farmington, Association held at Farmington this day
- 8. This day a lecture held at Farmington M^r Marsh³ preached from psal. 139. 17. considerable rain this day, returned Home in safety thro' gods goodness.
- 12. Lords day. I am going to y^e Sacrament of y^e Lords supper. w^t are my preparations for it am I anything grown in grace since y^e Last Sacrament, am I more holy, heavenly minded &^o
- 15. This day in reading &^o a hard thunder Storm in y^e afternoon, y^e lightning struck Thomas Burrs house.
- 17. this day in studying a Sermon, saw my uncle Thom⁴
- 19. Lords day I preacht from Deut. 32. 46. 47, per totum diem.—
- 21. This day I went to Middletown to y^e general association.
- 20. This day died y^e widow (Mary if I mistake not) Sandford, in y^e 83 year of her age, and Nathaniel Potwin an Infant the son of M^r John Potwin.

² Although the Second Church of Hartford had now been in existence for sixty-seven years and its house of worship for about the same length of time, it seems to have been popularly known as the "New Church," the "New Meeting," as various entries in this diary will plainly indicate.

² Dr. Norman Morrison, a native of Scotland, educated at Edinburgh, came to this country about 1733 or 34. A man of character and ability. He "owned the Covenant" at the First Church in Hartford, January 18, 1736. His house (Dr. Gurdon W. Russell says in his Early Medicine and Early Medical Men in Connecticut) used to stand on the site of the present Cheney Building, and now (1894) stands on Trumbull Street, and is the wooden building just north of the Charter Oak Bank. The Doctor's body was buried in his garden, and lies under a slab bearing a eulogistic inscription, surrounded by an iron fence, back of St. Paul's Church on Market Street. "He died much loved and lamented the 9th of April 1761, in the 55th year of his age."

¹ The old meeting house stood somewhere near the southeasterly side of Meeting-house Yard, or what is now called State House Square.

² The question of the location and building of a new meeting house had been now for several years the topic of active and sometimes acrimonious controversy in Mr. Wadsworth's Society. Mrs. Abigail Woodbridge, widow of the deceased pastor Timothy Woodbridge, had tendered successively two lots of ground for the purpose, on the east side of what is now Main Street, not far apart and not far from where St. John's Church now stands. Both these lots were successively accepted by the Society and successively declined; the latter under such circumstances of apparent discourtesy to the generous donor that she withdrew some time from worship with the First Church and went to the Second. The unpleasantness was, however, smoothed over by an apologetic vote by the Society, and Mrs. Woodbridge returned. The lot finally fixed upon was a compromise between those who desired to accept Mrs. Woodbridge's offer, and those who did not want to go much further south than what is now the corner of Central Row and Main Street. It is substantially the ground now occupied by the First Church.

² Rev. Samuel Woodbridge of East Hartford; grad. H. C. 1701; ordained in East Hartford March 30, 1705; Fellow of Y. C. from 1732 to 1743; died June 9, 1746. Mr. Woodbridge was now in ill health and Mr. Wadsworth's frequently recorded visits to him, made at a time when the crossing of the Great River was a more serious business than we now regard it, are interestingly indicative of his kindness of heart.

³ Rev. Samuel Whitman of Farmington (father of Rev. Elnathan Whitman of Hartford) born at Hull, Mass., grad. H. C. 1696; ordained at Farmington, Dec. 10, 1706; a Fellow of Y. C. from 1724 to 1746; died in August, 1751. An "Old Light" in his views.

⁵ Rev. Timothy Edwards of East Windsor, son of Richard Edwards of Hartford and father of Rev. Jonathan Edwards of Northampton. Mr. Edwards was born in Hartford, May 14, 1669; grad. H. C. 1691, receiving his degrees of A.B. and A.M. the same day on account of his eminent

- 25. This day Training in this Town . . . publick diversions often occasion much sin, I wish it may not be y^e case with this.
- 27. . . . Sent a letter p^r. James Bunce to my uncle James³ at New Haven.

proficiency; married Esther, daughter of Rev. Solomon Stoddard of Northampton, Nov. 6, 1694; began almost at once to preach to the new Society set off at East Windsor, but apparently not ordained as pastor till 1698; an eminently influential man, but a good deal involved in Church difficulties in his own parish; preacher of the Election Sermon in 1732, in which he paid an extended tribute to his long time friend Rev. Timothy Woodbridge of the First Church of Hartford, who had died eleven days before. Mr. Edwards died Jan. 27, 1758, at eighty-nine years of age.

¹ "The Gentleman's Magazine," the publication of which began in 1731; the reference of Mr. Wadsworth is to be found in Vol. vii, p. 371. Johnson and other eminent writers of the eighteenth century contributed to the Gentleman's Magazine, the publication of which still continues, though now mainly as the vehicle of historical and antiquarian information.

² Stafford's difficulties will be noticed further on.

¹ "The Boston News Letter;" the publication of which weekly journal began in 1704; its first number being "From Monday April 17, to Monday April 24, 1704."

² See note to Nov. 16.

⁴ Capt. Nathaniel Hooker, grandson of Rev. Samuel Hooker of Farmington, and great grandson of Rev. Thomas Hooker, was born Oct. 5, 1710; grad. Y. C. 1729. He married Eunice, daughter of Governor Talcott, and was consequently Mr. Wadsworth's brother-in-law. He lived almost directly opposite from Mr. Wadsworth, on land his mother, Mary, had inherited from her father, Nathaniel Stanley. Capt. Hooker died in Hartford Jan. 24, 1763, in his 53d year.

Preston³ was wont to say, y^t w^h wee wo'ld have any great thing to be accomplished, y^e

² Rev. Nathaniel Ward born at Haverhill in England between 1578 and 1580; educated at Emmanuel College, Cambridge, where he took his degree A.M. in 1603; rector of Standon Massey in Essex; came to New England in 1634; pastor some years at Ipswich, Mass.; returned to England late in 1646; became minister at Shenfield near his first charge, where he died, probably about 1653. He wrote several books, the most famous of which—"The Simple Cobler of Aggawam"—was published in 1647.

³ Rev. John Preston, 1587-1628, a celebrated Puritan divine. Master of Emmanuel College, Cambridge. The quotation is from Mather in his account of Rev. John Eliot, Magnalia, Book III.

Feby. 4. This day rec^d. a present from Doct^r. Colman⁴ of some

The reference to "proposals for subscriptions" for Dr. Guyse's and Dr. Doddridge's books would seem to indicate that they were intended to be published if not jointly at least near together. In point of fact the work of Dr. John Guyse (b. at Hertford, England, 1680, died 1761) entitled Paraphrase on the New Testament, was published in three quarto volumes in 1739-42: while the far more popular and useful work of Philip Doddridge (b. 1702; minister successively at Kibworth, Market Harborough, and Northampton; died Oct., 1751) entitled, The Family Expositor, etc., six volumes quarto, was not published till 1760-62, after the author's death.

 - 14. This day warm weather My people sledded wood for me, bro't about 43 Loads.
 - 15. This day M^r. Hez. Bissel² was ordained at Wintonbury.

² Rev. Hezekiah Bissell, born at East Windsor Jan. 30, 1710-11; grad. Y. C. 1733; studied theology with his pastor, Rev. Timothy Edwards, ordained in a new parish called Wintonbury, (now Bloomfield), set off in southwestern part of Windsor, Feb. 15, 1738; continued pastor, though for the later years in a paralytic state, till his death Jan. 28, 1783.

