ALETHE LOWBER CRAIG.

If I could reach, with this little volume, the persevering young English woman of note, who has courageously announced that she reads Browning merely for the mental exercise of looking up for herself the names and allusions she fails to understand, I should believe I had found one appreciative reader.

Persons of extensive reading might find here few instances where research is needed to verify or dispute my application of an epigrammatic saying; but to any one and every one the pleasure and benefit arising from the discovery of romance and interest in lives hitherto regarded with indifference or careless knowledge will repay it — I am sure — for the time and trouble of looking beyond the scant record of general histories.

Women are constantly the dupes, or the victims, of their extreme sensitiveness.

Balzac.

Margaret Fuller Ossoli.

1810

It may be asked why, with this daily and noble self-devotion she was not universally beloved. It can be very briefly told: she wanted tact.

Higginson.

Guilietta Grisi.

1812

Love is the charm which makes us tender to failings, not blind to them.

Louisa Parr.

Madame A. Ségalas.

1814

Skeleton, what hast thou done with the soul ?

Mme. Ségalas.

---

Grace Darling.

1815

Sow good services ; sweet remembrances will grow from them.

Mme. de Staël.

---

Charlotte Brontë

1816

Indisputably, a great, good, handsome man is the first of created beings.

Charlotte Brontë