¹ Rev. Jonathan Barber, born at West Springfield, Jan. 31, 1712-13; grad. Y. C. 1730; licensed to preach by Hampshire Co. Association in 1732; preached to the Indians in the Mohegan country north of New London awhile; then gathered a congregation in a part of Southold, L. I., called Oyster Ponds. About 1740, inflamed with the reports of Whitefield's evangelistic labors, and kindled by contact with Rev. James Davenport, he set out on a revivalistic tour of Long Island. Meeting Whitefield on his first arrival in New England Mr. Whitefield was so much pleased with him that he offered him the superintendency of his Orphan House in Georgia. Mr. Barber remained in Georgia about seven years, but returning to Oyster Ponds he was ordained Nov. 9, 1757. His work there was short, however, for on Nov. 3, 1758, he was installed pastor of the church in Groton, where he died October 8, 1783.

² Rev. William Hooper, pastor (from May 18, 1737) of the West Church in Boston, a new organization formed the year previous to Mr. Wadsworth's visit. After nine years' service Mr. Hooper went to England and was ordained an Episcopal minister and returning to Boston became (Aug. 28, 1747) rector of Trinity Church.

- 8. This day went to Durham to see my good uncle, found him sick, but not so bad as my fears.
- 10. This day (as I hear) y^e Commission^{rs}. Court is to be opened at Horse Neck
- 11. This day Election Govern^r. & Dep. Govern^r. as in y^e year past.
- 14. Lords day M^r. Burr preached for me . . .

- 19. M^r. White of East Hampton here. Dan^l. Goodwin y^e post to Rhoad Island returned agents added Fitch & Fowler.
- 20. This day credibly Informed concerning an extraordinary child (I had sometime before heard off) one Turner at New Haven, that at 18 months old w^o. was on y^e 2^d day of Instant May, weighed 46½ pounds and as to bigness, speech, strength and behaviour equals a child of five or six years old.
- 21. Lords day I preached from prov. 11. 11. per totum, pleasant weather
- 22. M^r. Nott ² of Saybrook here
- 24. This day y^e Commissioners Court was to sit at Norwich, may Connecticutt be saved from destroyers
- 25. This day died my dear Mother Madam Eunice Talcot³

² Rev. Abraham Nott, born at Wethersfield, Jan. 29, 1696-97; grad. Y. C. 1720; ordained pastor of the church in connection with the Second Ecclesiastical Society in Saybrook Nov. 16, 1725; continued in that relation till his death January 24, 1756.

³ Mrs. Eunice Talcott was Governor Talcott's second wife, the daughter of Matthew Howell of Southampton, L. I., and the widow of Rev. Jabez Wakeman of Newark, New Jersey. Her death occurred while the General Assembly was in session and public business was pressing. The Lieutenant-Governor was absent at the Commissioners' Court in Norwich; so not to delay concerns of wider interest the Governor returned to the State House and presided in the session of the Upper

Consort to y^e Honb^{le} Joseph Talcot Esq^r. about 12 o'clock in y^e forenoon. She was seized about 11 o'clock with (as supposed an Epileptick) fit, sitting in her chair in usual health: Teach me O God to number my days aright

- 27. This day in y^e afternoon Mad^m Eunice Talcot was Interred. Bearers were Maj^r. Elles, Capt. Standly, Capt. Whiting, Capt. Oz. Pitkin, Maj^r. Pierce & Maj^r. Burr, the coffin covered with black cloath, and four escutcheons fixed upon it; there was a vast Concourse of people, it was y^e Largest funeral that ever I saw in Connecticut.

- 8. This day M^r Russel^s of Middletown and M^r. Woodbridge^s of Glastonbury here

House in the afternoon. "A joint committee was appointed by both Houses to confer on what might be proper to offer to his Honor on the sudden and sorrowful event, and the Lower House also appointed Mr. Speaker, the Clerk, and Capt. Samuel Willard, to draw an address of condolence," which with the Governor's reply is printed in the Massachusetts Historical Society's Collections, 3d series, 1, 246, and also in Palfrey's History of New England, Vol. iv, 583, 584.

² Rev. William Russell born at Middletown Nov. 20, 1690; grad. Y. C. 1709; ordained successor to his father, Rev. Noadiah Russell, in the pastorate at Middletown, June 1, 1715; Fellow of Y. C. 1745 till his death, June 1, 1761, on the anniversary of his ordination, after a ministry of forty-six years. He preached the Election Sermon in May 14, 1730.

³ Rev. Ashbel Woodbridge, son of Rev. Timothy Woodbridge of the First Church of Hartford, born June, 1704; grad. Y. C. 1724; ordained at Glastonbury, Oct. 23, 1728; Fellow of Y. C. 1755 till his death in the Glastonbury pastorate Aug. 6, 1758. He preached the Election Sermon in May, 1752.

- 27. John Shepherd here at night. appointed y^e 2^d Sabbath in July for his admission to y^e chh. I pray God to direct and assist him in preparing for it.

² Rev. Joseph Moody the more eccentric son of an eccentric father, Rev. Samuel Moody of York, Me. Joseph, the son, was born in 1700; grad. at H. C. 1718; at first a Town Clerk, Register of Deeds, and Judge of Probate, in which functions he did well, but was overpersuaded by his father to become a minister. He was a considerable part of his life a hypochondriac, and in extended periods wore a handkerchief over his face, at which time he would turn his back toward his congregation, and lift the handkerchief so far as to read his sermon with his face to the wall. He was widely known from this habit as "Handkerchief Moody." He was a good man; is said to have been marvelously gifted in prayer; he spent the latter years of his life in the seclusion of a voluntary retirement from society, and died in 1753.

² Rev. William Burnham of the Second Society in Farmington (now Kensington), born in Wethersfield; grad. H. C. 1702; settled as pastor Dec., 1712; died Sept., 1750. Under Mr. Burnham's ministry a prayer and conference meeting existed, at which the brethren presided in rotation, each one naming the next to preside and designating the Scripture passage to be considered. The explanation of this (at this date) unusual practice is probably to be found that Mr. Burnham had lived an unordained person among the people of his charge for five years previous to his becoming their official pastor.

³ Afterward Rev. Chauncy Whittlesey³ of the First Church in New Haven. He was born at Wallingford, Oct. 8, 1717; grad. Y. C. 1738; tutor in Y. C. six years; in business in N. H. ten or twelve years though preaching occasionally; ordained pastor of the First Church, as colleague with Rev. Mr. Noyes, March 1, 1758; continued after Mr. Noyes' death, in the sole pastorate till he died July 24, 1787. He preached the Election Sermon May 14, 1778.

⁴ Samuel Williams, son of Rector Williams. He had graduated three years before, in 1735, and was now probably giving his Master's oration. He was born in the Newington parish of Wethersfield, Aug. 16, 1720; and died, two years later than this event mentioned by Mr. Wadsworth, Nov. 15, 1740, at Wethersfield.

² This Council was called on one special phase of a controversy which in various forms had a good while continued between Rev. Timothy Edwards and his Church at East Windsor. The sons et origo of the difficulty was an opposition between pastor and people about church-government; the pastor being a strong advocate of the Ecclesiastical System established at Saybrook in 1708; the church claiming to be Congregational according to the system of the Westminster Platform adopted at Cambridge in 1649.

The particular point round which the antagonism just now centered was the case of one Joseph Diggins, whom Mr. Edwards refused to allow the church privilege of Owning the Covenant and having his child baptized; alleging against him the "scandalous offence of having married Mr. William Stoughton's daughter contrary to her father's wish." The church sustained Mr. Diggins' claim; Mr. Edwards refused to hear the church, affirming a right of negative on the church, and that until his opinion changed it was useless for the church to meddle in the matter. The matter will be referred to again.

¹ A further stage of the Edwards-Diggins affair (see ante, p. 37, note). Mr. Edwards since the last Council had charged Mr. Diggins with having broken the Fifth and Eighth Commandments, and called a church meeting for his trial. The church sustained Mr. Diggins and pronounced him not guilty. From this verdict Mr. Edwards and two of the church members dissented, and called a Council to judge in the matter. The Council met as above and decided in favor of the Church. The Council, however, commended Mr. Edwards for his "tenderness, prudence, faithfulness and caution" in the matter; suggested if the pastor had scruples not to be overcome that Mr. Diggins' friends cease to press for his admission to the Covenant; and that Diggins better apply to some other minister and church for the privileges which Mr. Edwards did not see his way to accord. With this two-sided "Conclusion Late at night," the Council broke up. But the trouble, as we shall see, was not over.

² The vigorous administration of the Consociation System established by law in Connecticut had led to a conception of Congregationalism little different from Presbyterianism. Ministers and churches alike forgot the principles of the first founders of Congregationalism on the soil, and even forgot the name except to condemn it. They called themselves Presbyterians, in contrast with the few churches here and there (East Windsor whose troubles we have had occasion to notice among them) which were disposed to adhere to what was called the Strict Congregational Way, i. e., such churches clung to the Cambridge Platform of 1649, and denied the binding authority of the Saybrook System. So Mr. Wadsworth called the Southington church, now struggling into existence, a Presbyterian church; just as Dr. Strong, seventy-five years later, used to print on the title-page of the sermons preached by him in the First Church in Hartford, "By Nathan Strong, Pastor of the North Presbyterian Church."

³ Rev. Jared Eliot, born in Guilford, Nov. 7, 1685; grad. Y. C. 1706; ordained at Killingworth (now Clinton) Oct. 26, 1709; trustee of Y. C. from 1730 till his death; an "Old Light" in

² Rev. Moses Dickinson, born in Springfield, Mass., Dec. 12, 1695; grad. Y. C. 1717; preached several years in New Jersey; installed at Norwalk Nov. 1, 1727; Fellow of Y. C. from 1758 to 1777; a controversial writer and publisher of several tracts on current discussions; a moderate "New Light" in sentiment. He died May 1, 1778, aged 82 years.

² Rev. Elisha Webster, b. at West Hartford, Nov. 12, 1713; grad. at Y. C. 1738; ordained Oct. 1, 1740, at Canaan. He was an "Old Light" in the divisions attending the Great Awakening period and consequently obnoxious to Bellamy and the other New Light leaders in his vicinity, who, there is some evidence to suppose, fomented disturbances in his parish resulting in his dismissal in 1746 or 47. He died at Southington Jan. 29, 1788. The title "Sir" applied to him by Mr. Wadsworth was a customary designation of a man who had taken his bachelors degree at college; perhaps oftenest applied to those, however, looking to the clerical profession, between their graduation and their ordination.

² Mr. Wadsworth was at this time Scribe of the Association. But the probability is that the meeting was a meeting of the Standing Committee spoken of ante, p. 25, note, rather than of the Association itself, as its records bear no evidence of a meeting at the time specified. The persons to whom Mr. Wadsworth wrote were Revs. Timothy Woodbridge, Benj. Colton, Jonathan Marsh, and Hezekiah Bissell.

² The king's proclamation of war against Spain having been made, the Assembly at its following sessions in May, June, and July made provision for raising troops for an expedition against the West Indies. The troops were to be under the general command of Col. Spotswood, till joined by the regular troops from Great Britain, the whole then to be under the command of Lord Cathcart. They were to be paid by the king; to share in the booty; sent back home unless they desired to settle elsewhere; their local officers were to be appointed by the governor and commissioned by the king, and five pounds premium was offered for enlistment up to five hundred men.

¹ A further stage of the East Windsor difficulty. Mr. Edwards had refused to abide by the acquittal of Mr. Diggins by the church (ante, p. 37, note), and declined to accord to him the privilege of seeking church fellowship elsewhere as recommended by the last Council. Mr. Diggins, therefore, made formal charges of maladministration against the pastor. The pastor called a Council. To this council the church propounded four questions for advice:

1. Concerning the pastor's power to appoint the messengers of the church.
2. Concerning the pastor's power to negative the action of the church.
3. Concerning the pastor's power to determine what complaints should come before the church.
4. The case of Joseph Diggins.

The first three of these questions went to the root of the Windsor difficulties, but the Council declined to consider them at all, though professing willingness to give advice on the Diggins' case only. Meantime the strained relations of the church and pastor had been such that for nearly three years no Lord's Supper had been administered. The advice of the present Council, thus limited, was apparently of little consequence.

As to the future progress of the controversy, it appears that Mr. Diggins, at the importunity of his brethren, withdrew his complaint against Mr. Edwards; and on Aug. 11, 1741, eighteen of the leading men of the church addressed Mr. Edwards a letter, regretting that the Council had not given them the advice they asked; deploring the opposition of opinion between pastor and people on questions of church order, but asking, nevertheless, that the Lord's Supper might be administered. The pastor acceded to the request and "propounded the Sacrament"; the disturbed condition of things manifested itself in various ways, however, for several years to come.

² The Stafford Church and Society had been some time in discord with their minister, Rev. Seth Payne. Mr. Payne was born in Braintree, Massachusetts, Jan. 16, 1701-2. He grad. Y. C. 1726, and was ordained at Stafford Aug. 7, 1734. Difficulties soon arose and grave charges were brought against him. The Council which met as above did not find the charges sustained, but, as is seen, advised his resignation. He took the advice and resigned July 24th, but continued to reside in Stafford. He tried to collect arrearages of salary by legislative aid, but failed. In 1745 he became Episcopalian and offered to go to England for Orders if the Society for Propagating the Gospel would send him. The encouragement appears not to have been afforded. He is supposed to have died in Stafford early in 1753.

² Rev. Jonathan Parsons of Lyme; born at West Springfield, Mass., Nov. 30, 1705; grad. Y. C. 1729; ordained at Lyme, March 17, 1730-31. At his settlement he was an ardent Arminian, but became, as he thought, converted under Mr. Whitefield's preaching in 1740, and followed in a like itinerating course of evangelizing effort. Difficulties arose in his congregation and he was dismissed in October, 1745. In March, 1746, he was installed pastor of a Presbyterian church in Newburyport, Mass. He published many sermons, among which was one on the death of Rev. George Whitefield, an event which took place at Mr. Parsons' house in Newburyport in September, 1770. He was a devout and earnest man, though somewhat hasty in temper. He was one of the most active laborers in the Great Awakening period. His death was on July 19, 1776.

¹ Apparently the "decay of the pulpit" was a theme which troubled people in 1740 as much as in 1800 and probably with about as much reason.

² Rev. Josiah Smith, born in Charleston, South Carolina, in 1704; grad. H. C. 1725; ordained at Boston July 11, 1726, but performed his ministerial service mainly in Bermuda and Charleston. When Mr. Whitefield was denied admission to the Episcopal pulpits in Charleston Mr. Smith published the sermon above referred to on the "Character, Preaching, etc., of the Rev. George Whitefield impartially represented and supported," 1740. Mr. Smith died in Philadelphia in October, 1781.

- 22. This day Mr. Whitefield preached in y^e forenoon to a vast Concourse of people here from Rom. 14. 17 verse. and in y^e afternoon at Weathersfield from 2 Cor. 5. lat: part of y^e 14. verse. old things are past away &°. w^t to think of y^e man and his Itinerant preachings I scarcely know: y^e things w^e I know not I pray god to teach me, wherein I am in error I pray god to discover it to me, wherein I have embraced y^e truth I pray god y^t I might hold it fast to y^e end.

Nov. 1740

Timothy. On the way Mr. Edwards cautioned Mr. Whitefield about his habit of declaiming against the ministers who did not at once fall into line with his methods as unconverted men; a caution which Mr. Edwards thought was rather unfavorably received. He preached on the way from Northampton on Monday at Westfield and Springfield, Mass.; on Tuesday at Suffield and at East Windsor. On Wednesday, Oct. 22d, he was at Hartford and Wethersfield. From Wethersfield he went via Middletown and Wallingford to New Haven, preaching at each place by the way. Thence after holding several services at New Haven, he departed, preaching as he went, through Milford, Stratford, Fairfield, and Norwalk to Rye and New York.

¹ It is not strange (quite aside from any questions of ecclesiastical order or of religious methods) that Mr. Wadsworth and all the other ministers should have been made "thoughtfull" by such an apparition among them as George Whitefield. The ministers of New England at the period, with very few exceptions, preached from closely written manuscripts, which must generally have been held in the hand, and often close to the eyes, and with few or no graces of manner or elocution. Here suddenly appeared among them a man whom nature had endowed with some of the greatest gifts of an orator; a splendid physique, a marvelous voice, a vivid dramatic power, and one who seemed to pour forth his torrent of seemingly unpremeditated speech without fatigue or study. It was a novel experience to listen to such a man. New England congregations had never heard the like; New England ministers were startled by the phenomenon. Most of the accounts present the picture of a man who at any time and anywhere would have commanded applauding crowds. Yet it is but fair to say there was, certainly, another side to the picture. Aside from his censoriousness, his uncharitableness in judging men as good as himself as "unconverted", his overweening confidence in his own ability to know the mind of the Lord and the Lord's judgment respecting men, there were, sometimes at least, drawbacks to the worthiness of his style of speech, even as a Christian orator, which have been often too entirely forgotten in the general acclaim which accompanied and has followed him. Rev. Jonathan Mayhew of Boston (a certainly competent though doubtless not a sympathetic critic) said "I heard him [Whitefield] once, and it was as low, confused, puerile, conceited, ill-natured, enthusiastic a performance as I ever heard."

March begins.

Mch. 1. Lords day I preached per totum from Jam. 48. and ad-

¹ Rev. Samuel Newell, born in Farmington (Southington district) March 1, 1714; grad. Y. C. 1739; just at this date studying theology and probably licensed. His preaching at this time and point of experience at Mr. Wadsworth's church is one instance among many discoverable in these notes of Mr. Wadsworth's habit of availing himself of the services of very young ministers; perhaps for their encouragement as well as for his own need. Mr. Newell was preaching in East Hartford a few months later than this, but was not ordained till Aug. 12, 1747, at New Cambridge (now Bristol) where he continued in the pastorate till his death Feb. 10, 1789. He was a "New Light" in his period.

² Rev. Benjamin Pomroy, born in Suffield, Nov. 19, 1704; grad. Y. C. 1733; ordained at Hebron, Dec. 16, 1735. An active sympathizer with Whitefield and the new measures; according to Rev. Absalom Peters "a most thundering preacher of the new light order"; one of the trustees of Dartmouth College, from which institution he received the degree of D. D. in 1774. He died at Hebron Dec. 22, 1784, aged 80 years. There will be occasion to refer to him hereafter.

Parmenas King received it. at night preached at M^r. Churches from 1. King: 18: 21. y^e great river continues froze. Yesterday horses passed over on y^e Ice and this day men passed over on foot.

¹ Rev. Jonathan Edwards, son of Rev. Timothy of East Windsor, and grandson of Richard Edwards of the First Church of Hartford. Born at East Windsor Oct. 5, 1703; grad. Y. C. 1720; declined calls to North Haven and Bolton; ordained at Northampton Feb. 15, 1726-7; dismissed in June, 1750; removed to Stockbridge in 1751; chosen President of the College of New Jersey in 1757; inaugurated to that office Feb. 16, 1758; died of inoculation for small-pox March 22, 1758. "The most eminent graduate of Yale College, the greatest theologian of his century, the ablest metaphysician of the period between Leibnitz and Kant." Dexter's Yale Graduates, p. 218. His text at this lecture, "From the days of John the Baptist until now the kingdom of heaven suffereth violence and the violent take it by force," obviously indicates that his discourse was keyed to the religious interest now prevailing.

² Rev. Joseph Meacham, born at Enfield; grad. H. C. 1710; settled at Coventry Oct., 1714; died Dec. 16, 1752.

³ Rev. Eleazer Wheelock, born at Windham, April 22, 1711; grad. Y. C. 1733; ordained at the North Parish in Lebanon, June 4, 1735. An active participator in the Great Awakening movement, coöperating with Pomroy and James Davenport, which last named minister was his wife's half-brother. He took boys into his house for instruction (among others the Indian boy who became the celebrated Rev. Samson Occom) and thus gradually established an institution which came to be known about 1755 as "Moor's Indian Charity School." This enterprise developing and finding European patrons, especially by the aid of Occom who went to England for the purpose, it was deemed best to expand the institution to collegiate proportions, and, as Governor Benning Wentworth offered a tract of land in aid, the College was planted in New Hampshire and named Dartmouth College from the young Earl of that title who had been one of its benefactors. Dr. Wheelock, who had received his degree from Edinburgh University, was dismissed from Lebanon, April 15, 1770, and removed to Hanover, N. H., continuing in the arduous duties of his new calling as President, Professor of Divinity, and Pastor of the College Church till his death, April 24, 1779. He was of course a strenuous "New Light." He published successive "Narratives" of the state of his school, and other pamphlets and discourses, and left many manuscripts, some of which have been published since his death.

- 13. This day a letter from my good friend M^r. Sergeant by his Lieut. Aaron² &°. This day comes news y^t y^e English have

² Lieutenant Aaron was an Indian of the Housatonic tribe by the name of Umpacheene. In furtherance of the mission enterprise among these Indians Governor Belcher, who was much interested in the success of the endeavor, conferred commissions sometime in 1734 upon two of them, who were known respectively as Captain Konkapot and Lieutenant Umpacheene. When, later, in 1735, a church came to be formed, and Mr. Sergeant was ordained pastor, these two Indians among others were received as members, and baptized with more familiar names. Capt. Nov. 2, 1735, was baptized "John," and his wife "Mary"; and on Nov. 16th, Lieutenant Um-pacheene and his wife were baptized "Aaron" and "Hannah." Lieut. Aaron was a useful man in his tribe and in the mission; and though at sometimes overtaken with the Indians' easily besetting sin, a love for the strong drink which unscrupulous white men put in his way, lived on the whole a creditable Christian life. Of his wife Mr. Sergeant often spoke warmly as a virtuous and valuable woman.

¹ Carthagenia is the capital and chief town of Colombia, South America. The fleet under Admiral Vernon gained a victory over the harbor defences; but the land attack which followed, under General Wentworth, suffered disastrous repulse, resulting in the abandonment of the siege, as Mr. Wadsworth afterward has occasion to note.

² Rev. Solomon Williams of Lebanon, who preached the Election Sermon on this occasion, was born at Hatfield, Mass., Jan., 1701; grad. H. C. 1719; ordained at Lebanon, Dec. 5, 1722. He was one of the most eminent men of his period; a cousin of Jonathan Edwards with whom he was brought into controversy in the Half-Way Covenant discussion. He was inclined to the "Old Light" position in the Whitefieldian troubles. He died Feb. 29, 1776, in the fifty-fourth year of his honorable ministry.

³ Rev. Jedidiah Mills of Ripton (now Huntington); born at Windsor March 23, 1697; grad. Y. C. 1722; ordained at Ripton, Feb. 12, 1723-4. An ardent supporter of Whitefield, and the "New Light" party, and himself an itinerating evangelist. He continued in his pastoral relation nearly fifty-two years, dying "greatly lamented," Jan. 19, 1776.

⁴ Probably Rev. Elisha Kent of Newtown. Born at Suffield, Mass., July 9, 1704; grad. Y. C. 1729; ordained at Newtown, Sept. 27, 1732. He was dismissed from this parish, after a period of considerable disquietude, Feb. 25, 1742-3, and installed over a church at Philippi, New York, where he continued in office till his death in July, 1776.

"Whereas there appears a general awakening and Religious Concern among many of our people and a disposition to hear the gospel preached more frequently than it has usually been; which awakening and religious Concern if duly cultivated and directed may have a very happy Influence to promote Religion and the Saving Conversion of Souls: Wee therefore Judge it expedient that the ministers of this association, in such Convenient Vicinities or neighborhoods as they think proper, set up frequent Lectures and preach alternately for each other, and that they Labour to open, explain and Inculcate the great and important doctrines of Christianity."

² Rev. Joseph Bellamy of Bethlem; born in Cheshire Feb. 20, 1718-19; grad. Y. C. 1735; ordained at Bethlem April 2, 1740. He entered earnestly into the Whitefieldian movement and became one of the most powerful if not sensational of the itinerating preachers. There is reason to believe he subsequently took a more conservative view of the proprieties of that episode of his history. He was a man of domineering temper and did not always use kind or Christian methods in his opposition to those who at this period differed from him in opinion as to what the cause of religion asked for. He was unquestionably the ablest preacher in Connecticut in his day; and somewhat later than this Great Awakening era was one of the most prolific and able of controversial pamphleteers. His True Religion Delineated, published in 1750, rises to the hight of an important treatise, which was republished in Edinburgh in 1788, and had, both in England and America, a wide circulation. He became teacher of theology to many young men; was invited to a pastorate in New York in 1753 and 54; received the degree of D.D. from the University of Aberdeen in 1768; preached the Election Sermon May 13, 1762; died March 6, 1790.

"The following questions were considered and Resolved.

1. Whether it be not at this time in an Especial manner needful for the ministers studiously to endeavour to maintain peace and unity among themselves and in the churches. Agreed upon by the Association to be needful.

2. Whether it be not contrary to the mind of Christ and destructive to the peace of the Churches for a minister or ministers to preach in a parish or parishes where there is a settled minister or ministers, without the desire, liberty or consent of such settled minister or ministers. Agreed in the affirmative. Act. 20. 28. 1 pet. 4. 15. 1 Cor. 14. 40.

3. Whether any weight is to be Laied upon those screechings, cryings out, faintings and convulsions, which sometimes attend the terrifying Language of some preachers and others as evidences of or necessary to a genuine Conviction of sin, humiliation and preparation for Christ. Agreed in the Negative, as also that there is no weight to be Laied upon those Visions or visional discoveries by some of Late pretended to, of Heaven or Hell, or the body or blood of Christ, viz. as represented to the eye of the body.

4. Whether the assertion of some Itinerant preachers that the pure gospel and especially the doctrines of Regeneration and Justification by faith are not preached in these Churches: their Rash censuring the body of our Clergy as Carnal and unconverted men and notoriously unfit for their office is not such a sinfull and Scandalous violation of the fifth and ninth Commandments of the Moral Law as ought to be testified against, and such preachers not be admitted to preach in our pulpits and parishes until they have as publicly manifested their repentance as they have given out their false and scandalous assertions. Agreed in the affirmative.

5. Whether the pronouncing persons Converted so hastily and upon so slender grounds as some do, be not exceeding dangerous. Agreed in the affirmative.

6. What is to be tho't of the religious Concern that is at this day so general in the Land? Wee trust and believe that the holy Spirit is moving upon the hearts of many, that many have received of Late a Saving Change in many of our Towns, and hope and desire that thro' grace many may yet be Savingly wrought upon. But there are sundry things attending this work which are unscriptural and of a dangerous Tendency; and therefore advise both ministers and people in their Respective Stations cautiously to guard against everything of that nature. And wee for ourselves seriously profess our willingness to encourage the good work of God's Spirit agreeably to his word to the utmost of our power."

These resolutions were passed at an unusually full meeting of the Association, sixteen members being present.

The religious stir y^t has bin amongst us seems to have had different effects, some I hope are reformed and Converted. others I fear are only turned from one sort of wickedness to another. divisions and Contentions seem to be arising among us I pray y^t god would mercifully Interpose and prevent them if it may consist with his holy will and pleasure, but if not to prepare me for his will and help me to do and suffer w^t he has appointed for me.

Itinerant preaching which some have gone into y^e practice of, is liked by some and greatly disliked by others; I know not but y^t they may have done good in some places, but I think in many places and Especially in this Town they have done a great deal of mischief. I think they have bin very influential of weaning of y^e religious impressions y^t were on y^e minds of our people, and Turning y^m to disputes, debates and quarrels, and w^t will be y^e event God only knows. The principle Itinerant preachers among us are Jed: Mills, Pomroy & Wheelock, some others young ministers are getting into y^t way. Steady christians & y^e most Judicious among ministers and people so far as I can Learn generally dislike these new things set afoot by these Itinerant preachers.

¹ This Association, obviously exercised about the flocking of the people after the Itinerating preachers, debated this question:—

“Whether it be not sinfull and scandalous for a person to forsake the preaching and administration of his own Lawful Pastor and travel upon the Sabbath much further to another place of worship in order to hear some other minister?”

To which question the Association put on record this reply: “That for a person to do this under a pretense of going from an unconverted minister to hear a Converted minister, or pretending that they get more good by the minister whom they go to hear, is altogether unwarrantable.”

¹ The proceedings of the Consociation as a whole have perished. Partial account of them is preserved in Philemon Robbins' Plain Narrative. One resolution the Consociation adopted was the following:

"That for a minister to enter another ministers parish, and preach or administer the seals of the covenant, without the consent of, or in opposition to, the settled minister of the parish, is disorderly: notwithstanding if a considerable number of people in the parish are desirous to hear another minister preach, provided the same be orthodox and sound in the faith, and not notoriously faulty in censuring other persons, or guilty of any other scandal, we think it ordinarily advisable for the minister of the parish to gratify them, by giving his consent upon their suitable application to him for it, unless neighbouring ministers should advise him to the contrary."

This action of the Consociation was made by the General Assembly at its Session in the May following, the basis, in connection with the statute of 1708 establishing the Saybrook System of Church Discipline, of some most stringent legislative enactments, which there will be occasion hereafter to notice.

¹ Rev. John Caldwell, a minister belonging to the Presbytery of Boston (a body whose date of origin and extinction are alike unknown) but which had at this period a considerable membership. Mr. Caldwell did some work in Derry, New Hampshire, and apparently some in Boston.

This sermon was entitled The Scripture Character or Masks of False Prophets or Teachers. It was shortly followed by another called The Nature, Folly and Evil of rash and uncharitable Judging. Both sermons were preached in what was known as the French Church in School Street in Boston, an organization whose pastor, Rev. Mr. Lemercier, was connected with the Presbytery. The church became extinct about 1748. Rev. James Robie of Kilsyth, Scotland, in his preface to the Christian Monthly History, dated Nov. 15, 1743, accuses this James Caldwell as an imposter, a thief and a man who under his real name Thompson, was under ministerial disgrace in Ireland. Mr. Robie's allegations suffer some measure of discredit, however, by his immediately coupling with this statement respecting Caldwell a certainly unjustifiable reflection upon Rev. Samuel Mather of Boston, "a Known Enemy to this Work," who was, he affirms, "dismissed by the Majority of his own Congregation because his Character was such both in regard to Life and Principles, as he could be no longer useful among them." Mr. Mather's honorable ministry in England after his most incorrectly represented dismissal from Boston, is a sufficient answer to this insinuation. The fact is, partisans on both sides of the Revival question were too ready to asperse, not the opinions only, but the character of their opponents.

² Rev. Isaac Stiles of North Haven, born in Windsor July 30, 1697; grad. Y. C. 1722; ordained at North Haven Nov. 11, 1724; died in office May 14, 1760. He was a zealous Old Light; and his sermon on this Election occasion was decidedly polemic in its references to holders of opposing views, and is credited with having considerable influence in promoting the stringent legislation adopted by the Assembly at this session against the Itinerating Evangelists.

³ This extraordinary Bill proceeded upon the wholly unjustifiable assumption that the Saybrook system (accepted by the Assembly in 1708, for such churches as agreed thereto, as a system established by law) was binding upon all churches irrespective of such agreement. And it went on to apply its assumption to the existing state of affairs by sundry stringent enactments, limiting the right of individual ministers to preach anywhere out of their immediate parishes without consent of the settled pastor; punishing any minister who did so by depriving him of all power to collect his salary in his own lawful parish; while, respecting any foreigner or person from outside Connecticut who should preach in any parish without the minister's consent, it provided for his summary arrest as a "vagrant" and expulsion from the Colony. Col. Rec., VIII: 454-457.

rather railed there if I am Informed right. in y^e afternoon Davenport and Pumroy were bro't before y^e generall assembly. y^e assembly adjourned after sunset when there was a great tumult occasioned by D: and P. w^e. with much difficulty was quelled by the authority.

- 6. Lords day I preached . . . and administred y^e Sacrament, and baptized Joseph y^e son of William Pratt
- 7. . . . in y^e night its said y^t Pomroy preached at T: Seymours

The hearing occupied two days and was in Mr. Wadsworth's meeting house. The town was in a great state of excitement. As the arrested ministers came out on to the meeting-house steps, at the end of the first day's hearing, Davenport commenced a violent harangue to the crowds about the door. The sheriff took hold of his sleeve to lead him away. "He instantly fell apraying, Lord, thou knowest somebody's got hold of my sleeve. Strike them Lord! strike them!" Mr. Pomroy also called out to the sheriff, "Take heed how you do that heaven-daring action; the God of heaven will surely avenge it on you."

For awhile it looked as if the prisoners would be taken out of the sheriff's hands. The night was little less than a riot. The house where the ministers were lodged was surrounded by an angry multitude, with difficulty dispersed by the magistrates. In the morning forty militia men were ordered under arms to preserve the peace.

At the conclusion of the second day's hearing the Assembly adjudged that though Mr. Davenport's doctrines and behavior had "a natural tendency to destroy the peace and order of the government," yet as it appeared that he was "disturbed in the rational faculties of his mind" he was to be "pitied and compassionated and not treated as he otherwise might be." The Assembly, therefore, under the provisions of the act respecting "strangers and foreigners" just passed, ordered Mr. Davenport to be sent to Southold, out of the jurisdiction. And so about four o'clock in the afternoon, between "two files of musketers," Mr. Davenport was marched down from the meeting house to the Connecticut river, and put aboard the vessel of one Mr. Whitmore, who, having received his charge, set sail immediately. There will be occasion to notice Mr. Davenport's later history hereafter.

Mr. Pomroy was discharged without penalty. Indeed, it will be observed by Mr. Wadsworth's entry in his Diary, five days later, that Mr. Pomroy was still in town and holding a meeting at the house of Mr. Thomas Seymour.

¹ Rev. Eliphalet Adams of New London. He was born at Dedham, Mass., March 26, 1677; grad. H. C. 1694; ordained at New London Feb. 9, 1708-9. A trustee of Y. C. from 1720 to 1738; published several sermons, among which are two Election Sermons, 1710 and 1733. He died Oct. 4, 1753.

² This meeting of the General Association put on record its "Thankfulness to God the Father of Mercies" for his grace in "Stirring up Great Numbers among us to a Concern for their Souls"; but expressed its conviction that "the Great Enemy of Souls who is ever ready with his Devices to Check, Damp & Destroy if possible the Work of God, is very busy for that purpose." Wherefore it felt constrained to exhort, among other things, "That seasonable and due testimony be borne against such Errors and Irregularities as doe already prevail among some persons, As Particularly the Depending upon & following Impulses & impressions made on the mind as tho' they were Immediate Revelations of Some truth or Duty that is not Reveal'd in the Word of God—Laying too much Weight upon bodily agitations, Raptures, Extacies, Visions &c—Ministers disorderly intruding into other Ministers' parishes—Laymen taking it upon them in an unwarrantable manner publicly to teach and Exhort—Rash Censuring & Judging of others," etc., etc.

- 23. This day advised y^e people on y^e East Side to invite M^r. Chauncey Whittlesey to preach on probation and in case he cant be obtained then to apply to M^r. Will^m. Adams.¹ M^r. Whitman preached a Lecture from Eph. 1. 13. returned home found my family well for which I bless god. . . .

² "The School house" stood in what is now called Main Street, then a hundred feet wide, in front of what is now known as the "Linden" building.

³ Rev. Charles Chauncey of the First Church of Boston; born Jan. 1, 1705; grad. H. C. 1721; ordained at Boston First Church Oct. 25, 1727; died Feb. 10, 1787, æ. 82.

⁴ The Salmon brook Society in Simsbury had called Rev. Eli Colton, son of Rev. Benjamin Colton of West Hartford, sometime in 1740 or 41. But difficulties arose, the Society would not pay him the stipulated salary; and at the advice of the Association given in October, 1742, Mr. Colton withdrew. He was afterward settled at Stafford, where he was called Sept. 14, 1744, and died there in office June 8, 1756. He was born at West Hartford Aug. 8, 1716, and grad. at Y. C. in 1737.

y^e unhappy division and separation y^t is threatened in this Town. Calm y^e minds and turn y^e hearts of those y^t may be attempting of it. Let y^m see y^e sin and danger of it, and be diverted from it, if it may be thine holy will:¹

- 14. This day visited M^r. Woodbridge found him better than usual . . . o y^t God would prevent any unhappy divisions in this Town w^e wee seem to be in danger of. . . . This day Jonah Gross came Home, he was taken by y^e Spaniards May 30. 1741 and carried to Porto Valla from there to Leguvia, from thence over Land to Crokus and kept in prison there till sometime in april Last and then released. - 19. This day reckoned with M^r. Austin y^e whole of my account with him was £16. 7. 1. . . . I am still in his debt 12 shillings.

This day also four men from Colchester were bro't to prison for breach of y^e Law Lately made for Restraining and Correcting abuses in ecclesiastical affairs—but I since hear it was for holding a Separate meeting upon y^e Sabbath Contrary to y^e old

¹ The present writer has undertaken no responsibility for the defence of Mr. Wadsworth's views and anxieties about the condition of things in his parish or in Connecticut generally. But it is only fair to him to remember certain incontestable facts. Not only had Mr. Whitefield in his journey through New England publicly inveighed against a majority of the ministry as unconverted men, and deliberately recorded in his Journal that "many, perhaps, most that preach, I fear do not experimentally know Christ," and that the colleges, Harvard and Yale, had "become darkness—darkness that may be felt," but a large number of Mr. Whitefield's followers had exceeded him in denunciation of the settled ministers and in counseling separation from them. Rev. Gilbert Tennent, who had preached with great impression at Boston a few months after Mr. Whitefield's first visit, indulged in similar censures. Indeed, in his sermon dedicated to the people of Nottingham, Pennsylvania, he represents the body of the "Clergy of this generation" as "varlets," "the seed of the Old Serpent," "men whom the devil drives into the ministry," "blind and dead men," "rebels and enemies to God," "dead drones," "dupes," "children of Satan."

Such preachings as these could not be without divisive results. Almost every town in Connecticut was actually in a turmoil. Every parish had its sympathizers with the itinerating revolutionists. Many parishes were disrupted and permanently divided. Many ministers were harried out of their pulpits and their livings by parties raised up against them among those they had baptized and welcomed to church fellowship. The signs of such possible results were visible wherever Mr. Wadsworth could turn his eyes. His own Society and those of his neighbors Whitman and Colton were sorely disquieted. Whether a different course on his part would have averted any of these tribulations is at least an open question. That the tribulations were actual and ominous of lasting calamity there can be no dispute.

² With characteristic caution Mr. Wadsworth brought the question of the determination of what preachers should (under the existing state of the law and of popular sentiment) be allowed to preach in his parish before the Church and secured the appointment of a committee to divide the responsibility with him.

³ Rev. Noah Merrick, born at West Springfield, Aug. 6, 1711; grad. Y. C. 1731; preached awhile at Brimfield and Hadley; ordained at Springfield Mountains (now Wilbraham) June 10, 1741; died in office Dec. 22, 1776.

² The jail at this time stood on the north side of Court House Square, a little easterly from the present Courant building.

- 30. This day went to Symsbury. M^r. Marsh preached a funeral Sermon from Matt. 24. 46. y^e Rev^d. M^r. Woodbridge was Interred.

² Mr. Davenport was interviewed by the Boston ministers on his arrival, June 28, but they received no satisfaction and united in a Declaration disapproving his course. This led to violent denunciations by him in his street preaching, and these to his apprehension and imprisonment, August 21. On examination, however, he was adjudged insane, and sent home. Mr. Davenport continued his erratic course, and with increasing extravagances, sometime longer. A providential illness, however, put a pause to his travels, and this, with expostulations from Revs. Messrs. Solomon Williams and Eleazer Wheelock, availed to secure from him a public Confession and Retraction published in the Boston Gazette in August, 1744. His later ministerial services were performed in New York and New Jersey, interrupted by a missionary tour in Virginia. He died the 10th of November, 1757. He was doubtless a good man, but of an excitable and unbalanced judgment.

² The Evening Post, published in Boston, began to be issued under that title in August, 1735, succeeding to a paper called the Weekly Rehearsal. The article in the Post to which Mr. Wadsworth refers was a letter by Rev. Gilbert Tennent in partial disavowal of the extravagancies of some of the revivalistic itinerants; a disavowal, however, which, in view of many of Mr. Tennent's own and frequent utterances, not unreasonably occasioned the use by Mr. Wadsworth of the epithets above employed.

 - 7. A stormy Tempestuous day. visited and prayed with a sick child, and a young woman y^t is Languishing, and that never had but little if any reason

² Troubles in East Hartford growing out of Mr. Woodbridge's disability and the unsuccessful attempts to settle a colleague pastor had been increasing for a good while. In connection with some phase of this affair Roger Bidwell wrote the letter above referred to. Upon which he was by complaint brought before the General Assembly charged with "making and publishing a false, scandalous, infamous libel against Ozias Pitkin, William Pitkin Esquires and the Rev. Mr. Samuel Woodbridge in particular." Bidwell pleaded guilty; was adjudged disabled of voting in any public meeting, or acting on any jury, and was bound over to keep the peace under penalty.

³ Mr. Steel as before noticed (p. 14, note) kept the appointment, and spared Mr. Wadsworth the necessity.

⁴ Jonathan Hunting; one of the several candidates recommended as colleagues to Rev. Mr. Woodbridge at East Hartford. He was born at East Hampton, L. I., in October, 1714; grad. Y. C. 1735; failed early in health, and "became a small merchant in his native town," dying ther Sept. 3, 1750, in his 36th year.

¹ Rev. Cyrus Marsh, born in Plainfield March 14, 1718-19; grad. Y. C. 1739; ordained over a new church gathered at Kent, May 6, 1741. He was Old Light in his sympathies and in some trouble with his congregation thereabout. He left the ministry under something of a cloud, but represented the town in the General Assembly in May, 1761, and for twelve or more sessions afterward. He died June 9, 1771.

² Probably the Mr. Eliot spoken of two days later. He was Rev. Andrew Eliot, born about 1719; grad. H. C. 1737; ordained at Boston, as colleague with Mr. Webb at the New North Church, April 14, 1742. Mr. Wadsworth's hesitation about inviting him to preach was probably owing to apprehension respecting his position on the New-Measures question of the day; an apprehension which his companionship with Rev. John Graham tended to increase.

 - 10. . . . yesterday a Negro fellow was committed to prison for committing a rape between Middletown and Haddam; great are y^e outbreakings of sin in y^e Land.

¹ Doubtless on some phase of the long controversy in the parish of Rev. Jeremiah Curtis (ante, p. 31) growing out of the Whitefieldian difficulties. A previous council in the year 1743 had been made the subject of great local wrangle and of appeal to legislative aid.

² Probably Joseph Adams, who about this time was recommended by the Hartford North Association to the church in New Cambridge, now Bristol. He was born in Lebanon Aug. 26, 1717; grad. Y. C. 1740; preached, apparently, at various places in 1744-45; but settled in New Haven as an attorney and innkeeper, and died Oct. 16, 1782.

¹ Probably Bishop Benjamin Hoadly's Plain Account of the Nature and End of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, published in 1735.

² An English Presbyterian divine (1618-1651) executed under charge of treason against the Commonwealth. A voluminous and evangelic writer, who seems to have been made the victim perhaps of some personal indiscretions but more of the political exigencies of the turbulent hour of Charles Second's invasion of England at the head of a Scottish army. His books have been characterized as full of "plain practical doctrine, old divinity, sound, solid and consistent teaching truths."

⁴ The great comet of 1743-44 attracted the attention of European astronomers from its appearance Dec. 9, 1743, to its evanishment in April or later, 1744. It was seen at midnight by observers in England, and all the countries to Italy. At Bologna it was observed seven successive days in full sunshine, being at some periods of the brightness of Sirius. Its most distinguishing feature, however, was its multiple tail, being at different stages of its history apparently supplied with from three to five of these appendages. J. B. Hind, F. R. S., says of the comet: "If elliptic at all, it will be a very remote posterity indeed that will be interested in its return. It is by no means improbable that the appearance of this splendid comet in 1743-44 constituted its last visit to this part of the universe." In Ames' Almanack for 1745 he gives a metrical table of important chronological events in which he records it as one year:

"Since in our Skies there blaz'd an awful Star, Preowing Earthquakes and a General War."

² The General Association at this Durham meeting answered the following questions:

"Whither a minister or a number of ministers Entering into any Established parish in this Government & then Gathering a Ch of members that had before disorderly separated themselves from the Ch to which they belonged, and some of them actually under Ecclesiastical Censure, be not matter of offence. Voted in the Affirmative.

Whither to require persons particularly to promise to walk in Communion with this Ch of Christ into w^{ch} they Seek admission concieniously attending and upholding the Public worship of God in this place till regularly dismist therefrom be a hard or unreasonable term of Communion. ¹ Probably Rev. Samuel Whittlesey of Wallingford, or his son, Rev. Samuel Whittlesey of Milford; both were "Old Lights." The father was born at Saybrook in 1686; grad. Y. C. 1705; ordained at Wallingford May 17, 1710; Fellow of Y. C. from 1732 onward; preached the Election Sermon May 13, 1731; died April 15, 1752.

The son was born at Wallingford July 10, 1713; grad. Y. C. 1729; ordained at Milford Dec. 9, 1737; died in office Oct. 22, 1768.

² A second journey of Mr. Whitefield was now anticipated. In view of it the Association of Hartford County, like many other similar bodies, adopted a Testimony against his methods. It will suffice to quote only a portion of this document.

"As the Errors, Disorders and Confusions which for some years past have so generally prevailed through the Churches of this Land, had their Rise (as we apprehend) from the Preaching and Management of the Rev. Mr. George Whitefield in his former visit to New England . . . we the associated Ministers in the Northern Part of the County of Hartford think it needful to bear a publick Testimony against him and his conduct . . . hereby declaring that under the present Circumstances of Things we shall by no Means admit him into any of our Pulpits, and in Faithfulness to the People under our respective Charges we would solemnly warn and caution them to take Heed and beware of Him."

The Testimony was signed by the following named pastors: Benjamin Colton, [West] Hartford; Stephen Steel, Tolland; Thomas White, Bolton; Elnathan Whitman, Hartford; Daniel Wadsworth, Hartford; Stephen Heaton, Goshen; Jonathan Marsh Jr., New Hartford; Samuel Whitman, Farmington; Samuel Woodbridge, [East] Hartford; John McKinstry, Ellington; Timothy Collins, Litchfield; Daniel Fuller, Willington; Andrew Bartholomew, Harwinton; Eli Colton, Stafford; Elisha Webster, Canaan; Cyrus Marsh, Kent.

² These awards to William Pepperell and Peter Warren of the Massachusetts contingent of the army were not, perhaps, envied by the Connecticut branch. Still it was not without annoyance that they saw the representations made in behalf of the Connecticut troops practically ignored in the distribution of honors. Dr. Benj. Trumbull, writing long afterward, says: "Notwithstanding these humble and earnest solicitations, I believe no officer except captain, afterward general Wooster, who went on business to England, and was honoured with a lieutenantcy and half pay during life, received any appointment or emolument from the crown."

² Rev. Samuel Hall of New Cheshire (afterward Cheshire), born at Wallingford, Oct. 5, 1695; grad. Y. C. 1716; ordained at December 9, 1724; died in office February 26, 1776. He preached the Election Sermon (as recorded above) May 8, 1746, and was a vigorous Old Light in current controversies.

- 4. This day lecture at M^r. Whitmans meeting. M^r. Whitman of Farmington preached from 2 Cor. 1. 2.

This morning about 8 o'clock was heard a loud rumbling noise something like thunder, some tho't it an earthquake, to y^e southeast but wee since hear that in divers places was seen a Large Ball of fire moving south eastward, and was seen to break, which was presently followed with y^e noise above mentioned

- 8. Lords day I preached A.M. from Eph. 6. 4. & P.M. from Matt. 24. 12. . . .

and fifty pounds like bills, and for every scalp of such enemy Indian female or children of such Indians half so much, to be paid out of the treasury of this Colony, on an order drawn by said Committee [of War], on the producing to them of such prisoners or scalps."

It is gratifying to notice even so much delicacy on the Assembly's part respecting the above atrocious order, that the "entry on the publick records" of all votes "passed by this Assembly for the encouragement of obtaining Indian enemy prisoners or their scalps," was suppressed till further order.

¹ This will was apparently executed Dec. 19 following. Mr. Wadsworth added a codicil, in a noticeably feebler hand, on October 3d of the subsequent year, 1747, giving his wife, in addition to former provision made for her, a certain piece of land in Farmington.

The inventory of his property, as proved after his decease, showed real estate in Hartford to the amount of £3,450; and in Farmington of £1,117. A list of his Library may be found in Walker's History of the First Church of Hartford. It may be interesting to note that there are specified as items of his personalty also, "1 Black cow, 1 Red Cow, 1 Brindle white-face, 21 Sheep, 1 old negro woman nam'd Rose, 6 Loads of Hay, one Hive bees."

² This is the first indication in the First Church history of what has in modern times been familiarly known as the Preparatory Lecture. Such a lecture seems to have been established some time before in several Boston churches; the first one being March 4, 1720, by the coöperate action of the First and the Brattle Street churches, then respectively under the charge of Rev. Thomas Foxcroft and Rev. Benjamin Colman.

- 5. This day went to Farmington. Saw my friends in usual health, returned safely, Laus Deo

My indisposition incapacitated me about this time to keep a Diary. I therefore now enter only some remarkables

On y^e 10th of Feb. I had a small touch of an Epileptick fit w^e. lasted but a minute or two and did not deprive me of my reason

On y^e 16th instant another small touch of a fit

The above is the last entry made by Mr. Wadsworth in his diary. Whether he carried out his intention to take a sea voyage cannot, perhaps, positively be stated, but it seems altogether improbable. On March 2d, and on August 4th, votes indicative of the pastor's continued "indisposition" are recorded in the Society's minutes; and on the second of those occasions a committee was instructed "to apply themselves to M^r. Edward Dorr to Continue to Administer to this Society during M^r. Wadsworths Incapacity, and as need shall require."

Mr. Wadsworth survived till November 12, 1747, lacking two days of forty-three years of age, and having filled a pastoral term of fifteen years and two months.
